CHAP. XL.

4 Ieremiah hath licence to goe wither he will. 6 He dwelleth with the people that remaine with Gedaliah.

THe word which came to Ieremiah from the LORDE after that Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward had let him goe from Ramath, when he had taken him being bound in chaines among al that were caried away captiue of Ierusalem and Iudah, which were caried away captiue vnto Babel.

2 a And the chiefe steward tooke Ieremiah, and sayde vnto him, The LORDE thy God hath pronounced this plague vpon this place.

3 Nowe the LORD hath brought it, and done according as he hath said: because yee haue b sinned against the LORD, and haue not obeyed his voice, therefore this thing is come vpon you.

4 And nowe beholde, I loose thee this day from the chaines which were on thine hands: if it please thee to come with me into Babel, come, and I will looke well vnto thee: but if it please thee not to come with mee into Babel, ‡ tary still: beholde, all the lande is ‖ before thee: whither it seemeth good, and conuenient for thee to goe, thither goe.

5 For yet hee was not returned: therefore he said, Returne to Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, the sonne of Shaphan, whom the king of Babel hath made gouernour ouer all the cities of Iudah, and dwell with him among the people, or goe whereseuer it pleaseth thee to goe. So the chiefe Steward gaue him vitailes and a reward, and let him goe.

6 Then went Ieremiah vnto Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, to c Mizpah, & dwelt there with him among the people that were left in the land.

7 Nowe when all the captaines of the hostes, d which were in the fieldes, euen they and their men heard, that the King of Babel had made Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam gouernour in the land, and that he had committed vnto him men, and women, and childzen, and of the poore of the lande, that were not caried away captiue to Babel,

8 Then they came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, euen e Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah, and Iohanan, and Ionathan the sonnes of Kareah, and Seraiah the sonne of Tanehumeth, and the sonnes of Ephai, the Netophathite, and Iezaniah the sonne of Maachathi, they and their men.

9 And Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, the sonne of Shaphan * sware vnto them, and to their men, saying, Feare not to serue the Caldeans: dwell in the land, and serue the king of Babel, and it shall bee well with you.

10 As for mee, beholde, I will dwell at Mizpah to ‖serue the Caldeans, which will come vnto vs: but you, gather you wine, and summer fruittes, and oyle, and put them in your vessels, and dwell in your cities that ye haue ‖ taken.

11 Likewise when all the Iewes that were in f Moab, & among the Ammonites, and in Edom, and that were in all the countreys, heard that the king of Babel had left a remnant of Iudah, and that hee had set ouer them Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam the sonne of Shaphan, 12 Euen all the Iewes returned out of all places where they were driuen, and came to the land of Iudah to Gedaliah vnto Mizpah, and gathered wine and summer fruits very much.

13 Moreouer Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the captaines of the hoste, that were in the fieldes, came to Gedaliah to Mizpah, 14 And said vnto him, Knowest thou not, that g Baalis the King of the Ammonites hath sent Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah to slay thee? but Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam beleeued them not.

15 Then Iehonan the sonne of Kareah spake to Gedaliah in Mizpah secretly, saying, Let me goe, I pray thee, and I will slay Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah, and no man shall know it. Wherefore should he kill thee, that all the Iewes which are gathered vnto thee, should be scattered, and the remnant in Iudah perish?

16 But Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam saide vnto Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, Thou shalt h not doe this thing: for thou speakest falsly of Ishmael.

with him, and smote Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam the sonne of Shaphan with the sword, and slew him, whom the king of Babel had made gouernour ouer the land.

3 Ishmael also slew all the Iewes that were with Gedaliah at Mizpah, and all the Caldeans that were found there, and the men of warre.

4 Now the second day that he had slaine Gedaliah, and no man knew it,

5 There came men from Shechem, from Shiloh, and from Samaria, euen fourescore men, hauing their beards shauen, and their clothes rent and cut, with d offrings and incense in their handes to offer in the house of the Lord.

6 And Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah went forth from Mizpah to meete them, weeping as he went: e when he met them, he sayd vnto them, Come to e Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam.

7 And when they came into the middes of the city, Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah slew them, and cast them into the middest of the pit, hee and the men that were with him.

8 But ten men were found among them, that sayd vnto Ishmael, Slay vs not: for wee haue treasures in the fielde, of wheate, and of barley, and of oyle, and of honie: so hee stayed, and slew them not among their brethren.

9 Now the pit wherein Ishmael had cast the dead bodies of the men (whom hee had slaine because of Gedaliah) is it, which Asa the king had f made because of Baasha king of Israel, and Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah filled it with them that were slaine.

10 Then Ishmael caried away captiue all the residue of the people that were in Mizpah, euen the kings daughters, and all the people that remained in Mizpah, whom Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward had committed to Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, and Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah caried them away captiue, and departed to go ouer to the Ammonites.

11 But when Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the g captaines of the hoste that were with him, heard of al the euil that Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah had done, 12 Then they all tooke their men, e went to fight with Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah, and found him by the great waters that are in Gibeon.

13 Now when all the people whom Ishmael caried away captiue, saw Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the captaines of the hoste, that were with him, they were glad.

14 So all the people, that Ishmael had caried away captiue from Mizpah, returned, and came againe, and went vnto Iohanan the sonne of Kareah.

15 But Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah escaped from Iohanan with eight men, and went to the h Ammonites.

16 Then tooke Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the captaines of the hoste that were with him, all the remnant of the people, whom Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah had caried away captiue from Mizpah, (after that he had slaine Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam) euen the strong men of warre, and the women, and the children, and the eunuches, whom he had brought againe from Gibeon:

17 And they departed and dwelt in Geruth i Chimham, which is by Beth-lehem, to goe and to enter into Egypt, 18 Because of the Caldeans: for they feared them, because Ishmael the sonne of Nethaniah had slaine Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam, whom the king of Babel made gouernour in the land.

d For they thought that the Temple had not bene destroyed, and therefore came vp to the feast of Tabernacles: but hearing of the burning thereof in the way, they shewed these signes of sorow.

THen all the captaines of the hoste, and Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and Iezaniah the sonne of Hoshaiah, and all the people from the least vnto the most came,

2 And said vnto Ieremiah the Prophet, ‡ Heare our prayer, wee beseech thee, and pray for vs vnto the Lord thy God, euen for all this remnant (for we are left but a few of many, as thine eyes doe behold)

3 That the Lord thy God may shew vs the way wherein wee may walke, and the thing that we may a doe.

4 Then Ieremiah the Prophet said vnto them, I haue heard you: behold, I will pray vnto the Lord your God, according to your words, and whatsoeuer thing the Lord shall answere you, I wil declare it vnto you: I will keepe nothing backe from you.

5 Then they sayd to Ieremiah, b The Lord bee a witnesse of trueth, and faith betweene vs, if we doe not, euen according to all things, for the which the Lord thy God shall send thee to vs.

Lord your God,

14 Saying, Nay, but wee will goe into the land of Egypt, where we shall see no warre, nor heare the sound of the trumpet, nor haue hunger of bread, and there will we dwell,

15 (And now therfore heare the word of the Lord, ye remnant of Iudah: thus sayth the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, If ye set your faces to enter into Egypt, and go to dwell there,)

16 Then the sword that ye feared, f shall take you there in the land of Egypt, and the famine, for the which ye care, shall there hang vpon you in Egypt, and there shall ye die,

17 And all the men that set their faces to enter into Egypt, to dwell there, shall die by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, and none of them shall remaine nor escape from the plague that I will bring vpon them.

18 For thus sayth the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, As mine anger and my wrath hath bene powred foorth vpon the inhabitants of Ierusalem: so shall my wrath be powred foorth vpon you, when ye shall enter into Egypt, and ye shall be a detestation, and an astonishment, and a curse, and a reproch, and ye shall see this place no more.

19 O ye remnant of Iudah, the Lord hath sayd concerning you, Goe not into Egypt: knowe certainely that I haue admonished you this day.

20 Surely ye h dissembled in your hearts when yee sent me vnto the Lord your God, saying, Pray for vs vnto the Lord our God, and declare vnto vs euen according vnto all that the Lord our God shall say, and we will doe it.

21 Therefore I haue this day declared it you, but you haue not obeyed the voyce of the Lord your God, nor any thing for the which he hath sent me vnto you.

22 Now therefore, know certainely that ye shall die by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, i in the place whither yee desire to goe and dwell.

CHAP. XLIII.

Iohanan carieth the remnant of the people into Egypt contrary to the minde of Ieremiah. 8 Ieremiah propheseth the destruction of Egypt.

NOw when Ieremiah had made an ende of speaking vnto the whole people all the wordes of the Lord their God, for the which the Lord their God had sent him to them, euen all these wordes,

2 Then spake a Azariah the sonne of Hoshaiah, and Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the b proud men, saying vnto Ieremiah, c Thou speakest falsly: the Lord our God hath d not sent thee to say, Goe not into Egypt to dwell there,

3 But Baruch the sonne of Neriah e prouoketh thee against vs, for to deliuer vs into the hand of the Caldeans, that they might slay vs, and carrie vs away captiues into Babel.

4 So Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the captaines of the host, and all the people obeyed not the voice of the Lord, to dwell in the land of Iudah.

5 But Iohanan the sonne of Kareah, and all the captaines of the hoste tooke all the remnant of Iudah, that were returned from all f nations, whither they had bene driuen, to dwell in the land of Iudah:

6 Euen men and women, and children, and the kings daughters, and euery person that Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward had left with Gedaliah the sonne of Ahikam the sonne of Shaphan, and Ieremiah the g Prophet, and Baruch the sonne of Neriah.

7 So they came into the land of Egypt: for they obeyed not the voyce of the Lord: thus came they to h Tahpanhes.

8 ¶ Then came the word of the Lord vnto Ieremiah in Tahpanhes, saying,

9 Take great stones in thine hand, and i hide them in the clay in the bricke kill, which is at the entrie of Pharaohs house in Tahpanhes in the sight of the men of Iudah,

10 And say vnto them, Thus sayth the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, Beholde, I will sende and bring Nebuchad-nezzar the King of Babel, k my seruant, and will set his throne vpon these stones that I haue hid, and hee shall spread his pauilion ouer them.

11 And when he shall come, he shall smite the land of Egypt: l such as are appointed for death, to death, and such as are for captiuitie, to captiuitie, and such as are for the sword, to the sword.

12 And I will kindle a fire in the houses of the Gods of Egypt, and hee shall burne them, and cary them away captiues, and he shall aray himselfe with the land of Egypt, as a m shepheard putteth on his garment, and shall depart from thence in peace.

13 Hee shall also breake the images of ‖Beth-shemesh that is in the land of Egypt, and the houses of the gods of the Egyptians shall he burne with fire.

CHAP. XLIIII.

Hee reprooueth the people for their idolatrie. 15 They that set light by the threatning of the Lord are chastened. 26 The destruction of Egypt, and of the Iewes therein, is propheſied.

THe worde that came to Ieremiah concerning all the Iewes, which dwell in the lande of Egypt, and remained at Migdol and at a Tahpanes, and at Noph, and in the countrey of Pathros, saying,

2 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, the God of Israel, Yee haue seene all the euill that I haue brought vpon Ierusalem, and vpon all the cities of Iudah: and beholde, this day they are desolate, and no man dwelleth therein, a These were all famous & strong cities in Egypt, where the Iewes that were fled, dwelt for their safetie: but the Prophet declareth that there is no hold so strog, that can preserue them from Gods vengeance.

3 Because

3 Because of their wickednes which they haue committed, to prouoke me to anger, till that they went to burne incense, and to serue other gods, whom they knewe not, neither they, nor you, nor your fathers.

4 Howbeit I sent vnto you all my seruants the Prophets [b] rising early, and sending them, saying, Oh do not this abominable thing that I hate.

5 But they would not heare nor encline their eare to turne from their wickednesse, and to burne no more incense vnto other gods.

6 Wherefore [c] my wrath, and mine anger was powred forth, and was kindled in the cities of Iudah, and in the streetes of Ierusalem, and they are desolate, and waited, as appeareth this day.

7 Therefore now thus sayth the Lord of hostes the God of Israel, Wherefore commit ye this great euill against your soules, to cut off from you man and woman, child and suckling out of Iudah, and leaue you none to remaine?

8 In that yee prouoke mee vnto wrath with the workes of your hands, burning incense vnto other gods in the land of Egypt whither ye bee gone to dwell: that ye might bring destruction vnto your selues, and that ye might be a curse and a reproch among all nations of the earth.

9 Haue yee forgotten the wickednesse of your fathers, and the wickednesse of the [d] Kings of Iudah, and the wickednesse of their wiues, and your owne wickednes, and the wickednesse of your wiues, which they haue committed in the land of Iudah and in the streetes of Ierusalem?

10 They are not ‖ humbled vnto this day, neither haue they feared nor walked in my Law nor in my Statutes, that I set before you, and before your fathers.

11 Therefore thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes the God of Israel, Behold, I will set my face against you [e] to euill, and to destroy all Iudah, 12 And I will take the remnant of Iudah, that [e] haue set their faces to goe into the land of Egypt there to dwell, and they shall all bee consumed and fall in the land of Egypt: they shall euen bee consumed by the sword, and by the famine: they shall die from the least vnto the most, by the sword, and by the famine, and they shall bee a detestation, and an astonishment, and a [f] curse and a reproch.

13 For I will visit them that dwell in the land of Egypt, as I haue visited Ierusalem, by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence, 14 So that none of the remnant of Iudah, which are gone into the land of Egypt to dwell there shall escape or remaine, that they should returne into the lande of Iudah, to the which they ‡ haue a desire to returne to dwell there: for none shall returne, but [g] such as shall escape.

15 Then all the men which knewe that their wiues had burnt incense vnto other gods, & all the women that stoode by, a great multitude, euen all the people that dwelt in the land of Egypt in Pathros, answered Ieremiah, saying,

16 The word that thou hast spoken vnto vs in the name of the Lord, wee will [h] not heare it of thee,

17 But we will doe whatsoeuer thing goeth out of our own mouth, as to burne incense vnto [i] the Queene of heauen, and to powre out drinke offerings vnto her, as wee haue done, both we and our fathers, our Kings and our Princes in the cities of Iudah, and in the streetes of Ierusalem: for then ‡ had we ‖ plentie of vitailes, and were well and ‖ felt none euill.

18 But since we left off to burne incense to the Queene of heauen, and to powre out drinke offerings vnto her, wee haue had ‖ scarcenesse of all things, and haue bene consumed by the sword and by the famine.

19 And when wee burnt incense to the Queene of heauen, and powred out drinke offerings vnto her, did we make her cakes to ‖ make her glad, and powre out drinke offerings vnto her without [l] our husbands?

20 Then said Ieremiah vnto all the people, to the men, and to the women, and to all the people which had giuen him that answere, saying,

21 Did not the Lorde remember the incense, that yee burnt in the cities of Iudah, and in the streetes of Ierusalem, both you, and your fathers, your Kings, and your princes, and the people of the lande, and ‡ hath he not considered it?

22 So that the Lord could no longer forbeare, because of the wickednesse of your inuentions, and because of the abominations, which ye haue committed: therefore is your lande desolate and an astonishment, and a curse, and without inhabitant, as appeareth this day.

23 Because yee haue burnt incense, and because ye haue sinned against the Lord, and haue not obeyed the voyce of the Lord, nor walked in his Law, nor in his statutes, nor in his testimonies, therefore this plague is come vpon you, as appeareth this day.

24 Moreouer Ieremiah sayde vnto all the people, and to all the women, Heare the word of the Lord, all Iudah that are in the land of Egypt.

25 ¶ Thus speaketh the Lorde of hostes, the God of Israel, saying. Yee and your wiues haue both spoken with your mouths, and fulfilled with your [m] handes, saying, We will performe our vowes that we haue vowed to burne incense to the Queene of heauen, and to powre out drinke offerings to her: yee will performe your vowes, and doe the things that yee haue vowed.

26 Therefore heare the word of the Lord, all Iudah that dwell in the land of Egypt. Behold, I haue sworne by my great Name, sayeth the Lorde, that my Name n This declareth an horrible plague toward idolaters, seeing that God will not vouchsafe to haue his Name mentioned by such as haue polluted it.

o We see therefore, that God hath a perpetuall care ouer his, whersoeuer they are scattered: for though they be but two or three, yet he will deliuer them when he destroyeth his enemies.

p He sheweth the meanes whereby they should be destroyed, to assure them of the certaintie of the plague, and yet they remaine still in their obstinacie till they perish: for Iosephus lib. 10 de Ant. cap. 11. writeth, that fiue yere after the taking of Ierusalem, Nebuchadnezzar the yonger, hauing ouercome the Moabites and the Ammonites, went against Egypt, and slewe the king, and so brought these Iewes, and other into Babylon.

[a] shall no more be called vpon by the mouth of any man of Iudah, in all the lande of Egypt, saying, The Lord God liueth.

27 Behold, I will watch ouer them for euill and not for good, and all men of Iudah that are in the land of Egypt, shall be consumed by the sword, and by the famine, vntil they be vtterly destroyed.

28 Yet a small number that escape the sword, [o] shall returne out of the land of Egypt into the lande of Iudah: and all the remnant of Iudah that are gone into the lande of Egypt to dwell there, shall know whose words shall stand, mine or theirs.

29 And this shall bee a signe vnto you, sayeth the Lorde, when I visite you in this place, that ye may know that my words shall surely stand against you for euill.

30 Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will [p] giue Pharaoh Hophra king of Egypt into the hand of his enemies, and into the hand of them that seeke his life: as I gaue Zedekiah king of Iudah into the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel his enemie, who also sought his life.

CHAP XLV.

Ieremiah comforteth Baruch, assuring him that he should not perish in the destruction of Ierusalē.

THE word that Ieremiah the Prophet spake vnto [a] Baruch the sonne of Neriah, when hee had written these [b] words in a booke at the mouth of Ieremiah, in the fourth yeere of Iehoiakim the sonne of Iosiah king of Iudah, saying,

2 Thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel vnto thee, O Baruch,

3 Thou diddest say, Woe is mee now: for the Lord hath layed sorrow vnto my sorrow: I [c] fainted in my mourning, and I can finde no rest.

4 Thus shalt thou say vnto him, The Lord sayeth thus, Behold, That which I haue built, will I [d] destroy, and that which I haue planted will I plucke vp, euen this whole land.

5 And seekest [e] thou great things for thy selfe? seeke them not: for beholde, I will bring a plague vpon all flesh, saith the Lord: but thy life will I giue thee for [f] a pray in all places, whither thou goest.

a Which was Ieremiahs disciple, and wrote his prophecies vnder him.

b Whereof reade Chap. 36 10.

c Baruch mooued with an inconsiderate zeale of Ieremiahs imprisonment, but chiefly for y destruction of the people, and the Temple, maketh this lamentation, as Psal. 6. 6 d Meaning, that God might destroy this people because he had planted them.

e Thinkest thou to haue honour and credit? wherein he sheweth his infirmitie.

CHAP XLVI.

He propheseith the destruction of Egypt. 27 Deliuerance is promised to Israel.

THE words of the Lord, which came to Ieremiah the prophet against the [a] Gentiles,

2 As against Egypt, against the army of [b] Pharaoh Necho King of Egypt, which was by the riuer Perath in Carchemish, which Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel smote in the fourth yeere of Iehoiakim the sonne of Iosiah king of Iudah.

3 [c] Make ready buckler and shield, and goe forth to battell.

4 Make ready the horses, and let the horsemen get vp, and stand vp with your salets, furbish the speares, and put on the brigandines.

5 [d] Wherefore haue I seene them afraid, and driuen backe? for their mightie men are smitten, & are fled away, & looke not backe: for feare was round about, saith the Lord.

6 The swift shall not flee away, nor the strong men escape: they shall stumble, and fall toward the [e] North by the riuer Perath.

7 Who is this, that commeth vp as [f] a flood, whose waters are mooued like the riuers?

8 Egypt riseth vp like the flood, and his waters are mooued like the riuers, and hee saith, I wil goe vp, and will couer the earth: I will destroy the city with them that dwell therein.

9 Come vp, yee horses, and rage yee charets, and let the valiant men come forth, & the blacke Moores, and the Lybyans that beare the shield, and the Lydians that handle and bend the bow.

10 For this is the day of the Lord God of hostes, and a day of vengeance, that he may auenge him of his enemies: for the sworde shall deuoure, and it shalbe satiate, and made drunke with their blood: for the Lord God of hosts hath [h] a sacrifice in the North countrey [i] by the riuer Perath.

11 Go vp vnto Gilead, [k] and take balme, O [l] virgin, the daughter of Egypt: in vaine shalt thou vse many [m] medicines: for thou shalt haue no health.

12 The nations haue heard of thy shame, and thy crie hath filled the land: for [n] strong hath stumbled against the strong, and they are fallen both together.

13 ¶ The worde that the Lord spake to Ieremiah the Prophet, how Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel should come and smite the land of Egypt.

14 Publish in Egypt, and declare in Migdol, and proclaime in Noph, and in Tahpanhes, and say, Stand still, and prepare thee: for the sword shall deuoure round about thee.

15 Why are thy valiant men put backe? they could not stand, because the Lord did driue them.

16 He made many to fall, & one fell vpon another: and they sayd, Arise, let vs goe againe to our [o] own people, and to the land of our nativitie from the sword of the violent.

17 They did cry there, Pharaoh king of Egypt, and of a great multitude [p] hath passed the time appointed.

18 As I liue, saith the King, whose name is the Lord of hostes, Surely as Tabor is in the mountaines, and as Carmel is in the sea: so shall it come.

19 O thou daughter dwelling in Egypt, make thee geare to goe into captiuitie: for Noph shall be wasted and desolate, without an inhabitant.

a That is, nine nations, which are round about the land of Egypt.

b Reade 2. King. 23 29 and 24. 7 and 2 Chron. 35 20.

c He warneth the Egyptians to prepare themselues to warre.

d The Prophet had this vision of the Egyptians, which should be put to flight by the Babylonians at Carchemish.

e The Babylonians shall discomfit them at the riuer Euphrates.

f He derideth the boastings of the Egyptians, who thought by their riches and power to haue ouercome all the world, alluding to the riuer Nilus, which at certaine times ouerfloweth y countrey of Egypt.

g For these nations tooke part w the Egyptians.

h Hee calleth the slaughter of Gods enemies, a sacrifice, because it is a thing that doth please him, Isa. 34. 6.

i That is, at Carchemish.

k For at Gilead did growe most soueraigne balme for wounds.

l So called, because Egypt had not yet bene ouercome by the enemie.

m He sheweth that no salue or medicine can preuaile, whereas God giueth the wound.

n As they that should repent that they helped the Egyptians.

o He derideth them which shal impute their ouerthrow to lacke of counsell and policie, or to fortune, and not obseruing of time: not considering that it is Gods iust iudgement.

p To wit, that y Egyptians shalbe destroyed.

20 Egypt is like a ſtately calfe, but deſtruction commeth: out of the North it commeth.

21 Alſo her hired men are in the midſt of her like fat calues: they are alſo turned back and fled away together: they could not ſtand, becauſe the day of their deſtruction was come vpon them, and the time of their viſitation.

22 The voyce thereof ſhall goe faſth like a [z] ſerpent: for they ſhall march with an hoſte, and come againſt her with axes as hewers of wood.

23 They ſhall cut downe [a] her foreſt, ſaith the Lord: for they cannot be counted, becauſe they are more then the [b] graſſhoppers, and are innumerable.

24 The daughter of Egypt ſhall be confounded: ſhe ſhal be delinered into the hands of the people of the North.

25 ¶ Thus ſayth the Lord of hoſtes, the God of Iſrael, Behold, I will viſit the [c] common people of No, and Pharaoh, & Egypt, with their gods and their kings, euen Pharaoh, and all them that truſt in him, 26 And I will deliuer them into the hands of thoſe that ſeeke their liues, and into the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel, and into the hands of his ſeruants, and afterward ſhe ſhall dwell as [d] in the olde time, ſayth the Lord.

27 ¶ [e] But feare not thou, O my ſeruant Iaakob, and be not thou afraid, O Iſrael: for behold, I will deliuer thee from a farre countrey, and thy ſeede from the land of their captiuitie, and Iaakob ſhall returne and be in reſt and proſperitie, and none ſhall make him afrayd.

28 Feare thou not, O Iaakob my ſeruant, ſayth the Lord: for I am with thee, & I will vtterly deſtroy all the nations, whether I haue driuen thee: but I will not vtterly deſtroy thee, but correct [f] thee by iudgement, and not vtterly cut thee off.

CHAP. XLVII.

The word of the Lord againſt the Philiſtims.

THe words of the Lord that came to Ieremiah the Prophet, againſt the Philiſtims, before that Pharaoh ſmote [a] Azzah.

2 Thus ſayth the Lord, Behold, waters riſe vp out of [b] the North, and ſhall be as a ſwelling flood, and ſhal ouerflow the land, and all that is therein, and the cities with them that dwell therein: then the men ſhall cry, and all the inhabitants of the land ſhall howle,

3 At the noiſe and ſtamping of the hooſes of his ſtrong horſes, at the noyſe of his charets, and at the rumbling of his wheeles: the fathers ſhall not [c] looke backe to their children, for feeblenesſe of [d] hands,

4 Becauſe of the day that commeth to deſtroy all the Philiſtims, & to deſtroy Tyrus and Zidon, & all the reſt that take their part: for the Lorde will deſtroy the Philiſtims, the remnant of the ile of [e] Caphtor.

5 [f] Baldneſſe is come vpon Azzah: Aſhkelon is cut vp with the reſt of their vallyes. How long wilt thou cut thy ſelfe?

6 O thou ſword of the Lord, how long will it be or thou ceaſe? turne againe into thy ſcabbard, reſt and be ſtill.

7 How can it ceaſe, ſeeing the Lord hath giuen it a charge againſt Aſhkelon, and againſt the ſea banke? euen there hath he appointed it.

f They haue pulled off their haire for ſorrow & heauineſſe.

g As the heathen vſed in their mourning, which the Lord forbad his people to doe, Deut. 14.1.

h Meaning, that it is not poſſible that the wicked ſhould by any meanes eſcape or ſtay the Lord, when he will take vengeance.

CHAP. XLVIII.

The word of the Lord againſt the Moabites, 26. Becauſe of their pride and cruelties.

COncerning Moab, thus ſaith the Lord of hoſtes, the God of Iſrael, Woe vnto [a] Nebo: for it is waſted: Kiriathaim is confounded and taken: Miſgab is confounded and afrayd.

2 Moab ſhall boaſt no more of Heſhbon: for they haue deuiſed euil againſt it. [b] Come, and let vs deſtroy it, that it be no more a nation: alſo thou ſhalt be deſtroyed, O Madmen, and the ſword ſhall purſue thee.

3 A voyce of crying ſhalbe from Horonaim with deſolation and great deſtruction.

4 Moab is deſtroyed: her little ones haue cauſed their cry to be heard.

5 For at the going vp of [d] Luhith, the mourner ſhall goe vp with weeping: for in the going downe of Horonaim, the enemies haue heard a cry of deſtruction.

6 Flee, and ſaue your liues, and be like vnto the [e] heath in the wilderneſſe.

7 For becauſe thou haſt truſted in thy [f] workes and in thy treaſures, thou ſhalt alſo be taken, and [g] Chemoth ſhall goe forth into captiuitie with his prieſtes and his princes together.

8 And the deſtroyer ſhall come vpon all cities, and no citie ſhall eſcape: the valley alſo ſhall periſh, and the plaine ſhall bee deſtroyed as the Lord hath ſpoken.

9 Giue wings vnto Moab, that it may flee & get away: for the cities thereof ſhalbe deſolate, without any to dwell therein.

10 [h] Curſed be he that doth the worke of the Lord ‖ negligently, and curſed be he that keepeth backe his ſword from blood.

11 Moab hath bene at reſt from his youth, and he hath lerked on his lees, and hath not bene [i] powred from veſſell to veſſell, neither hath he gone into captiuitie: therefore his taſte remained in him and his ſent is not changed.

12 ¶ Therefore behold, the dayes come, ſaith the Lord, that I will ſend vnto him ſtich as ſhall cary him away, and ſhall empty his veſſels, and breake their bottels.

a Theſe were cities of the Moabites which Nebuchad nezzar tooke before he went to fight againſt Necho king of Egypt.

g Both thy great idole, and his maintainers ſhall be led away captiues, ſo that they ſhall then know that it is in vaine to looke for help at idols, Iſa. 15.2

h Hee ſheweth that God would puniſh the Caldeans, if they did not deſtroy the Egyptians, and that with a courage, and calleth this executing of his vengeance againſt his enemies, his worke: though the Caldeans ſought an other end, Iſa. 10. 12.

i Hath not bene remoued as the Iewes haue, but hath liued at eaſe, and as a wine that ſeedeth it ſelfe on his lees.

13 And

13 And Moab shall be ashamed of Chemosh, as the house of Israel was ashamed of t Beth-el their confidence.

14 How thinke you then, We are mightie and strong men of warre?

15 Moab is destroyed, ‖ his cities ‖ burnt vp, and his chosen young men are gone down to slaughter, saith the King, whose name is, The Lord of hostes.

16 The destruction of Moab is readie to come, and his plague hastely fast.

17 All ye that are about him, mourne for him, and all yee that knowe his name, say, Howe is the strong staffe broken, and the beautifull rod!

18 Thou daughter that doest inhabite Dibon, come downe from thy glory, and sit in thirst: for the destroyer of Moab shall come vp vpon thee, and he shall destroy thy strong holds.

19 Thou that dwellest in Aroer, stand by the way, ‖ behold: aske him that fleeth and that escapeth, and say, What is done?

20 m Moab is confounded: for it is destroyed: howle, and cry, tell ye it in Arnon, that Moab is made waste,

21 And iudgement is come vpon ‖ plaine countrey, vpon Holon and vpon Iahazah, and vpon Mephaath, 22 And vpon Dibon, and vpon Nebo, and vpon the house of Diblathaim, 23 And vpon Kiriathaim, ‖ vpon Bethgamul, and vpon Beth-meon, 24 And vpon Kerioth, and vpon Bozrah, and vpon all the cities of the lande of Moab farre or neere.

25 The n horne of Moab is cut off, and his arme is broken, saith the Lord.

26 Make ye him o drunken: for he magnified himselfe against the Lord: Moab shal ‖ wallow in his vomite, and he also shalbe in derision.

27 For didst not thou deride Israel, as though hee had bene found among theeues? for when thou speakest of him, thou art remoued.

28 O yee that dwell in Moab, leave the cities, and dwel in the rocks, and be like the doue that maketh her nest in the sides of the holes mouth.

29 p We haue heard the pride of Moab (he is exceeding proud) his stoutnesse, and his arrogancie, and his pride, and the hautinesse of his heart.

30 I know his wrath, saith the Lord, but it shall not be so: and his dissimulations, for they doe not right.

31 r Therefore will I howle for Moab, and I will cry out for all Moab: ‖ mine heart shall mourne for the men of Kir-heres.

32 O vine of Sibmah, I will weepe for thee, as I wept for Iazer: thy plantes are gone ouer the sea, they are come to the sea of Iazer: the destroyer is fallen vpon thy summer fruits, and vpon thy vintage, 33 And ioy, and gladnesse is taken from the plentifull field ‖ from the land of Moab: and I haue caused wine to faile from the wine presse: none shall tread with shouting: their shouting shalbe no shouting.

34 From the cry of Heshbon vnto Elaleh, and vnto Iahaz haue they made their noyse: from Zoar vnto Horonaim, the ‖ heifer of three yeere old shall goe lowing: for the waters also of Nimrim shall be wasted.

35 Moreouer, I will cause to cease in Moab, saith the Lord, him that offred in the hie places, and him that burneth incense to his gods.

36 Therefore mine heart shall sound for Moab like a ‖ pipe, and mine heart shall sound like a ‖ pipe for the men of Kir-heres, because the riches that he hath gotten, is perished.

37 * For euery head shall bee ‖ balde, and euery beard plucked: vpon all the handes shall bee cuttings, and vpon the loynes sackcloth.

38 And mourning shall be vpon all the houle tops of Moab and in all the streetes thereof: for I haue broken Moab like a vessel wherein is no pleasure, saith the Lord.

39 They shall howle, saying, How is hee destroyed? howe hath Moab turned the backe with shame? so shall Moab be a derision and a feare to all them about him.

40 For thus saith the Lord, Beholde, u he shall flee as an eagle, ‖ shal spread his wings ouer Moab.

41 The cities are taken, and the strong holds are wonne, ‖ the mightie mens hearts in Moab at that day shall be as the heart of a woman in trauell.

42 And Moab shalbe destroyed from being a people, because he hath set vp himselfe against the Lord.

43 y Feare, and pit and snare shalbe vpon thee, O inhabitant of Moab, saith the Lord.

44 He that escapeth from the feare, shall fall in the pit, and he that getteth vp out of the pit, shall be taken in the snare: for I will bring vpon it, euen vpon Moab, the yeere of their visitation, saith the Lord.

45 They that fled, stood vnder the shadow z of Heshbon, because of the force: for a the fire came out of Heshbon, and a flame from Sihon, and deuoured the corner of Moab, and the top of the seditious children.

46 Woe be vnto thee, O Moab: the people of b Chemosh perisheth: for thy sonnes are taken captiues, and thy daughters led into captiuitie.

47 Yet will I bring againe the captiuitie of Moab in the c latter dayes, sayeth the Lord. Thus far of the iudgement of Moab.

warre to bee heard in Rabbah of the Ammonites, and it shall be a desolate heape, and her daughters shall be burne with fire: then shall Israel possesse those that possessed him, saith the Lord.

3 Howle, O Heshbon, for Ai is wasted: crie ye daughters of Rabbah: gird you with sackecloth: mourne and runne to and fro by the hedges, for their king shall goe into captiuitie, and his Priests, and his Princes likewise.

4 Wherefore gloriest thou in the valleys? thy valley floweth away, O rebellious daughter: thee trusted in her treasures, saying, Who shall come vnto me?

5 Beholde, I will bring a feare vpon thee, (saith the Lord God of hostes, of all those that be about thee, and ye shall be scattered euery man right forth, and none shall gather him that fleeth.

6 And afterward I will bring againe the captiuitie of the children of Ammon.

7 ¶ To Edom thus saith the Lord of hostes, Is wisedome no more in Teman? Is counsell perished from their children? Is their wisedome vanished?

8 Flee, ye inhabitants of Dedan (they are turned backe, and haue consulted to dwell) for I haue brought the destruction of Esau vpon him, and the time of his visitation.

9 If the grape gatherers come to thee, would they not leaue some grapes? if theeues come by night, they will destroy til they haue ynough.

10 For I haue discouered Esau: I haue vncouered his secrets, and hee shall not bee able to hide himselfe: his seede is wasted, and his brethren and his neighbours, and there shall be none to say, 12 For thus saith the Lord, Behold, they whose iudgement was not to drinke of the cup, haue assuredly dronken, and art thou he that shall escape free? thou shalt not goe free, but thou shalt surely drinke of it.

13 For I haue sworne by my selfe, saith the Lord, that Bozrah shall be waste, and for a reproch, and a desolation, and a curse, and all the cities thereof shall be perpetuall desolations.

14 I haue heard a rumour from the Lord, and an ambassador is sent vnto the heathen, saying, Gather you together, and come against her, and rise vp to the battell.

15 For loe, I will make thee but small among the heathen, and despised among men.

16 The feare, & the pride of thine heart hath deceiued thee, thou that dwellest in the clefts of the rocks, and keepest the height of the hill: though thou shouldest make thy nest as high as the Eagle, I will bring thee downe from thence, saith the Lord.

17 ¶ Also Edom shall be desolate: euery one that goeth by it, shall be astonished, and shall hisse at all the plagues thereof.

18 As in the ouerthrow of Sodome, and of Gomorah, and the places thereof neere about, saith the Lord: no man shall dwell there, neither shall the sonnes of men remaine in it.

19 Behold, he shall come vp like a lion from the swelling of Iordan vnto the strong dwelling place: for I will make Israel to rest, euen I will make him to haste away from her, and who is a chosen man that I may appoint against her? for who is like mee? and who will appoint me the time? and who is the shepheard that will stand before me?

20 Therefore heare the counsell of the Lord that he hath deuised against Edom, and his purpose that hee hath conceiued against the inhabitants of Teman: surely the least of the flocke shall draw them out: surely he shall make their habitations desolate with them.

21 The earth is moued at the noyse of their fall: the cry of their voice is heard in the red sea.

22 Behold, he shall come vp, and flie as the eagle, and spread his wings ouer Bozrah, and at that day shall the heart of the strong men of Edom bee as the heart of a woman in trauell.

28 ¶ Vnto Kedar and to the kingdomes of Hazor, which Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel shall smite, thus saith the Lord, Arise, and goe vp vnto Kedar, and destroy the men of the East.

29 Their tents and their flockes shall they take away: yea, they shall take to them selues their curtaines, and all their vessels, and their camels, and they shall cric vnto them, Feare is on euery side.

35 Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes, Behold, I will breake the h bow of Elam, euen the chiefe of their strength.

36 And vpon Elam I will bring the foure windes from the foure quarters of heauen, & will scatter them towards all these windes, and there shal be no nation, whither the fugitiues of Elam shall not come.

37 For I will cause Elam to be afraide before their enemies, and before them that seeke their liues, and will bring vpon them a plague, euen the indignation of my wrath, saith the Lord, and I will send the sword after them till I haue consumed them.

38 And I will set my i throne in Elam, and I will destroy both the King and the princes from thence, saith the Lord: but k in the latter dayes I will bring againe the captiuitie of Elam, saith the Lord.

h Because the Persians were good archers, he sheweth that the thing wherein they put their trust, should not profit them.

i I will place Nebuchad-nezzar there. And in these prophesies Ieremiah speaketh of those countreyes, which should be subdued vnder the first of those foure monarchies whereof Daniel maketh mention.

CHAP. L.

He prophesieth the destruction of Babylon, and the deliuerance of Israel, which was in captiuitie.

THe word that the Lord spake concerning Babel, and concerning the Land of the Caldeans by the a ministerie of Ieremiah the Prophet.

2 Declare among the nations, and publish it, and set vp a standart, proclaime it and conceale it not: say, b Babel is taken, Bel is confounded, b Merodach is broken downe: her doles are confounded, and their images are burst in pieces.

3 For out of the North there c commeth vp a nation against her, which shall make her land waste, and none shall dwell therin: they shall flee, and depart, both man & beast.

4 In those dayes, and at that time, saith the Lord, the children of Israel shall d come, they, and the children of Iudah together, going, and e weeping shall they goe, and seeke the Lord their God.

5 They shall aske the way to Zion, with their faces thitherward, saying, Come, and let vs cleaue to the Lord in a perpetuall couenant that shall not be forgotten.

6 ¶ My people haue bene as lost sheepe: their f shepheards haue caused them to goe astray, and haue turned them away to the mountaines: they haue gone from mountaine to hill, and forgotten their resting place.

7 All that found them, haue deuoured them, and their enemies sayd, We offend not, because they haue sinned against the Lord, g the habitation of iustice, euen the Lord the hope of their fathers.

8 h Flee from the middest of Babel, and depart out of the land of the Caldeans, and be ye as the hee goates i before the flocke.

9 For loe, I will raise and cause to come vp against Babel a multitude of mighty nations from the North countrey, and they shall set themselues in aray against her, whereby she shall be taken: their arrowes shall be as of a strong man, which is expert, for none shall returne in vaine.

10 And Caldea shall be a spoile: all that spoile her, k shall bee satisfied, sayth the Lord.

11 Because yee were glad and reioyced in destroying mine heritage, and because ye are growen fat, as the calues in the grasse, and neyed like strong horses, 12 Therefore your mother shall bee sore confounded, and she that bare you, shall be ashamed: beholde, the vttermost of the nations shall be a desert, a dry land and a wildernesse.

13 Because of the wrath of the Lorde, it shall not be inhabited, but shalbe wholly desolate: euery one that goeth by Babel, shall be astonished, and l hisse at all her plagues.

14 ¶ Put your selues in aray against Babel round about: all ye that bend the bowe, shoote at her, spare no arrowes: for she hath m sinned against the Lord.

15 Cry against her round about: she hath ‖ giuen her hand: her foundations are fallen, and her walles are destroyed: for it is the vengeance of the Lord: take vengeance vpon her: as shee hath done, doe vnto her.

16 Destroy the n sower from Babel, and him that handleth the sickle in the time of haruest: because of the sword of the oppressour they shall turne euery one to his people, and they shall flee euery one to his owne land.

17 Israel is like scattered sheepe: the lyons haue driuen them: first the King o of Assur hath deuoured him, and last this Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel hath broken p his bones.

18 Therefore thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes, the God of Israel, Behold, I will visite the King of Babel, and his land, as I haue visited the King of Assur.

19 And I will bring Israel againe to his habitation: hee shall feede on Carmel and Bashan, and his soule shall be satisfied vpon the mount Ephraim and Gilead.

20 In those dayes, and at that time, sayth the Lorde, the iniquity of Israel shall bee sought for, and there shall bee none: and the sinnes of Iudah, and they shal not be found: for I will be merciful vnto them, whom I reserue.

21 Goe vp against the lande of the q rebels, euen against it, and against the inhabitants r of ‖ Pekod: destroy, and lay it waste after them, saith the Lord, and doe according to all that I haue commaunded thee.

22 A cry of battell is in the lande, and of great destruction.

23 Howe is the s hammer of the whole world destroyed and broken! how is Babel become desolate among the nations!

24 I haue

a After that God hath vsed Babilonians seruice to punish other nations, he shewed that their turne shall come to be punished.

f Their gouernours and ministers by their examples haue prouoked them to idolatrie.

g They haue committed idolatrie in euery place.

p Though the Lord called the Babylonians his seruants, & their work, his worke in punishing his people, yet because they did it not to glorifie God, but for their owne malice, and to profite themselues, it is here called sinne.

‖ Or, yeelded, or, made peace.

q Destroy her so that none be left to labour the ground, or to take the fruit thereof.

25 The Lord hath opened his treasure, and hath brought foorth the weapons of his wrath: for this is the worke of the Lord God of hostes in the land of the Caldeans.

29 Call vp the archers against Babel: all yee that bend the bowe, beliege it round about: let none thereof escape: * recompense her according to her worke, and according to all that she hath done, doe vnto her: for shee hath bene proude against the Lord, euen against the holy one of Israel.

Reue 18,6.

30 Therefore shall her yong men fall in the streetes, and all her men of warre shal be destroyed in that day, sayeth the Lord.

31 Beholde, I come vnto thee, O proude man, sayeth the Lord God of hostes: for thy day is come, euen the time that I will visite thee.

z He sheweth that when God executeth his iudgements against his enemies, that his Church shal then haue rest.

32 And the proude shall stumble and fall, and none shall raise him vp: and I will kindle a fire in his cities, and it shal deuoure all round about him.

33 Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes, The children of Israel, and the children of Iudah were oppressed together: and all that tooke them captiues, held them, and would not let them goe.

34 But their strong Redeemer, whose Name is the Lord of hostes, hee shall maintaine their cause, that hee may giue rest to the land, a and disquiet the inhabitants of Babel.

a For Cyrus did cut the riuer Euphrates, and diuided the course thereof into many streames, so that it might be passed ouer as though therehad bene no water: which thing he did by the counsel of two of Belshazzars captaines, who conspired against their king, because hee had gelded the one of them in despite, and slaine the sonne of the other.

35 A sword is vpon the Caldeans, sayeth the Lord, and vpon the inhabitants of Babel, and vpon her princes, and vpon her wise men.

b Reade Isa. 13.21.

36 A sword is vpon the ‡ soothsayers, and they shall dote: a sworde is vpon her strong men, and they shalbe afraid.

37 A sword is vpon their horses, and vpon their charets, and vpon all the multitude that are in the middes of her, and they shall bee like women: a sword is vpon her treasures, and they shalbe spoyled.

38 A * drought is vpon her waters, and they shall bee dried vp: for it is the land of grauen images, and they dote vpon their idoles.

39 Therefore the b Zijms with the Ijms, shall dwell there, and the ‡ ostriches shall dwell therein: for it shall be no more inhabited, neither shall it be inhabited from generation vnto generation.

40 As God destroyed * Sodom and Gomorah with the places thereof neere about, sayth the Lord: so shall no man dwell there, neither shall the sonne of man remaine therein.

41 ¶ Beholde, a people shall come from the North, and a great nation, and many kings shall be raised vp from the c coastes of the earth.

c Meaning, that the Persians should gather their armie of many nations.

42 They shall holde the bowe and the buckler: they are cruell and vnmercifull: their voyce shall roare like the sea, and they shall ride vpon horses, and be put in aray like men to the battell against thee, O daughter of Babel.

43 The king of Babel hath heard the report of them, and his handes d waxed feeble: sorow came vpon him, euen sorow as of a woman in trauaile.

d Which is meant of Belshazzar, Dan. 5. 6.

44 Beholde, he * shall come vp like a lyon from the swelling of Iorden vnto the strong habitation: for I wil make Israel to rest, and I will make them to haste away from her: and who is a chosen man that I may appoint against her? for who is like mee, and who will appoint mee the time? and who is the e shepheard that will stand before me?

Chap.49,19.

45 Therefore heare the counsell of the Lord that hee hath deuised against Babel, and his purpose that hee hath conceiued against the land of the Caldeans: surely the least of the flocke shall draw them out: surely hee shall make their habitation desolate with them.

3 Also to the bender that bendeth his bowe, and to him that lifteth himselfe vp in his brigadine, will I say, Spare not her yong men, but destroy all her host.

4 Thus the slaine shall fall in the land of the Caldeans, and they that are thrust through in her streetes.

5 For Israel hath bene no b widow, nor Iudah from his God, from the Lorde of hostes, though their lande was filled with sinne against the Holy one of Israel.

b Though they were forsake for a time, yet they were not vtterly cast off as though their husband were dead.

6 ¶ c Flee out of the mids of Babel, and deliuer euery man his soule: be not destroyed in her iniquitie: for this is the time of the Lords vengeance: hee will render vnto her a recompense.

28 Prepare againſt her the nations with the kings of the Medes, the dukes thereof, and the princes thereof, and all the land of his dominion.

29 And the land ſhall tremble and ſorow: for the deuice of the Lord ſhall be performed againſt Babel, to make the land of Babel waſte without an inhabitant.

30 The ſtrong men of Babel haue ceaſed to fight, they haue remained in their holdes: their ſtrength hath failed, and they were like women: they haue burnt her dwelling places, and her barres are broken.

33 For thus ſayth the Lord of hoſtes the God of Iſrael, The daughter of Babel is like a threſhing floore: the time of her threſhing is come: yet a litle while, and the time of her harueſt ſ ſhall come.

34 Nebuchad-nezzar the king of Babel hath t deuoured me, and deſtroyed mee: he hath made me an emptie veſſel: he ſwallowed me vp like a dragon, and filled his belly with my delicates, and hath caſt me out.

43 Her cities are desolate: the land is dry and a wildernesse, a land wherein no man dwelleth, neither doeth the sonne of man passe thereby.

44 I will also visit Bel in Babel, and I will bring out of his mouth, that which a he hath swallowed vp, and the nations shal run no more vnto him, and the wall of Babel shall fall.

45 My people, goe out of the midst of her and deliuer ye euery man his soule from the fierce wrath of the Lord, 46 Lest your heart faint, & ye feare the rumor, that shall be heard in the land: the rumor shall come this yeere, and after that in the other b yere shal come a rumor, and cruelte in the land, and ruler against ruler.

47 Therefore beholde, the dayes come, that I will visit the images of Babel, and the whole land shall be confounded, and all her slaine shall fall in the midst of her.

48 Then the heauen and the c earth, and all that is therein, shall reioice for Babel: for the destroyers shall come vnto her from the North, sayth the Lord.

49 As Babel caused the d slaine of Israel to fall, so by Babel the slaine of all the earth did fall.

50 Ye that e haue escaped the sword, goe away, stand not still: remember the Lord afarre off, and let Ierusalem come into your mind.

51 We are f confounded because we haue heard reproch: shame hath couered our faces, for strangers are come into the Sanctuaries of the Lords house.

52 Wherefore beholde, the dayes come, sayth the Lord, that I will visit her grauen images, and through all her land the wounded shall grone.

53 Though Babel should mount vp to g heauen, and though she should defend her strength on high, yet from me shall her destroyers come, sayth the Lord.

54 A sound of a cry commeth from Babel, and great destruction from the lande of the Caldeans, 55 Because the Lorde hath layed Babel waste, & destroyed from her the great voice, and her waues shal roare like great waters, and a sound was made by their noise:

56 Because the destroyer is come vpon her, euen vpon Babel, and her strong men are taken, their bowes are broken: for the Lord God that recompenseth, shall surely recompense.

57 And I will h make drunke her princes, and her wise men, her dukes and her nobles and her strong men: and they shall sleepe a perpetuall sleepe, and not wake, sayeth the king, whose Name is the Lord of hostes.

58 Thus sayth the Lord of hostes, The i thick wall of Babel shalbe broken, and her high gates shall be burnt with fire, and the people shall labour in vaine, and the folke in the fire, for they shall be weary.

59 The word which Ieremiah the Prophet commaunded Sheraiah the son of Neriah, the sonne of Maaseiah, when he went with Zedekiah the king of Iudah into Babel, in the k fourth yeere of his reigne: and this Sheraiah was a peaceable prince.

60 So Ieremiah wrote in a booke all the euill that should come vpon Babel; euen all these things that are written against Babel.

61 And Ieremiah sayde to Sheraiah, When thou commest vnto Babel, and shalt see, and shalt reade all these words, 62 Then shalt thou say, O Lord, thou hast spoken against this place, to destroy it, that none should remaine in it, neither man nor beast, but that it should be desolate for euer.

63 And when thou hast made an ende of reading this booke, thou shalt bind a l stone to it, and cast it in the midst of Euphrates, 64 And shalt say, Thus shall Babel bee drowned, and shal not rise from the euil, that I wil bring vpon her, and they shal be wearie. Thus farre are the words of Ieremiah.

21 m They shall not be able to resist but shall labour in vaine.

4 Ierusalem is taken. 10 Zedekiahs sonnes are killed before his face, and his eyes put out. 13 The city is burned. 31 Iehoiachin is brought forth of prison, and fed like a king.

Zedekiah * was one and twentie yere old when he began to reigne, and he reigned eleuen yeres in Ierusalem. and his mothers name was Hamutal, the daughter of Ieremiah of Libnah.

2 And he did euill in the sight of the Lord, according to all that Iehoiakim had done.

3 a Doubtlesse because the wrath of the Lorde was against Ierusalem and Iudah, till hee had cast them out from his presence, therefore Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babel.

4 * But in the ninth yeere of his reigne, in the tenth moneth, the tenth day of the moneth came Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel, he and all his hoste against Ierusalem, and pitched against it, and built fortes against it round about.

5 So the city was besieged vnto the eleuenth yere of the king Zedekiah.

6 Now in the fourth moneth, the ninth day of the moneth, the famine was sore in the citie, so that there was no more bread for the people of the land.

7 Then the citie was broken vp and all the men of warre fled, & went out of the citie by night, by the b way of the gate betweene the two walls, which was by the kings garden: (nowe the Caldeans were by the citie round about) and they went by the way of the wildernes.

8 But the army of the Caldeans pursued after the king, and tooke Zedekiah in the desert of Iericho, and all his host was scattered from him.

9 Then they tooke the king and caried him vp to the king of Babel to Riblah in the land of Hamath, c where he gaue iudgement vpon him.

10 And the king of Babel slew the sonnes of Zedekiah before his eyes: he slew also all the princes of Iudah in Riblah.

11 Then he put out the eyes of Zedekiah, a That is, his gifts & presents which he had receiued as part of the spoile of other nations, & which the idolaters brought vnto him from all countries.

b Meaning that Babylon should not be destroyed al at once, but by little and little should bebrought to nothing: for ỹ first yeere came the tidings, the next yeere the siege, and in the third yere it was taken: yet this is not that horrible destructiō which the Prophets threatned in many places: for that was after this, when they rebelled, and Darius ouercame them by the policie of Zopyrus & hanged three thousand gentlemen besides the common people.

c Al creatures in heauen and earth shall reioyce and praise God for the destruction of Babylon the great enemie of his Church

14 And all the armie of the Caldeans that were with the chiefe steward, brake downe all the walles of Jerusalem round about.

15 Then Nabuzar-adan the chiefe steward caried away captiue certaine of the poore of the people, & the residue of the people that remained in the citie, and those that were fled, and fallen to the king of Babel, with the rest of the multitude.

16 But Nebuzar-adan the chiefe steward left certaine of the poore of the land, to dresse the vines, and to till the land.

20 With the two pillars, one Sea, and twelue brasen buls, that were vnder the bases, which king Salomon had made in the house of the Lord: the brasse of all these vessels was without h weight.

h It was so much in quantitie,

21 And concerning the pillars, the height of one pillar was eighteene cubites, and a threed of twelue cubites did compasse it, and the thicknes thereof was foure fingers: it was hollow.

22 And a chapiter of brasse was vpon it, and the height of one chapiter was fiue cubites with netwoorke, and pomegranates vpon the chapiters round about, all of brasse: the second pillar also, and the pomegranates were like vnto these.

23 And there were ninetie & fiue pomegranates on a side: and all the pomegranates vpon the net woorke were an hundreth round about.

24 And i chiefe steward tooke Sheraiah the chiefe Priest, and Zephaniah k the second Priest, and the three keepers of the doore.

25 He tooke also out of the citie an eunuch which had the ouerlight of the men of warre and l seuen men that were in the kings presence which were found in the citie, and Sopher captaine of the hoste who mustered the people of the land, and threescore men of the people of the land, that were found in the mids of the citie.

26 Nebuzar-adan the chief steward tooke them, and brought them to the king of Babel to Riblah.

27 And the King of Babel smote them, and slew them in Riblah, in the land of Hamath: thus Judah was caried away captiue out of his owne land.

31 And in the seuen and thirtith yeere of the captiuitie of Jehoiakin king of Judah, in the twelft moneth, in the fine and twentieth day of the moneth, Euil-merodach king of Babel, in the first yere of his reigne, olifted vp the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah, and brought him out of prison, 32 And spake kindly vnto him, & set his throne aboue the throne of the kings, that were with him in Babel,

CHAP. I.

1 The Prophet bewaileth the miserable estate of Jerusalem, 5 And sheweth that they are plagued because of their sinnes. The first & second chapter begin euery verse according to the letters of the Ebrew Alphabet. The third hath three verses for euery letter, and the fourth is as the first a The Prophet wondereth at the great iudgement of God, seeing Jerusalem, which was so strong and so full of people, to be now destroyed & desolate

HOw doth a the city remaine solitary that was full of people! she is as a widow: she that was great among the nations, and b princesse among the prouinces, is made tributary.

b Which had chiefe rule ouer many prouinces and countreys.

2 She weepeth continually in the night, and her teares run downe by her cheekes: among all her c louers, she hath none to comfort her: all her friends haue delt vnfaithfully with her, and are her enemies.

c So that she taketh no rest.

3 Judah is caried away captiue, because of affliction, and because of great seruitude: she dwelleth among the heathen, and findeth no rest: all her persecuters tooke her in the straits.

n Thus Ierusalem lamenteth, mooving others to pitie her and to learne by her example.
o This declareth that we should acknowledge God to be the authour of all our afflictions, to the intent that we might seeke to him for remedie.

no man commeth r to the solemne feasts: all her gates are desolate: her Priests sigh: her virgins are discomfited, ‡ and she is in ✝ heauinesse.
5 Her aduersaries s are the chiefe, and her enemies prosper: for the Lord hath afflicted her, for the multitude of her transgressions, and her children are gone into captiuitie before the enemie.
6 And from the daughter of Zion all her beautie is departed: her princes are become t like harts that finde no pasture, and they are gone without strength before the pursuer.
7 Ierusalem remembred the dayes of her affliction, and of her rebellion, and all her pleasant things, that she had in times past, when her people u fell into the hand of the enemie, and none did helpe her: the aduersaries saw her, and did mocke at her x Sabbaths.
8 Ierusalem hath grieuously sinned, therefore she is ‖ in derision: all that honoured her, despise her, because they haue seene her filthinesse: yea, she sigheth and turneth backward.
9 y Her filthinesse is in her skirts: she remembred not her last ende, therefore she came downe wonderfully: she had no comforter: O Lord, behold mine affliction: for the enemie is ‡ proud.
10 The enemie hath stretched out his hande vpon all her pleasant things: for she hath seene the Heathen enter into her Sanctuarie, whom z thou diddest commaund, that they should not enter into thy Church.
11 All her people sigh a seeke their bread: they haue giuen their pleasant things for meate to refresh the soule: see, O Lord, and consider: for I am become vile.
12 Haue ye no regard, all ye that passe by this way? beholde, and see, if there bee any b sorow like vnto my sorowe, which is done vnto me, wherewith the Lord hath afflicted me in the day of his fierce wrath.
13 From aboue hath c he sent fire into my bones, which preuaileth against them: hee hath spread a net for my feet, and turned me backe: he hath made mee desolate, and daily in heauinesse.
14 The d yoke of my transgressions is bound vpon his hand: they are wrapped, and come vp vpon my necke: he hath made my strength to fall: the Lord hath deliuered mee into their handes, neither am I able to rise vp.
15 The Lord hath troden vnder foote all my valiant men in the mids of mee: he hath called an assemblie against me to destroy my young men: the Lorde hath troden e the winepresse vpon the virgine the daughter of Iudah.
16 * For these things I weepe: mine eye, euen mine eye casteth out water, because the comforter that should refresh my soule, is farre from me: my children are desolate, because the enemie preuailed.
17 Zion stretched out her handes, and there is none to comfort her: the Lorde hath appointed the enemies of Iaakob rounde about him: Ierusalem is f as a menstruous woman in the mids of them.
18 The Lord is righteous: for I haue rebelled against his ‡ commandement: heare, I pray you, all people, and beholde my sorowe: my virgins and my young men are gone into captiuitie.
19 I called for my louers, but they deceiued mee: my Priests and mine Elders perished in the city, while they sought their meat to refresh their soules.
20 Beholde, O Lorde, how I am troubled: my bowels swell: mine heart is turned within me, for I am full of heauinesse: the sword spoyleth abroad, as death doeth at home.
21 They haue heard that I mourne, but there is none to comfort mee: all mine enemies haue heard of my trouble, and are glad, that thou hast done it: thou wilt bring the day that thou hast pronounced, and they shal be like vnto me.
22 g Let all their wickednes come before thee: ‖ doe vnto them, as thou hast done vnto me, for all my transgressions: for my sighs are many, and mine heart is heauie.

CHAP. II.

HOw hath the Lord a darkned the daughter of Zion in his wrath! and hath cast downe from b heauen vnto the earth the beautie of Israel, and remembred not his c footstoole in the day of his wrath!
2 The Lord hath destroyed all the habitations of Iaakob, and not spared: he hath throwen downe in his wrath the strong holdes of the daughter of Iudah: hee hath cast them down to the ground: he hath polluted the kingdome and the princes thereof.
3 Hee hath cut off in his fierce wrath all the d horne of Israel: he hath drawen backe his e right hand from before the enemie, and there was kindled in Iaakob like a flame of fire, which deuoured round about.
4 Hee f hath bent his bowe like an enemie: his right hand was stretched vp as an aduersary, and slew all that was pleasant to the eye in the Tabernacle of the daughter of Zion: he powred out his wrath like fire.
5 The Lord was as an enemie: he hath deuoured Israel, and consumed all his palaces: hee hath destroyed his strong holdes, and hath increased in the daughter of Iudah lamentation and mourning.
6 For hee hath destroyed his Tabernacle, as a garden, hee hath destroyed his congregation: the Lord hath caused the feasts and Sabbaths to be forgotten in Zion, and hath despised in the indignation of his wrath the King and the Priest.
7 The Lord hath forsaken his altar: he hath abhorred his Sanctuarie: he hath giuen into the hand of the enemie the walles of her palaces: they haue made a noyse in the house of the Lord, as in the day of solemnitie.
8 The Lord hath determined to destroy the wall of the daughter of Zion: hee stretched out a line: he hath not withdrawen his hand from destroying: therefore hee made 9 Her gates are sunke to the ground: he hath destroyed and broken her barres: her king and her Princes are among the Gentiles: the lawe is no more, neither can her Prophets ‖ receiue any vision from the Lord.

10 The Elders of the daughter of Zion sit vpon the ground, and keepe silence: they haue cast vp dust vpon their heades: they haue girded themselues with sackcloth: the virgines of Ierusalem hang downe their heads to the ground.

11 Mine eyes doe faile with teares: my bowels ‡ swell: my liuer is powred vpon the earth, for the destruction of the daughter of my people, because the children & sucklings ‖ swoone in the streetes of the citie.

13 What thing shall I take to witnesse for thee? What thing shall I compare to thee, O daughter Ierusalem, what shall I liken to thee, that I may comfort thee, O virgine daughter Zion? for thy breach is great like the sea: who can heale thee?

14 Thy prophets haue *looked out vaine and foolish things for thee, and they haue not discouered thine iniquitie, to turne away thy captiuitie, but haue looked out for thee false ‖ prophecies, and causes of banishment.

15 All that passe by the way, clappe their handes at thee: they hisse and wagge their head vpon the daughter Ierusalem, saying, Is this the city that men call, The perfection of beautie, and the ioy of the whole earth?

16 All thine enemies haue opened their mouth against thee: they hisse and gnash the teeth, saying, Let vs deuoure it: certainely this is the day that we looked for: wee haue found and seene it.

17 *The Lord hath done that which hee had purposed: he hath fulfilled his worde that he had determined of old time: he hath throwen downe, and not spared: hee hath caused thine enemie to reioyce ouer thee, and set vp the horne of thine aduersaries.

18 Their heart* cryed vnto the Lord, O wall of the daughter Zion, let teares runne downe like a riuer, day and night: take thee no rest, neither let the apple of thine eye cease.

19 Arise, crie in the night: in the beginning of the watches powre out thine heart like water before the face of the Lorde: lift vp thine handes toward him for the life of thy young children, that faint for hunger in the corners of all the streets.

20 Behold, O Lord, ‡ consider to whom thou hast done thus: shall the women eate their fruit, and children of a ‖ spanne long? shall the Priest and the Prophet be slaine in the Sanctuary of the Lord?

21 The young ‡ the old lie on the ground in the streetes: my virgines and my young men are fallen by the sword: thou hast slaine them in the day of thy wrath: thou hast killed and not spared.

22 Thou hast called as in a solemne day my ‖ terrours round about, so that in the day of the Lords wrath none escaped nor remained: those that I haue nourished & brought vp, hath mine enemie consumed.

CHAP. III.

I Am the man that hath seene * affliction in the rod of his indignation.

2 He hath led me, and brought mee into darkenesse, but not to light.

3 Surely hee is turned against mee: hee turned his hand against me all the day.

4 My flesh and my skin hath hee caused to waxe old, and he hath broken my bones.

5 He hath *builded against mee, and compassed me with gall, and labour.

6 He hath set me in darke places, as they that be dead for euer.

8 Also when I crie and shout, hee shutteth out my * prayer.

9 Hee hath * stopped vp my wayes with hewen stone, and turned away my paths.

10 *Hee was vnto me as a beare lying in wait, and as a lion in secret places.

15 He hath filled me with bitternesse, and made me drunken with * wormewood.

17 Thus my soule was farre off from peace: I forgate prosperitie.

19 Remembring mine affliction, and my mourning, the wormewood and the gall.

20 My soule hath them in remembrance, and is humbled * in me.

‖ Or, enemies, whom I feared.

a The Prophet complaineth of the punishments and afflictions that he endured by the false prophets and hypocrites, when he declared the destruction of Ierusalem, as Ier. 20.2.

b Hee speaketh this as one that felt Gods heauie iudgements, which he greatly feared, and therefore setteth them out with this diuersitie of words.

c This is a great tentation to the godly, when they see not the fruit of their prayers, and causeth them to thinke that they are not heard, which thing God vseth to doe, that they might pray more earnestly and the oftner.

11 The Lord hath accomplished his indignation: hee hath powred out his fierce wrath, he hath kindled a fire in Zion, which hath deuoured the foundations thereof.

CHAP. V.

The prayer of Ieremiah.

REmember, O Lord, what is come vpon vs: a consider, and beholde our reproch.

a This prayer as is thought, was made when some of the people were caried away captiue, others, as the poorest remained, and some went into Egypt and other places for succour: albeit it seemeth that the Prophet foreseeing their miseries to come, thus prayed.

2 Our inheritance is turned to the strangers, our houses to the aliants.

3 Wee are fatherlesse, euen without father, and our mothers are as widowes.

4 Wee haue dronken our b water for money, and our wood is sold vnto vs.

b Meaning, their extreme seruitude and bondage.

5 Our neckes are vnder persecution: we are weary, and haue no rest.

6 Wee haue giuen our c hands to the Egyptians, and to Assyr, to bee satisfied with bread.

c We are ioyned in league and amitie with them, or haue submitted our selues vnto them.

7 Our fathers haue sinned, and are not, and we haue borne their d iniquities.

d As our fathers haue bene punished for their sinnes, so we that are culpable of the same sinnes, are punished.

8 Seruants haue ruled ouer vs, none would deliuer vs out of their hands.

9 Wee gate our bread with the perill of our liues, because of the sword e of the wildernesse.

e Because of the enemy that came from the wildernesse, and would not suffer vs to goe and seeke our necessary foode.

10 Our skin was blacke like as an ouen, because of the terrible famine.

11 They defiled the women in Zion, and the maides in the cities of Iudah.

12 The princes are hanged vp by f their hand: the faces of the Elders were not had in honour.

f That is, by the enemies hand.

13 They tooke the yong men to grinde, and the children fell vnder g the wood.

g Their slauery was so great, that they were not able to abide it.

14 The Elders haue ceased from the gate, and the yong men from their songs.

15 The ioy of our heart is gone, our dance is turned into mourning.

16 The crowne of our head is fallen: woe now vnto vs that we haue sinned.

17 Therefore our heart is heauy for these things, h our eyes are dimme.

h There were no more lawes nor forme of common wealth.

18 Because of the mountaine of Zion which is desolate: the foxes run vpon it.

19 But thou, O Lorde, remainest for i euer: thy throne is from generation to generation.

i With weeping.

20 Wherefore doest thou forget vs for euer, and forsake vs so long time?

21 k Turne thou vs vnto thee, O Lorde, and we shall be turned: renew our dayes as of olde.

k And therefore thy couenant and mercies can neuer faile.

22 But thou hast vtterly reiected vs: thou art exceedingly angry against vs.

l Whereby is declared that it is not in mans power to turne to God, but is onely his worke to conuert vs, and thus God worketh in vs, before wee can turne to him, Ierem. 31.18.

Ezekiel.

THE ARGVMENT.

AFter that Iehoiachin by the counsel of Ieremiah and Ezekiel had yeelded himselfe to Nebuchadnezzar, and so went into captiuity with his mother and diuers of his princes and of the people, certaine began to repent & murmure that they had obeyed the Prophets counsel, as though the thing which they had professed should not come to passe, and therefore their estate should be still miserable vnder the Caldeans. By reason whereof he confirmeth his former professies, declaring by new visions and reuelations shewed vnto him, that the city should most certainely be destroyed, and the people grieuously tormented by Gods plagues, in so much that they remained, should be brought into cruell bondage. And lest the Godly should despaire in these great troubles, hee assureth them that God will deliuer his Church at his time appointed, and also destroy their enemies which either afflicted them, or reioyced in their miseries. The effect of the one and the other should chiefly be performed vnder Christ, of whom in this Booke are many notable promises, and in whom the glory of the new Temple should perfectly be restored. Hee professied these things in Caldea, at the same time that Ieremiah professied in Iudah, and there began in the fift yeere of Iehoiachins captiuitie.

CHAP.

CHAP. I.

1 The time wherein Ezekiel prophesied, and in what place. 3 He is moued. 5 The vision of the foure beasts. 26 The vision of the throne.

IT came to passe in the [a] thirtieth yeere in the fourth moneth, and in the fift day of the moneth (as I was among the captiues by the riuer [b] Chebar) that the heauens were opened, and I saw the visions of [c] God.

2 In the fift day of the moneth (which was the fift yeere of King Ioiachins captiuitie)

3 The word of the Lord came vnto Ezekiel the Priest, the sonne of Buzi, in the land of the Caldeans, by the riuer Chebar, where the [d] hande of the Lorde was vpon him.

4 And I looked, and behold, a [e] whirlewinde came out of the North, a great cloude and a fire wrapped about it, and a brightnesse was about it, and in the mids thereof, to wit, in the mids of the fire came out as the likenesse of [f] amber.

5 Also out of the mids thereof came the likenesse of foure [g] beastes, and this was their forme: they had the appearance of a man.

6 And euery one had foure faces, and euery one had foure wings.

7 And their feete were streight feete, and the sole of their feete was like the sole of a calues foote, and they sparkled like the appearance of bright brasse.

8 And the hands of a man came out from vnder their wings in the foure partes of them, and they foure had their faces, and their wings.

9 They were [h] ioyned by their wings one to another, and when they went forth, they returned not, but euery one went straight forward.

10 And the similitude of their faces was as [i] the face of man: and they foure had the face of a lion on the right side, and they foure had the face of a bullocke on the left side: they foure also had the face of an eagle.

11 Thus were their faces: but their wings were spread out aboue: two wings of euery one were ioyned one to another, and two couered their bodies.

12 And euery one went straight forward: they went whither their [k] spirit led them, and they returned not when they went forth.

13 The similitude also of the beastes, and their appearance was like burning coales of fire, and like the appearance of lampes: for the fire ranne among the beastes, and the fire gaue a glister, and out of the fire there went lightning.

14 And the beasts ranne, and [l] returned like vnto lightning.

15 ¶ Now as I beheld the beastes, beholde, a wheele appeared vpon the earth by the beasts, hauing foure faces.

16 The fashion of the wheeles and their worke was like vnto a [m] chrysolite: and they foure had one forme, and their fashion, and their worke was as one wheele in another wheele.

17 When they went, they went vpon their foure sides, and they returned not when they went.

18 They had also [n] rings, and height, and were feareful to behold, and their rings were full of eyes, round about them foure.

19 And when the beastes went, the wheeles went with them: & when the beasts were lift vp from the earth, the wheeles were lift vp.

20 Whither their spirit led them, they went, & thither did the spirit of the wheeles leade them, and the wheeles were lifted vp beside them: for the spirit of the beasts was in the wheeles.

21 When the beasts went, they went, and when they stood, they stood, and when they were lifted vp from the earth, the wheeles were lifted vp beside them: for the spirit of the beasts was in the wheeles.

22 And the similitude of the firmament vpon the heads of the beasts was wonderfull, like vnto chrystall, spread ouer their heads aboue.

23 And vnder the firmament were their wings streight, the one toward the other: euery one had two, which couered them, and euery one had two, which couered their bodies.

24 And when they went forth, I heard the noyse of their [o] wings, like the noyse of great waters, and as the voyce of the Almighty, euen the voyce of speach, as the noyse of an hoste: and when they stoode, they [p] let downe their wings.

25 And there was a voyce from the firmament that was ouer their heads, when they stood, and had let downe their wings.

26 And aboue the firmament that was ouer their heads, was the fashion of a throne like vnto a saphire stone, and vpon the similitude of the throne was by appearance, as the similitude of a man aboue vpon it.

27 And I sawe as the appearance of amber, and as the similitude of fire [q] round about within it to looke to, euen from his loynes vpwarde: and to looke to, euen from his loynes downewarde, I sawe as a likenesse of fire, and brightnesse round about it.

28 As the likenesse of the bowe, that is in the cloude in the day of raine, so was the appearance of the light round about.

29 This was the appearance of the similitude of the glory of the Lord: and when I saw it, I fell [r] vpon my face, and I heard a voyce of one that spake.

CHAP. II.

The Prophet is sent to call the people from their errour.

AND [s] he sayd vnto me, [t] Sonne of man, stand vp vpon thy feet, and I wil speake vnto thee.

a After that the booke of the law was found, which was the eighteenth yeere of the reigne of Iosiah, so that fiue and twenty yeeres after this booke was found, Ieconiah was led away captiue with Ezekiel (and many of the people) who the first yeere after saw these visions.

b Which was a part of Euphrates, so called.

c That is, notable and excellent visions, to that it might be known, it was no naturall dreame, but came of God.

d That is, the Spirit of prophesie, as Chap. 3. 22. and 37. 1.

e By this diuersitie of words he signifieth the fearefull iudgement of God, and the great afflictions that should come vpon Ierusalem.

f Or, pale yellow.

g Which were the foure Cherubims that represented the glory of God, as Chap. 3. 23.

h The wing of the one touched the wing of the other.

i Euery Cherubim had foure faces, the face of a man, and of a lion on the right side, and the face of a bullocke, and of an eagle on the left side.

k Ebr. whither their spirit, or will was to go.

l That is, when they had executed Gods will: for afore they returned not, till God had changed the state of things.

k The Ebrew word is Tarshish meaning, that the colour was like the Cilician sea, or a precious stone so called.

l Or, the trent.

m Which declared the swiftnes, and the fearefulnesse of Gods iudgements.

n Which signified that they had no power of themselues, but only waited to execute Gods commandement.

o Whereby was signified a terrible iudgement toward the earth.

p Considering the Maiestie of God, and the weakenesse of flesh.

a That is, the sonne of man.

b Meaning man, which is but earth and ashes, which was to humble him, and cause him to consider his owne state and Gods grace.

2 And c So that he could not abide Gods presence till Gods spirit did enter into him.

‡ Eb. hard of face.

d This declareth on the one part Gods great affection toward his people, that notwithstanding their rebellion, yet he will send his Prophets among them, and admonisheth his ministers on the other part that they cease not to doe their duety, though the people be neuer so obstinate: for the word of God shall be either to their saluation or greater condemnation.

e Reade Iere. 1. 17: he sheweth that for none afflictions they should cease to doe their dueties.

f He doeth not onely exhort him to his duetie, but also giueth him the meanes wherewith hee may be able to execute it.

g He sheweth what were the contents of this booke: to wit, Gods iudgements against the wicked.

2 c And the Spirit entred into me, when he had spoken vnto mee, and set me vpon my feete, so that I heard him that spake vnto me.

3 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, I send thee to the children of Israel, to a rebellious nation, that hath rebelled against me: for they and their fathers haue rebelled against me, euen vnto this very day.

4 For they are ‡ impudent children, and stiffe hearted: I do send thee vnto them, and thou shalt say vnto them, Thus sayeth the Lord God.

5 But surely they will not heare, neither indeede will they cease: for they are a rebellious house: yet shall they know that d there hath bene a Prophet among them.

6 And thou sonne of man, e feare them not, neither bee afrayd of their wordes, although rebels, and thornes bee with thee, and thou remaynest with scorpions: feare not their wordes, nor bee afrayd at their lookes, for they are a rebellious house.

7 Therefore thou shalt speake my words vnto them: but surely they will not heare, neither will they indeede cease: for they are rebellious.

8 But thou sonne of man, heare what I say vnto thee: bee not thou rebellious, like this rebellious house: open thy mouth, and f eate that I giue thee.

9 And when I looked vp, beholde, an hand was sent vnto me, and loe, a roule of a booke was therein.

10 And he spread it before me, and it was written within and without, and there was written therein, ‡ Lamentations, and mourning, and woe.

CHAP. III.

1 The Prophet being fed with the word of God, and with the constant boldnesse of the Spirit, is sent vnto the people that were in captiuitie. 17 The office of true ministers.

MOreouer he said vnto mee, Sonne of man, eate that thou findest: a eate this roule, and goe, and speake vnto the house of Israel.

a Whereby is meant that none is meete to bee Gods messenger before he haue received the word of God in his heart, as verse 10. and haue a zeale thereunto, and delight therein, as Iere. 15. 16. reuel. 10. 10.

2 So I opened my mouth, and he gaue me this roule to eate.

3 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, cause thy belly to eate, and fill thy bowels with this roule that I giue thee. Then did I eate it, and it was in my mouth as sweete as honie.

4 And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, go, and enter into the house of Israel, and declare them my words.

5 For thou art not sent to a people of an ‡ vnknowen tongue, or of an hard language, but to the house of Israel:

6 Not to many people of an vnknowen tongue, or of an hard language, whose words thou canst not vnderstand: yet if I should send thee to them, they would obey thee.

7 But the house of Israel will not obey thee: for they will not obey mee: yea, all the house of Israel are impudent and stiffe hearted.

8 Behold, I haue made thy face ‡ strong against their faces, and thy forehead hard against their foreheads.

9 I haue made thy forehead as the adamant, and harder then the flint: feare them not therefore, neither bee afrais at their lookes: for they are a rebellious house.

10 He said moreouer vnto me, Sonne of man, c receiue in thine heart all my wordes that I speake vnto thee, and heare them with thine eares, 11 And goe and enter to them that are led away captiues, vnto the children of thy people, and speake vnto them, & tell them, Thus saith the Lord God: but surely they will not heare, neither will they indeede cease.

12 Then the Spirit tooke me vp, and I heard behind me a noyse of a great rushing, saying, d Blessed be the glory of the Lord out of his place.

13 I heard also the noyse of the wings of the beastes, that touched one another, and the rushing of ‡ wheeles that were by them, euen a noyse of a great rushing.

14 So the Spirit lift me vp, and tooke me away, and I e went in bitternesse, and indignation of my spirit, but the hand of the Lord was strong vpon me.

15 Then I came to them that were led away captiues to f Tel-abib, that dwelt by the riuer Chebar, and I sate where they sate, and remained there astonished among them ‡ seuen dayes.

16 And at the ende of seuen dayes, the worde of the Lord came againe vnto mee, saying, 17 Sonne of man, I haue made thee a ‡ watchman vnto the house of Israel: therefore heare the word at my mouth, and giue them warning from me.

18 When I shall say vnto the wicked, Thou shalt surely die, and thou giuest not him warning, nor speakest to admonish the wicked of his wicked way, that he may liue, the same wicked man shall die in his iniquitie: but his blood will I require at thine hand.

19 Yet if thou warne the wicked, and he turne not from his wickednesse, nor from his wicked way, he shall die in his iniquitie, but thou hast deliuered thy soule.

20 Likewise if a ‡ righteous man turne from his righteousnesse, and commit iniquitie, I will lay a ‡ stumbling blocke before him, and he shall die, because thou hast not giuen him warning: he shal die in his sinne, and his ‡ righteous deedes, which hee hath done, shall not be remembred: but his blood will I require at thine hand.

21 Neuertheless, if thou admonish that righteous man, that the righteous sinne not, and that he doeth not sinne, he shall liue because hee is admonished: also thou hast deliuered thy soule.

22 And the ‡ hand of the Lord was there vpon mee, and he said vnto me, Arise, and e This sheweth that there is euer an infirmitie of the flesh which can neuer be ready to render full obedience to God, and also Gods grace, who euer assisteth his, and ouercometh their rebellious affections.

CHAP. IIII.

1 The besieging of the citie of Ierusalem is signified. 9 The long continuance of the captiuitie of Israel. 16 An hunger is prophesied to come.

THou also sonne of man, take thee a brick, and lay it before thee, and purtray vpon it the citie, euen Ierusalem,

2 And lay siege against it, and builde a fort against it, and cast a mount against it: set the campe also against it, and lay engins of warre against it round about.

3 Moreouer, take an a yron panne, and set it for a wall of yron betweene thee and the citie, and direct thy face toward it, and it shall bee besieged, and thou shalt lay siege against it: this shalbe a signe vnto the house of Israel.

4 Sleepe thou also vpon thy left side, and lay the iniquitie of the b house of Israel vpon it: according to the number of the dayes that thou shalt sleepe vpon it, thou shalt beare their iniquitie.

5 For I haue layd vpon thee the yeeres of their iniquity, according to the number of the dayes, euen three hundreth and ninetie dayes: so shalt thou beare the iniquitie of the house of Israel.

6 And when thou hast accomplished them, sleepe againe vpon thy c right side, and thou shalt beare the iniquitie of the house of Iudah fourtie dayes: I haue appointed thee a day for a yeere, euen a day for a yeere.

7 Therefore thou shalt direct thy face toward the siege of Ierusalem, and thine d arme shalbe vncouered, and thou shalt prophesie against it.

8 And behold, I will lay e bands vpon thee, and thou shalt not turne thee from one side to another, til thou hast ended the daies of thy siege.

9 Thou shalt also take vnto thee wheat, and barley, and beanes, and lentils, and millet, and ‖ fitches, and put them in one vessell, and make thee bread thereof according to the number of the dayes, that thou shalt sleepe vpon thy side: euen three hundreth & ninety dayes shalt thou eate thereof.

10 And the meate, whereof thou shalt eate, shall be by weight, euen f twentie shekels a day: and from time to time shalt thou eate thereof.

11 Thou shalt drinke also water by measure, euen the iust part of an i Hin from time to time shalt thou drinke.

12 And thou shalt eate it as barley cakes, and thou shalt bake it k in the dung that commeth out of man, in their sight.

13 And the Lord said, So shall the children of Israel eat their defiled bread among the Gentiles whither I will cast them.

14 Then sayd I, Ah, Lord God, behold, my soule hath not bene polluted: for from my youth vp, euen vnto this houre, I haue not eaten of a thing dead, or torne in pieces, neither came there any l vncleane flesh in my mouth.

15 Then he sayd vnto me, Loe, I haue giuen thee bullocks m dung for mans dung, and thou shalt prepare thy bread therewith.

16 Moreouer, he sayd vnto mee, Sonne of man, beholde, I will breake n the staffe of bread in Ierusalem, and they shall eate bread by weight, and with care, and they shall drinke water by measure, and with astonishment.

17 Because that bread and water shall faile, they shalbe astonied one with another, and shall consume away for their iniquitie.

13 Thus shall mine anger bee accomplished, and I will cause my wrath to cease in them, and I will be s comforted: and they shall know, that I the Lord haue spoken it in my zeale, when I haue accomplished my wrath in them.

14 Moreouer, I will make thee waste, and abhorred among the nations, that are round about thee, and in the sight of all that passe by.

15 So shalt thou be a reproch and shame, a chastisement & an astonishment vnto the nations, that are round about thee, when I shall execute iudgements in thee, in anger and in wrath, and in sharpe rebukes: I the Lord haue spoken it.

1 He sheweth that Ierusalem shall be destroyed for their idolatrie. 8 He prophesieth the repentance of the remnant of the people, and their deliuerance.

AGaine the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face towards the * mountaines of Israel, & prophesie against them,

3 And say, Yee mountaines of Israel, heare the word of the Lord God: thus saith the Lord God to the a mountains and to the hilles, to the riuers and to the valleys, Behold, I, euen I will bring a sword vpon you, and I will destroy your hie places:

4 And your altars shall be desolate, and your images of the b sunne shall be broken: and I will cast downe your slaine men before your idoles.

5 And I will lay the dead carkeises of the children of Israel before their c idoles, and I will scatter your bones round about your altars.

6 In all your dwelling places the cities shall be desolate, and the high places shall be layd waste, so that your altars shall be made waste and desolate, and your idoles shall be broken, and cease, and your images of the sunne shall be cut in pieces, and your workes shall be abolished.

7 And the slaine shall fall in the mids of you, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

8 Yet will I leaue a remnant, d that you may haue some that shall escape the sword among the nations, when you shall be scatred thorow the countreys.

9 And they that escape of you shall remember me among the nations, where they shall bee in captiuitie, because I am grieued for their whorish hearts, which haue departed from me, and for their eyes, which haue gone a whoring after their idoles, and they * shalbe displeased in themselues for the euils which they haue committed in all their abominations.

10 And they shall know that I am the Lord, and that I haue not sayd in vaine, that I would doe this euill vnto them.

11 Thus saith the Lord God, f Smite with thine hand, and stretch forth with thy foot, and say, Alas, for all the wicked abominations of the house of Israel: for they shall fall by the sword, by the famine, and by the pestilence.

12 He that is farre off, shall die of the pestilence, and he that is neere, shall fall by the sword, and hee that remaineth and is besieged, shall die by the famine: thus will I accomplish my wrath vpon them.

13 Then g yee shall know, that I am the Lord, when their slaine men shall be among their idoles round about their altars, vpon euery hie hill in all the toppes of the mountaines, and vnder euery greene tree, and vnder euery thicke oke, which is the place where they did offer sweet sauour to all their idoles.

14 So will I * stretch mine hand vpon them, and make the land waste, and desolate h from the wildernesse vnto Diblath in all their habitations, and they shall know, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. VII.

The ende of all the land of Israel shall suddenly come.

MOreouer the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

a He speaketh to all the places where the Israelites accustomed to commit their idolatries, threatning them destruction.

b Reade 2. King. 23. 11.

c In contempt of their power and force, which shall neither be able to deliuer you nor themselues, 2. King. 23. 20.

d He sheweth that in all dangers God will preserue a few, which shall be as the seede of his Church, and call vpon his Name.

e They shall be ashamed to see, that their hope in idoles was but vaine, and so shal repent.

f By these signes he would that the Prophet should signifie the great destruction to come.

g That is, all nations, when ye shall see my iudgements. Chap. 5. 14.

h Some reade, more desolate then the wildernesse of Diblath, which was in Syria, and bordered vpon Israel, or from the wildernesse, which was South vnto Diblath, which was North: meaning the whole countrey.

2 Also

2 Also thou sonne of man, thus sayth the Lord God, An end is come vnto the land of Israel: the ende is come vpon the foure corners of the land.

3 Now is the end come vpon thee, and I will send my wrath vpon thee, and will iudge thee according to thy wayes, and will lay vpon thee all a thine abominations.

4 Neither shall mine eye spare thee, neither will I haue pitie: but I will lay thy wayes vpon thee: and thine abomination shalbe in the mids of thee, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

5 Thus sayth the Lord God, ‖ Beholde, one euill, euen one euill is come.

6 An ende is come, the end is come, it b watched for thee: behold, it is come.

7 The c morning is come vnto thee, that dwellest in the land: the time is come, the day of trouble is neere, & not the d sounding againe of the mountaines.

8 Nowe I will shortly powre out my wrath vpon thee, and fulfill mine anger vpon thee: I will iudge thee according to thy wayes, and will lay vpon thee all thine abominations.

9 Neither shall mine eye spare thee, neither will I haue pitie, but I will lay vpon thee according to thy wayes, and thine abominations shall be in the mids of thee, and ye shall know that I am the Lord that smiteth.

10 Behold, the day, behold, it is come: the morning is gone forth, the e rod flourisheth: f pride hath budded:

11 g Cruelty is risen vp into a rod of wickednesse: none of them shall remaine, nor of their riches, nor of any of theirs, neither shall there be h lamentation for them.

12 The time is come, the day draweth neere: let not the buyer i reioyce, nor let him that selleth, k mourne: for the wrath is vpon all the multitude thereof.

13 For he that selleth, shall not l returne to that which is sold, although they were yet aliue: for the m vision was vnto all the multitude thereof, & they returned not, n neither doeth any encourage himselfe in the punishment of his life.

14 o They haue blowen the trumpet, and prepared all, but none goeth to the battell: for my wrath is vpon all the multitude thereof.

15 The sword is without, and the pestilence and the famine within: hee that is in the field, shal die with the sword, and he that is in the citie, famine and pestilence shall deuoure him.

16 But they that flee away from them, shall escape, and shall be in the mountaines, like the doues of the valleys: all they shall mourne, euery one for his iniquitie.

17 * All hands shall bee weake, and all knees shall fall away as water.

18 * They shall also gird themselues with sackecloth, and feare shall couer them, and shame shall be vpon all faces, and baldnesse vpon their heads.

19 They shal cast their siluer in p streets, and their gold shall bee cast farre off: their * siluer and their gold cannot deliuer them in the day of the wrath of the Lord: they shal not satisfie their soules, neither fil their bowels: for this ruine is for their iniquitie.

20 He hath also set the beauty of his q ornament in maiestie: but they made images of their abominations, and of their idoles therein: therefore haue I set it farre from them.

21 And I will giue it into the handes of the r strangers to be spoiled, and to the wicked of the earth to be robbed, and they shall pollute it.

22 My face will I turne also from them, and they shall pollute my s secret place: for the destroyers shall enter into it, & defile it.

23 ¶ Make a t chaine: for the land is full of the u iudgement of blood, and the citie is full of cruelty.

24 Wherefore I will bring the most wicked of the heathen, & they shall possesse their houses: I will also make the pompe of the mighty to cease, and their x holy places shall be defiled.

25 When destruction commeth, they shal seeke peace, and shall not haue it.

26 Calamitie shall come vpon calamitie, and rumour shalbe vpon rumour: then shall they seeke a vision of the Prophet: but the Law shal perish from the Priest, and counsel from the Ancient.

27 The king shal mourne, and the prince shalbe clothed with desolation, & the handes of the people in the land shalbe troubled: I will do vnto them according to their wayes, and according to their iudgements will I iudge them, and they shall knowe that I am the Lord.

1 An appearance of the similitude of God. 3 Ezekiel is brought to Ierusalem in the Spirit. 6 The Lorde sheweth the Prophet the idolatries of the house of Israel.

AND in the a first yere, in the b first moneth, & in the fift day of the moneth, as I sate in mine house, and the Elders of Iudah sate before mee, the hand of the Lord God fell there vpon mee.

2 Then I beheld, and lo, there was a likenesse, as the appearance of c fire to looke to, from his loynes downeward, and from his loynes vpward, as the appearance of brightnesse, and like vnto amber.

3 And he stretched out the likenesse of an hand, & tooke me by an hairie locke of mine head, and the Spirit lift mee vp betweene the earth, and the heauen, and brought mee * by a Diuine d vision to Ierusalem, into the entrie of the inner e gate that lieth toward the North, where remained the idole of f indignation: which prouoked indignation.

4 And beholde, the glory of the God of Israel was there according to the vision, that I sawe in the field.

5 Then

a I will punish thee as thou hast deserued for thine idolatrie.

‖ Or, behold, euill commeth after euill.

e Which was the porch or ‖ court, where the people assembled.

f So called, because it prouoked Gods indignatio, which was the idole of Baal.

g Read cha. 3 22

5 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, lift vp thine eyes nowe toward the North. So I lift vp mine eyes toward the North, and beholde, Northward at the gate of the h altar, this idole of indignation was in the entrie.

h That is, in the court where the people had made an altar to Baal.

6 He sayd furthermore vnto me, Sonne of man, seest thou not what they do? euen the great abominations that the house of Israel committeth here to cause me to depart from i my Sanctuarie? but yet turne thee & thou shalt see greater abominations.

i For God will not be where idoles are,

7 And he caused me to enter at the gate of the court: and when I looked, beholde, an hole was in the wall.

8 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, dig now in the wall. And when I had digged in the wall, beholde, there was a doore.

9 And he sayd vnto me, Goe in, and beholde the wicked abominations that they doe here.

10 So I went in, and saw, and beholde, there was euery similitude of creeping things and k abominable beastes, and all the idoles of the house of Israel painted vpon the wall round about.

k Which were forbidden in the Law, Leuit. 11.4

11 And there stoode before them seuentie l men of the Ancients of the house of Israel, and in the mids of them stoode Iaazaniah, the sonne of Shaphan, with euery man his censer in his hand, and the vapour of the incense went vp like m a cloud.

l Thus they that should haue kept all the rest in the feare & true seruice of God, were the ring leaders to all abomination, and by their example pulled others fro God.

m It was in such abundance.

12 Then said he vnto me, Sonne of man, hast thou seene what the Ancients of the house of Israel n doe in the darke, euery one in the chamber of his imagerie? for they say, The Lord seeth vs not, the Lord hath forsaken the earth.

n For besides their common idolatry, they had particular seruice, which they had in secret chambers.

13 Againe he sayd also vnto mee, Turne thee againe, & thou shalt see greater abominations that they doe.

14 And he caused me to enter into the entry of the gate of the Lords house, which was toward the North: and beholde, there sate women mourning for o Tammuz.

o The Iewes write that this was a prophet of the idoles, who after his death was once a yeere mourned for in the night.

15 Then said he vnto me, Hast thou seene this, O sonne of man? Turne thee againe, and thou shalt see greater abominations then these.

16 And he caused me to enter into the inner court of the Lords house, & behold, at the doore of the Temple of the Lord, betweene the porch and the altar were aboue fiue and twentie men with their backes toward the Temple of the Lord, and their faces toward the East, and they worshipped the sunne toward the East.

17 Then he said vnto me, Hast thou seene this, O sonne of man? Is it a small thing to the house of Iudah to commit these abominations which they doe here? for they haue filled the land with cruelty, and haue returned to prouoke me: and lo, they haue cast out p stinke before their noses.

CHAP. IX.

1 The destruction of the city. 4 They that shall be saued, are marked. 8 A complaint of the Prophet for the destruction of the people.

HE cryed also with a loud voyce in mine eares, saying, The visitations of a the citie draw neere, and euery man hath a weapon in his hand to destroy it.

a The time to take vengeance.

2 And beholde, sixe b men came by the way of the hie gate, which lieth toward the c North, and euery man a weapon in his hand to destroy it: and one man among them was clothed with linnen, with a writers d inkehorne by his side, and they went in and stood beside the braken altar.

b Which were Angels in the similitude of men.

c Signifying, that the Babylonians should come from the North to destroy the citie and the Temple.

3 And the glory of the God of Israel was e gone vp from the Cherub, whereupon he was, and stoode on the ‖ doore of the house, and he called to the man clothed with linnen, which had the writers inkehorne by his side.

d To marke them that should be saued.

e Which declared, that he was not bound thereunto, neither would remaine any longer, then there was hope that they would returne from their wickednes, and worship him aright.

‖ Or, threshold.

4 And the Lorde sayde vnto him, Goe through the mids of the citie, euen through the mids of Ierusalem, and set a marke vpon the foreheads of them that f mourne, and crie for all the abominations that be done in the mids thereof.

‖ Or, marke with Thau.

f He sheweth what is y maner of Gods childre, whom he marketh to saluation: to wit, to mourne & cry out against the wickednesse, which they see committed against Gods glory.

5 And to the other he said, that I might heare, Go ye after him through the citie, and smite: let your eye spare none, neither haue pitie.

6 Destroy vtterly the old, and the yong, and the maids, and the children, and the women, but touch no man vpon whom is the g marke, and begin at my Sanctuary. Then they began at the h Ancient men, which were before the house.

g Thus in all his plagues the Lord preserueth his small number, which he marketh, as Exo. 12. 22. reue. 7. 3. but the chiefe marke is the Spirit of adoption, wherwith the heart is sealed vp to life euerlasting.

7 And he said vnto them, Defile y house and fill the courts with the slaine, then goe forth: and they went out, and slew them in the citie.

8 Now when they had slaine them, and I had escaped, I fell downe vpon my face, and cryed, saying, i Ah Lord God, wilt thou destroy all the residue of Israel, in powring out thy wrath vpon Ierusalem?

9 Then sayd he vnto me, The iniquitie of the house of Israel, and Iudah is exceeding great, so that the land is full k of blood, and the citie full of corrupt iudgement: for they say, The Lord hath forsaken the earth, and the Lord seeth vs not.

10 As touching me also, mine eye shall not spare them, neither will I haue pitie, but will recompense their wayes vpon their heads.

11 And behold, the man clothed with linnen which had the inkehorne by his side, made report, and said, Lord, I haue done as thou hast commanded me.

h Which were the chiefe occasions of all these euils, as Cha. 8.11.

i This declareth, that the seruants of God haue a compassion, when they see his iudgements executed.

AND as I looked, beholde, in the * firmament that was aboue the head of the * Cherubims, there appeared vpon them like vnto the ſimilitude of a throne, as it were a Saphir ſtone.

2 And hee ſpake vnto the man clothed with linnen, and ſayd, Goe in betweene the wheeles, euen vnder the Cherub, & fill thine hands with coales of fire from betweene the Cherubims, and ſcatter them ouer * the citie. And he went in in my ſight.

3 Now the Cherubims ſtood vpon the right ſide of the houſe, when the man went in, and the cloude filled the inner Court.

4 Then the glory of the Lord * went vp from the Cherub, and ſtoode ouer the doore of the houſe, and the houſe was filled with the cloude, and the court was filled with the brightneſſe of the Lords glory.

5 And the * ſound of * Cherubims wings was heard into the vtter Court, as * voyce of the Almightie God, when he ſpeaketh.

6 And when hee had commaunded the man clothed with linnen, ſaying, Take fire from betweene the wheeles, and from betweene the Cherubims, then he went in and ſtood beſide the wheele.

7 And one Cherub ſtretched forth his hand from betweene the Cherubims vnto the fire, that was betweene the Cherubims, and tooke thereof, and put it into the hands of him that was clothed with linnen: who tooke it and went out.

8 And there appeared in the Cherubims, the likeneſſe of a mans hand vnder their wings.

9 And when I looked vp, behold, foure wheeles were beſide the Cherubims, one wheele by one Cherub, and another wheele by another Cherub, and the appearance of the wheeles was as the coulour of a * Chryſolite ſtone.

10 And their appearance (for they were all foure of one faſhion) was as if one wheele had bene in another wheele.

11 When they went forth, they went vpon their foure ſides, and they returned not as they went: but to the place whither the firſt went, they went after it, and they * turned not as they went.

12 And their whole body, and their * rings, and the wheeles were full of eyes round about, euen in the ſame foure wheeles.

13 And the Cherub cried to theſe wheeles in mine hearing, ſaying, O wheele.

14 And euery beaſt had foure faces: the firſt face was the face of a Cherub, and the ſecond face was the face of a man, and the third the face of a lyon, and the fourth the face of an Eagle.

Chap. 1. 5.

15 And the Cherubims were lifted vp: * this is the beaſt that I ſawe at the riuer Chebar.

16 And when the Cherubims went, the wheeles went by them: and when the Cherubims lift vp their wings to mount vp from the earth, the ſame wheeles alſo turned not from beſide them.

17 When the Cherubims ſtood, they ſtood: and when they were lifted vp, they lifted themſelues vp alſo: for the ſ ſpirit of the beaſt was in them.

18 * Then the glory of the Lord departed from aboue the doore of the houſe, and ſtood vpon the Cherubims.

19 And the Cherubims lift vp their wings, and mounted vp from the earth in my ſight: when they went out, the wheeles alſo were beſides them: and euery one ſtood at the entrie of the gate of the Lords houſe, at the Eaſt ſide, and the glory of the God of Iſrael was vpon them on high.

20 * This is the beaſt that I ſawe vnder the God of Iſrael by the riuer Chebar, and I knewe that they were the Cherubims.

21 Euery one had foure faces, and euery one foure wings, and the likeneſſe of mans hands was vnder their wings.

22 And the likeneſſe of their faces was the ſelfe ſame faces, which I ſawe by the riuer Chebar, and the appearance of the Cherubims was the ſelfe ſame, & they went euery one ſtraight forward.

CHAP. XI.

1 Who they were that ſeduced the people of Iſrael. 5 Againſt the ſe he propheſieth, ſhewing the how they ſhalbe diſperſed abroad. 19 The renewing of the heart cometh of God. 21 He threatneth them that leane vnto their owne counſels.

MOreouer, the Spirit lift mee vp, and brought mee to the Eaſt gate of the Lords houſe, which lieth Eaſtward, and beholde, at the entry of the gate were fiue and twenty men: among whom I ſawe Iaazaniah the ſonne of Azur, and Pelatiah the ſonne of Benaiah, the princes of the people.

2 Then ſaid he vnto me, Sonne of man, theſe are the men that imagine miſchiefe, and deuiſe wicked counſell in this citie.

3 For they ſay, * It is not neere, let vs build houſes: this citie is the * caldron, and we be the fleſh.

4 Therefore propheſie againſt them, ſon of man, propheſie.

5 And the Spirit of the Lorde fell vpon me, and ſaid vnto me, Speake, Thus ſaith the Lord, O ye houſe of Iſrael, this haue ye ſayde, and I know that which riſeth vp of your minds.

6 Many haue ye murthered in this city, and yee haue filled the ſtreetes thereof with the ſlaine.

7 Therefore thus ſayth the Lorde God, They that ye haue ſlaine, and haue layed in the middes of it, they are * the fleſh, and this citie is the caldron, but I will bring you forth of the midſt of it.

8 Yee haue feared the ſword, and I will bring a ſword vpon you, ſaith the Lord God.

9 And I will bring you out of the midſt thereof, and deliuer you into the * hands of ſtrangers, and will execute iudgements among you.

10 Ye ſhall fall by the ſword, and I will iudge you in the border of * Iſrael, and yee ſhall know that I am the Lord.

11 This city ſhall not bee your caldron, neither ſhal ye be the fleſh in the midſt thereof but I will iudge you in the border of Iſrael.

c Contrary to their vaine confidence he ſheweth in what ſenſe this citie is the caldron: that is, becauſe of the dead bodies that haue bene murthered therein, and ſo lie as fleſh in the caldron.

d That is, of the Caldeans.

e That is, in Riblah Reade 2. King 25. 6.

12 And ye shal know that I am the Lord: for yee haue not walked in my statutes, neither executed my iudgemets, but haue done after the maners of the heathen, that are round about you.

13 ¶ And when I prophesied, Pelatiah the sonne of [f] Benaiah died: then fell I downe vpon my face, and cryed with a lond voyce, and sayde, Ah Lord God, wilt thou then vtterly destroy all the remnant of Israel?

14 Againe the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

15 Sonne of man, thy [g] brethren, euen thy brethren, the men of thy kinred, and all the house of Israel, wholy are they vnto whom the inhabitants of Ierusalem haue sayde, Depart ye farre from the Lord: for the land is giuen vs in possession.

16 Therefore say, Thus saith the Lord God, Although I haue cast them farre off among the heathen, and although I haue scattered them among the countreys, yet will I be to them as a litle [h] Sanctuarie in the countreyes were they shall come.

17 Therefore say, Thus sayth the Lord God, I will gather you againe from the people, and assemble you out of the countreyes where ye haue bene scattered, and I wil giue you the land of Israel.

18 And they shall come thither, and they shall take away all the idoles thereof, and all the idoles thereof from thence.

19 *And will giue them one heart, and I wil put a new spirit within their bowels: and I will take the [i] stonie heart out of their bodies, and I will giue them an heart of flesh, 20 That they may walke in my statutes, and keepe my iudgements, & execute them: and they shall be my people, and I will bee their God.

21 But vpon them, whose heart is toward their idoles, & whose affection goeth after their abominations, I will lay their way vpon their owne heads, sayth the Lord God.

22 ¶ Then did the Cherubims lift vp their wings, and the wheeles beside them, and the glory of the God of Israel was vpon them on hie.

23 And the glory of the Lorde went vp from the mids of the citie, and stood vpon the mountaine which is toward the East side of the citie.

24 Afterward the Spirit tooke mee vp, and brought me in a vision by the Spirit of God into Caldea to them that were led away captiues: so the vision that I had seene, went vp from me.

25 Then I declared vnto them that were [k] led away captiues, all the things that the Lord had shewed me.

CHAP. XII.

1 The parable of the captiuitie. 18 Another parable whereby the destresse of hunger and thirst is signified.

THe word of the Lord also came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, thou dwellest in ye mids of a rebellious house, which haue eyes to see, and see [a] not: they haue eares to heare, and heare not: for they are a rebellious house.

3 Therefore thou sonne of man, & prepare thy stuffe to goe into captiuitie, and go forth by day in their sight: and thou shalt passe fro thy place to another place in their sight, if it be possible that they may consider it: for they are a rebellious house.

4 Then shalt thou bring forth thy stuffe by day in their sight as the stuffe of him that goeth into captiuitie: and thou shalt go forth at euen in their sight, as they that goe forth into captiuitie.

5 Digge thou through the wall in their sight, and carrie out thereby.

6 In their sight shalt thou beare it vpon thy shoulders, & cary it forth in the darke: thou shalt couer thy face that thou see not the earth: for I haue set thee as a [b] signe vnto the house of Israel.

7 And as I was comanded, so I brought forth my stuffe by day, as the stuffe of one that goeth into captiuitie: and by night I digged through the wall with mine hand, and brought it forth in the darke, and I bare it vpon my shoulder in their sight.

8 And in the morning came the word of the Lord vnto me, saying,

9 Sonne of man, hath not the house of Israel, the rebellious house, sayd vnto thee, What [c] doest thou?

10 But say thou vnto them, Thus sayth the Lord God, This ‖ burden concerneth the chiefe in Ierusalem, and all the house of Israel, that are among them.

11 Say, I am your signe: like as I haue done, so shall it be done vnto them, they shall goe into bondage and captiuitie.

12 And the chiefest that is among them, shall beare vpon his shoulder in the darke and shall goe forth: and shall dig through the wall, to carie out thereby: he shall couer his face, that hee see not the ground with his eyes.

13 My net also will I spread vpon [d] him, and he shall be taken in my net, and I will bring him to Babel to the land of the Caldeans, yet shall he not see it, though he shall die there.

14 And I will scatter toward euery wind all that are about him to helpe him, and all his garisons, and I will draw out the sword after them.

15 And they shall knowe that I am the Lord, when I shall scatter them among the nations, and disperse them in the countreys.

16 But I will leaue a [e] litle number of them from the sword, from the famine, and from the pestilence, that they may declare all their abominations among the heathen, where they come, and they shall know, that I am the Lord.

17 ¶ Moreouer, the word of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

18 Sonne of man, eate thy bread with trembling, and drinke thy water with trouble, and with carefulnesse,

19 And say vnto the people of the lande, Thus sayeth the Lorde God of the inhabitants of Ierusalem, and of the lande of Israel, They shall eate their bread with care-f It seemeth that this noble man died of some terrible death, and therefore the Prophet feared some strange iudgement of God toward the rest of ỹ people.

g They that remained stil at Ierusalem, thus reproched them that were gone into captiuitie, as though they were cast off, and forsaken of God.

h They shall be yet a litle church shewing that the Lord will euer haue some to call vpon his Name, whom hee will preserue and restore, though they be for a time afflicted.

carefulnesse, and drinke their water with desolation: for the land shall be desolate from her aboundance, because of the crueltie of them that dwell therein.

20 And the cities that are inhabited shall be left voyde, and the land shall be desolate, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

21 ¶ And the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

22 Sonne of man, what is that prouerbe that you haue in the land of Israel, saying, The dayes [f] are prolonged, and all visions [g] faile?

23 Tell them therefore, Thus sayth the Lord God, I will make this prouerbe to cease, and they shall no more vse it as a prouerbe in Israel: but say vnto them, The dayes are at hand, and the effect of euery vision.

24 For no vision shall bee any more in vaine, neither shall there be any flattering diuination within the house of Israel.

25 For I am the Lord: I will speake, and that thing that I shall speake, shall come to passe: it shall be no more prolonged: for in your dayes, O rebellious house, will I say the thing, & will performe it, saith the Lord God.

26 Againe the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

27 Sonne of man, beholde, they of the house of Israel say, The vision that he seeth is for many dayes to come, and he prophesieth of the times that are farre off.

28 Therefore say vnto them, Thus sayth the Lord God, All my words shall no longer bee delayed, but that thing which I haue spoken, shall be done, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XIII.

2 The word of the Lord against false prophets, which teach the people the counsels of their owne hearts.

AND the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, prophesie against the prophets of [a] Israel, that prophesie, and say thou vnto them, that prophesie out of their [a] owne hearts, Heare the word of the Lord.

3 Thus sayth the Lord God, Woe vnto the foolish prophets that follow their owne spirit, and haue seene nothing.

4 O Israel, thy Prophets are like the foxes [b] in the waste places.

5 [c] Ye haue not risen vp in the gaps, neither made vp the hedge for the house of Israel, to stand in the battell in the day of the Lord.

6 They haue seene vanitie, and lying diuination, saying, The Lord saith it, and the Lord hath not sent them: and they haue made others to hope that they would confirme the word of their prophesie.

7 Haue yee not seene a vaine vision? and haue yee not spoken a lying diuination? [d] yee say, The Lord sayth it albeit I haue not spoken.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Because yee haue spoken vanitie, and haue seene lies, therfore behold, I am against you, saith the Lord God.

9 And mine hand shall be vpon the prophets that see vanitie, and diuine lies: they shall not be in the assembly of my people, neither shall they be written in the [e] writing of the house of Israel, neither shall they enter into the land of Israel: & ye shall know that I am the Lord God.

10 And therefore, because they haue deceiued my people, saying, Peace, and there was no peace: and one built vp a wall, and behold, the others daubed it with vntempered morter, 11 Say vnto them which daube it with vntempered morter, that it shal fall: for there shall come a great showre, and I will send haile stones, which shall cause it to fall, and a stormie winde shall breake it.

12 Lo, when the wall is fallen, shall it not bee sayde vnto you, Where is the daubing wherewith ye haue daubed it?

13 Therefore thus sayeth the Lord God, I will cause a stormie winde to breake forth in my wrath, and a great showre shall bee in mine anger, and haile stones in mine indignation to consume it.

14 So I will destroy the wall that yee haue daubed with vntempered morter, and bring it downe to the ground so that y foundation thereof shalbe discouered, and it shall fall, and ye shall be consumed in the middes thereof, & ye shall know that I am the Lord.

15 Thus will I accomplish my wrath vpon the wall, and vpon them that haue daubed it with [h] vntempered morter, and will say vnto you, The wall is no more, neither the daubers thereof, 16 To wit, the Prophets of Israel, which prophesie vpon Ierusalem, and see visions of peace for it, and there is no peace, saith the Lord God.

17 Likewise thou sonne of man, set thy face against the daughters of thy people, which prophesie out of their owne heart: and prophesie thou against them, and say,

18 Thus saith the Lord God, Woe vnto y women that sow [i] pillowes vnder all armeholes, and make vailes vpon the head of euery one that standeth vp, to hunt soules: will yee hunt the soules of my people, and will ye giue life to the soules that come vnto you?

19 And will yee pollute mee among my people for handfuls of [k] barley, and for pieces of bread to slay the soules of them that should not die, and [l] to giue life to the soules that should not liue, in lying to my people, that heare your lies?

20 Wherefore thus sayth the Lord God, Beholde, I will haue to doe with your pillowes, wherewith yee hunt the [m] soules to make them to flie, and will teare them from your armes, and will let the soules goe, euen the soules, that ye hunt to make them to flie.

21 Your vailes also will I teare, and deliuer my people out of your hand, and they shall be no more in your hands to be hunted, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

22 Because with your lies yee haue made the heart of the [n] righteous sad, whome I g Whereas the true Prophets prophesied the destruction of the citie to bring the people to repentance, the false prophets spake the contrary, and flattered them in their vanities, so that what one false prophet said, (which is here called the building of the wall) another false prophet would affirme, though he had neither occasion nor good ground to beare him.

h Whereby is meant whatsoeuer man of himselfe setteth forth vnder the authoritie of Gods word.

4 The Lord sendeth false prophets for the ingratitude of the people. 22 He reserueth a small portion for his Church.

THen came certaine of the Elders of Israel vnto me, and a sate before me.

2 And the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

3 Sonne of man, these men haue set vp their idoles in their b heart, and put the stumbling blocke of their iniquitie before their face: should I, being required, answere them?

4 Therefore speake vnto them, and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Euery man of the house of Israel that setteth vp his idoles in his heart, & putteth the stumbling blocke of his iniquitie before his face, and commeth to the c Prophet, I the Lord will answere him that commeth, according to the multitude d of his idoles:

5 That e I may take the house of Israel in their owne heart, because they are all departed from me through their idoles.

6 Therefore say vnto the house of Israel, Thus saieth the Lord God, Returne, and withdraw your selues, and turne your faces from your idoles, and turne your faces from all your abominations.

7 For euery one of the house of Israel, or of the stranger that sojourneth in Israel, which departeth from me, and setteth vp his idoles in his heart, and putteth the stumbling blocke of his iniquitie before his face, and commeth to a Prophet, for to inquire of him for me: I the Lord will answere him f for my selfe.

8 And I will set my face against that man, and will make him an example & prouerbe, and I will cut him off from the midst of my people, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

9 And if the prophet be g deceiued, when he hath spoken a thing, I the Lord haue deceiued that prophet, and I will stretch out mine hand vpon him, and will destroy him from the midst of my people Israel.

10 And they shal beare their punishment: the punishment of the prophet shall be euen as the punishment of him that asketh, 11 That the house of h Israel may go no more astray fro me, neither be polluted any more with all their transgressions, but that they may be my people, and I may be their God, saith the Lord God.

12 ¶ The word of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

13 Sonne of man, when the land sinneth against me by committing a trespasse, then will I stretch out mine hand vpon it, i and will breake the staffe of the bread thereof, and will send famine vpon it, and I will destroy man and beast forth of it.

14 Though these three men, k Noah, Daniel, and Iob were among them, they should deliuer but their owne soules by their l righteousnesse, saith the Lord God.

15 If I bring noysome beastes into the land, and they spoyle it, so that it be desolate, that no man may passe thorowe, because of beastes, 16 Though these three men were in the midst thereof, As I liue saith the Lord God, they shal saue neither sonnes nor daughters: they onely shall bee deliuered, but the land shall be waste.

17 Or if I bring a sword vpon this land, and say, Sword, goe thorow the land, so that I destroy man and beast out of it, 18 Though these three men were in the middes thereof, As I liue, saith the Lord God, they shall deliuer neither sonnes nor daughters, but they onely shall bee deliuered themselues.

19 Or if I send a pestilence into this land, and powre out my wrath vpon it in blood, to destroy out of it man and beast, 20 And though Noah, Daniel and Iob were in the middes of it, As I liue saith the Lord God, they shall deliuer neither sonne nor daughter: they shall but deliuer their owne soules by their righteousnesse.

21 For thus saith the Lord God, Howe much more when I sende my m foure sore iudgements vpo Ierusalem, euen the sword, and famine, and the noysome beast, and pestilence, to destroy man and beast out of it?

22 Yet behold, therein shalbe left a n remnant of them that shall be carried away both sonnes and daughters: beholde, they shall come forth vnto you, and yee shall see their way, and their enterprises: and yee shall bee comforted, concerning the euill that I haue brought vpon Ierusalem, euen concerning all that I haue brought vpon it.

23 And they shall comfort you, when yee see their way and their enterprises: and yee shall knowe, that I haue not done without cause all that I haue done in it, saith the Lord God.

1 As the unprofitable wood of the vine tree is cast into the fire, so Ierusalem shalbe burnt.

AND the word of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, what commeth of the vine tree aboue all other trees? and of the vine branch, which is among the a trees of the forrest?

3 Shall wood be taken thereof to doe any worke? or will men take a pinne of it to hang any vessell thereon?

4 Behold, it is cast in the fire to be consumed: the fire consumeth both the ends of it, and the middes of it is burnt. Is it meete for any worke?

5 Beholde, when it was whole, it was meete a Bee sheweth the hypocrisie of the Idolaters, who will dissemble to heare the Prophets of God though in their heart they follow nothing lesse then their admonitions, and also howe by one meanes or other, God doth discouer them.

b They are not onely idolaters in heart, but also worship their filthie idoles openly, which leade them in blindnesse, and cause them to stumble, and cast them out of Gods fauour, to that he will not heare them when they call vnto him, reade Iere. 10. 15.

c To inquire of things which the Lord hath appointed to come to passe.

e That is, conuince them by their owne conscience.

g The Prophet declareth that God for mans ingratitude raiseth vp false prophets to seduce them that delight in lies rather then in the trueth of God, & thus he punisheth sinne by sinne, 1 King 22 20, 22. and destroyeth aswell whole prophets as that people. h Thus Gods iudgements against the wicked are admonitions to the godly to cleaue vnto the Lord, and not to defile themselues with like abominations.

CHAP. XVI.

The Prophet declareth the benefits of God toward Ierusalem. 15 Their vnkindnes. 46 He iustifieth the wickednes of other people in comparison of the sinnes of Ierusalem. 49 The cause of the abominations vnto which the Sodomites fell. 60 Mercie is promised to the repentant.

AGaine the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, cause Ierusalem to know her abominations,

3 And say, Thus saith the Lord God vnto Ierusalem, Thine habitation & thy kindred is of the land a of Canaan: thy father was an Amorite, and thy mother an Hittite.

a Thou boastest to be of the seede of Abraham, but thou art degenerate & followest the abominations of the wicked Canaanites, as children doe the maners of their fathers, Isa. 1. 4. and 57 3.

4 And in thy nativitie when thou wast b borne, thy naulil was not cut: thou wast not washed in water to soften thee: thou wast not salted with salt, nor swadled in cloutes.

b When I first brought thee out of Egypt, and planted thee in this land to be my Church.

5 None eye pitied thee to do any of these vnto thee, for to haue compassion vpon thee, but thou wast cast out in the open fielde to the contempt of thy person in the day that thou wast borne.

6 And when I passed by thee, I sawe thee polluted in thine c owne blood, and I said vnto thee, when thou wast in thy blood, Thou shalt liue: euen when thou wast in thy blood, I said vnto thee, Thou shalt liue.

c Being thus in thy filthinesse and forsaken of all men, I tooke thee and gaue thee life: whereby is meant that before God wash his Church, and giue life, there is nothing but filthinesse and death.

7 I haue caused thee to multiplie, as the bud of the field, and thou hast increased and waxen great, and thou hast gotten excellant ornaments: thy breasts are fashioned, thine haire is growen, where as thou wast naked and bare.

8 Now when I passed by thee, and looked vpon thee, behold, thy time was as the time of loue, and I spread my skirts ouer thee, and couered d thy filthinesse: yea, I sware vnto thee, and entred into a couenant with e thee, saith the Lord God, and thou becamest mine.

d These wordes, as blood, pollution, nakednesse, and filthines, are oftentimes repeated, to beate downe their pride, and to cause them to consider what they were before God receiued the to mercy, fauoured them, & couered their shame.

e That thou shouldest be a chast wife vnto me, and that I should maintaine thee & endue thee with all graces.

9 Then washed I thee with f water: yea, I washed away thy blood from thee, and I anointed thee with oyle.

f I sanctified thee with mine holy spirit.

10 I clothed thee also with broydered worke, and shod thee with badgers skinne, and I girded thee about with fine linnen, and I couered thee with silke.

11 I decked thee also with ornaments, and I put bracelets vpon thine handes, and a chaine on thy necke.

12 And I put a frontlet vpon thy face, and eareringes in thine eares, and a beautifull g crowne vpon thine head.

g Hereby hee sheweth how he saued his church, enriched it, and gaue it power and dominion to reigne.

13 Thus wast thou deckt with gold and siluer, and thy rayment was of fine linnen, and silke and broydred worke: thou diddest eate fine floure, and honie and oile, and thou wast very beautifull, and thou diddest grow vp into a kingdome.

14 And thy name was spread among the heathen for thy beauty: for it was perfect through my h beauty which I had set vpon thee, saith the Lord God.

h Or, iewels.

15 Now thou didst i trust in thine owne beauty, and playedst the harlot, because of thy renoume, and hast powred out k thy fornications on euery one that passed by, thy desire was to him.

i There was none idolatrie so vile, wherewith thou didst not pollute thy selfe, k In abusing my gifts, and in putting thy confidence in thine owne wisedome and dignitie, which were the occasions of thine idolatrie.

16 And thou diddest take thy garments, and deckedst thine high places with diuers colours, l and playedst the harlot thereupon: the like things shall not come, neither hath any done so.

l There was none idolatrie so vile, wherewith thou didst not pollute thy selfe, 17 Thou hast also taken thy faire iewels made of my gold and of my siluer, which I had giuen thee, and m madest to thy selfe images of men, and diddest commit whoredome with them, m This declareth how idolaters put their chiefe delight in those things, which please the eyes & outward senses.

18 And tookest thy broydred garments, and coueredst them: and thou hast set mine oile and my perfume before them.

19 My meate also which I gaue thee, as fine floure, oile and honie wherewith I fedde thee, thou hast euen set it before them for a sweet sauour: thus it was, saith the Lord God.

n Thou hast conuerted my vessels and instruments, which I gaue thee to serue me with, to the vse of thine idoles.

20 Moreouer, thou hast taken thy sonnes and thy daughters, whom thou hast borne vnto me, and these hast thou sacrificed vnto them, to o bee deuoured: is this thy whoredome a small matter?

o Meaning, by fire, reade Leuit. 18. 21. 2. King. 23. 10.

21 That thou hast slaine my children, and deliuered them to cause them to passe thorow fire for them?

22 And in all thine abominations and whoredomes, thou hast not remembred the dayes of thy youth, when thou wast naked, and bare, and wast polluted in thy blood.

23 And beside all thy wickednesse, (woe, woe vnto thee, saith the Lord God)

24 Thou hast also built vnto thee an hie place, and hast made thee an hie place in euery street.

25 Thou hast built thine hie place at euery ‖ corner of the way, & hast made thy beauty to be abhorred: thou hast opened thy feet to euery one that passed by, and multiplied thy whoredome.

‖ Or, head.

26 Thou hast also committed fornication with the Egyptians thy neighbours, which haue great members, and hast increased thy whoredome to prouoke me.

p Hee noteth the great iniquity of this people, who first falling from God to seeke helpe at strange nations, did also at length imbrace their idolatrie, thinking thereby to make their amity more strong.

27 Beholde, therefore I did stretch out mine hand ouer thee, and wil diminish thine ordinarie, and deliuer thee vnto the will of them that hate thee, euen to the ‖ daughters of the Philistims, which are ashamed of thy wicked way.

‖ Or, cities.

28 Thou hast played the whore also with the Assyrians, because thou wast insatiable: yea, thou hast played the harlot with them, and yet couldest not be satisfied.

29 Thou hast moreouer multiplied thy fornication from the lande of Canaan vnto Caldea, and yet thou wast not satisfied herewith.

30 Howe weake is thine heart, saith the Lord God, seeing thou doest all these things, euen the worke of a ‖ presumptuous whorish woman?

‖Or, that will beare rule.

31 In that thou buildest thine hie place in the corner of euery way, and makest thine hie place in euery streete, and hast not beene as an harlot q that despiseth a reward, q Meaning, that some harlots contemne small rewards, but no louers gaue a reward to Israel, but they gaue to all others: signifying that the idolaters bestowal their substance which they receiue of God for his glory, to serue their vile abominations.

32 But as a wife that playeth the harlot, and take others for her husband:

33 They gaue gifts to all other whores, but thou giuest gifts vnto all thy louers, and rewardest them, that they may come vnto thee on euery side for thy fornication.

34 And the contrarie is in thee from other women for thy fornications, neither the like fornication shall bee after thee: for in that thou giuest a reward, and no reward be is giuen vnto thee, therefore thou art contrary.

35 Wherefore, O harlot, heare the word of the Lord.

36 Thus saith the Lorde God, Because thy ‖ shame was powred out, and all thy filthinesse discouered through thy fornications with thy louers, and with all the idoles of thine abominations, and by the blood of thy children, which thou diddest offer vnto them,

‖Or, neather parts

37 Beholde, therefore I will gather all r thy louers, with whome thou hast taken pleasure, and all them that thou hast loued, with all them that thou hast hated: I will euen gather them round about against thee, and will discouer thy filthinesse vnto them, that they may see all thy filthinesse.

r Egyptians, Assyrians and Caldeans, whom thou tookest to be thy louers, shalt come and destroy thee, Chap. 23. 9.

38 And I will iudge thee after the maner of them that are s harlots, and of them that shed blood, and will giue thee the blood of wrath and iealousie.

s I will iudge thee to death, as the adulterers and murtherers.

39 I will also giue thee into their hands, and they shall destroy thine hie place, and shall breake downe thine hie places: they shall strip thee also out of thy clothes, and shall take thy faire iewels, and leaue thee naked and bare.

40 They shall also bring vp a companie against thee, and they shall stone thee with stones, and thrust thee through with their swords.

41 And they t shall burne vp thine houses with fire, and execute iudgements vpon thee in the sight of many women: & I will cause thee to cease from playing the harlot, and thou shalt giue no reward any more.

2. King. 25. 9.

42 So will I make my wrath towarde thee to rest, and my u iealousie shall depart from thee, and I will cease and be no more angry.

t I will vtterly destroy thee, and so my iealousie shall cease

43 Because thou hast not remembred the dayes of thy youth, but hast prouoked mee with all these things, beholde, therefore I also haue x brought thy way vpon thine head, saieth the Lorde God: yet hast u I haue punished thy faults, but thou wouldest not repent, not thou had consideration of all thine abominations.

44 Behold, all that vse prouerbes, shall vse this prouerbe against thee, saying, As is the mother, y so is her daughter.

x As were the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and others your predecessours, so are you their successours.

45 Thou art thy mothers daughter, that hath cast off her husband and her children, and thou art the sister of thy z sisters, which forsooke their husbands and their children: your mother is an Hittite, and your father an Amorite, y That is, of Samaria and Sodom.

z That is, her cities.

‖ Or thy sister yonger then thou.

47 Yet hast thou b not walked after their wayes, nor done after their abominations: but as it had beene a very little thing, thou wast corrupted more then they in all thy wayes.

a But done farre worse.

48 As I liue, saith the Lord God, Sodom thy sister hath not done, neither she nor her daughters, as thou hast done and thy daughters.

b He alleageth these foure vices, pride excesse, idlenesse, and contempt of the poore, as foure principall causes of such abomination, wherefore they were so horribly punished, Gen. 19. 24.

49 Behold, this was the iniquitie of thy sister Sodom, c Pride, fulnesse of bread, and abundance of idlenes was in her, and in her daughters: neither did shee strengthen the hand of the poore and needy.

c Which worshipped the calues in Bethel and Dan.

50 But they were hauty, and committed abomination before me: therefore I tooke them away, as pleased me.

51 Neither d hath Samaria committed halfe of thy sinnes, but thou hast exceeded them in thine abominations, and hast e iustified thy sisters in all thine abominations, which thou hast done.

d Thou art so wicked, that in respect of thee, Sodom and Samaria were iust.

e This he speaketh in comparison, saying, that he would restore Ierusalem when Sodom should be restored, that is neuer: and this is meant of the greatest part of the Iewes.

52 Therfore thou which hast iustified thy sisters, beare thine owne shame for thy sins, that thou hast committed more abominable then they which are more righteous the thou art: be thou therefore confounded also, and beare thy shame, seeing that thou hast iustified thy sisters.

f In that thou hast shewed thy selfe worse then they, and yet thoughtest to escape punishment.

53 Therefore I will bring againe * their captiuitie with the captiuity of Sodom, and her daughters, and with the captiuitie of Samaria, and her daughters: euen the captiuitie of thy captiues in the midst of them, g Meaning, that it should neuer come to passe.

54 That thou mayest beare thine owne shame, and mayest be confounded in all that thou hast done, in that thou hast f comforted them.

‡ Ebr. was not a rumour in thy mouth.

55 And thy sister Sodom and her daughters shall returne to their former state: Samaria also and her daughters shall returne to their former state, g when thou and thy daughters shall returne to your former state.

h Thou wouldest not cal her punishment to mind when thou wast aloft, to learne by her example to feare my iudgements.

56 For thy sister Sodome was not heard of ‡ by thy report in the day of thy pride, i That is, till thou wast brought vnder by the Syrians & Philistims, 2. Chro. 28. 19.

57 Before thy wickednesse was h discouered, as in that same time of the reproch of the daughters of Aram, & of all the daughters of the Philistims round about k her which despite thee on all sides.

k Which ioyned with the Syrians, or compassed about Ierusalem.

58 Thou

58 Thou hast borne therefore thy wickednesse, and thine abomination, saith the Lord.

59 For thus saith the Lord God, I might euen deale with thee, as thou hast done, when thou didst despise the [j] oath, in breaking the couenant.

60 Neuertheless, I will [m] remember my couenant made with thee in the dayes of thy youth, and I will confirme vnto thee an euerlasting couenant.

61 Then thou shalt remember thy waies, and bee ashamed, when thou shalt receiue [n] thy sisters, both thy elder and thy yonger, and I will giue them vnto thee for daughters, but not [o] by thy couenant.

62 And I will establish my couenant with thee, and thou shalt knowe that I am the Lord, 63 That thou mayest remember, and bee [p] all amed, and neuer open thy mouth any more: because of thy shame when I am pacified toward thee, for all that thou hast done, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XVII.

The parable of the two Eagles.

AND the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, put forth a parable, and speake a prouerbe vnto the houle of Israel,

3 And say, Thus sayeth the Lord God, The great [a] Eagle with great wings, and long wings, and full of feathers, which had diuers colours, came vnto Lebanon, & tooke the highest branch of the cedar,

4 And brake off the top of his twigge, and caried it into the land of merchants, and set it in a citie of merchants.

5 Her tooke also of the [c] seed of the land, and planted it in a fruitfull ground: he placed it by great waters, and set it as a willow tree.

6 And it budded vp, & was [d] like a spreading vine of [e] low stature, whose branches turned toward it, and the roots thereof were vnder it: so it became a vine, and it brought forth branches, and shot forth buds.

7 There was also [f] another great Eagle with great wings, and many feathers, and behold, this vine did turne her roots toward it, and spread forth her branches toward it, that shee might water it by the trenches of her plantation.

8 It was planted in a good soyle by great [g] waters, that it should bring foorth branches, and beare fruit, and bee an excellent vine.

9 Say thou, Thus sayeth the Lord God, Shall it prosper? Shall [h] he not pull vp the rootes thereof, and destroy the fruit thereof, and cause them to drie? all the leaues of her bud shall wither without great power, or many people, to plucke it vp by the rootes thereof.

10 Behold, it was planted: but shall it prosper? shall it not be dried vp, and wither? when the East wind shall touch it, it shall wither in the trenches where it grew.

11 Moreouer the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

12 Say nowe to this rebellious house, Know yee not what these things meane? tell them, Behold, the King of Babel is come to Ierusalem, and hath taken [k] the king thereof, and the princes thereof, and led them with him to Babel,

13 And hath taken one of the Kings seed, and made a couenant with him, and hath taken an [l] oath of him: hee hath also taken the princes of the land, 14 That the kingdome might be in subiection, and not lift it selfe vp, but keepe their couenant, and stand to it.

15 But hee rebelled against him and sent his ambassadours into Egypt, that they might giue him horses, and much people: shal he prosper? shal he escape, that doth such things? or shall he breake the couenant, and be deliuered?

16 As I liue, saith the Lord God, he shall die in the midst of Babel, in the place of the King, that had made him King, whose oath hee despised, and whose couenant made with him, he brake.

17 Neither shall Pharaoh with his mightie hoste, and great multitude of people, maintaine him in the war, when they haue cast vp mounts, and builded ramparts to destroy many persons.

18 For he hath despised the oath and broken the couenant: (yet lo, he had giuen [m] his hand) because he hath done all these things, he shall not escape.

19 Therefore thus sayth the Lord God, As I liue, I will surely bring mine oath that hee hath despised, and my couenant that hee hath broken, vpon his owne head.

20 [n] And I will spread my net vpon him, and hee shall bee taken in my net, and I wil bring him to Babel, & will enter into iudgement with him there for his trespasse that he hath committed against me.

21 And all that flee from him with all his hoste, shall fall by the sword, and they that remaine, shall bee scattered toward all the windes: and yee shall know that I the Lord haue spoken it.

22 Thus sayth the Lord God, I will also take off the top [o] of this high cedar, and will set it, and cut off the [p] top of the tender plant thereof, and I will plant it vpon an high mountaine and great.

23 Euen in the high mountaine of Israel will I plant it: & it shall bring forth boughs and beare fruit, and bee an excellent cedar, and vnder it shall remaine all birdes, and euery [q] foule shall dwell in the shadow of the branches thereof.

24 And all the [q] trees of the fielde shall know that I the Lord haue brought downe the hie tree, and exalted the low tree: that I haue dried vp the greene tree, and made the drie tree to flourish: I the Lord haue spoken it, and haue done it.

i By this drie winde, he meaneth the Babylonians.

k That is, Iechoniah, 2. King. 24. 15.

l For his subiection and obedience.

m Because hee tooke the Name of God in vaine, and brake his oth which he had confirmed by giuing his hand, therefore the Prophet declareth that God would not suffer such periurie and infidelitie to escape punishment. Chap. 12. 13. and 32. 3.

n This promise is made to the Church which shalbe as a small remnant, and as the top of a tree.

o I will trimme it and dresse it.

p Both the Iewes and Gentiles shal be gathered into it.

q All the world shall know that I haue pluckt downe the proud enemies, and set vp my Church which was low and contemned.

a That is, Nebuchad-nezzar, who hath great power, riches, & many countreys vnder him, shall come to Ierusalem, and take away Ieconiah the king, as verse 12.

b Meaning, to Babylon.

c That is, Zedekiah, who was of the kings blood, and was left at Ierusalem, and made king in stead of Ieconiah, 2. King. 24. 17 Iere 37. 1.

d This was Zedekiahs kingdome.

e That it might not haue power to rebell against Babylon, as verse 14.

f Meaning, the king of Egypt, of whom Zedekiah sought succour against Nebuchad-nezzar.

g They thought to be moistened by the waters of Nilus.

h Shall not Nebuchad-nezzar destroy it?

CHAP. XVIII.

1 He sheweth that euery man shal beare his owne sinne. 21 To him that amendeth, saluation promised. 24 Death is prophecied to the righteous, which turneth backe from the right way.

THe word of the Lord came vnto mee againe, saying,

2 What meane yee that yee speake this prouerbe, concerning the land of Israel saying, a The fathers haue eaten sowre grapes, and the childrens teeth are set on edge?

3 As I liue, saith the Lord God, ye shall vse this prouerbe no more in Israel.

4 Behold, all soules are mine; both the soule of the father, and also the soule of the sonne are mine: the soule that sinneth, it shal die.

5 But if a man bee iust, and doe that which is lawfull and right,

6 And hath not eaten b vpon the mountaines, neither hath lift vp his eyes to the idoles of the house of Israel, neither hath defiled his neighbours wife, neither hath † lien with a * menstruous woman,

7 Neither hath oppressed any, but hath restored the pledge to his debtour: hee hath spoyled none by violence, * but hath giuen his bread to the hungrie, and hath couered the naked with a garment,

8 And hath not giuen foorth * vpon vsurie, neither hath taken any increase, but hath withdrawen his hand from iniquitie, and hath executed true iudgement betweene man and man,

9 And hath walked in my statutes, and hath kept my iudgements to deale truely, he is iust, he shall surely liue, saith the Lord God.

10 ¶ If he beget a sonne, that is ‖ a theefe, or a shedder of blood, if hee doe any of these things,

11 Though he do not all these things, but either hath eaten vpon the mountaines, or defiled his neighbours wife,

12 Or hath oppressed the poore and needie, or hath spoiled by violence, or hath not restored the pledge, or hath lift vp his eyes vnto the idoles, or hath committed abomination,

13 Or hath giuen foorth vpon vsurie, or hath taken increase, shall he liue? he shal not liue: seeing he hath done all these abominations, * hee shall die the death, and his blood shall be vpon him.

14 ¶ But if he beget a sonne, that seeth all his fathers sinnes, which hee hath done, and feareth, neither doth such like,

15 That hath not eaten vpon the mountaines, neither hath lift vp his eyes to the idoles of the house of Israel, nor hath defiled his neighbours wife,

16 Neither hath oppressed any, nor hath withholden the pledge, neither hath spoyled by violence, but hath giuen his bread to the hungrie, and hath couered the naked with a garment,

17 Neither hath withdrawen his hand from the afflicted, nor receiued vsurie nor increase, but hath executed my iudgements, and hath walked in my statutes, he shall not die in the iniquitie of his father, but hee shall surely liue.

18 As for his father, because hee cruelly oppressed and spoyled his brother by violence, and hath not done good among his people, loe, euen he dieth in his iniquitie.

19 Yet say yee, Wherefore shall not the sonne beare the iniquitie of the father? because the sonne hath executed iudgment and iustice, and hath kept all my statutes, and done them, he shall surely liue.

20 The same soule that sinneth, shall die: the sonne shall not beare the iniquitie of the father, neither shall the father beare the iniquitie of the sonne, but the righteousnesse of the righteous shall be vpon him, and the wickednesse of the wicked shall bee vpon him selfe.

21 But if the wicked will returne from all his sinnes that hee hath committed, and keepe all my d statutes, and doe that which is lawfull and right, he shall surely liue, and shall not die.

22 All his transgressions that hee hath committed, they shall not be mentioned vnto him, but in his e righteousnes that he hath done, he shall liue.

23 f Haue I any desire that the wicked should die, saith the Lord God? ‖ or shall hee not liue, if he returne from his wayes?

24 But if the righteous turne away from his righteousnesse, and commit iniquitie, and doe according to all the abominations, that the wicked man doeth, shall hee liue? all his g righteousnesse that hee hath done, shall not bee mentioned: but in his transgression that hee hath committed, and in his sinne that hee hath sinned, in them shall hee die.

25 Yet yee say, The way of the Lord is not * equall: heare now, O house of Israel. Is not my way equall? or are not your wayes vnequall?

26 For when a righteous man turneth away from his righteousnesse, and committeth iniquitie, he shall euen die for the same, he shall euen die for his iniquitie that he hath done.

27 Againe, when the wicked turneth away from his wickednesse that he hath committed, and doeth that which is lawfull and right, he shall saue his soule aliue.

28 Because hee considereth, and turneth away from all his transgressions that hee hath committed, he shall surely liue, and shall not die.

29 Yet saith the house of Israel, The way of the Lord is not equall. O house of Israel, are not my wayes equall? or are not your wayes vnequall?

30 Therefore I will iudge you, O house of Israel, euery one according to his wayes, saith the Lord God: returne therefore, & cause others to turne away from all your transgressions: so iniquity shal not be your destruction.

31 Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby yee haue transgressed, and make you a new heart and a new spirit: for why will yee die, O house of Israel?

32 For I desire not the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord God: cause therefore one another to returne, and liue yee.

CHAP. XX.

3 The Lord denieth that he will answere them who they pray, because of their vnkindnes. 33 He promiseth that his people shal returne from captiuitie. 46 By the forest that should be burnt, is signified the burning of Ierusalem.

AND in the seuenth yeere, in the fifth moneth, the tenth day of the moneth, came certaine of the Elders of Israel to enquire of the Lord, and sate before me.

2 Then came the word of the Lord vnto me, saying,

3 Sonne of man, Speake vnto the Elders of Israel, and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Are ye come to enquire of me? as I liue, saith the Lord God, when I am asked, I will not answere you.

4 Wilt thou iudge them, sonne of man, wilt thou iudge them? cause [k] them to vnderstand the abominations of their fathers,

5 And say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, In the day when I chose Israel, and [l] lift vp mine hand vnto the seede of the house of Iaakob, and made my selfe knowen vnto them in the land of Egypt, when I lift vp mine hand vnto them, and said, I am the Lord your God,

6 In the day that I lift vp mine hand vnto them to bring them forth of the land of Egypt, into a lande that I had prouided for them, flowing with milke and hony, which is pleasant among all lands,

7 Then said I vnto them, Let euery man cast away the abominations of his eies, [m] and defile not your selues with the idoles of Egypt: for I am the Lord your God.

8 But they rebelled against me, [n] would not heare me: for none cast away the abominations of their [o] eyes, neither did they forsake the idoles of Egypt: then I thought to powre out mine indignation vpon them, and to accomplish my wrath against them in the midst of the land of Egypt.

9 But I had respect to my [p] Name, that it should not be polluted before the heathen, among whom they were, and in whose sight I made my selfe knowen vnto them in bringing them forth of the land of Egypt.

10 Now I caried them out of the lande of Egypt, and brought them into the wildernesse.

11 And I gaue them my statutes, and declared my iudgements vnto them, * which if a man doe, he shall liue in them.

12 Moreouer, I gaue them also my Sabbaths to be a signe betweene me and them, that they might know that I am the Lord, that sanctifie them.

13 But [q] house of Israel rebelled against me in the wildernesse: they walked not in my statutes, and they cast away my iudgements, which if a man doe, he shall liue in them, and my Sabbath haue they greatly polluted: then I thought to powre out mine indignation vpon them * in the wildernes to consume them, 14 But I had respect to my Name, that it should not be polluted before the heathen, in whose sight I brought them out.

15 Yet neuertheles I lift vp mine hand vnto them in the wildernesse, that I would not bring them into the lande, which I had giuen them, flowing with milke and hony, which was pleasant aboue all lands, 16 Because they cast away my iudgements, and walked not in my statutes, but haue polluted my [r] Sabbaths: for their heart went after their idols.

17 Neuertheless mine eye spared them, that I would not destroy the, neither would I consume them in the wildernes.

c I sware that I would be their God, which maner of othe was obserued from al antiquitie where they vsed to lift vp their hads toward the heauen, acknowledging God to be the authour of truth, and the defender thereof, and also the iudge of the heart, wishing that he should take vengeance, if they concealed any thing which they knew to be trueth.

20 And ſanctifie my Sabbaths, and they ſhall be a ſigne betweene me and you, that ye may know that I am the Lord your God.

21 Notwithſtanding the children rebelled againſt mee: they walked not in my ſtatutes, nor kept my iudgements to doe them, which if a man doe he ſhall liue in them, but they polluted my Sabbaths: then I thought to powre out mine indignation vpon them, and to accompliſh my wrath againſt them in the wildernesſe.

22 Neuertheles I withdrew mine hand, and had reſpect to my Name, that it ſhould not be polluted before the heathen, in whoſe ſight I brought them forth.

23 Yet I lift vp mine hand vnto them in the wildernesſe, that I would ſcatter them among the heathen, & diſperſe them thorow the countreys, 24 Becauſe they had not executed my iudgements, but had caſt away my ſtatutes, and had polluted my Sabbaths, and their eyes were after [k] their fathers idoles.

25 Wherefore I [l] gaue them alſo ſtatutes, that were not good, and iudgements wherein they ſhould not liue.

26 And I polluted them in their owne [m] gifts, in that they cauſed to paſſe by the fire all that firſt openeth the womb, that I might deſtroy them, to the ende that they might know that I am the Lord.

27 Therefore ſonne of man ſpeake vnto the houſe of Iſrael, and ſay vnto them, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Yet in this your fathers haue blaſphemed me, though they had before grieuouſly tranſgreſſed againſt me.

28 [n] For when I had brought them into the land, for [p] which I lifted vp mine hand to giue it to them, then they ſawe euery high hill, and all the thicke trees, and they offered there their ſacrifices, and there they preſented their offering of prouocation: there alſo they made their ſweete ſauour, and powred out there their drinke offerings.

29 Then I ſaid vnto them, [o] What is the high place whereunto ye goe? And the name thereof was called [o] Bamah vnto this day.

30 Wherefore ſay vnto the houſe of Iſrael, Thus ſaith the Lord God, Are ye not polluted after the maner of your fathers? and commit ye not whoredome after their abominations?

31 For when you offer your gifts, & make your ſonnes to paſſe through the fire, you pollute your ſelues with all your idoles vnto this day: ſhall I anſwere you when I am aſked, O houſe of Iſrael? As I liue, ſayth the Lorde God, [p] I will not anſwere you when I am aſked.

32 Neither ſhall that bee done that commeth into your minde: for ye ſay, We will be as the heathen, and as the families of the countreys, and ſerue wood and [q] ſtone.

33 As I liue, ſayth the Lord God, I will ſurely rule you with a mightie hande, and with a ſtretched out arme, and in my wrath powred out, 34 And will bring you from the people, and will gather you out of the countreys, wherein ye are ſcattered [r] with mighty hand and with a ſtretched out arme, and in my wrath powred out.

35 And I will bring you into the wilderneſs of the people, & there will I plead with you face to face.

36 Like as I pleaded with your fathers in the wildernesſe of the lande of Egypt, ſo will I pleade with you, ſaith the Lord God.

37 And I will cauſe you to paſſe vnder the rod, and will bring you into the bond of the couenant.

38 And I will [ſ] chuſe out from among you the rebels, and them that tranſgreſſe againſt me: I will bring them out of the land where they dwell, and they ſhall not enter into the land of Iſrael, and you ſhal know that I am the Lord.

39 As for you, O houſe of Iſrael, Thus ſayeth the Lord God, [t] Goe you, and ſerue euery one his idole, ſeeing that ye will not obey me, & pollute mine holy Name no more with your gifts and with your idoles.

40 For in mine holy mountaine, euen in the hie mountaine of Iſrael, ſayth the Lord God, there ſhall all the houſe of Iſrael, and all in the land, ſerue me: there will I accept them, and there will I require your offerings, and the firſt fruites of your oblations, with all your holy things.

41 I will accept your ſweet ſauour, when I bring you from the people, and gather you out of the countreys, wherein ye haue beene ſcattered, that I may be ſanctified in you before the heathen.

42 And ye ſhall know, that I am the Lord, when I ſhall bring you into the land of Iſrael, into the land, for the which I lifted vp mine hand to giue it to your fathers.

43 And there ſhal ye remember your waies, and all your workes, wherein yee haue beene defiled, and ye [u] ſhall iudge your ſelues worthy to be cut off, for all your euils, that yee haue committed.

44 And ye ſhall know that I am the Lord, when I haue reſpect vnto you for my names ſake, & not after your wicked waies, nor according to your corrupt works, O yee houſe of Iſrael, ſaith the Lord God.

45 ¶ Moreouer, the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, ſaying, 47 And ſay to the forreſt of the South, Heare the word of the Lord: thus ſayeth the Lord God, Beholde, I will kindle a fire in thee, & it ſhall deuoure all the [y] greene wood in thee, and all the drie wood: the continuall flame ſhall not be quenched, and euery face.

3 He threatneth the sword, and destruction to Ierusalem. 25 Hee sheweth the fall of king Zedekiah. 28 He is commanded to proph-sie the destruction of the children of Ammon. 30 The Lord threatneth to destroy Nebuchad-nezzar.

THe word of the Lord came to me againe, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face toward Ierusalem, [a] and drop thy word toward the holy places, and prophesie against the land of Israel,

3 And say to the land of Israel, Thus sayth the Lord, Behold, I come against thee, and will draw my sword out of his sheath, and cut off from thee both the [b] righteous and the wicked.

4 Seeing then that I will cut off from thee both the righteous and wicked, therefore shall my sword goe out of his sheath against all flesh from the South to the [c] North,

5 That all flesh may know that I the Lorde haue drawen my sworde out of his sheath, and it shall not returne any more.

6 Mourne therefore, thou sonne of man, as in the paine of thy [d] reines, and mourne bitterly before them.

7 And if they say vnto thee, Wherefore mourneſt thou? then answere, Because [e] of the bruite: for it commeth, and euery heart shall melt, and all hands shall be weake, and all minds shall faint, and all knees shall fall away as water: behold, it commeth, and shall be done, sayth the Lord God.

8 ¶ Againe, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

9 Sonne of man, prophesie, & say, Thus sayth the Lord God, say, A sword, a sword both sharpe and furbished.

10 It is sharpened to make a sore slaughter, and it is furbished that it may [f] glitter: how shall we reioyce? for it contemneth the [g] rod of my sonne, as [h] all other trees.

11 And he hath giuen it to be furbished, that he may handle it: this sword is sharpe, and is furbished, that he may giue it into the hand of the [i] slayer.

12 Cry, and howle, sonne of man: for this shal come to my people, and it shal come vnto all the Princes of Israel: the terrors of the sword shalbe vpon my people: [k] smite therefore vpon thy thigh.

13 For it is a tryall, [l] and what shall this be, if the sword contemne euen the rod? It shall be no more, sayth the Lord God.

14 Thou therefore, sonne of man, prophesie, and smite [m] hand to hand, & let the sword be doubled: let the sword that hath killed, returne the third time: it is the sword of the great slaughter entring into their priuy chambers.

15 I haue brought the feare of the sword into all their gates to make their heart to faint, and to multiply their ruines. Ah it is made bright, & it is dressed for the slaughter.

16 Get thee [n] alone: goe to the right hand, or get thy selfe to the left hand, whithersoeuer thy face turneth.

17 I wil also smite mine hands together, and wil cause my wrath to cease. I the Lord haue sayd it.

18 ¶ The word of the Lord came vnto me againe, saying,

19 Also thou sonne of man, appoint thee [o] two wayes, that the sword of the King of Babel may come: both twaine shall come out of one land, and chuse a place, and chuse it in the corner of the way of the city.

20 Appoynt a way, that the sword may come to Rabbath of the Ammonites, and to Iudah in Ierusalem the strong citie.

21 And the King of Babel stood at the [p] parting of the way, at the head of the two wayes, consulting by diuination, and made his arrowes bright: he consulted with idols, and looked in the [q] liuer.

22 At his right hand was the diuination for Ierusalem to appoint captaines, to open their mouth in the slaughter, and to lift vp their voyce with shouting, to lay engines of warre against the gates, to cast a mount, and to build a fortresse.

23 And it shall be vnto them [r] as a false diuination in their sight for the othes made vnto them: [s] but he wil call to remembrance their iniquitie, to the intent they should bee taken.

24 Therefore thus sayth the Lord God, Because ye haue made your iniquitie to bee remembred, in discouering your rebellion, that in all your workes your sinnes might appeare: because, I say, that ye are come to remembrance, ye shalbe taken with the hand.

25 And thou [t] Prince of Israel polluted, and wicked, whose day is come, when iniquity shall haue an ende, 26 Thus sayeth the Lord God, I will take away the [u] diademe, and take off the crowne: this shall be no more the same: I will exalt the humble, and will abase him that is hie.

27 I wil ouerturne, ouerturne, ouerturne it, and it shall be no more vntill he [x] come, whose right it is, and I will giue it him.

28 ¶ And thou sonne of man, prophesie, and say, Thus sayeth the Lord God to the children of Ammon, and to their blasphemie: say thou, I say, The sworde, the sworde is drawen forth, and furbished to the slaughter, to consume, because of the glittering:

n Prouide for thy selfe: for thou shalt see Gods plague on all parts of this countrey.

o This was spoken because that when Nebuchad-nezzar came against Iudah, his purpose was also to goe against the Ammonites: but doubting in the way, which enterprise to vndertake first, hee consulted with his soothsayers, and so went against Iudah.

z Though the Iewes and Ammonites would not beleeue, that thou, so with the sworde, shouldest come vpon them, & sayd that the Prophets, which threatned, spake lyes, yet thou shalt as surely come, as though thou wert already vpon their neckes.

and prophesied a lie vnto thee to bring thee vpon the necks of the wicked that are slain, whose day is come when their iniquity shall haue an end.

30 Shall I cause it to returne into his sheath? I will iudge thee in the place where thou wast created, euen in the land of thine habitation.

31 And I will powre out mine indignation vpon thee, and will blow against thee in the fire of my wrath, and deliuer thee into the hand of brutish men, and skilfull to destroy.

32 Thou shalt be in the fire to be deuoured: thy blood shall be in the mids of the land, and thou shalt be no more remembred: for I the Lord haue spoken it.

CHAP. XXII.

1 Ierusalem is reproued for cruelty. 25 Of the wicked doctrine of the false prophets and priests, and of their vnsatiable couetousnesse. 27 The tyranny of their rulers. 29 The wickednesse of the people.

MOreouer the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

2 Now thou sonne of man, wilt thou [a] iudge, wilt thou iudge this bloody citie? wilt thou shew her all her abominations?

3 Then say, Thus saith the Lord God, The citie that sheddeth blood in the mids of it, that her [b] time may come, and maketh idols [c] against her selfe to pollute her selfe.

4 Thou hast offended in thy blood that thou hast shed, and hast polluted thy selfe in thine idoles which thou hast made, and thou hast caused thy dayes to draw neere, and art come vnto thy terme: therefore haue I made thee a reproch to the heathen, and a mocking to all countreys.

5 Those that be neere, and those that be farre from thee, shall mocke thee, which art vile in [d] name, and sore in affliction.

6 Beholde, the princes of Israel euery one in thee was ready to his power to shed blood.

7 In thee haue they dispised father and mother: in the mids of thee [e] haue they oppressed the stranger: in thee haue they vexed the fatherlesse and the widow.

8 Thou hast despised mine holy things, and hast polluted my Sabbaths.

9 In thee are men that carry tales to shed blood: in thee are they that eate vpon the mountaines: in the mids of thee they commit abomination.

10 *In thee haue they discouered their fathers shame: in thee haue they vexed her that was polluted in her floures.

11 And euery one [e] hath committed abomination with his neighbours wife, and euery one hath wickedly defiled his daughter in law, and in thee hath euery man forced his owne sister, euen his fathers daughter.

12 In thee haue they taken gifts to shed blood: thou hast taken vsurie and the increase, and thou hast defrauded thy neighbours by extortion, and hast forgotten me, saith the Lord God.

13 Beholde, therefore I haue [f] smitten mine hands vpon thy couetousnes, that thou hast vsed, and vpon the blood, which hath bene in the mids of thee.

14 Can thine heart endure, or can thine hands be strong in the dayes that I shall haue to do with thee? I the Lord haue spoken it, and will do it.

15 And I will scatter thee among the heathen, and disperse thee in the countreys, and will cause thy [h] filthinesse to cease from thee.

16 And thou shalt take thine [i] inheritance in thy selfe in the sight of the heathen, & thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

17 ¶ And the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

18 Sonne of man, The house of Israel is vnto mee, as [k] drosse: all they are brasse, and tinne, and yron, and lead in the mids of the fornace: they are euen the drosse of siluer.

19 Therefore thus saieth the Lord God, Because ye are all as drosse, behold, therefore I will gather you in the mids of Ierusalem.

20 As they gather siluer and brasse, and yron, and lead, and tinne in the mids of the fornace, to blow the fire vpon it to melt it, so will I gather you in mine anger and in my wrath, and will put you there [l] and melt you.

21 I will gather you, I say, and blow the fire of my wrath vpon you, and you shall be melted in the mids thereof.

22 As siluer is melted in the mids of the fornace, so shall yee be melted in the mids thereof, and yee shall know that I the Lord haue powred out my wrath vpon you.

23 And the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

24 Sonne of man, say vnto her, Thou art the land that is vncleane, [m] and not rained vpon in the day of wrath.

25 There is a conspiracy [n] of her prophets in the mids thereof like a roaring lion, rauening the praye: they haue deuoured soules: they haue taken the riches and precious things: they haue made her many widowes in the mids thereof.

26 Her priests haue broken my Law, and haue defiled mine holy things: they haue put no difference betweene the holy and prophane, neither discerned betweene the vncleane, and the cleane, and haue hid their [o] eyes from my Sabbaths, and I am prophaned among them.

27 Her princes in the [p] mids thereof, are like wolues rauening the praye to shed blood, and to destroy soules for their owne couetous lucre.

28 And her [q] prophets haue daubed them with vntempered morter, seeing vanities, and diuining lies vnto them, saying, Thus saieth the Lord God, when the Lord had not spoken.

29 The people of the land haue violently oppressed by spoyling and robbing, and haue vexed the poore and the needy: yea, they haue oppressed the stranger against right.

CHAP. XXIII.

Of the idolatrie of Samaria and Ierusalem, vnder the names of Aholah and Aholibah.

THe word of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, there were two women, the daughters of one mother.

3 And they committed fornication in Egypt, they committed fornication in their youth: there were their breasts pressed, and there they bruised the teates of their virginitie.

4 And the names of them were Aholah the elder, and Aholibah her sister: and they were mine, and they bare sonnes and daughters: thus were their names: Samaria is Aholah, and Ierusalem Aholibah.

5 And Aholah played the harlot ‡ when she was mine, and she set on fire with her louers, to wit, with the Assyrians her neighbours,

6 Which were clothed with blew silke, both captaines and princes: they were all pleasant yong men, and horsemen riding vpon horses.

7 Thus she committed her whoredome with them, euen with all them that were the chosen men of Asshur, and with all on whom she doted, and defiled her selfe with all their idoles.

8 Neither left she her fornications, learned of the Egyptians: for in her youth they lay with her, and they bruised the breasts of her virginitie, and powred their whoredome vpon her.

9 Wherefore I deliuered her into the hands of her louers, euen into the hands of the Assyrians, vpon whom she doted.

10 These discouered her shame: they tooke away her sonnes and her daughters, and slewe her with the sword, and she had an euill name among women: for they had executed iudgement vpon her.

11 And when her sister Aholibah sawe this, she marred her selfe with inordinate loue, more then she, and with her fornications, more then her sister with her fornications.

12 She doted vpon the Assyrians her neighbours, both captaines and princes clothed with diuers sutes, horsemen riding vpon horses: they were all pleasant young men.

13 Then I saw that she was defiled, and that they were both after one sort,

14 And that she increased her fornications: for when she saw men ‖ painted vpon the wall, the images of the Caldeans painted with vermilion,

15 And girded with girdles vpon their loines, and with died attire vpon their heads (looking all like princes after the maner of the Babylonians in Caldea, the land of their nativitie.), 16 As soone as she saw them, she doted vpon them, and sent messengers vnto them into Caldea.

17 Now when the Babylonians came to her into the bed of loue, they defiled her with their fornication, and she was polluted with them, and her lust departed from them.

18 So she discouered her fornication, and discouered her shame: then mine heart forsooke her, like as mine heart had forsaken her sister.

19 Yet she increased her whoredom more, and called to remembrance the dayes of her youth, wherein she had played the harlot in the land of Egypt.

20 For she doted vpon their seruants, whose members are as the members of asses, and whose issue is like the issue of horses.

21 Thus calledst to remembrance the wickednesse of thy youth, when thy teates were bruised by the Egyptians: therefore the pappes of thy youth are thus.

22 Therefore, O Aholibah, thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will raise vp thy louers against thee, from whom thine heart is departed, and I will bring them against thee on euery side, 23 To wit, the Babylonians, and all the Caldeans, ‖ Pekod, and Shoah, and Koa, and all the Assyrians with them: they were all pleasant yong men, captaines and princes: all they were valiant and renowned, riding vpon horses.

24 Euen these shall come against thee with charets, wagons, and wheeles, and with a multitude of people, which shall set against thee, buckler and shield, and helmet round about: and ‡ I will leaue the punishment vnto them, and they shal iudge thee according to their ‖ iudgements.

25 And I will lay mine indignation vpon thee, and they shall deale cruelly with thee: they shall cut off thy ‖ nose and thine eares, and thy remnant shal fall by the sword: they shall carry away thy sonnes and thy daughters, and thy residue shalbe deuoured by the fire.

26 They shall also strippe thee out of thy clothes, and take away thy faire iewels.

27 Thus will I make thy wickednesse to cease from thee, and thy fornication out of the land of Egypt: so that thou shalt not lift vp thine eyes vnto them, nor remember Egypt any more.

28 For thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will deliuer thee into the hand of them, whom thou hatest: euen into the handes of them from whom thine heart is departed.

29 And they shal handle thee despitefully, and shal take away all thy ‖ labour, and shal leaue thee naked and bare, and the shame of thy fornications ‖ shall be discouered, both thy wickednesse and thy whoredome.

30 I will doe these things vnto thee, because thou hast gone a whoring after the heathen, and because thou art polluted with their idoles.

31 Thou hast walked in the way of thy sister: therefore will I giue her ‖ cup into thine hand.

32 Thus

a Meaning Israel and Iudah, which came both out of one familie.

b They became idolaters after the maner of the Egyptians.

c Aholah signifieth a mansion or dwelling in her self, meaning Samaria which was the royal citie of Israel: And Aholibah signifieth my mansion in her, whereby is meant Ierusalem where Gods Temple was.

d When the Israelites were named the people of God they became idolaters, and forsooke God, and put their trust in the Assyrians.

e The holy Ghost vseth these termes which seeme strange to chaste eares, to cause this wicked vice of idolatrie so to be abhorred, that vneth any should abide to heare the name thereof mentioned.

f Meaning, the Assyrians.

g This declareth that no words are able sufficiently to expresse the rage of idolaters, and therefore the holy Ghost here compareth them to those which in their raging loue and filthie lustes dote vpon the images and paintings of the after whom they lust.

h These were the names of certaine princes and captaines vnder Nebuchad-nezzar.

‡ Ebr. I will giue iudgement before them.

i They shall destroy the princes and priests with the rest of thy people.

k All thy treasures and riches which thou hast gotten by labour.

l All the world shall see thy shamefull forsaking of God to serue idoles.

m I will execute the same iudgements and vengeance against thee, & that with greater seuerity.

31 Thus saith the Lord God, Thou shalt drinke of thy sisters cup, deepe and large: thou shalt bee laughed to scorne and had in derision, because it containeth much.

n Meaning, that the afflictions should be so great, that they should cause them to lose their senses and reason.

33 Thou shalt bee filled with n drunkennesse and sorrowe, euen with the cup of destruction, and desolation, with the cup of thy sister Samaria.

34 Thou shalt euen drinke it, and wring it out to the dregges, and thou shalt breake the sheardes thereof, and teare thine owne breasts: for I haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

35 Therefore thus sayeth the Lord God, Because thou hast forgotten mee, and cast mee behinde thy backe, therefore thou shalt also beare thy wickednesse and thy whoredome.

36 ¶ The Lord said moreouer vnto mee, Sonne of man, wilt thou iudge Aholah, and Aholibah? and wilt thou declare to them their abominations?

37 For they haue played the whores, and blood is in their handes, and with their idoles haue they committed aduulterie, and haue also caused their sonnes, whom they bare vnto mee, to passe by the fire to bee their o meate.

o That is, to be sacrifices to their idoles, reade Chap. 16. 20

38 Moreouer, thus haue they done vnto me: they haue defiled my Sanctuarie in the same day, and haue prophaned my Sabbaths.

39 For when they had slaine their children to their idoles, they came the same day into my Sanctuarie to defile it: and lo, thus haue they done in the middes of mine house.

40 And howe much more is it that they sent for men to come from p far, vnto whom a messenger was sent, and loe, they came: for whom thou diddest wash thy selfe, and paintedst thine eyes, and deckedst thee with ornaments, p They sent into other countreys to haue such as should teach the service of their idoles.

41 And satest q vpon a costly bed, and a table prepared before it, whereupon thou hast set mine incense and mine oyle.

q He meaneth the altar, that was prepared for the idoles.

42 And a voyce of a multitude being at ease, was with her: and with the men to make the company great, were brought men of r Saba from the wildernesse, which put bracelets vpon their hands, and beautifull crownes vpon their heads.

r Which should teach the maner of worshipping their gods.

43 Then I said vnto her that was old in adulteries, Now shall thee and her fornications come to an end.

44 And they went in vnto her as they go to a common harlot: so went they to Aholah and Aholibah the wicked women.

45 And s righteous men they shall iudge them, after the maner of harlots, and after the maner of murtherers: for they are harlots, and blood is in their hands.

s That is, worthy death, reade Chap. 16. 38.

46 Wherefore thus saith the Lord God, I will bring a multitude vpon them, and will giue them vnto the tumult, and to the spoile, t Meaning, all other cities, and countreys.

48 Thus will I cause wickednes to cease out of the land, that all t women may bee taught, not to doe after your wickednes.

49 And they shall lay your wickednesse vpon you, and ye shall beare the sinnes of your idoles, and ye shall know that I am the Lord God.

CHAP. XXIIII.

1 He sheweth the destruction of Ierusalem by a parable of a seething pot, 16 The parable of Ezekiels wife being dead.

AGaine in the a ninth yeere, in the tenth moneth, in the tenth day of the b moneth came the word of the Lord vnto mee, saying,

2 Sonne of man, write thee the name of the day, euen of this same day: for the King of Babel set himselfe against Ierusalem this same day.

3 Therefore speake a parable vnto the rebellious house, and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Prepare a c pot, prepare it, and also powre water into it.

4 Gather the d pieces thereof into it, euen euery good piece, as the thigh and the shoulder, and fill it with the chiefe bones.

5 Take one of the best sheepe, and ‖ burne also the e bones vnder it, and make it boyle well, and seeth the bones of it therein,

6 Because the Lord God saith thus, Woe to the bloody city, euen to the pot, f whose skumme is therein, and whose skumme is not gone out of it: bring it out e piece by piece: let no e lot fall vpon it.

7 For her blood is in the middes of her: she set it vpon an high g rocke, and powred it not vpon the ground to couer it with dust,

8 That it might cause wrath to arise, and take vengeance: euen I haue set her blood vpon an high rocke that it should not be couered.

9 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, h Woe to the bloody citie, for I will make ‖ the burning great.

10 Heape on much wood: i kindle the fire, consume the flesh, and cast in spice, and let the bones be burnt.

11 Then set it empte vpon the coales thereof, that k the brasse of it may be hot, and may burne, and that the filthinesse of it may bee molten in it, and that the skumme of it may be consumed.

12 l She hath wearied her selfe with lies, and her great skumme went not out of her: therefore her skumme shall be consumed with fire.

13 Thou remainest in thy filthines and wickednesse: because I would m haue purged thee, and thou wast not purged, thou shalt not bee purged from thy filthinesse, till I haue caused my wrath to light vpon thee.

14 I the Lord haue spoken it: it shal come to passe, and I will doe it: I will not goe backe, neither will I spare, neither will I repent: according to thy wayes, and according to thy workes shall n they iudge thee, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXV.

1 The word of the Lord against Ammon, which reioyced at the fall of Ierusalem. 8 Against Moab and Seir, Idumea and the Philistims.

THe word of the Lorde came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face against the Ammonites, and prophesie against them,

3 And say vnto the Ammonites, Heare the word of the Lord God, Thus saith the Lord God, Because thou saydest, a Ha, ha, against my Sanctuarie, when it was polluted, and against the land of Israel, when it was desolate, and against the house of Iudah, when they went into captiuitie,

4 Behold, therefore I will deliuer thee to the b men of the East for a possession, and they shall set their palaces in thee, & make their dwellings in thee: they shall eate thy fruit, and they shall drinke thy milke.

5 And I will make Rabbah a dwelling place for camels, and the Ammonites a sheepecoate, and yee shall know that I am the Lord.

6 For thus saith the Lorde God, Because thou hast clapped thy hands, and stamped with the feete, and reioyced in heart with all thy despite against the lande of Israel,

7 Beholde, therefore I will stretch out mine hand vpon thee, and will deliuer thee to be spoyled of the heathen, and I will roote thee out from the people, and I will cause thee to bee destroyed out of the countreyes, and I will destroy thee, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

8 Thus sayeth the Lorde God, Because that Moab and Seir doe say, Beholde, the house of Iudah is like vnto all the heathen.

9 Therefore, behold, I will open the side of Moab, euen of the c cities of his cities, I say, in his frontiers with the pleasant countrey, Beth-iesimoth, Baal-[illegible] and Kiriathaim,

10 I will call the men of the East against the Ammonites, and will giue them in possession, to that the Ammonites shall no more be remembred among the nations, 11 And I will execute iudgements vpon Moab, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

12 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, Because that Edom hath done euill by taking vengeance vpon the house of Iudah, & hath committed great offence, and reuenged himselfe vpon them, 13 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I will also stretch out mine hande vpon Edom, and destroy man and beast out of it, and I will make it desolate from Teman, and they of Dedan shall fall by the sword.

14 And I will execute my vengeance vpon Edom by the hand of my people Israel, and they shall do in Edom according to mine anger, and according to mine indignation, and they shall know my vengeance, saith the Lord God.

15 Thus saith the Lorde God, Because the Philistims haue executed vengeance, and reuenged themselues with a despitefull heart, to destroy it for the old hatred, 16 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Beholde, I will stretch out mine hand vpon the Philistims, and I will cut off the e Cherethims, and destroy the remnant of the sea coast.

17 And I will execute great vengeance vpon them with rebukes of mine indignation, and they shall knowe that I am the Lord, when I shall lay my vengeance vpon them.

AND in the a eleventh yere, in the first day of the moneth, the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, because that Tyrus hath said against Ierusalem, Aha, the b gate of the people is broken: it is turned vnto me: for seeing she is desolate, I shall be replenished,

3 Therefore thus sayth the Lorde God, Beholde, I come against thee, O Tyrus, and I will bring vp many nations against thee, as the sea mounteth vp with his waues.

4 And they shall destroy the walles of Tyrus, and breake downe her towers: I will also scrape her dust from her, and make her like the top of a rocke.

5 Thou shalt be for the spreading of nets in the midst of the sea: for I haue spoken it, sayth the Lord God, and it shall be a spoyle to the nations.

6 And her d daughters which are in the fielde, shall bee slaine by the sworde, and they shall know that I am the Lord.

7 For thus sayth the Lord God, Behold, I will bring vpon Tyrus Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel, a king of kings, from the North, with horses and with charets, and with horsemen, with a multitude and much people.

8 He shal slay with the sworde the daughters in the fielde, and he shall make a fort against thee, and cast a mount against thee, and lift vp the buckler against thee.

9 Yet shall set engins of warre before him against thy walles, and with his weapons breake downe thy towers.

10 The dust of his horses shal couer thee, for their multitude: thy walles shall shake at the noyse of the horsemen, and of the wheeles, and of the charets, when he shall enter into thy gates, as into the entrie of a city that is broken downe.

11 With the hoofes of his horses shall hee tread downe all the streetes: he shall slay thy people by the sworde, and the e pillars of thy strength shall fall downe to the ground.

12 And they shall robbe thy riches, and spoile thy merchandise, and they shall breake downe thy walles, and destroy thy pleasant houses, and they shall cast thy stones and thy timber and thy dust into the middes of the water.

13 * Thus will I cause the sounde of thy song to cease, and the sound of thine harps shall be no more heard.

14 I will lay thee like the top of a rocke: f thou shalt bee for a spreading of nets: thou shalt be built no more, for I the Lorde haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

15 Thus sayth the Lord God to Tyrus, Shall not the yles tremble at the sound of thy fall, and at the crie of the wounded, when they shall be slaine and murthered in the middes of thee?

16 Then all the princes of the g sea shall come downe from their thrones: they shall lay away their robes, and put off their broydred garments, and shall cloth themselues with astonishment: they shall sit vpon the ground, and be astonished at euery moment, and be amazed at thee.

17 And they shall take vp a lamentation for thee, and say to thee, How art thou destroyed, that wast inhabited h of the sea men, the renowmed citie which was strong in the sea, both she and her inhabitants, which cause their feare to bee on all that haunt therein!

18 Now shall the yles be astonished in the day of thy fall: yea, the yles that are in the sea, shalbe troubled at thy departure.

19 For thus sayth the Lorde God, When I shall make thee a desolate citie, like the cities that are not inhabited, and when I shal bring the deepe vpon thee, and great waters shall couer thee, 20 When I shall cast thee downe with them that descende into the pit, with the people i of olde time, and shall set thee in the low parts of the earth, like the olde ruines, with them, I say, which goe downe to the pit, so that thou shalt not be inhabited, and I shall shewe my glory in the lande of the k liuing.

21 I will bring thee to nothing, and thou shalt be no more: though thou be sought for, yet shalt thou neuer be found againe, sayth the Lord God.

CHAP XXIX.

He prophesieth against Pharaoh and Egypt. 13 The Lord promiseth that he will restore Egypt after fourtie yeeres. 18 Egypt is the reward of king Nebuchad-nezzar for the labour which he tooke against Tyrus.

IN the tenth yeere, and in the tenth moneth, in the twelfth day of the moneth, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face against Pharaoh the king of Egypt, and prophesie against him, and against all Egypt.

3 Speake, and say, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against thee, Pharaoh King of Egypt, the great a dragon, that lieth in the middes of his riuers, which hath said, The riuer is mine, and I haue made it for my selfe.

4 But I will put b hookes in thy lawes, and I will cause the fish of thy riuers to sticke vnto thy scales, and I will drawe thee out of the middes of thy riuers, and all the fish of thy riuers shall sticke vnto thy scales.

5 And I will leaue thee in the wildernesse, both thee and all the fish of thy riuers: thou shalt fall vpon the open field: thou shalt not be brought together, nor gathered: for I haue giuen thee for meat to the beasts of the field, and to the fowles of the heauen.

6 And al the inhabitants of Egypt shal knowe that I am the Lord, because they haue beene a staffe of c reede to the house of Israel.

7 When they tooke holde of thee with their hand, thou diddest breake, and rent all their shoulder: and when they leaned vpon thee, thou brakest and madest all their loines to stand vpright.

8 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will bring a sword vpon thee, and destroy man and beast out of thee,

9 And the land of Egypt shalbe desolate, and waste, and they shall know that I am the Lord: because he hath said, d The riuer is mine, and I haue made it,

CHAP. XXX.

The destruction of Egypt, and the cities thereof.

THe word of the Lord came againe vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, prophesie, and say, Thus saieth the Lord God, Howle and crie, Woe be vnto this day.

3 For the day is neere, and the day of the Lord is at hand, a cloudie day, and it shall be the time of the heathen.

‖ By Phut and Lud are meant Aphrica and Libya.

5 Ethiopia, and Phut, and Lud, and all the common people, and Cub, and the men of the land, that is in league, shall fall with them by the sword.

8 And they shall knowe that I am the Lord, when I haue set a fire in Egypt, and when all her helpers shalbe destroyed.

9 In that day shall their messingers goe forth from me in ships, to make the careles Hopes afraid, and feare shall come vpon them as in the day of Egypt: for loe, it commeth.

10 Thus saieth the Lorde God, I will also make the multitude of Egypt to cease by the hand of Nebuchad-nezzar King of Babel.

11 For hee and his people with him, euen the terrible nations shall bee brought to destroy the land: and they shall draw their swordes against Egypt, and fill the land with the slaine.

12 And I will make the riuers dry, and sell the land into the hands of the wicked, and I will make the land waste, and all that therein is, by the hands of strangers: I the Lord haue spoken it.

13 Thus saieth the Lord God, I will also destroy the idoles, and I will cause their idoles to cease out of ‖ Noph, and there shall bee no more a Prince of the land of Egypt, and I will send a feare in the land of Egypt.

19 Thus will I execute iudgements in Egypt, and they shall knowe, that I am the Lord.

20 ¶ And in the * eleuenth yeere, in the first moneth, and in the seuenth day of the moneth, the word of the Lord came vnto mee, saying,

* Of the captiuity of Ieconiah, or of Zedekiahs reigne.

21 Sonne of man, ‖ I haue broken the arme of Pharaoh king of Egypt: and loe, it shall not be bound vp to be healed, neither shall they put a rolle to binde it, and so make it strong, to hold the sword.

‖ For Nebuchad-nezzar destroyed Pharaoh Necho at Carchemish, Ier. 46. 26.

22 Therefore thus saieth the Lord God, Behold, I come against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and will breake ‖ his arme, that was strong, but is broken, and I will cause the sword to fall out of his hand.

23 And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and will disperse them through the countreys.

24 And I will strengthen the arme of the king of Babel, and put my sword in his hand, but I will breake Pharaohs armes, and he shal cast out sighings, as the sighings of him that is wounded before him.

h Whereby we see that tyrants haue no power of themselues, neither can doe any more harme then God appointeth, and when he will, they must cease.

25 But I will strengthen the armes of the king of Babel, and the armes of Pharaoh shall fall downe, and they shall know that I am the Lord, h when I shall put my sword into the hand of the king of Babel, and he shall stretch it out upon the land of Egypt.

26 And I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations, and disperse them among the countreys, and they shall know, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXI.

2 A comparison of the prosperitie of Pharaoh with the prosperitie of the Assyrians. 10 He propheseth a like destruction to them both.

a Of Zedekiahs reigne, or of Ieconiahs captiuitie.

AND in the a eleuenth yeere, in the third moneth, & in the first day of the moneth, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, speake vnto Pharaoh king of Egypt, and to his multitude, Whom art thou b like in thy greatnesse?

b Meaning, that he was not like in strength to the king of the Assyrians, whom the Babylonians ouercame.

3 Behold, Asshur was like a cedar in Lebanon with faire branches, and with thicke shadowing boughs, and hot vp very hie, and his top was among the thicke boughs.

c Many other nations were vnder their dominion.

5 Therefore his height was exalted aboue all the trees of the field, and his boughs were multiplied, and his branches were long, because of the multitude of the waters, which the deepe sent out.

6 All the foules of the heauen made their nests in his boughs, and vnder the branches did all the beasts of the fielde bring foorth their yong, and vnder his shadow dwelt all mightie nations.

7 Thus was he faire in his greatnesse, and in the length of his branches: for his root was neere great waters.

d Signifying, that there was no greater power in the world then his was.

8 The cedars in the garden d of God could not hide him: no firre tree was like his branches, and the chesnut trees were not like his boughs: all the trees in the garden of God were not like vnto him in his beautie.

9 I made him faire by the multitude of his branches: so that all the trees of Eden, that were in the garden of God, enuied him.

e That is, of Nebuchad-nezzar, who afterward was the monarch and onely ruler of the world.

10 Therefore thus sayth the Lord God, Because ‖ he is lift vp on high, and hath shot vp his top among the thicke boughs, and his heart is lift vp in his height, 11 I haue therefore deliuered him into the handes of the e mightiest among the heathen: he shall handle him, for I haue cast him away for his wickednesse.

12 And the strangers haue destroied him, euen the terrible nations, and they haue left him vpon the mountaines, and in all the valleys his branches are fallen, and his boughs are f broken by all the riuers of the land: and all the people of the earth are departed from his shadow, and haue forsaken him.

f Hereby is signified the destruction of the power of the Assyrians by the Babylonians.

13 Vpon his ruine shall all the foules of the heauen remaine, and all the beasts of the field shalbe vpon his branches, 14 To the end none of all the trees by the waters shall be exalted by their height, neither shall shoote vp their tappe among the thick boughs, neither shal their leaues stand vp in their height, which drinke so much water: for they are all deliuered vnto death in the nether parts of the earth in the middes of the children of men, among them that goe downe to the pit.

g The deepe waters that caused him to mount so high (meaning his great abundance & pompe) shall now lament as though they were couered with sackcloth.

15 Thus sayth the Lord God, In the day when he went downe to hell, I caused them to mourne, and I g couered the deepe for him, and I did restraine the floods thereof, & the great waters were stayed: I caused Lebanon to mourne for him, and all the trees of the field fainted.

h To cause this destruction of the king of Assyria to seeme more horrible, he setteth forth other kings and princes, which are dead, as though they reioyced at the fall of such a tyrant, 16 I made the nations to shake at the sound of his fall, when I cast him downe to hell, with them that descend to the pit, and all the excellent trees of Eden, and the best of Lebanon: euen all that are nourished with waters, shall h bee comforted in the nether parts of the earth.

i Meaning, that Pharaohs power was nothing so great as his was.

17 They also went downe to hell with him vnto them that be slaine with the sword, and his arme, and they that dwelt vnder his shadow in the mids of the heathen.

18 To whom i art thou thus like in glory and in greatnesse among the trees of Eden? yet thou shalt be cast downe with the trees of Eden vnto the nether parts of the earth: thou shalt sleepe in the middes of the k vncircumcised, with them that be slaine by the sword: this is Pharaoh and all his multitude, saith the Lord God.

k Reade Chap. 28.10.

CHAP. XXXII.

2 The Prophet is commanded to bewaile Pharaoh King of Egypt. 12 He propheseth that destruction shall come vnto Egypt through the King of Babylon.

AND in the a twelfth yeere in the twelfth moneth, & in the first day of the moneth, the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying, a Which was the first yeere of the generall captiuity vnder Zedekiah.

2 Sonne of man, take vp a lamentation for Pharaoh king of Egypt, and say vnto him, Thou art like a b lyon of the nations, and art as a dragon in the sea: thou castedst out thy riuers c and troubledst the waters with thy feet, and stampedst in their riuers.

b Thus the scriptures compare tyrants to cruell and huge beasts, which deuoure al that be weaker then they, and such as they may ouercome.

3 Thus sayeth the Lorde God, * I will therefore spread my nette ouer thee with a great multitude of people, and they shall make thee come vp into my net.

Chap. 12.13. and 17.20.

4 Then will I leaue thee vpon the land, and I will cast thee vpon the open fielde, and I will cause all the foules of the heauen to remaine vpon thee, and I will fill all all the beastes of the field with thee.

5 And I will lay thy flesh vpon the mountaines, and fil the valleys *with thine height.

6 I will also water with thy bloud the land wherein thou *swimmest, euen to the mountaines, and the riuers shall be full of thee.

7 And when I shall ‡ put thee out, I will couer the heauen, and make the starres thereof darke: *I will couer the sunne with a cloude, and the moone shall not giue her light.

8 All the lights of heauen will I make darke for thee, and bring darkenesse vpon thy land, saith the Lord God.

9 I will also trouble the hearts of many people, when I shall bring thy destruction among the nations, and vpon the countreys which thou hast not knowen.

10 Yea, I will make many people amazed at thee, and their kings shalbe astonished with feare for thee, when I shall make my sword to glitter against their faces, and they shall be afraid at euery moment: euery man for his owne life in the day of thy fall.

11 For thus saith the Lord God, The sword of the king of Babel shall come vpon thee.

12 By the swordes of the mightie will I cause thy multitude to fall: they all shall be terrible nations, and they shall destroy the *pompe of Egypt, and all the multitude thereof shall be consumed.

13 I will destroy also all the beasts thereof from the great water sides, neither shall the foote of man trouble them any more, nor the hooues of beast trouble them.

14 Then will I make *their waters deepe, and cause their riuers to run like oyle, saith the Lord God.

15 When I shal make the land of Egypt desolate, and the countrey with all that is therein, shall be layed waste: when I shall smite all them, which dwel therein, then shal they know that I am the Lord.

16 This is the mourning wherwith they shall lament her: the daughters of the nations shall lament her: they shall lament for Egypt, and for all her multitude, saith the Lord God.

17 ¶ In the twelfth yeere also, in the fifteenth day of the moneth, came the word of the Lord vnto me, saying, 18 Sonne of man, lament for the multitude of Egypt, and *cast them downe, euen them and the daughters of the mighty nations vnto the nether parts of the earth, with them that go downe into the pit.

19 Whom doest thou passe *in beauty? go downe and sleepe with the vncircumcised.

20 They shal fal in the midst of them that are slaine by the sword: *she is deliuered to the sword: draw her downe, and all her multitude.

21 The most mighty and strong shall speake to *him out of the midst of hell with them that helpe her: they are gone downe and sleepe with the vncircumciled that are slaine by the sword.

22 Assur is there and all his company: their graues are about him: all they are slaine and fallen by the sword.

23 Whose graues are made in the side of the pit, and his multitude are round about his graue: all they are slaine and fallen by the sword, which caused feare to bee in the land of the liuing.

24 There is Elam and all his multitude round about his graue: all they are slaine and fallen by the sword, which are gone downe with *vncircumciled into the nether parts of the earth, which caused themselues to bee feared in the land of the *liuing, yet haue they borne their shame with them that are gone downe to the pit.

25 They haue made his bed in the midst of the slaine with all his multitude: their graues are round about him: all these vncircumcised are slaine by the sword: though they haue caused their feare in the land of the liuing, yet haue they borne their shame with them that goe downe to the pit: they are layed in the midst of them that be slaine.

26 There is *Meshech, Tubal, and all their multitude: their graues are round about them: all these vncircumcised were slaine by the sword, though they caused their feare to be in the land of the liuing.

27 And they shall not lie with the valiant *of the vncircumcised, that are fallen, which are gone down to the graue, with their weapons of warre, and haue layd their swordes vnder their heads, but their iniquity shall be vpon their bones: because they were the feare of the mighty in the land of the liuing.

28 Yea, thou shalt be broken in the midst of the vncircumcised: and lie with them that are slaine by the sword.

29 There is Edom, his kings, and all his princes, which with their strength are layed by them that were slaine by the sword: they shall sleepe with the vncircumcised, and with them that go downe to the pit.

30 There be al the princes of the *North, with al the Zidonians, which are gone down with the slaine, with their feare: they are ashamed of their strength, and the vncircumcised sleepe with them that be slaine by the sword, and beare their shame with them that go downe to the pit.

31 Pharaoh shall see them, and be shalbe comforted ouer all his multitude: Pharaoh and all his armie shall be slaine by the sword, saith the Lord God.

32 For I haue caused my *feare to be in the land of the liuing: & he shalbe laid in the midst of the vncircumciled with them that are slaine by the sword, euen Pharaoh and al his multitude, saith the Lord God.

2 The office of the gouernours and ministers. 14 Hee strengtheneth them that dispaire, and boldeneth them with the promise of mercie. 30 The words of the Lord against the mockers of the Prophet.

AGaine the word of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, speake to the children of thy people, and say vnto them, When e As Nilus ouerfloweth Egypt, so will I make the blood of thine hoste to ouerflow it.

f The word signifieth to be put out as a candle is put out. Isa. 13.10. ioel 2, 31. & 3.15. matth. 24.29.

g By this maner of speech is ment the great sorrow that shall be for the slaughter of the king and his people.

h This came to passe in lesse then foure yeeres after this prophesie.

i To wit, of the Caldeans thine enemies, which shall quietly enioy all thy commodities.

k That is, prophesie, that they shall be cast downe: thus the Lord giueth his Prophets power both to plant & to destroy by his word, reade Iere. 1.10.

l Haue not other kingdomes more beautifull then thou, perished?

b Signifying, that the wicked shall not escape punishment though the watchman be negligent: but if the watchman blow the trumpet, and then he will not obey, he shall deserue double punishment. Chap. 3. 17.

c Which teacheth that hee that receiueth not his charge at the Lords mouth, is a spy, and not a true watchman.

d The watchman must answere for the blood of all that perish through his negligence.

e Thus the wicked when they heare Gods iudgements for their sinnes, despaire of his mercies, and murmure.

f Reade Chap. 18. 23.

g Reade of this righteousnesse, Chap. 18. 22, 24.

h Hereby hee condemneth all them of hypocrisie, which pretend to forsake wickednesse, and yet declare not themselues such by their fruites, that is, in obeying Gods commandements and by godly life.

I bring the sworde vpon a land, if the people of the land take a man ‖ from among them, and make him their a watchman,

3 If when he seeth the sworde come vpon the land, he blow the trumpet, and warne the people,

4 Then he that heareth the sound of the trumpet, and wil not be warned, if the sworde come, and take him away, his blood shall be vpon his owne head.

5 For he heard the sound of the trumpet, and would not be admonished: therefore his blood shalbe vpon him: but he that receiueth warning, shall saue his life.

6 But if the watchman see the sworde come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people bee not warned: if the sworde come, and take any person from among them, hee is taken away from his a iniquity, but his blood will I require at the watchmans hand.

7 a So thou, O sonne of man, I haue made thee a watchman vnto the house of Israel: therefore thou shalt heare the word at my a mouth, and admonish them from me.

8 When I shall say vnto the wicked, O wicked man, thou shalt die the death, if thou doest not speake, and admonish the wicked of his way, that wicked man shall die for his iniquitie: but his blood will I d require at thine hand.

9 Neuertheless, if thou warne the wicked of his way, to turne from it, if he doe not turne from his way, he shall die for his iniquitie, but thou hast deliuered thy soule.

10 Therefore, O thou son of man, speake vnto the house of Israel, Thus yee speake and say, If our transgressions e our sinnes be vpon vs, and we are consumed because of them, a how should we then liue?

11 Say vnto them, As I liue, sayeth the Lord God, f I desire not the death of the wicked, but that the wicked turne from his way and liue: turne you, turne you frō your euill wayes, for why will ye die, O yee house of Israel?

12 Therefore thou sonne of man, say vnto the children of thy people, The g righteousnesse of the righteous shall not deliuer him in the day of his transgression, nor the wickednesse of the wicked shall cause him to fal therin, in the day that he returneth from his wickednesse, neither shall the righteous liue for his righteousnesse in the day that he sinneth.

13 When I shall say vnto the righteous, that he shal surely liue, if he trust to his own righteousnesse, and commit iniquity, all his righteousnesse shall be no more remembred, but for his iniquitie that he hath committed, he shall die for the same.

14 Againe, when I shal say vnto the wicked, Thou shalt die the death, if he turne from his sinne, and do that which is lawfull and a right, 15 To wit, if the wicked restore the pledge, and giue againe that he had robbed, & walke in the statutes of life, without committing iniquity, he shall surely liue, and not die.

16 None of his sinnes that he hath committed, shall be mentioned vnto him, because he hath done that which is lawfull & right, he shall surely liue.

17 Yet the children of thy people say, a The way of the Lord is not equall: but their owne way is vnequall. Chap. 18. 25.

18 When the righteous turneth from his righteousnes, and committeth iniquitie, he shall euen die therein.

19 But if the wicked returne from his wickednesse, and do that which is lawfull and right, he shall liue therein.

20 Yet ye say, the way of the Lord is not equall. O ye house of Israel, I will iudge you euery one after his wayes.

21 Also in the twelfth yeere of our captiuitie, in the tenth moneth, and in the fift day of the moneth, one that had escaped out of Jerusalem, came vnto me, and sayd, The city is smitten.

22 Now the a hand of the Lord had bene vpon me in the euening afore he that had escaped came, and had opened my mouth, vntil he came to me in the morning: and when he had opened my a mouth, I was no more dumbe.

23 Againe the word of the Lord came vnto me, and said,

24 Sonne of man, these that dwell in the desolate places of the land of Israel, talke and say, a Abraham was but one, and he possessed the land: but we are many, therfore the land shall be giuen vs in possession.

25 Wherefore say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, Ye eate with the a blood, and lift vp your eyes toward your idoles, and shed blood: should yee then possesse the land?

26 Ye leane vpon your a swordes: yee worke abomination, and ye defile euery one his neighbours wife: should ye then possesse the land?

27 Say thus vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God, As I liue, surely they that are in the desolate places, shall fall by the sworde: and him that is in the open field, will I giue vnto the beasts to be deuoured: and they that be in the fors and in the caues, shall die of the pestilence.

28 For I will lay the land desolate and waste, and the a pompe of her strength shall cease: and the mountaines of Israel shall be desolate, and none shall passe thorow.

29 Then shall they know that I am the Lord, when I haue layed the land desolate and waste, because of all their abominations that they haue committed.

30 Also thou sonne of man, the children of thy people that a talke of thee by the walls and in the doores of houses, and speake one to another, euery one to his brother, saying, Come, I pray you, and heare what is the word that commeth from the Lord.

31 For they come vnto thee, as the people vseth to come: and my people sit before thee, and heare thy words, but they will not do them: for with their mouthes they make a iestes, and their heart goeth after their couetousnesse.

32 And loe, thou art vnto them, as a lesting song of one that hath a pleasant voice, and can sing well: for they heare thy words, but

CHAP. XXXIIII.

1 Against the shepheardes that despised the Kingdome of Christ, and seeke their owne gaine. 7 The Lord saith that he will visite his dispersed flocke, and gather them together. 23 How promiseth the true shepheard Christ, and with him peace.

AND the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, prophesie against the shepheards of Israel, prophesie and say vnto them, Thus saith the Lord God vnto the shepheards, a Woe be vnto the b shepheards of Israel, that feede themselues: should not the shepheards feede the flockes?

3 Ye eate the c fat, and ye cloth you with the wool: ye kill them that are fed, but yee feede not the sheepe.

4 The d weake haue yee not strengthened: the sick haue ye not healed, neither haue yee bound vp the broken, nor brought againe that which was driuen away, neither haue ye sought that which was lost, but with crueltie, and with rigour haue yee ruled them.

5 And they were scattered without a shepheard: and when they were dispersed, they were d deuoured of all the beasts of the field.

6 My sheepe wandered through all the mountaines, and vpon euery high hill: yea, my flock was scattered through all the earth, and none did seeke or search after them.

7 Therefore yee shepheards, heare the word of the Lord.

8 As I liue, saith the Lord God, surely because my flocke was spoyled, and my sheepe were deuoured of all the beastes of the field, hauing no shepheard, neither did my shepheards seeke my sheepe, but the shepheards fed themselues, and fed not my sheepe, 9 Therefore heare yee the word of the Lord, O yee shepheards.

10 Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I come against the shepheards, and will require my sheepe at their hands, and cause them to cease from feeding the sheepe: neither shall the shepheards feede themselues, any more: for I will deliuer my sheepe from e their mouthes, and they shall no more deuoure them.

11 For thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I will search my sheepe, and seeke them out.

12 As a shepheard searcheth out his flock, when hee hath beene among his sheepe that are scattered, so will I seeke out my sheepe, and will deliuer them out of all places, where they haue beene scattered in f the cloudie and darke day.

13 And I will bring them out from the people, and gather them from the countries, and will bring them to their owne land, and feede them vpon the mountaines of Israel, by the riuers, and all the inhabited places of the country.

14 I will feede them in a good pasture, and vpon the hie mountaines of Israel shall their fold bee: there shall they lie in a good folde, and in fat pasture shall they feede vpon the mountaines of Israel.

15 I will feede my sheepe, and bring them to their rest, saith the Lord God.

16 I will seeke that which was lost, and bring againe that which was driuen away, and will binde vp that which was broken, and will strengthen the weake, but I will destroy the fat and the strong, and I will feede them with g iudgement.

17 Also you my sheepe, Thus sayeth the Lord God, Beholde, I iudge betweene sheepe and sheepe, betweene the rammes and the goates.

18 Seemeth it a small thing vnto you to haue eaten vp the good pasture, but ye must treade downe with your feete the residue of your pasture: and to haue drunk of the deepe waters, but ye must trouble the residue with your feete?

19 And my sheepe eat that which ye haue troden with your feete, & drinke that which yee haue troubled with your feete.

20 Therefore thus saith the Lord God vnto them, Behold, I, euen I will iudge betweene the fat sheepe and the leane sheepe.

21 Because yee haue thrust with side and with shoulder, and pushe all the weake with your hornes, till yee haue scattered them abroad, 22 Therefore will I helpe my sheepe, and they shall no more bee spoyled, and I will iudge betweene sheepe and sheepe.

23 And I will set vp a shepheard ouer them, and he shal feed them, euen my seruant h Dauid, he shall feede them, and he shall be their shepheard.

24 And I the Lord will be their God, and my seruant Dauid shal be the prince among them. I the Lord haue spoken it.

25 And I will make with them a couenant of peace, and will cause the euill beasts to cease out of the land: and they shall i dwell safely in the wildernesse, and sleepe in the woods.

26 And I will set them, & a blessing, euen round about my mountaine: and I will cause raine to come down in due season, and there shall be raine of blessing.

27 And the k tree of the field shall yeelde her fruit, and the earth shall giue her fruit, and they shall be safe in their land, and shall know that I am the Lord, when I haue broken the coardes of their yoke, and deliuered them out of the hands of those that serued themselues of them.

28 And they shall no more bee spoyled of the heathen, neither shall the beastes of the land deuoure them, but they shall dwell safely, and none shall make them afraid.

29 And I will raise vp for them a l plant of renowme, and they shalbe no more consumed with hunger in the land, neither beare the reproch of the heathen any more.

30 Thus shall they vnderstand, that I the Lord their God am with them, and that they, euen the house of Israel, are my people, saith the Lord God.

31 And ye my sheepe, the sheepe of my pasture are men, and I am your God, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XXXV.

2 The destruction that shall come on mount Seir, because they troubled the people of the Lord.

MOreouer the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

2 Sonne of man, set thy face against mount [a] Seir, and prophesie against it,

3 And say vnto it, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, O mount Seir, I come against thee, and I will stretch out mine hand against thee, and I will make thee desolate and waste.

4 I will lay thy cities waste, and thou shalt be desolate, and thou shalt know that I am the Lord.

5 Because thou hast had a perpetuall hatred and hast put the children of Israel to flight by the force of the sword in the time of their calamitie, when their [b] iniquitie had an end,

6 Therefore as I liue, saieth the Lord God, I will prepare thee vnto blood, and blood shall pursue thee: except thou [c] hate blood, euen blood shall pursue thee.

7 Thus will I make mount Seir desolate, and waste, and cut off from it him that passeth out, and him that returneth.

8 And I will fill his mountaines with his slaine men: in thine hils, and in thy valleys, and in all thy riuers shall they fall, that are slaine with the sword.

9 I will make thee perpetuall desolations, and thy cities shall not [d] returne, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

10 Because thou hast said, [e] These two nations, and these two countreyes shall bee mine, and wee will possesse them (seeing the Lord was [f] there.)

11 Therefore as I liue, saith the Lord God, I will euen doe according to thy wrath, and according to thine indignation which thou hast vsed in thine hatred against them: and I will make my selfe knowen among [g] them when I haue iudged thee.

12 And thou shalt know, that I the Lord haue heard all thy blasphemies which thou hast spoken against the mountaines of Israel, saying, They lie waste, they are giuen vs to deuoure.

13 Thus with your mouthes ye haue boasted against mee, and haue multiplied your words against mee: I haue heard them.

14 Thus saith the Lord God, So shall all the world reioyce, when I shall make thee desolate.

15 As thou didest reioyce at the inheritance of the house of Israel, because it was desolate, so will I doe vnto thee: thou shalt be desolate, O mount Seir, and all Idumea wholly, and they shall know, that I am the Lord.

CHAP. XXXVI.

1 He promiseth to deliuer Israel from the Gentiles. 22 The benefits done vnto the Iewes, are to bee ascribed to the mercie of God, and not vnto their deserunges. 26 God renewoth our hearts, that we may walke in his commandements.

ALso thou sonne of man, prophesie vnto the [a] mountaines of Israel, and say, Yee mountaines of Israel, heare the word of the Lord.

2 Thus saieth the Lord God, Because the [b] enemie hath said against you, Aha, euen the [c] hie places of the world are ours in possession.

3 Therefore prophesie, & say, Thus saith the Lord God, Because that they haue made you desolate, and swallowed you vp on euery side, that yee might bee a possession vnto the residue of the heathen, and ye are come into the lips and [d] tongues of men, and vnto the reproch of the people,

4 Therefore yee mountaines of Israel, heare the word of the Lord God. Thus saith the Lord God to the mountaines and to the hils, to the riuers, and to the valleyes, and to the waste and desolate places, and to the cities that are forsaken, which are spoiled and had in derision of the residue of the heathen that are round about.

5 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, Surely in the fire of mine indignation haue I spoken against the residue of the heathen, and against all Idumea, which [e] haue taken my land for their possession, with the ioy of all their heart, and with despightfull minds to cast it out for a pray.

6 Prophesie therefore vpon the land of Israel, and say vnto the mountaines, and to the hilles, to the riuers, and to the valleyes, Thus saieth the Lord God, Behold, I haue spoken in mine indignation, & in my wrath, because ye haue suffered the [f] shame of the heathen.

7 Therefore thus saith the Lord God, I haue [g] lifted vp mine hand, surely the heathen that are about you, shall beare their shame.

8 But you, O mountaines of Israel, yee shall [h] shoote forth your branches, and bring forth your fruit to my people of Israel: for they are readie to come.

9 For behold, I come vnto you, and I will turne vnto you, and ye shalbe tilled and sowen.

10 And I will multiply the men vpon you, euen all the house of Israel wholly, and the cities shall bee inhabited, and the desolate places shall be builded.

11 And I will multiply vpon you man and beast, and they shall increase and bring fruit, and I will cause you to dwell after your old estate, and I will doe more beneficies vpon you more then at the first, and ye shal know that I am the Lord.

12 Yea, I will cause men to walke vpon you, euen my people Israel, and they shall possesse thee, and ye shalbe their inheritance, and ye shal no more henceforth bereaue them of men.

13 Thus saith the Lord God, Because they say vnto you, Thou [i] land deuourest vp men, and hast beene a waster of thy people,

14 Therefore thou shalt deuoure men no more, neither waste thy people henceforth, saith the Lord God, 15 Neither will I cause men to heare in thee the shame of the heathen any more, neither shalt thou beare the reproch of the people any more, neither shalt cause thy folke to fall any more, saith the Lord God.

Chap. 6. 2.

16 ¶ Moreouer the worde of the Lorde came vnto me, saying,

17 Sonne of man, when the house of Israel dwelt in their owne land, they defiled it by their owne wayes, and by their deedes: their way was before me as the filthinesse of one menstruous.

18 Wherefore I powred my wrath vpon them, for the blood that they had shed in the land, and for their idoles, wherewith they had polluted it.

19 And I scattered them among the heathen, and they were dispersed throwe the countreys: for according to their wayes, and according to their deedes, I iudged them.

20 * And when they entred vnto the heathen, whither they went, they polluted my holy Name, when they sayd of them, These are the people of the Lord, and are gone out of his land.

21 But I spared mine holy * Name, which the house of Israel had polluted among the heathen, whither they went.

22 Therefore say vnto the house of Israel, Thus sayth the Lord God, I doe not this for your sakes, O house of Israel, but for mine * holy Names sake, which ye polluted among the heathen, whither ye went.

23 And I will sanctifie my great Name, which was polluted among the heathen, among whom you haue polluted it, and the heathen shal know that I am the Lord, saith the Lord God, when I shall be sanctified in you before || their eyes.

24 For I will take you from among the heathen, and gather you out of all countreys, and will bring you into your owne land.

25 Then will I powre cleane * water vpon you, and ye shall be cleane: yea, from all your filthinesse, and from all your idoles will I cleanse you.

26 * A new heart also will I giue you, and a new spirit will I put within you, and I will take away the stonie heart out of your bodie, and I will giue you a heart of flesh.

27 And I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walke in my statutes, and ye shall keepe my iudgements and doe them.

28 And ye shall dwell in the land, that I gaue to your fathers, and ye shall be my people, and I will be your God.

29 I will also deliuer you from all your filthinesse, and I will call for * corne, and will increase it, and lay no famine vpon you.

30 For I will multiplie the fruit of the trees, and the increase of the field that ye shall beare no more the reproch of famine among the heathen.

31 Then shall ye remember your owne wicked wayes, and your deedes that were not good, and shall iudge your selues worthy to haue been * destroyed for your iniquities, and for your abominations.

32 Be it knowen vnto you that I doe not this for your sakes saith the Lord God: therefore, O ye house of Israel, bee ashamed and confounded for your owne wayes.

33 Thus sayth the Lorde God, euen that same as I shal haue cleansed you from all your iniquities, I will cause you to dwell in the cities, and the desolate places shalbe builded.

34 And the desolate land shall be tilled, whereas it lay waste in the sight of all that passed by.

35 For they sayd, This waste land was like the garden of Eden, and these waste and desolate and ruinous cities were strong, and were inhabited.

36 Then the residue of the heathen that are left round about you, shall * know that I the Lord build the ruinous places, and plant the desolate places: I the Lord haue spoken it, and will doe it.

37 Thus sayth the Lord God, I will yet for this be sought of the house of Israel, to performe it vnto them: I will increase them with men like a flocke.

38 As the holy flocke, as the flocke of Ierusalem in their solemne feastes, so shall the desolate cities be filled with flockes of men, and they shall know, that I am the Lord.

1 Hee prophesieth the bringing againe of the people being in captiuitie. 16 Hee sheweth the vnion of the ten tribes with the two.

THe hand of the Lord was vpon me, and carried me out in the spirit of the Lord, and set me downe in the midst of the || valley, which was full of * bones.

4 Againe hee sayd vnto me, Prophesie vpon these bones, and say vnto them, O ye drie bones, heare the word of the Lord.

5 Thus sayth the Lord God vnto these bones, Behold, I will cause breath to enter into you, and ye shall liue.

8 And when I beheld, loe, the sinewes, and the flesh grew vpon them, and aboue the skin couered them, but there was no breath in them.

10 So I prophesied as he had commanded me: and the breath came into them, and they lined, and stood vp vpon their feete, an exceeding great armie.

11 Then he sayd vnto me, Sonne of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel. Behold, they say, Our bones are dried, and our hope is gone, and we are cleane cut off.

2 And I will destroy thee, and leaue but the sixt part of thee, and will cause thee to come vp from the North parts, and will bring thee vpon the mountaines of Israel:

3 And I will smite thy bowe out of thy left hande, and I will cause thine arrowes to fall out of thy right hand.

4 Thou [b] shalt fall vpon the mountaines of Israel, and all thy bands, and the people that is with thee: for I will giue vnto the birds, and to euery feathered foule and beast of the field to be deuoured.

5 Thou shalt fal vpon the open field: for I haue spoken it, saith the Lord God.

7 So will I make mine holy Name knowen in the middes of my people Israel, and I will not suffer them to pollute mine holy Name any more, and the heathen shall know that I am the Lord, the holy One of Israel.

8 Behold, [d] it is come, and it is done, saith the Lord God: this is the day whereof I haue spoken.

9 And they that dwell in the cities of Israel, shall [e] goe forth, and shall burne and set fire vpon the weapons, and on the shields, and bucklers, vpon the bowes, and vpon the arrowes, and vpon the staues in their hands, and vpon the speares, and they shall burne them with fire seuen yeeres.

10 So that they shall bring no wood out of the field, neither cut downe any out of the forrests: for they shall burne the weapons with fire, and they shall robbe those that robbed them, and spoile those that spoyled them, saith the Lord God.

11 And at the same time will I giue vnto Gog [f] a place there for burial in Israel, even the valley whereby men goe toward the East part of the Sea: and it shal cause them that passe by, to stoppe their noses, and there shall they bury Gog with all his multitude: and they shall call it the valley of [g] Hamon-gog.

12 And seuen moneths long shal the house of Israel be burying of them, that they may cleanse the land.

13 Yea, all the people of the land shall burie them, and they shall haue a name when I shall be glorified, saith the Lord God.

14 And they shal chuse out men to go continually thorow the land with them that trauaile, to bury those that remaine vpon the ground, to cleanse it: they shall search to the end of seuen moneths.

CHAP. XL.

The restoring of the Citie and the Temple.

IN the fine and twentieth yeere of our being in captiuitie, in the beginning of the yeere, in the tenth day of the moneth, in the fourteenth yeere after that the citie was smitten, in the selfe same day, the hand of the Lord was vpon mee, and brought mee thither.

2 Into the land of Israel brought he me by a diuine vision, and set mee vpon a very hie mountaine, whereupon was as the building of a citie toward the South.

3 And hee brought me thither, and beholde, there was a man, whose similitude was to looke to, like brasse, with a linnen thread in his hand, and a reed to measure with: and he stood at the gate.

4 And the man sayd vnto me, Sonne of man, behold with thine eyes, and heare with thine eare, and set thine heart vpon all that I shall shew thee: for to the intent that they might be shewed thee, art thou brought hether: declare al that thou seest, vnto the house of Israel.

5 And behold, there was a wall on the outside of the house round about: and in the mans hand was a reede of measure with, of fiue cubites long, by the cubite, and an handbreadth: so hee measured the breadth of the building with one reede, and the height with one reede.

6 Then came he vnto the gate, which looketh toward the East, and went vp the staires thereof, and measured the ‖ poste of the gate, which was one reede broad, and ‖ the other poste of the gate, which was one reede broad.

7 And euery chamber was one reed long, and one reed broad, and betweene the chambers were fiue cubites: and the poste of the gate by the porch of the gate within was one reede.

8 He measured also the porch of the gate within with one reed.

9 Then measured he the porch of the gate of eight cubites, and the ‖ posts thereof, of two cubites, and the porch of the gate was inward.

10 And the chambers of the gate Eastward, were three on this side, and three on that side: they three were of one measure, and the posts had one measure on this side, and one on that side.

11 And he measured the breadth of the entrie of the gate ten cubites, and the height of the gate thirteene cubites.

12 The space also before the chambers was one cubite on this side, and the space was one cubite on that side, and the chambers were fiue cubites on this side, and fiue cubites on that side.

13 Hee measured then the gate from the roofe of a chamber to the top of the gate: the breadth was fiue and twenty cubites, doore against doore.

14 He made also postes of threescore cubites, and the postes of the court, and of the gate had one measure round about.

15 And vpon the forefront of the entry of the gate vnto the forefront of the porch of the gate within were fifty cubits.

16 And there were narrowe windowes in the chambers, and in their posts within the gate round about, and likewise to the arches: and the windowes were round about within: and vpon the posts were palme trees.

17 ¶ Then brought he me into the outward court, and lo, there were chambers, and a pauement made for the court round about, and thirty chambers were vpon the pauement.

18 And the pauement was by the side of the gates ouer against y length of the gates, and the pauement was beneath.

19 Then he measured the breadth from the forefront of the lower gate without, vnto the forefront of the court within, an hundreth cubites Eastward and Northward.

20 And the gate of the outward court, that looked toward the North, measured he after the length and breadth thereof.

21 And the chambers thereof were, three on this side, and three on that side, and the postes thereof and the arches thereof of were after the measure of the first gate: the length thereof was fifty cubites, and the breadth five and twentie cubites.

22 And their windowes and their arches with their palme trees, were after the measure of the gate that looketh toward the East, and the going vp vnto it had seuen steps, and the arches thereof were before them.

23 And the gate of the inner court stoode ouer against the gate toward the North, and toward the East, and he measured from gate to gate an hundreth cubites.

24 After that, he brought me toward the South, and loe, there was a gate toward the South, and he measured the postes thereof, and the arches thereof according to these measures.

25 And there were windowes in it, and in the arches thereof round about like those windowes: the height was fifty cubites, and the breadth five and twentie cubites.

26 And there were seuen steps to goe vp to it, & the arches thereof were before them: and it had palme trees, one on this side, and another on that side vpon the post thereof.

27 ¶ And there was a gate in the inner court toward the South, and he measured from gate to gate toward the South an hundred cubites.

28 And he brought me into the inner court by the South gate, & he measured the South gate according to these measures, 29 And the chambers thereof, and the postes thereof, and the arches thereof according to these measures, and there were windowes in it, and in the arches thereof round about, it was fifty cubites long, and five and twentie cubites broad.

30 And the arches round about were five and twentie cubites long, and five cubites broad.

31 And the arches thereof were toward the vtter court, and palme trees were vpon the posts thereof, and the going vp to it had eight steps.

32 ¶ Againe he brought me into the inner court toward the East, and he measured the gate according to these measures.

33 And the chambers thereof, & the postes thereof, and the arches thereof were according to these measures, and there were windowes therein, and the arches thereof round about, it was fifty cubites long, and five and twentie cubites broad.

34 And the arches thereof were toward the vtter court, and palme trees were vpon the postes thereof, on this side and on that side, and the going vp to it had eight steps.

35 ¶ After, he brought me to the North gate, and measured it, according to these measures.

36 The chambers thereof, the postes thereof, and the arches thereof, and there were windowes therein round about: the height was fifty cubites, and the breadth five and twentie cubites.

37 And the postes thereof were toward the vtter court, and palme trees were vpon the postes thereof on this side, and on that side, and the going vp to it had eight steps.

38 And euerie chamber, and the entrie thereof was vnder the postes of the gates: there they washed the burnt offering.

39 And in the porch of the gate stood two tables on this side, and two tables on that side, vpon the which they slew the burnt offering, and the sinne offering, and the trespasse offering.

40 And at the side beyond the steps, at the entry of the North gate stood two tables, & on the other side, which was at the porch of the gate, were two tables.

41 Foure tables were on this side, and foure tables on that side by the side of the gate, euen eight tables whereupon they slew their sacrifice.

42 And the foure tables were of hewen stone for the burnt offring, of a cubit and an halfe long, and a cubite and an halfe broad, and one cubit hie: whereupon also they laide the instruments wherewith they slewe the burnt offering and the sacrifice.

43 And within were borders an hand broad, fastned round about, and vpon the tables lay the flesh of the offring.

44 And without the inner gate, were the chambers of the singers in the inner court, which was at the side of the North gate: and their prospect was toward the South, and one was at the side of the East gate, hauing the prospect toward the North.

45 And he said vnto me, This chamber whose prospect is toward the South, is for the Priestes that haue charge to keepe the house.

46 And the chamber whose prospect is toward the North, is for the Priests that haue the charge to keepe the alter: these are the sonnes of Sadok amongst the sonnes of Leui, which may come neere to the Lord to minister vnto him.

47 So he measured the court an hundred cubites long, and an hundred cubites broad, euen foure square: likewise the altar that was before the house.

48 And he brought me to the porch of the house, and measured the postes of the porch, fiue cubites on this side, and fiue cubites on that side: and the breadth of the gate was three cubites on this side, and three cubites on that side.

49 The length of the porch was twentie cubites, and the breadth eleuen cubites, and he brought me by the steps whereby they went vp to it, and there were pillars by the postes, one on this side, and another on that side.

CHAP. XLI.

1 The disposition and order of the building of the Temple and the other things thereto belonging.

AFterward, he brought me to the Temple and measured the postes, fiue cubites broad on the one side, and fiue cubites broad on the other side, which was the breadth of the Tabernacle.

2 And the breadth of the entrie was ten cubites, and the sides of the entrie were fiue cubites on the one side, and fiue cubites on the other side, and he measured the length thereof fortie cubites, and the breadth twentie cubites.

3 Then went he in, and measured the postes postes of the entrie two cubites, and the entrie fiue cubites, and the breadth of the entrie seuen cubites.

4 So hee measured the length thereof twentie cubites, and the breadth twentie cubites before the Temple. And hee said vnto me, This is the most holy place.

5 After, hee measured the wall of the house, sixe cubites, and the breadth of euery chamber foure cubits round about the house on euery side.

6 And the chambers were chamber vpon chamber, three and thirtie foote high, and they entred into the wal made for the chambers which was round about the house, that the posts might be fastned therein, and not be fastned in the wall of the house.

7 And it was large, and went round mounting vpward to the chambers: for the staire of the house was mounting vpward round about the house: therefore the house was larger vpward: so they went vp from the lowest chamber to the highest by the midst.

8 I saw also the house hie round about: the foundations of the chambers were a full reede of sixe great cubites.

9 The thicknesse of the wall which was for the chamber without was fiue cubits, and that which remained, was the place of the chambers that were within.

10 And betweene the chambers was the widenesse of twentie cubits round about the house on euery side.

11 And the doores of the chambers were toward the place that remained, one doore toward the North, and another doore toward the South, and the breadth of the place that remained, was fiue cubites round about.

12 Now the building that was before the separate place toward the West corner, was seuentie cubites broad, and the wall of the building was fiue cubites thicke, round about, and the length ninetie cubites.

13 So he measured the house an hundred cubites long, and the separate place, and the building with the wals thereof were an hundreth cubites long.

14 Also the breadth of the forefront of the house, and of the separate place toward the East, was an hundreth cubites.

15 And hee measured the length of the building, ouer against the separate place, which was behinde it, and the chambers on the one side, and on the other side an hundred cubites with the temple within, and the arches of the court.

16 The posts and the narrow windowes, & the chambers round about, on three sides ouer against the postes, sieled with cedar wood round about, and from the ground vp to the windowes, and the windowes were sieled.

17 And from aboue the doore vnto the inner house and without, and by all the wall round about within and without it was sieled according to the measure.

18 And it was made with Cherubims and palme trees, so that a palme tree was betweene a Cherub and a Cherub: and euery Cherub had two faces.

19 So that the face of a man was toward the palme tree on the one side, and the face of a lion toward the palme tree on the other side: thus was it made through all the house round about.

20 From the ground vnto aboue the doore were Cherubims and palme trees made as in the wall of the Temple.

21 The postes of the Temple were squared, and thus to looke vnto was the similitude and forme of the Sanctuarie.

22 The altar of wood was three cubites hie, and the length thereof two cubites, and the corners thereof, and the length thereof, and the sides thereof were of wood. And hee said vnto me, This is the table that shall be before the Lord.

23 And the Temple and the Sanctuarie had two doores.

24 And the doores had two wickets, euen two turning wickets, two wickets for one doore, and two wickets for another doore.

25 And vpon the doores of the Temple there were made Cherubims, and palme trees, like as was made vpon the wals, and there were thicke planks vpon the forefront of the porch without.

26 And there were narrow windowes and palme trees on the one side, and on the other side, by the sides of the porch, and vpon the sides of the house, and thicke planks.

CHAP. XLII.

Of the chambers of the Temple for the Priests, and the holy things.

THen brought hee me into the vtter court by the way toward the North, and hee brought me into the chamber that was ouer against the separate place, and which was before the building toward the North.

2 Before the length of an hundreth cubites, was the North doore, and it was fiftie cubites broad.

3 Ouer against the twentie cubits which were of the inner court, and ouer against the pauement, which was for the vtter court, was chamber against chamber in three rowes.

4 And before the chambers was a gallerie of tenne cubites wide, and within was a way of one cubite, and their doores toward the North.

5 Now the chambers aboue were narrower: for those chambers seemed to eate vp these, to wit, the lower, and those that were in the midst of the building.

6 For they were in three rowes, but had not pillars as the pillars of the court: therefore there was a difference from them beneath and from the middlemost, euen from the ground.

7 And the wall that was without ouer against the chambers, toward the vtter court on the forefront of the chambers, was fiftie cubites long.

8 For the length of the chambers that were in the vtter court, was fiftie cubites: and loe, before the Temple were an hundreth cubites.

9 And

9 And vnder their chambers was the entrie, on the Eastside, as one goeth into them from the outward court.

10 The chambers were in the thickenes of the wall of the court toward the East, ouer against the separate place, and ouer against the building.

11 And the way before them was after the maner of the chambers which were toward the North, as long as they, and as broad as they: and all their entries were like, both according to their fashions, and according to their doores.

12 And according to the doores of the chambers that were toward the South, was a doore in the corner of the way, euen the way directly before the wall toward the East, as one entreth.

13 Then sayd he vnto me, The North chambers and the South chambers which are before the separate place, they be holy chambers, wherein the Priests that approch vnto the LORDE, shall eate the most holy things: there shall they lay the most holy things, and the meate offering, and the sinne offering, and the trespasse offering: for the place is holy.

14 When the Priests enter therein, they shall not goe out of the holy place into the vter court, but there they shal lay their garments wherein they minister: for they are holy, and shall put on other garments, and so shall approch to those things, which are for the people.

15 Now when he had made an ende of measuring the inner house, he brought me forth toward the gate whose prospect is toward the East, & measured it round about.

16 He measured the East side with the measuring rod, fiue hundreth reedes, euen with the measuring reede round about.

17 He measured also the Northside, fiue hundreth reedes, euen with the measuring reede round about.

18 And he measured the South ‖ side, fiue hundreth reedes with the measuring reede. ‖ Or, winde.

19 He turned about also to the West side, and measured fiue hundreth reedes with the measuring reede.

20 He measured it by the foure sides: it had a wall round about, fiue hundreth reedes long, and fiue hundreth broad to make a separation betweene the Sanctuary and the prophane place.

CHAP. XLIII.

2 He seeth the glory of God going into the Temple, from whence he had before departed. 7 He mentioneth the idolatry of the children of Israel for the which they were consumed and brought to nought. 9 He is commanded to call them againe to repentance.

AFterward he brought me to the gate, euen the gate that turneth towarde the East.

2 And behold, the glory of the God of Israel came from out of the East, whose voyce was like a noyse of great waters, and the earth was made light with his glory.

3 And the vision which I saw was * like the vision, euen as the vision that I sawe * when I came to destroy the citie: and the visions were like the vision that I saw by the riuer Chebar: and I fell vpon my face.

4 And the b glory of the LORD came into the house by the way of the gate, whose prospect is toward the East.

5 So the Spirit tooke me vp, & brought me into the inner court, and behold, the glory of the LORD filled the house.

6 And I heard one speaking vnto me out of the house: and there stood a man by me,

7 Which sayd vnto me, Sonne of man, this place is my throne, and the place of the soles of my feet, whereas I will dwel among the children of Israel for euer, and the house of Israel shall no more c defile mine holy name, neither they, nor their kings by their fornication, nor by the carkeises of d their kings in their high places.

8 Albeit they set their thresholds by my thresholds, and their postes by my postes (for there was but a wall betweene me and them) yet haue they defiled mine holy name with their abominations, that they haue committed: wherefore I haue consumed them in my wrath.

9 Now therefore let them put away their fornication, and the carkeises of their kings farre from me, and I will dwel among them for euer.

10 ¶ Thou sonne of man, shew this house to the house of Israel, that they may be ashamed of their wickednes, and let them measure the patterne.

11 And if they be ashamed of all that they haue done, shew them the fasme of the house, and the patterne thereof, and the going out thereof, and the comming in thereof, and the whole fashion thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and all the figures thereof, and all the lawes thereof: and write it in their sight, that they may keepe the whole fashion thereof, and all the ordinances thereof, and doe them.

12 This is the description of the house, ‖ It shall bee vpon the top of the mount: all the limits thereof round about shall be most holy. Behold, this is the description of the house. ‖ Ebr. law

13 And these are the measures of the Altar, after the cubites: the cubite is a cubite and an hand breadth, euen the bottome shall be a cubite, and the breadth a cubite, and the border thereof by the edge thereof round about shalbe a span: and this shalbe the height of the altar.

14 And from the bottome which reacheth the ground to the lower piece shalbe two cubites, and the breadth one cubite, and from the litle piece to the great piece shalbe foure cubites, and the breadth one cubite.

15 So the altar shalbe foure cubites, and from the altar vpward shall be foure hornes.

16 And the altar shall bee twelue cubites long, and twelue broad, and foure square in the foure corners thereof.

17 And the frame shall bee fourteene cubites long, and fourteene broad in the foure square corners thereof, and the border about it shall bee halfe a cubite, and the bottome thereof shall be a cubite about, and the steps thereof shall be turned toward the East.

18 ¶ And

18 ¶ And he said vnto me, Sonne of man, thus sayth the Lord God, Theese are the ordinances of the altar in the day when they shal make it to offer the burnt offring thereon, and to sprincle blood thereon.

19 And thou shalt giue to the Priests, and to the Leuites, that be of the seede of Zadok, which approch vnto me, to minister vnto me sayth the Lord God, a young bullocke for a sinne offering.

20 And thou shalt take of the blood thereof, and put it on the foure hornes of it, and on the foure corners of the frame, and vpon the border round about: thus shalt thou cleanse it, and reconcile it.

21 Thou shalt take the bullocke also of the sinne offring, & burne it in the appointed place of the house without the Sanctuary.

22 But the second day thou shalt offer an hee goat without blemith for a sinne offring, and they shall cleanse the altar, as they did cleanse it with the bullocke.

23 ¶When thou hast made an end of cleansing it, thou shalt offer a yong bullocke without blemish, and a ramme out of the flocke without blemish.

24 And thou shalt offer them before the Lord, & the Priests shall cast salt vpon them, and they shall offer them for a burnt offring vnto the Lord.

25 Seuen dayes shalt thou prepare euery day an hee goat for a sinne offring: they shal also prepare a yong bullocke and a ramme out of the flocke, without blemish.

26 Thus shall they seuen dayes purifie ‡ Eb fill his hand. the altar, and cleanse it, and ‡ consecrate it.

27 And when these dayes are expired, vpon the eight day and so foorth, the Priests shall make your burnt offrings vpon the altar, and your peace offerings, and I will accept you, sayth the Lord God.

CHAP. XLIIII.

He reproueth the people for their offence. 7 The vncircumcised in heart and in the flesh. 9 Who are to bee admitted to the seruice of the Temple, and who to be refused.

Then he brought me toward the gate of the outward Sanctuary, which turneth toward the East, and it was shut.

2 Then said the Lord vnto me, This gate shalbe a shut, & shall not be opened, & no man shall enter by it, because the Lord God of Israel hath entred by it, and it shall be shut.

a Meaning, from the cõmon people, but not from the Priests nor the Prince, reade Chap. 46. 8, 9.

3 It apperteineth to the prince: the prince himselfe shal sit in it to eate bread before the Lord: he shall enter by the way of the porch of that gate, and shall goe out by the way of the same.

4 ¶ Then brought hee me toward the North gate before the house: & when I looked, behold, the glory of the Lord filled the house of the Lord, and I fell vpon my face.

5 And the Lord sayd vnto me, Sonne of man, & marke well, and behold with thine eyes, and heare with thine eares, all that I say vnto thee, concerning all the ordinances of the house of the Lorde, and all the lawes thereof, and marke well the entring in of the house with euery going foorth of the Sanctuarie,

6 And thou shalt say to the rebellious, euen to the house of Israel, Thus sayeth the Lorde God, O house of Israel, yee haue enough of all your abominations, b For they had brought idolaters, which were of other countreys, to teach them their idolatry, Chap. 23. 40.

8 For yee haue not kept the c ordinances of mine holy things: but you your selues haue set other to take the charge of my sanctuarie.

c Ye haue not offered vnto me according to my Law.

9 Thus sayeth the Lord God, No stranger vncircumcised in heart, nor vncircumcised in flesh, shall enter into my Sanctuary, of any stranger that is among the children of Israel.

10 Neither yet the d Leuites that are gone backe from me, when Israel went astray, which went astray from mee after their idoles, but they shall beare their iniquitie.

d The Leuites which had committed idolatry, were put from their dignity, and could not be receiued into the Priests office, although they had bene of the house of Aaron, but must serue in the inferior offices, as to watch and to keepe the doores, reade 2. King. 23. 9.

11 And they shall serue in my Sanctuarie, and keepe the gates of the house, and minister in the house: they shall slay the burnt offering and the sacrifice for the people: and they shal stand before them to serue them.

12 Because they serued before their idols, and caused the house of Israel to fall into iniquitie: therefore haue I lift vp mine hand against them, sayth the Lord God, and they shall beare their iniquitie, 13 And they shall not come neere vnto me to do the office of the Priest vnto me, neither shall they come neere vnto any of mine holy things in the most holy place, but they shall beare their shame and their abominations, which they haue committed.

14 And I will make them keepers of the watch of the house, for all the seruice thereof, and for all that shall be done therein.

15 But the Priestes of the Leuites, the sonnes of Zadok, that e kept the charge of my Sanctuary, when the children of Israel went astray from me, they shall come neere to me to serue me, and they shall stand before me to offer me the fat and the blood, sayeth the Lord God.

e Which obserued the Law of God, and fell not to idolatry.

16 They shall enter into my Sanctuary, and shal come neere to my table to serue me, and they shall keepe my charge.

17 And when they shall enter in at the gates of the inner court, they shal be clothed with linnen garments, and no wooll shall come vpon them while they serue in the gates of the inner court, and within.

18 They shall haue linnen bonets vpon their heads, and shall haue linnen breeches vpon their loynes: they shall not gird themselues in the sweating places.

19 But when they goe foorth into the vtter court, euen to the vtter court to the people, they shall put off their garments, wherein they ministred, and lay them in the holy chambers, and they shall put on other garments: for they shall not sanctifie

CHAP. XLV.

1 Out of the land of promiſe are there ſeparate foure portions, of which the firſt is giuen to the prieſts and to the Temple, the ſecond to the Leuites, the third to the citie, the fourth to the prince. 9 An exhortation vnto the heads of Iſrael 10 Of iuſt weights and meaſures. 13 Of the firſt fruits, &c.

MOreouer when yee ſhall diuide the land for inheritance, yee ſhall offer an oblation vnto the Lorde an * holy portion of the land, ſiue and twenty thouſand reedes long, and ten thouſand broad: this ſhall bee holy in all the borders thereof round about.

a Of all the land of Iſrael the Lord onely requireth this portion for the Temple and for the Prieſts, for the citie and for the Prince.

2 Of this there ſhall be for the Sanctuarie fiue hundreth in length, with fiue hundreth in breadth, all ſquare round about, and fifty cubites round about for the ſuburbs thereof.

3 And of this meaſure ſhalt thou meaſure the length of ſiue and twenty thouſand, and the breadth of tenne thouſand: and in it ſhall be the Sanctuarie, and the moſt holy place.

4 The holy portion of the land ſhall bee the prieſts, which miniſter in the Sanctuarie, which came neere to ſerue the Lord: and it ſhalbe a place for their houſes, and an holy place for the Sanctuarie.

5 And in the fiue and twentie thouſand of length, and the ten thouſand of breadth, ſhall the Leuites that miniſter in the houſe, haue their poſſeſſion for twenty chambers.

6 Alſo ye ſhall appoynt the poſſeſſion of the citie fiue thouſand broad, and fiue and twenty thouſand long ouer againſt the oblation of the holy portion: it ſhall be for the whole houſe of Iſrael.

7 And a portion ſhall be for the prince on the one ſide, and on that ſide of the oblation of the holy portion, and of the poſſeſſion of the citie, euen before the oblation of the holy portion, and before the poſſeſſion of the citie from the Weſt coaſt Weſtward, and from the Eaſt coaſt Eaſtward, and the length ſhalbe by one of the portions from the Weſt border vnto the Eaſt border.

8 In this land ſhall bee his poſſeſſion in Iſrael: and my princes ſhall no more oppreſſe my people, and the reſt of the land ſhall they giue to the houſe of Iſrael: according to their tribes.

9 Thus ſaith the Lord God, Let it b ſuffice you, O princes of Iſrael: leaue off crueltie & oppreſſion, and execute iudgement and iuſtice: take away your exactions from my people, ſayth the Lord God.

11 The Ephah and the Bath ſhall be equall: a Bath ſhall containe the tenth part of an Homer, and an Ephah the tenth part of an Homer: the equalitie thereof ſhall be after the Homer.

12 * And the ſhekel ſhalbe twenty gerahs, and twenty ſhekels, and d fiue and twentie ſhekels and fifteene ſhekels ſhall be your Maneh.

13 ¶ This is the oblation that ye ſhal offer, the firſt part of an Ephah of an Homer of wheate, and ye ſhall giue the firſt part of an Ephah of an Homer of barley.

14 Concerning the ordinance of the oyle, euen of the Bath of oyle, yee ſhall offer the tenth part of a Bath out of the Cor, (tenne Baths are an Homer: for ten Baths fill an Homer.)

16 All the people of the land ſhal giue this oblation for the prince in Iſrael.

17 And it ſhall be the princes part to giue burnt offrings, and meate offrings, & drinke offerings in the ſolemne feaſts, & in the new moones, and in the Sabbaths, and in all the high feaſts of the houſe of Iſrael: he ſhal prepare the ſinne offring, and the meat offring, and the burnt offering, and the peace offerings to make reconciliation for the houſe of Iſrael.

CHAP. XLVI.

1 The sacrifice of the Sabbath and of the new moones. 8 Throw which doores they must go in, or come out of the Temple, &c.

THus sayeth the Lord God, The gate of the inner court, that turneth toward the East, shall bee shut the sixe working dayes: but on the Sabbath it shall be opened, and in the day of the new moone it shall bee opened.

2 And the prince shall enter by the way of the porch of that gate without, and shall stand by the poste of the gate, and the priests shall make his burnt offering, and his peace offerings, and he shall worship at the threshold of the gate: after, hee shall goe forth, but the gate shall not bee shut till the euening.

3 Likewise the people of the land shall worship at the entrie of this gate before the Lorde on the Sabbaths, and on the newe moones.

4 And the burnt offring that the prince shall offer vnto the Lorde on the Sabbath day shalbe sixe lambes without blemish, and a ramme without blemish.

5 And the meat offring shalbe an Ephah for a ramme: and the meate offring for the lambes a a gift of his hand, and an Hin of oyle to an Ephah.

a That is, as much as he will.

6 And in the day of the newe moone it shal be a yong bullocke without blemish, and sixe lambes and a ramme: they shalbe without blemish.

7 And he shall prepare a meate offring, euen an Ephah for a bullock, and an Ephah for a ramme, and for the lambes b according as his hand shall bring, and an Hin of oyle to an Ephah.

b Meaning, as he shall thinke good.

8 And when the prince shal enter, he shal goe in by the way of the porch of that gate, and he shall goe forth by the way thereof.

9 But when the people of the land shall come before the Lord in the solemne feastes, he that entreth in by the way of the North gate to worship, shall goe out by the way of the South gate: and he that entreth by the way of the South gate, shall goe forth by the way of the North gate: he shall not returne by the way of the gate whereby he came in, but they shall goe forth ouer against it.

10 And the prince shall be in the midst of them: he shall goe in when they goe in, and when they goe forth, they shall goe forth together.

11 And in the feastes, and in the solemnities the meate offering shall be an Ephah to a bullocke, and an Ephah to a ramme, and to the lambes, the gift of his hand, and an Hin of oyle to an Ephah.

12 Now when the prince shall make a free burnt offring or peace offerings freely vnto the Lord, one shall then open him the gate, that turneth toward the East, and he shall make his burnt offering, and his peace offerings as he did on the Sabbath day after, he shall goe forth, and when he is gone forth, one shall shut the gate.

13 Thou shalt dayly make a burnt offering vnto the Lorde of a lambe of one yeere without blemish: thou shalt doe it euery morning.

14 And thou shalt prepare a meate offering for it euery morning, the first part of an Ephah, and the third part of an Hin of oyle, to mingle with the fine flowre: this meate offering shal be continually by a perpetual ordinance vnto the Lord.

15 Thus shall they prepare the lambe, and the meate offering, and the oyle euery morning, for a continuall burnt offering.

16 ¶ Thus sayth the Lord God, If the prince giue a gift of his inheritance vnto any of his sonnes, it shall be his sonnes, and it shall be their possession by inheritance.

17 But if he giue a gift of his inheritance to one of his seruants, then it shall be his to the c yeere of libertie: after, it shall returne to the prince, but his inheritance shall remaine to his sonnes for them.

c Which was at the Iubile, Leuit. 25.9.

18 Moreouer, the prince shall not d take of the peoples inheritance, nor thrust them out of their possession: but he shall cause his sonnes to inherit of his owne possession, that my people be not scattered euery man from his possession.

d But be content with that portion that God hath assigned him, as Chap. 45.8.

19 ¶ After, he brought me through the entrie, which was at the side of the gate, into the holy chambers of the Priestes, which stood toward the North: and behold, there was a place at the West side of them.

20 Then sayd he vnto me, This is the place where the priests shall seethe the trespasse offering, and the sinne offering, where they shall bake the meate offering, that they should not beare them into the vtter court, e to sanctifie the people.

e That the people should not haue to doe with those things which appertaine to the Lord, and thinke it lawfull for them to eate them.

21 Then he brought me forth into the vtter court, and caused me to goe by the foure corners corners of the court: and behold, in every corner of the court, there was a court.

22 In the foure corners of the court there were courtes ioyned of fourtie cubits long, and thirtie broad: their foure corners were of one measure.

23 And there went a wal about them, euen about those foure, and kitchins were made vnder the wals round about.

24 Then said he vnto me, This is the kitchin where the ministers of the house shall seethe the sacrifice of the people.

CHAP. XLVII.

1 The vision of the waters, that came out of the Temple. 13 The coasts of the land of promise, & the dimension thereof by tribes.

AFterward he brought me vnto the doore of the house: and behold, a waters riued out from vnder the threshold of the house Eastwarde: for the forefront of the house stoode towarde the East, and the waters ranne downe from vnder the right side of the house, at the South side of the altar.

2 Then brought he mee out toward the North gate, and led mee about by the way without vnto the vtter gate, by the way that turneth Eastward: and behold, there came foorth waters on the right side.

3 And when the man that had the line in his hand, went forth Eastward, he measured a thousand cubits, and he brought me through the waters: the waters were to the ancles.

4 Againe hee measured a thousand, and brought me through the waters: the waters were to y knees: againe he measured a thousand, and brought me through: the waters were to the loynes.

5 Afterward hee measured a thousand, and it was a b riuer that I could not passe ouer: for the waters were risen, and the waters did flow, as a riuer that could not bee passed ouer.

6 And hee said vnto me, Sonne of man, hast thou seene this? Then he brought me, & caused me to returne to the brinke of the riuer.

7 Now when I returned, behold, at the brinke of the riuer were very many c trees on the one side, and on the other.

8 Then said he vnto me, These waters issue out toward the East country, and runne downe into the plaine, and shall goe into one d sea: they shall runne into another sea, and the e waters shalbe wholesome.

9 And euery thing that liueth, which moueth, whereseuer the riuers shall came, shall liue, and there shall bee a very great multitude of fish, because these waters shall come thither: for they shall bee wholesome, and euery thing shall liue whither the riuer commeth.

10 And then the f fishers shall stand vpon it, & from En-gedi euen vnto En-eglaim, they shall spread out their nets: for their fish shalbe according to their kinds, as the fish of g the maine sea, exceeding many.

11 But h the myrie places thereof, and the marishes thereof shall not be wholesome: they shall be made salt pits.

12 And by this riuer vpon the bankes thereof, on this side, and on that side, shall grow all fruitfull trees, whose leafe shall not fade, neither shall the fruit thereof faile: it shall bring forth new fruite according to his monethes, because their waters ran out of the Sanctuarie: and the fruite thereof shall be meate, and the leafe thereof i to be for medicine.

13 ¶ Thus saith the Lord God, This shall be the border, whereby ye shall inherite the land according to the twelue tribes of Israel: Ioseph shall haue two portions.

14 And ye shall inherite it, one as well as an other: concerning the which I lift vp mine hand to giue it vnto your fathers, and this land shall fall vnto you for inheritance.

15 And this shall bee the border of the land toward the Northside, from the mayne sea toward Hethlon as men go to Zedadah:

16 Hamath, Berothah, Sibraim, which is betweene the border of Damascus, and the border of Hamath, and Hazar, Hatticon, which is by the coast of Hauran.

17 And the border from the sea shall bee Hazar, Enan, and the border of Damascus, and the reuma of the North, Northward, and the border of Hamath: so shall bee the North part.

18 But the East side shall yee measure from Hauran, and from Damascus, and from Gilead, and from the land of Israel by Iorden, and from the border vnto the East sea: and so shall be the East part.

19 And the Southside shall bee toward Temain from Tamar to the waters of k Meribath-in Kadesh, and the riuer to the mayne sea: so shal be the South part toward Teman.

20 The eastest part also shall be the great sea from the border, till a man come ouer against Hamath: this shalbe the eastest part.

21 So shall ye diuide this land vnto you, according to the tribes of Israel.

22 And you shall diuide it by lot for an inheritance vnto you, and to the strangers that dwell among you, which shall beget children among you, and they shall be vnto you as borne in the country among the children of Israel, they shall part inheritance with you in the midst of the tribes of Israel.

23 And in what tribe the stranger dwelleth, there shall ye giue him his inheritance, saith the Lord God.

CHAP. XLVIII.

1 The lot of the tribes. 9 The parts of the possession of the Priests of the Temple, of the Leuites, of the citie, and of the Prince are rehearsed.

NOw these are the names of the tribes: From the Northside, to the coast toward Hethlon, as one goeth to Hamath, Hazar, Enan, and the border of Damascus Northward the coast of Hamath, euen from the East side to the eastest shall bee a portion for Dan.

2 And by y border of Dan from the East side vnto the eastest side, a portion for Asher.

3 And by the border of Asher from the East part euen vnto the eastest part, a portion for Naphtali.

Or, strife.

l Meaning, that in this spirituall kingdome there should be no difference betweene Iew nor Gentile, but y all should be partakers of this inheritance in their head Christ.

1 The tribes, after that they entred into the land vnder Iosua, diuided the land somewhat otherwise then is here set forth by this vision.

4 And by the border of Naphtali from the East quarter vnto the West side, a portion for Manasseh.

5 And by the border of Manasseh from the East side vnto the West side, a portion for Ephraim.

6 And by the border of Ephraim, from the East part euen vnto the West part, a portion for Reuben.

7 And by the border of Reuben, from the East quarter vnto the West quarter, a portion for Iudah.

8 And by the border of Iudah, from the East part vnto the West part [b] shall bee the offering which they shall offer of fiue and twentie thousand reeds broad, and of length as one of the other parts, from the East side vnto the West side, and the Sanctuarie shal be in the mids of it.

9 The oblation that yee shall offer vnto the Lord, shall bee of fiue and twentie thousand long, and of ten thousand the breedth.

10 And for them, euen for the Priests shalbe this holy oblation, toward the North fiue and twentie thousand long, and toward the West ten thousand broad, and toward the East ten thousand broad, and toward the South fiue and twentie thousand long, and the Sanctuarie of the Lord shall bee in the mids thereof.

11 It shall be for the Priests, that are sanctified of the sonnes of [*] Zadok, which haue kept my charge, which went not astray, when the children of Israel went astray, as the Leuites went astray.

12 Therefore this oblatiō of the land that is offered, shall be theirs, as a thing most holy by the border of the Leuites.

13 And ouer against the border of the Priests, the Leuites shall haue fiue & twentie thousand long, and ten thousand broad: all the length shall be fiue and twentie thousand, and the breadth ten thousand.

14 And they shall not sell of it, neither change it, nor alienate the first fruites of the land: for it is holy vnto the Lord.

15 And the fiue thousand that are left in the breadth ouer against the fiue & twenty thousand, shall be a prophane place for the citie, for dwelling, and for suburbes, and the citie shall be in the mids thereof.

16 And these shall be the measures thereof, the North part fiue hundreth and foure thousand, and the South part [c] fiue hundreth and foure thousande, and the East part fiue hundreth and foure thousand, and the West part fiue hundreth and foure thousand.

17 And the suburbes of the citie shall bee toward the North two hundreth and fiftie, and toward the South two hundreth and fiftie, and toward the East two hundreth and fiftie, and toward the West two hundreth and fiftie.

18 And the residue in length ouer against the oblation of the holy portion shall bee ten thousand Eastward, and tenne thousand Westward, and it shall be ouer against the oblation of the holy portion, and the increase thereof shal be for food vnto them that serue in the citie.

19 And they that serue in the citie, shall bee of all the tribes of Israel that shall serue therein.

20 All the oblation shall be fiue and twentie thousand with [d] fiue and twentie thousand: you shal offer this oblatiō foure square for the Sanctuarie, and for the possession of the citie.

21 And the residue shall be for the prince on the one side and on the other of the oblation of the Sanctuarie, and of the possession of the citie, ouer against the fiue and twentie thousand of the oblation toward the East border, and Westward ouer against the fiue & twentie thousand toward the West border, ouer against shalbe for the portion of the prince: this shalbe the holy oblation, and the house of the Sanctuarie shalbe in the mids thereof.

22 Moreouer, from the possession of the Leuites, and from the possession of the citie, that which is in the middes shalbe the princes: betweene the borders of Iudah, and betweene the border of Beniamin shall bee the princes.

23 And the rest of the tribes shall be thus: from the East part vnto [f] West part, Beniamin shall bee a portion.

24 And by the border of Beniamin, from the East side vnto the West side, Simeon a portion.

THE ARGVMENT.

THe great prouidence of God, and his ſingular mercie toward his Church are moſt liuely here ſet forth, who neuer leaueth his deſtitute, but now in their greateſt miſeries & afflictions giueth them Prophets, as Ezekiel, and Daniel, whom he adorned with ſuch graces of his holy Spirit, that Daniel aboue all other had moſt ſpeciall reuelations of ſuch things as ſhould come to the Church, euen from the time that they were in captiuitie, to the laſt end of the world, and to the generall reſurrection, as of the fowre monarchies and empires of all the world, to wit, of the Babylonians, Perſians, Grecians and Romans. Alſo of the certaine number of the times euen vnto Chriſt, when all ceremonies and ſacrifices ſhould ceaſe, becauſe he ſhould be the accompliſhment thereof: moreouer he ſheweth Chriſts office and the cauſe of his death, which was by his ſacrifice to take away ſinne, and to bring euerlaſting life. And as from the beginning God euer exerciſed his people vnder the croſſe, ſo he teacheth here, that after that Chriſt is offered, he will ſtill leaue this exercile to his Church vntill the dead riſe againe, and Chriſt gather his into his kingdome in the heauens.

CHAP. I.

1 The captiuitie of Iehoiakim king of Iudah. 4 The king chuſeth certaine yong men of the Iewes to learne his law. 5 They haue the kings ordinarie appointed. 8 But they abſtaine from it.

IN the [a] third yere of the raigne of Iehoiakim king of Iudah, came Nebuchad-nezzar king of Babel vnto Ieruſalem, & beſieged it.

2 And the Lord gaue Iehoiakim king of Iudah into his hande, with part of the veſſels of the houſe of God, which he carried into the land of [b] Shinar, to the houſe of his god, and he brought the veſſels into his gods treaſurie.

3 And the king ſpake vnto [c] Aſhpenaz the maiſter of his [d] Eunuches, that hee ſhould bring certaine of the children of Iſrael, of the [e] kings ſeede, and of the princes:

4 Children in whom was no blemiſh, but well fauoured, and inſtructed in all wiſdome, and well learne in knowledge, and able to vnder knowledge, and ſuch as were able to ſtand in the kings palace, and whom they might teach the [f] learning, and the tongue of the Caldeans.

5 And the king appointed them prouiſion euery day of a [g] portion of the kings meate, and of the wine which he dranke, ſo nouriſhing them [i] three yere, that at the end thereof, they might ſtand [k] before the king.

6 Now among theſe were certaine of the children of Iudah, Daniel, Hananiah, Miſhael, and Azariah.

7 Vnto whom the chiefe of the eunuches [l] gaue other names: for he called Daniel, Belteſhazzar, and Hananiah, Shadrach, and Miſhael, Meſhach, and Azariah, Abednego.

8 ¶ But Daniel had determined in his heart, that hee would not [m] defile himſelfe with the portion of the kings meat, nor with the wine which he dranke: therefore he required the chiefe of the Eunuches that he might not defile himſelfe.

9 (Now God had brought Daniel into fauour, and tender loue with the chiefe of the Eunuches)

10 And the chiefe of the Eunuches ſayd vnto Daniel, [o] I feare my lorde the king, who hath appointed your meate and your drinke: therefore if hee ſee your faces worſe liking then the other children, which are of your ſort, then ſhall yee make me loſe mine head vnto the king.

11 Then ſaid Daniel to Melzar, whom the chiefe of the Eunuches had ſet ouer Daniel, Hananiah, Miſhael and Azariah, 12 Prooue thy ſeruants, I beſeech thee, [p] ten dayes, and let them giue vs pulſe to eate, and water to drinke.

13 Then let our countenances be looked vpon before thee: and the countenances of the children that eate of the portion of a Reade 2. King. 24. 1. and Iere. 25. 1.

b Which was a plaine by Babylon, where was the Temple of their great god, and is here taken for Babylon.

c Who was as maiſter of the wards.

d Hee calleth them eunuches whom the King nouriſhed and brought vp to be rulers of other countreys afterward.

e His purpoſe was to keepe them as hoſtages, and that he might ſhew himſelfe victorious and alſo by their good intreatie and learning of his religion, they might fauour rather him then the Iewes, and ſo to be able to ſerue him as gouernours in their land: moreouer by this meanes the Iewes might be better kept in ſubiection, fearing otherwiſe to procure hurt to theſe noblemen. f The King required three things, that they ſhould bee of noble birth, that they ſhould be witty & learned, that they ſhould be of a ſtrong & comely nature, that they might do him better ſeruice: this he did for his owne commoditie, therefore it is not to praiſe his liberalitie: yet in this he is worthy of praiſe, that he eſteemed learning, and knewe that it was a neceſſarie meane to gouerne by. g That they might forget their owne religion and country faſhions, to ſerue him the better to his purpoſe: yet it is not to bee thought that Daniel did learne any knowledge, that was not godly: in all points he refuſed the abuſe of things and ſuperſtition, inſomuch that hee would not eate the meate which the King appointed him, but was content to learne the knowledge of naturall things. h That by their good entertainment, they might learne to forget the mediocritie of their owne people.

i To the intent that in this time they might both learne the manners of the Caldeans, & alſo their tongue.

k As well to ſerue at the table, as in other offices.

l That they might altogether forget their religion: for the Iewes gaue their children names, which might euer put them in remembrance of ſome point of religion, therefore this was a great tentation and a ſigne of ſeruitude which they were not able to reſiſt.

m Not that he thought any religion to be in the meate or drinke (for afterward he did eate) but becauſe the king ſhould not entice him by this ſweete poyſon, to forget his religion and accuſtomed ſobrietie, and that in his meate and drinke he might dayly remember of what people hee was: and Daniel bringeth this in to ſhewe howe God from the beginning aſſiſted him with his Spirit, and at length called him to be a Prophet. n He ſuppoſed they did this for their religion, which was contrary to the Babylonians: and therefore herein he repreſenteth them which are of no religion: for neither hee would condemne theirs nor maintaine his owne.

o Meaning, that within this ſpace hee might haue the triall, and that no man ſhould be able to diſcerne it: and thus he ſpake, being moued by the Spirit of God. p Not that it was a thing abominable to eat daintie meates and to drinke wine, as both before and after they did, but if they ſhould haue thereby beene wonne to the King, and haue refuſed their owne religion, that meat and drinke had beene accurſed.

the kings meat,and as thou seest,deale with thy seruants.

14 So he consented to them in this mat-matter,and prooued them ten dayes.

15 And at the end of tenne dayes, their countenances appeared fairer,and trydeter liking then all the children, which did eate the portion of the kings meate.

16 Thus Melzar tooke away the portion of their meate,and the wine that they should drinke,and giue them pulse.

17 As for these foure children, God gaue them knowledge, and vnderstanding in all learning and wisedome: also Daniel vnderstanding of all visions and dreames.

18 Now when the time was expired,that the king had appointed to bring them in, the chiefe of the Eunuches brought them before Nebuchad-nezzar.

19 And the king communed with them:
and among them all was found none like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael,and Azariah:
therefore stood they before the King.

20 And in all matters of wisedome, and vnderstanding that the king enquired of them, hee found them ten times better then all the inchanters & astrologians,that were in all his realme.

21 And Daniel was vnto the first yeere of King Cyrus.

CHAP. II.

1 The dreame of Nebuchadnezzar. 13 The king commaundeth all the wise men of Babylon to bee slaine,because they could not interpret his dreame. 16 Daniel requireth time to solue the question. 24 Daniel is brought vnto the king, and sheweth him his dreame and the interpretation thereof. 44 Of the euerlasting kingdome of Christ

AND in the second yeere of the reigne of Nebuchad-nezzar, Nebuchad-nezzar dreamed dreames, wherewith his spirit was troubled, and his sleepe was vpon him.

2 Then the king commaunded to call the inchanters, and the astrologians, and the sorcerers, and the Caldeans, for to shewe the king his dreames: so they came and stoode before the King.

3 And the King said vnto them, I haue meamed a dreame, and my spirit was troubled to know the dreame.

4 Then spake the Caldeans to the king in the Aramites language, O king liue for euer: shew thy seruants the dreame, and we shall shew the interpretation.

5 And the King answered and said to the Caldeans, The thing is gone from me. If ye will not make me vnderstand the dreame with the interpretation thereof, ye shall be drawen in pieces, & your houses shalbe made a iakes.

6 But if yee declare the dreame and the interpretation thereof, ye shall receiue of me gifts and rewards, and great honour: therefore shew me the dreame and the interpretation of it.

7 They answered againe, and said, Let the King shewe his seruants the dreame, and we will declare the interpretation ther-of.

8 Then the King answered and sayd, I know certainely that yee would gaine the time, because yee see the thing is gone from me.

9 But if yee will not declare me the dreame, there is but one iudgement for you:
for ye haue prepared lying & corrupt words,
to speake before me till the time be changed:
therefore tell me the dreame, that I may know, if yee can declare me the interpretation thereof.

10 Then the Caldeans answered before the King, and sayde, There is no man vpon earth, that can declare the Kings matter:
yea, there is neither king nor prince nor lord that asked such things at an inchanter or astrologian or Caldean.

11 For it is a rare thing that the king requireth, and there is none other that can declare it before the King, except the gods whose dwelling is not with flesh.

12 For this cause the King was angrie and in great furie, and commaunded to destroy all the wise men of Babel.

13 ¶ And when sentence was giuen, the wise men were slaine: and they sought Daniel and his fellowes to be put to death.

14 Then Daniel answered with counsell and wisedome to Arioch the Kings captaine whiche was gone forth to put to death the wise men of Babel.

15 Yea, he answered and said vnto Arioch the kings captaine, Why is the sentence so hastie from the king? Then Arioch declared the thing to Daniel.

16 So Daniel went and desired the king that he would giue him leasure, and that he would shewe the King the interpretation thereof.

17 ¶ Then Daniel went to his house and shewed the matter to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah his companions,

18 That they should desire of the God of heauen for grace in this secret, that Daniel and his fellowes should not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babel.

19 Then was the secret reuealed vnto
Daniel in a vision by night: therefore Daniel praised the God of heauen.

20 And Daniel answered and said, The Name of God be praised for euer and euer:
for wisedome and strength are his,

21 And he changeth the times and seasons: he taketh away kings: he setteth vp kings: he giueth wisedome vnto the wise, k He sheweth that man hath neither wisedome nor knowledge, but very darke blindnes and ignorance of himselfe: for it commeth onely of God, that men vnderstandeth anything.

l To whom thou madest thy promise, and who liued in thy feare: whereby he excludeth all other gods.

m Meaning, power to interpret it.

n Whereby appeareth that many were slaine, as verse 13. and the rest at Daniels sute were preserued on condition: not that Daniel fauoured their wicked profession, but that he had respect to equitie, because the king proceeded according to his wicked affection, and not considering if their science were lawfull or no.

o He affirmeth that man by reason & arte is not able to attaine to the cause of Gods secrets, but the vnderstanding only thereof must come of God: whereby he sanctifieth the king with a certaine feare and reuerence of God, that hee might be the more and vnderstanding to heare that vnderstand.

22 Hee discouereth the deepe and secrete things: he knoweth what is in the darknes, and the light dwelleth with him.

23 I thanke thee and praise thee, O thou God of my fathers, that thou hast giuen me wisedome and *strength, and hast shewed me nowe the thing that wee desired of thee: for thou hast declared vnto vs the kings matter.

24 ¶ Therefore Daniel went vnto Arioch, whome the King had ordained to destroy the wise men of Babel: hee went and sayd thus vnto him, Destroy not the wise men of Babel, but bring me before the king, and I will declare vnto the king the interpretation.

25 Then Arioch brought Daniel before the king in all haste, and spake thus vnto him, I haue found a man of the children of Iudah that wee brought captiues, that will declare vnto the king the interpretation.

26 Then answered the king and said vnto Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, Art thou able to shew me the dreame which I haue seene, and the interpretation thereof?

27 Daniel answered in the presence of the King, and sayd, The secret which the king hath demaunded, can neither the wise, the astrologians, the inchanters, nor the soothsayers declare vnto the king.

28 But there is a God in *heauen that reuealeth secrets, and sheweth the king Nebuchadnezzar what shall bee in the latter dayes. Thy dreame, and the things which thou hast seene in thine head vpon thy bed, is this.

29 O king, when thou wast in thy bed, thoughts came into thy minde, what should come to passe hereafter, and hee that reuealeth secrets, telleth thee what shall come.

30 As for *me, this secret is not shewed mee for any wisedome that I haue, more then any other liuing, but onely to shewe the King the interpretation, and that thou mightest knowe the thoughts of thine heart.

31 O king, thou sawest, and beholde, there was a great Image: this great image whose glorie was so excellent, stood before thee, and the forme thereof was terrible.

32 This images head was of fine *gold, his breast and his armes of siluer, his belly and his thighes of brasse, 33 His legs of yron, and his feete were part of yron, and part of clay.

34 Thou beheldest it till a stone was cut without hands, which smote the image vpon his feete, that were of yron and clay, and brake them to pieces.

35 Then was the yron, the clay, the brasse, the siluer and the gold broken altogether, and became like the chaffe of the Summer flowers, and the wind carried them away, that no place was found for them: and the stone that smote the image, became a great mountaine, and filled the whole earth.

36 This is the dreame, and wee will declare before the king the interpretation thereof.

37 ¶ O king, thou art a king of kings: for the God of heauen hath giuen thee a kingdome, power, strength, and glorie.

38 And in all places where the children of men dwell, the beastes of the fielde, and the foules of the heauen hath he giuen into thine hand, and hath made thee ruler ouer them all: thou art *this head of gold.

39 And after thee shall rise another kingdome, inferiour to thee, of siluer, and another *third kingdome shall be of brasse, which shall beare rule ouer all the earth.

40 And the fourth kingdome shall be strong as yron: for as yron breaketh in pieces, and subdueth all things, and as yron bruiseth all these things, so shall it breake in *pieces, and bruise all.

41 Whereas thou sawest the feete and toes, part of potters clay, and part of yron: the kingdome shall be *deuided: but there shall be in it of the strength of the yron, as thou sawest the yron mixt with the clay, and earth.

42 And as the toes of the feet were part of yron, and part of clay, so shall the kingdome be partly strong, and partly broken.

43 And whereas thou sawest yron mixt with clay and earth, they shall mingle themselues with *y seede of men: but they shall not ioyne one with another, as yron cannot be mixed with clay.

44 And in the dayes of these kings, shall the God of heauen set vp a kingdome, which *shall neuer be destroyed: and this kingdome shall not be giuen to another people, but it shall breake and destroy all these kingdomes, and it shall stand for euer.

45 Whereas thou sawest that the *stone was cut out of the mountaine without handes, and that it brake in pieces the yron, the brasse, the clay, the siluer and the golde: so r Daniel seaueth out the kingdom of the Assyrians, which was before the Babylonian, both because it was not a Monarchie and generall Empire, and also because he would declare the things that were to come, to the comming of Christ, for the comfort of the elect among these wonderfull alterations: and he calleth the Babylonian kingdome the golden head, because in respect of the other three, it was the best, and yet was of it selfe wicked and cruell.

s Meaning, the Persians, which were not inferiour in dignitie, power, and riches, but were worse, touching ambition, cruelty, and all kind of vice: shewing, that the world should grow worse and worse, till it was restored by Christ.

t That is, of the Macedonians shall be of brasse, not alluding to siluer.

u That is, the Romane empire shall subdue these other aforenamed, which after Alexander were diuided into the Macedonians, Grecians, Syrians, and Egyptians.

x They shall haue ciuill warres, and continuall discords among themselues.

y They shall by marriges and affinities, thinke to make themselues strong, yet shall they neuer bee ioyned in hearts.

z His purpose is to shew that all the kingdomes of the world are transitorie, and that the kingdome of Christ shall onely remaine for euer.

a Meaning Christ, who was sent of God, and not set vp by man, whose kingdome at the beginning should be small and without beauty to mans iudgement, but should at length grow and fill the whole earth which he calleth a great mountaine, as verse 35. And this kingdome which is not onely referred to the person of Christ, but also to the whole body of his Church, and to euery member thereof, shall be eternall: for the spirit that is in them, is life eternall, Rom. 8. 10.

apt to receiue the high mysteries that should bee reuealed.

p Because hee had said that God onely must reueale the signification of this dreame, the king might haue asked, why Daniel did enterprise to interpret it, and therefore he sheweth that he was but Gods minister, and had no gifts, but such as God had giuen him to set foorth his glorie.

q By gold, siluer, brasse and yron, are meant the Caldean, Persian, Macedonian and Romane kingdome, which should successiuely rule all the world till Christ (which here is called the stone) come himselfe and destroy the last: and this was to assure the Iewes, that their afflictions should not end with the Empire of the Caldeans, but that they should patiently abide the comming of Messiah, which should be at the end of this fourth Monarchie.

the great God hath shewed the King what shall come to passe hereafter, and the dreame is true, and the interpretation thereof is sure.

46 ¶ Then the king Nebuchad-nezzar fell vpon his face, and [b] bowed himselfe vnto Daniel, and commanded that they should offer meat offerings, and sweet odours vnto him.

47 Also the king answered vnto Daniel, and sayd, I know of a trueth that your [c] God is a God of gods, and the Lord of kings, and the reueiler of secrets, seeing thou couldest open this secret.

48 So the king made Daniel a great man, and gaue him many and great [d] gifts. He made him gouernour ouer the whole prouince of Babel, and chiefe of the rulers, and aboue all the wise men of Babel.

49 Then Daniel [e] made request to the king, and hee set Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego ouer the charge of the prouince of Babel: but Daniel sate in the [f] gate of the king.

b Though this humbling of the king seemed to deserue commendation, yet because he ioyned Gods honour with the Prophets, it is to be reproued, and Daniel herein erred if he suffered it: but it is credible that Daniel admonished him of his fault, and did not suffer it.

c This confession was but a sudden motion, as it was also in Pharaoh, Exod. 9. 27, 28. but his heart was not touched, as appeared soone afterward.

d Not that the Prophet was desirous of gifts or honour, but because by this meanes he might relieue his poore brethren which were grieuously oppressed in this their captiuity, and also he receiued them, lest he should offend this cruell king, which willingly gaue them.

e Hee did not this for their priuat profit, but that the whole Church which was then there in affliction, might haue some release and ease by this benefit.

f Meaning, that either he was a Iudge, or that hee had the whole authoritie, so that none could be admitted to the kings presence, but by him.

CHAP. III.

1 The king setteth vp a golden image. 8 Certaine are accused because they despised the kings commandment, and are put into a burning ouen. 25 By beliefe in God they are deliuered from the fire. 26 Nebuchad-nezzar confesseth the power of God after the sight of the miracle.

NEbuchad-nezzar the king made [a] an image of golde, whose height was threescore cubites, and the breadth thereof sixe cubites: hee set it vp in the plaine of Dura, in the prouince of Babel.

2 Then Nebuchad-nezzar the king sent forth to gather together the nobles, the princes and the Dukes, the Iudges, the treasurers, the counsellers, the officers, and all the gouernours of the prouinces, that they should come to the [b] dedication of the image, which Nebuchad-nezzar the [c] king had set vp.

3 So the nobles, princes and dukes, the iudges, the treasurers, the counsellers, the officers, and all the gouernours of the prouinces were assembled vnto the dedicating of the image, that Nebuchad-nezzar the king had set vp: and they stood before the image, which Nebuchad-nezzar had set vp.

4 Then an herald cried aloude, Bee it knowen to you, O people, [d] nations, and languages,

5 That when yee heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackebut, psalterie, dulcimer, and all instruments of musicke, ye fall downe and worship the golden image that Nebuchad-nezzar the king hath set vp.

6 And whosoeuer falleth not downe and worshippeth, shall the same houre be cast into the middes of an hote fierie fornace.

7 Therefore assoone as all the people heard the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harp, sackebut, psalterie, and all instruments of musicke, all the people, nations, and languages fell downe, and worshipped the golden image, that Nebuchad-nezzar the king had set vp.

8 ¶ By reason whereof at that same time came men of the Caldeans, and grieuously accused the Iewes.

9 For they spake and sayde to the king Nebuchad-nezzar, O king, liue for euer.

10 Thou, O king, hast made a decree, that euery man that shall heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, psalterie, and dulcimer, and all instruments of musicke, shall fall downe and worship the golden image, 11 And whosoeuer falleth not downe, and worshippeth, that hee should be cast into the midst of an hote fierie fornace.

12 There are certaine Iewes whom thou hast set ouer the charge of the prouince of Babel, [e] Shadrach Meshach and Abednego: these men, O king, haue not regarded thy commandement, neyther will they serue thy gods, nor worship the golden image that thou hast set vp.

13 ¶ Then Nebuchad-nezzar in his anger and wrath commanded that they should bring Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: so these men were brought before the king.

14 And Nebuchad-nezzar spake, and said vnto them, What disorder? will not you, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego serue my god, nor worship the golden image that I haue set vp?

15 [f] Now therefore are yee ready when ye heare the sound of the cornet, trumpet, harpe, sackebut, psalterie, and dulcimer, and all instruments of musicke, to fall downe and worship the image, which I haue made? for if ye worship it not, ye shall be cast immediatly into the middes of an hote fierie fornace: for who is that God that can deliuer you out of mine hands?

16 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered, and sayde to the king, O Nebuchad-nezzar, wee [g] are not carefull to answere thee in this matter.

17 Beholde, our God whom wee serue, is able a Vnder pretence of religion and holinesse in making an image to his idole Bel, hee sought his owne ambition & vain glory: and this declareth, that he was not touched with the true feare of God before, but that he confessed him on a sudden motion, as the wicked, when they are ouercome with the greatnesse of his workes. The Greeke interpreters write that this was done eighteene yeeres after the dreame, and as may appeare, the king feared least the Iewes by their religion should haue altered the state of his common wealth, and therefore he meant to bring all to one kinde of religion, and so rather sought his owne quietnesse then Gods glory.

b Shewing that the idole is not knowen for an idole so long as hee is with the workeman: but when the ceremonies and customes are recited and vsed, and the consent of the people is there, then of a blocke they thinke they haue made a god.

c This was sufficient with the wicked at all times to approue their religion, if the kings authoritie were alledged for the establishment thereof, not considering in the meane season what Gods word did permit.

d These are the two dangerous weapons wherewith Satan vseth to fight against the children of God, the consent of the multitude, and the cruelty of the punishment: for though some feared God, yet the multitude which consented to the wickednesse, astonied them: and here the king required not an inward consent, but an outward gesture, that the Iewes might by little and little learne to forget their true religion.

e It seemeth that they named not Daniel, because he was greatly in the kings fauour, thinking if these three had bene destroyed, they might haue had better occasion to accuse Daniel: and this declareth that this policie of erecting this image, was inuented by the malicious flatterers, which sought nothing but the destruction of the Iewes, whom they accused of rebellion and ingratitude.

f Signifying, that he would receiue them to grace, if they would now at the length obey his decree.

g For they should haue done iniury to God if they should haue doubted in this holy cause, and therefore they say, that they are resolued to die for Gods cause.

h They ground on two points, first on the power and prouidence of God ouer them, and secondly on their cause, which was Gods glory, and the testifying of his true religion with their blood, & so make open confession, that they will not so much as outwardly consent to idolatrie.

i This declareth that more that tyrants rage, and the more wittie they shew themselues in inuenting strange and cruell punishments, the more is God glorified by his seruants to whom he gineth patience & constancie to abide the crueltie of their punishment: for either he deliuereth them from death, or els for this life giueth them a better.

k For the Angels were called the sonnes of God, because of their excellencie: therefore the King called this Angell, whom God sent to comfort his in these great torments, the sonne of God.

l This commendeth their obedience vnto God, that they would not for any feare depart out of this fornace, till the time appointed, as Noah remained in the Arke till the Lord called him foorth.

m He was mooued by the greatnesse of the miracle to praise God, but his heart was not touched. And here we see that miracles are not sufficient to conuert men to God, but that doctrine must chiefly be adioyned, without the which there can be no faith.

able to deliuer vs from the hot fierie fornace, and hee will deliuer vs out of thine hand, O King.

18 But if not, bee it knowen to thee, O King, that we will not serue thy gods, nor worship the golden image, which thou hast set vp.

19 ¶ Then was Nebuchad-nezzar full of rage, and the fourme of his visage was changed against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego: therefore hee charged and commaunded that they should heate the fornace at once seuen times more then it was wont to be heat.

20 And he charged the most valiant men of warre that were in his armie, to binde Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, and to cast them into the hot fierie fornace.

21 So these men were bound in their coates, their hosen, and their clokes, with their other garments, and cast into the midst of the hote fierie fornace.

22 Therefore, because the kings commandement was straite, that the fornace should be exceeding hote, the flame of the fire slewe those men that brought foorth Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego.

23 And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego fell downe bound into the midst of the hote fierie fornace.

24 ¶ Then k Nebuchad-nezzar the King was astonied and rose vp in haste, and spake, and sayd vnto his counsellers, Did not wee cast three men bound into the middes of the fire? Who answered, and said vnto the king, It is true, O king.

25 And hee answered, and sayd, Lo, I see foure men loose, walking in the middes of the fire, and they haue no hurt, and the fourme of the fourth is like the k Sonne of God.

26 Then the King Nebuchad-nezzar came neere to the mouth of the hote fiery fornace, and spake and sayd, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, the seruants of the High God, goe foorth and come hither: so Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego l came foorth of the middes of the fire.

27 Then the nobles, princes, and dukes, and the kings counsellers came together to see these men, because the fire had no power ouer their bodies: for not an haire of their head was burnt, neither were their coates changed, nor any smell of fire came vpon them.

28 Wherefore Nebuchadnezzar spake and sayd, m Blessed bee the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, who hath sent his Angell, and deliuered his seruants, that put their trust in him, and haue changed the Kings commaundement, and yeelded their bodies rather then they would serue or worship any god, saue their owne God.

29 Therefore I make a decree, that euery people, nation, and language, which speake any n blasphemie against the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, shall bee dismembred in peeces, and their houses shall bee made a iakes, because there is no God that can deliuer after this sort.

30 Then the king promoted Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, in the prouince of Babel.

31 Nebuchad-nezzar King vnto all people, nations and languages, that dwell in all the o world, Peace be multiplied vnto you:

32 I thought it good to declare the signes and wonders, that the high God hath wrought toward me.

33 How great are his signes, and howe mightie are his wonders! p his kingdome is an euerlasting kingdome, and his dominion is from generation to generation.

CHAP. IIII.

2 Another dreame of Nebuchad-nezzar, which Daniel declareth. 29 The Prophet declareth how of a proud king hee should become as a beast. 31 After hee confesseth the power of God, and is restored to his former dignitie.

1 Nebuchad-nezzar being at a rest in mine house, and flourishing in my palace,

2 Sawe a b dreame, which made me afraid, and the thoughts vpon my bed, and the visions of mine head troubled me.

3 Therefore made I a decree, that they should bring all the wise men of Babel before me, that they might declare vnto me the interpretation of the dreame.

4 So came the inchanters, the astrologians, the Caldeans and the soothsayers, to whom I told the dreame, but c they could not shew me the interpretation thereof.

5 Till at the last Daniel came before me, (whose name was d Belteshazzar, according to the name of my God, which hath the spirit of the holy gods in him) and before him I told the dreame, saying,

6 O Belteshazzar, e chiefe of the inchanters, because I know that the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, and no secret troubleth thee, tell me the visions of my dreame, that I haue seene, and the interpretation thereof.

7 Thus were the visions of mine head in my bed. And behold, I saw a f tree in the middes of the earth, and the height thereof was great:

8 A great tree and strong, and the height thereof reached vnto heauen, and the sight thereof to the ends of all the earth.

9 The boughes thereof were faire, and the fruite thereof much, and in it was meate for all: it made a shadowe vnder it for the beastes of the field, and the n If this heathen king mooued by Gods spirit would not see blasphemie vnpunished, but made a law, and set a punishment to such transgressours, much more ought all they that professe religion, to take order that such impietie reigne not, lest according as their knowledge and charge is greater, so they suffer double punishment.

2 Another dreame of Nebuchad-nezzar, which Daniel declareth. 29 The Prophet declareth how of a proud king hee should become as a beast. 31 After hee confesseth the power of God, and is restored to his former dignitie.

a There was no trouble that might cause me to dreame, and therefore it came onely of God.

b This was another dreame besides that which hee saw of the foure empires: for Daniel both declared what the dreame was, and what it meant: and here he onely expounded the dreame.

c In that that he sent abroad to others whose ignorance in times past he had experimented, and left Daniel which was euer ready at hand, it declareth the nature of the vngodly, which neuer seeke to the seruants of God, but for very necessitie, and then they spare no flatterings.

d This no doubt was a great griefe to Daniel, not onely to haue his name changed, but to bee called by the name of a vile idole, which thing Nebuchad nezzar did, to make him forget the true religion of God. e Which also was a great griefe to the Prophet, to bee numbred among the sorcerers, and men whose practises were wicked and contrarie to Gods word. f By the tree, is signified the dignitie of a king, whom God ordaineth to be a defence for all kinde of men, and whose estate is profitable for mankinde.

toules of the heauen dwelt in the boughes thereof, and all flesh fed of it.

10 I saw in the visions of mine head, vpon my bed, and behold, a watchman, and an holy one came downe from heauen, 11 And cried alowde, and said thus, Hew downe the tree, and breake off his branches: shake of his leaues, and scatter his fruit, that the beastes may flee from vnder it, and the foules from his branches.

12 Neuertheless leaue the stumpe of his rootes in the earth, and with a band of iron and brasse binde it among the grasse of the field, and let it be wet with the dew of heauen, and let his portion be with the beasts among the grasse of the field.

13 [h] Let his heart be changed from mans nature, and let a beasts heart bee giuen vnto him, and let seuen times be passed ouer him.

14 [i] The sentence is according to the decree of the watchmen, and according to the word of the holy ones: the demand was answered, to the intent that liuing men may know, that the most High hath power ouer the kingdom of men, and giueth it to whomsoeuer hewil, and appointeth ouer it the most abiect among men.

15 This is the dreame, that I King Nebuchad nezzar haue seene: therefore thou, O Belteshazzar, declare the interpretation therof: for all the wise men of my kingdome are not able to shew me the interpretation: but thou art able, for the spirite of the holy gods is in thee.

16 ¶ Then Daniel (whose name was Belteshazzar) held his [k] peace by the space of one houre, and his thoughts troubled him, and the king spake and said, Belteshazzar, let neither the dreame, nor the interpretation thereof trouble thee. Belteshazzar answered, and said, My lord, the dreame be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof to thine enemies.

17 The tree that thou sawest, which was great and mighty, whose height reached vnto the heauen, and the sight thereof through all the world,

18 Whose leaues were faire and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meate for al, vnder the which the beastes of the field dwelt, and vpon whose branches the foules of the heauen did sit,

19 It is thou, O king, that art great and mightie: for thy greatnesse is growen, and reacheth vnto heauen, and thy dominion to the ends of the earth.

20 Whereas the king saw a watchman, and an holy one that came downe from heauen, and said, Hewe downe the tree, and destroy it, yet leaue the stumpe of the rootes thereof in the earth, and with a band of yron and brasse binde it among the grasse of the field, and let it bee wet with the dewe of heauen, and let his portion bee with the beastes of the field, [l] till seuen times passe ouer him,

21 This is the interpretation, O king, and it is the decree of the most High, which is come vpon my lord the King, 22 That they shall driue thee from men, and thy dwelling shal bee with the beasts of the field: they shall make thee to eate grasse as the [m] oxen, and they shall wet thee with the dewe of heauen: and seuen times shall passe ouer thee, till thou know, that [n] the most High beareth rule ouer the kingdome of men, and giueth it to whomsoeuer he will.

23 ¶ Whereas they said, that one should leaue the stumpe of the tree rootes, thy kingdome shall remaine vnto thee: after that, thou shalt know that the heauens haue the rule.

24 ¶ Wherefore, O King, let my counsell be acceptable vnto thee, and [o] breake off thy sinnes by righteousnes, and thine iniquities by mercie toward the poore: loe, let there bee an [p] healing of thine errour.

25 All these things shall come vpon the king Nebuchad-nezzar.

26 ¶ At the end of twelue [q] moneths, he walked in the royall palace of Babel.

27 And the king spake and said, Is not this great Babel, that I haue built for the house of the kingdome by the might of my power, and for the honour of my maiestie?

28 While the worde was in the kings mouth, a voyce came downe from heauen, saying, O king Nebuchad nezzar, to thee be it spoken, Thy kingdome is departed from thee, 29 And they shall driue thee from men, and thy dwelling shall bee with the beastes of the fielde: they shall make thee to eate grasse, as the oxen, and seuen times shall passe ouer thee, vntill thou knowest, that the most High beareth rule ouer the kingdome of men, and giueth it vnto whomsoeuer he will.

30 The verie same hour was this thing fulfilled vpon Nebuchad-nezzar, and hee was driuen from men, and did eate grasse as the oxen, and his bodie was wet with the dewe of heauen, till his haires were growen as Egles feathers, and his nayles like birds clawes.

31 And at the end of these [r] dayes I Nebuchad-nezzar lift vp mine eyes vnto heauen, and mine vnderstanding was restored vnto me, and I gaue thankes vnto the most High, and I praised and honoured him that liueth for euer, [s] whose power is an euerlasting power, and his kingdome is from generation to generation.

32 And all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing: and according to his [t] will he worketh in the armie of heauen, and in the inhabitants of the earth: and none can stay his hand, nor say vnto him, What doest thou?

33 At the same time was mine vnderstanding restored vnto mee, and I returned to the honour of my kingdome: my glorie and my beautie was restored vnto mee, and my counsellers [u] and my princes sought vnto mee, and I was established in my kingdome, and my glorie was augmented toward me.

34 Nowe therefore, I Nebuchad-nezzar

g Meaning, the Angell of God, which neither eateth nor sleepeth, but is euer ready to do Gods will, and is not infected with mans corruption, but is euer holy: & in that that he commandeth to cut downe this tree, he knew it should not be cut downe by man, but by God.

h Hereby bee meaneth that Nebuchad-nezzar should not onely for a time lose his kingdome, but be like a beast.

i God hath decreed this iudgement, and the whole armie of heauen haue as it were subscribed vnto it, like as also they desire the execution of his decree against all them that list vp themselues against God.

k He was troubled for the great iudgement of God which hee saw ordained against the king: and so the Prophets vsed on the one part to denounce Gods iudgements for the zeale they bare to his glory, and on the other part to haue compassion vpon man and also to consider that they should be subiect to Gods iudgements, if he did not regard them with pitie.

l Whereby he meaneth a long space, as seuen yeeres. Some interpret seuen moneths, and others seuen weekes: but it seemeth he ment of yeeres.

m Not that his shape or forme was changed into a beast, but that he was either striken mad, and so auoided mans companie, or was cast out for his tyrannie, and so wandred among beasts, and ate herbes and grasse.

n Daniel sheweth the cause why God thus punished him.

o Cease from prouoking God to anger any longer by thy sinnes, that hee may mitigate his punishment, if thou shew by thine vpright life that thou hast true faith and repentance.

p Suffer the errours of thy former life to be redressed.

q After that Daniel had declared this vision and this his pride declareth that it is not in man to conuert to God except his Spirit moue him, seeing that these terrible threatnings could not moue him to repent.

CHAP. V.

Belshazzar King of Babylon feeth an hand writing on the wall. 8 The soothsayers called of the King cannot expound the writing. 25 Daniel readeth it, and interpreteth it also. 30 The king is slaine. 31 Darius enioyeth the kingdome.

KIng a Belshazzar made a great feast to a thousand of his princes, and dranke wine before the thousand.

a Daniel reciteth this history of king Belthazzar Euilmerodachs sonne, to shew Gods iudgements against the wicked, for the deliuerance of his Church, and how the prophesie of Ieremiah was true, that they should be deliuered after seuenty yeeres.

2 And Belshazzar b while he tasted the wine, commaunded to bring him the golden and siluer vessels, which his c father Nebuchad-nezzar had brought from the Temple in Ierusalem, that the King and his princes, his wiues, and his concubines might drinke therein.

b The kings of the East parts then vsed to sit alone commonly, and disdained that any should sit in their company: and now to shew his power, and how little he set by his enemy, which then besieged Babylon, he made a solemne banket, and vsed excesse in their company, which is meant here by drinking wine: thus the wicked are most dissolute and negligent when their destruction is at hand.

3 Then were brought the golden vessels, that were taken out of the Temple of the Lords house at Ierusalem, and the king and his princes, his wiues, and his concubines dranke in them.

4 They dranke wine and praysed the d gods of golde and of siluer, of braile, of yron, of wood, and of stone.

5 At the same houre appeared fingers of a mans hand, which wrote ouer e against the candlesticke vpon the plaister of the wall of the kings palace, & the king saw the palme of the hand that wrote.

6 Then the kings countenance was changed, and his thoughts troubled him, so that the ioynts of his loynes were loosed, and his f knees smote one against the other.

7 Wherefore the king cryed alouse, that they should bring s the Astrologians, the Caldeans and the soothsayers. And the king spake and sayde to the wise men of Babel, Whosoeuer can reade this writing, and declare me the interpretation thereof, shall bee clothed with purple, and shall haue a chaine of golde about his necke, and shall be the third ruler in the kingdome.

8 Then came al the kings wise men, but they could neither reade the writing, nor shew the king the interpretation.

9 Then was king Belshazzar greatly troubled, and his countenance was changed in him, and his princes were astonied.

10 Now the h Queene by reason of the talke of the King and his Princes, came into the banket house, and the Queene spake, and sayd, O king, liue for euer: let not thy thoughts trouble thee, nor let thy countenance be changed.

11 There is a man in thy kingdome, in whom is the spirit of the holy gods, and in the dayes of thy father, light and vnderstanding and wisedome like the wisedome of the gods, was found in him: whome the king Nebuchad-nezzar thy father the king, I say, thy father, made chiefe of the i Inchanters, Astrologians, Caldeans, and Soothsayers,

12 Because a more excellent spirit, and knowledge, and vnderstanding (for he did expound dreames, and declare hard sentences, and dissolued doubts) were found in him, euen in Daniel, whom the king named Belteshazzar: now let Daniel be called, and he will declare the interpretation.

13 Then was Daniel brought before the king, and the king spake, and sayd vnto Daniel, Art thou that Daniel, which art of the children of the captiuity of Iudah, whom my father the king brought out of Iewrie?

14 Now I haue heard of thee that k the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, and that light and vnderstanding and excellent wisdome is found in thee.

15 Now therefore, wise men, and Astrologians haue bene brought before me, that they should reade this writing, and shewe me the interpretation thereof: but they could not declare the interpretation of the thing.

16 Then heard I of thee, that thou couldest shewe interpretations, and dissolue doubts: now if thou canst read the writing, and shew me the interpretation thereof, thou shalt be clothed with purple, and shalt haue a chaine of golde about thy necke, and shalt be the third ruler in the kingdome.

17 Then Daniel answered, and sayd before the king, Keepe thy rewardes to thy selfe, and giue thy gifts to another: yet I will reade the writing vnto the king, and shew him the interpretation.

18 O King, heare thou, the most High God gaue vnto l Nebuchad-nezzar thy father a kingdome, and maiestie, and honour and glory.

19 And for the maiestie that he gaue him, all people, nations, and languages trembled, and feared before him: hee put to death whom he would: he smote whom he would: whom he would hee set vp, and whom hee would he put downe.

20 But when his heart was puft vp, and his minde hardened in pride, he was deposed from his kingly throne, and they tooke his honour from him.

21 And he was driuen from the sonnes of men, & his heart was made like the beastes, and his dwelling was with the wilde asses: they fedde him with grasse like oxen, and his body was wet with the dewe of the heauen, till hee knewe that the most High God bare rule ouer the kingdome of men, and that hee appointeth ouer it, whomsoeuer he pleaseth.

22 And thou his sonne, O Belthazzar, hast not humbled thine heart, though thou knewest all these things,

23 But

c Meaning his grandfather.

d In contempt of the true God they praysed their idoles, not that they thought that the gold or siluer were gods, but that there was a certaine vertue and power in them to do them good, which is also the opinion of al idolaters. e That it might the better be seene. f So he that before contemned God, was mooued by this sight to tremble for feare of Gods iudgements. g Thus the wicked in their troubles seeke many meanes, who draw them from God, because they seeke not to him who is the onely comfort in all afflictions. h To wit, his grandmother Nebuchad-nezzars wife, which for her age was not before at the feast, but came thither when she heard of these strange newes.

i Reade Chap. 4. 6. and this declareth that both this name was odious vnto him, and also that he did not vse these vile practises, because he was not among them when all were called.

k For the idolaters thought, that the Angels had power as God, and therefore had them in like estimation, as they had God, thinking that the spirit of prophesie, and vnderstanding came of them.

l Before he read the writing, he declareth to the king his great ingratitude toward God, who could not be mooued to giue him the glory, considering his wonderful worke toward his grandfather, and so sheweth that he doth not sinne of ignorance, but of malice.

23 But hast lift thy selfe vp against the Lorde of heauen, and they haue brought the vessels of his house before thee, and thou and thy princes, thy wiues and thy concubines haue drunke wine in them, and thou hast praised the gods of siluer and gold, of braſſe, yron, wood, and stone, which neither see, neither heare, nor vnderstand: and the God in whose hand thy breath is and all thy wayes, him hast thou not glorified.

24 m Then was the palme of the hande sent from him, & hath written this writing.

25 And this is the writing that hee hath written, n MENE, MENE, TEKEL VPHARSIN.

26 This is the interpretation of the thing, MENE, God hath numbred thy kingdome, and hath finished it.

27 TEKEL, thou art weighed in the ballance, and art found o too light.

28 PERES, thy kingdome is diuided, and giuen to the Medes and Persians.

29 Then at the commandement of Belshazzar, they clothed Daniel with purple, and put a chaine of golde about his necke, and made a proclamation concerning him, that he should be the third ruler in the kingdome.

30 The same night was Belshazzar the king of the Caldeans slaine.

31 And Darius p of the Medes tooke the kingdome, being threescore & two yeere old.

m After that God had so long time deferred his anger, and patiently waited for thine amendment.

n This word is twise written for the certainty of the thing: shewing that God had most surely counted: signifying also that God hath appointed a terme for all kingdomes, and that a miserable end shall come on all that raise themselues against him.

o Or, wanting.

p Cyrus his sonne in lawe gaue him this title of honour, although Cyrus in effect had the dominion.

CHAP. VI.

1 Daniel is made ruler ouer the gouernours. 5 An act against Daniel. 16 He is put into a den of lions by the commandement of the King. 23 He is deliuered by faith in God. 24 Daniels accusers are put vnto the lions. 25 Darius by a decree magnifieth the God of Daniel.

IT pleased Darius to set ouer the kingdome a an hundzeth and twentie gouernours, which should bee ouer the whole kingdome.

2 And ouer these, three rulers (of whom Daniel was one) that the gouernours might giue accompts vnto them, and the King should haue no damage.

3 Now this Daniel was preferred aboue the rulers and gouernours, because the spirit was excellent in him, and the King thought to set him ouer the whole realme.

4 ¶ Wherefore the rulers and gouernours b sought an occasion against Daniel concerning the kingdome: but they could finde none occasion nor fault: for he was so faithfull that there was no blame nor fault found in him.

5 Then sayde these men, Wee shall not find an occasion against this Daniel, except we finde it against him concerning the Law of his God.

6 Therefore the rulers and these gouernours went together to the King, and sayde thus vnto him, King Darius, liue for euer.

7 All the rulers of thy kingdome, the officers and gouernours, the counsellers, and dukes haue consulted together to make a decree for the king, and to establish a statute, that whosoeuer shall aske a petition of any god or man for thirtie dayes saue of thee, O king, he shall be cast into the den of lions.

8 Now, O king, confirme the decree, and seale the writing, that it be not changed, according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

9 Wherefore king Darius c sealed the writing and the decree.

10 ¶ Now when Daniel vnderstoode that he had sealed the writing, hee went into his house, and his c windowe being open in his chamber toward Ierusalem, hee kneeled vpon his knees three times a day, and prayed, and praised his God, as he did afore-time.

11 Then these men assembled, and found Daniel praying, and making supplication vnto his God.

12 So they came, and spake vnto the king concerning the kings decree, Hast thou not sealed the decree, that euery man that shall make request to any God or man within thirtie dayes, saue to thee, O King, shall bee cast into the denne of lions? The king answered and sayd, The thing is true, according to the Lawe of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

13 Then answered they, and sayde vnto the king, This Daniel which is of the children of the captiuitie of Iudah, regardeth not thee, O King, nor the decree, that thou hast sealed, but maketh his petition three times a day.

14 When the King heard these wordes, he was sore displeased with himselfe, and set his heart on Daniel, to deliuer him: and hee laboured till the Sunne went downe to deliuer him.

15 Then these men assembled vnto the king, and sayd vnto the king, Vnderstand, O king, that the Lawe of the Medes and Persians is, that no decree nor statute which the king confirmeth, may bee d altered.

16 ¶ Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the denne of lions: now the king spake, and sayd vnto Daniel, Thy God, whom thou alway seruest, euen he will deliuer thee.

17 And a stone was brought, and layd vpon the mouth of the denne, and the King sealed it with his owne signet, and with the signet of his princes, that the purpose might not bee changed, concerning Daniel.

18 Then the king went vnto his palace, and remained fasting, neither were the instruments of musicke brought before him, and his sleepe went from him.

19 ¶ Then the king arose early in the morning, and went in all haste vnto the den of lions.

20 And when hee came to the denne, hee cryed with a lamentable voice vnto Daniel: and a Reade Esther Chap. 1. 1.

Or, not be troubled.

b This heathen King preferred Daniel a stranger to all his nobles and familiars, because the graces of God were more excellent in him then in others.

c Thus the wicked cannot abide the graces of God in others, but seeke by all occasions to deface them: therefore against such assaults there is no better remedie then to walke vprightly in the feare of God, and to haue a good conscience.

d Herein is condemned the wickednesse of the king, who would he set vp as a god and passed not what wicked lawes he approued for the maintenance of the same.

c Because hee would not by his silence shew that he consented to this wicked decree, he set open his windowes toward Ierusalem, when he prayed: both to stirre vp himselfe with the remembrance of Gods promises to his people whē they should pray toward that Temple, and also that other might see, that he would neither consent in heart nor deed for these fewe dayes to any thing that was contrary to Gods glory.

f Thus the wicked maintaine euill lawes by constancie and authoritie, which is oft times either lightnesse, or stubbornesse, when as the innocents thereby perish, and therefore gouernours neither ought to feare nor be ashamed to breake such.

and the king spake, and sayd to Daniel, O Daniel, the seruant of the liuing God, is not thy God (whom thou alway seruest) able to deliuer thee from the lyons?

21 Then sayde Daniel vnto the king, O king, liue for euer.

22 My God hath sent his Angell, and hath shut the lyons mouthes, that they haue not hurt me: for my [h] iustice was found out before him: and vnto thee, O king, I haue done no [i] hurt.

23 Then was the king exceeding glad for him, and commaunded that they should take Daniel out of the den: so Daniel was brought out of the denne, and no manner of hurt was found vpon him, because hee [k] beleeued in his God.

24 And by the commaundement of the king, these men which had accused Daniel, were brought, and were [l] cast into the denne of lyons, euen they, their children, and their wiues: and the lyons had the masterie of them, and brake all their bones in pieces, or euer they came at the ground of the denne.

25 ¶ Afterward king Darius wrote, Vnto all people, nations and languages, that dwell in all the world: Peace be multiplied vnto you.

26 I make a decree, that in all the dominion of my kingdom, men tremble and feare [m] before the God of Daniel: for he is the [n] liuing God, and remaineth for euer: and his kingdome shall not perish, and his dominion shalbe euerlasting.

27 He rescueth and deliuereth, and he worketh signes and wonders in heauen and in earth: who hath deliuered Daniel from the power of the lyons.

28 So this Daniel prospered in the reigne of Darius, and in the reigne of Cyrus of Persia.

g This declareth that Darius was not touched with the true knowledge of God, because he doubted of his power.

h My iust cause and vprightnesse in this thing, wherein I was charged, is approued of God.

i For he did disobey the kings wicked commandement, to obey God, and so did no iniurie to the king, who ought to command nothing, whereby God should be dishonoured.

k Because he committed himselfe wholly vnto God whose cause he did defend, he was assured that nothing but good could come vnto him: where in we see the power of faith, as Heb. 11. 33.

l This is a terrible example against all the wicked, which doe against their conscience make cruell lawes to destroy the children of God, and also admonisheth Princes how to punish such, when their wickednesse is come to light: though not in euerie point, or with like circumstances, yet to execute true iustice vpon them.

m This prooueth not that Darius did worship God aright, or els was conuerted: for then he would haue destroyed al superstition and idolatry, and not onely giuen God the chiefe place, but also haue set him vp, and caused him to bee honoured according to his word: but this was a certaine confession of Gods power, whereunto he was compelled by this wonderfull miracle.

n Which hath not onely life in himselfe, but is the onely fountaine of life, and quickneth all things, so that without him there is no life.

CHAP. VII.

3 A vision of foure beasts is shewed vnto Daniel. 8 The ten hornes of the foure beasts. 27 Of the euerlasting kingdome of Christ.

IN the first yere of Belshazzar king of Babel, Daniel saw a dreame, and there were visions in his head, vpon his bed: [a] then he wrote the dreame, & declared the summe of the matter.

2 Daniel spake, and sayd, I sawe in my vision by night, and beholde, the foure windes of the heauen [b] stroue vpon the great sea:

3 And foure great beasts came vp from the sea, one diuers from another.

4 The first was as a [c] lion, and had egles wings: I beheld, till the wings thereof were pluckt off, and it was lifted vp from the earth, and set vpon his feete as a man, and a mans heart was giuen him.

5 And beholde, another beast which was the second, was like a [d] beare, and stood vpon the [e] one side: and it was liftes vp three ribbes in his [f] mouth betweene his teeth, & they sayd thus vnto him, Arise, and deuoure much flesh.

6 After this, I beheld, and lo, there was another like a [g] leopard, which had vpon his backe [h] foure wings of a foule: the beast had also foure heads, and [i] dominion was giuen him.

7 After this, I sawe in the visions by night, and beholde, the [k] fourth beast was fearefull, and terrible, and very strong. It had great [l] yron teeth: it deuoured, and brake in pieces, and stamped [m] the residue vnder his feete: and it was vnlike to the beasts that were before it: for it had [n] tenne hornes.

8 As I considered the hornes, beholde, there came vp among them another little [o] horne, before whom there were [p] three of a Whereas the people of Israel looked for a continuall quietnesse after these seuentie yeres, as Ieremiah had declared, he sheweth that this rest shall not be a deliuerance from all troubles, but a beginning, and therefore encouraged them to looke for a continuall affliction till the Messiah bee vttered and reuealed, by whom they should haue a spirituall deliuerance, and al the promises fulfilled: whereof they should haue a certaine token in the destruction of the Babylonicall kingdome.

b Which signified that there should be horrible troubles and afflictions in the world in all comers of the world, and at sundrie times.

c Meaning, the Assyrian & Caldean Empire, which was most strong and fierce in power, and most soone come to their authoritie, as though they had had wings to flie: yet their wings were pulled by the Persians, and they went on their feete, and were made like other men, which is here meant by mans heart.

d Meaning the Persians which were barbarous and were shut vp in their mountaines and had no bruit.

e They were small in the beginning, and cruell.

f That is, destroyed many kingdomes, and was insatiable.

g To wit, the Angels by Gods commandement, who by this meanes published the ingratitude of the world.

h Meaning, Alexander the king of Macedonie.

i That is, his foure chiefe captaines, which had the Empire among them after his death. Seleucus had Asia the great, Antigonus, the lesse, Cassander and after him Antipater was king of Macedonie, and Ptolemeus had Egypt.

k It was not of himselfe, nor of his owne power, that hee gate all these countreys: for his armie conteined but thirtie thousand men, and hee ouercame in one battell Darius, which had tenne hundred thousand, when hee was so heauie with sleepe, that his eyes were scarce open, as the stories report: therefore this power was giuen him of God.

l That is, the Romane Empire, which was as a monster, and could not bee compared to any beast, because the nature of none was able to expresse it.

m Signifying the tyrannie and greedinesse of the Romanes.

n That which the Romanes could not quietly inioy in other countreys, they would giue it to other kings and rulers, that at all times when they would, they might take it againe: which liberalitie is heere called the stamping the rest vnder the feete.

o That is, sundrie and diuers prouinces, which were gouerned by the Deputies and Proconsuls, whereof euerie one might be compared to a King.

p Which is meant of Iulius Cæsar, Augustus, Tiberius, Caligula, Cladius, and Nero, &c. who were as Kings in effect, but because they could not rule, but by the consent of the Senate, their power is compared to a little horne. For Mahomet came not of the Romane Empire, and the Pope hath no vocation of gouernment: therefore this cannot bee applyed vnto them. And also in this prophesie the Prophets purpose is chiefly to comfort the Iewes vnto the reuelation of Christ. Some take it for the whole bodie of Antichrist.

q Meaning, a certaine portion of the tenne hornes: that is, a part from the whole estate was pluckt away. For Augustus tooke from the Senate the libertie of chusing the Deputies to send into the prouinces, and tooke the gouernement of certaine countreys to himselfe.

the firſt hornes plucke away: and beholde, in this horne were r eyes like the eyes of man, and a mouth ſpeaking preſumptuous things.

9 I beheld, till the s thrones were ſet vp and the t Ancient of dayes did ſit, whoſe garment was white as ſnow, and the haire of his head like the pure wooll: his throne was like the fierie flame, and his wheeles as burning fire.

10 A fierie ſtreame iſſued, and came forth from before him: thouſande thouſandes miniſtred vnto him, and ten thouſand u thouſandes ſtoode before him: the iudgement was ſet, and the x bookes opened.

11 Then I beheld, y becauſe of the voyce of the preſumptuous words, which the horne ſpake: I beheld, euen till the beaſt was ſlaine, and his body deſtroyed, and giuen to the burning fire.

12 As z concerning the other beaſts, they had taken away their dominion: yet their liues were prolonged for a certaine time and ſeaſon.

13 ¶ As I beheld in viſions by night, beholde, a one like the ſonne of man came in the cloudes of heauen, and b approched vnto the Ancient of dayes, and they brought him before him, 14 And he gaue him c dominion, and honour, and a kingdome, that all people, nations, and languages, ſhould ſerue him: his dominion is an euerlaſting dominion, which ſhal neuer be taken away: and his kingdome ſhall neuer be deſtroyed.

15 ¶ I Daniel was d troubled in my ſpirite in the middes of my bodie, and the viſions of mine heade made mee afraid.

16 Therefore I came vnto e one of them that ſtoode by, and aſked him the trueth of all this; ſo hee tolde mee, and ſhewed mee the interpretation of theſe things.

17 Theſe great beaſtes which are foure, are foure Kings, which ſhall ariſe out of the earth, 18 And they ſhall take the f kingdome of the Saints of the g moſt high, which ſhall poſſeſſe the kingdome for euer, euen for euer and euer.

19 ¶ After this I would know the trueth of the fourth beaſt, which was h vnlike to all the others, verie fearefull, whoſe teeth were of yron, and his nailes of braſſe: which deuoured, brake in pieces, and ſtamped the i reſidue vnder his feete.

20 Alſo to know of the tenne hornes that were in his head, and of the other which came vp, before whom three fell, and of the horne that had eyes, and of the mouth that ſpake preſumptuous things, whoſe k looke was more ſtout then his fellowes.

21 I beheld, and the ſame l horne made battell againſt the Saints, yea, and preuailed againſt them, 22 Until m the Ancient of dayes came, and iudgement was giuen to the Saints of the moſt high: and the time approached, that the Saints poſſeſſed the kingdome.

23 Then he ſaid, The fourth beaſt ſhalbe the fourth kingdome in the earth, which ſhal be vnlike to all the kingdomes, and ſhall deuoure the whole earth, n ſhall tread it downe and breake it in pieces.

24 And the ten hornes out of this kingdome are ten kings that ſhall riſe: o another ſhall riſe after them, and he ſhall be vnlike to the firſt, and he ſhall ſubdue p three kings,

25 And ſhall ſpeake wordes againſt q the moſt high, and ſhall conſume the Saints of the moſt High, and thinke that hee may r change times and lawes, and they ſhall be giuen into his hand, vntill a s time, and times, and the diuiding of time.

CHAP. VIII.

1 A vision of a battell betweene a ramme and a goate. 20 The vnderstanding of the vision.

IN the third yeere of the reigne of king Belshazzar, a vision appeared vnto me, euen vnto me Daniel, a after that which appeared vnto me at the first.

2 And I saw in a vision, and when I saw it, I was in the palace of Shushan, which is in the prouince b of Elam, and in a vision me thought I was by the riuer of Ulai.

3 Then I looked vp and saw, and behold, there stood before the riuer a c ramme, which had two hornes: and these two hornes were hie: but one was d higher then another, and the highest came vp last.

4 I saw the ramme pushing against the West, and against the North, and against the South: so that no e beasts might stand before him, nor could deliuer out of his hand, but he did what he listed, and became great.

5 And as I considered, behold, f a goate came from the West ouer the whole earth, and touched not the ground: and this goate had an g horne that appeared betweene his eyes.

6 And he came vnto the ramme that had the two hornes, whom I had seene standing by the riuer, and ran vnto him in his fierce rage.

7 And I saw him come vnto the ramme, and being mooued against him, hee h smote the ramme, and brake his two hornes: and there was no power in the ramme to stande against him, but he cast him downe to the ground, and stamped vpon him, and there was none that could deliuer the ramme out of his power.

8 Therefore the goate waxed exceeding great, and when he was at the strongest, his great i horne was broken: and for it came vp foure that k appeared toward the foure winds of the heauen.

9 And out of one of them came forth a lie That is, no kings or nations f Meaning, Alexander that came fro Grecia with great speed and expedition.

g Though hee came in y name of all Grecia, yet he bare the title and dignitie of the generall captaine, so that the strength was attributed to him which is meant by this horne. h Alexander once came Darius in two sundry battels, & so had the two kingdomes of the Medes & Persians. i Alexanders great power was broken: for whē he had ouercome al the East, he thought to returne toward Grecia, to subdue them that there had rebelled & so died by the way. k That is, which were famous: for almost in y spaee of fifteen yere, there were fifteene diuers successors before this Monarchy was diuided to these foure, wherof Cassander had Macedonia, Seleucus Syria, Antigonus Asia the lesse, & Ptolemeus Egypt. l Which was Antiochus Epiphanes, who was of a seruile & flattering nature & also there were other betweene him & the kingdome, & therefore is here called y little horne, because neither princely conditions, nor any other thing was in him, why he should obtaine this kingdome.

t le horne, which waxed very great toward the * South, and toward the * East, and toward the ° pleasant land.

10 Yea, it grew vp vnto the p hoste of heauen, and it cast downe some of the hoste, and of the starres to the ground, and trode vpon them,

11 And extolled himselfe against the q prince of the hoste from whom the r daily sacrifice was taken away, and the place of his Sanctuary was cast downe.

12 And s a time shall bee giuen him ouer the daily sacrifice for the iniquitie: and it shall t cast downe the truth to the ground, & thus shall it doe, and prosper.

13 Then I heard one of the * Saints speaking, and one of the Saints spake vnto a certaine one, saying, How long shall endure the vision of the daily sacrifice, and the iniquitie of the * desolation to tread both y Sanctuarie and the v armie vnder foote?

14 And he * answered me, Vnto the a euening, and the morning, two thousand & three hundreth: then shall the Sanctuarie bee cleansed.

15 ¶ Now when I Daniel had seene the vision, and sought for the meaning, behold, there stood before me b like the similitude of a man.

16 And I heard a mans voyce betweene the bankes of Ulai, which called and said, Gabriel, c make this man to vnderstand the vision.

17 So he came where I stood: and when he came, I was afraid, & fell vpon my face: but he said vnto me, Vnderstand, O sonne of man: for d in the last time shalbe the vision.

18 Now as he was speaking vnto me, I being e sleepe fell on my face to the ground: but he touched me, & set me vp in my place.

19 And he said, Behold, I will shew thee what shall be in the last * wrath: for in the end of the time appointed it shall come.

20 The ramme which thou sawest hauing two hornes, are the kings of the Medes and Persians.

21 And the goat is the king of Grecia, and the great horne that is betweene his eyes, is the first king.

22 And that that is broken, and foure stood vp for it, are foure kingdomes, which shal stand vp f of that nation, but not s in his strength.

s He sheweth that their sinnes are the cause of these horrible afflictions: and yet comforteth them, in that he appointeth this tyrant a time, whom he would not suffer vtterly to abolish his religion.
t This horne shal abolish for a time the true doctrine, and so corrupe Gods seruice.
u Meaning, that he heard one of y Angels asking this question of Christ, whom he calleth a certaine one, or a secret one, or a marueilous one. x That is, the Iewes sinnes, which were cause of this destruction. y That is, which suppresseth Gods religion, and his people. z Christ answered me for the comfort of the Church. a That is, vntil so many natural dayes be past, which make sixe yeeres, three moneths and an halfe: for so long vnder Antiochus was the Temple prophaned. b Which was Christ, who in this matter declared himselfe to the old fathers how he would be God manifested in flesh. c This power to command d the Angel declared that hee was God. d the effect of this vision shall not yet appeare, but a long time after. e Meaning that great rage, which Antiochus should shew against the Church. f That is, out of Grecia. g They shal not haue like power as had Alexander. h Nothing that this Antiochus was impudent, and cruell, and all craftie, that he could not be deceiued.

CHAP. IX.

3 Daniel desireth to haue that performed of God, which he had promised concerning the returne of the people from their banishment in Babylon. 5 A true confession. 20 Daniels prayer is heard. 21 Gabriel the Angel expoundeth vnto him the vision of the seuenty weekes. 24 The anoynting of Christ. 25 The building againe of Ierusalem. 26 The death of Christ.

IN the first yeere of Darius the sonne of a Ahashuerosh, of the seede of the Medes, which was made king ouer the b realme of the Caldeans, 2 Euen in the first yeere of his reigne, I Daniel vnderstood by c bookes the number of the yeeres, whereof the Lord had spoken vnto Ieremiah the Prophet, that hee would accomplish seuenty yeeres in the desolation of Ierusalem.

3 And I turned my face vnto the Lorde God, and d sought by prayer and supplications with fasting and sackcloth and ashes.

4 And I prayed vnto the Lord my God, and made my confession, saying, Oh Lorde God, which art e great and merciful, and keepest couenant & mercie toward them which loue † thee, and toward them that keepe thy commandements,

5 We haue sinned, and haue committed iniquitie and haue done wickedly, yea, wee haue rebelled, and haue departed from thy precepts, and from thy iudgements.

6 For wee would not obey thy seruants the Prophets, which spake in thy Name to our Kings, to our Princes, and to our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

7 O Lord, f righteousnes belongeth vnto thee, and vnto vs ‡ open shame, as appeareth this day vnto euery man of Iudah, & to the inhabitants of Ierusalem: yea, vnto all Israel, both neere and farre off, through all the countreyes whither thou hast driuen them because of their offences, that they haue committed against thee.

8 O Lord, vnto vs appertaineth open shame to our g Kings, to our Princes, and to our fathers, because wee haue sinned against thee.

9 Yet compassion and forgiuenes is in the Lord our God, albeit wee haue rebelled against him,

10 For wee haue not obeyed the h voyce of the Lord our God, to walke in his lawes, which he had layd before vs by the ministery of his seruants the Prophets.

11 Yea, all Israel haue transgressed thy Law, and are turned backe, and haue not heard thy voice: therefore the i curse is powred vpon vs, and the othe that is written in the Law of Moses the seruant of God, because we haue sinned against him.

12 And hee hath confirmed his wordes, which he spake against vs, and against our iudges that iudged vs, by bringing vpon vs a great plague: for vnder the whole heauen hath not been the like, as hath beene brought vpon Ierusalem.

13 All this plague is come vpon vs, as it is written in the Law of Moses: yet made we not our prayer before the Lord our God, that we might turne from our iniquities, and vnderstand thy trueth.

14 Therefore hath the Lord ‡ made reddie the plague, and brought it vpon vs: for the Lord our God is righteous in all his workes which hee doeth: for we would not heare his voyce.

15 * And now, O Lord our God, that hast brought thy people out of the lande of Egypt with a mighty hand, and hast gotten thee renowme, as appeareth this day, we haue sinned, we haue done wickedly.

16 O Lord, according to all thy k righteousnesse, I beseech thee, let thine anger and thy wrath be turned away from thy citie Ierusalem thine holy mountaine: for because of our sinnes, and for the iniquities of our fathers, Ierusalem & thy people are a reproch to all that are about vs.

17 Now therefore, O our God, heare the prayer of thy seruant, and his supplications, and cause thy face to l shine vpon thy Sanctuary, that lieth waste for thy m Lords sake.

18 O my God, incline thine eare, and heare: open thine eyes, and beholde our desolations, and the citie whereupon thy Name is called: for wee doe not present our supplications before thee for our owne n righteousnes, but for thy great tender mercies.

19 O Lord heare, O Lord forgiue, O Lord o consider, and doe it: deferre not, for thine owne sake, O my God: for thy Name is called vpon thy citie, and vpon thy people.

20 ¶ And whiles I was speaking and praying, and confessing my sinne, and the sinne of my people Israel, and did present my supplication before the Lord my God, for the time of their deliuerance prophesied by Ieremiah.

g He doeth not excuse the kings because of their authoritie, but prayeth chiefly for them as the chiefe occasions of these great plagues.

m That is, for thy Christs sake in whom thou wilt accept all our prayers.

n Declaring, that the godly flee only vnto Gods mercies, and renounce their owne workes when they seeke for remission of their sinnes.

o Thus he could not cõtent himselfe with any vehemencie of wordes: for he was so led with a feruent zeale cõsidering Gods promise, made to the citie in respect of his Church, and for the aduancement of Gods glory.

23 At the beginning of thy supplications the commandement came foorth, and I am come to shew thee, for thou art greatly beloued: therefore vnderstand the matter and consider the vision.

24 Seuentie p weekes are determined vpon q thy people, and vpon thine holy citie to finish the wickednesse, and to seale vp the r sinnes, and to reconcile the iniquitie, and to bring in euerlasting righteousnesse, and to seale vp the vision and prophesie, and to anoynt the most Holy.

CHAP. X.

There appeareth vnto Daniel a man clothed in linnen, 11 which sheweth him wherefore he is sent

1 In the a third yeere of Cyrus king of Persia, a thing was reuealed vnto Daniel (whose name was called Belteshazzar) and the word was true, but the time appointed was b long, and he vnderstood the thing, and had vnderstanding of the vision.

2 At the same time, I Daniel was in heauinesse for three weekes of dayes.

3 I ate no pleasant bread, neither came flesh, nor wine in my mouth, neither did I anoynt my selfe at all, till three weekes of dayes were fulfilled.

4 And in the foure and twentieth day of the c first moneth, as I was by the side of that great riuer, euen Hiddekel,

5 And I lift vp mine eyes, and looked, and behold, there was a man d clothed in linnen, whose loynes were girded with fine gold of e Vphaz,

6 His body also was like the Chrysolite, and his face (to looke vpon) like the lightning, and his eyes as lampes of fire, and his armes and his feete were like in colour to polished brasse, and the voice of his words was like the voyce of a multitude.

7 And I Daniel alone saw the vision: for the men that were with me, saw not the vision: but a great feare fell vpon them, so that they fled away and hid themselues.

8 Therefore I was left alone, & saw this great vision, and there remained no strength in me: for my f strength was turned in me into corruption, and I reteined no power.

9 Yet heard I the voyce of his wordes: and when I heard the voyce of his words, I slept on my face: and my face was toward the ground.

10 And behold, an hand g touched mee which set mee vp vpon my knees and vpon the palmes of my hands, 11 And he said vnto me, O Daniel, a man greatly beloued, vnderstand the words that I speake vnto thee, and stand in thy place: for vnto thee am I now sent. And when hee had said this word vnto mee, I stood trembling.

12 Then said he vnto me, Feare not Daniel: for from the first day that thou diddest set thine heart to vnderstand, and to humble thy selfe before thy God, thy wordes were heard, and I am come for thy wordes.

13 But the h prince of the kingdome of Persia withstood me one and twenty dayes: but loe, i Michael one of the chiefe princes, came to helpe me, and I remained there by the kings of Persia.

14 Now I am come to shew thee what shall come to thy people in the latter dayes: for yet the k vision is for many dayes.

15 And when he spake these words vnto mee, I set my face toward the ground, and held my tongue.

16 And behold, l one like the similitude of the sonnes of man touched my lips: then I opened my mouth, and spake, and said vnto him that stood before mee, O my Lord, m by the vision my sorrowes are returned vpon me, and I haue reteined no strength.

17 For how can the seruant of this my Lord talke with my Lord being such a one? for as for mee, straight way there remained no strength in mee, neither is there breath left in me.

18 Then

h Meaning, Cambyses, who reigned in his fathers absence, and did not onely for this space hinder the building of the Temple, but would haue further raged, if God had not sent me to resist him, and therefore haue I stayed for the profite of the Church.
i Though God could by one Angel destroy all the world, yet to assure his children of his loue, hee sendeth fourth double power, euen Michael, that is, Christ Iesus the head of Angels.
k For though the Prophet Daniel should end and cease, yet his doctrine should continue till the comming of Christ for the comfort of his Church.
l This was the same Angel that spake with him before in the similitude of a man.

n Hee declareth hereby that God would be merciful vnto the people of Israel.

p Meaning, that he would not onely himselfe bridle the rage of Cambyses, but also y other kings of Persia by Alexander the king of Macedonia. q For this Angel was appointed for the defence of the Church vnder Christ, who is the head thereof.

18 Then there came againe, and touched me one like the appearance of a man, and he strengthened me, 19 And said, O man, greatly beloued, feare not: n peace be vnto thee: bee strong and of good courage. And when he had spoken vnto me, o I was strengthened, & said, Let my Lord speake: for thou hast strengthened me.

20 Then said hee, Knowest thou wherefore I am come vnto thee? but now will I returne to fight with the Prince of Persia: and when I am gone forth, loe, the p prince of Grecia shall come.

21 But I will shew thee that which is decreed in the Scripture of trueth: q and there is none that holdeth with me in these things, but Michael your prince.

CHAP. XI.

1 A prophesie of the kingdoms which should be enemies to the Church of God, as of Persia, 3 Of Greece, 5 Of Egypt, 28 Of Syria, 36 And of the Romanes.

ALso I, in the first yeere of Darius of the Medes, euen I a stood to encourage and to strengthen him.

2 And now will I shew thee the trueth. Behold, there shal stand vp yet b three kings in Persia, and the fourth shall bee farre richer then they all: and by his riches he shall stirre vp c all against the realme of Grecia.

3 But a d mightie King shall stand vp, that shall rule with great dominion, and do according to his pleasure.

4 And when he shall stand vp, e his kingdome shalbe broken, & shal be deuided toward the e foure winds of heauen: f not to his posteritie, nor according to his dominion, which he ruled: for his kingdome shal be pluckt vp, euē to be for others beſides those.

5 And the g King of the South shall bee mightie, and one of h his princes, and shall preuaile against him, and beare rule: his dominion shall be a great dominion.

6 And in i end of yeeres they shall be ioyned together: for the kings k daughter of the South shall come to the King of the North to make an agreement, but thee shal not reteine the power of the l arme, neither shall m he continue, nor his n arme: but thee shalbe deliuered to death, & they that brought her, and o hee that begate her, and hee that comforted her in their times.

7 But out of the budde of her p roote shall one stande vp in his stead, q which shall come with an armie, and shall enter into the fortresse of the King of the North, and doe with them as hee list, and shall preuaile.

8 And shall also carry captiues into Egypt their gods with their molten images, and with their precious vessels of siluer and of golde, and he shall continue r moe yeeres then the king of the North.

9 So the king of the South shall come into his kingdome, and shall returne into his owne land.

10 Wherefore his s sonnes shalbe stirred vp, and shall assemble a mighty great army: and one t shal come and ouerflow, and passe thorow: then shall u he returne, and be stirred vp at his fortresse.

11 And the King of the South shall bee angry, and shall come forth, and fight with him, euen with the King of the North: for hee shall set forth a great x multitude, and the multitude shall bee giuen into his hand.

12 Then the multitude shall bee proude, and their heart shall bee lifted vp: for hee shall cast downe thousands: but he shall not stand preuaile.

13 For the King of the North y shall returne, and shall set forth a greater multitude then afore, and shall come forth (after certaine yeeres) with a mightie armie, and great riches.

14 And at the same time there shall z many stand vp against the king of the South: also the rebellious children of thy a people shall exalt themselues to stablish the vision, but they shall fall.

15 So the King of the North shall come, and cast vp a mount, and take the strong citie: and the armes of the South shall not resist, neither his chosen people, neither shall there bee any strength to withstand.

16 But her that shall come, shall doe vnto him as hee list, and none shall stand aa The Angel assureth Daniel y God hath giuen him power to performe these things, seeing he appointed him to assist Darius who he ouercame the Caldeans.

b Whereof Cambyses that now reigned, was the first, the second Smerdes, y third Darius the sonne Hystaspis, & the fourth Xerxes, which all were enemies to the people of God, and stoode against them.

c For hee raised vp all the East countreyes to fight against the Grecians: and albeit he had in his armie nine hundred thousand men, yet in foure battels he was discomfited and fled away with shame. d That is, Alexander the great. e For when his estate was most flourishing he ouercame himselfe with drinke, and so fell into a disease: or as some write, was poysoned by Cassander. f For his twelue chiefe princes first diuided his kingdome among themselues. g After this his monarchie was diuided into foure: for Seleucus had Syria, Antigonus Asia minor, Cassander the kingdome of Macedonia, and Ptolemeus Egypt. h Thus God reuenged Alexanders ambition and crueltie, in causing his posteritie to be murthered, partly of the fathers chiefe friends, & partly one of another. i None of these foure shall be able to be compared to the power of Alexander. k That is, his posteritie hauing no part therof. l To wit, Ptolemeus king of Egypt. m That is, Antiochus the sonne of Seleucus, and one of Alexanders princes shall be more mightie: for he should haue both Asia and Syria. n That is, Berenice the daughter of Ptolemeus Philadelphus shall beginne in mariage to Antiochus Theos, thinking by this affinitie that Syria and Egypt should haue a continuall peace together.

o That force and strength shall not continue: for soone after, Berenice and her yong sonne after her husbands death, was slaine of her stepsonne Seleucus Calinicus the sonne of Laodice, the lawfull wife of Antiochus, but put away for this romans sake.

p Neither Ptolemeus, nor Antiochus.

q Some reade seede, meaning the childe begotten of Berenice.

r Some reade, thee that begate her, and thereby vnderstand her mother, which brought her vp: so that all they that were occasion of this mariage, were destroyed.

s Meaning, that Ptolemeus Euergetes after the death of his father Philadelphus, should succeede in the kingdome, being of the same stocke that Berenice was.

t To reuenge his sisters death against Antiochus Calinicus king of Syria.

u For this Ptolemeus reigned six and fortie yeeres. x Meaning, Seleucus and Antiochus the great, the sonnes of Calinicus shall make warre against Ptolemeus Philopater the sonne of Philadelphus. y For his elder brother Seleucus died, or was slaine whiles the wars were preparing. z That is, Philopater when he shall see Antiochus to take great dominions from him in Syria, and also ready to inuade Egypt. a For Antiochus had sixe thousande horsemen and threescore thousand footemen. b After the death of Ptolemeus Philopater, who left Ptolemeus Epiphanes his heire. c For not onely Antiochus came against him, but also Philip king of Macedonia, and these two brought great power with them. d For vnder Onias which falsly alleged that place of Isaiah 19 19. certaine of the Iewes retired with him into Egypt to fulfil this prophesie: also the Angel sheweth that all these troubles which are in the Church, are by the prouidence and counsell of God. e The Egyptians were not able to resist Stopas Antiochus captaine.

f Hee sheweth that he shall not onely afflict the Egyptians, but also the Iewes, and shall enter into their countrey, whereof he admonisheth them before, that they may know that all these things come by Gods prouidence.

g This was the second battell that Antiochus fought against Ptolemeus Epiphanes.

h To wit, a beautifull woman which was Cleopatra Antiochus daughter.

i For he regarded not the life of his daughter, in respect of the kingdome of Egypt.

k She shall not agree to his wicked counsell, but shall loue her husband, as her duetie requireth, and not seeke his destruction.

l That is, toward Asia, Grecia, and those yles which are in the sea called Mediterranean: for the Iewes called all countreyes yles, which were diuided from them by sea.

m For whereas Antiochus was woont to contemne the Romanes, & put their ambassadours to shame in all places, Attilius the Consul, or Lucius Scipio put him to flight, & caused his shame to turne on his owne head.

n By his wicked life, and obeying of foolish counsel.

o For feare of the Romanes he shall flee to his holdes.

p For when as vnder the pretence of pouertie he would haue robbed the Temple of Iupiter Dodonæus, the countrey men slew him.

q That is, Seleucus shall succeed his father Antiochus.

r Not by forreine enemies, or battell, but by treason.

s Which was Antiochus Epiphanes, who as is thought, was the occasion of Seleucus his brothers death, and was of a vile, cruell, and flattering nature, & defrauded his brothers sonne of the kingdome, and vsurped the kingdome without the consent of the people.

t Hee sheweth that great forraine powers shall come to helpe the yong sonne of Seleucus against his vncle Antiochus, and yet shall be ouerthrowen.

u Meaning Ptolemeus Philometor Philopaters sonne, who was this childes cousin germaine, and is heere called the prince of the couenant, because hee was the chiefe, and all other followed his conduct.

x For after the battell, Philometor and his vncle Antiochus made a league.

y For hee came vpon him at vnawares, and when he suspected his vncle Antiochus nothing.

z Meaning, in Egypt.

a Hee will content himselfe with the small holdes for a time, but euer labour by craft to attaine to the chiefest.

b Hee shall be ouercome with treason, against him: and he shall stand in the pleasant land, which by his hand shall be consumed.

17 Againe hee shall a set his face to enter with the power of his whole kingdome, and his confederates with him: thus shall he do, and he shall giue him the b daughter of women, to destroy her: but b she shal not stand on his side, neither be for him.

18 After this shall he turne his face vnto the c yles, and shall take many: but a prince d shall cause his shame to light vpon him, beside that he shall cause his owne shame to turne vpon e himselfe.

19 For he shall turne his face toward the forts of his e owne land: but he shalbe ouerthrowen and fall, and be no more f found.

20 g Then shall stand vp in his place in the glory of the kingdome, one that shall vaile tares: but after fewe dayes hee shall bee destroyed, neither in h wrath, nor in battell.

21 And in his place shall stand vp a i vile person, to whom they shall not giue the honour of the kingdome: but he shall come in peaceably, & obtein the kingdome by flatteries.

22 And the k armes shall be ouerthrowen with a flood before him, and shall be broken: and also the prince of l the couenant.

23 And after m the league made with him, he shall worke deceitfully: for he shall come vp, and ouercome with a n small people.

24 He shall enter into the quiet and plentifull prouince, and he shall doe that which his fathers o haue not done, nor his fathers fathers: he shal diuide among them the pray and the spoile, and the substance, yea, and he shall forecast his deuices against the strong holdes, euen for a p time.

25 Also he shall stir vp his power and his courage against the king of the South with a great q army, and r king of the South shall bee stirred vp to battell with a very great and mighty armie: but he shal not b stand: for they shall forecast and practise against him.

26 Yea, they that feede of the portion of s his meate, shall destroy him: and his armie t shall ouerflow: and many shall fall, and be slaine.

27 And both these kings hearts shall bee to doe u mischiefe, and they shall talke of deceite at one table: but it shall not auaile x for y yet the ende shall bee at the time appointed.

28 Then shall hee returne into his lande with great z substance: for his heart shall be against the holy couenant: so shall he do and returne to his owne land.

29 At the time appointed he shal returne, and come toward the South: but the last shall not be as the first.

30 For the ships a of Chittim shall come against him: therfore he shalbe sory and returne, and fret against the holy couenant: so shall he doe, he shall euen returne i and haue intelligence with them that forsake the holy couenant.

31 And armes k shall stand on his part, and they shall pollute the Sanctuarie l of strength, and shall take away the daily sacrifice, and they shall set vp the abominable desolation.

32 And such as wickedly m breake the couenant, shall be cause to sinne by flatterie: but the people that do know their God, shall preuaile and prosper.

33 And they that vnderstand among n the people, shall instruct many: o yet they shall fall by sword, and by flame, by captiuity and by spoyle, many dayes.

34 Now when they shall fall, they shall be holpen with a p little helpe: but many shal cleaue vnto them q fatnedly.

35 And some of them r of vnderstanding shall fall to trie them, and to purge, and to make them white, till the time bee out: for there is a time appointed.

c Signifying his princes and the chiefe about him.

d Declaring that his souldiers shal burst out and venture their life to slay and to be slaine for the safegard of their prince.

e The vncle and the nephew shall take truce, and banket together, yet in their hearts they shal imagine mischiefe one against an other.

f Signifying that it standeth not in the counsell of men to bring things to passe, but in the prouidence of God who ruleth the kings by a secret bridle, that they cannot doe what they list themselues.

g Which hee shall take of the Iewes in spoyling Ierusalem and the Temple, and this is tolde them before, to moone them to patience, knowing h That is, the Romane power shal come against him: for P. Popilius the ambassador appointed him to depart in the Romans name: to which thing hee obeyed, although with griefe, and to reuenge his rage, hee came against the people of God the second time.

i With the Iewes which shall forsake the couenant of the Lord: for first he was called against the Iewes by Iason the hie Priest, and this second time by Menelaus.

k A great faction of the wicked Iewes shall holde with Antiochus.

l So called because the power of God was nothing diminished, although this tyrant set vp in the Temple his image of Iupiter Olympius, & so began to corrupt the pure seruice of God

m Meaning, such as bare the name of Iewes, but in deed were nothing lesse: for they sold their soules, and betrayed their brethren for gaine.

n They that remaine constant among the people, shall teach others by their example, and edifie many in the true religion.

o Whereby hee exhorteth the godly to constancie, although they should perish a thousand times, and though their miseries endure neuer so long p As God will not leaue his Church destitute, yet will he not deliuer it all at once, but so helpe as they may still seeme to fight vnder the crosse, as hee did in the time of the Maccabees, whereof he heere prophesieth.

q That is, there shall be euen of this small number, many hypocrites.

r To wit, of them that feare God, and will lose their life for the defence of true religion, signifying also, that the Church must continually be tried and purged, and ought to looke for one persecution after another, for God hath appointed the time: therefore we must obey.

f Because the Angels purpole is to shew the whole course of the persecutions of the Iewes vnto the comming of Christ, he now speaketh of the Monarchie of the Romanes, which he noteth by the name of a king, who were without all religion, and contemned the true God.

g So long the tyrants shall preuaile as God hath appointed to punish his people: but hee sheweth that it is but for a time.

h The Romanes shall obserue no certaine forme of religion as other nations, but shal chãge their gods at their pleasures, yea, contemne them, & preferre themselues to their gods.

i Signifying, that they should be without all humanitie: for the loue of women is taken for singular or great loue, as 2 Sam. 1. 26.

k That is, the god of power and riches: they shall esteeme their owne power aboue all their gods, and worship it. l Vnder pretence of worshipping the gods, they shall enrich their citie with the most precious iewels of all the world, because that herby al men should haue them in admiratiõ for their power & riches. a Although in their hearts they had no religion, yet they did acknowledge the gods, and worshipped them in their temples, lest they should haue bene despised as Atheists: but this was to increase their fame and riches: and when they gate any countrey, they so made others the rulers thereof, that the profite euer came to the Romanes. b That is, both the Egyptians and the Syrians shall at length fight against the Romanes, but they shalbe ouercome. c The Angel forewarneth the Iewes, that when they should see the Romans inuade them, & that the wicked should escape their hands, ỽ then they should not thinke but that all this was done by Gods prouidence, forasmuch as he warned thẽ of it so long afore, & therfore he would still preserue them. d Hearing that Crassus was slaine, and Antonius discomfited. e For Augustus ouercame the Parthians, and recouered that which Antonius had lost. f The Romans after this reigned quietly through all countreyes, both from sea to sea, and in Iudea: but at length for their cruelty God shall destroy them.

36 And the‡ king shall do what him list: he shall exalt himselfe, and magnifie himselfe against all, that is God, and shal speake marueilous things against the God of gods, and shal prolper till the wrath ᵉ be accomplished: for the determination is made.

37 Neither shall hee regard the ᵃ God of his fathers, nor the desires ᵗ of women, nor care for any god: for he shall magnifie himselfe aboue all.

38 But in his place shall hee honour the ᶻ god Mauzzim, and the god whom his fathers knew not shall hee honour with ᵃ gold and with siluer, and with precious stones, and pleasant things.

39 Thus shall hee doe in the ᵇ holdes of Mauzzim with a strange god whom he shal acknowledge: he shall encrease his glory, and shall cause them to rule ouer many, and shall diuide the lande for gaine.

40 And at the ende of time shall the king of the ᵇ South push at him, and the king of the North shall come against him like a whirlewinde, with charets, and with horsemen, and with many shippes, and hee shall enter into the countreyes, and shal ouerflow and passe thorow.

41 Hee shall enter also into the ᶜ pleasant land, and many countreys shalbe ouerthrowen: but these shall escape out of his hande, euen Edom and Moab, and the chiefe of the children of Ammon.

42 He shall stretch forth his hands also vpon the countreyes, and the land of Egypt shall not escape.

43 But he shal haue power ouer the treasures of golde and of siluer, and ouer all the precious things of Egypt, and of the Libyans, and of the blacke Moyes where he shal passe.

44 But the tidings out of the East and the North shall ᵈ trouble him: therefore hee shall goe forth ᵉ with great wrath to destroy and roote out many.

45 And he shall plant the tabernacles ᶠ of his palace betweene the seas in the glorious and holy mountaine, yet he shall come to his ende, and none shall helpe him.

CHAP. XII.

1. Of the deliuerance of the Church by Christ.

AND at that ᵍ time shall Michael stand vp, the great prince, which standeth for the children of thy people, and there shall bee a time of trouble, such as neuer was since there beganne to be a nation vnto that same time: and at that time thy people shalbe deliuered, euery one that shalbe found written in the booke.

2 And many ʰ of them ỽ sleepe in the dust of the earth, shall awake, some to euerlasting life, ỽ some to shame ỽ perpetuall contempt.

3 And they that be ᶦ wise, shall shine, as the brightnesse of the firmament: and they that ᵏ turne many to righteousnes, shal shine as the starres, for euer and euer.

4 But thou, O Daniel, ˡ shut vp the wordes, and seale the booke ᵐ till the ende of the time: many shall runne to and fro, and knowledge shalbe encreased.

5 ¶ Then I Daniel looked, and behold, there stood other two, the one on this side of the brinke of the ⁿ riuer, ỽ the other on that side of the brinke of the riuer.

6 And one said vnto the man clothed in linnen, which was vpon the waters of the riuer, When shal be the end of these wonders?

7 And I heard [illegible] clothed in linnen, which was [illegible] of the riuer, when hee held [illegible] his right hand & his left hand vnto heauen, and sware by him that liueth for euer, that it shal tary for a ᵒ time, two times and an halfe: and when he shall haue accomplished ᵖ to scatter the power of the holy people, all these things shalbe finished.

8 Then I heard it, but I vnderstood it not: then sayd I, O my Lord, what shall be the end of these things?

9 And he said, Goe thy way, Daniel: for the words are closed vp, and sealed, till the end of the time.

10 Many shall be purified, made white and tried: but the wicked shall doe wickedly, and none of the wicked shall haue vnderstanding: but the wise shall vnderstand.

11 And from the time that the ᵍ daily sacrifice shalbe taken away, and the abominable desolation set vp, there ʳ shall be a thousand two hundreth and ninetie dayes.

12 Blessed is hee that waiteth and commeth to the thousand three hundreth and ʳ fiue and thirtie dayes.

13 But goe ˢ thou thy way till the end be: for thou shalt rest and stand vp in thy lot, at the end of the dayes.

a The Angel here noteth two things: first that the Church shall be in great affliction and trouble at Christs comming, & next that God wil send his Angel to deliuer it, whom here he calleth Michael, meaning Christ, which is published by the preaching of the Gospel. b Meaning, all shall rise at the generall resurrection, which thing he here nameth, because the faithfull should haue euer their respect to that: for in the earth there shalbe no sure comfort.

c Who haue kept the true feare of God and his religion.

d Hee chiefly meaneth the ministers of Gods word, & next all ỽ faithfull which instruct ỽ ignorãt and bring them to the true knowledge of God.

e Though the most part despise this prophesie, yet keep thou it sure and esteeme it as a treasure.

f Till the time that God hath appointed for the full reuelation of these things. and then many shall run to and fro to search the knowledge of these light of ỽ Gospel.

g Which was Tigris. h Which was as it were a double othe, and did the more confirme the thing. i Meaning, a long time, a longer time, & at length a short time: signifying that their troubles should haue an end. k When the Church shalbe scattered and diminished in such sort as it shall seeme to haue no power. l From the time that Christ by his sacrifice shal take away the sacrifice and ceremonies of the Law. m Signifying that the time shalbe long of Christs second comming, and yet the children of God ought not to be discouraged, though it be deferred. n In this number he addeth a moneth and an halfe to the former number, signifying that it is not in man to appoint the time of Christs cõming, but that they are blessed that patiently abide his appearing. o The Angel warneth the Prophet patiently to abide, til the time appoynted come, signifying that he should depart this life, and rise againe with the elect, when God had sufficiently humbled and purged his Church.

THE ARGVMENT.

After that the ten tribes had fallen away from God by the wicked and subtil counsell of Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat, and in stead of his true seruice commounded by his word, worshipped him according to their owne fantasies & traditions of men, giuing themselues to most vile idolatry and superstition, the Lord from time to time sent them Prophets to call them to repentance: but they grew euer worse and worse, & still abused Gods benefits. Therefore now when their prosperity was at the highest vnder Ieroboam the sonne of Ioash, God sent Hosea and Amos to the Israelites (as he did at the same time Isaiah and Micah to them of Iudah) to condemne them of their ingratitude: and whereas they thought themselues to be greatly in the fauour of God, and to be his people, the Prophet calleth them bastards and children borne in adulterie: and therefore sheweth them that God would take away the kingdome, & giue them to the Assyrians to be led away captiues. Thus Hosea faithfully executed his office for the space of seuenty yeres, though they remained still in their vices and wickednesse, and derided the Prophets, and contemned God iudgements. And because they should neither be discouraged with threatnings only, nor yet flatter themselues by the sweetnesse of Gods promises, he setteth before them the two principall parts of the Law, which are the promise of saluation, and the doctrine of life: for the first part he directeth the faithfull to Messiah, by whom onely they should haue true deliuerance: and for the second, he vseth threatnings and menaces to bring them from their wicked maners and vices, & this is the chiefe scope of all the Prophets, either by Gods promises to allure them to be godly, or els by threatnings of his iudgemenes to feare them from vice: and albeit that the whole Law containe these two points, yet the Prophets moreouer note peculiarly both the time of Gods iudgements, and the maner.

CHAP. I.

1 The time wherein Hosea prophesied. 2 The idolatry of the people. 10 The calling of the Gentiles. 11 Christ is the head of all people.

THE woorde of the Lord that came vnto Hosea the sonne of Beeri, in the dayes of [a] Vzziah, Iotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah [b] kings of Iudah, and in the dayes of Ieroboam the sonne of Ioash king of Israel.

2 At the beginning the Lorde spake by Hosea, and the Lord said vnto Hosea, Goe, take vnto thee a wife [c] of fornications, and children of fornications: for the lande hath committed great whoredome, departing from the Lord.

3 So he went, and tooke [d] Gomer the daughter of Diblaim, which conceiued and bare him a sonne.

4 And the Lord said vnto him, Call his name [e] Izreel: for yet a little, and I will visite the blood of Izreel vpon the house [f] of Iehu, and will cause to cease the kingdome of the house of Israel.

5 And at that [g] day will I alse breake the bowe of Israel, in the valley of Izreel.

6 She conceiued yet againe, and bare a daughter. And God said vnto him, Call her name [h] Lo-ruhamah: for I will no more haue pitie vpon the house of Israel: but I will vtterly take them away.

7 Yet I will haue mercy vpon the house of Iudah, and will [i] saue them by the Lord their God, and will not saue them by bowe, nor by sworde, nor by battell, by horses, nor by horsemen.

8 Now when she had weined Lo-ruhamah, she conceiued, and bare a sonne.

9 Then said God, Call his name [k] Loammi: for ye are not my people: therefore will I not be yours.

10 Yet the number of the [l] children of Israel shall be as the sand of the sea, which cannot be measured nor tolde: and in the place where it was said vnto them, Ye are not my people, it shall be said vnto them, Yee are the sonnes of the liuing God.

11 Then shall the children of Iudah, and the children of Israel bee [m] gathered together, and appoint themselues one head, and they shall come vp out of the land: for great is the [n] day of Izreel.

a Called also Azariah, who being a leper, was deposed from his kingdome.

b So that it may be gathered by the reigne of these foure kings, that he preached about three score yeeres.

c That is, one that of long time hath accustomed to play the harlot: not that the Prophet did this thing in effect, but he saw this in a vision, or els was commanded by God to set forth vnder this parable or figure the idolatry of the Synagogue, and of the people her children.

d Gomer signifieth a consumption or corruption, and Diblaim clusters of figges, declaring that they were all corrupt like rotten figges.

e Meaning, that they should be no more called Israelites, of the which name they boasted, because Israel did preuaile with God: but that they were as bastards, & therefore should be called Izreelites, that is, scattered people, alluding to Izreel, which was y chiefe citie of the ten tribes vnder Ahab, where Iehu shed so much blood, 2. Kings 10. 8, 11.

f I will be reuenged vpon Iehu for the blood that he shed in Izreel: for albeit God stirred him vp to execute his iudgements, yet he did them for his owne ambition, and not for the glory of God, as the end declared: for he built vp that Idolatry, which he had destroyed.

g When the measure of their iniquitie is full, and I shall take vengeance and destroy all their policie and force.

h That is, not obteining mercy whereby he signifieth, that Gods fauor was departed from them.

i For the Israelites neuer returned, after that they were taken captiues by the Assyrians.

k For after their captiuitie he restored them miraculously by the meanes of Cyrus, Ezra. 1. 1.

l That is, not my people.

m Because they thought that God could not haue bene true in his promise except he had preserued them, he declareth that though they were destroyed, yet the true Israelites, which are the sonnes of the promise, should be without number, which stand both of the Iewes, and the Gentiles, Rom. 9. 24.

n To wit, after the captiuitie of Babylon when the Iewes were restored: but chiefly this is referred to the time of Christ, who should be the head both of the Iewes and Gentiles.

o The calamitie and destruction of Izreel shall be so great, that to restore them shall be as a miracle.

CHAP. II.

1 The people is called to repentance. 5 He sheweth their idolatry and threatneth them except they repent.

SAy vnto your [a] brethren, Ammi, and to your sisters, Ruhamah.

2 Pleade with your [b] mother: pleade you encourage one another to embrace the same, ye are my people on whom I will haue mercy. that the fault was not in him but in their Synagogue, with her: for she is not my wife, neither am I her husband: but let her take away her fornications out of her sight, and her adulteries c from betweene her breasts,

3 d Lest I strip her naked, and set her as in the day that she was borne, and make her as a wildernesse, and leaue her like a drie land, and slay her for thirst.

4 And I will haue no pitie vpon her children: for they be the e children of fornications.

5 For their mother hath played the harlot: shee that conceiued them, hath done shamefully: for she said, I will goe after my f louers that giue me my bread and my water, my woolle and my flaxe, mine oyle and my drinke.

6 Therefore behold, I will stop h thy way with thornes, and make an hedge, that she shall not find her paths.

7 Though she follow after her louers, yet shall she not come at them: though shee seeke them, yet shall she not find them: then shall she say, i I will goe and returne to my first husband: for at that time was I better then now.

8 Now she did not know that I k gaue her corne, and wine, and oyle, and multiplied her siluer and gold, which they bestowed vpon Baal.

9 Therefore will I returne, & take away my corne in the time thereof, and my wine in the season thereof, and will recouer my woolle and my flaxe lent to couer her shame.

10. And now will I discouer her l leudnesse in the sight of her louers, and no man shall deliuer her out of mine hand.

11 I will also cause all her mirth to ceast, her feast dayes, her newe moones, and her Sabbaths, and all her solemne feasts.

12 And I will destroy her vines, and her fig trees, whereof she hath said, These are my rewards that my louers haue giuen me: and I will make them as a forest, and the wilde beasts shall eate them.

13 And I will visit vpon her the dayes of Baalim, wherein she burnt incense to them: and she decked her selfe with her earerings and her iewels, and she followed her louers, and forgate me, saith the Lord.

14 Therefore, behold, I will m allure her, and bring her into the wildernesse, & speake friendly vnto her,

15 And I will giue her her vineyardes from thence, & the valley n of Achor for the doore of hope, and she shall o sing there as in the dayes of her youth, & as in the day when she came vp out of the land of Egypt.

16 And at that day, saith the Lord, thou shalt call me p Ishi, and shalt call me no more q Baali.

17 For I will take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and they shall be no more remembred by their r names.

18 And in that day will I make a couenant for them, with the s wilde beastes, and with the foules of the heauen, and with that that creepeth vpon the earth: and I will breake the bowe, and the sword and the battell out of the earth, and will make them to sleepe safely.

19 And I will marrie thee vnto mee for euer: yea, I will marry thee vnto mee in righteousnesse, and in iudgement, and in mercie and in compassion.

20 I will euen marry thee vnto mee in t faithfulnes, and thou shalt know the Lord.

21 And in that day I will heare, saith the Lord, I will euen heare u the heauens, and they shall heare the earth, 22 And the earth shall heare the corne, and the wine, and the oyle, and they shall heare Izreel.

23 And I will sowe her vnto mee in the earth, and I will haue mercy vpon her, that was not pitied, & I will say to them which were not my people, x Thou art my people. And they shall say, Thou art my God.

CHAP. III.

1 The Iewes shall be cast off for their idolatrie.
5 Afterward they shall returne to the Lord.

Then said the Lord to me, a Goe yet, and loue a woman (beloued of her husband, and was an harlot) according to the loue of the Lord toward the children of Israel: yet they looked to other gods, and b loued the wine bottels.

2 So c I bought her to mee for fifteene pieces of siluer, & for an homer of barley and an halfe homer of barley.

3 And I said vnto her, Thou shalt abide with d me many dayes: thou shalt not play the harlot, and thou shalt be to none other man, and I will be so vnto thee.

4 For the children of Israel shall remain many dayes without a king, and without a e prince, and without an offering, and without an image, and without an Ephod, and without Teraphim.

5 Afterward shall the children of Israel conuert, and seeke the Lord their God, and f Dauid their King, & shall feare the Lorde, and his goodnesse in the latter dayes.

c Meaning that their idolatrie was so great that they were not ashamed, but boasted of it, Ezek. 16.25.

d For though this people were as an harlot for their idolatries, yet he had left them with their apparel & dowry & certaine signes of his fauour, but if they continued still, he would vtterly destroy them.

e When I brought her out of Egypt, Ezek. 16.4.

f That is, bastards, & begotten in adultery.

g Meaning, the idoles which they serued and by whom they thought they had wealth and abundance.

h I will punish thee, that then thou mayest try whether thine idoles can helpe thee, and bring thee into such streitnesse, that thou shalt haue no lust to play the wanton.

i This he speaketh of the faithfull which are truely conuerted, and also sheweth the vse and profit of Gods rods.

k This declareth that idolaters defraud God of his honour, when they attribute his benefits to their idoles.

l Signifying that God will take away his benefits when man by his ingratitude doeth abuse them.

m That is, all her seruice, ceremonies, & inuentions, whereby she worshipped her idoles.

n I will punish her for her idolatry.

o By shewing how harlots trimme themselues to please others, he declareth how the superstitious idolaters set a great part of their religion in decking themselues on their holy dayes.

p By my benefits in offering her grace and mercie, euen in that place where she shall thinke her selfe destitute of all helpe and comfort.

q Which was a plentifull valley, & where in they had great comfort when they came out of the wildernesse, as Iosh 7.26. and is called the doore of hope, because it was a departing from death, and an entrie into life.

r She shall then praise God as she did when she was deliuered out of Egypt.

s That is, mine husband, knowing that I am ioyned to thee by an inuiolable couenant.

t That is, my master: which name was applied to their idoles.

u No idolatry shall once come into their mouth but they shall serue me purely according to my worde x Meaning, that he will so blesse them, that all creatures shal fauour them.

y With a couenant that neuer shalbe broken.

z Then shall the heauen desire raine for y earth which shal bring forth for the vse of man.

Rom. 9.25. 1. Pet. 2.10.

a Herein the Prophet representeth the person of God, which loued his Church before he called her, and did not withdraw the same when she gaue her selfe to idoles.

b That is, gaue themselues wholly to pleasures, and could not take vp, as they that are giuen to drunkennesse.

c Yet I loued her, and payed a small portion for her, lest she perceiuing the greatnesse of my loue, should haue abused mee and not bene vnder dutie: for fifteene pieces of siluer were but halfe the price of a slaue, Exod. 21.32.

d I will trie thee a long time as in thy widowhood whether thou wilt be mine or no.

e Meaning, not only all y time of their captiuity, but also vnto Christ.

f That is, they should neither haue policie nor Religion, and their idoles also wherein they put their confidence, should be destroyed.

g This is meant of Christs kingdome, which was promised vnto Dauid to be eternall, Psalme 72.17.

CHAP. IIII.

A complaint against the people, and the priests of Israel.

Heare

HEare the word of the Lord, yee children of Israel: for the Lord [a] hath a controuersie with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercie, nor knowledge of God in the land.

2 By swearing and lying, and killing, and stealing, and whoring, they breake out, and [b] blood toucheth blood.

3 Therefore shall the land mourne, and euery one that dwelleth therein, shall be cut off, with the beasts of the field, and with the foules of the heauen, and also the fishes of the sea shalbe taken away.

4 Yet [c] let none rebuke, nor reproue another: for thy people are as they that rebuke the Priest.

5 Therefore shalt thou fall in the [d] day, and the Prophet shall fall with thee in the night, and I will destroy thy [e] mother.

6 My people are destroyed for lacke of knowledge: because [f] thou hast refused knowledge, I will also refuse thee, that thou shalt be no Priest to me: and seeing [g] thou hast forgotten the Lawe of thy God, I will also forget thy children.

7 As they were [h] increased, so they sinned against me: therefore will I change their glory into shame.

8 [i] They eate vp the sinnes of my people, and lift vp their minds in their iniquitie.

9 And there shall bee like people, like [k] Priest: for I will visite their wayes vpon them, and reward them their deeds.

10 For they shall eate, and not haue enough: they shall [l] commit adulterie, & shall not increase, because they haue left off to take heed to the Lord.

11 [m] Whoredome, and wine, and newe wine, take away their heart.

12 My [n] people aske counsell at their stockes, and their staffe teacheth them: for the [o] spirit of fornications hath caused them to erre, and they haue gone a whoring from vnder their God.

13 They sacrifice vpon the toppes of the mountaines, and burne incense vpon the hils vnder the okes, and the poplar tree, and the elme, because the shadowe thereof is good: therefore your daughters shall be [p] harlots, and your spouses shall be whores.

14 I will not [q] visite your daughters when they are harlots, nor your spouses when they are whores: for they themselues are separated with harlots, and sacrifice with whores: therefore the people that doth not vnderstand, shall fall.

15 Though thou, Israel, play the harlot, yet [r] let not Iudah sinne: come not yee vnto [s] Gilgal, neither goe yee vp to [t] Beth-auen, nor sweare, The Lord liueth.

16 For Israel is rebellious as an vnruly heifer. Now the Lord will feede them as a [u] lambe in a large place.

17 Ephraim is ioyned to [x] idoles: let him alone.

18 Their [y] drunkennesse stinketh: they haue committed whoredome: their rulers loue to say with shame, [z] Bring ye.

19 The winde hath [a] bound them vp in her wings, and they shall bee ashamed of their sacrifices.

a Because the people would not obey the admonitions of the Prophet, he citeth them before the iudgement seat of God against whom they chiefly offended, Isa. 7. 13. Micah. 6. 1, 2. Zech. 13. 10.

b In euery place appeareth a libertie to most heinous vices, so that one followeth in the necke of another.

c As though he would say, that it were in vaine to rebuke them: for no man can abide it: yea, they will speake against the Prophets and Priests whose office it is chiefly to rebuke them.

d Ye shall perish all together: the one, because he would not obey, and the other because he would not admonish.

e That is, the Synagogue wherin thou boastest.

f That is, the Priests shall be cast off, because that for lacke of knowledge, they are not able to execute their charge, and instruct others, Deut. 33. 3. Mal. 2. 7.

g Meaning, the whole body of the people which were weary with hearing the word of God.

h The more I was beneficiall vnto them.

i To wit, the Priestes seeke to eate the peoples offerings, and flatter them in their sinnes.

k Signifying that as they haue sinned together, so shall they be punished together.

l Shewing that their wickednesse shalbe punished on all sorts: for though they thinke by the multitude of wiues to haue many children, yet they shall be deceiued of their hope.

m In giuing themselues to pleasures, they become like bruit beasts.

n Thus hee speaketh by derision in calling them his people, which now for their sinnes they were not: for they sought helpe of stockes and stickes.

o They are caried away with a rage.

p Because they take away Gods honour, and giue it to idoles, therefore he will giue them vp to their lustes, that they shall dishonour their owne bodies, Rom. 1. 28.

q I will not correct your shame to bring you to amendement, but let you run headlong to your owne damnation.

r God complaineth that Iudah is infected, and willeth them to learne by their example to returne in time.

s For albeit the Lord had honored this place in time past by his presence, yet because it was abused by their idolatrie, hee would not that t Beth-el, that is, the house of God, Beth-auen, that is, the house of iniquitie, because of their abominations set vp there, signifying that where God is not purely worshipped.

u God will so disperse them, that they shall not remaine in any certaine place.

x They are so impodent in receiuing bribes, that they will command men to bring them vnto them.

y To carie them suddenly away.

CHAP. V.

1 Against the Priests and rulers of Israel. 13 The helpe of man is in vaine.

OYe Priests, heare this, and hearken yee, O house of Israel, and giue yee eare, O house of the King: for iudgement is toward you, because yee haue bene a [a] snare on Mizpah, and a net spread vpon Tabor.

2 Yet they were profound, to decline to [b] slaughter, though I haue bene a [c] rebuker of them all.

3 I know [d] Ephraim, and Israel is not hid from me: for now, O Ephraim, thou art become an harlot, and Israel is defiled.

4 They will not giue their mindes to turne vnto their God: for the spirit of fornication is in the midst of them, and they haue not knowen the Lord.

5 And the [e] pride of Israel doeth testifie to his face: therefore shall Israel & Ephraim fall in their iniquitie: Iudah also shall fall with them.

6 They shall goe with their sheepe, and with their bullockes to seeke the Lord: but they shall not finde him: for hee hath withdrawen himselfe from them.

7 They haue transgressed against the Lord: for they haue begotten [f] strange children: nowe shall a moneth deuoure them with their portions.

8 Blow yee the trumpet in Gibeah, and the shawme in Ramah: crie out at Beth-auen, after thee, O [h] Beniamin.

9 Ephraim shall be desolate in the day of rebuke: among the tribes of Israel haue I caused to know [i] the truth.

10 The princes of Iudah were like them that [k] remoue the bound: therefore will I powre out my wrath vpon them like water.

11 Ephraim is oppressed, and broken in a The Priests and Princes catched the poore people in their snares, as the fowlers did the birds, in these two high mountaines.

b Notwithstanding they seemed to be giuen altogether to holinesse, and to sacrifices, which here he calleth slaughter in contempt.

c Though I had admonished them continually by my Prophets.

d They boasted themselues not one ly to be Israelites, but also Ephraimites, because their king Ieroboam came of that tribe.

e Meaning their contemning of all admonitions.

f That is, their children are degenerate, so that there is no hope in them.

g Their destruction is not farre off.

h That is, all Israel comprehended vnder this part, signifying that the Lords plagues should pursue them from place to place, till they were destroyed.

i By the successe they shall know that I haue surely determined this.

k They haue turned vpside downe all politicall order, and all maner of religion.

iudgement, because he willingly walked after the [i] commandement.

12 Therfore will I be vnto Ephraim as a moth, and to the house of Iudah as a rottennesse.

13 When Ephraim saw his sicknesse, and Iudah his wound, then went Ephraim vnto [m] Ashur, and sent vnto king [n] Iareb: yet could he not heale you, nor cure you of your wound.

14 For I will bee vnto Ephraim as a lyon, and as a lyons whelpe to the house of Iudah: I, euen I will spoyle, and goe away: I will take away, and none shall rescue it.

15 I will goe, and returne to my place, till they acknowlsdge their fault, and seeke me: in their affliction they will seeke me diligently.

i To wit, after king Ieroboams commandement, and did not rather follow God.

m In stead of seeking for remedy at Gods hand.

n Who was king of the Assyrians.

CHAP. VI.

1 Affliction causeth a man to turne to God. 9 The wickednesse of the Priests.

COme, and let vs [a] returne to the Lord: for hee hath spoiled, and hee will heale vs: he hath wounded vs, and he will binde vs vp.

2 After two dayes will [b] hee reuiue vs, and in the third day he will raise vs vp, and we shall liue in his sight.

3 Then shall wee haue knowledge, and indeuour our selues to know the Lord: his going forth is prepared as the morning, and he shall come vnto vs as the raine, and as the latter raine vnto the earth.

4 O Ephraim, what shall I doe vnto thee? O Iudah, how shall I entreate thee? for [c] your goodnesse is as a morning cloude, and as the morning dewe it goeth away.

5 Therefore haue I [d] cut downe by the Prophets: I haue slaine them by the words of my mouth, and [e] thy iudgements were as the light that goeth forth.

6 For I desired [f] mercie, and not sacrifice, and the knowledge of God more then burnt offerings.

7 But they like [g] men haue transgressed the couenant: there haue they trespassed against me.

8 [g] Gilead is a citie of them that worke iniquitie, and is polluted with blood.

9 And as theeues wait for a man, so the company of Priestes murder in the way by consent: for they worke mischiefe.

10 I haue seene villanie in the house of Israel: there is the whoredome of Ephraim: Israel is defiled.

11 Yea, Iudah hath set a [i] plant for thee, whiles I would returne the captiuitie of my people.

a He sheweth the people how they ought to turne to the Lord that he might call backe his plagues.

b Though hee correct vs from time to time, yet his helpe wil not be farre off, if we returne to him.

c You seeme to haue a certaine holinesse, and repentance, but it is vpon the sudden, and as a morning cloud.

d I haue still laboured by my Prophets, and as it were framed you to bring you to amendment: but all was in vaine: for my word was not meete to feede thē, but a sword to slay them.

e My doctrine which I taught thee, was most euident.

f Hee sheweth to what scope his doctrine tended, that they should ioyne the obedience of God, and the loue of their neighbour with outward sacrifice.

g That is, like light and weake persons.

h Which was the place where the Priests dwelt, & which should haue bene best instructed in my word.

i That is, doth imitate thine idolatrie, and hath taken graffes of thy trees.

CHAP. VII.

1 Of the vices and wantonnesse of the people. 2 Of their punishment.

WHen I would haue healed Israel, then the iniquitie of Ephraim was discouered, and the wickednesse of Samaria: for they haue dealt falsely: and the [a] theefe commeth in, and the robber spoyleth without.

2 And they consider not in their hearts, that I remember all their wickednesse: now their owne inuentions haue beset them about: they are in my sight.

3 They make the [b] king glad with their wickednesse, and the princes with their lies.

4 They are all aduulterers, and as a [c] ouen heated by the baker, which ceaseth from raising vp, & from kneading the dough vntill it be leauened.

5 This is the [d] day of our king: the princes haue made him sicke with flagons of wine: he stretched out his hand to scorners.

6 For they haue made ready their heart like an ouen whiles they lie in wait: their baker sleepeth all the night: in the morning it burneth as a flame of fire.

7 They are all hote as an ouen, and haue [e] deuoured their Iudges: all their kings are fallen: there is none among them that calleth vnto me.

8 Ephraim hath [f] mixt himselfe among the people. Ephraim is as a cake on the hearth not turned.

9 Strangers haue deuoured his strength, and he knoweth it not: yea, [g] gray haires are here and there vpon him, yet hee knoweth not.

10 And the pride of Israel testifieth to his face, and they doe not returne to the Lord their God, nor seeke him for all this.

11 Ephraim also is like a doue deceiued, without [h] heart: they call to Egypt: they go to Ashur.

12 But when they shall goe, I will spread my net vpon them, and draw them downe as the foules of the heauen: I will chastise them as their [i] congregation hath heard.

13 Woe vnto them: for they haue fled away from me: destruction shalbe vnto them, because they haue transgressed against me: though I haue [k] redeemed them, yet they haue spoken lies against me.

14 And they haue not cryed vnto me with their hearts, [l] when they howled vpon their beds: [m] they assemble themselues for corne and wine, and they rebell against me.

15 Though I haue bound, and strengthened their arme, yet doe they imagine mischiefe against me.

16 They returne, but not to the most high: they are like a deceitfull bowe: their princes shall fall by the sword, for the rage [n] of their tongues: this shall be their derision in the land of Egypt.

a Meaning, that there was not one kinde of vice among them, but that they were subiect to al wickednesse, both secret and open.

b They esteeme their wicked king Ieroboam aboue God, and seeke but how to flatter and please him.

c He compareth the rage of the people to a burning ouen which the baker heateth still til his dough be leauened and raised.

d They vsed all ryot and excesse in their feasts and solēnities, whereby their king was ouercome with surfet, and brought into diseases, and delighted in flatteries.

e By their occasion God hath deprived them of all good rulers.

f That is, he counterfeiteth the religion of ye Gentiles, yet is but as a cake baked on the one side, and raw on the other: that is, neither through hot nor through colde, but partly a Iew, and partly a Gentile.

g Which are a token of his manifold afflictions.

h That is, without all iudgemēt, as they that cannot tell whether it is better to cleaue only to God, or to seeke the helpe of man.

i According to my curses made to the whole congregation of Israel.

k That is, diuers times redeemed them, and deliuered them from death.

l When they were in affliction, and cried out for paine, they sought not vnto me for helpe.

m They only seeke their owne commodity and wealth, and passe not for me their God.

n Because they boast of their own strength, and passe not what they speake against me and my seruants, Psal. 73. 9.

CHAP. VIII.

1 The destruction of Iudah and Israel, because of their idolatrie.

Set

a God encourageth the Prophet to signifie the speedy comming of the enemie against Israel, which was once the people of God.

b They shall crie like hypocrites, but not from the heart, as their deedes declare.

c That is, Ieroboam by whom they sought their own libertie, and not to obey my will.

d That is, vpright iudgement and godly life.

e Meaning, the calfe was inuented by themselues, and of their fathers in the wildernesse.

f Shewing that their religion hath but a shew, and in it selfe is but vanitie.

g They neuer cease, but run to and fro to seeke helpe.

h That is, for the tribute which the king and the princes shall lay vpon them: which meanes the Lord vseth to bring them to repentance.

i Thus the idolaters count the word of God as strange in respect of their own inuentions.

SEt the trumpet to thy mouth: he shal come as an Egle against the house of the Lord, because they haue transgressed my couenant, and trespassed against my Law.

2 Israel shall b cry vnto me, My God, we know thee.

3 Israel hath cast off the thing that is good: the enemie shall pursue him.

4 They haue set vp a c king, but not by me: they haue made princes, and I knew it not: of their siluer and their golde haue they made them idoles: therefore shall they be destroyed.

5 Thy calfe, O Samaria, hath cast thee off: mine anger is kindled against them: how long will they be without d innocencie?

6 e For it came euen from Israel: the workeman made it, therefore it is not God: but the calfe of Samaria shall bee broken in pieces.

7 For they haue f sowen the wind, & they shal reape the whirlewind: it hath no stalke: the bud shall bring foorth no meale: if so bee it bring forth, the strangers shal deuoure it.

8 Israel is deuoured, now shal they be among the Gentiles as a vessell wherein is no pleasure.

9 For they are gone vp to Asshur: they are as a a wild asse alone by himselfe: Ephraim hath hired louers.

10 Yet though they haue hired among the nations, now will I gather them, and they shall sorow a litle, for the h burthen of the king, and the princes.

11 Because Ephraim hath made many altars to sinne, his altars shall be to sinne.

12 I haue written to them the great things of my Law: but they were counted as a i strange thing.

13 They sacrifice flesh for the sacrifices of mine offrings, and eate it: but k the Lord accepteth them not: now will he remember their iniquity, and visite their sinnes: they shall returne to Egypt.

14 For Israel hath forgotten his maker, and buildeth temples, and Iudah hath increased strong cities: but I will sende a fire vpon his cities, and it shall deuoure the palaces thereof.

k Saying that they offer it to the Lord, but he accepteth no seruice, which he himselfe hath not appointed.

CHAP. IX.

Of the hunger and captiuitie of Israel.

REioyce not, O Israel, for ioy, a as other people: for thou hast gone a whoring from thy God: thou hast loued b a reward vpon euery corne floore.

2 c The floore, & the winepresse shall not feed them, & the new wine shall faile in her.

3 They will not dwell in the Lords land, but Ephraim will returne to Egypt, and they will eate vncleane things in Asshur.

4 They shal not offer d wine to the Lord, neither shall their sacrifices bee pleasant vnto him: but they shall bee vnto them as the bread of mourners: all that eate thereof, shall bee polluted: for their bread e for their soules shall not come into the house of the Lord.

5 f What will ye doe then in the solemne day, and in the day of the feast of the Lord?

6 For loe, they are gone from g destruction: but Egypt shal gather them vp, & Memphis shall burie them: the nettle shal possesse the pleasant places of their siluer, and the thorne shall bee in their tabernacles.

7 The dayes of visitation are come: the dayes of recompence are come: Israel shall know it: h the prophet is a foole: the spirituall man is mad, for the multitude of thine iniquity: therefore the hatred is great.

8 The watchman of Ephraim i should be with my God: but the prophet is the snare of a fouler in all his wayes, and hatred in the house of his God.

9 They k are deepely set: they are corrupt as in the dayes of Gibeah: therefore hee will remember their iniquity, he will visite their sinnes.

10 I found Israel like l grapes in the wildernes: I sawe your fathers as the first ripe in the figtree at her first time: but they went to Baal-peor, and separated themselues vnto that shame, and their abominations were according to m their louers.

11 Ephraim their glory shall flee away like a bird: from the birth n and from the wombe, and from the conception.

12 Though they bring vp their children, yet will I depriue them from being men: yea, woe to them, when I depart from them.

13 Ephraim, as I sawe, is as a tree o in Tyrus planted in a cottage: but Ephraim shall bring foorth his children to the murtherer.

14 O Lord, giue them: what wilt thou giue them? giue them a p barren wombe and drie breasts.

15 All their wickednesse is in q Gilgal: for there doe I hate them: for the wickednes of their inuentions, I will cast them out of mine house: I will loue them no more: all their princes are rebels.

16 Ephraim is smitten, their roote is dried vp: they can bring no fruite: yea, though they bring foorth, yet will I slay euen the dearest of their body.

17 My God will cast them away, because they did not obey him: and they shall wander among the nations.

a For although all other people should escape, yet thou shalt be punished.

b Thou hast committed idolatry in hope of reward, and to haue thy barnes filled, Ier. 44. 17. as an harlot that had rather liue by playing the whore, then to bee entertained of her owne husband. c These outward things that thou seekest, shall bee taken from thee. d All their doings both touching policie and religion, shall be reiected as things polluted.

e The meate offering which they offered for themselues.

f When the Lord shall take away all the occasions of seruing him, which shall be the most grieuous poynt of your captiuitie, when you shall see your selues cut off from God.

g Though they thinke to escape by fleeing the destruction that is at hand, yet shall they be destroyed in the place whither they flee for succour.

h Then they shall know that they were deluded by them who chalenged to themselues to be their Prophets & spirituall men.

i The Prophets duetie is to bring men to God, and not to be a snare to pull them from God.

k This people is so rooted in their wickednes, that Gibeah which was like to Sodome, was neuer more corrupt, Iudg. 19. 22.

l Meaning, that he so esteemed them and delited in them.

m They were as abominable vnto me, as their louers the idols.

n Signifying, that God would destroy their children by these sundry meanes, and so consume them by little & little.

o As they kept tender plants in their houses in Tyrus, to preserue them from the cold aire of the sea, so was Ephraim at the first vnto me, but now will I giue them to the slaughter.

p The Prophet seeing the great plagues of God toward Ephraim, prayeth to God to make them barren, rather then this great slaughter should come vpon their children.

q The chiefe cause of their destruction is, that they commit idolatrie, and corrupt my religion in Gilgal.

CHAP. X.

1 Against Israel and his idoles. 14 His destruction for the same.

a Whereof though the grapes were gathered, yet euer as it gathered newe strength, it encreased new wickednesse, so that the correction which should haue brought them to obedience, did but vtter their stubbornnes.

b As they were rich and had abundance.

c To wit, from God.

d The day shall come that God shall take away their king, and then they shall feele the fruit of their sinnes and how they trusted in him in vaine, 2. King. 17 6, 7.

e In promising to be faithful toward God.

f Thus their integrity and fidelity which they pretended, was nothing but bitternesse and griefe.

g When the calfe shall be caried away.

h Chemarims were certaine idolatrous priests which did weare blacke apparel in their sacrifices and cryed with a loude voyce: which superstition Eliiah derided, 1. King. 18. 27. reade. 2. Kin. 23. 5.

i This he speaketh in contempt of Beth-el, reade Chap. 4. 15. Isa 2. 19. luk. 23. 30. reuel. 6. 16. and 9. 6.

k In those dayes wast thou as wicked as the Gibeonites, as God there partly declared: for thy zeale could not be good in executing Gods iudgements, seeing thine own deeds were as wicked as theirs.

l To wit, to fight, or the Israelites remained in their stubbornnesse from that time.

m The Israelites were not mooued by their example to cease from their sinnes.

n Because they are so desperate, I will delite to destroy them.

o That is, when they haue gathered all their strength together.

p Wherein is pleasure, as in plowing is labour and paine.

q I will lay my yoke vpon her fat necke.

r Read Ierem 4. 4.

s That is, Shalmanazzar in the destruction of that city spared neither kind nor age,

ISrael is an a emptie vine, yet hath it brought forth fruit vnto it selfe, and according to the multitude of the fruit thereof hee hath increased the altars: according to the b goodnesse of their lande they haue made faire images.

2 Their heart is c diuided: now shall they be found faulty: he shall breake downe their altars: he shall destroy their images.

3 For now they shall say, Wee haue no d king because wee feared not the Lord: and what should a king do to vs?

4 They haue spoken wordes, swearing falsly in making a e couenant: thus f iudgment groweth as wormewood in the furrowes of the field.

5 The inhabitants of Samaria shall g feare because of the calfe of Beth-auen: for the people thereof shall mourne ouer it, and the h Chemarims thereof, that reioyced on it for the glory thereof, because it is departed from it.

6 It shall bee also brought to Ashur, for a present vnto king Iareb: Ephraim shal receiue shame, and Israel shalbe ashamed of his owne counsell.

7 Of Samaria, the king thereof is destroyed as the some vpon the water.

8 The hie places also of Auen shal be destroyed, euen the sinne of Israel: the thorne and the thistle shall grow vpon their altars, and they shall say to the mountaines, Couer vs, and to the hils, Fall vpon vs.

9 O Israel, thou hast i sinned from the dayes of Gibeah: there they k stood: the battell in Gibeah against the children of iniquitie did not l touch them.

10 It is my desire m that I should chastise them, and the people shall bee gathered against them, when they shall gather themselues in their two o furrowes.

11 And Ephraim is as an heifer vsed to beleight p in threshing: but I will passe by her q faire necke: I will make Ephraim to ride: Iudah shall plowe, and Iaakob shall breake his clods.

12 Sowe to your selues in righteousnesse, reape after the measure of mercy: r breake vp your fallow ground: for it is time to seeke the Lord, till hee come and raine righteousnesse vpon you.

13 But you haue plowed wickednesse: yee haue reaped iniquity: you haue eaten s fruit of lies: because thou didst trust in thine owne wayes, & in the multitude of thy strong men,

14 Therefore shall a tumult arise among thy people, and all thy munitions shall bee destroyed, as s Shalman destroyed Beth-arbel in the day of battell: the mother with the children was dashed in pieces.

15 So shall Beth-el do vnto you, because of your malicious wickednes: in a morning shall the king of Israel be destroyed.

CHAP. XI.

1 The benefits of the Lord toward Israel. 5 Their ingratitude against him.

WHen Israel a was a childe, then I loued him, and called my sonne out of Egypt.

2 They called them, but b they went thus from them: they sacrificed vnto Baalim, and burnt incense to images.

3 I led Ephraim also, as one should beare them in his armes: but they knew not that I healed them.

4 I led them with cords c of a man, euen with bands of loue, and I was to them, as he that taketh off the yoke from their iawes, and I layd the meat vnto them.

5 He shall no more returne into the land of Egypt: but Ashur shall be his d king, because they refused to conuert.

6 And the sword shall fall on his cities, and shall consume his barres, and deuoure them because of their owne counsels.

7 And my people are bent to rebellion against me: though e they called them to the most High, yet none at all would exalt him.

8 How shall I giue thee vp, Ephraim? how shall I deliuer thee, Israel? how shall I make thee, as f Admah? how shall I set thee as Zeboim? mine heart is turned within me: g my repentings are rolled together.

9 I will not execute the fiercenesse of my wrath: I will not returne to destroy Ephraim, for I am God, and not man, the Holie one in the mids of thee, and I wil not h enter into the city.

10 They shall walke after the Lord: hee shall roare like a lyon: when hee shall roare, then the children of the West shall feare.

11 i They shall feare as a sparrow out of Egypt, and as a doue out of the land of Ashur, and I will place them in their houses, saith the Lord.

12 Ephraim compasseth mee about with lies, and the house of Israel with deceit: but Iudah yet ruleth k with God, and is faithfull with the Saints.

a Whiles the Israelites were in Egypt and did not prouoke my wrath by their malice and ingratitude.

b They rebelled and went a contrary way when the Prophets called them to repentance.

c That is, friendly and not as beasts or slaues.

d Seeing they contemne al this kindnesse, they shall be led captiue into Assyria.

e To wit, the Prophets.

f God considereth with himselfe, and that with a certaine griefe, how to punish them.

g Which were two of the cities that were destroyed with Sodom, Deut. 29. 23.

h Meaning that his loue wherewith he first loued them, made him betweene doubt and assurance what to do: and herein appeareth his fatherly affection, that his mercy toward his iudgements, as he declareth in the next verse.

i To consume thee, but wil cause thee to yeeld and so receiue thee to mercy: and this is meant of the small number who shall walke after the Egyptians and Assyrians shal be afraid when the Lord maintaineth his people.

l Gouerneth their estate according to Gods word, and doth not degenerate.

CHAP XII.

He admonisheth by Iaakobs example to trust in God and not in men.

EPhraim is fedde a with the winde, and followeth after the East winde: hee increaseth daily lies and destruction, and they do make a couenant with Ashur, and b oyle is caried into Egypt.

2 The Lorde hath also a controuersie with c Iudah, and will visit Iaakob, according to his wayes: according to his workes will he recompense him.

a That is, flattereth himself with vain confidence.

b Meaning, presents to get friendship.

c Which in these points was like to Ephraim, but not in idolatries.

3 He

3 Yet tooke he his brother by the heele in the wombe, and by his strength he had power with God,

4 And had power ouer the Angel, and preuailed: hee wept and prayed vnto him: he found him in Beth-el, and there he spake with vs.

5 Yea, the Lord God of hostes, the Lord is himselfe his memoriall.

6 Therefore turne thou to thy God: keepe mercie and iudgement, and hope still in thy God.

7 He is Canaan: the balances of deceit are in his hand: he loueth to oppresse.

8 And Ephraim said, Notwithstanding, I am rich, I haue found me out riches in all my labours: they shall finde none iniquitie in me, that were wickednesse.

9 Though I am the Lord thy God from the land of Egypt, yet will I make thee to dwell in the tabernacles, as in the dayes of the solemne feast.

10 I haue also spoken by the Prophets, and I haue multiplied visions, & vsed similitudes by the ministerie of the Prophets.

11 Is there iniquitie in Gilead? surely they are banitie: they sacrifice bullockes in Gilgal, and their altars are as heapes in the furrowes of the field.

12 And Iaakob fled into the countrey of Aram, and Israel serued for a wife, and for a wife he kept sheepe.

13 And by a Prophet the Lord brought Israel out of Egypt, and by a Prophet was he preserued.

14 But Ephraim prouoked him with bitter places: therefore shall his blood bee powred vpon him, and his reproch shall his Lord reward him.

d Seeing that God did thus preferre Iaakob their father, Iudahs ingratitude was the more to be abhorred.

e Reade Gen. 32.31.

f God found Iaakob as he lay sleeping in Bethel, Gen. 28.12. and so spake with him there, that the fruit of that speech appertained to the whole body of the people, whereof we are.

g As for Ephraim, he is more like the wicked Canaanites, then godly Abraham or Iaakob.

h This the wicked measure Gods saiour by outward prosperitie, and like hypocrites cannot abide that any should reproue their doings.

i Seeing thou wilt not acknowledge my benefits, I will bring thee againe to dwel in tents as in the feast of the Tabernacles, which thou doest now contemne.

k The people thought that no man durst haue spoken against Gilead that holy place, and yet the Prophet saith, that all their religion was but vanitie.

l If you boast of your riches and nobilitie, ye seeme to reproch your father who was a poore fugitiue and seruant.

m Meaning, Moses, whereby appeareth, that whatsoeuer they haue, it commeth of Gods free goodnesse.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The abomination of Israel, 9 And cause of their destruction.

WHen Ephraim spake, there was trembling: he exalted himselfe in Israel, but he hath sinned in Baal, and is dead.

2 And now they sinne more and more, and haue made them molten images of their siluer, and idoles according to their owne vnderstanding: they were all the worke of the craftesmen: they say one to another whiles they sacrifice a man, Let them kisse the calues.

3 Therefore they shal be as the morning cloude, and as the morning dewe that passeth away, as the chaffe that is driuen with a whirlewinde out of the floore, and as the smoke that goeth out of the chimney.

4 Yet I am the Loode thy God from the land of Egypt, and thou shalt know no God but me: for there is no Sauiour beside mee.

5 I did know thee in the wildernesse, in the land of drought.

6 As in their pastures, so were they filled: they were filled, and their heart was exalted: therefore haue they forgotten me.

7 And I will be vnto them as a very lyon, and as a leopard in the way of Assur.

8 I will meete them as a Beare that is robbed of her whelps, and I will breake the kall of their heart, and there will I deuoure them like a lyon: the wilde beast shall teare them.

9 O Israel, one hath destroyed thee, but in me is thy helpe.

10 I am: where is thy king, that should helpe thee in all thy cities? and thy Iudges, of whom thou saydest, Giue me a king and princes?

11 I gaue thee a king in mine anger, and I tooke him away in my wrath.

12 The iniquitie of Ephraim is bound vp: his sinne is hid.

13 The sorowes of a trauailing woman shall come vpon him: hee is an vnwise sonne, else would he not stand still at the time, euen at the breaking forth of the children.

14 I will redeeme them from the power of the graue: I will deliuer them from death. O death, I will be thy death: O graue, I will be thy destruction: repentance is hid from mine eyes.

15 Though hee grew vp among his brethren, an East winde shall come, euen the winde of the Lord shall come vp from the wildernesse, and dry vp his veine, and his fountaine shall be dryed vp: he shall spoile the treasure of all pleasant vessels.

g I am all one, Iames 1.17.

h It is surely laid vp to be punished, as Iere. 17.1.

i But would come out of the wombe, that is, out of this danger, wherein he is, and not tarie to be stifled.

k Meaning, that no power shall resist God when he will deliuer his, but euen in death will he giue them life.

l Because they will not turne to me, I will not change my purpose.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 The destruction of Samaria. 2 He exhorteth Israel to turne to God, who requireth praise and thankes.

SAmaria shall be desolate: for she hath rebelled against her God: they shall fall by the sword: their infants shall bee dashed in pieces, and their women with childe shall be ripd.

2 O Israel, returne vnto the Lord thy God: for thou hast fallen by thine iniquitie.

3 Take vnto you wordes, and turne to the Lord, and say vnto him, Take away all iniquitie, and receiue vs graciously: so will we render the calues of our lips.

4 Assur shall not saue vs, neither will wee ride vpon horses, neither will wee say any more to the worke of our hands, Yee are our Gods: for in thee the fatherlesse findeth mercie.

5 I will heale their rebellion: I will loue them freely: for mine anger is turned away from him.

6 I will bee as the dewe vnto Israel: hee shall growe as the lillie, and fasten his m He calleth them to repentance, and reproueth their ingratitude.

n Thy destruction is certaine, & my benefits toward thee declare that it commeth not of me: therefore thine owne malice, idolatrie and vaine confidence in men must needes be the cause thereof.

roots as the trees of Lebanon.

7 Hys branches shall spread, and his beautie shal be as the olive tree, and his smel as Lebanon.

8 They that dwell vnder his [f] shadowe shall returne: they shall reuiue as the corne, and flourish as the vine: the sent thereof shall be as the wine of Lebanon.

9 Ephraim shall say, What haue I to doe any more with idoles? I haue heard him, and looked vpon him: I am like a greene fyrre tree: vpon mee is thy fruite found.

10 Who is [h] wise, & he shall vnderstand these things? and prudent, and hee shall knowe them? for the wayes of the Lord are righteous, and the iust shall walke in them: but the wicked shall fall therein.

f Whosoeuer ioyne themselues to this people, shall be blessed.

g God sheweth how prompt he is to heare his, whē they repent, and to offer himself as a protection and safegard vnto them, as a most sufficient fruit and profit.

h Signifying, that the true wisdom and knowledge consisteth in this, euen to rest vpon God.

Ioel.

THE ARGVMENT.

THe Prophet Ioel first rebuketh them of Iudah, that being now punished with a great plague of famin remaine stil obstinate. Secondly, he threatneth greater plagues, because they grew dayly to a more hardnes of heart, and rebellion against God, notwithstanding his punishments. Thirdly he exhorteth them to repentance, shewing that it must be earnest, & proceed from the heart, because they had grieuously offended God. And so doing, he promiseth that God will be mercifull, and not forget his couenant that he made with their fathers: but will send his Christ, who shall gather the scattered sheepe, and restore them to life and liberty, though they seemed to be dead.

CHAP. I.

1 A prophesie against the Iewes. 2 He exhorteth the people to prayer and fasting, for the miserie that was at hand.

THe worde of the Lorde that came to Ioel the sonne of Pethuel.

2 Heare yee this, O [a] Elders, and hearken all yee inhabitants of the land, whether [b] such a thing hath beene in your dayes, or yet in the dayes of your fathers.

3 Tell you your children of it, and let your children shewe to their children, and their children to another generation.

4 That which is left of the palmer worme, hath the grashopper eaten, and the residue of the grashopper hath the canker worme eaten, and the residue of the canker worme hath the caterpillar eaten.

5 Awake yee [c] drunkardes, and weepe, and howle all yee drinkers of wine, because of the new wine: for it shall bee pulled from your mouth.

6 For, [d] a nation commeth vpon my land, mightie, and without number, whose teeth are like the teeth of a lyon, and her hath the iawes of a great lyon.

7 He maketh my vine waste, and pilleth off the barke of my figge tree: hee maketh it bare, and casteth it downe: the branches thereof are made white.

8 Mourne like a virgine girded with sackcloth for the [e] husband of her youth.

9 The meate offering, and the drinke offering is [f] cut off from the house of the Lord: the Priestes the Lords ministers mourne.

10 The field is wasted: the land mourneth: for the corne is destroyed, & the newe wine is dried vp, and the oyle is decayed.

11 Bee yee ashamed, O husbandmen: howle, O ye vine dressers for the wheat, and for the barley, because the haruest of the field is perished.

12 The vine is dried vp, and the fig tree is decayed: the pomegranate tree, and the palme tree, and the apple tree, euen all the trees of the field are withered: surely the ioy is withered away from the sonnes of men.

13 [h] Gird your selues and lament, yee Priestes, howle yee ministers of the altar: come, and lie all night in sackcloth, yee ministers of my God: for the meate offering, and the drinke offering is taken away from the house of your God.

14 Sanctifie you a fast: call a solemne assembly: gather the Elders, and all the inhabitants of the land into the house of the Lord your God, and crie vnto the Lord, 15 Alas: for the day, for the [i] day of the Lord is at hand, & it commeth as a destruction from the Almightie.

16 Is not the meate cut off before our eyes? and ioy, and gladnesse from the house of our God?

17 The seede is rotten vnder their clods: the garners are destroyed: the barnes are broken downe, for the corne is withered.

18 Howe did the beastes mourne? the heards of cattell pine away, because they haue no pasture, and the flocks of sheepe are destroyed.

19 O Lord, to thee will I crie: for the fire hath deuoured the pastures of the wildernesse, and the flame hath burnt vp all the trees of the field.

20 The beastes of the field crie also vnto thee: for the riuers of waters are dried vp, and the [k] fire hath deuoured the pastures of the wildernesse.

a Signifying, the Princes, the Priests, and the gouernours.

b He calleth the Iewes to the consideration of Gods iudgments, who had now plagued the fruits of the ground for the space of foure yeere, which was for their sinnes, and to call them to repentance.

c Meaning, that the occasion of their excesse and drunkennesse, was taken away.

d This was an other plague wherewith God had punished them, when he stirred vp the Assyrians against them.

e Mourne grieuously as a woman which hath lost her husband, to whom she hath bene married in her youth.

f The tokens of Gods wrath did appeare in his Temple, in so much as Gods seruice was lest off.

g All comfort and substance for nourishment is taken away.

h He sheweth that the onely meanes to auoid Gods wrath, and to haue al things restored, is vnfained repentance.

i We see by these great plagues what vtter destruction is at hand.

k That is, drought.

CHAP. II.

Hee prophesieth of the comming and cruelnie of their enemies. 13 An exhortation to moue them to conuert. 18 The loue of God toward his people.

BLowe [a] the trumpet in Zion, and shoute in mine holy mountaine: let all the inhabitants of the land tremble: for the day of the Lord is come: for it is at hand.

2 A [b] day of darknesse, and of blacknesse, a day of cloudes, and obscuritie, as the morning spread vpon the mountaines, so is there a [c] great people, and a mightie: there was none like it from the beginning, neither shall be any more after it, vnto the yeres of many generations.

a He sheweth the great iudgements of God which are at hand, except they repent.

b Of affliction and trouble.

c Meaning, the Assyrians.

3 A fire deuoureth before him, and behinde him a flame burneth vp: the lande is as the garden of [c] Eden before him, and behinde him a desolate wildernesse, so that nothing shall escape him.

4 The beholding of him is like the sight of horses, & like the horsmen, so shal they run.

5 Like the noise of charets in the toppes of the mountaines shall they leape, like the noyse of a flame of fire that deuoureth the stubble, and as a mighty people prepared to the battell.

6 Before his face shall the people tremble: all faces [e] shall gather blacknesse.

7 They shal runne like strong men, and goe vp to the wall like men of warre, and euery man shall goe forward in his wayes, and they shall not stay in their paths.

8 Neither shall one [f] thrust another, but euery one shal walke in his path: and when they fall vpon the sworde, they shall not bee wounded.

9 They shal runne to and fro in the city: they shall runne vpon the wall: they shall clime vp vpon the houses, and enter in at the windowes like the theefe.

10 The earth shall tremble before him, the heauens shall shake, the [g] sunne and the moone shall be darke, and the starres shall withdraw their shining.

11 And the Lorde shall [h] vtter his voyce before his hoste: for his hoste is very great: for he is strong that doeth his word: [i] for the day of the Lorde is great and very terrible, and who can abide it?

12 Therefore also now the Lorde saieth, Turne you vnto me with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning.

13 And [k] rent your heart, and not your clothes: and turne vnto the Lord your God, for he is gracious and mercifull, slow to anger, and of great kindnesse, and repenteth him of the euill.

14 Who knoweth, if he will [l] returne and repent and leaue a blessing behind him, euen a meate offering, and a drinke offering vnto the Lord your God?

15 Blow the trumpet in Zion, sanctifie a fast, call a solemne assembly.

16 Gather the people: sanctifie the Congregation, gather the Elders: assemble the [m] children, and those that sucke the breasts: let the bridegroome goe forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her bride chamber.

17 Let the Priests, the ministers of the Lord weepe betweene the porch and the altar, and let them say, Spare thy people, O Lorde, and giue not thine heritage into reproch that the heathe should rule ouer them. [n] Wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God?

18 Then will the Lord be [o] ielous ouer his land, and spare his people.

19 Yea, the Lord will answere, and say vnto his people, Behold, I will send you corne and wine, and oyle, and you shall bee satisfied therewith: and I will no more make you a reproch among the heathen.

20 But I will remoue farre off from you the [p] Northren armie, and I will drive him into a lande, barren and desolate, with his face toward the [q] East sea, and his ende to the vtmost sea, and his stinke shall come vp, and his corruption shall ascend, because he hath exalted himselfe to doe this.

21 Feare not, O land, but be glad and reioyce: for the Lord will doe great things.

22 Bee not afraid, yee beasts of the field: for the pastures of the wildernes are greene: for the tree beareth her fruit: the figge tree and the vine doe giue their force.

23 Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and reioyce in the Lord your God: for hee hath giuen you the raine of [r] righteousnesse, [s] and he will cause to come down for you the raine, euen the first raine, and the latter raine in the first moneth.

24 And the barnes shal be full of wheate, and the presses shal abound with wine & oile.

25 And I will render you the yeeres that the grashopper hath eaten, the canker worme and the caterpiller, and the palmer worme, my great hoste which I sent among you.

26 So you shal eate and be satisfied, and praise the Name of the Lord your God, that hath dealt marueilously with you: and my people shall neuer be ashamed.

27 Yee shall also knowe that I am in the midst of Israel, and that I am the Lord your God, and none other, and my people shall neuer be ashamed.

28 And afterward wil I powre [t] out my Spirit vpon all flesh: and your sonnes and your daughters shal prophesie: your old men shall dreame dreames, and your young men shall see visions.

29 And also vpon the seruants, and vpon the maydes in those dayes will I powre my Spirit.

30 And I will shew [u] wonders in the heauens and in the earth: blood and fire, and pillars of smoke.

31 The sunne shalbe turned into darkenesse, and the moone into blood, before the great and terrible day of the Lord come.

32 But whosoeuer shal call [x] on the Name of the Lord, shalbe saued: for in mount Zion, and in Ierusalem, shalbe deliuerance, as the Lord hath said, and in the [y] remnant, whom the Lord shall call.

Iehoshaphat, c That which the enemie gate for the ſale of my people, he beſtowed vpō harlots and drinke.

d He taketh the cauſe of his Church in hand againſt the enemie, as though the iniurie were done to himſelfe.
e Haue I done you wrong, that yee will render me the like?

g When I ſhall execute my iudgments againſt mine enemies, I will cauſe euery one to be ready, and to prepare their weapons to deſtroy one another for my Church ſake.

Iehoſhaphat, and will pleade with them there for my people, and for mine heritage Iſrael, whom they haue ſcattered among the nations, and parted my land.
3 And they haue caſt lots for my people, & haue giuen the childe c for the harlot, & ſold the girle for wine, that they might drinke.
4 Yea, and d what haue you to doe with me, O Tyrus and Sidon, and all the coaſtes of Paleſtina? will ye render me e a recompenſe? and if ye recompenſe me, ſwiftly and ſpeedily will I render your recompenſe vpon your head:
5 For yee haue taken my ſiluer and my golde, and haue caried into your temples my goodly and pleaſant things.
6 The children alſo of Iudah and the children of Ieruſalem haue you ſolde vnto the Grecians, that ye might ſend them farre from their border.
7 Beholde, I will raiſe them out of the place where yee haue ſolde them, and will render your reward vpon your owne head,
8 And I will ſell your ſonnes and your daughters into the hand of the children of Iudah, and they f ſhall ſel them to the Sabeans, to a people farre off: for the Lord hath ſpoken it.

12 Let the heathen bee wakened, and come vp to the valley of Iehoſhaphat: for there will I ſit to iudge all the heathen round about.

19 m Egypt ſhall bee waſte, and Edom ſhalbe a deſolate wildernes, for the iniuries of the children of Iudah, becauſe they haue ſhed innocent blood in their land.
20 But Iudah ſhall dwell for euer, and Ieruſalem from generation to generation.
21 For I will n cleanſe their blood, that I haue not cleanſed, and the Lord will dwell in Zion.

h Thus he ſhall encourage the enemies, when their wickednes is full ripe, to deſtroy one another, which he calleth the valley of Gods iudgement.
i God aſſureth his againſt all troubles, that when hee deſtroyeth his enemies, his children ſhall be deliuered.
k The ſtrangers ſhal no more deſtroy his Church: which if they do, it is the people which by their ſinnes make the breach for the enemie.
l He promiſeth to his Church abundance of graces, read Ezekiel 47.1. which ſhould water and comfort the moſt barren places, Amos 9.13.
m The malicious enemies ſhall haue no part of this grace. n He had ſuffered his Church hitherto to lie in their filthineſſe, but nowe promiſeth to cleanſe them and to make them pure vnto him.

THE ARGVMENT.

AMong many other Prophets that God raiſed vp to admoniſh Iſraelites of his plagues for their wickednes & idolatry, he ſtirred vp Amos, who was an herdman or ſhepherd of a poore towne, and gaue him both knowledge & conſtancie to reproue all eſtates and degrees, & to denounce Gods horrible iudgements againſt them, except they did in time repent: ſhewing them that if God ſpare not the other nations about them, who had liued as it were in ignorance of God in reſpect of them, but for their ſinnes will puniſh them, that they could looke for nothing, but an horrible deſtructiō, except they turned to the Lord by vnfained repentance. And finally he comforteth the godly with hope of the comming of the Meſſiah, by whom they ſhould haue perfect deliuerance and ſaluation.

CHAP. I.

The time of the propheſie of Amos. 3 The word of the Lord againſt Damaſcus, 6 the Philiſtims, Tyrus, Idumea and Ammon.

THe wordes of Amos, who was among the herdmen a at Tecoa, which he ſaw vpon Iſrael, in the dayes of Vzziah King of Iudah, and in the dayes of b Ieroboam the ſonne of Ioaſh king of Iſrael, two yeere before the c earthquake.
2 And he ſaid, The Lord ſhall roare from Zion, and vtter his voyce from Ieruſalem, and the dwelling places of the ſhepheards ſhall perish, and the top of d Carmel ſhall wither.
3 C Thus ſaieth the Lord, For e three tranſgreſſions of Damaſcus, and for foure, I will not turne it, becauſe they haue f threſhed Gilead with threſhing inſtruments of yron.
4 Therefore will I ſend a fire into the houſe of Hazael, and it ſhall deuoure the g palaces of Ben-hadad.

a Which was a towne ſixe miles from Ieruſalem in Iudea, but he propheſied in Iſrael.
b In his dayes the kingdome of Iſrael did moſt floriſh.
c Which, as Ioſephus writeth, was when Vzziah would haue vſurped the Prieſts office, and therefore was ſmitten with the leproſie.
d Whatſoeuer is fruitful and pleaſant in Iſrael ſhal ſhortly periſh.
e He ſheweth firſt that all the people round about ſhould be deſtroyed for their manifolde ſinnes: which are meant by three and foure which make ſeuen, becauſe the Iſraelites ſhould the more deepely conſider Gods iudgements toward them.
f If the Syrians ſhall not be ſpared for committing this crueltie againſt one city, it is not poſſible that Iſrael ſhould eſcape puniſhment, which hath committed ſo many and grieuous ſins againſt God and man.
g The antiquitie of their buildings ſhall not auoyde my iudgements, teade Ierem. 49.27.

5 I will breake also the barres of Damascus, and cut off the inhabitant of Biketh-auen: and him that holdeth the scepter out of Beth-eden, and the people of Aram shall go into captiuitie vnto [h] Kir, saith the Lord.

6 Thus sayeth the Lord, For three transgressions of Azzah, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they [i] caried away prisoners the whole captiuitie to shut them vp in Edom.

7 Therefore will I send a fire vpon the walles of Azzah, and it shall deuoure the palaces thereof.

8 And I will cut off the inhabitant from Ashdod, and him that holdeth the scepter from Ashkelon, and turne mine hand to Ekron, and the remnant of the Philistims shall perish, saith the Lord God.

9 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Tyrus, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they shut the whole captiuitie in Edom, and haue not remembred the [k] brotherly couenant.

10 Therefore will I send a fire vpon the walles of Tyrus, and it shall deuoure the palaces thereof.

11 (Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Edom, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because he did pursue his brother with the sworde: and did [‡] cast off all pitie, and his anger spoyled him euermore, and his wrath watched him [l] alway.

12 Therefore will I send a fire vpon Teman, and it shall deuoure the palaces of Bozrah.

13 ¶ Thus sayeth the Lord, For three transgressions of the children of Ammon, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they [m] haue ript vp the women with childe of Gilead, that they might enlarge their border.

14 Therefore will I kindle a fire in the wall of Rabbah, and it shall deuoure the palaces thereof, with shouting in the day of battell, and with a tempest in the day of the whirlewind.

15 And their King shall goe into captiuitie, hee and his princes together, saith the Lord.

CHAP. II.

Against Moab, Iudah, and Israel.

THus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Moab, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because it burnt the [a] bones of the king of Edom into lime.

2 Therefore will I send a fire vpon Moab, and it shall deuoure the palaces of Kirioth, and Moab shall die with tumult, with shouting, and with the sound of a trumpet.

3 And I will cut off the Iudge out of the midst thereof, and will slay all the princes thereof with him, saith the Lord.

4 ¶ Thus saith the Lord, For three transgressions of Iudah, and for foure, [b] I will not turne to it, because they haue cast away the Law of the Lord, and haue not kept his commandements, & their lies caused them to erre after the which their fathers haue walked.

5 Therefore will I send a fire vpon Iudah, and it shall deuoure the palaces of Ierusalem.

6 ¶ Thus sayeth the Lord, For three transgressions of [c] Israel, and for foure, I will not turne to it, because they solde the righteous for siluer, & the poore for [d] shoes.

7 They gape ouer the head of the poore in the [e] dust of the earth, and peruert the wayes of the meeke: and a man and his father will goe in to a maid to dishonour mine holy Name.

8 And they lie downe vpon clothes layd to pledge [f] by euery altar: and they [g] drinke the wine of the condemned in the house of their God.

9 Yet destroyed I the [h] Amorite before them, whose height was like the height of the cedars, and he was strong as the okes: notwithstanding I destroyed his fruit from aboue, and his root from beneath.

10 Also I brought you vp from the land of Egypt, and led you fourtie yeeres thorow the wildernesse, to possesse the land of the Amorite.

11 And I raised vp of your sonnes for Prophets, and [i] of your yong men for Nazarites. Is it not euen thus, O ye children of Israel, saith the Lord?

12 But yee gaue the Nazarites wine to drinke, and commanded the Prophets, saying, Prophesie not.

13 Behold, I am [k] pressed vnder you, as a cart is pressed that is full of sheaues.

14 Therefore the flight shall perish from the [l] swift, and the strong shall not strengthen his force, neither shall the mightie saue his life.

15 Nor he that handleth the bowe, shall stand, and he that is swift of foote, shall not escape, neither shall he that rideth the horse, saue his life.

16 And he that is of a mighty courage among the strong men, shall flee away naked in that day, saith the Lord.

CHAP. III.

He reproueth the house of Israel of ingratitude, 11. for the which God will punish them.

HEare this word that the Lord pronounceth against you, O children of Israel, euen against the whole familie which I brought vp from the land of Egypt, saying,

2 You [a] onely haue I knowen of all the families of the earth: therefore I will visit you for all your iniquities.

3 Can two walke together except they be [b] agreed?

4 Will a [c] lion roare in the forest, when he hath no pray? or will a lyons whelpe cry out of his den if he haue taken nothing?

h Tiglath Pileser led the Syrians captiue, and brought them to Cyrene, which he calleth here Kir.

i They ioyned themselues with the Edomites their enemies, which caried them away captiues.

k For Esau (of whom came the Edomites) and Iaakob were brethren: therefore they ought to haue admonished them of their brotherly friendship, and not to haue prouoked them to hatred.

l He was a continuall enemie vnto him.

m He noteth the great cruelties of the Ammonites, that spared not the women, but mostly rannously tormented them, and yet the Ammonites came of Lot, who was of the household of Abraham.

a For the Moabites were so cruel against the King of Edom, that they burne his bones after that he was dead: which declared their barbarous rage, seeing they would reuenge themselues of the dead.

b Seeing the Gentiles that had not so farre knowledge, were thus punished, Iudah, which was so fully instructed of the Lords will, might not thinke to escape.

i Yee contemned my benefits, and abused my graces, and craftily went about to stop the mouthes of my Prophets.

k You haue wearied me with your sinnes, Isa. 1. 14.

l None shall be deliuered by any meanes.

a I haue onely chosen you to be mine among all other people, and yet you haue forsaken me.

b Hereby the Prophet signifieth that he speaketh not of himselfe, but as God guideth and mooueth him, which is called the agreement betweene God and his Prophets.

c Will God threaten by his Prophets, except there be some great occasion?

5 d Can

d Can any thing come without Gods prouidence?

e Shall his threatnings be in vaine?

f Shall the Prophets threaten Gods iudgements, and the people not be afraid?

g Doeth any aduersitie come without Gods appointment? Isa. 45.7.

h God dealeth not with the Israelites as hee doeth with other people: for hee euer warneth them before of his plagues, by his Prophets.

i Because the people euer murmured against the Prophets, he sheweth that Gods Spirit mooued them so to speake as they did.

k He calleth the strangers, as the Philistims and Egyptians to be witnesses of Gods iudgments against the Israelites for their crueltie and oppression.

5 d Can a bird fall in a snare vpon the earth, where no souler is? or shall he take vp the e snare from the earth, and haue taken nothing at all?

6 Or f shall a trumpet be blowen in the citie, and the people bee not afraid? or shall there a bee euill in a citie, and the Lord hath not done it?

7 Surely the Lorde God will doe nothing, but he g reuealeth his secret vnto his seruants the Prophets.

8 The lyon hath roared: who will not be afraid? The Lord God hath spoken: who can but h prophesie?

9 Proclaime in the palaces at i Ashdod, and in the palaces in the land of Egypt, and say, Assemble your selues vpon the mountaines of Samaria: so behold the great tumults in the midst thereof, and the oppressed in the midst thereof.

10 For they know not to doe right, sayth the Lord: they store vp violence, and robberie k in their palaces.

11 Therefore thus sayeth the Lord God, An aduersarie shall come euen round about the countrey, and shall bring downe thy strength from thee, and thy palaces shall be spoyled.

12 Thus saieth the Lorde, As the shepheard taketh l out of the mouth of the lyon two legges, or a piece of an eare: so shall the children of Israel bee taken out that dwell in Samaria in the corner of a bed, and in m Damascus, as in a couch.

13 Heare and testifie in the house of Iaakob, sayth the Lord God, the God of hostes.

14 Surely in the day that I shall visite the transgressions of Israel vpon him, I will also visite the altars of Beth-el, and the hornes of the altar shalbe broken off, and fall to the ground.

15 And I will smite the winter house with the summer house, and the houses of yuorie shall perish, and the great houses shalbe consumed, saith the Lord.

l The fruit of their cruelty & theft appeareth by their great riches, which they haue in their houses. m When the Lion hath satiate his hunger, the shepheard findeth a legge or a tip of an eare, to shew that the sheepe haue bene woried. n Where they thought to haue had a sure hold, and to haue bene in safetie.

CHAP. IIII.

Against the gouernours of Samaria.

HEare this worde yee a kine of Bashan, that are in the mountaine of Samaria, which oppresse the poore, & destroy the needie, and they say to their masters, b Bring, and let vs drinke.

2 The Lord God hath sworne by his holinesse, that loe the dayes shall come vpon you, that hee will take you away with c thornes and your posterite with fishhooks.

3 And yee shall goe out at the breaches, euery kowe forward: and yee shall cast your selues out of the palace, saith the Lord.

a Thus he calleth the princes and gouernours, which being ouerwhelmed with the great abundance of Gods benefits, forgate God, and therefore he calleth them by the name of beasts and not of men.

b They encourage such as haue authority ouer the people, to powle them so that they may haue profite by it. c He alludeth to fishers which catch fish by hookes and thornes.

4 Come to d Beth-el, and transgresse: to Gilgal, and multiplie transgression, and bring your sacrifices in the morning, & your tithes after three e yeares.

5 And offer a thanksgiuing f of leauen, publish and proclaime the free offerings: for this g liketh you, O yee children of Israel, saith the Lord God.

6 And therfore haue I giuen you h cleannesse of teeth in all your cities, and scarcenesse of bread in all your places, yet haue yee not returned vnto me, saith the Lord.

7 And also I haue withholden the raine from you, when there were yet three i moneths to the haruest, and I caused it to raine vpon one citie, and haue not caused it to raine vpon another citie: one peece was rained vpon, and the piece whereupon it rained not, withered.

8 So two or three cities wandered vnto one citie, to drinke water, but they were k not satisfied: yet haue ye not returned vnto me, saith the Lord.

9 I haue smitten you with blasting, and mildew: your great gardens and your vineyardes, and your figge trees, and your olive trees did the palmer worme deuoure: yet haue ye not returned vnto me, saith the Lord.

10 Pestilence haue I sent among you, after the maner of l Egypt: your young men haue I slaine with the sword, and haue taken away your horses: and haue made the stinke of your tentes to come vp euen into your nostrels: yet haue ye not returned vnto me, saith the Lord.

11 I haue ouerthrowen you, as God ouerthrew Sodome and Gomorah: and yee were as a m firebrand pluckt out of the burning: yet haue ye not returned vnto me, saith the Lord.

12 Therefore thus will I doe vnto thee, O Israel: and because I will doe this vnto thee, prepare to n meet thy God, O Israel.

13 For lo, he that formeth the mountaines, and createth the winde, and declareth vnto man what is his thought: which maketh the morning darkenesse, and walketh vpon the high places of the earth, the Lorde God of hostes is his Name.

CHAP. V.

A lamentation for the captiuitie of Israel.

HEare yee this word, which I lift vp vpon you, euen a lamentation of the house of Israel.

2 The a virgine Israel is fallen, and shall no more rise: thee is left vpon her land, and there is none to raise her vp.

3 For thus saith the Lord God, The citie which went out by a thousand, shall leaue an b hundreth: and that which went foorth by an hundreth, shall leaue ten to the house of Israel.

4 For thus saith the Lord vnto the house of Israel, Seeke ye me, and ye shall liue.

5 But seeke not Beth-el, nor enter into c Gilgal, and goe not to Beer-sheba: for Gilgal shall go into captiuitie, and Beth-el shall come to nought.

6 Seeke the Lord, and ye shal liue, lest he g You onely delite in these outward ceremonies and haue noue other respect.

h That is, lacke of bread and meate.

i I stayed the raine till the fruits of the earth were destroyed with drouth, and yet you would not confider it to returne to me by repentance.

a He so calleth them, because they so boasted of themselues, or because they were giuen to wantonnesse and daintinesse.

g Ye take both his money and also his goode wherewith he should liue.
h God will so plague them, that they shall not suffer the godly once to open their mouthes to admonish them of their faults.
i So that all degrees shall haue matter of lamentation for the great plagues.
k Thus hee speaketh because the wicked & hypocrites sayd they were content to abide Gods iudgements, whereas the godly tremble and feare. Iere. 30.7. ioel.2.2, 11. zeph. 1. 15. I Because yee haue corrupted my true seruice and remaine obstinate in your vices. Isa.1.11. Iere. 6.10.

breake out like fire in the house of Ioseph, and deuoure it, and there be none to quenche it in Beth-el.

7 They turne [d] iudgement to wormewood, & leaue off righteousnesse in the earth.

8 Hee [e] maketh Pleiades, and Orion, and he turneth the shadow of death into the morning, and hee maketh the day darke as night: hee calleth the waters of the sea, and powreth them out vpon the open earth: the Lord is his Name.

9 He strengtheneth the destroyer against the mightie: and the destroyer shall come against the fortresse.

10 They haue hated him, [f] that rebuketh in the gate: and they abhorred him that speaketh vprightly.

11 Forasmuch then as your treading is vpon the poore, and [g] ye take from him burdens of wheat, ye haue built houses of hewen stone, but ye shall not dwell in them: ye haue planted pleasant vineyards, but ye shall not drinke wine of them.

12 For I know your manifolde transgressions, and your mightie sinnes: they afflict the iust, they take rewards, and they oppresse the poore in the gate.

13 Therefore [h] the prudent shall keepe silence in that time, for it is an euill time.

14 Seeke good and not euil, that ye may liue: and the Lord God of hosts shalbe with you, as you haue spoken.

15 Hate the euill and loue the good, and establish iudgement in the gate: it may bee that the Lord God of hosts will be merciful vnto the remnant of Ioseph.

16 Therefore the Lord God of hosts, the Lord sayeth thus: Mourning shall be in all streetes: and they shall say in all the high wayes, Alas, alas: and they shall call the [i] husbandman to lamentation, and such as can mourne, to mourning.

17 And in all the vines shall be lamentation: for I will passe thorow thee, sayeth the Lord.

18 Woe vnto you, that [k] desire the day of the Lord: what haue you to do with it? the day the Lord is darkenesse and not light.

19 As if a man did flee from a lyon, and a beare met him: or went into the house, and leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him.

20 Shall not the day of the Lord bee darkenesse, and not light? euen darkenesse and no light in it?

21 I hate & abhorre your feast dayes, and I will not smell in your solemne assemblies.

22 Though you offer me burnt offerings and meate offerings, [l] I will not accept them: neither will I regard the peace offerings of your fat beasts.

23 Take thou away from me the multitude of thy songs (for I will not heare the melody of thy viols.)

24 And let iudgement runne downe as [m] waters, & righteousnes as a mighty ruer.

25 Haue ye offred vnto me sacrifices and offerings in the wildernesse fourte yeeres, O house of Israel?

26 But you haue borne [n] Siccuth your king, & Chiun your images, and the starre of your gods, which ye made to your selues, 27 Therefore will I cause you to go into captiuity beyond Damascus, saith the Lord, whose Name is the God of hosts.

3 Ye that put farre away the [c] euill day, and approch to the seat of iniquitie?

4 They lie vpon beds of yuorie, & stretch themselues vpon their beds, and eate the lambes of the flocke, and the calues out of the stall.

5 They sing to the sound of the viole: they inuent to themselues instruments of musicke like [d] Dauid.

6 They drinke wine in bowles, & anoint themselues with the chiefe ointments, but no man is [e] sory for the affliction of Ioseph.

7 Therefore now shall they goe captiue with the first that go captiue, and [f] the sorow of them that stretched themselues, is at hand.

8 [g] The Lord God hath sworne by himselfe, sayeth the Lord God of hostes, I abhorre [i] the excellencie of Iaakob, and hate his palaces: therefore will I deliuer vp the city with all that is therein.

9 And if there remaine ten men in one house, they shall die.

10 And his vncle [k] shall take him vp and burne him to carry out the bones out of the house, and shall say vnto him that is by the [l] sides of the house, Is there yet any with thee? And he shall say, None. Then shall he say, [m] Hold thy tongue: for wee may not remember the Name of the Lord.

God sheweth certaine visions, whereby he signifieth the destruction of the people of Israel. 10 The false accusation of Amaziah. 12 His craftie counsell.

THus hath the Lord God shewed vnto me, and behold, he formed a grashoppers in the beginning of the shooting vp of the latter growth: and loe, it was in the latter growth b after the kings mowing.

2 And when they had made an end of eating the grasse of the land, then I said, O Lord God, spare, I beseech thee: who shall raise vp Iaakob? for he is small.

3 So the Lord c repented for this. It shal not be, saith the Lord.

4 ¶ Thus also hath the Lord God shewed vnto me, and behold, the Lord God called to iudgement by fire, d and it deuoured the great deepe, and did eate vp a part.

5 Then sayd I, O Lorde God, cease, I beseech thee: who shall raise vp Iaakob? for he is small.

6 So the Lorde repented for this. This also shall not be, saith the Lord God.

7 ¶ Thus againe he shewed me, and behold, the Lord stood vpon a wall made by line e with a line in his hand.

8 And the Lorde sayd vnto mee, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A line. Then sayd the Lord, Behold, I will set a line in the mids of my people Israel, and will passe by them no more.

9 And the hie places of Isaak shal be desolate, and the temples of Israel shall be destroyed: and I will rise against the house of Ieroboam with the sword.

10 ¶ f Then Amaziah ſ priest of Bethel sent to Ieroboam king of Israel, saying, Amos hath conspired against thee in the mids of the house of Israel: the land is not able to beare all his words.

11 For thus Amos saith, Ieroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shalbe led away captiue out of their owne land.

12 Also h Amaziah sayd vnto Amos, O thou the Seer, goe, flee thou away into the land of Iudah, and there eate thy bread and prophesie there.

13 But prophesie no more at Beth-el: for it is the Kings chappel, and it is the kings court.

14 Then answered Amos, and sayd to Amaziah, I was no b Prophet, neither was I a Prophets sonne, but I was an heardman, and a gatherer of wilde figs.

15 And the Lord tooke me as I followed the flocke, and the Lord said vnto me, Goe, prophesie vnto my people Israel.

16 Now therefore heare thou the word of the Lord. Thou sayst, Prophesie not against Israel, and speake nothing against the house of Isaak.

17 Therefore thus saith the Lord, i Thy wife shall be an harlot in the citie, and thy sonnes and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy land shall be diuided by line: and thou shalt die in a polluted land, and Israel shall surely goe into captiuitie foorth of his land.

7 The Lord hath sworne by the excellencie of Iaakob, Surely I will neuer forget any of their works.

8 Shall not the land tremble for this? and euery one mourne, that dwelleth therein? and it shal rise vp wholly as a flood, and it shall be cast out, and f drowned as by the flood of Egypt.

9 And in that day, sayeth the Lord God, I will euen cause the sunne to goe downe at noone: and I will darken the earth in the cleare day.

10 And I will turne your feastes into mourning, and all your songs into lamentation: and I will bring sackecloth vpon all loynes, and baldnesse vpon euery head: and I will make it as the mourning of an onely sonne, and the end thereof as a bitter day.

11 Behold, the dayes come, saith the Lord God, that I will send a famine in the lande, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the word of the Lord.

CHAP. IX.

1 Threatnings against the Temple, 2 and against Israel. 11 The restoring of the Church.

I Saw the Lord standing vpon the a altar, and he said, Smite the lintell of the doore, that the postes may shake: and cut them in peeces, euen the b heads of them all, and I will slay the last of them with the sword: he that fleeth of them, shall not flee away: & he that escapeth of them, shall not be deliuered.

2 Though they dig into the hell, thence shall mine hande take them: though they climbe vp to heauen, thence will I bring them downe.

3 And though they hide themselues in the toppe of Carmel, I will search and take them out thence: and though they bee hid from my sight in the bottome of the sea, thence will I commaund the c serpent, and he shall bite them.

4 And though they goe into captiuitie before their enemies, thence will I commaund the sword, and it shall slay them: and I will set mine eyes vpon them for euill, and not for good.

5 And the Lord God of hosts shall touch the land, and it shall melt away, and all that dwell therein, shall mourne, and it shall rise vp wholly like a flood, and shall be drowned as by the flood of Egypt.

6 Hee buildeth d spheres in the heauen, & hath layd the foundation of his globe of elements in the earth: he calleth the waters of the sea, and powreth them out vpon the open earth: the Lord is his Name.

7 Are yee not as the Ethiopians e vnto me, O children of Israel, sayeth the Lord? haue not I brought vp Israel out of the land of Egypt? and the Philistims from f Caphtor, and Aram from Kir?

8 Beholde, the eyes of the Lord God are vpon the sinfull kingdome, and I will destroy it cleane out of the earth. Neuertheless I will not vtterly g destroy the house of Iaakob, sayeth the Lord.

9 For lo, I will commaund, and I will sift the house of Israel among all nations, like as corne is sifted in a sieue: yet shall not the h least corne fall vpon the earth.

10 But all the sinners of my people shall die by the sword, which say, The euill shall not come, nor hasten for vs.

11 In that day will I raise vp the i tabernacle of Dauid, that is fallen downe, and close vp the breaches thereof, and I will raise vp his ruines, and I will build it, as in the dayes of old, 12 That they may possesse the remnant of k Edom, and of all the heathen, because my Name is called vpon them, sayth the Lord, that doeth this.

13 Beholde, the dayes come, sayeth the Lorde, that the plowman shall l touch the mower, and the treader of grapes him that soweth seede: and the mountaines shall m droppe sweet wine, and all the hilles shall melt.

14 And I will bring againe the captiuitie of my people of Israel: and they shall build the waste cities, and inhabite them, and they shall plant vineyardes, and drinke the wine thereof, they shall also make gardens, and eate the fruits of them.

15 And n I will plant them vpon their land, and they shall no more bee pulled vp againe out of their land, which I haue giuen them, sayth the Lord thy God.

a Which was at Ierusalem: for he appeared not in the idolatrous places of Israel.

b Both the chiefe of them and also the common people.

c He sheweth, God wil declare himselfe enemie vnto them in all places, and that his elements and all creatures shall be enemies to destroy them.

d He declareth by the wonderfull power of God, by the making of the heauens, and the elements, that it is not possible for man to escape his iudgements when he punisheth.

e Am I more bound to you then to the Ethiopians or blacke Moores? yet haue I bestowed vpon you greater benefits.

k Meaning, that the very enemies, as were the Edomites and others, should be ioyned with the Iewes in one societie & body, whereof Christ should be the head.

l Signifying, that there shall be great plentie of all things, so that when one kind of fruit is ripe, another should follow, and euery one in course, Leuit. 26. 5.

n The accomplishment hereof is vnder Christ, when they are planted in his Church, out of the which they can neuer be pulled, after they are once grafted therein.

Obadiah.

THE ARGVMENT.

THe Idumeans which came of Esau, were mortall enemies alway to the Israelites, which came of Iaakob: and therefore did not onely vexe them continually with sundry kindes of crueltie, but also stirred vp others to fight against them. Therefore when they were now in their greatest prosperitie, and did most triumph against Israel, which was in great affliction and miserie, God raised vp his Prophet to comfort the Israelites, forasmuch as God had now determined to destroy their aduersaries, which did so sore vexe them, and to send them such as should deliuer them, and set vp the kingdome of Messiah, which he had promised.

THe vision of Obadiah. Thus sayeth the Lorde God against Edom, a Wee haue heard a rumour from the Lord, and an ambassadour is sent among the heathen: arise, and b let vs rise vp against her to battell.

2 Beholde, I haue made thee small among the heathen: thou art vtterly despised.

3 The c pride of thine heart hath deceiued thee: thou thou dwellest in the clefts of the rockes, whose habitation is hie, that saith in his heart, Who will bring me downe to the ground?

4 Though thou exalt thy selfe as the egle, and make thy nest among the starres, thence will I bring thee downe, saith the Lord.

5 d Came theeues to thee or robbers by night?

a God hath certainly reuealed to his Prophets that hee will raise vp the heathen to destroy the Edomites, whereof the rumour is now published, Ierem. 49. 14.

b Thus the heathen encourage themselues to rise against Edom.

c Which despiseth all others in respect of thy selfe, & yet art but an handful in comparison of others, and art shut vp among the hils as separate from the rest of the world.

d God wil so destroy them that he will leaue none, though theeues when they come, take but till they haue enough, and they that gather grapes, euer leaue some behind them, Ierem. 49. 9.

night? how wast thou brought to silence? would they not haue stollen, till they had enough? if the grape gatherers came to thee, would they not leaue some grapes?

6 Howe are the things of Esau sought vp, and his treasures searched?

7 All the men of thy confederacie e haue driuen thee to the borders: the men that were at peace with thee, haue deceiued thee, and preuailed against thee: they that eate thy bread, haue laid a wound vnder thee: there is none vnderstanding in him.

8 Shal not I in that day, saith the Lord, euen destroy the wise men out of Edom, and vnderstanding from the mount of Esau?

9 And thy strong men, O Teman, shall be afrayd, because euery one of the mount of Esau shall be cut off by slaughter.

10 For thy cruelty against thy f brother Iaakob, shame shal couer thee, and thou shalt be cut off for euer.

11 When thou stoodest g on the other side, in the day that the strangers caried away his substance, and straungers entred into his gates, and cast lots vpon Ierusalem, euen thou wast as one of them.

12 But thou shouldest not haue beholden the day of thy brother, in the day that he was made a straunger, neither shouldest thou haue reioyced ouer the children of Iudah, in the day of their destruction: thou shouldest not haue spoken proudly in the day of affliction.

13 Thou shouldest not haue entred into the gate of my people in the day of their destruction, neither shouldest thou haue once looked on their affliction in the day of their destruction, nor haue layde handes on their substance in the day of their destruction.

14 Neither shouldest thou haue stoode in the crosse wayes to cut off them, that should escape, neither shouldest thou haue shutte vp the remnant thereof in the day of distresse.

15 For the day h of the Lord is neere vpon all the heathen: as thou hast done, it shall be done to thee: thy reward shall returne vpon thine head.

16 For as ye haue i dronke vpon mine holy mountaine, so shall all the heathen drinke continually, yea, they shall drinke and swallow vp, and they shall be k as though they had not bene.

17 But vpon mount Zion shall be deliuerance, and it shall bee holy, and the house of Iaakob shall possesse their possessions.

18 And the house of Iaakob shall bee a fire, and the house of Ioseph a flame, and the house of Esau as stubble, and they shall kindle in them and deuoure them: and there shall be no remnant of the house of Esau: for the Lord hath spoken it.

19 And they shall possesse the South side of the l mount of Esau, and the plaine of the Philistims: and they shall possesse the fields of Ephraim, and the fields of Samaria, and Beniamin shall haue Gilead.

20 And the captiuitie of this hoste of the children of Israel, which were among the m Cananites, shall possesse vnto Zarephath, and the captiuitie of Ierusalem, which is in Sepharad, shall possesse the cities of the South.

21 And they n that shall saue, shal come vp to mount Zion to iudge the mount of Esau, and the kingdome shall be the Lords.

e They in whom thou didst trust, for to haue helpe and friendship of them, shall be thine enemies and destroy thee.

f That is, thy familiar friends & ghests haue by secret practises destroyed thee.

g He sheweth the cause why the Edomites were so sharpely punished: to wit, because they were enemies to his Church, whom now he comforteth by punishing their enemies.

h When Nebuchad-nezzar came against Ierusalem, thou ioynedst with him, and haddest part of the spoile, and so diddest reioyce, when my people, that is, thy brother, were afflicted, whereas thou shouldest haue pitied and holpen thy brother. i When the Lord depriued them of their former dignitie, and gaue them to be caried into captiuitie.

k When he will summon all the heathen, & send them to destroy thee.

l That is, reioyced and triumphed.

m The Edomites shall be vtterly destroyed, and yet in despight of all the enemies, I will restore my Church, and restore it.

n God attributeth this power to consume his enemies, to his Church, which power is onely proper to himselfe, as Isa. 10. 17. deut. 4 24. hebr. 12. 29.

o He describeth how the Church shall be enlarged and haue great possessions, but this chiefly is accomplished vnder Christ, when as the faithfull are made heires and lords of all things by him which is their head. p By the Cananites, the Iewes meane the Dutch men, and by Zarephath, France, and by Sepharad, Spaine. q Meaning that God will raise vp in his Church such as shall rule and gouerne for the defence of the same, and destruction of his enemies vnder Messiah, whom the Prophet calleth here the Lord and head of this kingdome.

¶ Ionah.

THE ARGVMENT.

WHen Ionah had long prophesied in Israel, & had little profited, God gaue him expresse charge to goe and denounce his iudgements against Nineueh the chiefe citie of the Assyrians, because he had appointed, that they which were of the heathen, should conuert by the mighty power of his word, and that within three dayes preaching, that Israel might see how horribly they had prouoked Gods wrath, which for the space of so many yeeres, had not conuerted to the Lord for so many Prophets, and so diligent preaching. He prophesied vnder Ioash & Ieroboam, as 2 Kin. 14 25

CHAP. I.

3 Ionah fled when he was sent to preach. 4 A tempest ariseth, and hee is cast into the sea for his disobedience.

THe worde of the Lorde came a also vnto Ionah the sonne of Amittai, saying,

2 Arise, and goe to b Nineueh, that c great citie, and cry against it: for their wickednesse is come before me.

3 But Ionah rose vp to d flee into Tarshish from the presence of the Lord, and went downe to e Iapho: and hee found a shippe going to Tarshish: so hee payed the fare a After that he had preached a long time in Israel: and so Ezekiel, after that for a time hee had prophesied in Iudah, hee had visions in Babylon. Ezek. 1 1.

b For seeing the great obstination of the Israelites, he sent his Prophets to the Gentiles, that they might prouoke them to repentance, or at least make them inexcusable: for Nineueh was the chiefe citie of the Assyrians.

c For as authors write, it conteined in circuit about eight and fourtie mile, and had a thousand and fiue hundred towers and at this time there were an hundreth and twentie thousand children therein, Chap. 4. 11.

d Whereby hee declared his weakenesse, that would not promptly follow the Lords calling, but gaue place to his owne reason, which perswaded him that he should nothing at all profit there, seeing he had done so small good among his owne people. Chap. 4 1. e Which was the haven and port to take shipping thither, called also Ioppe.

fare therof, and went downe into it, that he might goe with them vnto Tarshish, from the f presence of the Lord.

4 But the Lord sent out a great winde vnto the Sea, and there was a mighty tempest in the sea, so that the ship was like to be broken.

5 Then the mariners were afraide, and cryed euery man vnto his God, and cast the wares that were in the ship, into the sea to lighten it of them: but Ionah was gone downe into the sides of the ship, and he lay downe, and was fast asleepe.

6 So the Shipmaster came to him, and said vnto him, What meanest thou, O sleeper? Arise, call vpon thy h God, if so be that God wil thinke vpon vs, that we perish not.

7 And they said euery one to his fellow, Come, and let vs cast i lots, that we may knowe, for whose cause this euill is vpon vs. So they cast lots, and the lot fell vpon Ionah.

8 Then sayd they vnto him, Tell vs for whose cause this euill is vpon vs? what is thine occupation? & whence commest thou? which is thy country? and of what people art thou?

9 And hee answered them, I am an Ebrew, and I feare the Lord God of heauen, which hath made the sea, and the dry land.

10 Then were the men exceedingly afraid, and sayd vnto him, Why hast thou done this? (for the men knewe, that he fled from the presence of the Lord, because hee had told them)

11 Then said they vnto him, What shall we doe vnto thee, that the sea may be calme vnto vs? (for the Sea wrought and was troublous)

12 And he said vnto them, Take me, and cast me into the sea: so shall the sea be calme vnto you: for I know, that for my sake this great tempest is vpon you.

13 Nemertheless, the men rowed to bring it to the land, but they could not: for the sea wrought and was troublous against them.

14 Wherefore they cryed vnto the Lord, and said, k Wee beseech thee, O Lord, we beseech thee, let vs not perish for this mans life, and lay not vpon vs innocent blood: for thou, O Lord, hast done, as it pleased thee.

15 So they tooke vp Ionah, and cast him into the sea, & the sea ceased from her raging.

16 Then the men l feared the Lorde exceedingly, and offered a sacrifice vnto the Lord, and made vowes.

17 Nowe the Lord had prepared a great fish to swallow vp Ionah: and Ionah was in the belly of the fish three dayes and three nights.

f From that vocation whereunto God had called him, and wherein hee would haue assisted him.

g As one that would haue cast off this care and solicitude by seeking rest and quietnesse.

h As they had called on their idoles: which declareth that idolaters haue no stay nor certainty, but in their troubles seeke, they can not tel to whom.

i Which declareth that the matter was in great extremity and doubt, which thing was Gods motion in them for the triall of the cause: and this may not bee done but in matters of great importance.

k This declareth that the wicked in their necessities flee vnto God for succour, and also that they are touched with a certaine feare to shead mans blood, whereas they know no manifest signe of wickednesse.

l They were touched with a certaine repentance of their life past, and began to worship the true God by whom they saw themselues to wonderfully deliuered: but this was done for feare & not of a pure heart and affection, neither according to Gods worde.

m Thus the Lord would chastise his Prophet with a most terrible spectacle of death, and hereby also confirmed him of his fauour and support in this his charge which was inioyned him.

CHAP. II.

1 Ionah is in the fishes belly. 2 His prayer, 10 He is deliuered.

THen Ionah prayed vnto the Lorde his God a out of the fishes belly,

2 And sayde, I cryed in mine affliction vnto the Lord, and he heard me: out of the belly b of hell cryed I, and thou heardest my voyce.

3 For thou hadst cast me into the bottome in the midst of the sea, and the floods compassed me about: all thy surges, and all thy waues passed ouer me.

4 Then I sayd, I am c cast away out of thy sight: yet will I looke againe towarde thine holy Temple.

5 The waters compassed me about vnto the soule: the depth closed me round about, and the weedes were wrapt about mine head.

6 I went downe to the bottoms of the mountaines: the earth with her barres was about mee for euer, yet hast thou brought vp my d life from the pit, O Lorde my God.

7 When my soule fainted within mee, I remembred the Lord, and my prayer came vnto thee, into thine holy Temple.

8 They that waite vpon lying e vanities forsake their owne f mercie.

9 But I will sacrifice vnto thee with the voyce of thanksgiuing, and will pay that that I haue vowed: saluation is of the Lord.

10 And the Lord spake vnto the fish, and it cast out Ionah vpon the dry land.

a Being nowe swallowed vp of death, and seeing no remedy to escape, his faith brast out vnto the Lord, knowing that out of the very hell he was able to deliuer him.

b For he was now in the fishes belly, as in a graue or place of darkenesse.

c This declared what his prayer was, and how he laboured betweene hope and despaire, considering the neglect of his vocation, and Gods iudgements for the same: but yet in the end faith gate the victory.

d Thou hast deliuered mee from the belly of the fish, and all these dangers, as it were raising me from death to life.

e They that depend vpon any thing saue one God alone.

f They refuse their owne felicitie, & that goodnesse which they should else receiue of God.

CHAP. III.

1 Ionah is sent againe to Nineueh. 5 The repentance of the king of Nineueh.

AND the word of the Lord came vnto Ionah the second time, saying,

2 Arise, goe vnto Nineueh that great citie, and preach vnto it the preaching, which I bid thee.

3 So Ionah arose and went to Nineueh according to the word of the Lord: now Nineueh was a b great and excellent citie of three dayes iourney.

4 And Ionah began to enter into the citie a c dayes iourney, and he cryed, and said, Yet fourtie dayes, and Nineueh shall be ouerthrowen.

5 So the people of Nineueh d beleeued God, and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth from the greatest of them euen to the least of them.

6 For word came vnto the King of Nineueh, and he arose from his throne, and layed his robe from him, and couered him with sackcloth, and sate in ashes.

7 And he proclaimed and said through Nineueh, (by the counsel of the king and his nobles) saying, Let neither man, nor e beast, bullocke nor sheepe taste any thing, neither feede nor drinke water.

8 But let man and beast put on sackcloth, a This is a great declaration of Gods mercy, that he receiueth him againe & sendeth him forth as his Prophet, which had before shewed so great infirmitie b Reade Chap. 1.2.

c He went forward one day in the citie, and preached, and so he continued till the citie was conuerted.

d For he declared that he was a Prophet sent to them from God to denounce his iudgements against them.

e Not that the dumbe beastes had sinned or could repent but that by their example man might be astonished, considering that for his sinne the anger of God hanged ouer all creatures.

f He willed, that the men ſhould earneſtly call vnto God for mercie.
g For partly by the threatning of the Prophet, and partly by the motion of his owne conſcience he doubted whether God would ſhew them mercie. h That is, the fruits of their repentance, which did proceede of faith, which God had planted by the miniſtery of his Prophet. i Reade Iere. 18.8.

cloth, and f cry mightily vnto God: yea, let euery man turne from his euill way, and from the wickednesse that is in their hands.
9 g Who can tell if God will turne, and repent & turne away from his fierce wrath, that we perish not?
10 And God ſawe their h workes that they turned from their euill wayes: & God repented of the euill that he had ſaid, that he would doe vnto them, and he did it not.

CHAP. IIII.

The great goodneſſe of God toward his creatures.

a Because hereby he ſhould be taken as a falſe prophet, and ſo the Name of God which he preached ſhould be blaſphemed. b Reade Chap. 1.3. c Thus he prayed of griefe, fearing leſt Gods Name by this forgiueneſſe might be blaſphemed, as though he ſent his Prophets foorth to denounce his iudgements in vaine. d Wilt thou be iudge when I doe things for my glory, and when I doe not?

THerefore it diſpleaſed a Ionah exceedingly, and he was angry.
2 And he prayed vnto the Lord, and ſaid, I pray thee, O Lord, was not this my ſaying, when I was yet in my country? therefore I preuented it to flee vnto Tarſhish: for I knew that thou art a gracious God, and mercifull, ſlowe to anger, and of great kindneſſe, and repenteſt thee of the euill.
3 Therefore now, O Lorde, take, I beſeech thee, my life b from me: for it is better for me to die then to liue.
4 Then ſaid the Lord, Doeſt thou well to be c angry?
5 So Ionah went out of the citie, & ſate on the Eaſt ſide of the city, and there made him a boothe, and ſate vnder it in the ſhadow, till he might ſee what ſhould be done in the citie.
6 And the Lord God prepared a d gourd, and made it to come vp ouer Ionah, that it might be a ſhadowe ouer his head, and deliuer him from his griefe. So Ionah was exceeding glad of the gourd.
7 But God prepared a worme when the morning roſe the next day: and it ſmote the gourd that it withered.
8 And when the Sunne did ariſe, God prepared alſo a feruent Eaſt winde: and the Sunne beat vpon the head of Ionah, that hee fainted, and wiſhed in his heart to die, and ſaid, It is better for me to die, then to liue.
9 And God ſaid vnto Ionah, Doeſt thou well to be angry for the gourd? And he ſaid, I doe well to be angry vnto the death.
10 Then ſaid the Lord, Thou haſt had pitie on the gourd for the which thou haſt not laboured, neither madeſt it growe, which came vp in a night, and perished in a night, 11 And ſhould e not I ſpare Niniueh that great citie, wherein are more then ſixe score thouſand perſons, that f cannot diſcerne betweene their right hand and their left hand, and alſo much cattell?

a For he doubted as yet whether God would ſhew them mercie or no: and therefore after fourtie dayes he departed out of the citie, looking what iſſue God would ſend. f Which was a further meanes, to couer him from the heate of the Sunne, as he remained in his boothe. g This declareth the great inconueniences wherinto Gods ſeruants doe fall when they giue place to their owne affections, and doe not in all things willingly ſubmit themſelues to God. h Thus God mercifully reproueth him which would pitie himſelfe and this gourd, and yet would reſtraine God to ſhew his compaſſion to ſo many thouſand people. i Meaning, that they were children and infants.

THE ARGVMENT.

MIcah the Prophet of the tribe of Iudah, ſerued in the worke of the Lord, concerning Iudah and Iſrael, at the leaſt thirtie yeres, at what time Iotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah Kings of Iudah, which hee ſawe concerning Samaria and Ieruſalem.

Borne in Mareſhah a citie of Iudah. b Because of the malice and obſtinacie of the people whom he had ſo oft exhorted to repentance, he ſummoneth them to Gods iudgements, taking all creatures and God himſelf to witneſſe, that the preaching of his Prophets, which they haue abuſed, ſhall be reuenged. c Meaning hereby, that God will come to iudgement againſt the ſtrong cities and holds.

CHAP. I.

1 The deſtruction of Iudah and Iſrael becauſe of their idolatrie.

THE word of the Lorde, that came vnto Micah the a Morathite in the dayes of Iotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah Kings of Iudah, which hee ſawe concerning Samaria and Ieruſalem.
2 Heare, b all yee people: hearken thou, O earth, and all that therein is, and let the Lord God be witneſſe againſt you, euen the Lord God from his holy Temple.
3 For beholde, the Lorde commeth out of his place, and will come downe, and treade vpon the hie places of the earth.
4 And the mountaines ſhall melt vnder him (& ſhall the valleys cleaue) as wax before the fire, and as the waters that are powred downeward.
5 For the wickednesse of Iaakob is all this, and for the ſinnes of the houſe of Iſrael: what is the wickednesse of Iaakob? Is not c Samaria? and which are the hie places of Iudah? Is not Ieruſalem?
6 Therefore I will make Samaria as an heape of the fielde, and for the planting of a vineyard, and I will cauſe the ſtones thereof to tumble downe into the valley, and I will diſcouer the foundations thereof.
7 And all the grauen images thereof ſhall be broken, and all the d gifts thereof ſhall be burnt

Iaakob. e That is the idolatry and infection. f thered by euill practiſes, and thought that their idoles had enriched them therewith for their ſeruice vnto them. d Samaria which ſhould haue bene an example to all Iſrael of true religion & iuſtice, was the puddle and ſtewes of all idolatry and corruption, & boaſted themſelues of their father Which they ga-burnt with the fire, and all the tools thereof will I destroy: for the gathered it of the hire of an harlot, and they shall returne to the wages of an harlot.

8 Therefore will I mourne and howle: I will goe without clothes, and naked: I wil make lamentation like the dragons, and mourning as the ostriches.

9 For her plagues are grievous: for it is come into Iudah: the enemie is come vnto the gate of my people, vnto Ierusalem.

10 Declare yee it not at [b] Gath, neither weepe ye: for the house of [i] Aphrah rolle thy selfe in the dust.

11 Thou that dwellest at [k] Shaphir, goe together naked with shame: she that dwelleth at Zaanan, shall not come forth in the mourning of Beth-ezel: the enemie shall [l] receive of you for his standing.

12 For the inhabitant of Maroth waited for good, but euill came from the Lord vnto the [m] gate of Ierusalem.

13 O thou inhabitant of Lachish, binde the charet to the beastes [n] of price: she [o] is the beginning of the sinne to the daughter of Zion: for the transgressions of Israel were found in thee.

14 Therefore shalt thou give presents to Moresheth [p] Gath: the houses of Achzib shalbe as a lie to the kings of Israel.

15 Yet will I bring an [q] heire vnto thee, O inhabitant of Mareshah, hee shall come vnto Adullam, [r] the glory of Israel.

16 Make thee balde: and shave thee for thy delicate children: enlarge thy baldnesse as the egle: for they are gone into captivitie from thee.

h Thus the Iewes lament, and say, that there is no hope of restitution, seeing their possessions are diuided among the enemies.

5 Therefore thou shalt have none that shall cast a cord by lot, in [c] the congregation of the Lord.

6 [d] They that prophesied, Prophesie ye not. [e] They shall not prophesie to them, neither shall they take shame.

7 O thou that art named the house of Iaakob, is the Spirit of the Lord shortned? are these his workes? are not my wordes good vnto him [f] that walketh vprightly?

8 But hee that was [h] yesterday my people, is risen vp on the other side, as against an enemie: they spoyle the [i] beautifull garment from them that passe by peaceably, as though they returned from the warre.

9 The women of my people have ye cast out from their pleasant houses, and from their children have ye taken away [k] my glorie continually.

10 Arise and depart, for this is not your [l] rest: because it is polluted, it shall destroy you, euen with a sore destruction.

11 If a man [m] walke in the spirit, and would lie falsely, saying, [n] I will prophesie vnto thee of wine, and of strong drinke, hee shall euen be the Prophet of this people.

12 I will surely gather [o] thee wholly, O Iaakob: I will surely gather the remnant of Israel: I will put them together as the sheepe of Bozrah, euen as the flocke in the middes of their folde: she cities shall be full of mē of the men.

13 The [p] breaker vp shall come before them: they shall breake out and passe by the gate, and goe out by it, and their king shall goe before them, and the Lord shall be [q] vpon their heads.

c Ye shall have no more lands to diuide, as you had in times past, and as you vsed to measure them in the Iubile.

d Thus the people warne Prophets that they speake to them no more: for they cannot abide their threatnings.

e God saith that they shall not prophesie, nor receiue no more of their rebukes nor tauts.

f Are these your works according to his law?

g Doe not the godly finde my words comfortable?

h That is, afore-time.

i The poore can haue no commoditie by them, but they spoyle them as though they were enemies.

k That is, their substance and liuing, which is Gods blessing, and as it were part of his glory.

l Ierusalem shall not be your safegard, but the cause of your destruction.

m That is, shew himselfe to be a Prophet.

n He sheweth what prophets they delighte in: that is, in flatterers, which tell them pleasant tales, and speake of their commodities.

o To destroy thee.

p The enemy shall breake their gates & walles, and leade them into Caldea.

q To driue them forward, and to helpe their enemies.

CHAP. II.

1 Threatnings against the wanton and daintie people. 6 They would teach the Prophets to preach.

WOe vnto them that imagine iniquity, and worke wickednesse vpon their beddes: [a] when the morning is light they practise it, because their hand [t] hath power.

2 And they couet fields, and take them by violence, & houses, and take them away: so they oppresse a man and his house, euen man and his heritage.

3 Therefore thus sayeth the Lord, Behold, against this familie haue I deuised a plague, wherefrom yee shall not plucke your necks, and ye shal not goe so proudly, for this time is euill.

4 In that day shall they take vp a parable against you, and lament with a dolefull lamentation, and say, [b] Wee be vtterly wasted: he hath changed the portion of my people: how hath hee taken it away to restore it vnto me? he hath diuided our fields.

a Assoone as they rise, they execute their wicked deuices of the night and according to their power hurt other.

t Ebr. is in power

CHAP. III.

1 Against the tyrannie of princes and false prophets.

AND I sayd, Heare, I pray you, O heads of Iaakob, and yee princes of the house of Israel: Should not yee know [a] iudgement?

2 But they hate the good, and loue the euill: they plucke off their skinnes from them, and their flesh from their bones.

3 And they eate also the [b] flesh of my people, and flay off their skinne from them, and they breake their bones, and choppe them in pieces, as for the pot, and as flesh within the caldron.

4 Then [c] shall they crie vnto the Lord, but hee will not heare them: hee will euen hide his face fro them at that time, because they haue done wickedly in their workes.

a That thing which is iust and lawfull, both to gouerne my people aright, and also to discharge your owne conscience?

b The Prophet condemneth the wicked gouernours not onely of couetousnesse, theft and murther, but compareth them to wolues, lions, & most cruel beasts c That is, when I shal visite their wickednesse: for though I heare they cry, Isa. 65. 24. yet I will not heare these though they cry, Isa. 1. 15. ezek. 8. 18. iam. 2. 13. 1 pet 3. 11, 12.

d They deuoure all their substance, and then flatter them, promising that all shal goe wel: but if one restraine from their bellies, then they inuent all wayes to mischiefe.

e As you haue loued to walke in darkenesse and to prophesie lies, so God shall reward you with grosse blindnesse & ignorance, so that when all others shall see the bright beames of Gods graces, ye shall as blinde men grope as in the night.

f when God shal discouer them to the world, they shalbe afrayd to speake: for all shall know that they were but false prophets and did belie the word of God.

5 Thus sayeth the Lord, Concerning the prophets that deceiue my people, and d bite them with their teeth, and crie Peace, but if a man put not into their mouthes, they prepare warre against him.

6 Therefore e night shalbe vnto you for a vision, and darkenesse shall be vnto you for a diuination, and the sunne shall goe downe ouer the Prophets, and the day shalbe darke ouer them.

7 Then shall the Seers be ashamed, and the soothsayers confounded: yea, they shall all couer f their lippes, for they haue none answere of God.

8 Yet notwithstanding, I am full g of power by the Spirit of the Lorde, and of iudgement, and of strength to declare vnto Iaakob his transgression, and to Israel his sinne.

9 Heare this, I pray you, ye heads of the house of Iaakob, and princes of the house of Israel: they abhorre iudgement, and peruert all equitie.

10 They build vp Zion with h blood, and Ierusalem with iniquitie.

11 The heads thereof iudge for rewards and the Priests thereof teach for hire, and the Prophets thereof prophesie for money: yet will they i leane vpon the Lord, and say, Is not the Lorde among vs? no euill can come vpon vs.

12 Therefore shall Zion for your sake be k plowed as a field, and Ierusalem shalbe an heape, and the mountaine of the house, as the hie places of the forest.

g The Prophet being assured of his vocation by the Spirit of God, setteth himselfe alone against all the wicked, shewing how God hath gaue him giftes abilitie and knowledge to discerne betwene good and euill, & also constancie to reproue the sinnes of the people, and not to flatter them. h They build them houses by briberie, which be calleth blood and iniquitie. i They will say, that they are the people of God, and abuse his name, as a pretence to cloke their hypocrisie. k Reade Ieremiah 26. 18.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Of the kingdome of Christ and felicitie of his Church.

a When Christ shall come, and the Temple shall bee destroyed.

b Reade Isa. 2. 2.

c He sheweth that there is no true Church, but whereas the people are taught by Gods pure word.

d By his corrections & threatning, hee will bring the people into subiection, which are in the vtmost corners of the world

e They shall abstaine from all euill doing, and exercise themselues in godlinesse & in well doing to others. f Reade Isa. 2. 4

BVt in the a last dayes it shall come to passe, that the mountaine of the house of the Lord shalbe prepared in the toppe of the mountaines, and it shalbe exalted aboue the b hilles, and people shall flow vnto it.

2 Yea, many nations shall come and say, Come, and let vs go vp to the mountaine of the Lord, and to the house of the God of Iaakob, and he will c teach vs his wayes, and we will walke in his paths: for the Law shall goe forth of Zion, and the word of the Lord from Ierusalem.

3 And hee shall iudge among many people, and d rebuke mighty nations afarre off, and they shall breake their swords into mattocks, and their speares into e sithes: nation shall not lift vp a sword against nation, neither shall they f learne to fight any more.

4 But they shall sit euery man vnder his vine, and vnder his figge tree, and none shall make them afraid: for the mouth of the Lord of hostes hath spoken it.

5 For all people will walke g euery one in the Name of his god, and we will walke in the Name of the Lord our God, for euer and euer.

6 At the same day, saith the Lord, will I gather her that halteth, and I will gather her that is cast out, and her that I haue afflicted.

7 And I will make her that halted, h a remnant, and her that was cast farre off, a mightie nation: and the Lord shall reigne ouer them in mount Zion, from henceforth euen for euer.

8 And thou, O i tower of the flocke, the strong hold of the daughter Zion, vnto thee shall it come, euen k the first dominion, and kingdome, shall come to the daughter Ierusalem.

9 Now why dost thou crie out with lamentation? is l there no king in thee? is thy counseller perished? for sorow hath taken thee, as a woman in trauaile.

10 Sorow & mourne, O daughter Zion, like a woman in trauaile: for now shalt thou goe forth of the citie, and dwel in the field, and shalt goe into Babel, but there shalt thou be deliuered: there the Lord shall redeeme thee from the hand of thine enemies.

11 Now also many nations are gathered against thee, saying, Zion shalbe defiled, and our eye shall looke vpon Zion.

12 But they m knowe not the thoughts of the Lord: they vnderstand not his counsell, for he shall gather them as the sheaues in the barne.

13 Arise, and thresh, n O daughter Zion: for I will make thine horne yron, and I will make thine hoofes brasse, and thou shalt breake in pieces many people: and I will consecrate their riches vnto the Lord, and their substance vnto the ruler of the whole world.

g Hee sheweth that the people of God ought to remaine constant in their religion, albeit all the world should giue themselues to their superstition and idolatrie.

h I will cause that Israel, which is now as one lame and halting, and so almost destroyed, shall line againe, and grow into a great people.

i Meaning Ierusalem, where the Lords flocke was gathered.

k The flourishing state of the kingdome, as it was vnder Dauid and Salomon, which thing was accomplished to the Church by the comming of Christ.

l In the meane season he sheweth that they should endure great troubles and tentations, when they saw themselues neither to haue king nor counsell.

m He sheweth that the faithful ought not to measure Gods iudgements by the bragges & threatnings of the wicked, but therby are admonished to lift vp their hearts to God to call for deliuerance.

n God giueth his Church this victorie, so oft as hee ouercommeth their enemies: but the accomplishment hereof shall bee at the last comming of Christ.

CHAP. V.

1 The destruction of Ierusalem. 2 The excellencie of Beth-lehem.

NOw assemble thy garisons, O daughter a of garisons: he hath layd siege against vs: they shal smite the Iudge of Israel with a rod vpon the cheeke.

2 And thou Beth-lehem Ephrathah, art b little to bee among the thousands of Iudah, yet out of thee shall hee come forth vnto mee, that shall bee the ruler in a He forewarneth them of the dangers that shal come, before they enioy these comforts, shewing that forasmuch as Ierusalem was accustomed with her garisons to trouble others, the Lord would now cause other garisons to vexe her, and that her rulers should be smitten on the face most contemptuously. b For so the Iewes diuided their countrey, that for euery thousand there was a chiefe captaine: and because Beth-lehem was not able to make a thousand, hee calleth it little, but yet God will raise vp his captaine and gouernour therein: and thus it is not the least by reason of this benefite, as Matth. 2. 6.

Israel:

12 Sept. 1 Febr. Morning

c He sheweth that the comming of Christ and all his wayes were appointed of God from al eternitie.
d He compareth the Iewes to women with child, who for a time should haue great sorowes, but at length they should haue a comfortable deliuerance, Iohn 16.21.
e That is, Christs kingdome shalbe stable and euerlasting, and his people, aswell the Gentiles, as the Iewes shall dwel in safetie.
f This Messiah shalbe a sufficient safegard for vs, & though the enemie inuade vs for a time, yet shall God stir vp many which shalbe able to deliuer vs.
g These whom God shal raise vp for y deliuerance of his Church, shall destroy all the enemies therof, which are meant here by the Assyrians and Babylonians which were the chiefe at that time.
h By these gouernors wil God deliuer vs when the enemie commeth into our land.
i This remnant or Church which God shal deliuer, shal only depend on Gods power and defence, as doth the grasse of the field, and not on the hope of man.
k I will destroy all things wherein thou putteth thy confidence, as thy vaine confidence and idolatry, and so will help thee.
l It shall be so terrible, that the like hath not been heard of.

Israel: whose e goings forth haue been from the beginning and from euerlasting.
3 Therefore will he giue them vp, vntill the time that d he, which shal beare, shal trauaile: then the remnant of their brethren shall returne vnto the children of Israel.
4 And he shall f stand, and feede in the strength of the Lord, and in the maiestie of the Name of the Lord his God, and they shall dwell still: for now shall he be magnified vnto the ends of the world.
5 And he f shalbe our peace when Asshur shall come into our land: when he shal treade in our palaces, then shall we raise against him seuen shepheards, and eight principall men.
6 And they shall destroy g Asshur with the sworde, and the land of Nimrod with their swords: thus shall he h deliuer vs from Asshur, when hee commeth into our land, and when hee shall tread within our borders.
7 And the i remnant of Iaakob shall be among many people, as a dewe from the Lord, and as the showers vpon the grasse, that wayteth not for man, nor hopeth in the sonnes of Adam.
8 And the remnant of Iaakob shall be among the Gentiles, in the middes of many people, as the lyon among the beastes of the forests, and as the lyons whelpe among the flocks of sheepe, who when he goeth through, treadeth downe and rayeth in pieces, and none can deliuer.
9 Thine hand shall be lift vp vpon thine aduersaries, and all thine enemies shall be cut off.
10 And it shall come to passe in that day, saith the Lord, that I will cut off thine k horses out of the middes of thee, and I will destroy thy charets.
11 And I will cut off the cities of thy land, and ouerthrow all thy strong holds.
12 And I will cut off thine inchanters out of thine hand: and thou shalt haue no more soothsayers.
13 Thine idoles also will I cut off, and thine images out of the middes of thee: and thou shalt no more worship the worke of thine hands.
14 And I will plucke vp the groues out of the middes of thee: so will I destroy thine enemies.
15 And I will execute l vengeance in my wrath and indignation vpon the heathen, which they haue not heard.

2 Heare yee, O mountaines, the Lordes quarrell, and ye mightie foundations of the earth: for the Lord hath a quarrell against his people, and he will plead with Israel.
3 O my people, what haue I done vnto thee? or wherein haue I grieued thee? testifie against me.
4 Surely I b brought thee vp out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed thee out of the house of seruants, and I haue sent before thee Moses, Aaron, and Miriam.
5 O my people, remember nowe what Balak king of Moab had deuised, and what Balaam the sonne of Beor answered him, from c Shittim vnto Gilgal, that yee may know the d righteousnes of the Lord.
6 e Wherewith e shall I come before the Lord, and bowe my selfe before the hie God? Shall I come before him with burnt offerings, and with calues of a yeere old?
7 Will the Lord bee pleased with thousands of rammes, or with ten thousand riuers of oyle? shall I giue my f first borne for my transgression, euen the fruite of my body for the sinne of my soule?
8 He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good, and what the Lord requireth of thee: surely to doe iustly, and to loue mercie, and to humble thy selfe, to walke with thy God.
9 The Lords voyce crieth vnto the g citie, and the man of wisedome shall see thy name: heare the rod, and who hath appointed it.
10 Are yet the treasures of wickednesse in the house of the wicked, and the scant measure that is abominable?
11 Shall I iustifie the wicked balances, and the bag of deceitfull weights?
12 For the rich men h thereof are full of crueltie, and the inhabitants thereof haue spoken lies, and their tongue is deceitfull in their mouth.
13 Therefore also will I make thee sicke in smiting thee, and in making thee desolate, because of thy sinnes.
14 Thou shalt eate and yet bee satisfied, and i thy casting downe shall be in the midst of thee, and thou shalt take holde, but shalt not deliuer: and that which thou deliuerest, will I giue vp to the sword.
15 Thou shalt sowe, but not reape: thou shalt tread the olives, but thou shalt not annoynt thee with oyle: and make sweete wine, but shalt not drinke wine.
16 For the k statutes of Omri are kept, b I haue not hurt thee, but bestowed infinite benefits vpon thee.

c That is, remember my benefits from the beginning how I deliuered you from Balaams curse, and also spared you from Shittim, which was in the plaine of Moab, till I brought you into the land promised.
d That is, the truethe of his promise, and his manifold benefits toward you.
e Thus the people by hypocrisie aske how to please God, and are content to offer sacrifices, but will not change their liues.
f There is no thing so deare to man, but the hypocrites will offer it vnto God, if they thinke thereby to auoid his anger: but they will neuer be brought to mortifie their owne affections, & to giue themselues willingly to serue God as he commandeth.
g The Prophet in few wordes calleth them to the obseruation of the second table, to know if they will obey God aright or no, saying, that God hath prescribed them to doe this.
h Meaning, that when God speaketh to any city or nation, the godly will acknowledge his Maiestie, & consider not the mortall man that breaketh the threatning, but God that sendeth it.
i That is, of Ierusalem.
k Thou shall be consumed with inward griefe and exile.
l Meaning that the citie should goe about to saue her men, as they that lay hold on that which they would preserue.
m You haue received all the corruption and idolatry, wherewith the ten tribes were infected vnder Omri and Ahab his sonne: and to excuse your doings, you alledge the kings authority by his statutes, & also wisedome and policie in so doing, but you shall not escape punishment, but as I haue shewed you great fauour, and taken you for my people, so shall your plagues be accordingly, Luke. 12. 47.

CHAP. VI.

An exhortation to the dum creatures to heare the iudgement against Israel being vnkind. 6 What maner of sacrifices doe please God.

HEarken ye now what the Lord saith, Arise thou, and contend before the a mountaines, and let the hils heare thy voyce.

a He taketh the high mountaines and hard rockes to witnesse against the obstinacie of his people.

and all the manner of the house of Ahab, and yee walke in their counsels, that I should make thee waste, and the inhabitants thereof an hissing: therefore ye shall beare the reproch of my people.

CHAP. VII.

1 A complaint for the small number of the righteous. 4 The wickednesse of those times. 14 The prosperitie of the Church.

WOe is me, for I am as a the Summer gatherings, and as the grapes of the vintage: there is no cluster to eate: my soule desired the first ripe fruits.

2 The good man is perished out of the earth, and there is none righteous among men: b they all lie in waite for blood: every man hunteth his brother with a net.

3 To make good for the euill of their hands, the prince asked, and the Iudge iudgeth for a reward: therefore the c great man speaketh out the corruption of his soule: so d they wrap it vp.

4 The best of them is as a brier, and the most righteous of them is sharper then a thorne hedge: the day of e thy watchmen and thy visitation commeth: then shall bee their confusion.

5 Trust ye not in a friend, neither put ye confidence in a counseller: keepe the doores of thy mouth from her that lieth in thy bosome.

6 For the sonne reuileth the father: the daughter riseth vp against her mother: the daughter in law against her mother in law, and a mans enemies are the men of his own house.

7 Therefore f I will looke vnto the Lord: I will wait for God my Sauiour: my God will heare me.

8 Reioice not against me, g O mine enemie: though I fall, I shall arise: when I shall sit in darkenesse, the Lord shalbe a light vnto me.

9 I will beare the wrath of the Lord, because I haue sinned against him, vntill he plead my cause, and execute iudgement for me: then will he bring me forth to the light, and I shall see his righteousnesse.

10 Then her that is mine enemie, shall a The Prophet taketh vpon him the person of the earth, which complaineth that all her fruits are gone, so that none is left: that is, that there is no godly man remaining: for all are giuen to crueltie and deceit, so that none spareth his owne brother.

b He sheweth that the Prince, the iudge, and the rich man are linked together, all to doe euill and to cloke the doings one of another.

c That is, the rich man that is able to giue money, abstaineth from no wickednesse, nor iniurie.

d These men agree among themselues, and conspire with one consent to doe euill.

e They that are of most estimation, & are counted most honest among them, are the Prophets and gouernours.

f The Prophet sheweth that the only remedy for the godly in desperate euils, is to flee vnto God for succour.

g This is spoken in the person of the Church, which calleth the malignant Church her enemie.

looke vpon it, and shame shall couer her, which sayd vnto me, Where is the Lord thy God? mine eyes shall behold her: now shall thee bee troden downe as the mire of the streetes.

11 This is h the day that thy walles shalbe built: this day shall driue farre away i the decree.

12 In this day also they shall come vnto thee from k Ashur, and from the strong cities, and from the strong holds euen vnto the riuer, and from sea to sea, and from mountaine to mountaine.

13 Notwithstanding, the land shalbe desolate because of them that dwell therin, and for the fruits of l their inuentions.

14 m Feed thy people with thy rodde, the flocke of thine heritage (which dwell solitarie in the wood) as in the mids of Carmel: let them feede in Bashan and Gilead, as in olde time.

15 n According to the dayes of thy comming out of the land of Egypt will I shewe vnto him marueilous things.

16 The nations shall see, and be confounded for all their power: they shall o lay their hand vpon their mouth: p their eares shall be deafe.

17 They shall q licke the dust like a serpent: they shall moue out of their holes like wormes: they shalbe afraid of the Lord our God, and shall feare because of thee.

18 Who is a God like vnto thee, that taketh away iniquitie, and r passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage? he retaineth not his wrath for euer, because mercy pleaseth him.

19 Hee will turne againe, and haue compassion vpon vs: hee will subdue our iniquities, and cast all s their sinnes into the bottome of the sea.

20 Thou wilt performe thy t trueth to Iaakob, and mercy to Abraham, as thou hast sworne vnto our fathers in old time.

h To wit, when God shall shew himselfe a deliuerer of his Church, and a destroyer of his enemies.

i Meaning the cruell empire of the Babylonians.

k When the Church shalbe restored, they that were enemies afore, shall come out of all the corners of the world vnto her, so that neither holds, riuers, seas, nor mountaines shall be able to let them.

l Afore this grace appeare, he sheweth how grieuously the hypocrites themselues shall be punished, seeing that the earth it selfe, which can not sinne, shalbe made waste because of their wickednesse.

m The Prophet prayeth to God to be mercifull vnto his Church, when they should be scattered abroad as in solitary places in Babylon, and to be beneficiall vnto them, as in time past.

n God promiseth to be fauourable to his people, as he had bene aforetime.

o They shall be as dumme men, and dare brag no more.

p They shalbe astonished and afraid to heare men speake, lest they should heare of their destruction.

q They shall fall flat on the ground for feare.

r As though he would not see it, but winke at it.

s Meaning of his elect.

t The Church is assured that God will declare in effect the trueth of his mercifull promise, which he had made of old to Abraham, and to all that should apprehend the promise by faith.

Nahum.

THE ARGVMENT.

As they of Nineueh shewed themselues prompt and ready to receiue the word of God at Ionahs preaching, and so turned to the Lord by repentance: so after a certaine time rather giuing themselues to worldly meanes to increase their dominion, then seeking to continue in the feare of God, and trade wherein they had begun, they cast off the care of Religion, & so returned to their vomite, and prouoked Gods iust iudgement against them in afflicting his people. Therefore their citie Nineueh was destroyed, and Meroch-baladan King of Babel (or as some thinke Nebuchad-nezzar) enioyned the Empire of the Assyrians. But because God hath a continuall care of his Church, he stirreth vp his Prophet to comfort the godly, shewing the destruction of their enemies should be for their consolation. And as it seemeth he prophecied about the time of Hezekiah, and not in the time of Manasseh his sonne, as the Iewes write.

CHAP.

CHAP. I.

Of the destruction of the Assyrians, and of the deliuerance of Israel.

THE [a] burden of Nineueh. [b] The booke of the vision of Nahum the [c] Elkeshite.

2 God is [d] iealous, and the LORD reuengeth: the LORD reuengeth: euen the LORD [e] of anger, the LORD will take vengeance on his aduersaries, and he reserueth wrath for his enemies.

3 The [f] LORD is slow to anger, but hee is great in power, and will not surely cleare the wicked: the LORDE hath his way in the whirlewinde, and in the storme, and the cloudes are the dust of his feete.

4 He rebuketh the sea, and driueth it, and hee driueth vp all the riuers: Bashan is wasted and Carmel, and the floure of Lebanon is wasted.

5 The mountaines tremble for him, and the hilles melt, and the earth is burnt at his sight, yea, the worlde and all that dwell therein.

6 [g] Who can stand before his wrath? or who can abide in the fiercenesse of his wrath? his wrath is powred out like fire, and the rockes are broken by him.

7 The LORDE is good, [h] and as a strong holde in the day of trouble, and he knoweth them that trust in him.

8 But passing ouer as with a flood, hee will vtterly destroy the [i] place thereof, and darkenesse shall pursue his enemies.

9 What doe ye [k] imagine against the LORD? he will make an vtter destruction: affliction shall not rise vp the second time.

10 For he shall come as vnto [l] thornes folden one in another, and as vnto drunkards in their drunkennesse: they shalbe deuoured as stubble fully dried.

11 There [m] commeth one out of thee that imagineth euil against the LORD, euen a wicked counsellour.

12 Thus sayeth the LORD, Though they be [n] quiet, and also many, yet thus shall they be cut off when hee shall passe by: though I haue afflicted thee, I will afflict thee no more.

13 For now I will breake his yoke from thee, and will burst thy bonds in sunder.

14 And the LORD hath giuen a commandement concerning thee, that no more of thy name be [o] sowen: out of the house of thy gods will I cut off the grauen and the molten image: I wil make it thy graue for thee, for thou art vile.

15 [p] Beholde vpon the mountaines the feete of him that declareth and publisheth peace: O Iudah, keepe thy solemne feasts, performe thy vowes: for the wicked shall no more passe through thee: he is vtterly cut off.

a Reade Isa. 13.1.

b The vision or reuelation, which God commanded Nahum to write concerning the Ninenites.

c That is, borne in a poore village in the tribe of Simeon.

d Meaning, of his glory.

e With his he is but angry for a time, but his anger neuer aswageth toward the reprobate, though for a time he deferre it.

f Thus the wicked would make Gods mercie an occasion to sinne, but the Prophet willeth them to consider his force and iustice.

g If all creatures bee at Gods commandement, and none is able to resist his wrath, shall man flatter himselfe and thinke by any meanes to escape when he prouoketh his God to anger?

h Lest the faith. full should be discouraged by hearing the power of God, hee sheweth them that his mercies appertaine vnto them, and that hee hath care ouer them.

i Signifying, that God will suddenly destroy Nineueh, and the Assyrians, in such sort, as they shall lie in perpetuall darkenesse, and neuer recouer their strength againe.

k He sheweth that the enterprises of the Assyrians against Iudah & the Church, were against God, and therefore he would so destroy them at once, that hee should not neede to returne the second time.

l Though the Assyrians thinke themselues like thornes that pricke on all sides, yet the Lord wil set fire on them, and as drunken men are not able to stand against any force, so they shalbe nothing able to resist him.

m Which may bee vnderstoode either of Sancherib, or of the whole body of the people of Nineueh.

n Though they thinke themselues in most safetie, and of greatest strength, yet when God shall passe by, hee will destroy them: notwithstanding hee comforteth his Church, and promiseth to make an end of punishing them by the Assyrians.

o Meaning, Sancherib, who should haue no moe children, but be slaine in the house of his gods, 2. King. 19.36,37. Isa. 52.7. Rom. 10 15.

p Which peace the Iewes should enioy by the death of Sancherib.

CHAP. II.

He describeth the victories of the Caldeans against the Assyrians.

THE [a] Destroyer is come before thy face: keepe the munition: looke to the way: make thy loines strong: increase thy strength mightily.

2 For the LORD hath [b] turned away the glory of Iaakob, as the glory of Israel: for the empticrs haue empted them out, and [c] marred their vine branches.

3 The shield of his mightie men is made red: [d] the valiant men are in scarlet: the charets shall bee as in the fire and flames in the day of his preparation, and [e] the firre trees shall tremble.

4 The charets shall rage in the streetes; they shall runne to and fro in the bie wayes: they shall seeme like lampes: they shall shoot like the lightning.

5 [f] He shall remember his strong men; they shall stumble as they goe: they shall make haste to the walles thereof, and the defence shalbe prepared.

6 The gates of the riuers shalbe opened, and the palace shall melt.

7 And Huzzab the Queene shall be led away captiue, and her maides shal lead her as with the voice of doues smiting vpon their breasts.

8 But Nineueh is [g] of olde like a poole of water: yet they shall flee away. Stand, stand, shall they crie: but none shall looke backe.

9 [h] Spoyle ye the siluer, spoyle the golde: for there is none ende of the store, and glory of all the pleasant vessels.

10 [i] She is emptie and voide, and waste, and the heart melteth, and the knees smite together, and sorow is in all loynes, and the faces [k] of them all gather blackenesse.

11 Where is the [l] dwelling of the lyons, and the pasture of the lyons whelpes? where the lyon and the lyonesse walked, and the lyons whelpe, and none made them afraid.

12 The lyon did teare in pieces ynough for his whelpes, and worried for his lyonesse, and filled his holes with praye, and his dennes with spoile.

a That is, Nebuchad-nezzar is in a readinesse to destroy the Assyrians: and the Prophet derideth the enterprises of the Assyrians, which prepared to resist him.

b Seeing God hath punished his owne people Iudah and Israel, he will now punish the enemies by whom hee scourged them: reade Isa. 10.12.

c Signifying, that the Israelites were vtterly destroyed.

d Both to feare the enemie, and also that they themselues should not so soone espie blood one of another to discourage them.

e Meaning, their speares should shake and crash together.

f Then the Assyrians shall seeke by all meanes to gather their power, but all things shall faile them.

g The Assyrians wil flatter themselues and say that Nineueh is so ancient that it can neuer perish, and is as a fish-poole, whose waters they that walke on the bankes cannot touch: but they shalbe scattered, and shall not looke backe though men would call them.

h God commandeth the enemies to spoile Nineueh, and promiseth them infinite riches and treasures.

i That is, Nineueh and the men thereof shall be after this sort.

k Reade Ioel 2.6.

l Meaning Nineueh, whose inhabitants were cruel like lions, and giuen to all oppression, and spared no violence or tyrannie to prouide for their wiues and children.

13 Behold,

m That is, as soone as my wrath beginneth to kindle.

n Signifying the heralds, which were accustomed to proclaime warre. Some reade, of thy gumme teeth, wherewith Nineueh was wont to bruise the bones of the poore.

13 Beholde, I come vnto thee, sayth the Lord of hosts, and I will burne her charets m the smoke, and the swoorde shall deuoure thy yong lyons, and I will cut off thy spoile from the earth, and the voice of thy messengers shall no more be heard.

CHAP. III.

1 Of the fal of Nineueh. 8 No power can escape the hand of God.

O Bloodie citie, it is all full of lies, and robberie: a the praye departeth not:

2 The noise of a whip, b and the noise of the mouing of the wheeles, and the beating of the horses and the leaping of the charets.

3 The horseman lifteth vp both the bright sword, and the glittering speare, and a multitude is slaine, and the dead bodies are many: there is none end of their corpses: they stumble vpon their corpses,

4 Because of the multitude of the fornications of the c harlot that is beautifull, and is a mistresse of witchcraft, and selleth the people through her whoredome, and the nations through her witchcrafts.

5 Beholde, I come vpon thee, sayth the Lorde of hostes, and will discouer thy skirts vpon thy face, and will shew the nations thy filthinesse, and the kingdomes thy shame.

6 And I wil cast filth vpon thee, & make thee vile, and wil set thee as a gasing stocke.

7 And it shall come to passe, that all they that looke vpon thee, shall flee from thee, and say, Nineueh is destroyed, who will haue pitie vpon her? where shall I seeke comforters for thee?

8 Art thou better then d No, which was full of people, that lay in the riuers, and had the waters round about it, whose ditch was the sea, and her wall was from the sea?

9 Ethiopia and Egypt were her strength, and there was none ende: Put and Lubim were y her helpers.

10 Yet was shee caried away, and went into captiuitie: her yong children also were dashed in pieces at the head of all y streetes: and they cast lots for her noble men, and all her mightie men were bound in chaines.

11 Also thou shalt be drunken: thou shalt hide thy selfe, and shalt seeke helpe, because of the enemie.

12 All thy strong cities shall be like figge trees with the first ripe figges: for if they be shaken, they fall into the mouth of the eater.

13 Beholde, thy people within thee are women: the gates of thy land shalbe opened vnto thine enemies, and the fire shall deuoure thy barres.

14 Drawe thee waters for the siege: fortifie thy strong holdes: goe into the clay, and temper the morter: make strong bricke.

15 There shall the fire deuoure thee: the sword shall cut thee off: it shall eate thee vp like the e locusts, though thou be multiplied like the locusts, and multiplied like the grashopper.

16 Thou hast multiplied thy merchants aboue the starres of heauen: the locust spoileth and flieth away.

17 Thy princes are as the grashoppers, and thy captaines as the great grashoppers which remaine in the hedges in the colde day: but when the sunne ariseth, they flee away, and their place is not knowen where they are.

18 Thy f shepheards doe sleepe, O king of Assur: thy strong men lie downe: thy people is scattered vpon the mountains, and no man gathereth them.

19 There is no healing of thy wound: thy plague is grieuous: all that heare the bruit of thee shall clap the hands ouer thee: for vpon g whom hath not thy malice passed continually?

[Or, thine.

e Signifying that Gods iudgments should suddenly destroy the Assyrians, as these vermine are with raine or change of weather.

f Thy princes and counsellers.

g Meaning, that there was no people to whom the Assyrians had not done hurt.

Habakkuk.

THE ARGVMENT.

THe Prophet complaineth vnto God, considering the great felicity of the wicked, & the miserable oppression of the godly, which endure all kind of affliction & cruelty, & yet can see none end. Therefore he had this reuelation shewed him of God, that the Caldeans should come and take them away captiues, so that they could looke for none end of their troubles as yet, because of their stubburnnesse and rebellion against the Lord. And lest the godly should despaire, seeing this horrible confusion, he comforteteth them by this, that God will punish the Caldeans their enemies, when their pride & cruelty shalbe at height: wherefore he exhorteth the faithfull to patience by his owne example, and sheweth them a forme of prayer, wherewith they should comfort themselues.

CHAP. I.

1 A complaint against the wicked that persecute the iust.

a The Prophet complaineth vnto God, and bewaileth that among the Iewes is left none equitie nor brotherly loue: but in stead hereof reigneth cruelty, theft, contention & strife.

THe burden which Habakkuk the Prophet did see.

2 O Lord, how long shal I a cry, and thou wilt not heare! euen cry out vnto thee for violence, and thou wilt not helpe!

3 Why doest thou shew me iniquity, and cause me to beholde sorow? for spoiling, and violence are before mee: and there are that raise vp strife and contention.

4 Therefore the Lawe is dissolued, and iudgement doth neuer go forth: for the wicked doeth b compasse about the righteous: therefore c wrong iudgement proceedeth.

b To suppresse him if any should shew himselfe zealous of Gods cause.

5 Beholde among the heathen, and regard, and wonder, and maruelle: for I will worke a worke in your dayes: d yet will not beleeue it, though it be told you.

c Because the iudges which should redresse this excesse, are as euill as the rest.

6 For loe, I raise vp the Caldeans, that bitter and furious nation, which shall goe vpon the breadth of the land to possesse the dwelling places, that are not theirs.

d As in times past you would not beleeue Gods word, so shall ye not now beleeue the strange plagues which are at hand.

7 They

e They themselues shalbe your Iudges in this cause and none shal haue authority ouer them, to controll them. Zeph. 3 3 f For the Iewes most feared this winde, because it destroyed their fruits.

g They shal be so many in number.

h They shall cast vp mounts against it.

i The Prophet comforteth the faithful that God will also destroy the Babylonians, because they shal abuse this victory & become proud and insolent, attributing the praise hereof to their idoles.

k He assureth the godly of Gods protectiō, shewing that the enemie can doe no more then God hath appointed, & also that their sinnes required such a sharpe rod

7 They are terrible and fearefull: e their iudgement and their dignitie shall proceede of themselues.

8 Their horses also are swifter then the leopards, & are more fierce then the wolues in the e euening: and their horsemen are many: and their horsemen shall come from far: they shall flie as the eagle hasting to meate.

9 They come all to spoile: before their face shall bee an f East winde, and they shall gather the captiuitie s as the sand.

10 And they shall mocke the kings, and the princes shall be a scorne vnto them: they shall deride euery strong hold: for they shall gather h dust, and take it.

11 Then shall they i take a courage, and transgresse and doe wickedly, imputing this their power vnto their god.

12 Art not thou of olde, O Lord my God, mine holy one? we shall k not die: O Lord, thou hast ordeined them for iudgement, & O God, thou hast established the for correction

13 Thou art of pure eies, & canst not see euil: thou canst not behold wickednes: wherefore doest thou looke vpon the transgressors, and holdest thy tongue, when the wicked deuoureth ỳ man that is more righteous then he?

14 And makest men as the l fishes of the sea, and as the creeping things that haue no ruler ouer them?

15 They take vp all with the angle: they catch it in their net, and gather it in their yarne, wherefore they reioyce and are glad.

16 Therefore they sacrifice vnto their m net, and burne incense vnto their yarne, because by them their portiō is fat, and their meate plenteous.

17 Shal they therfore stretch out their net & not spare continually to slay n the nations?

l So that the great deuoureth the small, & the Caldeans destroy all the world. m Meaning, that ỳ enemies flatter themselues, & glory in their own force, power, & wit. n Meaning, that they should not, a Vision 5 against pride, couetousnesse, drunkennesse, and idolatrie.

CHAP. II.

a I will renounce mine own iudgment, and onely depend on God to be instructed what I shall answere them that abuse my preaching, and to be armed against all tentations.

b Write it in great letters that he that runneth, may reade it c Which conteined the destruction of the enemie, and the comfort of the Church: which thing though God execute not according to mans hastie affections, yet the issue of both is certaine at his time appointed d To trust in himselfe or in any worldly thing, is neuer to be quiet: for the onely rest is to stay vpon God by faith, Rom. 1 17: gal. 3. 11. heb. 10. 38.

e Hee compareth the proud and couetous man to a drunkard that is without reason and sense, whom God will punish, and make him a laughing stocke to all the world: and this he speaketh for the comfort of the godly, and against the Caldeans,

I Will stand vpon my a watch, and set me vpon the towre, and will looke & see what he would say vnto me, and what I shall answere to him that rebuketh me.

2 And the Lord answered me, and sayd, Write the vision, and make it plaine vpon tables, that he may runne b that readeth it.

3 For the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the c last it shall speake, and not lie: though it tarry, wait: for it shall surely come, and shall not stay.

4 Behold, d hee that lifteth vp himselfe, his mind is not vpright in him, but the iust shall liue by his faith,

5 Yea, in deede the proud man is as e hee that transgresseth by wine: therefore shall he not endure, because he hath enlarged his desire as the hell, and is as death, and cannot be satisfied, but gathereth vnto him all nations, and heapeth vnto him all people.

6 Shall not all these take vp a parable against him, & a taunting prouerbe against him, and say, Wo, hee that increaseth that which is not his? howe long? and hee that laden himselfe with thicke clay?

7 Shall s they not rise vp suddenly, that shall bite thee? and awake, that shall vexe thee? and thou shalt be their pray?

8 Because thou hast spoiled many nations, all the remnant of the people shall spoile thee, because of mens blood, and for the wrong done in the land, in the citie, and vnto all that dwell therein.

9 Wo, he that coueteth an euill couetousnesse to his house, that he may set his nest on hie, to escape from the power of euill.

10 Thou h hast consulted shame to thine owne house, by destroying many people, and hast sinned against thine owne soule.

11 For the i stone shall cry out of the wal, and the beame out of the timber shall answere it.

12 Woe vnto him that buildeth a towne with blood, and erecteth a citie by iniquitie.

13 Behold, is it not of the k Lord of hosts, that the people shall labour in the very fire? the people shall euen wearie themselues for very vanity.

14 For the earth shall bee l filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters couer the sea.

15 Woe vnto him that giueth his neighbour m drinke: thou powrest thine heate, and makest him drunken also, that thou mayest see their priuities.

16 Thou art filled with shame n for glorie: drinke thou also, and be made naked: the cup of the Lords right hand shall be turned vnto thee, and shamefull spuing shall bee for thy glory.

17 For the o cruelty of Lebanon shall couer thee: so shall the spoile of the beastes, which made them afraide, because of mens blood, and for the wrong done in the land, in the citie, and vnto all that dwell therein.

18 What profiteth the p image? for the maker thereof hath made it an image, and a teacher of lyes, though he that made it, trust therein, when he maketh dumbe idoles.

19 Woe vnto him that saith to the wood, Awake, and to the dumbe stone, Rise vp, it shall teach thee: q beholde, it is layde eth thus the king of Babylon, who as he was drunken with couetousnesse and cruelty, so hee prouoked others to the same, and inflamed them by his rage, and so in the end brought them to shame.

n Whereas thou thoughtest to haue glory of these thy doings, they shal turne to thy shame: for thou shalt drinke of the same cup with others in thy turne. o Because the Babylonians were cruell, not onely against other nations, but also against the people of God, which is meant by Lebanon, and the beastes therein, hee sheweth that the like cruelty shall be executed against them. p Hee sheweth that the Babylonians gods could nothing auaile them: for they were but blockes and stones, reade Ieremiah 10.8. q If thou wilt consider what it is, and how that it hath neither breath nor life, but is a dead thing.

f Signifying, that al the world shal wish the destruction of tyrants, and that by their oppression & couetousnesse, they heape but vpon themselues more heauy burdens: for ỳ more they get, the more are they troubled.

g That is, the Medes and Persians, that should destroy the Babylonians?

h Signifying, that the couetousman is the ruine of his owne house, when as hee thinketh to enrich it by cruelty and oppression, i The stones of the house shall cry, and say that they are built of blood, and the wood shall answere & say the same of it selfe.

k Meaning, that God will not deferre his vengeance long, but will come and destroy all their labors, as though they were consumed with fire.

l To the destruction of the Babylonians his glory shall appeare thorow all the world.

m He reproch-ouer with golde and siluer, and there is no breath in it.

20 But the Lord is in his holy Temple: let all the earth keepe silence before him.

CHAP. III.

2 A prayer for the faithfull.

A Prayer of Habakkuk the Prophet for the [a] ignorances.

2 [b] O Lord, I haue heard thy voyce, and was afrayd: O Lord, reuiue thy [c] worke in the middes of the people, in the middes of the yeeres make it knowen: in wrath remember mercie.

3 God commeth from [d] Teman, and the holy one from mount Paran, Selah. his glory couereth the heauens, and the earth is full of his praple,

4 And his brightnesse was as the light: [e] he had hornes comming out of his handes, and there was the hiding of his power.

5 Before him went the pestilence, and burning coles went forth before his feete.

6 He stood and measured the earth: hee beheld and dissolued the nations, and the euerlasting mountaines were broken, and the ancient hilles did bow: his [f] wayes are euerlasting.

7 [g] For his iniquitie I saw the tents of Cushan, and the curtaines of the land of Midian did tremble.

8 Was the Lord angry against the [h] riuers? or was thine anger against the floods? or was thy wrath against the sea, that thou diddest ride [i] vpon thine horses? thy charets brought saluation.

9 Thy [k] bowe was manifestly reuelled, and the [l] othes of the tribes were a sure word, Selah, thou [m] diddest cleaue the earth with riuers.

10 The mountaines sawe thee, and they trembled: the streame of the water [n] passed by: the deepe made a noise, and lift vp his hand on high.

11 The [o] Sunne and Moone stood still in their habitation: [p] at the light of thine arrowes they went, and at the bright shining of thy speares.

12 Thou trodest downe the lande in anger, and diddest thresh the heathen in displeasure.

13 Thou wentest forth for the saluation of thy people, euen for saluation with thine [q] Annointed: thou hast wounded the head of the house of the wicked, and discouredst the foundation vnto the [r] necke, Selah.

14 Thou diddest [s] strike thorow with his owne staues the heads of his villages: they came out as a whirlewinde to scatter mee: their reioycing was as to deuoure the poore secretly.

15 Thou diddest walke in the sea with thine horses vppon the heape of great waters.

16 When I [t] heard, my belly trembled: my lippes shooke at the voice: rottennesse entred into my bones, and I trembled in my selfe, that I might rest in [u] the day of trouble: for when he commeth vp [x] vnto the people, he shall destroy them.

17 For the figge tree shall not flourish, neither shall fruit be in the vines: the labour of the Oliue shall faile, and the fields shall yeeld no meate: the sheepe shalbe cut off from the fold, and there shall be no bullocke in the stalles.

18 But I will reioyce in the Lord: I will ioy [y] in the God of my saluation.

19 The Lord God is my strength: he will make my feete like hindes feete, and hee will make mee to walke vpon mine high places.

[z] To the chiefe singer on Neginothai.

a The Prophet instructeth his people to pray vnto God not onely for their great sinnes, but also for such as they had committed of ignorance.

b Thus the people were afraid when they heard Gods threatnings, & prayed.

c That is, the state of thy Church which is now readie to perish, before it come to halfe a perfect age, which should be vnder Christ.

d Teman and Paran were neere Sinai where the Law was giuen: whereby is signified that his deliuerance was as present now as it was then. e Whereby is meant a power that was ioyned with his brightnesse, which was hid to the rest of the world: but was reuealed in mount Sinai to his people, Psal. 31.16. f Signifying that God hath wonderful meanes, & euer had a marueilous power when he would deliuer his Church. g The iniquitie of this king of Syria in vexing thy people, was made manifest by thy iudgement, to the comfort of thy Church, Iudg 3.10. and also of the Midianites, which destroyed themselues, Iudg 7.22. h Meaning, that God was not angry with the waters, but that by this meanes he would destroy his enemies, and deliuer his Church i And so didst vse all the elements as instruments for the destruction of thine enemies. k That is, thy power. l For hee had not onely made a couenant with Abraham, but renued it with his posteritie.

m Reade Num. 20.11.

n He alludeth to the red sea and Iorden, which gaue passe to Gods people, and shewed signes of their obedience, as it were by lifting vp of their hands.

o As appeareth, Iosh. 10.12.

p According to thy commandement the sunne was directed by the weapons of thy people, that fought in thy cause, as though it durst not goe forward.

q Signifying that there is no saluation but by Christ.

r From the top to the toe thou hast destroyed the enemies.

s God destroyed his enemies both great and small with their owne weapons, though they were neuer so fierce against his Church.

t He returneth to that which he spake in the second verse, and sheweth how he was afraid of Gods iudments. u Hee sheweth that the faithfull can neuer haue true rest, except they feele before the weight of Gods iudgements. x That is, the enemie: but the godly shall be quiet, knowing that all things shall turne to good vnto them. y Hee declareth wherein standeth the comfort & ioy of the faithfull, though they see neuer so great afflictions prepared. z The chiefe singer vpon the instruments of musicke shall haue occasion to prayse God for this great deliuerance of his Church.

THE ARGVMENT.

SEeing the great rebellion of the people, and that there was nowe no hope of amendment, he denounceth the great iudgement of God which was at hand, shewing that their countrey should be vtterly destroyed, and they carried away captiues by the Babylonians. Yet for the comfort of the faithfull, he propheſied of Gods vengeance against their enemies, as the Philistims, Moabites, Assyrians and others, to assure them that God had a continuall care ouer them. And as the wicked should be punished for their sinnes and transgressions: so he exhorteth the godly to patience, and to trust to find mercy by reason of the free promise of God made vnto Abraham: and therefore quietly to abide till God shew them the effect of that grace, whereby in the end they should bee gathered vnto him, and counted as his people and children.

4 Threatnings against Iudah and Ierusalem, because of their idolatry.

THe worde of the Lorde which came vnto Zephaniah the sonne of Cushi, the sonne of Gedaliah, the sonne of Amariah, the sonne of Hizkiah, in the dayes of [a] Iosiah, the sonne of [a] Amon king of Iudah.

2 I will surely destroy all things from off the land, saith the Lord.

3 I will destroy man and beast: I will destroy the [a] fowles of the heauen, and the fishes of the sea, and rutnes shalbe to the wicked, and I will cut off man from off the land, saith the Lord.

4 I will also stretch out mine hand vpon Iudah, and vpon all the inhabitants of Ierusalem, and I will cut of the remnant of Baal from this place, and the name of the [b] Chemarims with the Priests,

5 And them that worship the hoste of heauen vpon the house tops, and them that worship and sweare by the Lord, and sweare by [c] Malcham,

6 And them that are turned backe from the Lord, and those that haue not sought the Lord, nor inquired for him.

7 Bee still at the presence of the Lorde God: for the day of the Lord is at hand: for the Lord hath prepared a sacrifice, and hath sanctified his ghests.

8 And it shall be in the day of the Lords sacrifice, that I will visite the Princes and the kings children, and all such as are clothed with [d] strange apparell.

9 In the same day also will I visite all those that [e] dannce vpon the threshold so proudly, which fill their masters houses by cruelty and deceit.

10 And in that day, saith the Lord, there shall be a noyse, and cry from the [f] fish gate, and an howling from the second gate, and a great destruction from the hilles.

11 Howle yee inhabitants of [g] the lowe place: for the company of the merchants is destroyed: all they that beare siluer, are cut off.

12 And at that time will I search Ierusalem with [h] lights, and visite the men that are frosen in their dregs, and lay in their hearts, The Lord will neither doe good nor euill.

13 Therefore their goods shalbe spoyled, and their houses waste: [i] they shall also build houses, but not inhabite them, and they shall plant vineyards, but not drinke the wine thereof.

14 The great day of the Lord is neere: it is neere and hasteth greatly, euen the voyce of the day of the Lord: [k] the strong man shall cry there bitterly.

15 [*] That day is the day of wrath, a day of trouble and heauinesse, a day of destruction and desolation, a day of obscuritie and darkenesse, a day of cloudes and blacknesse, 16 A day of the trumpet and alarme against the strong cities, and against the hie towers.

17 And I will bring distresse vpon men, that they shall walke like blind men, because they haue sinned against the Lord, and their blood shall be powred out as dust, and their flesh as the dung.

18 [] Neither their siluer nor their golde shalbe able to deliuer them in the day of the Lords wrath, but the [] whole land shall bee deuoured by the fire of his iealousie: for hee shal make euen a speedy riddance of all them that dwell in the land.

CHAP. II.

He moueth to returne to God, 5 prophesying destruction against the Philistims, Moabites, and others.

GAther [a] your selues, euen gather you, O nation not worthy to be loued,

2 Before the decree come forth, and ye be as chaffe that passeth in a day, and before the fierce wrath of the Lord come vpon you, and before the day of the Lords anger come vpon you.

3 Seeke ye the Lord all the meeke of the earth, which haue [b] wrought his iudgement: seeke righteousnesse, seeke lowlinesse, if so be that yee may be hid in the day of the Lords wrath.

4 For [c] Azzah shalbe forsaken, and Ashkelon desolate: they shall driue out Ashdod at the noone day, and Ekron shall be rooted vp.

5 Woe vnto the inhabitants of the sea [d] coast: the nation of the Cherethims, the word of the Lord is against you, O Canaan, the land of the Philistims, I will euen destroy thee without an inhabitant.

6 And the sea coast shalbe dwellings, and cottages for the heards and sheepefolds.

7 And the coast shall bee for the [e] remnant of the house of Iudah, to feede thereupon: in the houses of Ashkelon shall they lodge toward night: for the Lord their God shall visite them, and turne away their captiuitie.

8 I haue heard the reproch of Moab, and the rebukes of the children of Ammon, whereby they vpbraided my people, and [f] magnified themselues against their borders.

THE ARGVMENT.

AM 3408 542 before Chr.

WHen the time of the seuentie yeres captiuitie, prophesied by Ieremiah, was expired, God raised vp Haggai, Zechariah, and Malachi to comfort the Iewes, and to exhort them to the building of the Temple, which was a figure of the spiritual Temple and Church of God, whose perfection and excellencie stood in Christ. And because that all were giuen to their own pleasures and commodities, he declareth that that plague of famine, which God sent then among them, was a iust reward of their ingratitude, in that they contemned Gods honour, who had deliuered them. Yet hee comforteth them, if they wil returne to the Lord, with the promise of greater felicitie, forasmuch as the Lord will finish the worke that he hath begun, and send Christ whom hee hath promised, and by whom they should attaine to perfit ioy and glory.

CHAP. I.

1 The time of the prophesie of Haggai. 8 An exhortation to build the Temple againe.

IN the seconde yeere of King a Darius, in the first moneth, the first day of the moneth, came the word of the LORD (by the ministerie of the Prophet Haggai) vnto b Zerubbabel the sonne of Shealtiel, a prince of Iudah, and to Iehoshua the sonne of Iehozadak, the hie Priest, saying,

2 Thus speaketh the Lord of hostes, saying, This people say, The time is not yet come, c that the LORDes house should bee builded.

3 Then came the word of the Lord by the ministerie of the Prophet Haggai, saying,

4 Is it time for you selues to dwell in your d sieled houses, & this house lie waste?

5 Now therefore thus saith the Lord of hostes, Consider your owne wayes in your hearts.

6 e Yee haue sowen much, and bring in little: yee eate, but yee haue not enough: yee drinke, but yee are not filled: yee clothe you, but yee are not warme: and hee that earneth wages, putteth the wages into a broken bag.

7 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Consider your owne wayes in your hearts.

8 Goe f vp to the mountaine, and bring wood, and build this house, and I will bee fauourable in it, and I will g bee glorified, saith the Lord.

9 Yee looked for much, and lo, it came to little: and when ye brought it home, I did blowe h vpon it. And why, saith the Lord of hostes? because of mine house that is waste, and yee runne euery man vnto his owne house.

10 Therefore the heauen ouer you stayed it selfe from dewe, and the earth stayed her fruit.

11 And I called for a drought vpon the land, and vpon the i mountaines, and vpon the corne, and vpon the wine, and vpon the oile, vpon all that the ground bringeth forth: both vpon men and vpon cattell, and vpon all the labour of the hands.

12 Then Zerubbabel the sonne of Shealtiel, and Iehoshua the sonne of Iehozadak the high Priest with all the remnant of the people, heard the k voyce of the Lorde their God, and the wordes of the Prophet Haggai (as y Lord their God had sent him) then the people did feare before the Lord.

13 Then spake Haggai the Lords messenger in the Lordes message vnto the people, saying, I am with you, saith the Lord.

14 And the Lord stirred vp the l spirit of Zerubbabel, the sonne of Shealtiel a prince of Iudah, and the spirit of Iehoshua the sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people, and they came, and did the worke in the house of the Lorde of hostes their God.

CHAP. II.

He sheweth that the glory of the second Temple shall exceede the first.

IN the foure and twentieth day of the first moneth, in the second yeere of king Darius,

2 In the seuenth moneth, in the one and twentieth day of the moneth, came the word of the Lord by the ministerie of the Prophet Haggai, saying,

3 Speake now to Zerubbabel the sonne of Shealtiel prince of Iudah, and to Iehoshua the sonne of Iehozadak the hie Priest, and to the residue of the people, saying,

4 Who is left among you, that saw this a house in her first glory, and how doe you see it now? Is it not in your eyes, in comparison of it as nothing?

5 Yet now bee of good courage, O Zerubbabel, sayeth the Lorde, and be of good comfort, O Iehoshua, sonne of Iehozadak the high Priest: and be strong all ye people of the land, saith the Lord, and b doe it: for I am with you, saith the Lord of hostes,

6 According to the word that I couenanted with you, when yee came out of Egypt: so my spirite shall remaine among you, feare ye not.

7 For thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes, c Yet a little while, and I will shake the heauens, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land.

a Who was the sonne of Hystaspis, and the third king of the Persians, as some thinke.

b Because the building of the Temple began to cease by reason that the people were discouraged by their enemies: and if these two notable men had need to be stirred vp and admonished of their duties, what shall we thinke of other gouernours, whose doings are either against God, or very cold in his cause?

c Not that they condemned the building thereof, but they preferred policie, and priuate profit to religion, being content with small beginnings.

d Shewing that they sought not onely their necessities, but their very pleasures, before Gods honour.

e Consider the plagues of God vpon you for preferring your policy to his religion, and because ye seeke not him first. f Meaning, that they should leaue off their owne commodities, and goe forward in the building of Gods Temple, and in the setting forth of his religion. g That is, I will heare your prayers according to my promise, King. 8. 31, 29. h That is, my glory shall be set forth by you. i And so bring it to nothing.

k This declared that God was the author of the doctrine, and that he was but the minister as Exo. 14 31. Iud 7 20. Acts 15. 28

l Which declareth that men are vnapt and dull to serue the Lord, neither can they obey his word or his messengers before God reforme their hearts, and giue them new spirits, Iohn. 6. 44.

a For the people according as Ha. 32. 11. and Ezek. 40. 2. had prophesied, thought this Temple should haue been more excellent then Salomons Temple, which was destroyed by the Babylonians, but the Prophets meant the spirituall Temple the Church of Christ.

b That is, go forward in building the Temple.

c He exhibiteth to patience as yet this Temple for a season as the Prophets had declared: for this should bee accomplished in Christ, by whom all things should be renewed.

8 And I will moue all nations, and d the desire of all nations shall come, and I will fill this house with glory, sayeth the Lord of hostes.

9 The e siluer is mine, and the golde is mine, sayeth the Lord of hostes.

10 The glory of this last house shall bee greater then the first, sayeth the Lorde of hosts: and in this place will I giue peace, sayth the Lord of hostes.

11 ¶ In the foure and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, in the second yeere of Darius, came the word of the Lord vnto the Prophet Haggai, saying,

12 Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes, Aske now the priests concerning the Law, and say, 13 If one beare f holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, and with his skirt doe touch the bread, or the pottage, or the wine, or oyle, or any meat, shall it be holy? and the Priests answered, and sayd, No.

14 Then said Haggai, If a polluted person touch any of these, shall it bee vncleane? And the Priests answered, and said, It shall be vncleane.

15 Then answered Haggai, and said, So is this people, and so is this nation before me, saith the Lord: and so are all the workes of their hands, and that which they offer here is vncleane.

16 And now, I pray you, consider in your mindes: from this h day, and afore, euen afore a stone was layed vpon a stone in the Temple of the Lord:

17 ¶ Before these things were, when one came to an heape of twentie measures, there were but tenne: when one came to the wine presse for to draw out fiftie vessels out of the presse, there were but twentie.

18 I smote you with blasting, and with mildew, and with haile, in all the labours of your hands: yet you turned not to mee, saith the Lord.

19 Consider I pray you, in your mindes, from k this day, and afore from the foure and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, euen from the day that the foundation of the Lords Temple was laid: consider it in your mindes.

20 Is the l seed yet in the barne? as yet the vine, and the fig tree, and the pomegranate, and the olive tree hath not brought fourth: from this day will I bleese you.

21 And againe the word of the Lord came vnto Haggai in the foure and twentieth day of the moneth, saying,

22 Speake to Zerubbabel the prince of Iudah, and say, I m will shake the heauens and the earth,

23 And I will ouerthrowe the throne of kingdomes, and I will destroy the strength of the n kingdomes of the heathen, and I will ouerthrowe the charets, and those that ride in them, and the horse and the riders shall come downe, euery one by the l word of his brother.

24 In that day, saith the Lord of hostes, will I take thee, O Zerubbabel my seruant the sonne of Shealtiel, saith the Lorde, and wil make thee as a o signet: for I haue chosen thee, saith the Lord of hostes.

d Meaning, Christ, whom all ought to looke for and desire: or by desire, he may signifie all precious things, as riches and such like.

e Therfore when his time cōmeth, he can make all the treasures of the world to serue his purpose: but the glory of this second Temple doeth not stand in materiall things, neither can be built.

f Meaning, all spirituall blessings and felicitie purchased by Christ, Phil. 4 7.

g That is, the flesh of the sacrifices: whereby he signifieth that that thing, which of it self is good, cannot make an other thing so: and therfore they ought not to iustifie themselues by their sacrifices and ceremonies: but contrary, he that is vncleane and not pure of heart, doeth corrupt those things, and make them detestable vnto God, which else are good and godly. h Consider how God did plague you with famine afore you began to build the Temple.

i That is, before the building was begun.

k From the time they began to build the Temple, he promiseth that God would blesse them: albeit as yet the fruit was not come forth, yet in the gathering they should haue plentie.

l He exhorteth them to patience and to abide till the harueſt came, and then they should see Gods blessings.

m I will make a change, and renew all things in Christ, of whom Zerubbabel here is a figure.

n Hereby hee sheweth that there shalbe no let or hinderance when God will make this wonderfull restitution of his Church.

o Signifying, this his dignitie should bee most excellent, which thing was accomplished in Christ.

Zechariah.

THE ARGVMENT.

AM 3408 18 Sept 1 Lesson Morning

TWo moneths after that Haggai had begun to prophesie, Zechariah was also sent of the Lord to helpe him in the labour, and to confirme the same doctrine. First therefore he putteth them in remembrance, for what cause God had so sore punished their fathers: and yet comforteth them, if they wil repent vntainedly, and not abuse this great benefit of God in their deliuerance, which was a figure of that true deliuerance, that all the faithful should haue, from death and sinne, by Christ. But because they still remained in their wickednesse and coldnesse to set forth Gods glory, and were not yet made better by their long banishment, he rebuketh them most sharpely: yet for the comfort of the repentant, he euer mixeth the promise of grace, that they might by this meanes bee prepared to receiue Christ, in whom all should be sanctified to the Lord.

CHAP. I.

1 Hee exhorteth the people to returne to the Lord, and to eschew the wickednesse of their fathers. 16 He signifieth the restitution of Ierusalem and the Temple.

IN the eight moneth of the second yeere of a Darius came the worde of the Lorde vnto b Zechariah the sonne of Berechiah, the sonne of Iddo, the Prophet, saying, a Who was the sonne of Hystaspis

b This was not that Zechariah, whereof is mention, 2 Chro. 24. 20. but had the same name, and is called the sonne of Berechiah, as he was, because he came of those progenitors, as of Ioiada or Berechiah and Iddo.

2 The Lorde hath bene c sore displeased with your fathers.

3 Therefore say thou vnto them, Thus sayeth the Lorde of hostes, d Turne yee vnto mee, sayeth the Lorde of hostes, and I will turne vnto you, sayeth the Lorde of hostes.

4 Be ye not as your fathers, vnto whom ly punished. d Let your fruites declare, that you are Gods people, and that hee hath wrought in you by his Spirit, and mortified you: for els man hath no power to returne to God, but God must conuert him, as Ierem. 31. 18. Lament. 5. 21. Isaiah 21. 8. and 31. 6. and 45. 22.

c He speaketh this to feare them with Gods iudgements, that they should not prouoke him, as their fathers had done, whom hee so grieuously

the

Ier. 3. 12. ezek. 18. 30. hos. 14. 2. zech. 1. 3.

the former Prophets haue cryed, saying, Thus speaketh the Lord of hostes, Turne you now from your euill wayes, and from your wicked workes: but they would not heare, nor hearken vnto mee, sayeth the Lord.

5 Your fathers, where *are they? and do the Prophets liue for euer?

6 But did not my wordes and my statutes, which I commanded by my seruants the Prophets, take holde of your fathers? And *they returned, and said, As the Lord of hostes hath determined to doe vnto vs, according to our owne wayes, and according to our workes, so hath hee dealt with vs.

7 Vpon the foure and twentieth day of the eleuenth moneth, which is the moneth *Shebat, in the second yeere of Darius, came the word of the Lord vnto Zechariah the sonne of Berechiah, the sonne of Iddo the Prophet, saying,

8 I *saw by night, and beholde *a man riding vpon a red horse, and he stood among the myrthe trees that were in a bottome, and behinde him were there *red horses speckled and white.

9 Then said I, O my Lord, what are these? And the Angel that talked with mee, said vnto mee, I will shew thee what these be.

10 And the man that stoode among the myrthe trees, answered and said, These are they whom the Lord hath sent to go thorow the world.

11 And they answered the Angel of the Lord, that stoode among the myrthe trees, and said, Wee haue gone thorow the world: and behold, all the world sitteth still, and is at rest.

12 Then the *Angel of the Lord answered, and said, O Lord of hostes, how long wilt thou be vnmercifull to Ierusalem, and to the cities of Iudah, with whom thou hast bene displeased now these threescore and ten yeeres?

13 And the Lord answered the Angel that talked with me, with good wordes and comfortable wordes.

14 So the Angel that communed with mee, said vnto mee, Crie thou, and speake, Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes, I am *iealous ouer Ierusalem and Zion with a great zeale, 15 And am greatly angrie against the careleſſe heathen: for I was angrie but *a little, and they helped forward the affliction.

16 Therefore thus saith the Lord, I will returne vnto Ierusalem with tender mercy: mine house shall bee builded in it, sayeth the Lord of hostes, and a line *shall be stretched vpon Ierusalem.

17 Crie yet, and speake, Thus sayeth the Lord of hostes, My cities shall yet *bee broken with plentie: the Lord shall yet comfort Zion, and shall yet chuse Ierusalem.

18 Then lift I vp mine eyes, and sawe, and behold, *foure hornes.

19 And I said vnto the Angel that talked with me, What be these? And he answered me, These are the hornes which haue scattered Iudah, Israel, and Ierusalem.

20 And the Lord shewed mee foure *carpenters.

21 Then said I, What come these to doe? And hee answered, and sayd, These are the hornes, which haue scattered Iudah, so that a man durst not lift vp his head: but these are come to fray them, and to cast out the hornes of the Gentiles, which lift vp their horne ouer the land of Iudah to scatter it.

CHAP. II.

The restoring of Ierusalem and Iudah.

LIft vp mine eyes againe and looked, and behold, a *man with a measuring line in his hand.

2 Then said I, Whither goest thou? And hee said vnto mee, To measure Ierusalem, that I may see what is the breadth thereof, and what is the length thereof.

3 And behold, the Angel that talked with mee, went forth: and another Angel went out to meet him,

4 And said vnto him, Runne, speake to this *young man, and say, *Ierusalem shalbe inhabited without walles, for the multitude of men and cattell therein.

5 For I, saith the Lord, will be vnto her a wall of *fire round about, and will *be the glory in the mids of her.

6 Ho, ho, come *forth, and flee from the land of the North, saith the Lord: for I haue scattered you into the foure *windes of the heauen, saith the Lord.

7 Saue *thy selfe, O Zion, that dwellest with the daughter of Babel.

8 For thus saith the Lord of hosts, After this *glory hath he sent me vnto the nations, which spoyled you: for hee that toucheth you, toucheth the apple of his eye.

9 For behold, I will lift mine hand vpon them, and they shall be a spoyle to their seruants: and ye shall know that the Lord of hostes hath sent me.

10 Sing and reioyce, O daughter Zion: for lo, I come, and I will dwell in the middes of thee, saith the Lord.

11 And many nations shall be ioyned to the Lord in that day, and shall be my people: and I will dwell in the middes of thee, and thou shalt know that the Lord of hostes hath sent me vnto thee.

12 And the Lord shall inherit Iudah his portion in the holy land, and shall chuse Ierusalem againe.

13 Be silent, O all flesh, before the Lord: for he is raised vp out of his holy habitation.

a Though your fathers be dead, yet Gods iudgements in punishing them ought still to be before your eyes: and though the Prophets be dead, yet their doctrine remaineth for euer, 2. Pet. 1. 15.

b Seeing ye saw the force of my doctrine in punishing your fathers, why doe not ye feare the threatnings contained in y same, and declared by my Prophets?

c As men astonished with my iudgements, and not that they were touched with true repentance.

d Which conteineth part of Ianuarie and part of Februarie.

e This vision signifieth the restauration of the Church, but as yet it should not appeare to mans eyes, which is here meant by the night, by the bottome and by the myrrhe trees, which are blacke and giue a darke shadow: yet he compareth God to a king, who hath his postes and messengers abroad, by whom hee still worketh his purpose, and bringeth his matters to passe.

f These signified the diuers offices of Gods Angels, by whom God sometime punisheth and sometime comforteth, and bringeth foorth his works in diuers sorts.

g That is, Christ the Mediatour prayed for the saluation of his Church, which was now troubled when all the countreys about them were at rest.

h Though for a time God deserre his helpe and comfort from his Church, yet this declareth that hee loueth them still most dearely, as a most mercifull father his children, or an husband his wife, and when it is expedient for them, his helpe is euer ready.

i In destroying the reprobate, I shewed my selfe but a little angrie toward my Church, but the enemie would haue destroyed them also, and considered not the end of my chastisements.

k Who was the chiefe among the Angels, and the same that is called Iehouah.

l Or, Ierusalem shall be inhabited as townes without walles, for the great multitude of men and cattell therein.

m That is, I will be a defence vnto her.

n Or, in the middes.

o Or, quarters.

p To measure out the buildings.

q The abundance shall be so great, that the places before shall not be able to containe these blessings, that God will send, but shall euen breake for fulnesse.

r Which signified all the enemies of the Church, East, West, North, South.

s These carpenters or smithes are Gods instruments, which with their mallets and hammers breake these hard and strong hornes, which would ouerthrow the Church, and declare that none enemies horne is so strong, but God hath an hammer to breake it in pieces.

a That is, the Angel, who was Christ: for in respect of his office he is oft times called an Angel, but in respect of his eternall essence is God, and so called.

b Meaning, himselfe Zechariah.

c Signifying the spirituall Ierusalem and Church vnder Christ, which should be extended by the Gospel thorow all the world, and should neede no materiall walles, nor trust in any worldly strength, but should be safely preserued, and dwel in peace among all their enemies.

d To defend my Church, to feare the enemies, and to destroy them if they approch neere.

e In me they shall haue their full felicitie and glory.

f Hee calleth to them, which partly for feare, and partly for their owne ease remained still in captiuitie, and so preferred their owne priuate commodities to the benefits of God promised in his Church.

g As it was I that scattered you, so haue I power to restore you.

h By fleeing from Babylon, and comming to the Church.

i Seeing that God hath begun to shew his grace among you by deliuering you, hee continueth the same still toward you, and therefore sendeth mee his Angel, and his Christ to defend you from your enemies, that they shall not hurt you, neither by the way nor at home.

A prophecie of Christ, and of his kingdome.

AND he shewed mee Iehoshua the high Priest, a standing before the Angel of the Lord, and b Satan stoode at his right hand to resist him.

2 And the c Lord said vnto Satan, The Lord rebuke thee, O Satan: euen the Lord that hath chosen Ierusalem, rebuke thee. Is not this a d brand taken out of the fire?

3 Now Iehoshua was clothed with filthie garments, and stood before the Angel.

4 And he answered and spake vnto those that stoode before him, saying, Take away the e filthie garments from him. And vnto him hee said, Behold, I haue f caused thine iniquitie to depart from thee, and I will clothe thee with change of raiment.

5 And I said, Let them s set a faire diademe vpon his head. So they set a faire diademe vpon his head, and clothed him with garments, and the Angel of the Lord stood by.

6 And the Angel of the Lord testified vnto Iehoshua, saying,

7 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, If thou wilt walke in my wayes, and keepe my watch, thou shalt also h iudge mine House, and shalt also keepe my i courts, and I will a He prayed to Christ the Mediator for the state of the Church.

b Which declareth that the faithfull haue not onely warre with flesh and blood, but with Satan himselfe and spirituall wickednesses, Ephes. 6. 12.

c That is, Christ speaketh to God as the Mediator of his Church, that he would rebuke Satan: and here he sheweth himselfe to be the continuall preseruer of his Church.

d Meaning, that Iehoshua was wonderfully preserued in the captiuitie, and now Satan sought to afflict and trouble him, when hee was doing his office. e In respect of the glorious garments, and the precious stones that the Priests did weare before the captiuitie, and by this contemptible state the Prophet signifieth that these small beginnings shalbe made excellent when Christ shal make the ful restitution of his Church. f He sheweth of what apparell he speaketh, which is, when our filthie sinnes are taken away, and we are clad with Gods mercies, which is meant of the spirituall restitution. g The Prophet prayeth, that besides the raiment, the Priest might also haue tyre for his head accordingly, that is, that the dignitie of the Priesthood might bee perfect: and this was fulfilled in Christ, who was both Priest and King: and here all such are condemned that can content themselues with any meane reformation in religion, seeing the Prophet desireth the perfection, and obtaineth it. h That is, haue rule and gouernment in my Church, as thy predecessours haue had. i Whereby hee meaneth, to haue the whole charge and ministerie of the Church.

10 In that day, saith the Lord of hostes, shall ye call euery man his neighbour vnder the r vine, and vnder the figge tree.

k That is, the Angels who represented the whole number of the faithful: signifying, that all the godly should willingly receiue him.

l Because they follow my word, they are contemned in the world, and esteemed as monsters, Isa. 8. 18.

m That is, Christ, who did so humble himselfe, that not onely hee became the seruant of God, but also the seruant of men: and therefore in him they should haue comfort, although in the world they were contemned. Isa. 11. 1. CHAP. IIII.

The vision of the golden candlestick, and the exposition thereof.

AND the Angel that talked with mee, came againe and waked mee, as a man that is raised out of his sleepe.

2 And said vnto mee, What seest thou? and I said, I haue looked, and beholde, a a candlestick all of gold, with a bowle vpon the top of it, and his seuen lampes therein, and seuen b pipes to the lampes, which were vpon the top thereof.

3 And two olive trees ouer it, one vpon the right side of the bowle, and the other vpon the left side thereof.

4 So I answered, and spake to the Angel that talked with mee, saying, What are these, my Lord?

5 Then the Angel that talked with me, answered and said vnto me, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my Lord.

6 Then he answered and spake vnto me, saying, This is the word of the Lord vnto c Zerubbabel, saying, Neither by d an armie nor strength, but by my Spirit, saieth the Lord of hostes.

7 Who art thou, O e great mountaine, before Zerubbabel? thou shalt bee a plaine, and f hee shall bring forth the head stone a Which was euer in the midst of the Temple, signifying that the graces of Gods Spirit should shine there in most abundance, and in all perfection.

b Which conueyed the oyle that dropped from the trees into the lampes, so that the light neuer failed: and this vision was to confirme the faithful, if God had sufficient power in himselfe to continue his graces, and to bring his promise to passe, though he had no helpe of man.

c Who was a figure of Christ, and therefore this doctrine was directed to all the Church who are his body and members. d Hee sheweth that Gods power onely is sufficient to preserue his Church, though hee vse not mans helpe thereunto. e Hee compareth the power of the aduersaries to a great mountaine, who thought the Iewes nothing in respect of them, and would haue hindered Zerubbabel, who represented Christ, whom the enemies dayly labour to let in the building of his spirituall Temple, but all in vaine. f Though the enemies thinke to stay this building, yet Zerubbabel shall lay the highest stone thereof, and bring it to perfection, so that all the godly shall reioyce, and pray vnto God that hee would continue his grace and fauour toward the Temple.

thereof,

thereof, with howling, crying, Grace, grace vnto it.

8 Moreouer the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,

9 The hands of Zerubbabel haue layd the foundation of this house: his hands shall also finish it; and e thou shalt know that the Lord of hostes hath sent me vnto you.

10 For who hath despised the day of the f small things? but they shall reioyce, and shall see the stone of g tinne in the hand of Zerubbabel: h these seuen are the eyes of the Lord, which goe thorow the whole world.

11 Then answered I, and said vnto him, What are these two olive trees vpon the right and vpon the left side thereof?

12 And I spake moreouer, and said vnto him, What be these two olive branches, which throw'm the two golden pipes emptie themselues into the gold?

13 And he answered me, and said, Knowest thou not what these be? and I said, Nay, my Lord.

14 Then said hee, These are the two i olive branches, that stand with the ruler of the whole earth.

e Meaning the Prophet, that I am Christ, sent of my Father for the building and preparation of my spirituall Temple.

f Signifying, that all were discouraged at the small and poore beginnings of the Temple.

g Whereby he signifieth the plummet & line, that is, that Zerubbabel which represented Christ, should go forward with his building to the ioy and comfort of the godly, though the world be against him, and though his for a while be discouraged, because they see not things pleasant to the eye.

h That is, God hath seuen eyes: meaning a continual prouidence, so that neither Satan nor any power in the world can go about or bring any thing to passe to hinder his worke.

i Which were euer greene and full of oyle, so that still they powred forth oyle into the lamps signifying, that God will continually maintaine and preserue his Church, and endue it still with abundance and perfection of graces.

CHAP. V.

1 The vision of the flying booke, signifying the curse of theeues, and such as abuse the Name of God. 6 By the vision of the measure is signified the bringing of Iudahs affliction into Babylon.

THen I turned me, and lifted vp mine eyes, and looked, and behold, a flying booke.

2 And he said vnto me, What seest thou? And I answered, I see a flying a booke: the length thereof is twentie cubites, and the breadth thereof ten cubites.

3 Then said hee vnto me, This is the curse that goeth forth ouer the whole earth: for euery one that b stealeth, shall bee cut off as well on this c side, as on that: and euery one that d sweareth shall be cut off, as well on this side, as on that.

4 I will bring it forth, saith the Lord of hostes, and it shall enter into the house of the theefe, and into the house of him that falsly sweareth by my Name: and it shall remaine in the middes of his house, and shall consume it, with the timber thereof, and stones thereof.

5 Then the Angel that talked with me, went forth and said vnto me, Lift vp now thine eyes, and see what is this that goeth forth.

6 And I said, What is it? And he said, This is an e Ephah that goeth forth. Hee said moreouer, This is the f sight of them, throw all the earth.

7 And behold, there was lift vp a g tallent of lead: and this is a h woman that sitteth in the midst of the Ephah.

8 And he said, This is wickednesse, and he cast it into the midst of the Ephah, and he cast the weight of lead vpon the mouth thereof.

9 Then lift I vp mine eyes, and looked: and behold, there came out two k women, and the winde was in their wings (for they had wings like the wings of a storke) and they lift vp the Ephah betweene the earth and the heauen.

10 Then said I to the Angel that talked with me, Whither doe these beare the Ephah?

11 And hee said vnto me, l To build it an house in the land of Shinar, and it shall be established and set there vpon her owne place.

a That is, all the wickednesse of the vngodly is in Gods sight, whichhe keepeth in a measure, and can shut it, or open it at his pleasure.

g To couer the measure.

h Which representeth iniquitie, as in the next verse.

i Signifying that Satan should not haue such power against the Iewes to tempt them, as he had in time past, but that God would shut vp iniquity in a measure as in a prison.

k Which declared that God would execute his iudgements by the meanes of weake and infirme meanes.

l To remoue the iniquitie and afflictions that came for the same from Iudah, to place it for euer in Babylon.

CHAP. VI.

By the foure charets he describeth the foure monarchies.

AGaine, I turned and lift vp mine eyes, and looked: a behold, there came foure a charets out from betweene b two mountaines, and the mountains were mountains of brasse.

2 In the first charet were c red horses, and in the second charet d blacke horses,

3 And in the third charet e white horses, and in the fourth charet, horses of f diuers colours, and reddish.

4 Then I answered, and said vnto the Angel that talked with me, What are these my Lord?

5 And the Angel answered, and said vnto me, These are the g foure spirits of the heauen, which go forth from standing with the Lord of all the earth.

6 That with the blacke horse went forth into the land of the South, and the white went out after them, and they of diuers colours went forth toward the h South country.

7 And the i reddish went out, and required to goe, and passe thorow the world. And he said, Go, passe thorow the world. So they went thorowout the world.

8 Then cried he vpon me, and spake vnto me, saying, Behold, these that goe toward a By charets here, as by horses afore, he meaneth the swift messengers of God to execute and declare his will.

b By the brasen mountaines he meaneth the eternall counsell and prouidence of God, whereby he hath from before all eternitie decreed what shall come to passe, and that which neither Satan nor all the would can alter.

c Which signifies the great cruelty and persecutions that Gods Church had endured vnder the Babylonians.

d Signifying, that they had endured great afflictions vnder the Babylonians.

e These represented their state vnder the Persians which restored them to libertie.

f Which signified that God would sometime giue his Church rest, and powre his plagues vpon their enemies, as hee did in destroying Niueueh & Babylon, and other their enemies.

g Meaning, all the actions and motions of Gods spirit, which according to his vnchangeable counsell he causeth to appeare thorow all the world.

h That is, toward Egypt, and other countreyes thereabout.

i That is, they of diuers colours, which aske leaue, to signifie that Satan hath no power to hurt or afflict till God giue it him, Iob. 1. 12.

2 Because the Iewes had prouoked Gods plagues by contemning his word, & casting off all iudgement and equity, hee sheweth Gods curses written in this booke had iustly light both on them, & their fathers: but now if they would repent, God would send the same among the Caldeans their former enemies.

b That is, vseth any iniury toward his neighbour.

c Meaning, whereseuer he be in the world.

d Hee that transgresseth the first table, & seeketh not God aright, but abuseth Gods name.

e Which was a measure in dry things, containing about ten pottels.

k By punishing the Caldeans, mine anger ceased, & you were deliuered.

l To receiue of him and the other three, money to make the two crownes: which were men of great authoritie among the Iewes & doubted of the restitution of the kingdome and of the priesthood, and hurt others by their example.

m Because this could not be attributed to any one according to the Lawe, therefore it followeth that Iehoshua must represent the Messiah, who was both Priest and King.

n Meaning, Christ, of whom Iehoshua was the figure: for in Greeke they were both called Iesus.

the North countrey, haue pacified my spirit in the North countrey.

9 And the word of the LORD came vnto me, saying,

10 Take of them of the captiuitie, euen of Heldai, and of Tobijah, and Iedaiah, which are come from Babel, and come thou the same day, and go vnto the house k of Iosiah, the sonne of Zephaniah.

11 Take (euen siluer and gold, and make) crownes, and set them vpon the l head of Iehoshua, the sonne of Iehozadak the high Priest, 12 And speake vnto him, saying, Thus speaketh the LORD of hoastes, and saith, Behold the man whose name is the m Branch, and he shall growe n vp out of his place, and he shall r build the Temple of the LORD.

13 Euen he shall build the Temple of the LORD, and he shall beare the s glorie, and shall sit and rule vpon his throne, and he shall be a Priest vpon his throne, and the counsell of peace shalbe betweene them both.

14 And the crowne shall be to t Helem, and to Tobijah, and to Iedaiah, & to t Hen the sonne of Zephamah, for a u memorial in the temple of the LORD.

15 And they that are x farre off, shall come and build in the Temple of the LORD, and yee shall know that the LORDE of hoastes hath sent me vnto you. And this shall come to passe, if yee will y obey the voyce of the LORD your God.

o That is, of himselfe, without the helpe of man. p Which declareth that none could build this Temple, where of Haggai speaketh, but onely Christ: and therefore it was spirituall, & not materiall, Haggai. 2. 10. q Whereof Iehoshua had but a shadow. r The two offices of the kingdome and priesthood shalbe so ioined together, that they shall bee no more diuiseed. s Who was also called Heldai. t He was also called Iosiah. u That they may acknowledge their infirmitie, which looked y all things should haue bene restored incontinently: and of this their infidelitie these crownes shall remaine as tokens, Actes 1. 6. x That is, the Gentiles by the preaching of the Gospel shal helpe toward y building of this spirituall temple. y if ye will beleeue and remaine in the obedience of faith.

CHAP. VII.

5 The true fasting. 11 The rebellion of the people is the cause of their affliction.

AND in the fourth yeere of King Darius, the worde of the LORD came vnto Zechariah in the fourth day of the ninth moneth, euen in a Chisleu,

2 For b they had sent vnto the house of God Sharezer, and Regem-melech, and their men to pray before the LORD,

3 And to speake vnto the Priests, which were in the house of the LORD of hoastes, and to the Prophets, saying, Should I c weepe in the fift moneth, and d separate my selfe as I haue done these so many yeeres?

4 Then came the worde of the LORDE of hoastes vnto me, saying,

5 Speake vnto all the people of the land, and to the e Priests, & say, When ye fasted, and mourned in the fift and seuenth moneth, euen the seuenty yeeres, did ye fast vnto me? f euen I?

6 And when ye did eate, and when ye did drinke, did ye not eate & for your selues, and drinke for your selues?

7 Should ye not heare the words, which the LORD hath cryed by the ministerie of the former Prophets when Ierusalem was inhabited, and in prosperitie, and the cities thereof round about her, when the South and the plaine was inhabited?

8 And the word of the LORD came vnto Zechariah, saying,

9 Thus speaketh the LORD of hoastes, saying, g Execute true iudgement, and shewe mercie and compassion, euery man to his brother,

10 And oppresse not the widow, nor the fatherlesse, the stranger, nor the poore, and let none of you imagine euill against his brother in your heart.

11 But they refused to hearken, and h pulled away the shoulder, and stopped their eares, that they should not heare.

12 Yea, they made their hearts as an adamant stone, lest they should heare the law and the words which the LORD of hoastes sent in his spirite by the ministery of the former Prophets: therefore came a great wrath from the LORD of hoastes.

13 Therefore it is come to passe, that as he cryed, and they would not heare, so they cried, and I would not heare, saith the LORD of hoastes.

14 But I scattered them among all the nations, whome they knewe not: thus the land was desolate after them, that no man passed through nor returned: for they layed the pleasant land waste.

a Which contained part of November, and part of December.

b That is, the rest of the people that remained yet in Caldea, sent to the Church at Ierusalem, for the resolution of these questions, because these feasts were consented vpon by the agreement of the whole Church: the one in the moneth that the Temple was destroyed, and the other when Gedaliah was slaine, Ier. 41. 2. c By weeping & mourning & vse what exercises they vsed in their fasting. d That is, prepare my selfe with all deuotion to this fast. e Which was now since the time the Temple was destroied.

f For there were both of the people, and of the Priestes, which doubted as touching this controuersie, besides them which as yet remained in Caldea, and reasoned of it, as of one of the chiefe points of their religion.

g For they thought they had deserued toward God, because of this fast, which they intended of themselues: and though fasting of it selfe be good, yet because they thought it a seruice toward God and trusted therein, it is here reproued.

h Did you not eate and drinke for your owne commoditie & necessitie? and so likewise ye did abstaine according to your own fantasies, and not after the prescript of my law.

i Hereby he condemneth their hypocrisie, which thought by their fasting to please God, and by such things as they inuented, and in the meane season would not serue him as he had commanded. k He sheweth y they did not fast with a sincere heart, but for hypocrisie, and that it was not done of a pure religion, because they lacked these offices of charitie which should haue declared that they were godly, Matth. 23. 23. l And would not carry the Lords burden, which was sweet and easie: but would beare their owne, which was heauy & grieuous to the flesh, thinking to merit thereby: which similitude is taken of oxen, which shrinke at the yoke, Nehem 9. 29. m Which declareth that they rebelled not onely against the Prophets, but against the Spirit of God that spake in them. n That is, after they were caried captiue. o By their sinnes where by they prouoked Gods anger.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Of the returne of the people vnto Ierusalem, and of the mercy of God toward them. 18 Of good workes. 20 The calling of the Gentiles.

AGAINE the worde of the LORD of hoastes came to me, saying,

2 Thus saith the LORD of hoastes, I was i iealous for Zion with great iealousie, and I was iealous for her with great wrath.

3 Thus saith the LORD, I will returne vnto Zion, and will dwell in the middes of Ierusalem: and Ierusalem shall be called a k citie of truth, and the Mountaine of the LORD

f I loued my citie with a singular loue, so that I could not abide that any should doe her any iniury.

b Because she shall be faithfull & loyall toward me her husband.

Lord of hostes, the holie mountaine.

4 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, There shall yet [a] old men and old women dwell in the streetes of Ierusalem, and euery man with his staffe in his hand for very age.

5 And the streets of the citie shall be full of boyes and girles, playing in the streetes thereof.

6 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Though it be [a] impossible in the eyes of the remnant of this people in these dayes, should it therefore be impossible in my sight, saith the Lord of hostes?

7 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, Behold, I will deliuer my people from the East countrey, and from the Weest countrey.

8 And I will bring them, and they shall [a] dwell in the midst of Ierusalem, and they shall be my people, and I will be their God in trueth and in righteousnesse.

9 Thus saieth the Lord of hostes, Let your [f] hands be strong, ye that heare in these dayes these words by the mouth of the Prophets, which were in the day that the foundation of the House of the Lord of hostes was laide, that the Temple might bee builded.

10 For before these dayes there was no hire for [g] man, nor any hire for beast, neither was there any peace to him that went out, or came in because of the affliction: for I set all men, euery one against his neighbour.

11 But now I will not intreate the residue of this people as aforetime, saith the Lord of hostes.

12 For the seede shall bee prosperous: the vine shall giue her fruite, and the ground shall giue her increase, and the heauens shall giue their dewe, and I will cause the remnant of this people to possesse all these things.

13 And it shall come to passe, that as yee were a curse among the heathen, O house of Iudah, and house of Israel, so will I deliuer you, and ye shall be a blessing: feare not, but let your hands be strong.

14 For thus saith the Lord of hostes, As I thought to punish [h] you, when your fathers prouoked mee vnto wrath, saith the Lord of hostes, and repented not,

15 So againe haue I determined in these dayes [i] to doe well vnto Ierusalem, and to the house of Iudah: feare ye not.

16 These are the things that ye shall do. Speake yee euery man the trueth vnto his neighbour: execute iudgement truely and vprightly in your gates.

17 And let none of you imagine euill in your hearts against his neighbour, and loue no false oath: for all these are the things that I hate, saith the Lord.

18 And the word of the Lord of hostes came vnto me, saying,

19 Thus saieth the Lord of hostes, The fast of the fourth moneth, and the fast of the fift, and the fast of the seuenth, and the fast of the [k] tenth shall bee to the house of Iudah ioy and gladnesse, and prosperous high feasts: therefore loue the trueth and peace.

20 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, That there shall yet come [l] people, and the inhabitants of great cities.

21 And they that dwell in one citie, shall goe to another, saying, [m] Up, let vs goe and pray before the Lord, and seeke the Lord of hostes: I will go also.

22 Yea, great people and mighty nations shall come to seeke the Lord of hostes in Ierusalem, and to pray before the Lord.

23 Thus saith the Lord of hostes, In those dayes shall ten men take hold out of all languages of the nations, euen take hold of the skirt of him that is a Iew, and say, We will goe with you: for wee haue heard that God is with you.

c Though their enemies did greatly molest and trouble them, yet God would come and dwell among them, and so preserue them so long as nature would suffer them to liue, and increase their children in great abundance.

d He sheweth wherein our faith standeth, that is, to beleeue that God can performe that which he hath promised, though it seeme neuer so vnpossible to man, Gene. 18 14. Rom. 4.20.

e So that their returne shall not be in vaine: for God will accomplish his promise, and their prosperitie shall bee sure and stable.

f Let neither respect of your priuate commodities, neither counsell of others, nor feare of enemies discourage you in the going forward with the building of the Temple, but be constant and obey the Prophets, which incourage you thereunto.

g For God cursed your worke, so that neither man nor beast had profit of their labours.

h Reade Ezek. 18.20.

i Which declareth that man cannot turne to God till hee change mans heart by his Spirit, and so begin to doe well, which is to pardon his sinnes, and to giue him his graces.

k Which fast was appointed when the citie was besieged, and was the first fast of these foure: and here the Prophet sheweth that if the Iewes will repent, and turne wholly to God, they shall haue no more occasion to fast, or to shew signes of heauinesse: for God will send them ioy and gladnesse.

l He declareth the great zeale that God should giue the Gentiles to come to his Church, and to ioyne with the Iewes in his true religion, which should be in the kingdome of Christ. Isa.2.2. micah 4.1.

CHAP. IX.

1 The threatning of the Gentiles. 9 The comming of Christ.

THe burden of the word of the Lord in the land of [a] Hadrach: and Damascus shall bee his [b] rest: when the [c] eyes of man, euen of all the tribes of Israel shalbe toward the Lord.

2 And Hamath also shall border [d] thereby: Tyrus also and Zidon, though they bee [e] very wise.

3 For Tyrus did build her selfe a strong hold, and heaped vp siluer as the dust, and gold as the mire of the streetes.

4 Behold, the Lord will spoyle her, and he will smite her [f] power in the Sea, and she shalbe deuoured with fire.

5 Ashkelon shal see it, and feare, and Azzah also shall be very sorowfull, and Ekron: for her countenance shalbe ashamed, and the king shall perish from Azzah, and Ashkelon shall not be inhabited.

6 And the [g] stranger shall dwell in Ashdod, and I will cut off the pride of the Philistims.

7 And I will take away his blood out of his mouth, and his abominations from betweene his [h] teeth: but hee that remaineth, euen he shall be for our God, and he shall bee as a prince in Iudah, but [i] Ekron shall bee as a Iebusite.

8 And I will campe about [k] mine house against the armie, against him that passeth by, and against him that returneth, and no oppressour shall come vpon them a Whereby he meaneth Syria.

b Gods anger shall abide vpon their chiefe citie, and not spare so much as that.

c When the Iewes shall conuert and repent, then God will destroy their enemies.

d That is, by Damascus: meaning that Hamath or Antiochia should be vnder the same rod and plague.

e He secretly sheweth the cause of their destruction, because they deceiued all other by their craft and subtiltie, which they cloked with this name of Wisedome.

f Though they of Tyrus thinke themselues inuincible by reason of the Sea that compasseth them round about, yet they shall not escape Gods iudgements.

g Meaning, that all should be destroyed saue a very few, that should remaine as strangers.

h He promiseth to deliuer the Iewes when he shal take vengeance on their enemies for their cruelties, and wrongs done to them.

i As the Iebusites had beene destroyed, so should Ekron and all the Philistims.

k Hee sheweth that Gods power onely shall bee sufficient to defend his Church against all aduersaries, bee they neuer so cruell, or assemble their power neuer so often.

any more: for now l haue I seene with mine eyes.

9 Reioyce greatly, O daughter Zion: shout for ioy, O daughter Ierusalem: behold, thy King commeth vnto thee: m hee is iust, and saued himselfe, poore, and riding vpon an n asse, and vpon a colt the foale of an asse.

10 And I will cut off the o charets from Ephraim, and the horse from Ierusalem: the bow of the battell shall be broken, and he shall speake peace vnto the heathen, and his dominion shall bee from p sea vnto sea, and from the q riuer to the end of the land.

11 r Thou also shalt bee saued through the blood of thy Couenant. I haue loosed thy s prisoners out of the pit wherein is no water.

12 Turne you to the t strong holde, yee u prisoners of hope: euen to day doe I declare, that I will render the x double vnto thee.

13 For Iudah haue I y bent as a bowe for mee: Ephraims hand haue I filled, and I haue raised vp thy sonnes, O Zion, against thy sonnes, O Grecia, and haue made thee as a gyants sword.

14 And the Lord shal be seene ouer them, and his arrow shall goe forth as the lightning: and the Lord God shal blow the trumpet, z shall come forth with the whirlewinds of the South.

15 The Lord of hosts shall defend them, and they shall deuoure them, a and subdue them with sling stones, and they shal drinke, and make a noyse as through wine, and they shall be filled like bowles, and as the hornes of the altar.

16 And the Lord their God shall deliuer them in that day as the flocke of his people: for they shall be as the b stones of the crowne lifted vp vpon his land.

17 For how great is his goodnesse! and how great is his beautie! corne shall make the yong men cheerefull, and new wine the maides.

l That is, God hath now seene the great iniuries and afflictions wherewith they haue beene afflicted by their enemies.

m That is, he hath righteousnesse and saluation in himselfe for the vse and commoditie of his Church.

n Which declareth that they should not looke for such a king as should be glorious in the eyes of man, but should be poore, and yet in himselfe haue all power to deliuer his: and this is meant of Christ, as Matt. 21.5.

o No power of man or creature shalbe able to let this kingdom of Christ, and he shall peaceably gouerne them by his word:

p That is, from the red sea to the sea called Syriacum: and by these places which the Iewes knew, he meant an infinite space and compasse ouer the whole world.

q That is, from Euphrates.

r Meaning, Ierusalem, or the Church which is saued by the blood of Christ, whereof the blood of the sacrifices was a figure, and is heere called the couenant of the Church, because God made it with his Church, & left it with them for the loue that he bare vnto them.

s God sheweth that he will deliuer his Church out of all dangers, seeme they neuer so great.

t That is, into the holy land, where the citie and the Temple are, where God will defend you.

u Meaning, the faithfull, which seemed to bee in danger of their enemies on euery side, and yet liued in hope that God would restore them to libertie.

x That is, double benefits & prosperitie, in respect of that, which your fathers enioyed from Dauids time to the captiuitie.

y I will make Iudah and Ephraim, that is, my whole Church, victorious against all enemies, which hee here meaneth by the Grecians.

z Hee promiseth that the Iewes shall destroy their enemies, and haue abundance & excesse of all things, as there is abundance on the altar when the sacrifice is offered: which things are not to mooue them to intemperancie, but to sobrietie, and a thankfull remembrance of Gods great liberalitie.

a The Prophet reprooueth the Iewes, because by their owne infidelitie they put backe Gods graces promised, and so famine came by Gods iust iudgement: therefore to auoid this plague, he willeth them to turne to God, and to pray in faith to him, and so he wil giue them abundance.

b He calleth to remembrance Gods punishments in times past, because they trusted not in him but in their idols and sorcerers, who euer deceiued them.

c That is, the Iewes went into captiuitie.

d Meaning, the cruel gouernours which did oppresse the poore sheepe, Ezek. 34.16, 17.

e He will be mercifull to his Church, and cherish them as a King or Prince doeth his best horse, which shall be for his owne vse in the warre.

f Out of Iudah shall the chiefe gouernour proceed, who shall be as a corner to vphold the building, and as a naile to fasten it together.

g Ouer their enemies.

CHAP. X.

1 The Lord prouideth to visit and comfort the house of Israel.

ASke you of the a Lord raine in the time of the latter raine: so shall the Lorde make white cloudes, and giue you showres of raine, and to euery one grasse in the field.

2 Surely the b idoles haue spoken vanitie, and the soothsayers haue seene a lie, and the dreamers haue told a vaine thing: they comfort in vaine: therefore c they went away as sheepe, they were troubled, because there was no shepheard.

3 My wrath was kindled against the shepheards, and I did visit the d goates: but the Lord of hostes will visite his flocke the house of Iudah, and will make them as e his beautifull horse in the battell.

4 Out f of him shall the corner come forth: out of him the naile, out of him the bow of battel, and out of him euery g appointer of tribute also.

5 And they shall bee as the mighty men, which tread downe their enemies in the mire of the streetes in the battell, and they shall fight, because the Lord is with them, and the riders and horses shall be confounded.

6 And I will strengthen the house of Iudah, and I will preserue the house h of Ioseph, and I will bring them againe, for I pitie them, and they shalbe as though I had not cast them off: for I am the Lord their God, and will heare them.

7 And they of Ephraim shall be as a gyant, and their heart shall reioyce as through wine: yea, their children shall see it, and bee glad; and their heart shall reioyce in the Lord.

8 I will hisse for them, and gather them: for I haue redeemed them: and they shall increase, as they haue increased.

9 And I will i sowe them among the people, and they shall remember me in farre countreyes: and they shall liue with their children, and k turne againe.

10 I will bring them againe also out of the land of Egypt, and gather them out of Assur: and I wil bring them into the land of Gilead and Lebanon, and place shall not be found for them.

11 And he m shall goe into the Sea with affliction, and shall smite the waues in the sea, and all the depths of the riuer shall drie vp: and the pride of Assur shall bee cast downe, and the scepter of Egypt shall depart away.

12 And I will strengthen them in the Lorde, and they shall walke in his Name, saith the Lord.

a The Prophet reprooueth the Iewes, because by their owne infidelitie they put backe Gods graces promised, and so famine came by Gods iust iudgement: therefore to auoid this plague, he willeth them to turne to God, and to pray in faith to him, and so he wil giue them abundance.

b He calleth to remembrance Gods punishments in times past, because they trusted not in him but in their idols and sorcerers, who euer deceiued them.

c That is, the Iewes went into captiuitie.

d Meaning, the cruel gouernours which did oppresse the poore sheepe, Ezek. 34.16, 17.

e He will be mercifull to his Church, and cherish them as a King or Prince doeth his best horse, which shall be for his owne vse in the warre.

f Out of Iudah shall the chiefe gouernour proceed, who shall be as a corner to vphold the building, and as a naile to fasten it together.

g Ouer their enemies.

h That is, the ten tribes, which should bee gathered vnder Christ to the rest of the Church.

i Whereby hee declareth the power of God, who needeth no great preparation when hee will deliuer his: for with a becke or hisse hee can call them from all places suddenly.

k Though they shall yet bee scattered, and seeme to bee lost, yet it shall bee profitable vnto them: for there they shall come to the knowledge of my Name, which was accomplished vnder the Gospel, among whom it was first preached.

l Not that they should returne into their country, but be gathered and ioyned in one faith by the doctrine of the Gospel.

m He alludeth to the deliuerance of the people out of Egypt, whereas the Angel smote the floods and riuers.

CHAP. XI.

1 The destruction of the Temple. 4 The care of the faithfull is committed to Christ. 7 A grieuous vision against Ierusalem and Iudah.

OPen thy doores, O a Lebanon, and the fire shall deuoure the cedars.

2 Howle, b firre trees: for the cedar is fallen, because all the mightie are destroyed: howle ye, O okes of Bashan, for the c defenced forest is cut downe.

3 There is the voice of the howling of the shepheards: for their d glory is destroyed: a voice of the roaring of lions whelpes: for the pride of Iorden is destroyed.

3 Thus sayth the Lord my God, Feede the sheepe of the e slaughter.

5 They that possesse them, slay them, f and sinne not: and they that sell them, say, g Blessed bee the Lord: for I am rich, and their owne shepheards spare them not.

6 Surely I will no more spare those that dwell in the land, saith the Lord: but loe, h I will deliuer the men euery one into his neighbours hand, and into the hand of his i king: and they shal smite the land, and out of their hands I will not deliuer them.

7 For I fed the sheepe of slaughter, euen the k poore of the flocke, and I tooke vnto mee l two staues: the one I called Beauty, and the other I called Bands, and I fed the sheepe.

8 m Three shepheardes also I cut off in one moneth, and my soule loathed n them, and their soule abhorred me.

9 Then said I, I will not feede you: that that dieth, let it die: and that that perisheth, let it perish: and let the remnant eate, euery one the flesh of his neighbour.

10 And I tooke my staffe, euen Beautie, and brake it, that I might disanull my couenant, which I had made with all people.

11 And it was broken in that day: and so the o poore of the sheepe that waited vpon me, knew that it was the word of the Lord.

12 And I said vnto them, If ye thinke it good, giue mee p my wages: and if no, leaue off: so they weighed for my wages thirtie pieces of siluer.

13 And the Lord said vnto mee, Cast it vnto the q potter: a goodly price, that I was valued at of them. And I tooke the thirtie pieces of siluer, and cast them to the potter in the house of the Lord.

14 Then brake I mine other staffe, euen the Bandes, that I might dissolue the brotherhood betweene Iudah and Israel.

15 And the Lord said vnto mee, Take to thee yet r the instruments of a foolish shepheard.

16 For loe, I will raise vp a shepheard in the land, which shall not looke for the thing that is lost, nor seeke the tender lambes, nor heale that that is hurt, nor feede that that standeth vp: but he shall eat the flesh of the fat, and teare their clawes in pieces.

a Because the Iewes thought themselues so strong by reason of this mountaine that no enemie could come to hurt them, the Prophet sheweth that when God sendeth the enemies, it shal shew it selfe ready to receiue them.

b Shewing, that if the strong men were destroyed, the weaker were not able to resist.

c Seeing that Lebanon was destroyed, which was the strongest munition, the weaker places could not thinke to hold out.

d That is, the renoume of Iudah and Israel should perish.

e Which being now destinate to bee slaine, were deliuered as out of the Lions mouth.

f Their gouernours destroy them without any remorse of conscience, or yet thinking that they doe euill.

g He noteth hypocrites, which euer haue the name of God in their mouthes, though in their life & doings they deny God, attributing their gaine to Gods blessing, which commeth of the spoile of their brethren.

h I will cause one to destroy another.

i Their gouernours shal execute cruelty ouer them.

k That is, small remnant, whom he thought worthy to shew mercy vnto.

l God sheweth his great benefites towards his people to conuince them of great ingratitude, which would neither bee ruled by his most beautifull order of gouernment, neither continue in the bands of brotherly vnity, & therfore he breaketh both the one and the other. Some reade, for Bands destroyers, but in the 14. verse the first reading is confirmed.

m Whereby hee sheweth his care and diligence that he would suffer them to haue no euil rulers, because they should consider his great loue.

n Meaning the people, because they would not acknowledge these great benefits of God.

o I e sheweth that the least part euer profite by Gods iudgements.

p Besides their ingratitude God accuseth them of malice & wickednes, which did not onely forget his benefits, but esteemed them as things of nought.

q Shewing that it was too little to pay his wagee, which could scarce suffice to make a few tiles for to couer the Temple.

r Signifying that they should haue a certaine kinde of regiment, and outward shew of gouernement: but in effect it should be nothing: for they should be wolues and deuouring beasts in stead of shepheards.

s And is in health and found.

t By the arme hee signifieth strength, as he doeth wisedome and iudgement by the eye, that is, the plague of God shal take away both thy strength and iudgement.

CHAP XII.

Of the destruction and building againe of Ierusalem.

THe burden of the word of the Lord vpon a Israel, sayth the Lord, which spread the heauens, and layd the foundation of the earth, and formed the spirit of man within him,

2 Behold, I will make Ierusalem a b cup of poyson vnto all the people round about: and also with Iudah will he bee, in the siege against Ierusalem.

3 And in that day will I make Ierusalem an heauy stone for all people: all that lift it vp, shall be torne, though all the people of the earth be gathered together against it.

4 In that day, sayth the Lord, I will smite euery horse with astonishment, and his rider with madnesse, and I will open mine eyes vpon the house of Iudah, and will smite euery horse of the people with blindnesse.

5 And the princes of Iudah shall say in their hearts, The c inhabitants of Ierusalem shall be my strength in the Lord of hosts their God.

6 In that day will I make the princes of Iudah like coles of fire among the wood, and like a fire brand in the sheafe, and they shall deuoure all the people round about on the right hand and on the left: and Ierusalem shall bee inhabited againe in her owne place, euen in Ierusalem.

7 The Lord also shal preserue the d tents of Iudah, as at the time: therefore the glory of the house of Dauid shall not boast, nor the glory of the inhabitants of Ierusalem against Iudah.

8 In that day shall the Lorde defend the inhabitants of Ierusalem, and he that is feeble among them, in that day shall be as Dauid: and the house of Dauid shalbe as Gods house, and as the Angel of the Lorde before them.

9 And in that day will I seeke to destroy all the nations that come against Ierusalem.

10 And I will powre vpon the house of a That is, the ten tribes which neglected Gods benefit in deliuering their brethren, & had rather remaine in captiuity, then to returne home, when God called them.

b Ierusalem shal be defended against al her enemies: for shal God defend all Iudah also, and shal destroy the enemies

c Euery captaine that had many vnder him afore, shall now thinke that the small power of Ierusalem shalbe sufficient to defend them against all enemies because the Lord is among them.

d The people which are now as it were dispersed by the fields, and lie open to their enemies, shall be no lesse preserued by my power, then if they were vnder their kings, (which is meant by the house of Dauid) or in their defenced cities.

David, and vpon the inhabitants of Ierusalem the Spirit of e grace and of compassion, and they shall looke vpon me, whom they haue f pierced, and they shall lament for him, as one mourneth for his onely sonne, and be sory for him as one is sory for his first borne.

11 In that day shall there bee a great mourning in Ierusalem, as the k mourning of Hadadrimmon in the valley of Megiddon.

12 And the l land shall bewaile euery family apart, the family of the m house of Dauid apart, and their wiues apart: the family of the house of Nathan apart, and their wiues apart:

13 The family of the house of Leui apart and their wiues apart: the family of n Shemei apart, and their wiues apart.

14 All the families that o remaine, euery family apart, and their wiues apart.

e They shal haue the feeling of my grace by faith, and know that I haue compassion on them.

f That is, whom they haue cõtinually vexed with their obstinacie, and grieued my spirit, Iohn 19. 37. where it is referred to Christs body, which here is referred to the Spirit of God.

g They shall turne to God by true repentance, whom before they had so grieuously offended by their ingratitude. h They shall lament and repent exceedingly for their offences against God. i Which was the name of a towne and place neere to Megiddo where Iosiah was slaine, 2. Chro. 35. 22. k That is, in al places where the Iewes shall remaine. l Signifying, that this mourning or repentance should not be a vaine ceremony: but euery one accushed with his owne griefe shall lament. m Vnder these certaine families he conteineth all the tribes, and sheweth that both the Kings and the Priests had by their sinnes pierced Christ. n Called also Simeon. o To wit, which were elect by grace, and preserued from the common destruction.

CHAP. XIII.

1 Of the fountaine of grace. 2 Of the cleane riddance of idolatry. 3 The zeale of the godly against false prophets.

IN that day there a shall bee a fountaine opened to the house of Dauid, and to the inhabitants of Ierusalem, for sinne and for vncleanesse.

2 And in that day, sayeth the Lorde of hosts, I will cut off the b names of the idoles out of the land: and they shal no more be remembred: and I will cause the c prophets, and the vncleane spirit to depart out of the land.

3 And when any shall yet d prophesie, his father and his mother that begate him, shall say vnto him, Thou shalt not liue: for thou speakest lies in the Name of the Lord: and his father and his mother that begate him, e shall thrust him through, when he prophesieth.

4 And in that day shall the prophets f be ashamed euery one of his vision, when hee hath prophesied: neither shall they weare a rough garment to deceiue.

5 But he shall say, I am no g Prophet: I am an husbandman: for man taught me to be an heardman from my youth vp.

6 And one shall say vnto him, What are these h wounds in thine hands? Then hee shall answere, Thus was I wounded in the house of my friends.

7 Awake, O sword, vpon my i shepheard, and vpon the man that is my fellow, saith the Lord of hostes: smite the shepheard, and the sheepe shall bee scattered, and I will turne mine hand vpon the little ones.

8 And in all the lande, sayeth the Lord, k two parts therein shall bee cut off, and die, but the third shalbe left therein.

9 And I will bring that third part thorow the fire, and will fine them as the siluer is fined, and will try them as gold is tryed: they shall call on my Name, and I wil heare them: I will say, It is my people, and they shall say, The Lord is my God.

a He armeth the godly against great tentations that should come before they enioyed this prosperous state promised vnder Christ, that when these dangers should come, they might know that they were warned of them afore.

b As your fathers and you haue had experience both at the red sea and at all other times.

c By this maner of speech the Prophet sheweth Gods power and care ouer his Church, and how he will as it were by miracle saue it before this great comfort should come vnder Christ, there should be an horrible diffipation among the people: for their gouernours & pastours should be destroyed, and the people should be as scattered sheepe: and the Euangelist applieth this to Christ because hee was the head of al pastours, Matth 26. 31. k The greatest part shal haue no portion of these blessings, & yet they that shall enioy them, shal be tried with great afflictions, so that it shall be knowen that onely Gods power and his mercies doe preserue them.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 Of the doctrine that shall proceede out of the Church, and of the restauration thereof.

BEhold, the day of the Lord commeth, and thy spoile shall bee a diuided in the midst of thee.

2 For I will gather all nations against Ierusalem to battell, and the citie shalbe taken, and the houses spoiled, and the women defiled, and halfe of the citie shall goe into captiuitie, and the residue of the people shall not be cut off from the citie.

3 Then shall the Lord go forth, and fight against those nations, as when b he fought in the day of battell.

4 And his feete shall stande in that day vpon the c mount of Oliues, which is before Ierusalem on the East side, and the mount of Oliues shall cleaue in the middes thereof: toward the East and toward d West there shall bee a very great e valley, and halfe of the mountaine shall remoue towarde the North, and halfe of the mountaine toward the South.

5 And ye shall flee vnto the f valley of the mountaines: for the valley of the mountaines shal reach vnto Azal: yea, ye shall flee like as ye fled from the g earthquake in the dayes of Vzziah King of Iudah: and the Lord my God shall come, and all the saints with thee.

6 And in that day shall there be no cleere light, but darke.

7 And there shalbe a day (it is knowen to d He shewed that though their parents and friends deale more gently with them, and put them not to death, yet they would so punish their children, that became false prophets, that the markes and signes should remaine for euer.

i The Prophet warneth the Iewes, that before the sword should come vpon Christ, there should be an horrible diffipation among the people: for their gouernours & pastours should be destroyed, and the people should be as scattered sheepe: and the Euangelist applieth this to Christ because hee was the head of al pastours, Matth 26. 31. k The greatest part shal haue no portion of these blessings, & yet they that shall enioy them, shal be tried with great afflictions, so that it shall be knowen that onely Gods power and his mercies doe preserue them.

h Hereby hee sheweth that though their parents and friends deale more gently with them, and put them not to death, yet they would so punish their children, that became false prophets, that the markes and signes should remaine for euer.

f That is, whom they haue cõtinually vexed with their obstinacie, and grieued my spirit, Iohn 19. 37. where it is referred to Christs body, which here is referred to the Spirit of God.

g They shall turne to God by true repentance, whom before they had so grieuously offended by their ingratitude. h They shall lament and repent exceedingly for their offences against God. i Which was the name of a towne and place neere to Megiddo where Iosiah was slaine, 2. a He sheweth what shalbe the fruite of their repentance, to wit remission of sinnes by the blood of Christ, which shall be a continuall running fountaine, and purge them from all vncleanesse.

b He promiseth that God wil also purge them from all superstition, and that their religion shalbe pure.

c Meaning, the false prophets and teachers, who are the corrupters of all religion, whom the Prophet here calleth vncleane spirits. d That is, when they shall prophesie lies, and make God, who is the authour of trueth, a cloke thereunto. e He sheweth what zeale the godly shall haue vnder the kingdome of Christ, Deut. 13 6, 9. f God shall make them ashamed of their errours and lies, and bring them to repentance, & they shall no more weare Prophets apparell to make their doctrine seeme more holy. g They shall confesse their former ignorance, and be content to labour for their liuing.

h Signifying, that there should be great troubles in the Church, and that the time hereof is in the Lords hands, yet at length (which is here meant by the euening) God would send comfort.

i That is, the spirituall graces of God, which should euer continue in most abundance.

k All idolatry & superstition shall be abolished, and there shalbe one God, one faith, and one religion.

l This new Ierusalem shall be seene through all the world, and shall excell the first in excellencie, wealth and greatnesse.

m God will not onely rayse vp war without, but sedition at home to trie them.

n To hurt and oppresse him.

the Lord) h neither day nor night, but about the euening time it shall be light.

8 And in that day shall there i waters of life goe out from Ierusalem, halfe of them toward the East sea, and halfe of them toward the vttermost sea, and shall be both in summer and winter.

9 And the Lord shall be king ouer all the earth: in that day shall there be one k Lorde, and his Name shall be one.

10 All the land shalbe turned l as a plaine from Geba to Rimmon, toward the South of Ierusalem, and it shalbe lifted vp, and inhabited in her place: from Beniamins gate vnto the place of the first gate, vnto the corner gate, and from the tower of Hananiel, vnto the kinges winepresses.

11 And men shall dwell in it, and there shall be no more destruction, but Ierusalem shalbe safely inhabited.

12 And this shall be the plague, wherewith the Lord shall smite all people, that haue fought against Ierusalem: their flesh shall consume away, though they stand vpon their feete, and their eyes shall consume in their holes, and their tongue shal consume in their mouth.

13 But in that day m a great tumult of the Lord shalbe among them, and euery one shall take the n hand of his neighbour, and his hand shal rise vp against the hand of his neighbour.

14 And Iudah shal fight also against Ierusalem, and the armes of all the heathen shal bee gathered round about, with o golde and siluer, and great abundance of apparell.

15 Yet this shalbe the plague of the horse, of the mule, of the camel, and of the asse, and of all the beasts that be in these tents as this plague.

16 But it shal come to passe that euery one that is left of all the nations, which came against Ierusalem, shall goe vp from yeere to yeere to worship the King the Lord of hosts, and to keepe the feast of Tabernacles.

17 And who so will not come vp of all the families of the earth vnto Ierusalem to worship the King the Lord of hostes, euen vpon them shall come no raine.

18 And if the familie of p Egypt goe not vp, and come not, it shal not raine vpon them. This shall be the plague where with the Lord will smite all the heathen, that come not vp to keepe the feast of Tabernacles.

19 This shall bee the punishment of Egypt, and the punishment of all the nations, that come not vp to keepe the feast of Tabernacles.

20 In that day shall there be written vpon the q bridles of the horses, The holinesse vnto the Lord, and the r pots in the Lordes house shalbe like the bowles before the altar.

21 Yea, euery pot in Ierusalem and Iudah shalbe holy vnto the Lord of hostes, and all they that sacrifice, shall come and take of them, and seethe therein: and in that day there shall be no more the s Cananite in the house of the Lord of hostes.

o The enemies are rich, and therefore shall not come for a pray, but to destroy and shed blood.

p As the men should be destroyed, verse. 12.

q By the Egyptians, which were greatest enemies to true religion, he meaneth all the Gentiles.

r Signifying, that to what seruice they were put now (whether to labour, or to serue in warre) they were now holy, because the Lord had sanctified them.

s As precious the one as the other, because they shal be sanctified.

t But all shall be pure and cleane, and there shall neither be hypocrite, nor any that shal corrupt the true seruice of God.

Malachi.

THE ARGVMENT.

THis Prophet was one of the three, which God raised vp for the comfort of his Church after the captiuitie, and after him there was no more vntil Iohn Baptist was sent, which was either a token of Gods wrath, or an admonition that they should with more feruent desires looke for the comming of Messiah. He confirmeth the same doctrine, that the two former do, but chiefly he reproueth the Priests for their couetousnes, and for that they serued God after their owne fantasies, and not according to the prescript of his word. He also noteth certaine peculiar sins, which were then among them as marrying of idolatrous & many wiues, murmuring against God, impatience, and such like. Notwithstanding, for the comfort of the godly, he declareth that God would not forget his promise made vnto their fathers, but would send Christ his messenger, in whom the Couenant should be accomplished, whose comming should be terrible to the wicked, and bring all consolation and ioy vnto the godly.

CHAP I

A complaint against Israel & chiefly the Priests.

THe a burden of the worde of the Lord to Israel by the ministerie of Malachi.

2 I haue loued you, sayth the Lord: yet ye say, b Wherein hast thou loued vs? Was not Esau Iaakobs brother, sayth the Lord? yet I loued Iaakob,

3 And I c hated Esau, and made his mountaines waste, and his heritage a wildernesse for dragons.

4 Though Edom say, We are impouerished, but wee will returne, and builde the desolate places, yet sayth the Lord of hostes, They shall build, but I will destroy it, and they shall call them, The border of wickednesse, and the people with whom the Lorde is angry for euer.

5 And your eyes shall see it, and ye shall say, The Lord will bee magnified vpon the border of Israel.

6 A sonne honoureth his father, & a seruant his master. If then I be a father, where is mine honour? And if I be a master, where is my feare, saith the Lord of hosts vnto you, d O Priests that despise my Name? and yee say, Wherein haue we despised thy Name?

a Reade Isai. 13.1.

b Which declareth their great ingratitude that did not acknowledge this loue, which was so euident in that he chose Abraham from out of all the world, and next chose Iaakob the yonger brother of whom they came, and left Esau the elder.

c For besides that the signes of mine hatred appeared euen when he was made seruant vnto his yonger brother, being yet in his mothers belly, and also afterward in that he was put from his birthright, yet euen now before your eyes the signes hereof are euident, in that that his countrey lieth waste, and he shall neuer returne to inhabite it, whereas ye my people, whom the enemie hate, more then them, are by my grace and loue toward you deliuered, as Rom. 9.13.

d Besides the rest of the people he condemneth the Priests chiefly, because they should haue reproued others for their hypocrisie, and obstinacie against God, and not haue hardened them by their example to greater euils.

e Hee noteth their grosse hypocrisie, which would not see their faults, but most impudently couered them, & so were blinde guides.

f Ye receiue all maner offrings for your owne greedinesse, and doe not examine whether they be according to my Law or no.

7 Yee offer f vncleane bread vpon mine altar, and you say, Wherein haue we polluted thee? In that yee say, The table of the Lord is not to be regarded.

8 And if yee offer the blinde for sacrifice, it is h not euill: and if yee offer the lame and sicke, it is not euill: offer it now vnto thy Prince: will hee bee content with thee, or accept thy person, sayth the Lord of hostes?

g Not that they sayd thus, but by their doings they declare no lesse.

9 And now, I pray you, i pray before God, that hee may haue mercy vpon vs: this hath bene by your meanes: will hee regard k your persons, sayeth the Lorde of hostes?

h You make it no fault: whereby he condemneth them, that thinke it sufficient to serue God partly as he hath commaunded, and partly after mans fantasie, and so come not to the pureneese of religiō, which he requireth, and therefore in reproch he sheweth them that a mortall man would not be content to be so serued.

10 Who is there euen among you, l that would shut the doores, and kindle not fire on mine altar in vaine? I haue no pleasure in you, sayeth the Lorde of hostes, neither will I accept an offering at your hand.

i He derideth the Priests who bare the people in hand, that they prayed for them, and sheweth that they were the occasion, that these euils came vpon the people.

11 For from the rising of the Sunne vnto the going downe of the same, my Name is m great among the Gentiles, and in euery place incense shall bee offered vnto my Name, and a pure offering: for my Name is great among the heathen, sayeth the Lord of hostes.

k Will God consider your office and state, seeing you are so couetous and wicked? l Because the Leuites who kept the doores, did not try whether the sacrifices that came in, were according to the Law, God wisheth that they would rather shut the doores, then to receiue such as were not perfect. m God sheweth that their ingratitude, & neglect of his true seruice, shalbe the cause of the calling of the Gentiles: and here the Prophet that was vnder the Law, framed his words to the capacitie of the people, and by the altar and sacrifice he meaneth the spirituall seruice of God, which should bee vnder the Gospel, when an ende shall bee made to all these legall ceremonies by Christes onely sacrifice.

12 But ye haue polluted it, in that ye say, The table of the Lord is n polluted, and the fruit thereof, euen his meate is not to be regarded.

13 Yee sayd also, Behold, it is a o weariues, and ye haue snuffed at it, sayth the Lord of hostes, and yee offered that which was torne, and the lame, and the sicke: thus ye offered an offering: should I accept this of your hand, sayth the Lord?

14 But cursed bee the deceiuer, which hath in his flocke p a male, and voweth, and sacrificeth vnto the Lorde a corrupt thing: for I am a great king, sayth the Lord of hostes, and my Name is terrible among the heathen.

n Both the Priestes, and the people were infected with this errour, that they passed not what was offered: for they thought that God was as well content with the leane as with the fat: but in the meane season they shewed not that obedience to God which he required, and so committed both impiety, and also shewed their contempt of God, and couetousnesse. o The Priestes and people were both weary with seruing God, and passed not what maner of sacrifice and seruice they gaue to God: for that which was least profitable, was thought good enough for the Lord. p That is, hath abilitie to serue the Lord according to his word, and yet will serue him according to his couetous minde.

CHAP. II.

Threatnings against the Priests being seducers of the people.

AND now, O ye q Priests, this commandement is for you.

2 If ye will not heare it, nor consider it in your heart, to giue r glory vnto my Name, sayth the Lord of hostes, I will euen send a curse vpon you, & will curse your s blessings: yea, I haue cursed them already, because yee doe not consider it in your heart.

3 Behold, I will corrupt t your seede, and cast dung vpon your faces, euen the u dung of your solemne feasts, and you shall bee like vnto it.

4 And ye shall know, that I haue x sent this commaundement vnto you, that my couenant which I made with Leui, might stand, saith the Lord of hostes.

5 My y couenant was with him of life and peace, and I z gaue him feare, and hee feared mee, and was afrayde before a my Name.

6 The law of b truth was in his mouth, and there was no iniquitie found in his lippes: he walked with me in peace and equitie, and did turne many away from iniquitie.

7 For the Priestes l lips should preserue knowledge, and they should seeke the Law at his mouth: for hee is the m messenger of the Lord of hostes.

8 But yee are gone out of the way: yee haue caused many to fall by the Lawe: yee haue broken the couenant of Leui, sayeth the Lord of hostes.

9 Therefore haue I also made you to be despised, and vile before all the people, because yee kept not my wayes, but haue bene partiall in the Law.

10 Haue we not all one n father? hath not one God made vs? why doe we transgresse euery one against his brother, and breake the couenant of o our fathers.

11 Judah hath transgressed, and an abomination is committed in Israel and in Jerusalem: for Judah hath defiled the holinesse of the Lord, which hee loued, and hath married the p daughter of a strange god.

12 The Lorde will cut off the man that doeth this: both the master and the seruant out of the Tabernacle of Jaakob, and him that q offereth an offering vnto the Lord of hostes.

13 And this haue yee done againe, and r couered the altar of the Lorde with teares, with weeping and with mourning: because a He speaketh vnto them chiefly, but vnder them he comprehendeth the people also.

b To serue me according to my word.

c That is, the abundance of Gods benefits.

d Your seede sowen shall come to no profite.

e You boast of your holinesse, sacrifices, and feasts, but they shall turne to your shame, and be as vile as doung.

f The Priests objected against the Prophet that he could not reproue them, but hee must speake against the Priesthood, and the office established of God by promise, but hee sheweth that the office is nothing slandered, when these villaines and doings are called by their owne names.

g He sheweth what were the two conditions of the couenant made with the tribe of Leui on Gods part, that he would giue them long life and felicitie, and on their part, that they should faithfully serue him according to his word.

h I prescribed Leui a certaine Law to serue me. i He serued mee and set forth my glory with all humilitie and submission. k Hee sheweth that the Priest ought to haue knowledge to instruct others in the word of the Lord. l He is as the treasure house of Gods word, and ought to giue to euery one according to their necessitie, and not to reserue it for himselfe. m Shewing, that whosoeuer doeth not declare Gods will is not his messenger and Priest. n The Prophet accuseth the ingratitude of the Iewes toward God and man: for seeing they were all borne of one father Abraham, and God had elected them to bee his holy people, they ought neither to offende God, nor their brethren. o Whereby they had bound themselues to God to be an holy people. p They haue ioyned themselues in marriage with them that are of another religion. q That is, the Priestes. r Ye cause the people to lament, because that God doth not regard their sacrifices, so that they seeme to sacrifice in vaine.

the

f This is another fault, whereof he accuseth them, that is, that they brake the lawes of marriage.

t As the one halfe of thy selfe.

u She that was ioined to thee by a solemne couenant, and by the inuocation of Gods Name.

x Did not God make man and woman as one flesh and not many?

y By his power & vertue he could haue made many women for one man.

z Such as should be borne in lawful and moderate marriage wherein is no excesse of lusts.

a Conteine your selues within your bounds, and be sober in mind, & bridle your affections.

b Not that he doth allow diuorcement, but of the two faults, he sheweth which is the lesse.

c He thinketh it sufficient to keepe his wife stil, albeit he take others, and so as it were coueteth his fault.

d Ye murmured against God, because he heard you not assoone as ye called.

e In thinking that God fauoured the wicked, & hath no respect to them that serue him.

f Thus they blaspheméd God in condemning his power & iustice, because he iudged not according to their fantasies.

the offering is no more regarded, neither receiued acceptably at your hands.

14 Yet yee say, f Wherein? Because the Lord hath bene witnesse betweene thee and the wife of thy youth, against whome thou hast transgressed: yet she is thy t companion, and the wife of thy t couenant.

15 And did not x he make one? yet had he y abundance of spirite: and wherefore one? because hee sought a godly t seede; therefore keepe your selues in your spirit, and let none treapasse against the wife of his youth.

16 If thou hatest her, y put her away, saith the Lord God of Israel, yet he couereth a the iniurie vnder his garment, saith the Lord of hostes: therefore keepe your selues in your spirit, and transgresse not.

17 Ye haue d wearied the Lord with your words: yet ye say, Wherein haue we wearied him? When ye say, Euery one that e doth euill, is good in the sight of the Lord, and he delighteth in them. Or where is the God of iudgement?

CHAP. III.

1 Of the messenger of the Lord Iohn Baptist, and of Christs office.

BEhold, I will send my a messenger, and he shall prepare the way before me: and the b Lord whom ye seeke, shall speedily come to his Temple: euen the c messenger of the couenant whom yee delire: behold, hee shall come, saith the Lord of hostes.

2 But who may d abide the day of his comming? and who shall endure, when hee appeareth? for he is like a purging fire, and like fullers sope.

3 And he shall sit downe to trie and fine the silver: hee shall euen fine the sonnes of e Leui, and purifie them as gold and siluer, that they may bring offerings vnto the Lord in righteousnesse.

4 Then shall the offrings of Iudah and Ierusalem bee acceptable vnto the Lord, as in old time, and in the yeeres afore.

5 And I will come neere to you to iudgement. f I will be a swift witnesse against the soothsayers, and against the adulterers, and against false swearers, g against those that wrongfully keepe back the hirelings wages, and vexe the widow and the fatherlesse, and oppresse the stranger, and feare not me, saith the Lord of hostes.

6 For I am the Lord: I change not, and ye sonnes of Iaakob h are not consumed.

7 Frõ the dayes of your fathers, yee are gone away from mine ordinances, and haue not kept them: i returne vnto me, and I will returne vnto you, saith the Lord of hostes: but yee said, Wherein shall wee returne?

8 Will a k man spoyle his gods? yet haue ye spoyled me: but ye say, Wherein haue we spoyled thee? In l tithes and offerings.

9 Ye are cursed with a curse: for ye haue spoyled me, euen this whole nation.

10 Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and proue me now herewith, saith the Lord of hostes, if I will not open the windowes of heauen vnto you, and powre you out a blessing m without measure.

11 And I will rebuke the n deuourer for your sakes, and he shall not destroy the fruit of your ground, neither shall your vine bee barren in the field, saith the Lord of hostes.

12 And all nations shall call you blessed: for ye shall be a pleasant land, saith the Lord of hostes.

13 Your words haue bene stout o against me, saith the Lord: yet yee say, What haue we spoken against thee?

14 Yee haue said, It is in vaine to serue God: and what profit is it that we haue kept his commaundement, and that we walked humbly before the Lord of hostes?

15 Therefore we count the proud blessed: euen they that worke wickednes, are set vp, and they that tempt God, yea, they are p deliuered.

16 q Then spake they that feared the Lord, euery one to his neighbour, and the Lord hearkened and heard it, and a r booke of remembrance was written before him for them that feared the Lord, and that thought vpon his Name.

17 And they shall be to me, saith the Lord of hostes, in that day s that I shal doe this, for a flocke, and I will s spare them, as a man spareth his owne sonne that serueth him.

18 Then shall you returne, and discerne betweene the righteous and wicked: betweene him that serueth God, and him that serueth him not.

CHAP. IIII.

The day of the Lord, before the which Elias should come.

FOr behold, the day commeth, that shall a burne as an ouen, and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shalbe stubble, and the day that commeth, shall burne them vp, saith the Lord of hostes, and shall leaue them neither roote nor branch.

h There are none of the heathen so barbarous, that wil defraud their gods of their honour, or deale deceitfully with them.

i Whereby the seruice of God should haue bene maintained, and the Priests, and the poore relieued.

k Not hauing respect how much ye neede, but I will giue you in all abundance, so that yee shall lacke place to put my blessings in.

l Meaning, the caterpiller, and whatsoeuer destroyeth corne and fruits.

m The Prophet condemneth them of double blasphemie against God: first in that they said that God had no respect to them that serued him, and next that the wicked were more in his fauour then the godly.

n They are not onely preserued to honour, but also deliuered from dangers.

o After these admonitions of the Prophet some were liuely touched, and encouraged others to feare God.

p Both because the thing was strange that some turned to God in that great and vniuersall corruption, and also that this might be an example of Gods mercies, to all penitent sinners.

q When I shall restore my Church according to my promise, they shalbe as mine owne proper goods.

r That is, forgiue their sinnes, and gouerne them with my spirit.

s He propheseth of Gods iudgements against the wicked, who would not receiue Christ, when as God should send him for the restauration of his Church.

b Meaning Christ, who with his wings or beames of his grace should lighten and comfort his Church, Ephes. 5. 14. and he is called the Sun of righteousnesse, because in himselfe he hath all perfection, and also the iustice of the Father dwelleth in him: whereby he regenerateth vs into righteousnesse, cleanseth vs from the filth of this world, and reformeth vs to the image of God. c Ye shalbe set at libertie and increase in the ioy of the Spirit, 1. Cor. 3. 17. d Because the time was come, that the Iewes should be destitute of Prophets vntill the time of Christ, because they should with more fervent mindes desire his comming, the Prophet exhorteth them to exercise themselues diligently in studying the Lawe of Moses in the meane season, whereby they may continue in the true religion, and also bee armed against all tentations.

the b sunne of righteousnesse arise, and health shall be vnder his wings, and ye shall c goe forth, and grow vp as fat calues.

3 And ye shall tread downe the wicked: for they shall bee dust vnder the soles of your feete in the day that I shall doe this, saith the Lord of hosts.

4 d Remember the Lawe of Moses my seruant, which I commanded vnto him in Horeb for all Israel with the statutes and iudgements.

5 Behold, I will send you e Elijah the Prophet before the comming of the great and f fearefull day of the Lord.

6 And hee shall g turne the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come h and smite the earth with curse.

e This Christ expoundeth of Iohn baptist, Mat. 11. 13, 14. who both for his zeale, and restoring of religion is aptly compared to Elijah. f Which as it is true for the wicked in doth it waken the godly, and call them to repentance. g Hee sheweth wherein Iohns office should stand: in the turning of men to God, and ioyning the fathers and children in one vnitie of faith: so that the father shall turne to the religion of his son which is converted to Christ, and the sonne shall embrace the faith of the true fathers Abraham, Izhak and Iaakob. h The second point of his office, was to denounce Gods iudgements against them that would not receiue Christ.

APOCRYPHA.

THE ARGVMENT.

THese bookes that follow in order after the Prophets vnto the new Testament, are called APOCRYPHA, that is, bookes which were not receiued by a common consent to be read and expounded publikely in the Church, neither yet serued to proue any point of Christian religion, saue in as much as they had the consent of the other Scriptures called Canonicall to confirme the same, or rather whereon they were grounded: but as bookes proceeding from godly men, were receiued to bee read for the aduancement and furtherance of the knowledge of the history, and for the instruction of godly maners: which bookes declare that at all times God had an especiall care of his Church, and left them not vtterly destitute of teachers and meanes to confirme them in the hope of the promised Messiah, and also witnesse that those calamities that God sent to his Church, were according to his prouidence, who had both so threatned by his Prophets, and so brought it to passe for the destruction of their enemies, and for the triall of his children.

2 Iosias appointeth Priestes, and keepeth the Passouer. 7 Offrings for the Priests & the people. 21 The order of the Leuites. 23 The vpright life of Iosias. 25 His death and the occasion thereof, and the lamentation for him. 34 Ioachaz appointed king. 53 The destruction of Ierusalem.

IOsias kept the *Passouer to his Lord in Ierusalem, and offred the Passouer in the fourteenth day of the first moneth,

2 And appointed the Priests according to their dayly courses, being clothed with long garments in the Temple of the Lord.

3 And he spake to the Leuites the holy ministers of Israel, that they should sanctifie themselues to the Lord, to set the holy Arke of the Lorde in the house, which Salomon the sonne of king Dauid had built,

4 And sayd, Ye shall no more beare the Arke vpon your shoulders: now therefore serue the Lorde your God, and take the charge of his people of Israel, and prepare according to your families and tribes,

5 After the writing of Dauid king of Israel, and according to the maiesty of Salomon his sonne, and stand in the Temple (according to the order of the dignitie of your fathers the Leuites) which were appointed before your brethren the children of Israel.

6 Offer in order the Passouer, & make ready the sacrifices for your brethren, and keepe the Passouer after the Lords commandement giuen to Moyses.

7 And Iosias gaue to the people that was present, thirtie thousand lambes and kids with three thousand calues.

8 These were giuen of the kings substance according to the promise, to the people, and to the Priests, and to the Leuites. Then gaue Helkias and Zacharias and ‖ Syelus the gouernours of the Temple, to the priests for the Passouer, two thousand fiue hundreth sheepe, and three hundreth calues.

9 Furthermore Iechonias, & Samaias and Nathanael his brethren, and ‖ Sabias, and ‖ Chelias, and ‖ Ioram captaines gaue to the Leuites for the Passouer fiue thousand sheepe, and seuen hundreth calues.

10 And when these things were done, the Priests & the Leuites stood in order, hauing vnleauened bread according to the tribes, 11 And after the order of the dignitie of their fathers, before the people to offer to the Lord, as it is written in the bookes of Moyses: and thus they did in the morning.

12 And they rosted the Passouer with fire as *appertained, and they sod their offrings with perfumes in caldrons and pots, 13 And set it before all them that were of the people, and afterward they prepared for themselues, and for the Priests their brethren the sonnes of Aaron.

14 For the Priestes offered the fat vnto the euening, and the Leuites did make ready for themselues, and for the Priests their brethren the sonnes of Aaron.

15 And the holy singers the sonnes of Asaph, were in their orders, according to the appointed ordinances of Dauid, to wit, Asaph, and Azarias, and ‖ Eddinus, which was of the kings appointment.

16 And the porters were at euery gate so that it was not lawfull that any should passe his ordinary watch: for their brethren the Leuites made ready for them.

17 And in that day, those things which appertained to the sacrifice of the Lord, were accomplished, that they might offer the Passouer, 18 And offer sacrifices vpon the altar of the Lord, according to the commandement of king Iosias.

19 So the children of Israel, which were present at that time, kept the Passouer, and the feast of vnleauened bread seuen dayes.

20 And there was not such a Passouer kept in Israel since the time of Samuel the Prophet.

21 And all the kings of Israel did not offer such a Passouer, as did Iosias, and the Priests, and the Leuites, and the Iewes, and all Israel which were found to remaine in Ierusalem.

22 In the eighteenth yeere of the reigne of Iosias was this Passouer kept.

before his Lord with a heart full of godlines.
24 And concerning the things which came to passe in his time, they are written before, to wit, of those that sinned and did wickedly against the Lord, above every nation and kingdome, and grieued him with ‖ sensible things, so that the words of the Lord stood vp against Israel.
‖ Or, by worshipping sensible creatures. 2 Chron. 35, 20.
25 ¶ Now after all these acts of Iosias, it came to passe that when Pharaoh king of Egypt came to moue war at Carchamis vpon Euphrates, Iosias went out against him.
26 But the King of Egypt sent to him, saying, What haue I to doe with thee, O king of Iudea?
27 I am not sent of the Lord God against thee: but my warre is vpon Euphrates, and now the Lord is with me, and the Lord hasteneth me forward: depart from me, and be not against the Lord.
28 But Iosias would not turne backe his chariot from him, but prepared himselfe to fight with him, not regarding the words of Jeremias the Prophet, by the mouth of the Lord.
29 But her set himselfe in battell aray against him in the field of Megiddo, and the Princes came downe to king Iosias.
30 And the King sayd to his seruants, Conuey me out of the battell, for I am very weake. And by and by his seruants brought him out of the battell.
31 So he gate vp on his second chariot, & being come againe to Jerusalem he changed his life, and was buried in his fathers graue.
32 And in all Iudea was Iosias bewayled, yea, Jeremias the Prophet did lament for Iosias, and the gouernours, and their wiues did lament him vnto this day: and this was ordeined in all the kinred of Israel, to be done continually.
33 But these things are written in the booke of the stories of the kings of Iudea, & euery one of the acts that Iosias did, and his glory, and his knowledge in the law of the Lord, and the things which he did before, and the things now rehearsed are registred in the booke of the kings of Israel & Iudea.

34 Then they of the nation tooke * Joachaz the sonne of Iosias, and made him king in stead of his father Iosias, when he was three and twentie yeere old.
35 And he reigned in Iudea and in Jerusalem three moneths: for the king of Egypt deposed him from reigning in Jerusalem.
36 Her taxed also the people of an hundreth talents of siluer, and one talent of gold.
37 And the king of Egypt made Joacim his brother king of Iudea and Jerusalem.
38 And her bound Joachaz and his gouernours: but when he had taken Zarates his brother, he led him away into Egypt.
39 Twenty and fiue yeere old was Joacim, when he reigned in Iudea and Jerusalem, and he did euill in the sight of the Lord.
40 Wherefore against him came vp Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, who when he had bound him with a chaine of braile, led him away into Babylon.
41 Then Nabuchodonosor tooke of the holy vessels of the Lorde, and caried them away, & set them in his temple at Babylon.
42 But all his actes, and his prophanation, and his reproch, are written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kings.
43 And Joacim his sonne reigned for him: and when he was made king, her was eightene yeere old.
44 And hee reigned three moneths and ten dares in Jerusalem, and he did euill in the sight of the Lord.
45 ¶ So a yeere after Nabuchodonosor sent and brought him to Babylon with the holy vessels of the Lord.
46 And he made Sedecias king of Iudea and Jerusalem, when he was one and twenty yeere old, and he reigned eleuen yeeres.
47 And hee did euill in the sight of the Lord, neither did he feare the words spoken * by Jeremias the Prophet from the mouth of the Lord. Jere. 38. 22.
48 For after that he was sworne to king Nabuchodonosor, hee forswore himselfe by the name of the Lord, and fel away, and hardened his neck and his heart, and transgressed the lawes of the Lord God of Israel.
49 Also the gouernours of the people, and the Priests committed many things against the Lawes, and passed all the pollutions of all nations, and polluted the Temple of the Lord, which was sanctified in Jerusalem.
50 Neuertheles the God of their fathers sent his messenger to call them back, because he spared them, and his owne Tabernacle.
51 But they derided his messengers, and in the day, that the Lord spake vnto them, they mocked his Prophets, 52 So that he, being moued to anger against his people for their great wickednes, commanded the kings of the Caldeans to inuade them.
53 These killed their yong men with the sword round about their holy Temple, neither did they spare yong man, nor maiden, neither old man nor childe among them.
54 But he deliuered them all into their handes, and all the holy vessels of the Lord, both great and small, with the vessels of the Arke of God: and they tooke, and caried away the kings treasures into Babylon.
55 And they set fire in the house of the Lord, and brake downe the walles of Jerusalem, and burnt their towers with fire.
56 They consumed also all the precious things thereof, and brought them to nought, and those that were left by the sword, he caried away into Babylon.
57 And they were seruants to him, and to his children till the Persians reigned, to fulfill the words of the Lord by the mouth of * Jeremias, Jere. 25. 11. and 29. 10.

2 The Lord raised vp the mind of Cyrus King of the Persians, and he made proclamation throughout all his kingdome, euen by expresse letters,

3 Saying, Thus sayeth Cyrus King of the Persians, The Lord of Israel, euen the most hie Lord, hath made me King ouer the whole world,

4 And he hath commanded me to build him an house in Jerusalem which is in Judea.

5 If there bee any therefore of you of his people, let the Lord, euen his Lord bee with him, and let him goe vp to Jerusalem, which is in Judea, and build the house of the Lord of Israel: hee is the Lord which dwelleth in Jerusalem.

6 All they then that dwell in the places round about, those, I say, that are in his place, let them helpe him with gold and siluer,

7 &With gifts, with horses and cattell, and other things, which shall be brought, according to the vowes, into the Temple of the Lord, which is in Jerusalem.

8 ¶ Then arose the chiefe of the families of Judea, and of the tribe of Beniamin, and the Priests and Leuites, and all whose mind the Lord hath mooued to go vp, and build an house to the Lord in Jerusalem.

9 And those that were about them, helped them in all things with siluer and gold, horses, and cattell, and with diuers vowes of many whose minds were stirred vp.

10 Also king Cyrus brought out the holy vessels of the Lord, which Nabuchadonosor had caried out of Jerusalem, and had consecrated them in the Temple of his idoles.

11 Now when Cyrus king of the Persians had brought them out, he deliuered them to ‖Mithridates his treasurer, 12 By whom they were giuen to ‖Abassar the gouernour of Judea.

13 Whereof this was the number: a thousand golden cups, and a thousand siluer cups, basins of siluer for the sacrifices, nine and twentie, viols of gold thirtie, and of siluer two thousand foure hundreth and tenne, and a thousand other vessels.

14 So all the vessels of golde and siluer, which they caried away, were fiue thousand foure hundreth, threescore and nine.

15 They were brought by Sanabassar with them of the captiuitie of Babylon to Jerusalem.

16 ¶ But in the time of Artaxerxes king of the Persians, ‖Belemus, & Mithridates, and Tabellius, and Rathumus, and Beeltethmus, and ‖Semellius the secretarie, and others which were ioyned to their dwelling in Samaria and in other places, wrote vnto him this Epistle here following against them that dwelt in Judea and Jerusalem,

TO THE KING ARTAXERXES OVR LORD.

17 Thy seruants, Rathumus the writer of things that come to passe, and Semellius the secretarie, and the rest of their councell, and the Iudges which are in Coelosyria and Phenice.

18 Bee it now therefore knowen to our lord the King, that the Iewes which came vp from you, are come to vs into Jerusalem, that rebellious and wicked citie, and build the market places, and make vp the walls thereof, and lay the foundations of the Temple.

19 Therefore if this city bee built, and the walles bee finished, they will not onely not endure to pay tribute, but also will resist Kings.

20 And because the things pertaining to the Temple goe forward, we thought it not meete to passe ouer such a thing,

21 But to declare it to our lord the King, that if it bee thy pleasure, it may bee sought out in the bookes of thy fathers,

22 And thou shalt find in the Chronicles the writings concerning these things, and shalt know that this citie did alwayes rebel, and did trouble both kings and cities,

23 And that the Iewes are rebellious, raising alwayes warres therein: for the which cause also this city was made desolate.

24 Now therefore, O lord the King, wee declare it, that if this city bee built, and the walles thereof repayred, you shall haue no more passage into Coelosyria, nor Phenice.

25 ¶ Then the king wrote againe to Rathumus, that wrote the things that came to passe, and to Beeltethmus, and to Semellius the secretary, and to the rest of those that were ioyned with them, and to the dwellers of Samaria, Syria & Phenice, these things that follow.

26 I haue read the Epistle, which ye sent to me: therefore I commanded, that it should be sought out, and it was found, that this citie hath alwayes practised against kings, 27 And that the men thereof were giuen to rebellion and wars, and how that mighty kings and fierce haue reigned in Jerusalem, which tooke tribute of Coelosyria, and Phenice.

28 Now therefore I haue commanded to forbid these men to build vp the city, & that it be taken heede that no more be done, 29 And that those wicked things which should molest the king, goe not forward.

30 Then when Rathumus, and Semellius the Secretary, and the rest, which were ioyned with them, had read the things, which King Artaxerxes had written, they moued their tents with speed to Jerusalem with horses and men in aray, 31 And began to let them which built, so that the building of the Temple in Jerusalem ceased vnto the second yere of the reigne of Darius king of the Persians.

CHAP. III.

1 The feast of Darius. 16 The three wise sentences.

NOw when Darius reigned, hee made a great feast to all his subiects, and to all those of his owne house, and to all the Princes of Media and Persia,

2 And to all the gouernours and captaines, and lieutenants that were with him, from India vnto Ethiopia of an hundreth and seuen and twenty prouinces.

3 And when they had eaten and dronke, and were satisfied, they departed, and King Darius went into his chamber, and slept till he wakened againe.

4 ¶ In the morne time three young men of the the guard, keepers of the kings body, layde one to another,

5 Let every one of vs speake a sentence, and hee that shall overcome, and whose sentence shall appeare wiser then the others, Darius the king shall giue him great gifts, and great things in token of victorie,

6 As to weare purple, and to drinke in golde, and to sleepe in golde, and a chariot with bridles of gold, an head tire of fine linnen, and a chaine about his necke.

7 And he shall sit next to Darius for his wisedome, and shalbe called Darius cousin.

8 Then every man wrote his sentence, and sealed it, and put it vnder the pillow of king Darius,

9 And said, when the king rose, they would giue him the writing, and whose sentence the king and the three princes of Persia should iudge to bee wisest, to him should the victorie be giuen, as it was appointed.

10 One wrote, The wine is strongest.

11 The other wrote, The king is strongest.

12 The other wrote, Women are strongest, but Truth ouercommeth all things.

13 ¶ And when the king rose, they tooke the writings and gaue them to him, and hee read them,

14 And sent and called all the noble men of Persia and of Media, and the gouernors and the captaines, and lieutenants, and the Consuls, 15 And sate him downe in the Councell, and the writing was read before them.

16 Then he said, Call the yong men, that they may declare their owne sentences. So they called them, and they came in.

17 Then he said vnto them, Declare vnto vs the writings. So the first began, which had spoken of the strength of wine, 18 And said on this maner, O yee men, how strong is wine! it deceiueth all men that drinke it.

19 It maketh the minde of the king and of the fatherlesse both one, of the bond man and of the free man, of the poore man and of the rich man.

20 It turneth also euery thought into ioy and gladnesse, so that one remembreth no sorrow nor debt.

21 It maketh every heart rich, so that one remembreth neither king nor gouernor, and causeth to speake all things by talents.

22 ¶ When men haue drunke, they haue no minde to loue either friends or brethren, and a little after they draw out swords.

23 But when they are from the wine, they do not remember what they haue done.

24 O ye men, is not wine strongest, which compelleth to doe such things? and hee held his peace when he had thus spoken.

CHAP. IIII.

Of the strength of a king. 13 Of the strength of women. 34 Of the strength of trueth, which sentence is approued, 47 and his petition granted.

THen the second which had spoken of the strength of the king, began to say,

2 O ye men, are not men strongest, which beare rule by land and by sea, and ouer all things which are in them?

3 But the king is yet greater: for he ruleth all things, and is Lord of them, so that they doe all things which he commandeth them.

4 If he bid them make war one against another, they doe it: if he send them out against the enemies, they goe & breake downe mountaines, and walles, and towers.

5 They kill and are killed, and doe not passe the commandement of the king: if they ouercome, they bring all to the king, as well the spoyles as all other things,

6 And those also which goe not to warre and battell, but till the earth: for when they haue sowen it againe, they reape it, & bring it to the king, and compel one another to pay tribute to the king.

7 Yet he is but one man: if he bid, Kill, they kill: if he say, Spare, they spare.

8 If he bid, Smite, they smite: if he bid them, Make desolate, they make desolate: if he bid, Build, they build.

9 If he bid, Cut off, they cut off: if he bid, Plant, they plant.

10 So all his people, and all his armies obey one man: in the meane while he sitteth downe, he eateth, and drinketh, and sleepeth.

11 For these keepe him round about: neither can any one goe and doe his owne businesse, neither are they disobedient vnto him.

12 O ye men, how should not the king be strongest, seeing he is thus obeyed? So hee held his tongue.

13 ¶ Then the third which had spoken of women & of the truth (this was Zorobabel) began to speake, 14 O yee men, neither the mighty King, nor many men, nor wine is strongest: who then ruleth them or hath dominion ouer them? are they not women?

15 Women haue borne the king, & all the people which beare rule by sea and by land.

16 Euen of them were they borne, and they nourished them which planted the vines of which the wine is made.

17 They also make mens garments and make men honourable, neither can men bee without women.

18 And if they haue gathered together gold and siluer, or any goodly thing, doe they not loue a faire and beautifull woman?

19 Do they not leaue all those things and gape, and gaze vpon her, & all men desire her more then gold or siluer, or any precious thing?

20 A man leaueth his owne father which hath nourished him, and his owne country, and is ioyned with his wife.

21 And for the woman he leoparteth his life, and neither remembreth father nor mother nor country.

22 Therefore by this yee may know that the women beare rule ouer you: doe yee not labour and trauell, and giue and bring all to the women?

23 Yea, a man taketh his sword and goeth forth to kill and to steale, and to saile vpon the sea, and vpon riuers, 24 And he seeth a Lion & goeth in darkenesse, and when he hath stollen, rauished and spoyled, he bringeth it to his loue.

25 ¶ Therefore a man loueth his own wife more then father or mother.

26 Yea

Shee three wise Sentences

Of the Strenght of all thing

23 Mark 1 Esd. 3 mom

26 Yet, many haue run mad by women, and haue bene brought to thraldome for them.

27 Many also haue perished and haue erred and sinned for women.

28 Howe therefore doe you not beleeue me? is not the King great in his power? doe not all regions feare to touch him?

29 Yet I saw him and Apame, the kings concubine, the daughter of the famous Bartacus, sitting on the right hand of the King, 30 And she tooke the crowne off the Kings head, and put it vpon her owne, and strooke the King with her left hand.

31 Yet in the meane season the King gaped and gazed on her: and if he laughed at him, he laughed: and if she were angrie with him, he did flatter her, that he might be reconciled with her.

32 How then, O ye men, are not women more strong, seeing they doe thus?

33 ¶ Then the King and the Princes looked one vpon another, and he began to speake of the trueth.

34 O ye men, are not women stronger? great is the earth, and the heauen is high, and the Sun is swift in his course: for he turneth round about heauen in one day, and runneth againe into his owne place.

35 Is not he great that maketh these things? therefore the trueth is greater and stronger then all.

36 All the earth calleth for trueth, and the heauen blesseth it: and all things are shaken and tremble, neither is there any vniust thing with it.

37 The wine is wicked, the King is wicked, women are wicked, and all the children of men are wicked, and all their wicked workes are such, and there is no trueth in them, and they perish in their iniquitie.

38 But trueth doeth abide, and is strong for euer, and liueth and reigneth for euer and euer.

39 With her there is no accepting of persons nor difference: but she doeth the things which are iust, & abhorreth from vniust and wicked things, and all men fauour her workes, 40 Neither is there any vniust thing in her iudgement, and she is the strength and the kingdome and the power, and maiestie of all ages. Blessed be the God of trueth.

41 So he ceased to speake, and then all the people cried and said, Trueth is great and strongest.

42 Then the King said vnto him, Aske what thou wilt besides that which is appointed, and wee will giue it thee, because thou art found the wisest, and thou shalt haue libertie to sit by me, and shalt be called my cousin.

43 ¶ Then he said to the King, Remember the vowe that thou hast vowed to builde Jerusalem, in the day that thou tookest the kingdome, 44 And to send again all the vessels that were taken out of Jerusalem, which Cyrus set apart when he made a vowe to cut off Babylon, and vowed to send them thither.

45 Thou also hast vowed to builde the Temple, which the Idumeans burnt when Iudea was destroyed by the Chaldeans.

46 And now, O lorde the king, this is that which I desire and require of thee, and this is the magnificence, which I require of thee: Andquire therefore that thou wouldest accomplish the vowe which thou hast vowed with thine owne mouth to do to the King of heauen.

47 Then king Darius rising vp, kissed him, and wrote him letters to all the stewards, and lieutenants, and captains, and gouernours, that they should bring on the way both him, and all that were with him, which went vp to build Jerusalem.

48 And he wrote letters to all the Lieutenants in Coelosyria, and Phenice, and to them that were in Libanus, that they should bring cedar wood from Libanus to Jerusalem, and build the citie with him.

49 And he wrote for all the Iewes, which went vp out of his kingdome vnto Iudea, concerning their libertie, that no prince nor Lieutenant, nor gouernor, nor steward should enter into their doores,

50 And that all the region which they kept, should pay no tribute, and that the Idumeans should let goe the villages of the Iewes which they held,

51 And that euery yeere there should be giuen for the building of the Temple twentie talents, vntill it were built,

52 And to maintaine the burnt offerings vpon the altar euery day (as they had a commandement to offer seuentene) other ten talents euery yeere:

53 And that all they which went from Babylon to build the citie, should haue libertie, as well they as their posteritie, and all the Priests that went away.

54 He wrote also touching the charges, and the Priestes garment, wherein they should minister.

55 And he wrote that they should giue the Leuites their charges, vntill the house were finished, and Jerusalem built.

56 Also he wrote that they should giue pensions and wages to them that kept the citie.

57 And he sent away all the vessels which Cyrus had set apart out of Babylon, and whatsoeuer Cyrus had commanded to doe, he also commanded to doe it, and to send to Jerusalem.

58 And when the ‖ young man was gone forth, he lift vp his face to heauen towardes Jerusalem, and gaue thankes to the King of heauen, 59 Saying, Of thee is the victory, and of thee is wisedome, and of thee is glory, and I am thy seruant.

60 Blessed be thou which hast giuen me wisdome: for vnto thee I acknowledge it, O Lorde of our fathers.

61 ¶ So he tooke the letters, and went out and came to Babylon, and told all his brethren.

62 And they blessed the God of their fathers, because he had giuen them freedome and libertie

63 To goe vp and to builde Jerusalem, and the Temple, where his Name is renowned, and they reioyced with instruments of musicke and ioy seuen dayes.

35 All the ministers of the Temple, and the sonnes of the seruants of Salomon, were three hundreth, seuentie and two.

36 These came vp from ‖ Thermeleth, and Thelersas: Carsathalat and Alar leading them.

37 Neither

37 Neither could they shewe their families nor their stocke, how they were of Israel: the sonnes of ‖ Dalaias, the sonnes of ‖ Tubi, the sonnes of ‖ Necoda, sixe hundreth fifty and two.

38 And of the Priestes those which exercised the office of the Priestes, and were not found the sonnes of ‖ Obdia, the sonnes of ‖ Accos, the sons of ‖ Addus, which had taken to wife Augia, one of the daughters of ‖ Berzelaius, 40 For ‖ Nemias and Attharias saide to them, that they should not be partakers of the holy things, till there arose an high Priest clothed with doctrine and truth.

41 So all they of Israel, from them of twelue yeere olde, and little children, were fortie thousand, besides mens seruants and women seruants, two thousande three hundreth and sixtie.

42 Their seruants and handmaides were seuen thousand, three hundreth fourtie and seuen: the singing men and women, two hundreth, forty and fiue:

43 Camels, foure hundreth thirtie and fiue: and horses, seuen hundreth, thirtie & sixe: mules, two hundreth fortie and fiue: ‖ beastes that bare the yoke, fiue thousand, fiue hundreth, twentie and sixe.

44 And there were of the gouernours after their families, which when they were come to the Temple in Jerusalem, vowed to build the house in his owne place according to their power, 45 And to giue to the treasure of the worke, a thousand pound in golde, and fiue thousand pound in siluer, and an hundreth priestly garments.

46 And the Priests and the Leuites and the people dwelt in Jerusalem, and in the country, and the holy singers and the porters, and all Israel in their ‖ villages.

47 ¶ But when the seuenth moneth was neere, and when the children of Israel were euery one at home, they were all gathered together with one accord into the open place of the first gate, which is toward the East.

48 Then Jesus the sonne of Josedec and his brethren the Priests, with Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel and his brethren, rising vp, made ready the altar of the God of Israel, 49 To offer burnt offrings vpon it according as it is written in the booke of Moses the man of God.

50 Whither also there were gathered against them of all nations of the land: but they dressed the altar in his owne place, although all the nations of the land were their enemies and vexed them, and they offred sacrifices according to the season, and burnt offrings to the Lord, morning and euening.

51 They kept also the feast of tabernacles, as it is ordeined in the Law, and offred sacrifices euery day, as was requisite, 52 And afterward, the continuall oblations and offrings of the Sabbaths, and of the newe moneths and of all holy feasts.

53 And all they which had made any vow to God, began to offer sacrifice vnto God in the first day of the seuenth moneth, although the temple of God was not yet built.

54 They gaue also money to the masons and to the workemen, and meate and drinke with gladnesse, 55 And charets to the Sidonians, & to those of Tyrus to bring Cedar wood out of Libanus, which should be brought by floates to the hauen of Joppe, according to the commandement giuen vnto them by Cyrus king of Persia.

56 And in the second yeere and second moneth came into the Temple of God in Jerusalem, Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and Jesus the sonne of Josedec, and their brethren, and the Priests and Leuites, and all they that came out of captiuitie vnto Jerusalem, 57 And *laide the foundation of the house of God in the first day of the second moneth of the second yeere, after their returne into Judea and Jerusalem.

58 And they appointed the Leuites from twenty yeere olde ouer the workes of the Lorde, and Jesus and his sonne and his brethren, and his brother Cadmiel, and the sonnes of Wadiadon with the sonnes of Joda, the sonne of Heliadun, with their sonnes and brethren, euen all the Leuites with one accorde did followe after the worke, calling vpon the workes in the house of God: thus the workemen built the Temple of the Lord.

59 And the Priests stood clothed with their long garments with musicall instruments, and trumpets, and the Leuites the sonnes of Asaph with cymbales, 60 Singing and blessing the Lord according to the ordinance of Dauid king of Israel.

61 And they sung with lowd voyce songs to the prayse of the Lorde, because his mercie and glory is for euer in all Israel.

62 Then all the people blew trumpets, and cryed with lowd voyce, praysing the Lord for the raising vp of the house of the Lord.

63 Also some of the Priests and Leuites, and chiefe men, to wit, the Ancients which had seene the former house,

64 Came to see the building of this with weeping and great crying, and many with trumpets and ioy cried with lowd voyce,

65 So that the people could not heare the trumpets, because of the weeping of the people: yet there was a great multitude that blew trumpets, so that they were heard farre off.

66 ¶ Wherefore when the enemies of the tribes of Juda and Beniamin heard it, they came to know what noise of trumpets it was.

67 And they knew that they of the captiuitie built the Temple to the Lord God of Israel.

68 Wherefore they comming to Zorobabel, and Jesus, and the chiefe of the families, sayde vnto them, Let vs build also with you.

69 For we obey your Lord as you doe, and sacrifice vnto him since the dayes of ‖ Asbasareth king of the Assyrians, which brought vs hither.

70 Then Zorobabel and Jesus, and the chiefe of the families of Israel sayd to them, It doeth not appertaine to vs, and to you to build an house to the Lord our God.

72 Howbeit the people of the lande make them sluggish that were in Judea, and letted them to build the worke, and by their ambushments and seditions and conspiracies hindred the finishing of the building,

CHAP. VI.

1 Of Aggeus and Zacharias. 2 The building of the Temple. 3 Sisinnes would let them. 7 His Epistle to Darius. 23 The Kings answere to the contrary.

Ezra.5.1. zeche.1.1. BVt* in the second yeere of the reigne of Darius, Aggeus and Zacharias the sonne of Addo the Prophets prophesied to the Jewes, euen vnto them that were in Judea and Jerusalem, in the Name of the Lord God of Israel, which they called ‡ vpon.

‡ Greeke vpon them,

2 Then Zorobabel sonne of Salathiel, and Jesus the sonne of Josedec stood vp, and began to build the house of the Lord, which is in Jerusalem, the Prophets of the Lorde being with them, and helping them.

3 ¶ In that time Sisinnes the gouernour of Syria and Phenice, and Sathrabouzanes with his companions came vnto them,

4 And sayd vnto them, By whose commaundement builde you this house and this building, and enterpryse all these other things? and who are the builders that enterpryse such things?

5 But the ancients of the Jewes had grace of the Lord, after that they had visited the captiuitie, 6 That they were not letted to build, vntill it was signified vnto Darius of these matters, and an answere was receiued.

7 ¶ The copie of the Epistle, which hee did write and sent to Darius: SISINNES gouernour of Syria and of Phenice, and Sathrabouzanes, and their companions, presidents in Syria and Phenice, salute king Darius.

8 It may pleast the king our master plainely to vnderstande, that when wee came to the countrey of Judea, and entred into the citie of Jerusalem, wee found in the citie of Jerusalem the ancients of the Jewes that were of the captiuitie, 9 Building an house to the Lord great and new, of hewen stones, and of great price, and the timber already layd vpon the walles.

10 And these workes are done with great speede, yea, and the worke hath good successe in their handes, so that it will be finished with all glory and diligence.

11 Then we asked their ancients, saying, By whose commandement build you this house, and lay the foundation of these workes?

12 We asked them these things to the intent to notifie them to thee, and to write to thee the men that gouerned it: therefore wee demanded the names of the gouernours in writing.

13 But they answered saying, Wee are the seruaunts of the Lorde, which hath created the heauen and the earth.

14 And* this house was built vp many yeres agoe by a king of Israel great and strong, and was finished.

15 But when our fathers, prouoking GOD to wrath, sinned against the Lorde of Israel, which is in heauen, * he deliuered them into the hands of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon of the Chaldeans,

2.King.24.1

16 Who brake downe the house, and burnt it, and caried the people captiue to Babylon.

17 But in the first yeere of the reigne of Cyrus ouer the countrey of Babylon, king Cyrus wrote that this house should be built vp.

18 And the holy vessels of golde and of siluer, which Nabuchodonosor had caried out of the house of Jerusalem, and had dedicated them in his owne Temple, Cyrus the king tooke out of the Temple at Babylon, and they were giuen to Zorobabel, and to ‖ Sanaballarus ruler.

‖ Or, Shashbazar.

19 And a commaundement was giuen vnto him, that he should cary away those vessels, and put them in the Temple at Jerusalem, and that this Temple of the Lord should be built in this place.

20 Then the same Sanaballarus, being come hither, layde the foundations of the house of the Lorde at Jerusalem, and since that time till nowe, it is in building and is not finished.

21 Nowe therefore if it please the king, let it be sought vp in the kings libraries concerning Cyrus.

22 And if it be found that the building of the house of the Lord at Jerusalem hath bin don by the consent of king Cyrus, and if it seeme good to the lord our king, let him make vs answere concerning these things.

23 Then King Darius commaunded to search in the kings libraries that were in Babylon, and there was founde in Ecbatane, which is a tower in the region of Media, a place where such things were layde vp for memorie.

24 In the first yeere of the reigne of Cyrus, king Cyrus commanded the house of the Lord at Jerusalem to be builded, where they did sacrifice with the continuall fire.

25 Of the which the height should be of threescore cubites, the breadth of threescore cubites, with three rowes of hewen stones, and one row of new wood of that countrey, and that the costes should bee payed out of the house of king Cyrus,

26 And that the holy vessels of the house of the Lord, as well those of gold as of siluer, which Nabuchodonosor had caried out of the house in Jerusalem, and brought into Babylon, should bee restored to the house which is in Jerusalem, and set in the place where they were afore.

27 Also hee commanded that Sisinnes gouernour of Syria and Phenice, and Sathrabouzanes, and their companions, and those which were constitute captaines in Syria & Phenice, should take heede to refraine from that place, and to suffer Zorobabel the seruant of the Lorde, and gouernour of Judea, and the Elders of the Jewes to build that house of the Lorde in that place.

28 And I also haue commaunded to build it cleane vp againe, and that they bee diligent to helpe them of the captiuitie of the Jewes, till the house of the Lord be finished,

29 And that some part of the tribute of Coelosyria lofyria and Phenice should be diligently giuen to these men for sacrifice vnto the Lord, and to Zorobabel the gouernour, for bulles, rammes, and lambes:

30 Also corne, and salt, and wine, and oile continually euery yeere without faile, as the Priests which are in Jerusalem shall reckon to be spent euery day, 31 That offerings may be made to the hie God for the king and his children, and that they may pray for their lyues.

32 Furthermore he commanded that whosoeuer should transgresse any thing afore spoken or written, or derogate any thing thereof, that a tree should be taken out of his possession, and hee bee hanged thereon, and that his goods should bee the kings.

33 And therefore let the Lord whose name is there called vpon, destroy euery king and nation, which stretcheth out his hand to hinder or doe euill in the house of the Lord which is in Jerusalem.

Ezra 6. 12. 34 ¶ I Darius the King haue ordained that it should be diligently executed according to these things.

CHAP. VII.

1 Sisinnes and his companions follow the Kings commandement, and helpe the Iewes to build the Temple. 5 The time that it was built. 10 They keepe the Passeouer.

Ezra 6. 13. THen Sisinnes the * gouernour of Coelosyria and Phenice, and Sathrabuzanes, and their companions obeying King Darius commaundements, 2 Assisted diligently the holy workes, working with the ancients & gouernors of the Sanctuary.

3 And the holy workes prospered by Aggeus and Zacharias the Prophets which prophecied.

4 So they finished all things by the commandement of the Lord God of Israel, and with the consent of Cyrus and Darius, and Artaxerxes kings of the Persians.

5 Thus the holy house was finished in the three and twentieth day of the moneth Adar in the first yeere of Darius king of the Persians.

6 ¶ And the children of Israel, and the Priestes and the Leuites, and the rest, which were of the captiuitie, and had any charge, did according to the things written in the booke of Moyses.

7 And they offered for the dedication of the Temple of the Lord, an hundreth bulles, two hundreth rammes, foure hundreth lambes, 8 And twelue goates for the sinne of all Israel, according to the number of the chiefe of the tribes of Israel.

9 And the Priests and the Leuites stood according to their kinreds, clothed with long robes in the workes of the Lord God of Israel, according to the booke of Moyles, and also the porters in euery gate.

10 And the children of Israel offred the Passeouer together with them of the captiuitie, in the fourteenth day of the first moneth, after that the Priests and Leuites were sanctified.

11 But all the children of the captiuitie were not sanctified together, but all the Leuites were sanctified together.

12 And they offered the Passeouer for all the children of the captiuitie, and for their brethren the Priests, and for themselues.

13 Then all the children of Israel which were of the captiuitie did eate, euen all they that had separated themselues from the abominations of the people of the land, and sought the Lord.

14 And they kept the feast of vnleauened bread seuen dayes, reioycing before the Lord, 15 Because hee had turned the counsell of the King of the Assyrians towards them to strengthen their hands in the workes of the Lord God of Israel.

1 Esdras commeth from Babylon to Ierusalem. 10 The copie of the commission giuen by Artaxerxes. 29 Esdras giueth thankes to the Lord. 32 The number of the heads of the people that came with him. 76 His prayer and confession.

AND after these things when Artaxerxes King of the Persians reigned, Eldras the sonne of ‖ Saraias, the sonne of Ezerias, the sonne ‖ Or, Azaria of Helcias, the sonne of Sadam,

2 The sonne of Sadoc, the sonne of Achitob, the sonne of Amarias, the sonne of ‖ Ezias, the ‖ Or, Azaria sonne of ‖ Merimoth, the sonne of ‖ Zaraias, ‖ Or, Maraioth. the sonne of ‖ Saulas, the sonne of Boccas, the sonne of Abisum, the sonne of Phinees, the ‖ Or, Sama. sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron was the hie ‖ Or, Aa. Priest.

3 This Eldras went out of Babylon, and was a scribe well taught in the Law of Moyses, giuen by the Lord God of Israel.

4 Also the King gaue him great honour, and hee found grace in his sight in all his requests.

5 With him also there departed some of the children of Israel, and of the Priestes and Leuites, and of the holy singers, and of the Porters, and of the ministers of the Temple vnto Jerusalem,

6 In the seuenth yeere of the reigne of king Artaxerxes, and in the first moneth: this was the seuenth yeere of the King (for they went out of Babylon in the first day of the first moneth,

7 And came to Jerusalem according as the Lord gaue them speede in their iourney.)

8 For Eldras had gotten great knowledge, so that hee would let nothing passe that was in the Law of the Lord, and in the commaundements, and hee taught all Israel all the ordinances and iudgements.

9 So the Commission written by King Artaxerxes was giuen Esdras the Priest, and reader of the Law of the Lord: the copie thereof followeth.

10 King Artaxerxes to Eldras the Priest, and reader of the Law of the Lord, Salutation.

11 For as much as I consider things with pitie, I haue commaunded that they that will and desire of the nation of the Iewes, & of the Priests and Leuites, which are in our kingdome, should goe with thee vnto Israel.

12 Therefore as many as be willing, let them depart together, as it hath seemed good to me and my seuen friends the counsellers,

13 That they may visite the things that are in in Judea and Jerusalem diligently, as it is contained in the Law of the Lord, 14 And carie the gifts to the Lord of Israel in Jerusalem, which I and my friends have vowed: also al the gold and siluer, which shalbe found in the countrey of Babylon appertaining to the Lord in Jerusalem.

15 With that which is giuen of the people to the Temple of the Lord their God, that it might be brought to Jerusalem, as well siluer as golde, for bulles and rammes, and lambes, and things thereunto pertaining,

16 That they may offer sacrifices to the Lord vpon the altar of the Lord their God, which is in Jerusalem.

17 And whatsoeuer thou and thy brethren will doe with the golde or siluer, accomplish it according to the will of thy God.

18 And the holy vessels of the Lord, which are giuen thee for the vse of the Temple of thy God, which is in Jerusalem, thou shalt set before thy God in Jerusalem.

19 And what other things soeuer thou shalt remember for the vse of the Temple of thy God, thou shalt giue it out of the kings treasure.

20 And I also King Artaxerxes haue commaunded the treasurers of Syria and Phenice, that whatsoeuer Esdras, the Priest and reader of the Lawe of the highest God, shall send for, they should giue it him with all speede, euen to the summe of an hundreth talents of siluer, 21 And likewise vnto an hundreth cores of corne, and an hundreth pieces of wine and other things in abundance.

22 Let all things be done to the highest God, according to the Law of God with diligence, that wrath come not vpon the kingdome of the King and of his sonnes.

23 Also to you it is commaunded, that of none of the Priests or Leuites, or holy singers, or Porters, or ministers of the Temple, or of the workmen of this Temple, no tribute nor tare bee taken, nor that any haue power to taxe them in any thing.

24 Thou also, Esdras, according to the wisedome of God, ordeine iudges and gouernours, that they may iudge in all Syria and Phenice all those which are well instructed in the Lawe of thy God, and teach those, which are not instructed.

25 And let all those which shall transgresse the Law of God and the King, bee diligently punished, either with death, or other punishment, either with penaltie of money, or banishment.

26 ¶ Then Esdras the Scribe said, Blessed be the onely Lord God of my fathers, which hath put this in the heart of the King to glorifie his house which is in Jerusalem, 27 And hath honoured mee before the King, and the counsellers, and all his friends and gouernours.

28 ¶ * Therefore I was incouraged by the helpe of the Lord my God, and gathered men of Israel to goe vp with me. Ezra 7.

41 And I gathered them together to the flood called * Theras, and pitched our tents there three dayes, and numbred them. Ezra 8.15.

42 But when I had found there none of the Priests nor Leuites, 43 I sent to Eleazar, and behold, there came ‖ Maaliman, and Amathan, and Samatan, and ‖ Jotibon, and Nathan, Ennatan, Zacharian, and Mosollamon the chiefe, and best learned. ‖Or, Masma, Alnathan. ‖Or, Ioiib, Elnathan, Zacharie, & Mosollam.

44 And I bade them to goe to Daddeus the captaine which was in the place of the treasurie, 45 With charge to bid Daddeus and his brethren, and the treasurers that were there, to send to vs them, which should offer sacrifice in the house of our Lord.

46 And they brought vnto vs by the mightie hand of our Lord learned men of the sonnes of Moli, the sonne of Leui, the sonne of Israel, to wit, ‖ Sisebedzan and his sonnes, and his brethren being eighteene. ‖Or, Seredia.

47 And Asebia, and ‖ Annon, and Osaian his brethren of the sonnes of ‖ Canaineus, with their sonnes, twentie persons. ‖Or, Anom, Iesaias. ‖Or, Canaanmen.

48 And of the ministers of the temple, which Dauid gaue, and those which were rulers ouer the worke of the Leuites, to wit, ministers of the Temple, two hundreth and twentie, of whom all the names were registred.

49 ¶ And * there I proclaimed a fast for the young men before the Lord to aske of him a good iourney both for vs, and for them that were with vs, for our children, and for our cattell. Ezra 8.21.

50 For I was ashamed to aske the King footemen or horsemen, or conduct for safe-gard against our enemies,

51 Because we had said to the king, that the power of our Lord should be with them that sought him, to direct them in all things.

52 Wherefore we prayed our Lord against according to these things, whom we found favourable.

53 Then I chose from among the chiefe of the tribes, and of the Priests, twelue men, to wit, ‖Eleazias and Asanias, and with them twelue of their brethren.

‖Or, Serebias.

54 And I weighed them the siluer and the golde, and the holy vessels of the house of our Lorde, which the king and his counsellers, and his princes, and all Israel had giuen.

55 And I weighed them, fiue hundreth and fifetie talents of siluer, and siluer vessels of an hundreth talents, and an hundreth talents of golde, 56 And twenty golden bassins, and twelue vessels of braile of fine braile shining like golde.

57 And I said to them, You are also holy to the Lord, and the vessels are holy, and the golde, and the siluer is a vowe to the Lorde of our fathers.

58 Watch and keepe them, till that you giue them to the heads of the families of the Priests, and Leuites, and captaines of the families of Israel in Jerusalem in the chambers of the house of our God.

59 So the Priests and Leuites tooke the siluer and the golde, and the vessels, and carried them to Jerusalem to the Temple of the Lord.

60 And wee departed from the flood Thera, in the twelfth day of the first moneth, and came to Jerusalem, according to the mighty power of our Lorde wich vs: and the Lorde deliuered vs from the beginning of our iourney from all enemies. So wee came to Jerusalem.

61 And three dayes being past there, in the fourth day the siluer that was weighed, and the golde was deliuered in the house of our Lorde to ‖Marmoth the Priest, the sonne of Iouri, ‖Or, Marimoth the sonne of Iorie of Vria.

62 And with him to Eleazar the sonne of Phinees: and there were with them, Joiadab the sonne of Jesus, and ‖Moeth sonne of Sabbanus, Leuites: all was deliuered them by number and weight.

‖Or, Noedia, sonnes sonne of Bannus.

63 And all the weight of them was written the same houre.

64 Afterwards those that were come out of the captiuitie, offered sacrifices to the Lord God of Israel, euen twelue bulles for all Israel, rams fourescore and sixteene, 65 Lambes threescore and twelue, twelue goates for saluation, all in sacrifice to the Lord.

66 And they proclaimed the commandements of the King to the Kings stewards, and to the gouernours of Coelosyria and Phenice, who honoured the people, and the Temple of God.

Ezra 9.1.

67 ¶ When these things were done, the gouernours came to me, saying, The people of Israel, the Princes and the Priestes, and the Leuites haue not separated from them the strange people of the land, 68 Nor the pollutions of the Gentiles, to wit, of the Canaanites, and Chetites, and Pherezites, and Jebusites and Moabites, and Egyptians, and Idumeans.

69 For they haue taken with their daughters, both they and their sonnes, and the holy seed is mixed with the strange people of the land, and the gouernours and rulers haue been partakers of this wickednesse from the beginning of the thing.

70 And as soone as I had heard these things, I rent my clothes, and the holy garment, and I pulled the haire off mine head, and off my beard, and sate me downe sorowfull, and very sad.

71 Then also all they that were moued with the words of the Lord God of Israel came to me whiles I wept for the iniquitie, but I sate very sad till the euening sacrifice.

72 Then I rose from the fast with my clothes torne, and the holy garment, and bowed my knees, and stretched forth mine hands to the Lord, 73 And said, O Lord, I am ashamed, and confounded before thy face. Ezra 9.6.

74 For our sinnes are increased aboue our heads, and our ignorances are lifted vp to heauen.

75 Yea, euen from the time of our fathers we are in great sinne vnto this day.

76 For our sinnes therefore, and our fathers, we with our brethren, with our kings & Priests haue been giuen vp to the kings of the earth, to the sword and to captiuitie, and for a pray with all shame vnto this day.

77 And now how great hath thy mercy been, O Lord, that there should be left vs a roote and name in the place of thine holinesse!

78 And that thou shouldest reueale to vs a light in the house of the Lord our God, and giue vs meate in the time of our straitnesse!

79 For when we were in bondage, we were not left of our God, but he gaue vs fauour before the Kings of the Persians, that they should giue vs meate, 80 And that they should honour the Temple of our Lorde, and exalt vp Sion that it should stand, and giue vs assurance in Judea and Jerusalem.

81 And aboue, O Lorde, what shall wee say, hauing these things? for wee haue transgressed thy Commandements, which thou hast giuen by the handes of thy seruants the Prophets, saying, 82 The land which ye goe to inherite, is a lande polluted by the pollutions of the strangers of the land, which haue filled it with their filthinesse, Deut. 7.1.

83 Therefore nowe yee shall not ioyne your daughters with your sonnes, neither giue your daughters to their sonnes, 84 Neither shall you desire to haue peace with them for euer, that yee may be made strong, and eate the good things of the land, and leaue it for an inheritance to your children for euer.

85 Therefore all that is come to passe, was done for our wicked workes, and for our great sinnes: yet, Lorde, thou hast forborne our sinnes, 86 And hast giuen vs such a roote: but we againe haue turned backe to transgresse thy Law, and to mixe vs with the vncleannesse of the people of the land.

87 Wightest thou not be angrie with vs to destroy vs, so that thou shouldest neither leaue vs voote, nor ſt the no: name?

88 Nay, O Lorde of Iſrael, thou art true: for there is a vvote left, euen vnto this day.

89 Beholde, we are now before thee with our iniquities, neither can we endure before thee for their things.

Ezra.10.1. 90 ¶ And as Edras prayed and confeſſed and wept, and lay vpon the ground before the Temple, a very great multitude was gathered vnto him out of Jerusalem, of men and women, and yong children: for there was great lamentation among the multitude.

‖Or, Ieiel. 91 Then Jechonias the ſonne of ‖ Jeel of the ſonnes of Iſrael, crying out, ſaid, O Edras, we haue ſinned againſt the Lord God: we haue taken in marriage ſtrange women of the nations of the land.

92 And now all Iſrael is doubtful: therefore let vs make an oath concerning this to the Lord to put away all our wiues, which are ſtrangers, with their children.

93 If it ſeeme good to thee, and to all them that obey the Law of the Lord, riſe vp and put it in execution.

94 For to thee doeth it appertaine, and we are with thee to make thee ſtrong.

95 Then Edras arose, and made all the chiefe of the families of the Prieſts and Leuites of all Iſrael to ſweare, that they would doe thus: and they ſware.

Then Edras roſe from the court of the Temple, and went to the chamber of Joannan the ſonne of Eliaſib,

2 And being lodged there, hee did eate no bread, nor drinke water, but mourned for the great iniquities of the multitude.

3 And there was a proclamation in all Judea and Jeruſalem, to all them that were of the captiuitie, that they ſhould be gathered to Jeruſalem,

4 And that all they which ſhould not meete there within two or three dayes, according to the ordinance of the Elders, which bare rule, ſhould haue their cattell confiſcate to the Temple, and he caſt out from among them of the captiuitie.

5 Then all they which were of the tribe of Juda & Beniamin, came together within three dayes into Jeruſalem: this was the ninth moneth, and twentieth day of the moneth.

6 And all the multitude ſate in the broade place of the Temple ſhaking, becauſe of the extreme winter.

7 Then Edras arose and ſaide to them, Ye haue ſinned: for ye haue married ſtrange wiues, ſo that ye haue augmented the ſinnes of Iſrael.

8 Nowe therefore confeſſe and glorifie the Lord God of our fathers, 9 And doe his will, and ſeparate your ſelues from the people of the land, & from the ſtrange wiues.

10 Then all the multitude cried out and ſayd with a loude voice, We will doe ſo as thou haſt layd.

11 But becauſe the multitude is great, and the time is winter, ſo that wee cannot ſtande without, and the worke is not of one day nor of two, ſeeing that many of vs haue ſinned in this matter,

12 Let the chiefe men of the multitude, and al they which haue ſtrange wiues of our families, tarrie:

13 And let the Prieſts and Iudges come out of all places at the day appointed, till they haue appeaſed the wrath of the Lord againſt vs for this matter.

Nehe 8 1. 38 ¶ * Then all the multitude assembled together with one consent into the broad place before the gate of the Temple toward the East, 39 And spake to Esdras the Priest, and reader, that he should bring the Lawe of Moyses, which had bin giuen by the Lord God of Israel.
40 Then brought Esdras the chiefe Priest the Law to all the multitude, both man and woman, & to all the Priests, that they might heare the Law the first day of the seuenth moneth.
41 And he read in the first broad place of the gate of the Temple, from morning to midday, before the men and the women, and all the multitude hearkened to the Lawe.
42 So Esdras the Priest, and reader of the Law, stood vpon a pulpit of wood that was prepared.

49 And taught the Lawe of the Lorde, and stoode alsо earnestly vpon the reading.
‖Or, Nehemias. 50 Then sayd ‖Aththarates to Esdras the chiefe Priest and Reader, and to the Leuites, that taught the multitude in all things, This day is holy vnto the Lord, and all haue wept in hearing of the Law.
51 Goe therefore and eate the fatte meates, and drinke the sweete drinkes, and send presents to them that haue not.
52 For this day is holy to the Lord, and be not sory: for the Lord God will glorifie you.
53 So the Leuites commaunded all these things to the people, saying, This day is holy to the Lord: be not sad.
54 Then they departed all to eat and drinke, and to reioyce, and to giue presents to them that had not, and to make good cheere.
55 For they were yet filled with the wordes wherewith they were instructed, when they were assembled together.

Isa. 58. 1. 4 * And the word of the Lord came vnto me, saying,
5 Goe, and shew my people their sinnes, and their children their wickednes, which they haue committed against mee, that they may tell their childrens children.
6 For the sinnes of their fathers are increased in them, because they haue forgotten mee, and haue offered vnto strange gods.
7 Haue not I brought them out of the land of Egypt from the house of bondage? but they haue prouoked me vnto wrath, and despised my counsels.
8 Pull then off then the haire of thine head, and cast all euill vpon them: for they haue not been obedient vnto my Lawe, but they are a rebellious people.

33 Thus sayth the Almighty Lorde, Your house shall be desolate: I will cast you out as the winde doeth the stubble.

34 Your children shall not haue generation: for they haue despised my commandement, and done the thing that I hate, before me.

35 Your houses will I giue vnto a people to come, who shall beleeue me though they heare mee not, and they, vnto whom I neuer shewed miracle, shall doe the things that I commaund them.

36 Though they see no Prophets, yet shall they hate their iniquities.

37 ¶ I will declare the grace that I will doe for the people to come, whose children reioyce in gladnesse, and though they haue not seene mee with bodily eyes, yet in heart they beleeue the things that I say.

CHAP. II.

The Synagogue findeth fault with her own children.
18 The Gentiles called.

THus sayth the Lord, I brought this people out of bondage: I gaue them also my commaundements by my seruants the Prophets, whome they would not heare, but despised my counsels.

2 The mother that bare them, sayth vnto them, Goe you away, O children: for I am a widow and forsaken.

3 I brought you vp with gladnesse, but with sorow and heauinesse haue I lost you: for ye haue sinned against the Lord your God, and done the thing that displeaseth him.

4 But what shall I nowe doe vnto you? I am a widow and forsaken: goe yee, O my children, and aske mercie of the Lord.

5 And thee, O Father I call for a witnesse for the mother of these children, which would not keepe my couenant,

6 That thou bring them to confusion, and their mother to a spoile, that their kinred be not continued.

7 Let their names bee scattered among the heathen: let them be put out of the earth, for they haue despised my couenant.

8 Woe vnto thee, Assur: for thou hidest the vnrighteous in thee: O wicked people, remember *what I did vnto Sodom and Gomorah, Gen.19.24.

9 Whose land is mired with clouds of pitch and heapes of ashes: so will I doe vnto them, that heare me not, saith the Almighty Lord.

10 ¶ Thus sayth the Lord vnto Esdras, Tell my people, that I will giue them the kingdome of Jerusalem, which I would haue giuen vnto Israel.

11 And I will get me glory by them, and giue them the euerlasting tabernacles, which I had prepared for those.

12 They shal haue at will the tree of life smelling of ointment: they shal neither labour nor be wearie.

13 Goe ye, and ye shal receiue it: pray that the time, which is long may bee shortned: the kingdome is already prepared for you: watch.

14 Take heauen and earth to witnesse: for I haue abolished the euill, and created the good: for I liue, saith the Lord.

15 Mother, embrace thy children, and bring them vp with gladnesse: make their feete as fast as a pillar: For I haue chosen thee, sayth the Lord.

16 And those that be dead will I raise vp from their places, and bring them out of the graues: for I haue knowen my name in Israel.

17 Feare not thou mother of the children: for I haue chosen thee, sayth the Lord.

18 I will send thee my seruants Esai and Jeremie to help thee, by whose counsel I haue sanctified and prepared for thee twelue trees laden with diuers fruits, 19 And as many fountaines, flowing with milke and honie, and seuen mighty mountaines, whereupon there grow roses and lilies, whereby I will fill thy children with ioy.

20 Execute iustice for the widow: iudge the cause of the fatherlesse: giue to the poore: defend the fatherlesse: clothe the naked.

21 Heale

21 Heale thy wounded, and sicke: laugh not a lame man to scorne: defend the creeple, and let the blind come into the light of my clerenesse.

22 Keepe the old and the yong that are within thy wals.

Tobit 1.17. 23 *Wheresoeuer thou findest the dead, take them and burie them, and I will giue thee the first place in my resurrection.

24 Abide still, O my people, and rest: for thy quietnesse shall come.

25 Nourish thy children, O thou good nurse: stablish their feete.

26 None of the seruants that I haue giuen thee, shall perish: for I will seeke them from among thy number.

27 Be not wearie: for when the day of trouble and heauinesse commeth, other shall weepe and be sorrowfull, but thou shalt be merrie, and haue abundance.

28 The heathen shall enuie thee, and shall doe nothing against thee, saith the Lord.

29 Mine hands shall couer thee, so that thy children shall not see hell.

30 Bee ioyfull, O thou mother, with thy children: for I will deliuer thee, saith the Lord.

31 Remember thy children that sleepe: for I will bring them out of the lides of the earth, and will shew mercie vnto them: for I am mercifull, saith the Lord Almightie.

32 Embrace thy children, vntill I come and shew mercie vnto them: for my fountaines runne ouer, and my grace shall not faile.

33 I Esdras receiued a charge of the Lord vpon the mount Horeb, that I should goe vnto them of Israel, but when I came to them, they cast me off, and despised the commandement of the Lord.

34 And therefore I say vnto you, O yee heathen, that heare and vnderstand, Attaite for your shepheard, who shall giue you euerlasting rest: for he is neere at hand, that shall come in the ende of the world.

35 Bee ready at the reward of the kingdome: for the euerlasting light shall shine vpon you for euermore.

36 Flee the shadowe of this world: receiue the ioy of your glorie: I testifie my Sauiour openly.

37 Receiue the gift that is giuen you, and bee glad, giuing thankes vnto him that hath called you to the heauenly kingdome.

38 Arise and stand vp, and behold the number of those that are sealed to the feast of the Lord, 39 Which are departed from the shadowe of the world, and haue receiued glorious garments of the Lord.

40 Take thy number, O Sion, and shut vp them that are clothed in white, which haue fulfilled the Law of the Lord.

41 The number of thy children whome thou longest for, is fulfilled: beseech the power of the Lord, that the people which haue beene called from the beginning may be sanctified.

Reue.7.9. 42 *I Esdras saw vpon mount Sion a great people whom I could not number, and they all praised the Lord with songs.

43 And in the midst of them there was a yong man higher in stature then them all, and vpon euery one of their heads hee set crownes, and was higher then the others, which I much marualled at.

44 So I asked the Angel, and said, Who are these my Lord?

45 Who answered and said vnto mee, These be they that haue put off the mortal clothing, and haue put on the immortall, and haue confessed the Name of God: now are they crowned, and receiue the palmes.

46 Then said I vnto the Angel, What young man is it that setteth crownes on them, and giueth them the palmes in their hands?

47 And he answered, and said vnto me, It is the Sonne of God, whom they haue confessed in the world. Then began I greatly to commend them, that had stood in stronglie for the Name of the Lord.

48 Then the Angel said vnto me, Goe thy way, and tell my people, what, and how great wonders of the Lord God thou hast seene.

CHAP. III.

4 The wonderous workes, which God did for the people, are recited. 31 Esdras marueileth that God suffereth the Babylonians to beare rule ouer his people, which yet are sinners also.

IN the thirtieth yeere after the fall of the citie, as I was at Babylon, I lay troubled vpon my bed, and my thoughts came vp to mine heart,

2 Because I saw the desolation of Sion, and the weale of them that dwelt at Babylon.

3 So my spirit was sore moued, so that I began to speake fearefull words to the most High, and said,

4 O Lord, Lorde, thou spakest at the beginning when thou alone plantedst the earth, and gauest commandement vnto the people,

5 *And a body vnto Adam without a soule, who was also the workmanship of thine hande, and hast breathed in him the breath of life, so that he liued before thee, Gene.2.7.

6 And ledst him into Paradise, which thy right hand had planted, or euer the earth ‖ brought forth, ‖Or, went forward.

7 Euen then thou gauest him commaundement to loue thy way: but he transgressed it, and immediatly thou appointedst death to him and his generation, of whom came nations, tribes, people, and kinreds out of number.

8 *And euery people walked after their owne will, and did wonderfull things before thee, and despised thy commandements. Gene.6.12.

9 *But at the time appointed thou broughtest the flood vpon those that dwelt in the world, and destroyedst them, Gene.7.10.

10 So that by the flood, that came to euery one of them, which came by death vnto Adam.

11 Yet thou leftest one, euen *Noe, with his household, of whom came all righteous men. 1.Pet.3.20.

12 And when they that dwelt vpon the earth, began to multiplie, and the number of the children, people, and many nations were increased, they began to be more vngodly then the first.

13 Now when they liued wickedly before thee, *thou didst chuse thee a man from among them, whose name was *Abraham. Gene.12.1. Gene.17.5.

14 Whom thou louedst, and vnto whom onely thou shewedst thy will,

15 And madest an euerlasting couenant with him, promising him that thou wouldest neuer forsake his seede. Gene.21.1,3 Gene.25.25, 26.

16 *And vnto him thou gauest Isaac, *vnto Isaac also thou gauest Iacob and Esau, and Mal 1.2,3. rom 9 13.

didst

didst chuse Jacob, and cast off Esau, and so Jacob became a great multitude.

17 And when thou ledst his seed out of Egypt,
Exod.19.1. Deut.4.10. * thou broughtest them vp to mount Sina, 18 And inclinedst the heauens, and bowedst downe the earth, and didst moue the ground, and cause the depths to shake, and didst astonish the world.

19 And thy glorie went thorow foure gates of fire, with earthquakes, wind and cold, that thou mightest giue the Law vnto the seed of Jacob, and that which the generation of Israel should diligently obserue.

20 Yet tookest thou not away from them the wicked heart, that thy Lawe might bring foorth fruit in them.

Gen.3.6. 21 For * Adam first hauing a wicked heart, was ouercome and vanquished, and all they that are borne of him.

22 Thus remained weaknesse ioyned with the Law in the hearts of the people, with the wickednesse of the roote: so that the good departed away, and the euill abode still.

23 So the times passed away, and the yeeres were brought to an ende, *til thou didst raise thee vp a seruant called Dauid,

1.Sam.16.13. 2.Sam.5.1. and 7.5.13. 24 * Whom thou commandedst to build a citie vnto thy Name, to call vpon thee therein with incense and sacrifice.

25 When this was done many yeeres, the inhabitants forsooke thee, 26 Following the waies of Adam and all his generation: for they had also a wicked heart.

27 Therefore thou gauest the citie ouer into the hands of thine enemies.

28 But doe they that dwell at Babylon, any better, that they should haue the dominion of Sion?

29 For when I came thither, and sawe their wicked deedes without number (for this is the thirtieth yere that I see many trespassing) I was discouraged.

30 For I saw, how thou sufferedst them that sinne, and sparedst the wicked doers, whereas thou hast destroyed thine owne people, and preserued thine enemies, and thou hast not shewed it.

31 I cannot perceiue howe this commeth to passe. Are the deeds of Babylon better then they of Sion?

32 Or is there any other people that knoweth thee besides Israel? or what generation hath so beleeued thy testimonies as Jacob?

33 And yet their reward appeareth not, and their labour hath no fruit: for I haue gone here & there thorowout the heathen: & I see them flourish, and thinke not vpon thy commandements.

34 Weigh thou therefore our wickednes now in the ballance, and theirs also that dwell in the world, and no mention of thee shall bee found but in Israel.

35 Or when is it that they that dwell on the earth haue not sinned in thy sight? or what people hath so kept thy commandements?

36 Thou shalt surely find that Israel by name hath kept thy precepts, but not the heathen.

CHAP. IIII.

2 The Angel reproueth Esdras, because hee seemed to enter into the profound iudgements of God.

AN the Angel that was sent vnto mee, whose name was Vriel, answered,

2 And said, Thine heart hath taken too much vpon it in this world, and thou thinkest to comprehend the waies of the highest.

3 Then said I, Yea, my Lord. And he answered me, and said, I am sent to shewe thee three waies, and to set foorth three similitudes before thee,

4 Whereof if thou canst declare mee one, I will shew thee also the way that thou desirest to see, and I will shew thee from whence the wicked heart commeth.

5 And I said, Tell on, my Lord. Then said he vnto me, Goe thy way, weigh me the weight of the fire, or measure me the blast of the wind, or call me againe the day that is past.

6 Then answered I, and said, What man is borne, that can doe that which thou requirest me, concerning these things?

7 And he said vnto me, If I should aske thee how deepe dwellings are in the midst of the sea, or how great springs are in the beginning of the depth, or how great springs are in the stretching out of the heauen, or which are the borders of Paradise,

8 Paraduenture thou wouldest say vnto me, I neuer went downe to the deepe, nor yet to the hell, neither did I euer climbe vp to heauen.

9 But now haue I talked thee but of fire and winde, and of the day, whereby thou hast passed, and from the which things thou canst not bee separated, and yet canst thou giue mee none answere of them.

10 Hee said moreouer vnto mee, Thine owne things, and such as are growen vp with thee, canst thou not know?

11 How should thy vessell then bee able to comprehend the waies of the highest, and now outwardly in the corrupt world, to vnderstand the corruption, that is euident in my sight?

12 Then said I vnto him, It were better that wee were not at all, then that we should liue in wickednesse, and to suffer, and not to knowe wherefore.

13 And hee answered mee, and said, * I came Iudg 9.8. 2.chro.25.18 to a forrest in the plaine where the trees held a councell, 14 And said, Come, let vs goe fight against the sea, that it may giue place to vs, and that wee may make vs more woods.

15 Likewise the floods of the sea tooke counsell, and said, Come, let vs goe vp and fight against the trees of the wood, that we may get another country for vs.

16 But the purpose of the wood was vaine: for the fire came and consumed it.

17 Likewise also the purpose of the floods of the sea: for the sand stood vp and stopped them.

18 If thou were iudge betweene these two, whom wouldest thou iustifie? or whom wouldest thou condemne?

19 I answered, and said, Verily it is a foolish purpose, that they both haue deuised: for the ground is appointed for the wood, and the Sea hath his place to beare his floods.

20 Then answered hee me, and said, Thou hast giuen right iudgement: but why iudgest thou not thy selfe also?

21 For like as the ground is appointed for the Isa.55.8,9. iohn 3.31. 1.cor.2.13, 14.

the wood, and the sea for the floods, so they that dwell vpon earth, can vnderstand nothing, but that which is vpon earth: and they that are in the heauens, the things that are aboue the height of the heauens.

22 Then answered I, and sayde, I beseech thee, O Lord, let vnderstanding be giuen me.

23 For I did not purpose to enquire of thine high things, but of such as wee dayly meddle withall, namely, wherefore Israel is made a reproch to the heathen, and for what cause the people whom thou hast loued, is giuen ouer to wicked nations, and why the law of our fathers is abolished, and the written ceremonies are come to none effect, 24 Why we are tolled to and fro through the world as the grashoppers, and our life is a very feare, and we are not thought worthy to obtaine mercy.

25 But what will he doe to his Name, which is called vpon ouer vs? Of these things haue I asked the question.

26 Then answered he me, & said, The more thou searchest, the more thou shalt maruaile: for the world hasteth fast to passe away, 27 And cannot comprehend the things that are promised to the righteous in time to come: for this worlde is full of vnrighteousnesse and weakenesse.

28 But to declare thee the things whereof thou askest, the euill is sowen, but the destruction thereof is not yet come.

29 If the euill now that is sowen, be not turned vpside downe, and if the place where the euil is sowen, passe not away, then cannot the thing come, that is sowen with good.

30 For the corne of euill seed hath bene sowen in the heart of Adam from the beginning, and how much vngodlinesse hath he brought vp vnto this time? And how much shall he bring forth vntill the haruest come?

31 Ponder with thy selfe, how much fruite of wickednesse the corne of euill seede bringeth forth, 32 And when the stalkes shall be cut downe which are without number, how great an haruest must be prepared.

33 Then I answered, and sayd, How, and when shall these things come to passe? wherefore are our yeeres few and euill?

34 And he answered me, saying, Haste not to bee aboue the most High: for thou labourest in vaine to bee aboue him, though thou endeuour neuer so much.

35 Did not the soules alle of the righteous aske question of these things in their chambers, saying, How long shall I thus hope? and when commeth the fruite of my darne and our wages?

36 And vpon this Jeremiel the Archangel answered, and sayd, When the number of the seedes is filled in you: for he hath weighed the world in the ballance.

37 The measure of the times is measured: the ages are counted by number, and they shall not be moued or shaken, till the measure thereof be fulfilled.

38 Then answered I and sayd, O Lord, Lord, we are all euen full of sinne.

39 And for our sake peraduenture the harueit of the righteous is not fulfilled, because of the sinne of them that dwell vpon earth.

40 So he answered mee and sayd, Goe and aske a woman with childe, when she hath fulfilled her nine moneths, if her wombe may keepe the birth any longer within her.

41 Then sayd I, No, Lord, she cannot. And he said vnto me, In the graue the places of soules are like the wombe.

42 For as thee that is with childe, hasteth to escape the necessitie of the trauell, so doe these places haste to deliuer those things that are committed vnto them.

43 That which thou desirest to see, shall bee shewed thee from the beginning.

44 Then answered I, and sayd, If I haue found grace in thy sight, and if it be possible, and if I be meete therefore, 45 Shew mee whether there be more to come then is past, or more things past, then are to come.

46 What is past, I knowe, but what is to come, I know not.

47 And he sayd vnto me, Stand on the right side, and I will expound thee this by example.

48 So I stoode, and behold, a hote burning ouen passed before me: and when the flame was gone by, I looked, and behold, the smoke had the vpper hand.

49 After this there passed before me a watry cloud, and sent downe much raine with a storme: and when the stormie raine was past, the drops came after.

50 Then said he vnto me, Consider with thy selfe, as the raine is more then the drops, and as fire exceedeth the smoke, so the portion that is past, hath the vpper hand, and the drops and the smoke were much.

51 Then I prayed, and sayd, May I liue, thinkest thou, vntill that time? Or what shall come to passe in those dayes?

52 He answered me and sayd, Of the tokens whereof thou askest me, I can tell thee a part: but I am not sent to shew thee of thy life: for I doe not know it.

CHAP. V.

1 In the latter times trueth shalbe hid. 10 Vnrighteousnes and all wickednesse shall reigne in the world. 23 Israel is reiected, and God deliuereth them. 35 God doeth all things in season.

NEuertheleſſe concerning the tokens, behold, 1 the times shall come, that they which dwell vpon earth, shall bee taken in a great number, and the way of the trueth shall bee hid, and the land shall be barren from faith,

2 And *iniquitie shall be increased more then thou hast seene now, or hast heard in time past. *Mat.24.12.

3 And it shall come to passe that one shall see in coote, and thou shalt see the land desolate, which now reigneth.

4 Yea, if God graunt thee to liue, thou shalt see after the third trumpet, that the sunne shall suddenly shine againe in the night, & the moone three times a day.

5 Blood shall drop out of the wood, and the stone shall giue his voyce, and the people shall be moued.

6 And he shall rule, of whom they hope not that dwel vpon earth, and the soules shall change place.

7 And

7 And the sea of Sodom shall cast out fish, and make a noyse in the night, which many shall not knowe, but they shall all heare the voyce thereof.

8 There shal be a confusion in many places, and the fire shal oft breake foorth, and the wilde beastes shall change their places, and menstruous women shall beare monsters.

9 And salt waters shalbe found in the sweet, and all friends shall fight one against another: then shall wit hide it selfe, and understanding depart into his secret chamber.

10 It shall be sought of many, and yet not be found: then shall unrighteoulnes and voluptuousnesse haue the vpper hand vpon earth.

11 One land also shall aske another, and say, Is righteous iustice gone thorow thee? And it shall say, No.

12 At the same time shall men hope, but not obtaine: they shall labour, but their enterpri-ses shall not prosper.

13 To shew thee such tokens I haue leaue, and if thou wilt pray againe, and weepe as now, and fast seuen dayes, thou shalt heare yet greater things then these.

14 ¶ Then I awaked, and a fearefulnesse went thorow all my body, and my minde was feeble and fainted.

15 But the Angel that was come to talke with me, held me, comforted me, and set me vp vpon my feete.

16 And in the second night, Salathiel the captaine of the people came vnto mee, saying, Where hast thou bene? and why is thy countenance so heauy?

17 Knowest thou not that Israel is committed vnto thee in the lande of their captuitie?

18 Vp then and eate, and forsake vs not, as the shepherd that leaueth his flocke in the hands of the cruell wolues.

19 Then sayde I vnto him, Goe thy wayes from me, and come not neere me: and when hee heard it, he went from me.

20 And I fasted seuen dayes, mourning, and weeping, as Uriel the Angel had commaunded me.

21 And after seuen dayes the thoughts of mine heart were very grieuous vnto mee againe,

22 And I had a desire to reason againe, and I began to talke with the most High againe, 23 And said, O Lord, Lord: of euery forest of the earth, and of all the trees thereof thou hast chosen thee one onely vineyard.

24 And of all landes of the world thou hast chosen thee one pit, and of all the flowers of the ground thou hast chosen thee one lilie,

25 And of all the depths of the sea thou hast filled thee one riuer, and of al builded cities thou hast sanctified Sion vnto thy selfe.

26 And of all the soules that are created, thou hast named thee one doue, and of all the cattell that are made, thou hast appointed thee one sheepe.

27 And among all the multitude of people, thou hast gotten thee one people, and vnto this people whom thou loued best, thou gauest a law, that is vnderd of all.

28 And now, O Lord, why hast thou giuen this one people vnder vnto many? and vpon one roote thou hast let others, & hast scattered thine onely people among many.

29 They treade them downe, which haue withstoode thy promises, and beleeue not thy testimonies.

30 And if thou diddest so much hate thy people, they should haue beene punished with thine owne hands.

31 ¶ Now when I had spoken these wordes, the Angel that came vnto me the night afore, was sent vnto me, 32 And sayd vnto me, Heare me, and I will teach thee, and hearken that I may instruct thee further.

33 And I sayd, Speake on, my Lord. Then sayd he vnto me, Thou art sore vexed and troubled for Israels sake. Louest thou them better then he doeth that made them?

34 And I sayd, No, Lord: but of very sorrow haue I spoken: for my eeines paine mee euery houre, while I labour to comprehend the way of the most High, & to seeke out part of his iudgement.

35 And he sayd vnto mee, Thou canst not. And I sayd, Wherefore, Lord, wherefore was I borne? or why was not my mothers woumbe then my graue? so had I not seene the trouble of Iaakob, and the griefe of the flocke of Israel.

36 And he sayd vnto me, Number vnto mee the things that are not yet come, or gather me the drops that are scattered, or make me the withered flowers greene againe.

37 Open me the places that are closed, and bring mee foorth the windes that are shut vp therein: shew me the image of a voyce, and then will I declare thee the thing, that thou askest and labourest to know.

38 And I said, O Lord, Lord, who can know these things, but he that hath not his dwelling with men?

39 But I that am ignorant, how can I speake of these things, whereof thou askest mee?

40 Then said he vnto me, Like as thou canst doe none of these things, that I haue spoken of, so canst thou not finde out my iudgement, nor the least benefite, that I haue promised vnto my people.

41 Then I sayde, Behold, O Lord, the last things are present vnto thee, and what that they doe that haue bene before me, or we that be now, or they that shall come after vs?

42 And hee sayd vnto me, I will compare my iudgement vnto a ring: as there is no slacknesse of the last, so there is no swiftnesse of the first.

43 Then I answered, and sayde, Couldest thou not make at once those that haue beene, those that are now, and those that shall come, that thou mightest shew thy iudgement the sooner?

44 Then answered hee me, The creature, said he, cannot preuent the Creator, neither can the world hold them at once, that shall be created therein.

45 And I sayde, As thou hast taught thy seruant, that thou which guidest strength to all, hast giuen life at once to all the workes created by thee, and hast sustained it, so might it not able to containe all men at once.

46 And he said vnto me, As for the wombe of a woman, and say vnto her, Whiles she must then haue time before thou bringest thirty: require her to bring forth ten at once.

47 And I said, Surely she cannot, but by distance of time.

48 Then said he vnto me, So haue I diuided the number of the earth by times when seed is sowen vpon it:

49 For as a yong child begetteth not that that belongeth to the aged, so haue I ordeined the time which I haue created.

50 ¶ I asked againe, and said, Seeing thou hast now shewed mee the way, I will proceede to speake before thee: for our mother, whome thou hast told mee is young, draweth neere vnto age?

51 He answered me, and said, Aske a woman that trauelleth, and she will tell thee.

52 Say vnto her, Wherefore are not they whom thou hast now brought forth, like those that were before thee, but lesse of stature?

53 And shee shall answere thee, Some were borne in the flowre of youth, others were borne in the time of age, when the wombe failed.

54 Consider nowe thy selfe, how that yee are lesse of stature then those that were before you.

55 And so are they that come after you, lesse then yee, as the creatures which now begin to bee olde, and haue passed ouer the strength of youth.

56 Then said I, Lord, I beseech thee, if I haue found fauour in thy sight, shew thy seruaunt, by whom doest thou gouerne thy workemanship?

CHAP. VI.

God hath foreseene all things in his secret counsell, and is authour thereof, and hath created them for his children. 25 The felicitie of the age to come.

AND hee said vnto mee, In the beginning when the round worlde was made, and before the borders of the worlde were set, and before the windes blewe one against another:

2 Before the noyse of thunders sounded, before the bright lightning did shine forth, before the foundations of Paradise were layd:

3 Before the faire flowres did appeare, before the moueable powers were established, before the innumerable armies of Angels were gathered:

4 Before the heights of the ayre were lifted vp, before the measures of the heauens were named, before the chimneis in Sion were hote:

5 Before the present yeeres were sought out, and before the affections of them that nowe sinne, were turned away, and they that haue layed vp the treasure of faith, were sealed,

6 Then did I purpose these things, and they were made by mee alone, and by none other: by mee also they shall be ended, and by none other.

7 Then answered I, and said, What shall be the diuision of times? or when shall bee the ende of the first, and the beginning of it that followeth?

8 And hee layde vnto mee, From Abraham vnto Isaac, when Iacob and Esau were borne of him, Iacobs hand held first the heele of Esau. Gen. 25. 28

9 For Esau is the end of this worlde, and Iacob is the beginning of it that followeth.

10 The hande of man is betwixt the heele and the hand. Other things, Edras, aske thou not.

11 ¶ I answered then, and said, O Lord, Lord, if I haue found fauour in thy sight, 12 I beseech thee, make an end to shewe thy seruants thy tokens, whereof thou shewedst me part the last night.

13 So hee answered mee, and said, Stand vp vpon thy feete, and heare a mightie sounding voyce.

14 There shall come as an earthquake, but the place where thou standest shall not bee moued.

15 And therefore when hee speaketh, be not afraid: for of the end shall be the worde, and of the foundation of the earth shall it bee vnderstood.

16 Therefore while one speaketh of them, it trembleth and is moued: for it knoweth that it must be changed at the end.

17 And when I had heard it, I stood vp vpon my feete, and hearkened, behold, there was a voyce that spake, and the sound of it was like the sound of many waters:

18 And it sayd, Behold, the dayes come, that I will come and inquire of them that dwell vpon the earth,

19 And when I beginne to enquire of them, who by their vnrighteousnesse haue hurt others, and when the affliction of Sion shall bee fulfilled,

20 And the world that shal vanish away, shal be sealed, then will I shew these signes: the bookes shalbe opened before the heauen, and they shal see all it together.

21 And the children of a yeere old shal speake with their voyces: the women with childe shall bring forth vntimely children of three or foure moneths olde, and they shall liue that are rayled vp.

22 Then suddenly shall the sowen places appeare as the vnsowen, and the full storehouses shall suddenly be found empty.

23 And the trumpet shall sound, and all they that heare it, shall be suddenly afrayd.

24 At that time shall friendes fight with friendes, as with enemies: and the earth shall feare with them: the springs of the welles shall stand still, and in three houres they shall not runne.

25 Whosoeuer remayneth from all these things that I haue told thee, shall be saued and see my saluation, and the end of your world.

26 And the men that are receiued, shall see it: they that haue not tasted death from their birth, and the heart of the inhabitants shall bee changed, and turned to another meaning.

27 For euill shalbe put out, and deceit shall be quenched.

28 But faith shall flourish: corruption shall be ouercome, and the truth which hath bin so long without fruit, shall come forth.

29 ¶ And

29 ¶ And when hee talked with mee, behold, I looked a little vpon him before whome I stood.

30 And these words sayd he vnto mee, I am come to shew thee the time of the night to come.

31 If thou wilt pray againe, and fast seuen dayes more, I will tell thee more things, & greater then these, which I haue heard in the day.

32 For thy voyce is heard before the Highest: surely the Almighty hath seene thy righteous dealing: he hath seene also thy chastitie, which thou hast kept since thy youth.

33 Therefore hath he sent me to shew thee all these things, and to say vnto thee, Bee of good comfort, and feare not,

34 And haste not in the vaine consideration of the first times, nor make haste to the latter times.

35 And after this I wept againe, and fasted seuen dayes in like maner, that I might fulfil the three weekes which he had appointed me.

36 And in the eight night was mine heart vexed within me againe, and I began to speake before the most High.

37 For my spirit was greatly set on fire, and my soule was in distresse.

38 And I sayd, O Lord, thou spakest expressly in the first creation (euen the first day) and commandedst * that the heauen and the earth should be made, and the worke followed thy word. Gen. 1. 1.

39 And then was there the spirit, and the darkenesse was on euery side with silence: there was no mans voice as yet created of thee.

40 Then commandedst thou a bright light to come forth out of thy treasures, that it might giue light to thy worke.

41 Vpon the second day thou createdst the heauenly aire, and commandedst it, that going betweene, it should make a diuision betweene the waters, that the one part might remaine aboue, and the other beneath.

42 Vpon the third day thou commaundedst, that the waters should bee gathered together in the seuenth part of the earth: fiue parts diddest thou driue, & kept them to the intent that of these there should be that should serue thee, being sowen of God and tilled.

43 Assoone as thy word went forth, the worke was incontinently made.

44 For immediatly great and innumerable fruit did spring vp, and many diuers pleasures for the taste, & flowres of vnchangeable colour, and odours of a most wonderfull smell, and these things were created the third day.

45 *Vpon the fourth day thou createdst the light of the sunne, and of the moone, and the order of the starres, Gen. 1. 14.

46 And gauest them a charge, to doe * seruice euen vnto man that was for to be made. Gen. 1. 14. 15. deut. 4. 19.

47 And vpon the fift day thou saidst vnto the seuenth part * where the waters were gathered, that it should bring forth beasts, as foules and fishes: and it was so. Gen. 1. 20.

48 For the dumbe waters, and without life, brought forth liuing things at the commaundement of God, that the nations might prayse thy wonderous workes.

49 Then diddest thou prepare two liuing things: the one thou calledst ‖ Behemoth, and the other thou calledst Leuiathan, ‖ Or, Enoch.

50 And didst separate the one from the other: for the seuenth part where the water was gathered, could not hold them.

51 Vnto Behemoth thou gauest one part, which was dried vp the third day, that he should dwell in the same part, wherein are a thousand hilles.

52 But vnto Leuiathan thou gauest the seuenth part, that is wet, and hast prepared him to deuoure what thou wilt, and when thou wilt.

53 Vpon the first day thou gauest commandement vpon the earth, that before thee it should bring forth beasts, cattell and creeping things.

54 And besides this Adam, whom thou madest lord ouer all the works which thou hast created, of him come wee all, and the people also, whom thou hast chosen.

55 All this haue I spoken before thee, O Lord, because thou hast created the world for our sakes.

56 As for the other people, which also come of Adam, thou hast declared them that they are nothing before thee, but be like vnto spittle, and hast compared their riches vnto a drop that falleth from a vessel.

57 And now, O Lord, behold, these heathen which haue bene reputed as nothing, haue begun to be lords ouer vs, and to deuoure vs.

58 And we thy people (whom thou hast called the first borne, the only begotten, and thy feruent louer) are giuen into their hands.

59 If the world then bee created for our sakes, why haue we not the inheritance thereof in possession? or how long shall we suffer these things?

CHAP. VII.

5 Without tribulation none can come to felicitie. 12 God aduertiseth all in time. 28 The comming and death of Christ. 32 The resurrection and last iudgement, 43 after the which all corruption shall cease. 48 All fell in Adam. 59 The true life. 62 The mercies and goodnesse of God.

AND when I had made an ende of these wordes, there was sent vnto me an Angel, which had bene sent downe to me the nights afore.

2 And he sayd vnto mee, Vp, Esdras, and heare the words that I am come to tell thee.

3 And I sayd, Speake on, my God. Then sayd he vnto me, The sea is set in a wide place, that it might be deepe and great,

4 But presuppose that the entrance thereof were narrow, and like the riuers,

5 Who could goe into the Sea to looke vpon it, and to rule it? If he went not thorow the narrow, how could he come into the broad?

6 There is also another thing: a city is builded, and set vpon a broad field, and is full of all good things:

7 The entrance thereof is narrow, and in a dangerous place to fall, that there is fire at the right hand, and a deepe water at the left,

8 And there is but one path betwixt them, euen betwixt the fire & the water, so that there could but one man goe there.

9 If this city were giuen vnto a man for an inheritance, if hee neuer went thorow the perill before it, how could hee receiue his inheritance?

10 And

10 And I sayd, It is it, Lord. Then said hee, So is the portion of Israel.

11 Surely for their sakes haue I made the worlde: and when Adam transgressed my statutes, then came this thing to passe.

12 Then were the entrances of the worlde made narrow, full of sorrow and trauaile: they are but few and euill, and full of perils, and very painefull.

13 For the entrances of the forewold were wide and sure, and brought immortall fruit.

14 If then they that are liuing, labour not to enter by these strait and brittle things, they can not attaine to those things that are hid.

15 Why then disquietest thou thy selfe, seeing thou art corruptible? and why art thou moued, seeing thou art mortall?

16 And why hast thou not considered in thy minde the things to come, rather then them that are present?

Rom. 8. 1. 17 Then sayd I, O Lord, Lord, * seeing thou hast ordained in thy Lawe, that the righteous should inherit their things, and that the vngodly should perish, 18 Should the righteous suffer straitnesse in hoping for large things? yet they that haue liued vngodly and suffered straitnesse, shall not see the large things.

19 Then he sayd vnto mee, There is no iudge more iust then God, and there is none more wise then the most High.

20 For many perish in this life, because they despise the Law of God that is appointed.

21 For God hath diligently admonished such as came, so oft as they came, what they should doe to haue life, and what they should obserue to auoyd punishment.

22 Neuertheless, they were not obedient vnto him, but spake against him, and imagined vaine things, 23 And deceiued themselues by their wicked deedes, and denied the power of the most High, and regarded not his wayes.

24 But they despised his law, and refused his promises: they haue vnfaithfully broken his ordinances, and haue not performed his works.

25 And therefore, Esdras, vnto the emptie are emptie things, and to the full, full things.

26 Beholde, the time shall come, that these tokens which I haue told thee, shall come to passe, and the bride shall appeare, and shee shall come foorth, and be seene that now is vnder the earth.

27 And whosoeuer shall escape these euils, hee shall see my wonders.

28 For my sonne Iesus shall appeare with those that be with him, and they that remaine, shall reioyce within foure hundreth yeeres.

29 After these same yeeres shall my sonne Christ die, and all men that haue life.

30 And the world shalbe turned into the old silence for seuen dayes, as in the forefudgements, so that no man shall remaine.

31 But after seuen dayes, the worlde that is yet asleepe, shall be raysed vp: and that shall die, that is corrupt.

32 Then the earth shall restore those, that haue slept in her, and so shall the dust those that dwell therein in silence, and the secret places shall deliuer the soules that were committed vnto them.

33 And the most High shall appeare vpon the seate of iudgement, and miseries shall passe away, and long suffering shall haue an ende.

34 Iustice onely shall continue: the truetie shall remaine, and faith shall be strong.

35 The worke shall follow, and the rewarde shalbe shewed: the good deeds shall be of force, and vnrighteousnesse shall beare no more rule.

36 Then sayd I, * Abraham prayed first for the Sodomites, and * Moyses for the fathers that sinned in the wildernesse: Gene. 18. 23 Exod. 32. 31 11.

37 And they that came after him, for Israel in the time of Achaz and Samuel,

38 And * Dauid for the destruction, * and Salomon for them that came into the Sanctuarie, 2 Sam. 24. 17. 2 Chro. 6. 14

39 * And Elias for those that receiued raine, and for the dead that he might liue, 1 King 17 21. and 18

40 And * Ezechias for the people in the time of Sennacherib, and diuers others for many. 42, 45. 2 King 19 15.

41 Euen so now, seeing vice is increased, and wickednesse aboundeth, and the righteous haue prayed for the vngodly, wherefore shall not the same effect follow also now?

42 Then he answered mee, and sayd, This present life is not the end, oft times honour is reserued in it: therefore haue they prayed for the weake.

43 But the day of iudgement shall be the end of this worlde, and the beginning of the immortalitie to come, wherein all corruption shall cease.

44 Intemperancie shall passe away: infidelitie shall be cut off: righteousnesse shall grow vp, and the veritie shall spring vp.

45 Then shall no man bee able to saue him that is destroyed, nor oppresse him that hath gotten the victorie.

46 I answered then, and sayd, This is my first and last saying, that it had bene better not to haue giuen the earth vnto Adam, or when it was giuen him, to haue kept him that hee should not haue sinned.

47 For what profit is it for men in this present life to be in heauinesse, and after death to feare punishment?

48 O Adam, what hast thou done? * for in that that thou hast sinned, thou art not fallen alone, but the fall also redoundeth vnto vs that come of thee. Rom. 5. 12.

49 For what profit is it vnto vs, if there be promised an immortall life, when wee doe the works that bring death?

50 And that an euerlasting hope should bee promised vs, seeing that wee betide our selues to deadly vanitie?

51 And that there should bee appointed vs dwellings of health and safetie, if we haue liued wickedly?

52 And that the glory of the most High should bee kept to defend them which haue led a patient life, if wee haue walked in the wicked wayes?

53 And that an eternall Paradise should bee shewed, whose fruite remaineth incorruptible, wherein is satetie and health, if we will not enter into it?

54 (For we haue bene conuersant in vnpleasant places.)

55 And that the faces of them, which haue abstained, should shine more then starres, if our faces be blacker then darkenesse?

56 For while we lived, we did not remember when we did unrighteously, that we should suffer after death.

57 Then answered he me, and sayd, This is the maner of the battell, which man that is borne in the earth shall fight, 58 That if he be overcome, he should suffer as thou hast sayd, but if he get the victory, he should receive the thing that I sayd.

59 For this is the life whereof Moyses spake unto the people, while he lived, saying, *Chuse Deut. 30. 19. thee life that thou mayst live.

60 Neuertheless, they beleeved him not, neither the Prophets after him, nor me also which have sayd unto them, 61 That heauinesse should not so bee to their destruction, as joy should come unto them, to whome salvation is perswaded.

62 I answered then and sayd, I know, Lord, that the most High is called mercifull, in that he hath mercy upon them, which are not yet come to that world,

63 And that he hath pitie on those that walke in his Law,

64 And that *hee is patient: for he long suffereth those that have sinned as his creatures,
Rom. 2. 4.

65 And that he is liberall: for he will give as much as needeth,

66 And that he is of great mercie: for he overcommeth in mercie those that are present, and that are past, and them which are to come.

67 For if hee were not abundant in his mercies, the world could not continue, nor they that have the possession therof.

68 He pardoneth also, for if he gave not of his goodnesse, that they which have done evill might be relieved from their wickednesse, the ten thousand part of men should not remaine alive.

69 And if he, being judge, forgave not those that be healed with his worde, and tooke away the multitude of sinnes, 70 There should peradventure bee very fewe left in an unnumerable multitude.

CHAP. VIII.

1. The number of the godly is small. 6 The works of God are excellent. 20 Esdras prayeth for him and for his people. 39 The promise of salvation to the just. 55 The destruction of the unjust.

AND he answered me, saying, The most high made this world for many, but the world to come for few.

2 I will tell thee a similitude, O Esdras. As when thou askest the earth, it shall say unto thee that it giveth much earthy matter to make pots, but little dust that gold commeth of, so is it with the worke of this world.

Mat. 20. 16. 3 *There be many created, but few shall be saued.

4 Then answered I, and sayd, Then swallow up the wit, O my soule, and devoure understanding.

5 For thou hast promised to heare, and thou wilt prophesie: for thou hast no longer space, but the life given thee.

6 O Lord, if thou suffer not thy seruant, that we may entreat thee, that thou mayest sow seed unto our heart, and prepare our understanding, that there may come fruit of it, whereby every one which is corrupt, may live, who can set himselfe for man?

The number of the godly is small. The works of God are excellent.

7 For thou art alone, & we all are one worke-manship of thy handes as thou hast sayd.

8 For when the body is fashioned nowe in the wombe, as thou hast given it members, thy creature is preserved by fire & water, and the worke created by thee, doeth suffer nine moneths the creature, which is fashioned in it.

9 But the thing that contemneth, and that which is contemned, shall both be preserved, and when time is come, the wombe, being preserved, deliuereth the things that grew in it.

10 For thou hast commanded the members, even the breasts, to give milke unto the fruit appointed to the breasts, 11 That the thing, which is created, may bee nourished for a time, till thou disposest it to thy mercie.

12 Thou bringest it up with thy righteousnesse, nurturest it in thy lawe, and reformest it with thy judgement.

13 Thou slayest it as thy creature, and giuest it life as thy worke.

14 Seeing then that thou destroyest him, which with so great labours is fashioned, it is an easie thing to appoint by thy commandement, that the thing also which is made, might be preserved.

15 Now therefore, O Lord, I will speake (as touching men in generall thou shalt rather prouide) but concerning thy people, for whose sake I am sory.

16 And for thine inheritance, for whose cause I mourne: for Israel, for whome I am woefull, and for Jacob, for whose sake I am grieued:

17 For them will I pray before thee, as well for my selfe as for them: for I see our faults that dwell in the land.

18 ¶ But I have heard the sudden comming of the judge, which is to come.

19 Therefore heare my voice, and understand my words, which I will speake before thee. The beginning of the words of Esdras, before he was taken up:

20 O Lorde, thou knowst for ever, which beholdest from about that which is about, and in the ayre,

21 Whose throne is inestimable, and his glorie incomprehensible, before whome the host of the Angels stand with trembling,

22 Whose keeping is turned in winde and fire, whose word is true, and sayings stedfast, whose commandement is strong, and gouernment terrible,

23 Whose looke drieth up the depthes, and wrath maketh the mountaines to melt away: as the thing beareth witnesse, 24 Heare the prayer of thy seruant, and receive into thine eares the petition of thy creature.

25 For while I live, I will speake, and so long as I have understanding, I will answere.

26 Looke not upon the sinnes of thy people, rather then thy faithfull seruants.

27 Have not respect unto the wicked deedes of men, rather then to them that have thy testimonies in afflictions.

28 Thinke not upon those that have walked fainedly before thee, but remember them that reverence thy will.

29 Let

29 But it not bee thy will to destroy them, which haue liued like beastes, but looke vpon themselues haue clearely taught thy Lawe.

30 Take not displeasure with them, which appeare worse then beastes, but loue them, that alway put their trust in thy righteousnesse and glory.

31 For wee and our fathers haue all the same sickernesse, but because of vs that are sinners, thou shalt be called mercifull.

32 If therefore thou wilt haue mercy vpon vs, thou shalt bee called mercifull towards vs which haue no workes of righteousnesse.

33 For the righteous, which haue laid vp many good workes, let them receiue the reward of their owne deedes.

34 But what is man, that thou shouldest take displeasure at him? or what is this mortall generation, that thou shouldest bee so grieued towards it?

1. King. 8. 46. 2. Chro. 6. 36. 35 † For verely there is no man among them that bee borne, but hee hath done wickedly, nor any that doth confesse thee, which hath not done amisse.

36 For in this, O Lorde, thy righteousnesse and thy goodnesse shall be praised, if thou be mercifull vnto them, which haue not the substance of good workes.

37 ¶ Then answered he me, and said, Some things hast thou spoken aright, and according to thy words it shall be.

38 For I will not verely consider the workes of them, before the death, before the iudgement, before destruction:

The paraphrasis of Esdras concerning Gen. 4. 4. 39 But † I will reioyce in the wayes of the righteous, and I will remember the pilgrimage, the saluation, & the reward that they shall haue.

40 Like as I haue spoken nowe, so shall it come to passe.

41 For as the husbandman soweth much seed vpon the ground, and planteth many trees, and yet alway the thing that is sowen, commeth not vp in time, neither yet doeth all that is planted, take roote: so neither shall they all that are brought into the world, be saued.

42 I answered then and said, If I haue found grace, let me speake.

43 Like as the husbandmans seede perisheth, if it come not vp, and receiue not raine in due season, or if it bee destroyed with too much raine:

44 So perisheth man which is created with thine hands, and thou art called his paterne, because he is created to thine image, for whose sake thou hast made all things, and likened him vnto the husbandmans seed.

45 Bee not wroth with vs, O Lorde, but spare thy people, and haue mercy vpon thine inheritance: for thou wilt bee mercifull vnto thy creature.

46 Then answered he me, & said, The things present are for the present, & the things to come for such as be to come.

47 For thou art farre off, that thou shouldest loue my creature aboue me: but I haue oft times drawen nere vnto thee and vnto it, but neuer to the vnrighteous.

48 In this also art thou marueilous before the Highest, 49 In that thou hast humbled thy selfe, as it becommeth thee, and hast not iudged thy selfe worthy to haue thy name greatly among the righteous.

50 For many miseries & calamities remaine for them, that shal liue in the latter time, because they shall walke in great pride.

51 But learne thou for thy selfe, and seeke out the glory for such as be like vnto thee.

52 For vnto you is paradise opened: the tree of life is planted: the time to come is prepared, plentifulnes made ready: the citie is builded: and rest is prepared, perfect goodnes and absolute wisedome.

53 The root of euil is sealed vp from you: the weaknesse and moth is destroyed from you, and into hell sheeth corruption to be forgotten.

54 Sorowes are banished away, and in the end is shewed the treasure of immortalitie.

55 Therefore aske thou no more questions concerning the multitude of them that perish:

56 For when they had libertie, they despised the most High: they contemned his Lawe, and forsooke his wayes.

57 Moreouer, they haue troden downe his righteous,

58 *Saying in their heart, that there was no God, though they knew that they should die. Psal. 14. 1. and 53. 1.

59 For as the thing that I haue spoken of, is made ready for you: so is thirst and paine prepared for them: for God would not that man should perish.

60 But they, after that they were created, haue defiled the name of him that made them, and are vnthankfull vnto him, which prepared life for them.

61 Therefore my iudgement is now at hand.

62 Their things haue I not shewed vnto all men, but vnto thee, and to a few like thee: then I answered, and sayd, 63 Behold nowe, O Lord: thou hast shewed me the many wonders, which thou art determined to do in the last time, but in what time, thou hast not shewed me.

CHAP. IX.

5 All things in this world haue a beginning and an end. 10 Torments for the wicked after this life. 15 The number of the wicked is more then of the good. 29 The Iewes ingratitude. 36 Therefore they perish. 38 The vision of a woman lamenting.

HE answered me then, and said, Measure the time with it selfe, and when thou seest that one part of the tokens come to passe, which I haue told thee before,

2 Then shalt thou vnderstand, that it is the time wherein the most High will begin to visite the world which he made.

3 Therefore when there shall bee seene an *earthquake in the worlde, and an vproare of the people, Mat. 24. 7.

4 Then shalt thou vnderstand that the most High spake of those things, from the dayes that were before thee, euen from the beginning.

All things haue a beginning and an end in the world.

5 For as all that is made in the world, hath a beginning and an end, & the end is manifest:

6 So the times also of the most High haue plaine beginnings in wonders and signes, and end in effect and miracles.

7 And euery one that shall escape safe, & shall bee deliuered by his workes, and by the faith wherein ye haue beleeued,

8 Shalbe preserued from the Lord perils and shall see my saluation in my lande, and within my borders: for I haue kept me holy from the world.

9 Then shall they haue pitie of themselues, which nowe haue abused my wayes: and they that haue cast them out despitefully, shall dwell in paines.

10 For such as in their life haue receiued benefits, and haue not knowen me,

11 But haue abhorred my lawe, while they were yet in libertie, and when they had yet leasure of amendment, and would not vnderstand but despised it,

12 They must bee taught it after death by paine.

13 And therefore be thou no more carefull, to know how the vngodly shall be punished, but inquire how the righteous shall be saued, & whose the world is, and for whom it is, and when.

14 Then answered I, and sayd,

15 I haue afore sayde that which I say now and will speake it hereafter, that there be many moe of them which perish, then of them that shall be saued, 16 As the flood is greater then a drop.

17 And he answered me, saying, As the fielde is, so is also the seede: as the flowers bee, so are the colours also: such as the workeman is, such is the worke: and as the husbandman is, so is his husbandry: for it was the time of the world.

18 Surely when I prepared the world, which was not yet made for them to dwell in that nowe time, no man spake against me.

19 For then euery one obeyed, but nowe the maners of them that are created in this world, that is made, are corrupted by a perpetuall seed, and by a law, wherevnto they cannot rid themselues.

20 So I considered the world, and beholde, there was perill, because of the deuises, that were sprung vp into it.

21 Yet when I saw it, I spared it greatly, and haue kept me one grape of the cluster, and a plant out of a great people.

22 Let therefore the multitude perish, which are borne in vaine: and let my grape be kept, and my plant, which I haue dressed with great labour.

23 ¶ Neuertheless, if thou wilt cease seuen dayes moe (but thou shalt not fast in them,

24 But shalt go into a faire fielde, where no house is builded, and shalt eate onely of the flowers of the field, and eat no flesh, nor drinke wine, but the flowers onely,

25 And pray vnto the most High continually) then will I come, and talke with thee.

26 So I went my way, as he had commaunded me, into the field, which is called Ardath, and there I sate among the floures, and did eate of the hearbes of the field, and the meate of the same satisfied me.

27 And after seuen dayes, as I sate vpon the grasse, and my heart was vexed within mee, as afore,

28 I opened my mouth, and began to talke before the most High, and to say,

29 O Lorde, when thou wouldest shewe thy selfe vnto vs, * thou declaredst thy selfe vnto our fathers in the wildernesse, in a place where nooman dwelleth, in a barren place, when they came out of Egypt,

30 And especially thakest vnto them, saying, Heare me, O Israel, and marke my words, thou seed of Jacob.

31 For beholde, I sowe my lawe in you, that it may bring foorth fruit in you, and that ye may be honoured by it for euer.

32 But our fathers which receiued the Law, kept it not, neither obserued thine ordinances, neither did the fruit of thy Law appeare, neither could it, for it was thine.

33 * For they that receiued it, perished because they kept not the thing that was sowen in them. Exod. 32. 28.

34 And loe, it is a custome when the ground receiueth seede, or else a ship, or a vessell meate and drinke, such as perish, wherein a thing is sowen, or wherein any thing is put.

35 Likewise the thing that is sowen, or is put therein, and the things that are receiued, must perish: so the things that are receiued, doe not remaine with vs: but in vs it commeth not so to passe.

36 For wee that haue receiued the Lawe, perish in sinne, & our heart also which receiued it:

37 But the Lawe perisheth not, but remaineth in his force.

38 ¶ And when I spake these things in mine heart, I looked about mee, and vpon the right side * I saw a woman, which mourned sore, and lamented with a loud voyce, and was grieued in heart, and rent her clothes, and she had ashes vpon her head. Chap. 10. 44.

39 Then I left my thoughts, wherein I was occupied, and turned me vnto her, 40 And sayde vnto her, Wherefore weepest thou? why art thou so sory in mind?

41 And she sayde vnto me, Sir, let me alone, that I may bewaile my selfe, and increase sorow: for I am sore vexed in my minde, and brought very low.

42 Then I sayd vnto her, What ailest thee? tell me.

43 And she saide to me, I thy seruant haue been barren, and haue had no childe, hauing an husband thirtie yeeres.

44 And euery houre, and euery day these thirtie yeeres I pray to the most High day and night.

45 And after thirtie yeeres God heard mee thine handmayde, and looked vpon my misery, considered my trouble, and gaue me a sonne, and I was glad of him: so was mine husband also, and all they of my countrey, and we gaue great honour vnto the Almighty.

46 And I nourished him with great trauell.

47 So when he grew vp, and came to take a wife, I made a feast.

CHAP. X.

Esdras and the woman that appeareth vnto him, commune together.

BVt when my sonne went into his chamber, he fell downe, and died.

2 Then we all ouerthrew the lights, and all my neighbours rose vp to comfort me: so I rested vntill the second day at night.

3 And when they had all left off to comfort me, that I should bee quiet, then I rose vp by night, and fledde, and am come into this field.

Formerly for which we suffer this life.

field as thou seest,

4 And am not purposed to returne into the citie, but to remaine here, and neither to eate nor drinke, but continually to mourne and fast, vntill I die.

5 Then left I my purpose wherein I was, and spake to her angerly, and sayd, 6 Thou foolish woman aboue all other, seest thou not our heauinesse, and what commeth vnto vs?

7 For Sion our mother is all wofull, and is sore afflicted, and mourneth extremely.

8 Seeing wee be all now in heauinesse, and make our mone (for we be all so wofull) art thou sory for one sonne?

9 Demaund the earth, and shee shall tell thee that it is she which ought to mourne for the fall of so many that grow vpon her.

10 For from the beginning, all men are borne of her, and other shall come, and behold, they walke almost all into destruction, and the multitude of them shalbe destroyed.

11 Who should then rather mourne, the that hath lost so great a multitude, or thou which art sory but for one?

12 But if thou wouldest say vnto mee, My mourning is not like the mourning of the earth (for I haue lost the fruite of my wombe, which I brought forth with heauinesse, and bare with sorrowes.

13 But the earth is according to the maner of the earth, and the present multitude returneth into her as it came)

14 Then say I vnto thee, As thou hast borne with trauell, so the earth also from the beginning giueth her fruite vnto man, euen to him that laboured her.

15 Nowe therefore withholde thy sorrow in thy selfe, and beare constantly that which commeth vnto thee.

16 For if thou allowest Gods purpose, and receiuest his counsell in time, thou shalt be commended therein.

17 Goe thy way then into the citie to thine husband.

18 ¶ Then he said vnto me, I will not, I will not go into the citie, but here will I die.

19 So I continued to speake more with her, and sayd, 20 Doe not so, but be counselled: for how many falles hath Sion? Bee of good comfort, because of the sorrow of Jerusalem.

21 For thou seest that our Sanctuary is layd waste: our altar is broken downe: our Temple is destroyed:

22 Our Psalterion fainteth, and the song ceaseth, and our mirth is vanished away, and the light of our candlesticke is quenched, and the Arke of our Couenant is taken away, and our holy things are defiled, and the Name that is called vpon ouer vs, is almost dishonoured, and our children are put to shame, and our Priestes are burnt, and our Leuites are caried into captiuitie, and our virgins are defiled, and our wiues rauished, and our righteous men spoyled, and our children destroyed, and our young men are brought in bondage, and our strong men are become weake, 23 And, which is the greatest of all, Sion the seale hath lost her worship: for shee is deliuered into the handes of them that hate vs.

24 And therefore shake off thy great heauinesse, and put away the multitude of sorrowes, that the Almightie may her mercifull vnto thee, and that the most High may giue thee rest and ease from thy labour.

25 And when I was talking with her, her face and beautie shined suddenly, and her countenance was bright, so that I was afraid of her, and mused what it might be.

26 And behold, immediatly she cast out a great voyce, very fearefull, so that the earth shooke at the voyce of the woman.

27 And I looked, and behold, the woman appeared vnto mee no more: but there was a citie builded, and a place was shewed from the ground and foundation. Then was I afrayd, and cryed with a loud voyce, and sayd, 28 Where is Uriel the Angel *which came to me at the first? for her hath caused me to come into many and deepe considerations, and mine end is turned into corruption, and my prayer to rebuke. *Chap. 4. 1.

29 And as I was speaking these words, behold, he came vnto me, and looked vpon me.

30 And loe, I lay as one dead, and mine vnderstanding was altered, and he tooke me by the right hand and comforted mee, and set mee vpon my feet, and sayd vnto me, 31 What ailest thee? and why is thine vnderstanding vexed? and the vnderstanding of thine heart? and wherefore art thou sory?

32 And I sayd, Because thou hast forsaken mee, and I haue done *according vnto thy wordes: I went into the fielde, and there haue I seene things, and see that I am not able to expresse. *Chap. 5. 20.

33 Then sayd he vnto me, Stand vp manly, and I will giue thee exhortation.

34 Then sayd I, Speake vnto me, my Lord, and forsake me not, lest I die through rashnesse.

35 For I haue seene that I knewe not, and heare that I do not know.

36 Or is mine vnderstanding deceiued, or doeth my minde being hastie, erre?

37 Now therefore, I beseech thee, that thou wilt shew thy seruant of this wonder.

38 Then he answered me, and said, Heare me, and I will enforme thee, and tell thee wherefore thou art afraid: for the most High hath reuealed many secret things vnto thee.

39 He hath seene thy good purpose, that thou art sory continually for thy people, and makest great lamentation for Sion.

40 This therefore is the vnderstanding of the vision, which appeared vnto thee a little while agoe.

41 Thou sawest a woman mourning, & thou beganest to comfort her:

42 But now seest thou the likenesse of the woman no more, but there appeared vnto thee a citie builded.

43 And whereas she told thee of the death of her sonne, this is the solution,

44 This woman, which thou sawest, shee is Sion: and whereas she told thee (euen she which thou seest now as a citie builded)

45 And as touching that shee sayd vnto thee, that she was barren thirtie yeeres, this was concerning that there was euen thirtie yeres wherein there was no offering offered in her.

46 But after thirtie yeeres, Salomon built the citie, and offred offrings: then bare the barren a sonne.

47 And whereas she tolde thee, that she nourished him with labour, that was the inhabiting of Jerusalem.

48 But whereas she told thee that her sonne, as his chance was, died when he came into her chamber, that is the fall that is come to Jerusalem.

49 And when thou sawest her like one that mourned for her sonne, thou begannest to comfort her: of these things which have chances, these are to be opened vnto thee.

50 For nowe the most High seeth, that thou art sory in thy minde, and because thou sufferest with all thine heart for her, hee shewed thee the clearenesse of her glory, and the fairenesse of her beautie.

51 And therefore I bade thee remaine in the field where no house was built.

52 For I knew that the most High would shew these things vnto thee.

53 Therefore I commaunded thee to goe into the field, where no foundation nor building is.

54 For the worke of mans building cannot stand in that place where the Citie of the most High should be shewed.

55 And therefore feare not, neither let thine heart be afraid, but go in, and see the beautie and greatnesse of the building as much as thou art able to see with thine eyes.

56 And after this shalt thou heare as much as thine eares may comprehend.

57 For thou art blessed above many, and art called with the most High among the few.

58 But to morow at night thou shalt remaine here,

59 And the most High shall shew thee visions of high things, which the most high will doe vnto them that dwell vpon earth, in the last dayes. So I slept the same night and another, as he had commanded me.

CHAP. XI.

1 The vision of an eagle comming forth of the sea, and of her feathers. 37 Of a Lion comming out of the forrest.

THen saw I a dreame, and behold, there came vp from the sea an eagle, which had twelue feathered wings, and three heads.

2 And I saw, and behold, she spread her wings ouer all the earth, and all the windes of the ayre blew on her, and gathered themselues.

3 And I beheld, and out of her feathers grew out other contrary feathers, and they became litle feathers and small.

4 But her heads remained still, and the head in the mids was greater then the other heads, yet rested it with them.

5 Moreouer, I saw that the eagle flew with his feathers, and reigned vpon earth, and ouer them that dwell therein.

6 And I saw that all things vnder heauen were subiect vnto her, and no man spake against her, no not one creature vpon earth.

7 I saw also that the eagle stood vp vpon her clawes, and spake to her feathers, saying,

8 Watch not all together: sleepe every one in his owne place, and watch by course.

9 But let the heads be preserued for the last.

10 Neuertheless, I saw that the voyce went not out of her heads, but from the mids of her body.

11 Then I numbred her contrary feathers, and behold, there were eight of them.

12 And I looked, and behold, vpon the right side there arose one feather, and reigned ouer all the earth.

13 And when it had reigned, the ende of it came, and the place thereof appeared no more. So the next stood vp, and reigned: it continued a long time.

14 And when it had reigned, the ende of it came also, and as the first, so it appeared no more.

15 Then there came a voyce vnto it, and sayd,

16 Heare thou that hast kept the earth so long: this I say vnto thee, before thou beginnest to appeare no more.

17 There shall none after thee attaine vnto thy time, neither to the halfe thereof.

18 Then arose the third, and reigned as the other afore, and it appeared no more also.

19 So came it to all the others one after another, so that euery one reigned, and then appeared no more.

20 Then I looked, and behold, in processe of time the feathers that followed, stood vp on the right side, that they might rule also, and some of them ruled, but within a while they appeared no more.

21 For some of them were set vp, but ruled not.

22 After this I looked, and behold, the twelue feathers appeared no more, nor the two wings.

23 And there was no more vpon the eagles bodie, but two heads that rested, and fiue wings.

24 Then saw I also, that two wings diuided themselues from the fiue, and remained vnder the head that was vpon the right side: for the foure continued in their place.

25 So I looked, and behold, the vnderwings thought to set vp themselues, and to haue the rule.

26 Then was there one set vp, but shortly it appeared no more.

27 And the second were sooner gone then the first.

28 Then I beheld, and lo, the two that remained, thought also in themselues to reigne.

29 And when they so thought, behold, there awaked one of the heads that were at rest, which was in the mids: for that was greater then the two.

30 And then I sawe that the two heads were ioyned therewith.

31 And behold, the head was turned with them, that were with it, and did eate vp the two vnderwings that would haue reigned.

32 But this head put the whole earth in feare, and bare rule in it, ouer all those that dwelt vpon earth with much labour, and it had the gouernance of the world, more then all the wings that had bene.

33 After this I looked, and behold, the head that was in the middes, suddenly appeared no more, as did the wings.

34 But the two heads remained, which also ruled likewise vpon earth, and ouer those that dwelt therein.

35 And I beheld, and lo, the head vpon the right night side devoured it that was vpon the left side.

36 ¶ Then I heard a voyce which sayd vnto mee, Looke before the, and consider the thing that thou seest.

37 So I sawe, and beholde, as it were a lyon that roareth, running haistily out of the wood: and I sawe that her sent out a mans voyce vnto the Eagle, and spake, and said,

38 Hearc thou, I will talke with thee, and the most High shall say vnto thee,

39 Art not thou that, that of the foure beasts remainest, whom I made to reigne in my world, that by them the endes of times might come,

40 And the fourth is come, and hath ouercome all the beastes that were past, which hath power ouer the world with great fearefulnesse, and ouer the whole compasse of the earth with most wicked oppression, and that dwelleth so long time in all the world with deceit?

41 For thou hast not iudged the world with truth.

42 Seeing thou hast troubled the meeke, thou hast hurt the peaceable, and thou hast loued lyers, and destroyed the dwellings of them that brought fourth fruite, and hast cast downe the walles of such as did thee no harme, 43 Therefore is thy wrongfull dealing come vp vnto the most High, and thy pride vnto the Mightie.

44 The most High also hath looked vpon the proud times, and beholde, they are ended, and their abominations are fulfilled.

45 Therefore appeare no more, thou Eagle, nor thine horrible wings, nor thy wicked feathers, nor thy malicious heads, and thy wicked clawes, nor all thy vaine body, 46 That all the earth may be refreshed, and come againe, as one deliuered from thy violence, and that thee may hope for the iudgement and mercie of him that made her.

CHAP. XII.

The declaration of the former visions.

AND when the Lion spake these words to the Eagle, I sawe,

2 And beholde, the head that had the vpper hand appeared no more, neither did the foure wings appeare any more, that came to it, and set vp themselues to reigne, whose kingdome was small and full of vproare.

3 And I sawe, and beholde, they appeared no more, and the whole body of the Eagle was burnt, so that the earth was in great feare. Then I awaked out of the trouble and traunce of my minde, and from the great feare, and sayde vnto my spirit, 4 Lo, this hast thou done vnto mee in that thou searchest out the wayes of the most High.

5 Lo, yet am I weary in my minde, and very weake in my spirit, and little strength is there in me, for y great feare that I receiued this night.

6 Therefore nowe, will I beseech the most High, that he will comfort me vnto the end.

7 And I said, O Lord, Lord, if I haue found grace before thy sight, and if I am iustified with thee before many other, and if my prayer in deede be come vp before thy face,

8 Comfort me, and shewe me thy seruant the interpretation and difference of this horrible sight, that thou mayest perfectly comfort my 9 Seeing thou hast iudged mee worthy to shew me the last times.

10 ¶ Then he said vnto mee, This is the interpretation of this vision.

11 The Eagle whom thou sawest come vp from the sea, is the *kingdome which was seene in the vision of thy brother Daniel. *Dan.7.7.

12 But it was not expounded vnto him: therefore now I declare it vnto thee.

13 Beholde, the dayes come, that there shall rise vp a kingdome vpon the earth, and it shall bee feared aboue all kingdomes that were before it.

14 In it shall twelue Kings reigne one after another.

15 Whereof the second shall begin to reigne, and shall haue more time then the twelue.

16 And this doe the twelue wings signifie, which thou sawest.

17 As for the voyce that thou heardest speake, and that thou sawest not go out from the heads, but from the mids of the body thereof, this is the interpretation,

18 That after the time of that kingdome, there shall arise great strife, and it shall be in danger to fall, but it shall not then fall, but shall bee restored againe to his beginning.

19 Concerning the eight vnderwings, which thou sawest hang vnto her wings, this is the interpretation, 20 In him shall arise eight kings, whose time shall bee but small, and their yeeres swift, and two of them shall perish.

21 But when the mid time commeth, there shall be foure kept a time, whiles his time beginneth to come, that it may be ended, but two shall be kept vnto the ende.

22 And whereas thou sawest three heads resting, this is the interpretation.

23 In his last dayes shall the most High raise vp three kingdomes and shall call againe many things into them, and they shal haue the dominion of the earth,

24 And of those that dwell therein, with much grieke aboue all those that were before them: therefore are they called the heads of the Eagle:

25 For they shall accomplish his wickednesse and shall finish his last end, 26 And whereas thou sawest that the great head appeared no more, it signifieth that one of them shall die vpon his bedde, and yet with paine.

27 For the two that remaine, the sword shall deuoure them.

28 For the sword of the one shall deuoure the other: but at the last shall her fall by the sworde himselfe.

29 And whereas thou sawest two vnderwings that went off toward the head, which was on the right side, this is the interpretation, 30 These are they whom the most High hath prestrued for their ende, whose kingdome is little, and full of trouble as thou sawest.

31 And the Lion whom thou sawest rising vp out of the wood and roaring, and speaking vnto the Eagle, and rebuking her for her vnrighteousnesse with all the wordes that thou hast heard,

32 This is the winde which the most High hath kept for them, and for their wickednesse vnto the ende, and he shall reproue them, and cast before them their spoyles.

33 For her shall set them alive in the iudgement, and shall rebuke them and correct them.

34 For her will deliuer the relidue of my people by affliction, which are preserued vpon my borders, and he shall make them ioyfull, vntill the comming of the day of iudgement, whereof I haue spoken vnto thee from the beginning.

35 This is the dreame that thou sawest, and thine are the interpretations.

36 Thou onely hast bene meete to know this secret of the most High.

37 Therefore write all these things that thou hast seene in a booke, and hide them.

38 And teache them the wise of the people, whose hearts thou knowest may comprehende and keepe these secrets.

39 But wait thou here yet seuen dayes moe, that it may bee shewed thee whatsoeuer it pleaseth the most High to declare vnto thee: and with that he went his way.

40 And when all the people perceiued, that the seuen dayes were past, and I not come againe into the citie, they gathered them altogether, from the least vnto the most, and came vnto me, and spake vnto me, saying.

41 What haue we offended thee? or what euil haue we done against thee, that thou forsakest vs, and sittest in this place?

42 For of all the people thou onely art left vs as a grape of the vine, and as a candle in a darke place, and as a hauen or ship preserued from the tempest.

43 Are not the euils which are come vnto vs, sufficient?

44 If thou then forsake vs, how much better had it bene for vs, that we had bene burnt also as Sion was burnt?

45 For wee are no better then they that dyed there: and they wept with a lowde voyce. Then answered I them, and sayd, 46 Be of good comfort, O Israel, and be not heauy thou house of Iacob.

47 For the most High hath you in remembrance, and the Almightie hath not forgotten you in temptation.

48 As for me I haue not forsaken you, neither am I departed from you, but am come into this place to pray for the desolation of Sion, that I might seeke mercie for the lowe estate of your sanctuary.

49 And now goe your way home euery man, and after these dayes will I come vnto you.

50 So the people went their way into the citie, as I commanded them:

51 But I remained still in the fielde seuen dayes, as he had commanded mee, and did eate onely of the flowres of the fielde, and had my meate of the hearbes in those dayes.

CHAP. XIII.

2 The vision of a winde comming forth of the sea, 3 Which became a man. 5 His property and power against his enemies. 21 The declaration of this vision.

AND after the seuen dayes I dreamed a dreame by night.

2 And beholde, there arose a winde from the sea, and it mooued all the waues thereof.

3 And I looked, and beholde, there was a mightie man with the thousands of heauen: and when he turned his countenance to looke, all the things trembled that were seene vnder him.

4 And when y voyce went out of his mouth, all they burned that heard his voice, as the earth faileth when it feeleth the fire.

5 After these things I saw, and beholde, there was gathered together a multitude of men out of number, frō the foure windes of the heauen, to fight against the man that came out from the sea.

6 And I looked, and beholde, he graued himselfe a great mountaine, and flew vp vpon it.

7 But I would haue seene the countrey or place whereout the hill was grauen, and I could not.

8 I sawe after these things, and beholde, all they which came to fight against him were sore afraide, and yet they durst not fight.

9 Neuerthelesse, when he saw the fiercenesse of the multitude that came, he lifted not vp his hand: for he held no swoorde nor any instrument of warre.

10 But onely, as I sawe, he sent out of his mouth, as it had bene a blast of fire, and out of his lips the winde of the flame, and out of his tongue he cast out sparkes and stormes.

11 And they were all mixt together, euen this blast of fire, the winde of the flame, and the great storme, & fell with violence vpon the multitude which was prepared to fight, and burnt them vp all, so that of the innumerable multitude there was nothing seene, but onely dust and smell of smoke. When I saw this, I was afraid.

12 ¶ Afterward sawe I the same man come downe from the mountaine, and calling vnto him another peaceable multitude.

13 And there came many vpon him, some with ioyfull countenance, and some with sad: some of them were bound, and some brought of them that were offred: and I was sicke through great feare, and awaked, and said.

14 Thou hast shewed thy seruant these wonders from the beginning, and hast counted mee worthy to receiue my prayer.

15 Shew me now therefore the interpretation of this dreame.

16 For thus I conclude in mine vnderstanding, Woe vnto them that shall be left in those dayes, and much more woe vnto them that are not left behind.

17 For they that were not left, were in heauinesse.

18 Nowe vnderstand I the things that are layd vp in the latter dayes, which shall come both vnto them and to those that are left behind.

19 Therefore are they come into great perils, and many necessities, as these dreames declare.

20 Yet is it easier, that he that is in danger, should fall into these, and before the things to come hereafter, then to passe away as a cloude out of the world.

21 ¶ Then answered he mee, and saide, The interpretation of the vision will I shewe thee, and I will open to thee the thing that thou hast required.

22 Whereas thou hast spoken of them that are left behinde, this is the interpretation.

23 Her that shall beare y danger in that time, her shall keepe himselfe. They that bee fallen into danger, are such as haue workes and faith faith toward the moſt mighty.

24 Knowe therefore, that they which bee left behinde, are more bleſſed then they that be dead.

25 Theſe are the meanings of the viſion, Whereas thou ſaweſt a man comming vp from the midſt of the ſea, 26 The ſame is he whom the moſt High hath kept a great ſeaſon, who by his owne ſelfe ſhall deliuer his creature, and he ſhall order them that are left behind.

27 ¶ And whereas thou ſaweſt, that out of his mouth there came as a blaſt with fire and ſtorme,

28 And that hee neither held ſword nor weapon, but that by his fiercenesſe he deſtroyed the whole multitude that came to fight againſt him, this is the interpretation,

29 Beholde, the dayes come that the moſt High will begin to deliuer them that are vpon the earth:

30 And he ſhall aſtoniſh the hearts of them that dwell vpon the earth:

31 And one ſhall prepare to fight againſt another, citie againſt citie, and place againſt place, Mat.24.7. * and nation againſt nation, and realme againſt realme.

32 When this commeth to paſſe, then ſhall the tokens come, that I ſhewed thee before, and then ſhal my ſonne be reuealed, whom thou ſaweſt goe vp as a man.

33 And when all the people heare his voyce, euery man ſhall in their owne land leaue the battell that they haue one againſt another.

34 And an innumerable multitude ſhalbe gathered as one, as they that be willing to come, to fight againſt him.

35 But he ſhall ſtand vpon the top of mount Sion.

36 And Sion ſhall come, and ſhallbe ſhewed to all, being prepared and builded, as thou ſaweſt the hill grauen forth without any hands.

37 And this my ſonne ſhall rebuke the wicked inuentions of thoſe nations, which for their wicked life are fallen into the tempeſt, 38 And into torments like to flame, whereby they ſhall be tormented: and without any labour will he deſtroy them euen by the Law, which is compared vnto the fire.

39 And whereas thou ſaweſt that hee gathered another peaceable people vnto him,

40 Thoſe are the ten tribes which were caried away captiues out of their owne lande * in

2.King.17.3 the time of Oſeas the King, whom Salmanaſar the king of the Aſſyrians tooke captiue, and caried them beyond the riuer: ſo were they brought into another land.

41 But they tooke this counſell to themſelues, that they would leaue the multitude of the heathen, and goe forth into a further countrey, where neuer mankind dwelt,

42 That they might there keepe their ſtatutes, which they neuer kept in their owne land.

43 And they entred in at the narrow paſſages of the riuer Euphrates.

44 For the moſt high then ſhewed them

Exod 14.21. Ioſh.3.15,16 ſignes, * and ſtayed the ſprings of the flood till they were paſſed ouer.

45 For thorow the countrey there was a great iourney, euen of a yeere and a halfe, and the ſame

‖Or, Arareth. region is called ‖ Arſareth.

46 Then dwelt they there vntill the latter time: and when they come forth againe, 47 The moſt High ſhall hold ſtill the ſprings of the riuer againe, that they may goe thorow: therefore ſaweſt thou the multitude peaceable.

48 But they that be left behinde of thy people, are thoſe that be found within my borders.

49 Now when hee deſtroyeth the multitude of the nations that are gathered together, he ſhall defend the people that remaine.

50 And then ſhall he ſhew great wonders vnto them.

51 Then ſayd I, O Lord, Lord, ſhew me this, wherefore haue I ſeene the man comming vp from the midſt of the ſea?

52 And hee ſayd vnto me, As thou canſt neither ſeeke out, nor know theſe things, that are in the deepe of the ſea, ſo can no man vpon earth ſee my ſonne, or thoſe that be with him, but in the time of that day.

53 This is the interpretation of the dreame which thou ſaweſt, and whereby thou only art lightened.

54 For thou haſt forſaken thine owne law, and applyed thy diligence vnto mine, and ſought it.

55 Thy life haſt thou ordered in wildeome, and haſt called vnderſtanding thy mother.

56 Therefore haue I ſhewed thee the rewards with the moſt High: and after three other dayes I will ſpeake other things vnto thee, and will declare vnto thee great and wonderous things.

57 Then went I forth vnto the field, glorifying and prayſing the moſt High for the wonders which he did in time, 58 Which he gouerneth, & ſuch things as come in their ſeaſons: and there I ſate three dayes.

CHAP. XIIII.

3 How God appeared to Moſes in the buſh. 10 All things decline to age. 15 The latter times worſt then the former. 29 The ingratitude of Iſrael. 35 The reſurrection and iudgement.

VPon the third day I ſate vnder an oke, and beholde, there came forth a voyce vnto mee out of the buſh, and ſayde, Eſdras, Eſdras.

2 And I ſayde, Here am I, Lord, and ſtood vp vpon my feete.

3 Then ſayd he vnto me, * In the buſh I re- Exod.3.2.4.
uealed my ſelfe, and ſpake vnto Moyſes, when my people ſerued in Egypt,

4 And I ſent him, and led my people out of Egypt, and brought him vpon the mount Sinai, and I held him with me a long ſeaſon,

5 And I tolde him many wonders, & ſhewed him the ſecrets of the times and the ende, and commanded him, ſaying,

6 Theſe words ſhalt thou declare, and theſe ſhalt thou hide.

7 And now I ſay vnto thee, that thou lay vp in thine heart the ſignes that I haue ſhewed, and the dreames that thou haſt ſeene, and the interpretations which thou haſt heard.

8 For thou ſhalt be taken away from all, and thou ſhalt remaine hence forth with my counſell, and with ſuch as be like thee, vntill the times be ended.

9 For the world hath loſt his youth, and the times

times begin to waxe old.

10 For the worlde is diuided into twelue parts, and ten parts of it are gone already, and halfe of the tenth part.

11 And there remayneth that which is after the halfe of the tenth part.

12 Therefore set thine house in order, and reforme thy people, and comfort such of them as be in trouble, and now renounce the corruption.

13 Let goe from thee mortall thoughts: cast away from thee the burdens of men, and put off now the weake natures, 14 And set aside the most grieuous thoughts, and haste thee to depart from these times.

15 For greater euils then those, which thou hast seene now, shall they commit.

16 For the weaker that the worlde is by reason of age, the more shall the euils bee increased vpon them that dwell therein.

17 For the truetly is fled farre away, and lies are at hand: for now hasteth the vision to come, that thou hast seene.

18 ¶ Then answered I, and sayd before thee,

19 Beholde, O Lord, I will goe as thou hast commanded mee, and reforme the people, which are present: but they that shall be borne afterward, who shall admonish them?

20 Thus the world is set in darkenesse, and they that dwell therein, are without light.

21 For thy Law is burnt, therefore no man knoweth the things that are done of thee, or the works that shalbe done.

22 But if I haue found grace before thee, send the holy Ghost into mee, and I will write all that hath bene done in the world since the beginning, which was written in thy Law, that men may find the path, and that they which will liue in the latter dayes, may liue.

23 And he answered me, saying, Goe and gather the people, and say vnto them, that they seeke thee not for fortie dayes,

24 But prepare thee many bore tables, and take with thee these fiue, Sarea, Dabria, Selemia, Ecanus, and Asiel, which are ready to write swiftly, 25 And come hither, and I will light a candle of vnderstanding in thine heart, which shall not be put out, till the things be performed which thou shalt begin to write.

26 And then shalt thou declare some things openly vnto the perfect men, and some things shalt thou shew secretly vnto the wise: to morrow this houre shalt thou begin to write.

27 Then went I foorth, as hee commanded me, and gathered all the people together, & said,

28 Heare these words, O Israel,

29 * Our fathers at the beginning were strangers in Egypt, from whence they were deliuered, — Gene. 47. 4.

30 And receiued the Law of life, * which they kept not, which yee also haue transgressed after them. — Act. 7. 53.

31 Then was the land, euen the land of Sion parted among you by lot: but your fathers and yee also haue done vnrighteously, and haue not kept the wayes, which the most High commanded you.

32 And for so much as he is a righteous iudge, he tooke from you in time the thing that he had giuen you.

33 And now are yee here, and your brethren among you.

34 Therefore if so be that ye will subdue your owne vnderstanding, and reforme your heart, ye shalbe kept aliue, and after death ye shall obtaine mercy.

35 For after death shall the iudgement come, when we shall liue againe: and then shall the names of the righteous bee manifest, and the works of the vngodly shall be declared.

36 Let no man therefore come now vnto me, nor seeke me these fortie dayes.

37 So I tooke the fiue men, as he commanded me, and we went into the field, and remayned there.

38 The next day, behold, a voyce called me, saying, Esdras, open thy mouth, and drinke that I giue thee to drinke. — Ezek. 3. 2.

39 Then opened I my mouth, and beholde, he reached mee a full cup, which was full as it were with water: but the colour of it was like fire.

40 And I tooke it, and dranke, and when I had dunke it, mine heart had vnderstanding, and wisedome grew in my breast: for my spirit was strengthened in memory.

41 And my mouth was opened, and shut no more.

42 The most High gaue vnderstanding vnto the fiue men, that they wrote the high things of the night, which they vnderstood not.

43 But in the night they did eate bread, but I spake by day, and held not my tongue by night.

44 In fortie dayes, they wrote two hundred and foure bookes.

45 And when the fortie dayes were fulfilled, the most High spake, saying, The first that thou hast written, publish openly, that the worthy and vnworthy may reade it.

46 But keep the seuenty last, that thou mayest giue them to the wise among thy people.

47 For in them is the veine of vnderstanding, and the fountaine of wisedome, and the riuer of knowledge: and I did so.

CHAP. XV.

1 The prophecie of Esdras is certain. 5 The euils that shall come on the world. 9 The Lord will auenge the vnnocent blood. 12 Egypt shall lament 16 Sedition 20 and punishment vpon the kings of the earth. 24 Cursed are they that sinne. 29 Troubles and warres vpon the whole earth. 53 God is the reuenger of his elect.

BEholde, speake thou in the eares of my people the wordes of prophecie, which I will put in thy mouth, sayth the Lord:

2 And cause them to be written in a letter: for they are faithfull and true.

3 Feare not the imaginations against thee: let not the vnfaithfulnesse of the speakers trouble thee, that speake against thee.

4 For euery vnfaithfull shall die in his vnfaithfulnesse.

5 Behold, saith the Lord, I will bring plagues vpon all the world, the sword, famine, death and destruction.

6 Because that iniquity hath fully polluted all the earth, & their wicked works are fulfilled.

7 Therefore, sayth the Lord, I will hold my tongue no more for them wickednesse, (they doe vngodly) neither will I suffer them in the things that they doe wickedly.

8 Behold,

Rom. 6. 10. and 19. 2.

8 Behold, *the innocent and righteous blood crieth vnto me, and the soules of the iust crie continually.

9 I will surely auenge them, sayth the Lord, and receiue vnto me all the innocent blood from among them.

10 Behold, my people is led as a flocke to the slaughter: I will not suffer them now to dwell in the land of Egypt, 11 But I will bring them out with a mightie hand, and a stretched out arme, and smite it with plagues as afore, and will destroy all the lande thereof.

12 Egypt shall mourne, and the foundations thereof shall bee smitten with the plague and punishment, that God shall bring vpon it.

13 The plowmen that till the ground, shall mourne: for their seedes shall faile through the blasting and haile, and by an horrible starre.

14 Woe to the world, and to them that dwell therein.

15 For the sworde, and their destruction draweth neere, and one people shall stand vp to fight against another with swordes in their hands.

16 For there shall be sedition among men, and one shall inuade another: they shall not regard their King, and the princes shall measure their doings by their power.

17 A man shall desire to goe into a citie, and shall not be able.

18 Because of their pride the cities shall bee troubled, the houses shall bee afrayd, men shall feare.

19 A man shall haue no pitie vpon his neighbour, but shall destroy their houses with the sword, and their goods shall be spoyled for lacke of bread, and because of great trouble.

20 Behold, sayth God, I call together all the Kings of the earth to reuerence mee, which are from the ‖ East, and from the South, from the East, and from Libanus, to turne vpon them and to repay the things that they haue done to them.

‖ Or, West.

21 As they doe yet this day vnto my chosen, so will I doe also, and recompense them in their bosome: thus sayth the Lord God.

22 My right hand shall not spare the sinners, neither shall the sword cease from them, that sled innocent blood vpon earth.

23 The fire is gone out from his wrath, and hath consumed the foundations of the earth, and the sinners like the straw that is kindled.

24 Woe to them that sinne, and keepe not my commandements, sayth the Lord.

25 I will not spare them: depart, O children, from the power: defile not my Sanctuary.

26 For the Lord knoweth all them that sinne against him, and therefore deliuereth her them vnto death and destruction.

27 For nowe are the plagues come vpon the world, and ye shall remaine in them: for God will not deliuer you, because yee haue sinned against him.

28 Behold, an horrible vision commeth from the East.

29 Where generations of dragons of Arabia shall come out with many charets, and the multitude of them shall be caried as the winde vpon the earth, that all they which heare them, may feare and tremble.

30 Euen the Carmanians raging in wrath, shall goe forth as the boares of the forrest, and shall come with great power, and stand against them in battell, and shall destroy a portion of the land of the Assyrians.

31 But after this shall the dragons haue the vpper hand, and remember their nature, and shall turne about, and conspire to consume them with a great power.

32 Then these shall be troubled, and keepe silence by their power, and shall flee.

33 From the land of the Assyrians shall the enemie beliege them, and consume some of them, and in their hoste shalbe feare & dread, and strife among their kings.

34 Behold cloudes from the East, and from the North vnto the South, and they are very horrible to looke vpon, full of wrath and storme.

35 They shall smite one vpon another: and they shall smite downe a great multitude of starres vpon the earth, euen their owne starre, and the blood shall be from the sworde vnto the belly, 36 And the dung of man vnto the Camels litter.

37 And there shalbe great fearefulnes & trembling vpon earth, and they that see the wrath, shalbe afrayd, and a trembling shall come vpon them.

38 And then there shall come great stormes from the South, and from the North, and part from the West.

39 And from the East shall windes arise, and shall open it with the cloude, which he raised vp in wrath, and the starre, raised to feare the East and West winde, shalbe destroyed.

40 And the great and mighty cloudes shall be lift vp full of wrath, and the starre that they may make all the earth afrayd, and them that dwell therein, and that they may powre out ouer euery high place, and lifted vp, an horrible constellation, 41 As fire and haile, and flying swords, and many waters, that all fields may bee full, and all riuers with the abundance of great waters.

42 And they shall breake downe the cities, and walles, and mountaines, and hils, and the trees of the wood, and the grasse of the medowes, and their corne.

43 And they shall goe with a straight course vnto Babylon, and make it afrayd.

44 They shall come to her & beliege her, and shal powre forth the constellation, & all the wrath against her: then shall the dust and smoke goe vp vnto the heauen, and all they that be about her, shall bewaile her.

45 And they that remayne vnder her, shall doe service vnto them that haue put her in feare.

46 ¶ And thou Asia, that art partaker of the hope of Babylon, and the glorie of her person, 47 Woe vnto thee, O wretch, because thou hast made thy selfe like vnto her, and hast decked thy daughters in whoredome, that they might please and glorie in thy louers, which haue alway desired to committe whoredome with thee.

48 Thou hast followed her that is hated in all her workes, and in her inuentions: therefore sayth God,

49 I will

49 I will send plagues vpon thee, widowhood, pouertie, and famine, and the sworde, and pestilence, to waste thine houses with destruction and death.

50 And the glory of thy power shall be dried vp, as a flowre when the heate ariseth, that is sent vpon thee.

51 Thou shalt be sicke as a poore wife that is plagued and beaten of women, so that the mightie and the louers shall not be able to receiue thee.

52 Would I thus hate thee, saith the Lord,

53 If thou hadst not alway flatte my chosen, exalting the stroke of thine hands, and layd out their death, when thou wast drunken,

54 Set forth the beautie of thy countenance?

55 The reward of thy whoredome shall be in thy bosome: therefore shalt thou receiue a reward.

56 As thou hast done vnto my chosen, saieth the Lord, so will God doe vnto thee, and will deliuer thee vnto the plague.

57 And thy children shall die of hunger, and thou shalt fall by the sword, and thy cities shall be broken downe, and all thy men shall fall by the sword in the field.

58 And they that bee in the mountaines, shall die of hunger, and eat their owne flesh, and drinke their owne blood for want of bread and thirst of water.

59 And thou, as vnhappie, shalt come thorow the Sea, and receiue plagues againe.

60 In the passage they shall cast downe the flaine citie, and shall roote out one part of thy land, and consume the portion of thy glory, and shall returne to her that was destroyed.

61 When thou shalt be cast downe, thou shalt be to them as stubble, and they shall be to thee as fire.

62 And they shall destroy thee, and thy cities, thy land, and thy mountaines: all thy woods and all thy fruitfull trees shall they burne with fire.

63 Thy children shall they carry away captiue, and shall spoyle thy substance, and marre the beautie of thy face.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Against Babylon, Asia, Egypt and Syria. 18. 38 Of the euils that shall come vpon the world, with admonition how to gouerne themselues in afflictions. 54 To acknowledge their sinnes, and to commit themselues to the Lord, 55 whose mightie prouidence and iustice is to be reuerenced.

WOe to thee, Babylon, and Asia: woe to thee, Egypt and Syria.

2 Gird your selues with sacke and haire-cloth, and mourne your children, and be sory: for your destruction is at hand.

3 A sword is sent vnto you, & who will turne it backe? a fire is sent among you, and who will quench it?

4 Plagues are sent among you, and who can driue them away?

5 May any man driue away an hungrie Lion in the wood? or quench the fire in stubble when it hath once begunne to burne? may one turne againe the arrow, that is shot of a strong archer?

6 The mightie Lorde sendeth the plagues, and who can driue them away? the fire is gone forth in his wrath, and who can quench it?

7 He shall cast lightnings, and who shall not feare? hee shall thunder, and who shall not be afrayd?

8 The Lord shall threaten, and who shall not vtterly be broken in pieces at his presence? the earth quaketh, and the foundation thereof: the sea ariseth vp with waues from the deepe, and the waues thereof are troubled, and the fishes thereof, before the Lorde and the glory of his power.

9 For strong is his right hand, that bendeth the bowe: his arrowes that hee shooteth, are sharpe, and shall not misse, when they begin to be shot into the ends of the world.

10 Behold, the plagues are sent, and shall not turne againe till they come vpon earth.

11 The fire is kindled, and shall not be put out till it consume the foundations of the earth.

12 As an arrow which is shotte of a mightie archer, returneth not backeward, so the plagues that shall be sent vpon earth, shall not turne againe.

13 Woe is mee, woe is me: who will deliuer me in those dayes?

14 The beginning of sorrowes and great mourning: the beginning of famine, and great death: the beginning of warres, and the powers shall feare: the beginning of euils, and all shall tremble. What shall I doe in these things, when the plagues come?

15 Behold, famine, and plague, and trouble, and anguish are sent as scourges for amendement.

16 But for all these things they will not turne from their wickednesse, nor be alway mindfull of the scourges.

17 Behold, victuales shalbe so good cheape vpon earth, that they shall thinke themselues to be in good case: but then shall the euils bud forth vpon earth, euen the sword, the famine, and great confusion.

18 For many of them that dwell vpon earth, shall perish with famine, and the other that escape the famine, shall the sword destroy.

19 And the dead shall be cast out as dung, and there shall be no man to comfort them: for the earth shall be wasted, and the cities shall be cast downe.

20 There shall be no man left to till the earth, and to sowe it: the trees shall giue fruit, but who shall gather them?

21 The grapes shalbe ripe, but who shal tread them? for all places shall be desolate, so that one man shall desire to see another, or to heare his voyce.

22 For of one citie there shall be ten left, and two of the fielde which shall hide themselues in the thicke woods, and in the clefts of rocks.

23 As when there remayne three or foure olines in the place where olines growe, or among other trees.

24 Or as when a vineyard is gathered, there are left some grapes of them that diligently sought thorow the vineyard:

25 So in those dayes there shall be three or foure left by them that search the houses with the sword.

26 And the earth shall be left waste, and the fields thereof shall waxe olde, and her wayes and all her paths shall grow full of thornes, because no man shall trauaile therethrough.

27 The

27 The virgines shall mourne, hauing no bridegroomes: the women shall make lamentation hauing no husbands: their daughters shall mourne hauing no helpers.

28 In the warres shall their bridegromes be destroyed, and their husbands shall perish with famine.

29 But, ye seruants of the Lorde, heare these things, and marke them.

30 Beholde the word of the Lorde, receiue it: beleeue not the gods of whom the Lorde speaketh: beholde, the plagues draw neere, and are not slacke.

31 As a trauailing woman which in the ninth moneth bringeth forth her sonne, when the houre of birth is come, two or three houres aboue the paines come vpon her body, and when the childe commeth to the birth, they tary not a whit:

32 So shall not the plagues be slacke to come vpon the earth, and the world shall mourne, and sorowes shal come vpon it on euery side.

33 O my people, heare my worde: make you ready to the battell, and in the troubles bee euen as strangers vpon earth.

34 He that selleth, let him bee as he that fleeth his way, and he that buyeth, as one that shall lose.

35 Who so occupieth merchandise, as he that winneth not: and hee that buildeth, as hee that shall not dwell therein:

36 He that soweth, as one that shal not reape: he that cutteth the vine, as hee that shall not gather the grapes:

37 They that marry, as they that shall get no children: and they that marry not, so as the widowes.

38 Therefore they that labour, labour in vaine.

39 For strangers shall reape their fruites, and spoile their goods, and ouerthrowe their houses, and take their children captiue: for in captiuitie and famine shall they get their children.

40 And they that occupie their merchandise with couetousnesse, the more they decke their cities, their houses, their possessions, & their owne persons, 41 So much more will I be angry against them, for their sinnes, saith the Lord.

42 As a whore enuieth an honest and vertuous woman,

43 So shal righteousnes hate iniquitie, when she decketh her selfe, and shall accuse her openly, when he shall come that shall diuide the authour of all sinne vpon earth.

44 And therefore be ye not like thereunto, nor to the workes thereof: for or euer it be long, iniquitie shall be taken away out of the earth, and righteousnesse shall reigne among you.

45 Let not the sinner say, that he hath not sinned: for coales of fire shall burne vpon his head, which saith, I haue not sinned before the Lorde God and his glory.

Luke 16.16. 46 Beholde, the Lord * knoweth al the workes of men, their imaginations, their thoughts and their hearts.

Gene.1.1. 47 * For alloone as he said, Let the earth be made, it was made: let the heauen be made, and it was created.

48 By his word were the starres established, and he * knoweth the number of them. Psal.147.4

49 He searcheth the depth, and the treasures thereof: hee hath measured the sea, and what it conteineth.

50 Hee hath shut the sea in the middes of the waters, and with his word hath hee hanged the earth vpon the waters.

51 Hee spreadeth out the heauen like a vault: vpon the waters hath he founded it.

52 In the desert hath he made springs of water, and pooles vpon the top of the mountaines, to powre out floods from the high rockes to water the earth.

53 Hee made man, and put his heart in the middes of the body, and gaue him breath, life, and vnderstanding.

54 And the spirit of the almighty God, which made all things, and hath searched all the hidde things in the secrets of the earth.

55 He knoweth your inuentions, and what ye imagine in your heart when ye sinne and would hide your sinnes.

56 Therefore hath the Lord searched and sought out all your workes, and will put you all to shame.

57 And when your sinnes are brought forth before men, ye shall bee confounded, and your owne sinnes shall stand as your accusers in that day.

58 What will yee doe, or how will you hide your sinnes before God and his Angels?

59 Beholde, God himselfe is the Iudge: feare him: cease from your sinnes, and forget your iniquities, and meddle no more from hencefoorth with them: so shall God leade you forth, and deliuer you from all trouble.

60 For beholde, the heat of a great multitude is kindled against you, and they shall take away certaine of you, and shall slay you for meat to the idoles.

61 And they that consent vnto them, shall bee had in derision, and in reproth, and troden vnder foote.

62 For in euery place & cities that are neere, there shalbe great insurrection against those that feare the Lord.

63 They shall be like madde men: they shall spare none: they shall spoile, and waste such as yet feare the Lord.

64 For they then shall waste and spoyle their goods, and cast them out of their houses.

65 Then shall the triall of my chosen appeare, as the gold is tried by the fire.

66 Heare, O my beloued, saith the Lorde, Behold, the dayes of trouble are at hand, but I will deliuer you from them: be not yee afraide, doubt not, for God is your captaine.

67 Who so keepeth my commandements and precepts, saith the Lord God, let not your sinnes weigh you downe, and let not your iniquities lift themselues vp.

68 Woe vnto them that are bound with their sinnes, and couered with their iniquities, as a fielde is hedged in with bushes, & the path thereof couered with thornes, whereby no man may trauell: it is shut vp, and is appointed to bee deuoured with fire.

Tobit.

CHAP. I.

1 Tobits parentage. 3 His godlinesse. 6 His equity. 8 His charity and prosperity. 19 Hee fleeth, and his goods are confiscate, 22 And after restored.

THe booke of the wordes of Tobit the sonne of Tobiel, the sonne of Ananeel, the sonne of Aduel, the sonne of Gabael, of the seede of Asiael, and of the tribe of Nephthalim,

2 Who in the time of ‖ Enemessar king of the Assyrians was * ledde away captiue out of Thisbe, which is at the right hand of that citie, which is called properly Nephthalim, in Galile about Aser.

3 I Tobit haue walked all my life long in the way of trueth and iustice, and I did many things liberally to the brethren, which were of my nation, and came with me to Nineue into the land of the Assyrians.

4 And when I was in mine owne countrey in the land of Israel, being but yoong, all the tribe of Nephthalim my father fell from the house of Jerusalem, which was chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, that all the tribes should sacrifice there, where the Temple of the Tabernacle of the most High was consecrated, and built vp for all ages.

5 * Now all the tribes which fell from God, yea, and my father Nephthalims house offered to the heifer called Baal.

6 But I (as it was ordeined to all Israel by an euerlasting decree) went alone often to Jerusalem, at the feastes, * bringing the first fruits, and the tenths of beasts, with that which was first shorne, and offered them at the altar to the Priests the children of Aaron.

7 The first tenth part I gaue to the Priests the sonnes of Aaron, which ministred in Jerusalem: the other tenth part I solde, and came and bestowed it euery yeere at Jerusalem.

8 The third tenth part I gaue vnto them to whom it was meet, as Debora my fathers mother had commaunded me, for my father left me as a pupill.

9 ¶ Furthermore, when I was come to the age of a man, I married Anna of * mine owne kinred, and of her I begate Tobias.

10 ¶ But when I was led captiue to Nineue, all my brethren, and those which were of my kinred, did eat of the * bread of the Gentiles, 11 But I kept my selfe from eating.

12 Because I remembred God with all mine heart.

13 Therefore the most high gaue mee grace and fauour before Enemessar, so that I was his purueyor.

14 ¶ And I went into Media, and I deliuered ten talents of siluer to Gabael, the ‖ brother of Gabrias ‖ in the land of Media.

15 But when Enemessar was dead, Sennacherib his sonne reigned in his stead: whose state because it was troubled, I could not goe into Media.

16 ¶ But in the time of ‖ Enemessar, I gaue many almes to my brethren, and gaue my bread to them which were hungry, 17 And my clothes to the naked: and if I saw any of my kinred dead, or cast about the walles of Nineue, I buried him.

18 And if the King Sennacherib had slaine any, when he * was come and fled from Judea, I buried them priuily (for in his wrath hee killed many) but the bodies were not found when they were sought for of the king.

19 Therefore when a certaine Ninenite had accused mee to the King, because I did burie them, I hid my selfe: and because I knew that I was sought to be slaine, I withdrew my selfe for feare.

20 Then all my goods were spoiled, neither was there any thing left me besides my wife Anna, and my sonne Tobias.

21 Neuertheless * within fiue & fifty dayes two of his sonnes killed him, and they fled into the mountaines of Ararath, and Sarchedonus his sonne reigned in his stead, who appointed ouer his fathers accounts, and ouer all his domesticall affaires, Achiacharus my brother Anaels sonne.

22 And when Achiacharus had made a request for me, I came againe to Nineue: now Achiacharus was cupbearer and keeper of the signet, and steward, and ouerslawe the accompts: So Sarchedonus appointed him next vnto him and he was my brothers sonne.

CHAP. II.

2 Tobit calleth the faithfull to his table. 3 He lamenteth the feast to burie the dead. 10 How hee became blind. 13 His wife laboureth for her liuing. 14 She reproacheth him bitterly.

NOwe when I was come home againe, and my wife Anna was restored vnto mee with my sonne Tobias, in the feast of Pentecost, which is the holy feast of the seuen weekes, there was a great dinner prepared mee, in the which I sate downe to eate.

2 And when I saw abundance of meate, I sayde to my sonne, Goe, and bring what poore man soeuer thou shalt finde of our brethren, which doth remember God, and loe, I will tary for thee.

3 But he came againe, and sayd, Father, one of our nation is strangled, and is cast out in the market place.

4 Then before I had tasted any meate, I start vp, and brought him into mine house vntill the going downe of the Sunne,

5 Then I returned and washed, and ate my meate in heauinesse,

6 Remembring that prophesie of * Amos which had sayd, Your solemne feastes shall bee turned into mourning, and your ioyes into wayling.

7 Therefore I wept, and after the going downe of the Sunne I went and made a graue and buried him.

8 But my neighbours mocked me, and sayd, Doeth hee not feare to die for this cause, who * fled away, and yet loe, hee buryeth the dead againe?

9 The same night also when I returned from the burial, and slept at the wall of mine house, because I was polluted, and hauing my face vncouered,

The wife of Tobit laboureth for her living.

14 But she said, it was giuen for a gift more then the wages: but I did not beleeue, and bade her to render it to the owners, and I did blush because of her. Furthermore thee sayd, *Where are thine almes, and thy righteousnesse? beholde, they all now appeare in thee.

CHAP. III.

The prayer of Tobit 7 Sarra Raguels daughter, and the things that came vnto her. 12. Her prayer heard. 19 The Angel Raphael sent.

Then I being sorowfull, did weepe, and in my sorow prayed, saying,

2 O Lorde, thou art iust, and all thy works, and all thy wayes are mercie and trueth, and thou iudgest truely and iustly for euer.

3 Remember mee, and looke on mee, neither punish me according to my sinnes or mine ignorances, or my fathers, which haue sinned before thee.

Deut. 28. 15, 37.

4 For they haue not obeyed thy commandements: wherefore thou hast deliuered vs * for a spoile, and vnto captiuitie, & to death, and for a prouerbe of reproch to all them among whome we are dispersed, and now thou hast many and iust cawses.

† Or, thy iudgements are many and true.

5 To doe with mee according to my sinnes, and my fathers, because wee haue not kept thy commaundements, neyther haue walked in trueth before thee.

6 Nowe therefore deale with mee as seemeth best vnto thee, and commaund my spirit to bee taken from mee, that I may be dissolued, and become earth: for it is better for mee to die then to liue, because I haue heard false reproches, and am very sorowfull: command therefore that I may be dissolued out of this distresse, and go into the euerlasting place: turne not thy face away from me.

Sarra is checked of her fathers maide.

7 ¶ It came to passe the same day that in Ecbatane a citie of Media, Sarra the daughter of Raguel was also reproched by her fathers maides,

8 Because shee had beene married to seuen husbands, whome Aſmodeus the euill spirit had killed, before that they had lien with her. Doest thou not know, sayd they, that thou hast strangled thine husbands? thou hast had now seuen husbands, neither wast thou named after any of them.

For, when she beat them for their faults, they sayd.

9 Wherefore doest thou beat vs for them? if they bee dead, goe thy wayes hence to them, that wee may neuer see of thee either sonne or daughter.

10 When shee heard these things, shee was very sorowfull, so that she thought to haue strangled her selfe. And she said, I am the onely daughter of my father, and if I do this, I shall slander him, and shal bring his age to the graue with sorrow.

Sarra prayeth and fasteth, that she may be deliuered from shame.

11 Then she prayed toward the window, and said, Blessed art thou, O Lord my God, and thine holy and glorious Name is blessed, and honourable for euer: let all thy workes praise thee for euer.

12 And now, O Lord, I set mine eyes, and my face toward thee, 13 And say, Take me out of the earth, that I may heare no more any reproch.

The innocencie of Sarra. Her chastitie.

14 Thou knowest, O Lord, that I am pure from all sinne with man,

15 And that I haue neuer polluted my name, nor the name of my father in the land of my captiuitie: I am the onely daughter of my father, neither hath he any man childe to be his heire, neyther any † neere kinsman or childe borne of him, to whom I may keepe my selfe for a wife: my seuen husbands are now dead, & why should I liue? But if it please not thee that I should die, command to looke on me, and to pity me, that I do no more heare reproch.

† Greek, nere brother.

16 So the prayers of them both were heard before the maiesty of the great God.

The prayers of Tobit and Sarra are heard both at a time.

17 And Raphael was sent to heale them both, that is, to take away the whitenes of Tobits eies, and to giue Sarra the daughter of Raguel for a wife to Tobias the sonne of Tobit, and to binde Aſmodeus euill spirit, because she belonged to Tobias by right. The selfesame time came Tobit home, and entred into his house, and Sarra the daughter of Raguel came downe from her chamber.

CHAP. IIII.

Precepts and exhortations of Tobit to his sonne.

Chap. 1. 14.

In that day Tobit remembred * the siluer, which he had deliuered to Gabael in Ragis a citie of Media.

2 And saide with himselfe, I haue wished for death: wherefore doe I not call for my sonne Tobias that I may admonish him before I die?

Tobits exhortation to his sonne, when he thought he should die.

3 And when he had called him, he said, My sonne, after that I am dead, bury me, and despise not thy mother, but * honour her all the dayes of thy life, and do that which shall please her, and anger her not.

The mother is to be reuerenced. Exod. 20. 12. ecclus. 7. 27.

4 Remember my sonne, how many dangers she suffered, when she was in her woombe,

5 And when she dieth, bury her by me in the same graue.

God must be in our hearts

6 My sonne, set our Lord God alwayes before thine eyes, and let not thy will bee set to sinne, or to transgresse the commandements of God. Doe vprightly all thy life long, and follow not the wayes of vnrighteousnesse: for if thou deale truely, thy doings shall prosperously succeede to thee, and to all men which liue iustly.

7 Giue * almes of thy substance: and when thou giuest almes, let not thine eye bee enuious, neither turne thy face from any poore, lest that God turne his face from thee.

8 * Giue almes according to thy substance: if thou haue but a little, be not afraide to giue a little almes.

9 For

9 For thou layest vp a good store for thy selfe, against the day of necessitie.

Eccles. 29. 13 10 * Because that almes doeth deliuer from death, and suffereth not to come into darkenesse.

11 For almes is a good gift before the most High to all them which vse it.

Adulterie. 1 Thes. 4. 3. 12 Beware of all * whoredome, my sonne, and chiefely take a wife of the seede of thy fathers, and take not a strange woman to wife, which is not of thy fathers stocke: for wee are the children of the Prophets: Noe, Abraham, Isaac and Iacob are our fathers from the beginning. Remember, my sonne, that they married wiues of their owne kinred, and were blessed in their children, and their seede shall inherit the land.

Pride. 13 Now therefore my sonne, loue thy brethren, and despise not in thine heart thy brethren, the sonnes and daughters of thy people, in not taking a wife of them: for in pride is destruction, and much trouble, and in fiercenesse is scarcitie and great pouertie: for ‖ fiercenesse is the mother of famine.

18 Aske counsell alway of the wise, and despise not any counsell that is profitable.

Counsell. God is to be blessed. 19 Bleese thy Lord God alway, and desire of him that thy wayes may be made streight, and that all thy purposes and counsels may prosper: for euery nation hath not counsell: but the Lord giueth all good things, and he humbleth whome hee will, as he will: now therefore, my sonne, remember my commandements, neyther let them at any time be put out of thy minde.

Chap. 2. 14. 20 * Furthermore, I signifie this to thee, that I deliuered tenne talents to Gabael the sonne of Gabrias at Rages in Media.

Pouertywith the feare of God. 21 And feare not, my sonne, for asmuch as wee are made poore: for thou hast many things, if thou feare God, and flee from all sinne, and doe that thing which is acceptable vnto him.

CHAP. V.

1 Tobias sent to Rages. 4 Hee meeteth with the Angel Raphael which did conduct him.

Tobias sent by his father to Rages, seeketh a companion, and meeteth with Raphael, whom hee bringeth to his father. TObias then answered, and sayd, Father, I will do all things which thou hast commanded me.

2 But how can I receiue the siluer, seeing I know him not?

3 Then he gaue him the hand writing, and sayd vnto him, Seeke thee a man, which may goe with thee, whiles I yet liue, and I will giue him wages, and go and receiue the money.

4 Therefore when hee was gone to seeke a man, he found Raphael the Angel.

5 But he knew not, and sayd vnto him, May I goe with thee into the land of Media? and knowest thou those places well?

6 To whom the Angel sayd, I will go with thee: for I haue remained with our brother Gabael.

7 Then Tobias sayd to him, Tary for me, till I tell my father.

8 Then he sayd vnto him, Go, and tary not: so he went in, and said to his father, Behold, I haue found one, which will go with me. Then he said, Call him vnto me, that I may know of what tribe he is, and whether he be faithfull to go with thee.

9 So he called him, and he came in, and they saluted one another.

10 Then Tobit said vnto him, Brother, shew me of what tribe and familie thou art.

11 To whom he said, Doest thou seeke a stock or family, or an hired man to go with thy sonne? Then Tobit said vnto him, I would know, brother, thy kinred and thy name.

12 Then he said, I am of the kinred of Azarias and Ananias the great, and of thy brethren.

‖ Or, then commest happily. 13 Then Tobit saide, ‖ Thou art welcome, brother: bee not now angry with me, because I haue enquired to know thy kinred and thy family: for thou art my brother of an honest and good stocke: for I know Ananias and Jonathas, sonnes of that great Samaias: for we went together to Jerusalem to worship, and offered the first borne, and the tenthes of the fruits, and they were not deceiued with the errour of our brethren: my brother, thou art of a great stocke.

14 But tell me, what wages shall I giue thee? wilt thou a groat a day, & things necessary, as to mine owne sonne?

15 Yea, moreouer, if ye returne safe, I will adde some thing to the wages.

16 So they agreed. Then said he to Tobias, Prepare thy selfe for the iourney, and go you on Gods name. And when his sonne had prepared all things for the iourney, his father sayd, Go thou with this man, and God which dwelleth in heauen, prosper your iourney, and the Angel of God keepe you company. So they went forth both, and departed, and the dog of the yong man with them.

Tobias goeth foorth, the Angel keepeth him company. Chap. 10. 4. His mother weepeth. 17 But * Anna his mother wept, and sayd to Tobit, Why hast thou sent away our sonne? is he not the staffe of our hand to minister vnto vs?

18 ¶ Would to God wee had not layde money vpon money, but that it had beene cast away in respect of our sonne.

19 For that which God hath giuen vs to liue with, doth suffice vs.

20 Then said Tobit, Be not carefull, my sister: he shall returne in safety, and thine eyes shall see him.

21 For the good Angel doth keepe him company, and his iourney shall be prosperous, and he shall returne safe.

22 Then she made an end of weeping,

CHAP. VI.

2 Tobias deliuered from the fish. 7 Raphael sheweth him certaine medicines. 10 He conducteth him toward Sarra.

AND as they went on their iourney, they came accordyng vnto the flood Tigris, and there a-bode.

Tobias inuaded of a fish, is deliuered by the Angel.

2 And when the young man went to wash himselfe, a fish leaped out of the riuer, and would haue deuoured him.

3 Then the Angel sayde vnto him, Take the fish. And the young man tooke the fish, and drew it vnto land.

4 To whome the Angel sayd, Cut the fish, and take the heart, and the liuer, and the gall, and put them vp surely.

5 So the young man did as the Angel commanded him: and when they had rosted the fish, they ate it: then they both went on their way, till they came to Ecbatane.

6 ¶ Then the young man sayd to the Angel, Brother Azarias, what auaileth the heart, and the liuer, and the gall of the fish?

7 And he sayd vnto him, Touching the heart and the liuer, if a deuill or an euill spirit trouble any man, we must make a perfume of this before the man or the woman, and he shall be no more vexed.

8 As for the gall, annoint a man that hath whitenesse in his eyes, and he shalbe healed.

9 ¶ And when they were come neere to Rages,

10 The Angel sayd to the young man, Brother, to day we shall lodge with Raguel, who is thy cousin: he also hath one onely daughter named Sarra: I will speake for her that thee may be giuen thee for a wife.

Num. 27.8. and 36.8.

11 For to thee doth the* right of her pertaine, seeing thou alone art the remnant of her kinred.

12 And the maide is faire and wise: nowe therefore heare me, and I will speake to her father, that we may make the marriage when we are returned from Rages: for I know that Raguel cannot marrie her to another, according to the Law of Moyses: els he should deserue death, because the right doth rather appertaine to thee then to any other man.

13 Then the yong man answered the Angel, I haue heard, brother Azarias, that this mayde hath bene giuen to seuen men, who all died in the marriage chamber.

14 And I am the onely begotten sonne of my father, and I am afraid least I go in to her, and die as the other before: for a wicked spirit loueth her, which hurteth no body, but those which come in to her: wherefore I also feare lest I die, and bring my fathers and my mothers life because of me to the graue with sorow: for they haue no other sonne to bury them.

15 Then the Angel sayd vnto him, Doest thou not remember the precepts which thy father gaue thee, that thou shouldest marry a wife of thine owne kinred? wherefore heare me, O my brother: for she shall be thy wife, neither be thou careful of the euill spirit: for this same night shall she be giuen thee in mariage.

16 And when thou shalt goe into the marriage chamber, thou shalt take of the hote coales for perfumes, and make a perfume of the heart, and of the liuer of the fish.

17 Which if the spirit do smell, he will flee away, and neuer come againe any more: but when thou shalt come to her, rise vp both of you, & pray to God which is mercifull, who will haue pitie on you, and saue you: feare not, for she is appointed vnto thee from the beginning, and thou shalt keepe her, and thee shall goe with thee: moreouer I suppose that she shall beare thee children: now when Tobias had heard these things, hee loued her, and his heart was effectually ioyned to her.

CHAP. VII.

Tobias marrieth Sarra Raguels daughter.

AND when they were come to Ecbatane, they came to the house of Raguel, and Sarra met them, and after they had saluted one another, she brought them into the house.

Raphael and Tobias come to Raguel.

2 Then said Raguel to Edna his wife, How like is this young man to Tobit my cousin?

3 And Raguel asked, Whence are you, my brethren? To whom they sayd, that they were of the tribe of Nephthalim, and of the captiues that dwelt at Nineue.

4 Then he said to them, Doe ye know Tobit our kinsman? And they sayd, We know him. Then sayd he, Is he in good health?

5 And they said, He is both aliue, and in good health: and Tobias sayd, He is my father.

6 Then Raguel leaped, & kissed him, & wept,

7 And blessed him, and sayd vnto him, Thou art the sonne of an honest & good man: but when he had heard that Tobit was blinde, he was sorowfull, and wept.

8 And likewise Edna his wife, and Sarra his daughter wept. Moreouer, they receiued them with a ready minde, and after that they had killed a ramme of the flocke, they set much meat on the table. Then sayd Tobias to Raphael, Brother Azarias, put forth those things whereof thou spakest in the way, that this businesse may be dispatched.

Tobias asketh Raguels daughter to wife.

9 So he communicated the matter with Raguel, and Raguel sayde to Tobias, Eate, and drinke, and make merry.

10 For it is meete that thou shouldest marry my daughter: neuertheles, I will declare vnto thee the truth.

11 I haue giuen my daughter in marriage to seuen men, who died that night which they came in vnto her: neuertheless, be thou of a good courage and merry. But Tobias sayd, I will eate nothing here, vnlil ye bring her hither, and betroth her to me.

12 Raguel sayd then, I carry her then according to the custome: for thou art her cousin, and she is thine. God which is mercifull, make this prosperous to you in all good things.

13 Then he called his daughter Sarra, and shee came to her father, and he tooke her by the hand, and gaue her for wife to Tobias, saying, Beholde, take her after the* Law of Moyses, and leade her away to thy father: and he blessed them, Raguel giueth his daughter Sarra to Tobias. Num. 36.6.

14 And called his wife Edna, and he tooke a booke, and wrote a contract, and sealed it.

15 Then they began to eate.

16 After, Raguel called his wife Edna, and sayd vnto her, Sister, prepare another chamber, and bring her in thither.

17 Which when shee had done, as he had bidden her, she brought her thither: then Sarra wept, and her mother wiped away her daughters teares,

18 And sayde vnto her, Bee of good comfort, my daughter: the Lorde of heauen and earth give thee ioy for this thy sorow: be of good comfort, my daughter.

CHAP. VIII.

Tobias driveth away the euill spirit. 4 He prayeth to God with his wife. 11 Raguel prepareth a grave for his sonne in law. 16 Raguel blesseth the Lord.

AND when they had supped, they brought Tobias in vnto her.

2 And as he went, he remembred the words of Raphael, and tooke ashes for perfumes, and put the heart and liuer of the fish thereupon, and made a perfume.

3 The which smell when the euill spirit had smelled, he fled into the ‖ vtmost parts of Egypt, whom the Angel bound.

4 And after that they were both shut in, Tobias rose out of the bed, & sayd, Sister, arise and let vs pray, that God would haue pitie on vs.

5 Then beganne Tobias to say, Blessed art thou, O God of our fathers, and blessed is thine holy and glorious Name for euer: let the heauens blesse thee, and all thy creatures.

6 Thou madest Adam, & gauest him * Eua his wife for an helpe, and stay: of them came mankind: thou hast sayd, It is not good, that a man should be alone: let vs make vnto him an ayde like vnto himselfe.

7 And now, O Lord, I take not this my sister for fornication, but vprightly: therefore grant me mercy, that we may become aged together.

8 And she sayd with him, Amen.

9 So they slept both that night, and Raguel arose, and went and made a graue,

10 Saying, Is not he dead also?

11 But when Raguel was come into his house,

12 He sayd to his wife Edna, Send one of the maides, and let them see whether he be aliue: if not, that I may burie him, and none know it.

13 So the maide opened the doore, and went in, and found them both asleepe, 14 And came foorth, and tolde them that hee was aliue.

15 Then Raguel praised God, & said, O God, thou art worthy to be praised with all pure and holy praise: therefore let thy Saints praise thee with all thy creatures, and let all thine Angels and thine elect praise thee for euer.

16 Thou art to be praised, O Lord: for thou hast made me ioyfull, and that is not come to me which I suspected: but thou hast dealt with vs according to great mercy.

17 Thou art to be praised, because thou hast had mercy of two that were the onely begotten children of their fathers: graue them mercy, O Lord, and finish their life in health with ioy and mercy.

18 Then Raguel bade his seruants to fill the graue.

19 And he kept the wedding feast fourteene dayes.

20 For Raguel had sayd vnto him by an oth, that he should not depart before that the fourteene dayes of the marriage were expired, 21 And then hee should take the halfe of his goods, and returne in safetie to his father, and should haue the rest, when hee and his wife were dead.

CHAP. IX.

Raphael leadeth Gabael to Tobias marriage.

THen Tobias called Raphael, and sayd vnto him,

2 Brother Azarias, take with thee a seruant and two camels, and go to Rages of the Medes to Gabael, and bring vnto me the money, and bring him to the wedding.

3 For Raguel hath sworne that I shall not depart.

4 But my father counteth the dayes: and if I tary long, he will be sory.

5 So Raphael went out, and came to Gabael, and gaue him the hand writing, who brought forth bags which were sealed vp, and gaue them to him.

6 And in the morning they went forth both together, and came to the wedding. And Tobias begate his wife with childe.

CHAP. X.

1 Tobit and his wife thinke long for their sonne. 10 Raguel sendeth away Tobias and Sarra.

NOw Tobit his father counted euery day, & when the dayes of the iourney were expired, and they came not.

2 Tobit said, Are they not mocked? or is not Gabael dead, and there is no man to giue him the money?

3 Therefore he was very sory.

4 Then his wife sayd to him, My sonne is dead, seeing he tarieth: and he beganne to * bewaile him, and sayd,

5 Now I care for nothing, my sonne, since I haue lost thee the light of mine eyes.

6 To whome Tobit sayd, Holde thy peace: be not carefull, for he is safe.

7 But shee said, Hold thy peace, and deceiue me not, my sonne is dead: and she went out euery day, by the way which they went, neither did she eate meate on the day time, and did consume whole nights in bewayling her sonne Tobias, vntill the foureteene dayes of the wedding were expired, which Raguel had sworn, that he should tary there. Then Tobias sayde to Raguel, Let mee goe: for my father and my mother looke no more to see mee.

8 But his father in law said vnto him, Tary with mee, and I will send to thy father, and they shall declare him thine affaires.

9 But Tobias said, No, but let me go to my father.

10 Then Raguel arose, and gaue him Sarra his wife, and halfe his goods, as seruants, and cattell, and money.

11 And he blessed them, and sent them away, saying, The God of heauen make you, my children, to prosper before I die.

12 And he sayd to his daughter, Honour thy father and thy mother in law, which are now thy parents, that I may heare good report of thee: and he kissed them. Edna also sayd to Tobias, The Lord of heauen restore thee, my deare brother, and graunt that I may see thy children of my daughter Sarra, that I may reioyce before the Lord. Beholde now, I commit to thee my daughter, as a pledge: doe not entreate her euill.

CHAP. XI.

1 The returne of Tobias to his father. 9 How hee was received. 10 His father hath his sight restored, and praiseth the Lord.

After

After these things Tobias went his way, praysing God that her had giuen him a prosperous iourney, and blessed Raguel and Edna his wife, and went on his way till he drew neere to Niniue.

2 Then Raphael sayde to Tobias, Thou knowest brother, howe thou didst leaue thy father.

3 Let vs haste before thy wife, and prepare the house,

4 And take in thine hand the gall of the fish. So they went their way, and the dog followed them.

The Angels counsell to Tobias.

5 Now Anna sate in the way looking for her sonne,

6 Whom when she saw comming, she sayde to his father, Beholde, thy sonne commeth, and the man that went with him.

7 Then sayd Raphael, I know, Tobias, that thy father shall receiue his sight.

8 Therefore anoynt his eyes with the gall, and being pricked therewith, he shall rubbe and make the whitenesse to fall away, and shall see thee.

9 Then Anna ranne forth, and fell on the necke of her sonne, and sayde vnto him, Seeing I haue seene thee, my sonne, from henceforth I am content to die, and they wept both.

10 Tobit also went forth toward the doore, and stumbled, but his sonne ranne vnto him, 11 And tooke holde of his father, and sprinkled of the gall on his fathers eyes, saying, Be of good hope, my father.

12 And when his eyes beganne to pricke, he rubbed them.

13 And the whitenesse pilled away from the corners of his eyes, and when he saw his sonne, he fell vpon his necke, 14 And he wept, and sayde, Blessed art thou O Lord, and blessed be thy Name for euer, and blessed be all thine holy Angels.

15 For thou hast scourged me, and hast had pitie on me: for beholde, I see my sonne Tobias: and his sonne, being glad, went in, and tolde his father the great things that had come to passe in Media.

16 Then Tobit went out to meet his daughter in lawe, reioycing and praysing God to the gate of Niniue: and they which saw him goe, marueiled, because he had receiued his sight.

17 But Tobit testified before them all, that God had had pitie on him. And when hee came neere to Sarra his daughter in lawe, he blessed her, saying, Thou art welcome, daughter: God be blessed, which hath brought thee vnto vs, and blessed be thy father: and there was great ioy among all his brethren, which were at Niniue.

18 And Achiacharus and Nasbas his brothers sonne came.

19 And Tobias marriage was kept seuen dayes with great ioy.

CHAP. XII.

1 Tobias declareth to his father the pleasure that Raphael had done him. 5 The which he would recompense. 11. 15 Raphael declareth that he is an Angel sent of God.

Then Tobit called his sonne Tobias, and sayde vnto him, Prouide, my sonne, wages for the man, which went with thee, and thou must giue him more.

2 And he sayd vnto him, O father, it shall not grieue mee to giue him halfe of those things which I haue brought.

3 For he hath brought mee againe to thee in safetie, and hath made whole my wife, and hath brought me the money, and hath likewise healed thee.

4 Then the olde man sayde, It is due vnto him.

5 So he called the Angel, and said vnto him, Take halfe of all that ye haue brought, and goe away in safetie.

6 But he tooke them both apart, and sayde vnto them, Praise God, and confesse him, and giue him the glory, and prayse him for the things which he hath done vnto you before all them that liue. It is good to prayse God, and to exalt his Name, and to shew forth his exident workes with honour: therefore be not weary to confesse him.

7 It is good to keepe close the secrets of a King, but it is honourable to reueale the workes of God: doe that which is good, and no euill shall touch you.

8 Prayer is good with fasting, and almes and righteousnesse. A little with righteousnesse is better then much with vnrighteousnesse: it is better to giue almes, then to lay vp golde.

9 For almes doeth deliuer from death, and doth purge all sinne. Those which exercise almes and righteousnesse, shall be filled with life.

10 But they that sinne, are enemies to their owne life.

11 Surely I will keepe close nothing from you: nevertheless, I sayd it was good to keepe close the secret of a King, but that it was honourable to reueale the workes of God.

12 Now therefore when thou didst pray, and Sarra thy daughter in lawe, I did bring to memorie your prayer before the holy One: And when thou diddest bury the dead, I was with thee likewise.

13 And when thou wast not grieued to rise vp, and leaue thy dinner to bury the dead, thy good deede was not hid from mee: but I was with thee.

He that will be acceptable to God, must be proued with tentation.

14 And now God hath sent mee to heale thee, and Sarra thy daughter in lawe.

15 I am Raphael one of the seuen holy Angels, which present the prayers of the Saintes, and which goe forth before his holy Maiestie.

16 Then they were both troubled, and fell vpon their face: for they feared.

17 But hee sayde vnto them, Feare not, for it shall goe well with you: prayse God therefore.

18 For I came not of mine owne pleasure, but by the good will of your God: wherefore praise him in all ages.

19 *All these dayes I did appeare vnto you, but I did neyther eate nor drinke, but you saw it in vision.

*Gen. 18. 8. and 19. 3. Iudges 13. 16

20 Now therefore giue God thankes: for I goe vp, to him that sent me: but write all things which are done, in a booke.

21 And when they rose, they sawe him no more.

22 Then they confessed the great and wonderfull workes of God, and howe the Angel of the Lord had appeared to them.

A thanksgiuing of Tobit, who exhorteth all to praise the Lord.

THen Tobit wrote a prayer of reioycing, and sayde, Blessed bee God that liueth for euer, and blessed be his kingdome.

Deut. 32.39. 1. sam. 2 6. wisd. 16.13.

2 * For hee doeth scourge and hath pitie: hee leadeth to hell, and bringeth vp, neither is there any that can auoyd his hand.

3 Confesse him before the Gentiles, yee children of Israel: for hee hath scattered you among them.

4 There declare his greatnesse, and extoll him before all the liuing: for he is our Lord and our God, and our father for euer.

5 Hee hath scourged vs for our iniquities, and will haue mercie againe, and will gather vs out of all nations, among whom we are scattered.

6 If you turne to him with your whole heart, and with your whole minde, and deale vprightly before him, then will hee turne vnto you, and will not hide his face from you, but yee shall see what hee will doe with you: therefore confesse him with your whole mouth, and prayse the Lord of righteousnesse, and extoll the euerlasting King. I will confesse him in the land of my captiuitie, and will declare his power, and greatnesse to a sinfull nation. O ye sinners, turne and doe iustice before him: who can tell if hee will receiue you to mercie, and haue pitie on you?

7 I will extoll my God, and my soule shall prayse the King of heauen, and shall reioyce in his greatnesse.

8 Let all men speake, and let all praise him for his righteousnesse.

9 O Jerusalem the holie citie, he will scourge thee for thy childrens workes, but hee will haue pitie againe on the sonnes of righteous men.

10 Giue prayse to the Lorde duely, and prayse the euerlasting King, that his Tabernacle may be builded in thee againe with ioy: and let him make ioyfull there in thee those that are captiues, and loue in thee for euer those that bee miserable.

11 Many nations shall come from farre to the Name of the Lorde God, with gifts in their handes, euen gifts to the King of heauen: all generations shall prayse thee, and giue signes of ioy.

12 Cursed are all they which hate thee: but blessed are they for euer which loue thee.

13 Reioyce, and be glad for the children of the iust: for they shalbe gathered, and shall blesse the Lord of the iust.

14 Blessed are they which loue thee: for they shall reioyce in thy peace. Blessed are they which haue been sorowfull for all thy scourges: for they shall reioyce for thee, when they shall see all thy glory, and shall reioyce for euer.

15 Let my soule blesse God the great King.

16 For Jerusalem shall bee built vp with Saphires, and Emeraudes, and thy walles with precious stones, and thy towers, and thy bulwarkes with pure gold.

17 And the streetes of Jerusalem shall be paued with Berall, and Carbuncle, and stones of ‖ Ophir.

‖ Or. Sapphire. ‖ Or. raise the Lord.

18 And all her streetes shall say, ‖ Hallelulah, and they shall praise him, saying, Blessed be God which hath extolled ‖ it for euer.

CHAP. XIIII.

3 Lessons of Tobit to his sonne. 4 He prophecieth the destruction of Nineue, 7 And the restoring of Jerusalem and the Temple. 13 The death of Tobit, and his wife. 14 Tobias age and death.

SO Tobit made an end of praysing God.

2 And hee was eight and fiftie yeere olde, when hee lost his sight, which was restored to him after eight yeere, and he gaue almes, and hee continued to feare the Lorde God, and to prayse him.

3 And when he was very aged, he called his sonne, and sixe of his sonnes sonnes, and sayd to him, My sonne, take thy children (for beholde, I am aged, and am ready to depart out of this life.)

4 Goe into Media my sonne: for I surely beleeue those things which Jonas the Prophet spake of Nineue, that it shall bee destroyed, and for a time peace shall rather bee in Media, and that our brethren shall bee scattered in the earth from that good lande, and Jerusalem shall be desolate, and the house of God in it shall be burned, and shall be desolate for a time.

5 Yet againe God * will haue pitie on them, and bring them againe into the lande where they shall builde a Temple, but not like to the first, vntill the times of that age bee fulfilled, which being finished, they shall returne from euery place out of captiuitie, and build vp Jerusalem gloriously, and the house of God shall be built in it for euer with a glorious building, as the Prophets haue spoken thereof.

Esay. 2.2. and 6.14.

6 And all nations shall turne, and feare the Lord God truely, and shall bury their idoles.

7 So shall all nations praise the Lorde, and his people shall confesse God, and the Lorde shall exalt his people, and all those which loue the Lord in truth and iustice, shall reioyce, and those also which shew mercy to our brethren.

8 And now my sonne, depart out of Nineue, because that those thinges which the Prophet Jonas spake, shall surely come to passe.

9 But keepe thou the Lawe, and the commandements, and shewe thy selfe mercifull and iust, that it may goe well with thee.

10 And burie mee honestly, and thy mother with mee: but tary no longer at Nineue. Remember, my sonne, howe Aman handled Achiacharus that brought him vp, howe out of light hee brought him into darkenesse, and how hee rewarded him againe: yet Achiacharus was saued, but the other had his reward: for he went downe into darkenesse. Manasses gaue almes, and escaped the snare of death, which they had set for him, but Aman fell into the snare and perished.

11 Wherefore now, my sonne, consider what almes doeth, and how righteousnesse doeth deliuer. When he had sayd these things, ‖ hee gaue vp the ghost in the bed, being an hundreth and eight and fiftie yeere olde, and he buried him honourably.

‖ Or, his soule failed him in the bed.

12 And when Anna was dead, hee buried her with his father: but Tobias went with his wife and children to Ecbatane to Raguel:

guel his father in law.

13 Whereof he became olde with honour, and he buried his father and mother in law honorably, and he inherited their substance and Tobits his father.

14 And he died at Ecbatane in Media, being an hundreth and seuen and twentie yeere old.

15 But before he died, he heard of the destruction of Nineue, which was taken by Nabuchodonosor and Asuerus, and before his death he reioyced for Nineue.

Iudeth.

CHAP. I.

1 The building of Ecbatane. 5 Nabuchodonosor made warre against Arphaxad, and ouercame him. 12 He threatneth them that would not helpe him.

IN the twelfth yeere of the reigne of Nabuchodonosor, who reigned in Nineue the great citie (in the dayes of Arpharad, which reigned ouer the Medes in Ecbatane,

2 And built in Ecbatane the walles round about of hewen stone, three cubits broad, and six cubits long, and made the height of the wall seuenty cubits, and the breadth thereof fiftie cubits,

3 And made the towres thereof in the gates of it an hundreth cubits, and the breadth thereof in the foundation thereof threescore cubits,

4 And made the gates thereof euen gates that were lifted vp on high, seuentie cubits, & the breadth of them fourtie cubits, for the going forth of his mighty armies, and for the setting in array of his footmen)

5 Euen in those dayes, king Nabuchodonosor made warre with King Arpharad in the great fielde, which is the fielde in the coasts of Ragau.

6 Then came vnto him all they that dwelt in the mountaines, and all that dwelt by Euphrates, and Tygris, and Hydaspes, and the countrie of Arioch the King of the Elymeans, and very many nations assembled themselues to the battell of the sonnes of Chelod.

7 And Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians sent vnto all that dwelt in Persia, and to all that dwelt in the West, and to those that dwelt in Cilicia, and Damascus, and Libanus, and Antilibanus, and to all that dwelt vpon the sea coast,

8 And to the people that are in Carmel, and Galaad, and the higher Galile, & the great field of Esdrelam,

9 And to all that were in Samaria, and the cities thereof, and beyond Jorden vnto Jerusalem, and Betane, and Chelus, and Cades, and the riuer of Egypt, and Taphnes, and Rameses, and all the land of Gesem, 10 Until one come to Tanis, and Memphis, and to all the inhabitants of Egypt, and till one come to the mountaines of Ethiopia.

11 But all the inhabitants of this country did not passe for the commaundement of Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians, neither would they come with him to the battell: for they did not feare him: yea, he was before them as one man: therefore they sent away his ambassadours from them without effect, and with dishonour.

12 Therefore Nabuchodonosor was very angry with all this country, & sware by his throne and kingdome, that he would surely be auenged vpon all those coasts of Cilicia and Damascus, and Syria, & that he would slay with the sworde all the inhabitants of the land of Moab, and the children of Ammon, and all Judea, and all that were in Egypt, til you come to the borders of the two seas.

13 Then he marched in battell aray with his power against King Arpharad in the seuentieth yeere, and he preuailed in his battell: for he ouerthrew all the power of Arpharad, and all his horsemen, and all his chariots.

14 And he wanne his cities, and came vnto Ecbatane, and tooke the towres, and spoyled the streetes thereof, and turned the beautie thereof into shame.

15 He tooke also Arpharad in the mountaines of Ragau, and smote him thorow with his darts, and destroyed him vtterly that day.

16 So he returned afterward to Nineue, both he, and all his company with a very great multitude of men of warre, and there he passed the time, and banqueted, both he and his armie, an hundreth and twentie dayes.

CHAP. II.

5 Nabuchodonosor commaunded presumptuously that all people should bee brought into subiection, 6 and to distroy those that disobeyed him. 15 The preparation of Olofernes armie. 23 The conquest of his enemies.

AND in the eighteenth yeere, the two & twentieth day of the first moneth, there was talke in the house of Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians, that he should auenge himselfe on all the earth, as he had spoken.

2 So he called vnto him all his Officers and all his Nobles, and communicated with them his secret counsell, and set before them with his owne mouth all the malice of the earth.

3 Then they decreed to destroy all flesh, that had not obeyed the commandement of his mouth.

4 And when he had ended his counsell, Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians called Olofernes his chiefe captaine, and which was next to him, and said vnto him,

5 Thus sayeth the great King, the lorde of the whole earth, Behold, thou shalt goe forth from my presence, and take with thee men that trust in their owne strength, of footmen, an hundreth and twentie thousand, and the number of horses with their riders, twelue thousand,

6 And thou shalt goe against all the West countrey, because they disobeyed my commaundement.

7 And thou shalt declare vnto them, that they prepare for me the land and the water: for I will go forth in my wrath against them, and will couer the whole face of the earth with the feete of mine armie, and I will giue them as a spoyle vnto them,

8 So that their wounded shall fill their valleyes, and their riuers, and the flood shall ouerflow, being filled with their dead.

9 And I will bring their captiuitie to the vtmost parts of all the earth.

10 Thou therefore shalt depart hence, and take vp for me all their countrie: and if they yeelde vnto thee, thou shalt reserue them for me vntill the day that I rebuke them.

11 But concerning them that rebell, let not thine eye spare them, but put them to death, and spoile them wheresoeuer thou goest.

12 For as I liue, and the power of my kingdome, whatsoeuer I haue spoken, that will I do by mine hand.

13 And take thou heede that thou transgresse not any of the commaundements of thy lord, but accomplish them fully, as I haue commaunded thee, and deferre not to doe them.

14 ¶ Then Olofernes went forth from the presence of his lord, and called all the gouernors, and captaines, and officers of the army of Assur,

15 And hee mustered the chosen men for the battell, as his lord had commanded him, vnto an hundred and twenty thousand, and twelue thousand archers on horseback.

16 And hee let them in aray according to the maner of setting a great army in aray.

17 And hee tooke camels and asses for their burdens, a very great number, and sheepe, and oxen, and goates without number for their prouision, 18 And vitaile for euery man of the army, and very much golde and siluer out of the Kings house.

19 Then hee went forth and all his power, to goe before to the voyage of king Nabuchodonosor, and to couer all the face of the earth Westward, with their charrets and horsemen, and chosen footmen.

20 A great multitude also of sundrie sorts came with them like grashoppers, and like the grauel of the earth: for the multitude was without number.

21 And they went forth of Ninriue three dayes iourney toward the countrey of Bectileth, and pitched from Bectileth neere the mountaine which is on the left hand of the vpper Cilicia.

22 Then hee tooke all his army, his footmen and horsemen, and charets, and went from thence into the mountaines, 23 And he destroyed Phud & Lud, and spoyled all the children of Rasis, and the children of Ismael, which were toward the wildernesse at the South of the Chelians.

24 Then he went ouer Euphrates, and went thorow Mesopotamia, and destroyed all the high cities that were vpon the riuer of Arbonai, vntill one come to the sea.

25 And hee tooke the borders of Cilicia, and destroyed all that resisted him, and came to the borders of Japheth, which were toward the South, and ouer against Arabia.

26 He compassed also all the children of Madian, and burnt vp their tabernacles, and spoyled their lodges.

27 Then he went downe into the countrey of Damascus, in the time of wheate harueste, and burnt vp all their fields, & destroyed their flockes and the heards: he robbed their cities, and spoiled their countrey, and slue all their young men with the edge of the sword.

28 Therefore feare and trembling fell vpon the inhabitants of the Sea coast, which were in Sidon and Tyrus, and them that dwelt in Sur and Ocina, and all that dwelt at Jemnaan: and they that dwelt in Azotus and Ascalon feared him greatly.

CHAP. III.

The people submitte to Olofernes. 8 How destroyed their gods, that Nabuchodonosor might onely be worshipped.

SO they sent ambassadours to him with meslages of peace, saying,

2 Behold, wee are the seruants of Nabuchodonosor the great King: vse vs as shall be good in thy sight.

3 Behold, our houses and all our places, and all our fields of wheate, and our flockes and our heards, and all our lodges and tabernacles lie before thy face: vse them as it pleaseth thee.

4 Beholde, euen our cities and the inhabitants thereof are thy seruants: come, and take them, as seemeth good to thee.

5 ¶ So the men came to Olofernes, and declared vnto them after this maner.

6 Then came he downe toward the sea coast, both he and his army, and set garisons in the hie cities, and tooke out of them chosen men for the warre.

7 So they and all the country round about receiued them with crowned, and dances, and with timbrels.

8 Yet he brake downe all their borders, and cut downe their woods: for it was inioyned him to destroy all the gods of the lande, that all nations should worship Nabuchodonosor onely, and that all tongues and tribes should call vpon him as God.

9 Also he came against Esdraelon, neere vnto Judea, ouer against the great strait of Judea,

10 And hee pitched betweene Geba, and a citie of the Scythians, and there hee taried a moneth, that hee might assemble all the baggage of his armie.

The Israelites were afraid and destroyed their country. 6 Ioacim the Priest writeth to Bethulia, that they should fortifie themselues. 9 They cryed to the Lord, and humbled themselues before him.

NOwe the children of Israel that dwelt in Judea, heard all that Olofernes the chiefe captaine of Nabuchodonosor King of the Assyrians had done to the nations, and how he had spoyled all their temples, and brought them to nought,

2 Therefore they feared greatly his presence, and were troubled for Jerusalem, and for the Temple of the Lord their God.

3 For they were newly returned from the captiuitie, and of late all the people was assembled assembled in Iudea, and the vessels and the altar & the house had been sanctified after of the pollution.

4 Therefore they sent into all the coastes of Samaria, and the villages, and to Bethoron, and Belmen, and Iericho, and to Choba, and Elera, and to the valley of Salem,

5 And took all the tops of the hie mountaines, and walled the villages that were in them, and put in victuales for the prouision of warre: for their fields were of late reaped.

6 Also Ioacim the hie Priest which was in those dayes in Ierusalem, wrote to them that dwelt in Bethulia and Betomesthaim, which is ouer against Esdraelon, toward the open country neere to Dothaim,

7 Choosing them to keepe the passages of the mountaines: for by them there was an entry into Iudea, and it was easie to let them that would come vp, because the passage was straite for two men at the most.

8 And the children of Israel did as Ioacim the high Priest had commanded them with the ancients of all the people of Israel which dwelt at Ierusalem.

9 Then cryed euery man of Israel to God with great feruency, and their soules with great affection,

10 Both they and their wiues, and their children, and their cattell, and euery stranger, and hireling, and their bought seruants put sackecloth vpon their loynes.

11 Thus euery man and woman, and the children and the inhabitants of Ierusalem fell before the Temple, and sprinkled ashes vpon their heads, and spred out their sackecloth before the face of the Lord: also they put sackecloth about the altar, 12 And cryed vnto the God of Israel, all with one consent most earnestly, that hee would not giue their children for a pray, and their wiues for a spoyle, and the cities of their inheritance to destruction, and the sanctuary to pollution and reproch, and vnto derision vnto the heathen.

13 So God heard their prayers, and looked vpon their affliction: for the people fasted many dayes in all Iudea and Ierusalem before the Sanctuary of the Lord Almighty.

14 And Ioacim the high Priest, and all the Priestes that stood before the Lord, and ministred vnto the Lord, had their loynes girt with sackecloth, & offered the continuall burnt offring, with prayers, and the free gifts of the people,

15 And had ashes on their mitres, and cryed vnto the Lorde with all their power for grace, and that hee would looke vpon all the house of Israel.

CHAP. V.

Achior the Ammonite doth declare to Olofernes of the nature of the Israelites.

Then was it declared to Olofernes the chiefe captaine of the armie of Assur, that the children of Israel had prepared for warre, and had shut the passages of the mountaines, and had walled all the tops of the hie hils, and had layde impediments in the champion country.

2 Wherewith he was very angry, and called all the Princes of Moab, and the captaines of Ammon, and all the gouernours of the sea coast,

3 And hee sayd vnto them, Shew me, I pray you, of Chanaan, Who is this people that dwelleth in the mountaines? and what are the cities that they inhabite? and what is the multitude of their armie? and wherein is their strength and their power? and what King or captaine is ruyled among them ouer their armie?

4 And why haue they determined not to come to meete me, more then all the inhabitants of the West?

5 Then sayd Achior the captaine of all the sonnes of Ammon, Let my lord heare the worde of the mouth of his seruant, and I will declare vnto thee the truth concerning this people, that dwell in these mountaines, neere where thou remaynest: and there shall no lie come out of the mouth of thy seruant. Chap. 11. 7, 8

6 This people come out of the stocke of the Caldeans.

7 And they dwelt before in Mesopotamia, because they would not followe the gods of their fathers, which were in the land of Chaldea. Gen. 11. 28.

8 But they went out of the way of their ancesters, and worshipped the God of heauen, the God whom they knewe: so they cast them out from the face of their gods, and they fled into Mesopotamia, and soiourned there many dayes.

9 Then their God commanded them to depart from the place where they soiourned, and to go into the land of Chanaan, where they dwelt, and were increased with golde and siluer, and with very much cattell. Gen. 12. 1.

10 But when a famine couered all the land of Chanaan, they went downe into Egypt, and dwelt there till they returned, and became there a great multitude, so that one could not number their linage.

11 Therefore the King of Egypt rose vp against them, and vsed deceit against them, and brought them low with labouring in bricke, and made them slaues. Exod. 1. 8.

12 Then they cryed vnto their God, and hee smote all the lande of Egypt with incurable plagues: so the Egyptians cast them out of their sight. Exod. 12 31, 33.

13 And God dryed the redde sea in their presence, Exod. 14. 21.

14 And brought them into mount Sina and Cades Barnea, and cast forth all that dwelt in the wildernes.

15 So they dwelt in the land of the Amorites, and they destroyed by their strength all them of Esebon, and passing ouer Iordan, they inherited all the mountaines.

16 And they cast forth before them the Chananites, and the Pherezites, and the Iebusites, and them of Sichem, and all the Gergesites, and they dwelt in that country many dayes. Iosh. 12. 8.

17 And whiles they sinned not before their God, they prospered, because the God that hateth iniquity was with them.

18 But when they departed from the way which hee appointed them, they were destroyed in many battels after a wonderfull sort, and were ledde captiues into a lande that was not theirs: and the Temple of Iudg. 2. 12. and 3. 8. 2. King 25. 1, 11.

their God was cast to the ground, and their citie were taken by the enemies.

Exod.1.1,3. 19 But now they are turned to their God, and are come up from the scattering wherein they were scattered, and haue possessed Hierusalem, where their Temple is, and dwell in the mountaines which were desolate.

20 Now therefore, my Lord and gouernour, if there be any fault in this people, so that they haue sinned against their God, let vs consider that this shall be their ruine, and let vs go vp, and we shall ouercome them.

21 But if there be none iniquitie in this people, let my lord passe by, least their Lord defend them, and their God be for them, and we become a reproch before all the world.

22 ¶ And when Achior had finished these sayings, all the people, standing round about the tent, murmured: and the chiefe men of Holofernes, & all that dwelt by the sea side, and in Moab, spake that he should kill him.

23 For, say they, wee feare not to meete the children of Israel: for loe, it is a people that haue no strength nor power against a mightie armie.

24 Let vs therefore go vp, O lord Holofernes, and they shalbe meat for thy whole armie.

CHAP. VI.

Holofernes blasphemeth God whom Achior confessed. 14 Achior is deliuered into the hands of them of Bethulia. 18 The Bethulians cry vnto the Lord.

AND when the tumult of the men that were about the counsell was ceassed, Holofernes the chiefe captaine of the armie of Assur, sayd vnto Achior before all the people of the strangers, and before all the children of Moab, and of them that were hired of Ephraim,

2 Because thou hast prophesied among vs to day, and hast sayd that the people of Ierusalem is able to fight, *because their God will defend them: and who is god but Nabuchodonosor?

Chap.5.22.

3 He will send his power, and will destroy them from the face of the earth, and their God shall not deliuer them: but we his seruants will destroy them as one man: for they are not able to sustaine the power of our horses.

4 For we will treade them vnder feet with them, and their mountaines shall bee dronken with their blood, and their fieldes shall be filled with their dead bodies, and their footesteps shall not be able to stand before vs: but they shall vtterly perish.

5 The king Nabuchodonosor lord of all the earth hath said, euen he hath said, None of my words shalbe in vaine.

6 And thou Achior an hireling of Ammon, because thou hast spoken these words, in the day of thine iniquitie, thou shalt see my face no more from this day, vntill I take vengeance of that people that is come out of Egypt.

7 And then shall the sword of mine armie, and the multitude of the that serue me passe through thy sides, and thou shalt fall among their slaine, when I shall put them to flight.

8 And my seruants shall carry thee into the mountaines, and they shall leaue thee at one of the hie cities: but thou shalt not perish, till thou be destroyed with them.

9 And if thou perswade thy selfe in thy minde, that they shall not be taken, let not thy countenance fall: I haue spoken it, and none of my words shall be in vaine.

10 Then commaunded Holofernes them concerning Achior, that they should bring him to Bethulia, and deliuer him into the hands of the children of Israel.

11 So his seruants tooke him, and brought him out of the campe into the plaine: and they went out from the midst of the plaine into the mountaines, and came vnto the fountaines that were vnder Bethulia.

12 And when the men of the citie sawe them from the top of the mountaine, they tooke their armour, and went forth of the citie vnto the top of the mountaine, euen all the throwers with slings, and kept them from comming vp, by casting stones against them.

13 But they went priuily vnder the hill, and bound Achior, and left him lying at the foote of the hill, and returned to their lord.

14 Then the Israelites came down from their citie, and stood about him, and loosed him and brought him into Bethulia, and presented him to the gouernours of their city.

15 Which were in those dayes Ozias the sonne of Micha, of the tribe of Simeon, and Chabris the sonne of Gothoniel, and Charmis the sonne of Melchiel.

16 And they called together all the ancients of the city, and all their youth ran together, & their women to the assembly: and they set Achior in the middes of all their people. Then Ozias asked him of that which was done.

17 And he answered and declared vnto them the words of the counsell of Holofernes, and all the words that he had spoken in the middes of the princes of Assur, and whatsoeuer Holofernes had spoken proudly against the house of Israel.

18 Then the people fell downe, and worshipped God, and cryed vnto God, saying, 19 O Lord God of heauen, behold their pride, and haue mercie on the lowlinesse of our people, and behold this day the face of those that are sanctified vnto thee.

20 Then they comforted Achior, and praysed him greatly.

21 And Ozias tooke him out of the assembly into his house, and made a feast to the Elders, & they called on the God of Israel all that night for helpe.

CHAP. VII.

1 Holofernes doth besiege Bethulia. 8 The counsell of the Idumeans and other against the Israelites. 25 The Bethulians murmure against their gouernours for lacke of water.

THE next day Holofernes commaunded all his armie and all his people, which were come to take his part, that they should remoue their camps against Bethulia, and that they should take all the streits of the hill, and to make warre against the children of Israel.

2 Then their strong men remoued their camps in that day, and the armie of the men of warre was an hundreth thousande and seuenty footemen, and thirtie thousand horsemen, beside the baggage and other men that were were slaine among them, a very great multitude.

3 And they returned to the plaine pertaining to Bethulia, by the fountaine, and they passed on broad towards Dothaim vnto Belbaim, and to length vnto Bethulia vnto Clamon, which lieth ouer against Ebraelcolon.

4 Now the children of Israel, when they saw the multitude, were greatly troubled, and said euerymore to his neighbour, Now will these but do all the whole earth: for neither the hie mountaines, nor the valleys, nor the hilles are able to abide their burden.

5 Then euery one tooke his weapons of warre, and burning fires in their towers, they remained and watched all that night.

6 But in the second day Holofernes brought forth all his horsemen in the sight of the children of Israel, which were in Bethulia,

7 And viewed their passages vp to the citie, and came to the fountaines of their waters, and tooke them and set garrisons of men of warre ouer them, and removed toward his people.

8 Then came vnto him all the rulers of the children of Esau, and all the gouernours of the people of Moab, and all the captaines of the sea coast, and said, 9 Let our captaine now heare a worde, lest an inconuenience come in his armie.

10 For this people of the children of Israel doe not trust in their speares, but in the height of the mountaines, wherein they dwell, because it is not easie to come vp to the tops of their mountaines.

11 Now therefore my lord, fight not against them in battell aray, and there shall not so much as one man of thy people perish.

12 Remaine in thy campe, and keepe all the men of thine armie, and let thy men keepe well the water of the fountaine, that commeth forth at the foote of the mountaine.

13 For all the inhabitants of Bethulia haue their water therof: so shall thirst kill them, and they shall giue vp their citie: and we and our people will goe vp to the toppes of the mountaines that are nere, and will campe vpon them, and watch that none goe out of the citie.

14 So they and their wiues, and their children shall bee consumed with famine, and before the warde come against them, they shall bee ouerthrowen in the streetes where they dwell.

15 Thus shalt thou render them an euill reward, because they rebelled and obeyed not thy person peaceably.

16 And their words pleased Holofernes and all his souldiers, and he appointed to doe as they had spoken.

17 So the campe of the children of Ammon departed, and with them fiue thousand of the Assyrians, and they pitched in the valley, and tooke the waters, and the fountaines of the waters of the children of Israel.

18 Then the children of Esau went vp with the children of Ammon, and camped in the mountaines ouer against Dothaim, and they sent some of themselues towarde the South, and towarde the East, ouer against Ekrel, which is nere vnto Chelmis, vpon the riuer Mochmur: and the rest of the armie of the Assyrians camped in the plaine, and couered the face of the earth: and their tents and their carriages were pitched in a very great multitude.

19 Then the children of Israel cried vnto the Lord their God, because their hearts fainted: for all their enemies had compassed them about, and there was no way to escape out from among them.

20 Thus all the company of Assur remained about them, both their footemen, charets and horsemen, three and thirtie dayes: so that euen all the vessels of their seuerall waters failed all the inhabitants of Bethulia.

21 And the cisternes were emptie, and they had not water enough to drinke for one day: for they gaue them to drinke by measure.

22 Therefore their children swooned, and their wiues and young men fainted for thirst, and fell downe in the streetes of the citie, and by the passages of the gates, and there was no strength in them.

23 Then all the people assembled to Ozias, and to the rulers of the citie, both young men and women, and children, and cryed with a loude voyce, and said before all the Elders, 24 The Lorde bee iudge betweene vs and you: for you haue done vs great iniurie, in that ye haue not required peace of the children of Assur. Exod. 5 16.

25 For now wee haue no helper: but God hath solde vs into their hands, that we should be throwen downe before them with thirst & great destruction.

26 Now therefore call them together, and deliuer the whole citie for a spoyle vnto the people of Holofernes, and to all his armie.

27 For it is better for vs to be made a spoyle vnto them, then to die for thirst: for we will be his seruants, that wee may liue, and not see the death of our infants before our eyes, nor our wiues, nor our children to die.

28 We take to witnesse against you, the heauen and the earth, and our God and Lord of our fathers, which punisheth vs according to our sinnes, and the sinnes of our fathers, that he lay not these things to our charge.

29 Then there was a great crie of all with one consent in the middes of the assembly, and they cryed vnto the Lorde God with a loude voyce.

30 Then said Ozias to them, Brethren, be of good courage, let vs waite yet fiue dayes, in the which space the Lorde our God may turne his mercie towarde vs: for he will not forsake vs in the end.

31 And if these dayes passe, and there come not helpe vnto vs, I will doe according to your word.

32 So he separated the people, euery one vnto their charge, and they went vnto the walles and towres of their citie, and sent their wiues and their children into their houses, and they were very low brought in the citie.

CHAP. VIII.

The parentage, life and conuersation of Iudeth. 11 She rebuketh the faintnesse of the gouernours. 12 She sheweth that they should not tempt God, but wait vpon him for succor. 33 Her enterprise against the enemies.

Now

NOw at that time Iudeth heard thereof, which was the daughter of Merari, the sonne of Dox, the sonne of Oziel, the sonne of Ioseph, the sonne of Oziel, the sonne of Helcias, the sonne of Eliab, the sonne of Nathanias, the sonne of Salathiel, the sonne of Israel.

2 And Manasses was her husband, of her stocke and kinred, who died in the barley haruest.

3 For as he was ouerseeing them that bound sheaues in the field, the heate came vpon his head, and he fell vpon his bed, and died in the citie of Bethulia, and they buried him with his fathers in the field betweene Dothaim and Balamo.

4 So Iudeth was in her owne house a widow three yeeres and foure moneths.

5 And shee made her a tent vpon her house, and put on sackcloth on her loynes, and wore her widowes apparell.

6 And she fasted all the dayes of her widowhood, saue the day before the Sabbath, and the Sabbath, and the day before the newe moones, and to the feasts and solemne dayes of the house of Israel.

7 Shee was also of a goodly countenance, and very beautifull to behold: and her husband Manasses had left her golde and siluer, and men seruants, and maydē seruants, and cattell, and possessions where she remained.

8 And there was none that could bring an euill report of her, for she feared God greatly.

9 Now when she heard the euill wordes of the people against the gouernour, because they fainted for lacke of waters (for Iudeth had heard all the wordes that Ozias had spoken vnto them, and that he had *sworne vnto them to deliuer the citie vnto the Assyrians within fiue dayes.)

*Chap.7.26, 31.

10 Then she sent her maide that had the gouernment of all things that she had, to call Ozias and Chabris and Charmis the ancients of the citie.

11 And they came vnto her, and she sayd vnto them, Heare me, O yee gouernours of the inhabitants of Bethulia: for your words that yee haue spoken before the people this day, are not right, touching this othe which yee made and pronounced betweene God and you, and haue promised to deliuer the citie to the enemies, vnlesse within these dayes the Lord turne to helpe you.

12 And now who are you that haue tempted God this day, and set your selues in the place of God among the children of men?

13 So now yee seeke the Lord Almighty, but you shall neuer know any thing.

14 For you cannot find out the depth of the heart of man, neither can ye perceiue the things that he thinketh: how then can you search out God, that hath made all these things, and know his minde, or comprehend his purpose? Nay my brethren, prouoke not the Lorde our God to anger.

15 For if hee will not helpe vs within these fiue dayes, he hath power to defend vs when he will, euen euery day, or to destroy vs before our enemies.

16 Doe not you therefore binde the counsels of the Lord our God: for God is not as man that he should be threatned, neither as the sonne of man that he should be wonne.

17 Therefore let vs looke for the saluation of Israel, and call vpon him to helpe vs, and he will heare our voyce if it please him.

18 For there arose not in our age, neither is there any now in these dayes, either tribe or family, or tong, or citie among vs, which worship the gods made with hands, as hath been done of old time.

19 For *the which cause our fathers were giuen ouer to the sword, and for a spoyle, and had a great fall before our enemies.

*Iudg.2.11. and 4.1. and 6.1.

20 But we know none other God: therefore we trust that he will not disdaine vs, nor any of our linage.

21 Neither if we be taken, shall Iuda be destroyed, and we shall become a mocke: but that same captiuitie shall be layd for a stay vnto our house, and lose all the glory that we haue had of men, and of our seruice.

22 And the Lord our God shall require the captiuitie of the seruitude, and the destruction of our inheritance will he lay vpon our bodies among the Gentiles, where we shall be in bondage, and wee shall be an offence and a reproch to all them that possesse vs.

23 For our seruitude shall not be directed by fauour: but the Lord our God shall turne it to the glory.

24 Now therefore, O brethren, let vs shew an example to our brethren, because their hearts depend vpon vs, and the Sanctuary, and the House, and the Altar rest vpon vs.

25 Moreouer, let vs giue thankes to the Lord our God, which tryeth vs euen as he did our fathers.

26 Remember what things he did to *Abraham, and how he tryed Isaac, and all that hee did to *Iacob in Mesopotamia of Syria, when he kept the sheepe of Laban his mothers brother.

*Gene.22.1. *Gene.28.7.

27 For he hath not tryed vs as he did them to the examination of their hearts, neither doth he take vengeance on vs, but the Lorde punisheth for admonition them that come neere to him.

28 ¶ Then sayd Ozias to her, All that thou hast spoken, hast thou spoken with a good heart, and there is none that is able to reprooue thy words.

29 For it is not to day that thy wisedome is knowen, but from the beginning of thy life all the people haue knowen thy wisedome, for the deuice of thine heart is good.

30 But the people were very thirstie, & compelled vs to doe vnto them as we haue spoken, and haue brought vs to an othe, which wee may not transgresse.

31 Therefore now pray for vs, because thou art an holy woman, that the Lord may send vs raine to fill our cisternes, and that we may faint no more.

32 Then sayde Iudeth vnto them, Heare me, and I will doe a thing which shall be declared in all generations, to the children of our nation.

33 You shall stand this night in the gate, and I will goe forth with mine handmayde: and within the dayes that yee haue promised to to perform that which he purposed, that God might bring it to pass in their days, and that it might be spoken by them that were then alive of their own nation, and very desirous that the oracles of God should be fulfilled among them, according to their manners.

24 Wherefore consider, O brethren, that the examples of our fathers are therefore sent unto us for a great instruction of life, that we may learn to submit ourselves unto the will of God, and not to give place unto the wicked affections of our carnal minds.

25 For we find that this hath been a place of destruction unto many, but of amendment unto others.

26 For it is not to be thought that the Lord our God doth punish us when he suffereth his kindred to fall into adversity, as a revenger; but as a chastener he doth scourge those that are near unto him.

27 Now this is not a sudden admonition unto us, but it is manifest that it is a beginning of great evils.

28 For he speaketh his word unto us quickly, that we may not be found to be wicked, and that afterward we should not have hope to be delivered.

29 For he saith, and his word is among us, saying, Hear, O Israel, the Lord our God doth not forgive his people their sins.

30 For he hath sworn unto them, that he will bring them out of their own land, and that he will not forgive them for ever.

31 For he saith, Send me twenty men, and nine hundred, and seven hundred, and five hundred, and three hundred, and two hundred, and one hundred, and ten, and I will not destroy it for the ten's sake.

32 Then Esdras answered, and said, I believe, Lord, that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

33 Then he said, Behold, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

34 Then he said, Behold, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

35 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

36 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

37 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

38 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

39 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

40 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

41 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

42 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

43 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

44 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

45 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

46 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

47 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

48 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

49 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

50 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

51 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

52 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

53 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

54 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

55 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

56 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

57 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

58 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

59 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

60 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

61 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

62 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

63 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

64 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

65 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

66 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

67 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

68 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

69 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

70 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

71 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

72 Then said Esdras, O Lord, I am sure that thou wilt not destroy us for the sake of the ten, because we are not ten.

CHAP. IX.

1 Judeth humbleth her self before the Lord, and maketh her prayers for the deliverance of her people. 7 Against the pride of the Assyrians. 12 God is the help of the humble.

THen Judeth fell upon her face, and put ashes upon her head, & put off the sackcloth wherewith she was clothed. And about the time that the incense of that evening was offered in Jerusalem in the house of the Lord, Judeth cried with a loud voice, and said,

Gen. 34. 7, 25. 2 O Lord God of my father * Simeon, to whom thou gavest a sword to take vengeance of the strangers, which opened the womb of the maide, and defiled her, and discovered the thigh with shame, and polluted the womb to reproach (for thou hadst commanded that it should not so be,

3 Yet they did things by the which thou gavest their princes to the slaughter, for they were deceived and washed their bed with blood) and hast stricken the servants with the governours, and the governours upon their thrones,

4 And hast given their wives for a prey, and their daughters to be captives, and all their spoyles for a booty to the children that thou lovedst: which were moved with thy zeale, and abhorred the pollution of their blood, and called upon thee for ayde, O God, O my God, hear me also a widow.

5 For thou hast wrought the things afore, and these, and the things that shall be after, and thou considerest the things that are present, and the things that are to come.

6 For the things which thou doest purpose, are present, and say, Behold, we are here: for all thy ways are ready, and thy judgments are foreknowen.

7 Behold, the Assyrians are multiplied by their power: they have exalted themselves with horses and horsemen: they glorie in the strength of their footmen, they trust in shield, speare, and bowe, and sling, and doe not know that thou art the Lord that breakest the battels: the Lord is thy Name.

8 Breake thou their strength by thy power, & breake their force by thy wrath: for they have purposed to defile thy Sanctuary, and to pollute the Tabernacle where thy glorious Name resteth, & to cast downe with weapons the hornes of the Altar.

9 Behold their pride, & send thy wrath upon their heads: give into mine hand which am a widow, the strength that I have conceived.

Judg. 4. 21. & 5. 26. Judg. 7. 22. 2. Chron. 14. 11. & 16. 8. and 20. 6. 10 * Smite by the deceit of my lips the servant with the prince, and the prince with the servant: abate their height by the hand of a woman.

11 * For thy power standeth not in the multitude, nor thy might in strong men: but thou art God of the afflicted, an helper of the humble, a succourer of the weake, a protector of the forlorne, a saviour of the hopeless.

12 Surely, surely thou art the God of my father and the God of the inheritance of Israel, the Lord of heaven and earth, the Creator of the waters, the King of all creatures: hear thou my prayer.

13 And grant me words and craft, and a wound, and a stroke against them that intercepte cruell things against thy Covenant, and against thine holy house, and against the toppe of Sion, and against the house of the possession of thy children.

14 Shew thy selfe evidently among all thy people, and all the tribes, that they may know and see that thou art the God of all power and strength, and that there is none other that defendeth the people of Israel, but thou.

CHAP. X.

1 Judeth decketh her self, and goeth forth of the citie. 11 She is taken of the watch of the Assyrians, and brought to Olofernes.

NOw after she had ceased to crie unto the God of Israel, and had made an ende of all these words,

2 She rose where she had fallen downe, and called her maide, and went downe into the house in the which she abode in the Sabbath dayes, and in the feast dayes.

3 And putting away the sackcloth wherewith she was clad, and putting off the garments of her widowhood, she washed her body with water, and anointed it with much ointment, and dressed the haire of her head, and put attire upon it, and put on her garments of gladnesse, wherewith she was clad, during the life of Manasses her husband.

4 And she put shoes on her feete, and put on bracelets, & fillets, and rings, and earerings, and all her ornaments, and she decked her self brauely, to allure the eyes of all men that should see her.

5 Then she gave her maid a bottle of wine, and a pot of oyle, and filled a scrip with flowre, and with dry figgs, and with fine bread, so she lapped up all her vessell together, & layd them upon her.

6 Thus they went forth to the gate of the citie of Bethulia, and found standing there Ozias, and the Ancients of the citie, Chabris and Charmis.

7 And when they saw her, that her face was changed, & that her garment was changed, they marvelled greatly at her wonderfull beautie, and said unto her,

8 The God, the God of our fathers give thee favour, and accomplish thine enterprises to the glory of the children of Israel, and to the exaltation of Jerusalem. Then they worshipped God.

9 And she said unto them, Command the gates of the citie to be opened unto mee, that I may goe forth to accomplish the things which you have spoken to mee. So they commanded the young men to open unto her, as she had spoken,

10 And

Then I will bring you through in the middle of my land, until I come unto the city: and it shall be, when I have told them, that they will do as thou hast said, to forsake me and my people, and I will deliver them unto thee.

11 Thus they went straight forth in the valley, and the first watch of the Assyrians met her.

12 And took her, and asked her, Of what people art thou? and whence comest thou? and whither goest thou? And she said, I am a woman of the Hebrews, and am fled from them: for they shall be given you to be consumed.

13 And I come before Holofernes the chief captaine of your armie, to declare him true things, and I will shew before him the way wherein he shall go and winne all the mountaines without losing the body of life of any of his men.

14 Now when the men heard her words, and beheld her countenance, they wondred greatly at her beauty, and said unto her,

15 Thou hast saued thy life, in that thou hast hasted to come downe to the presence of our lord: now therefore come to his tent, and some of us shall conduct thee vntill they haue deliuered thee into his hands.

16 And when thou standest before him, be not afraid in thine heart, but shew unto him according as thou hast to say, and he will entreat thee well.

17 Then they chose out of them an hundreth men, and appointed a charet for her and her mayde, and brought her to the tent of Holofernes.

18 Then there was running to and fro throughout the campe: for her comming was hasted among the tents: and they came and stoode round about her: for she stood without the tent of Holofernes, vntill they had declared unto him concerning her.

19 And they marueiled at her beautie, & wondred at the children of Israel, because of her: and euery one said unto his neighbour, Who would despise this people, that haue among them such women? surely it is not good that one man of them bee left: for if they should remaine, they might deceiue the whole earth.

20 Then Holofernes gard went out, and all his seruants, and they brought her into the tent.

21 Now Holofernes rested upon his bed under a canopie, which was wouen with purple and golde and smeraudes, and precious stones.

22 So they shewed him of her, and he came foorth into the entry of his tent, and they caried lamps of siluer before him.

23 And when Judeth was come before him and his seruants, they all marueiled at the beautie of her countenance, and she fell downe upon her face, and did reuerence unto him, and his seruants tooke her up.

CHAP. XI.

1 Holofernes commeth Judeth, 3 and asketh the cause of her comming. 5 She declareth him by her fayre words.

THen said Holofernes unto her, Woman, bee of good comfort: feare not in thine heart: for I neuer hurt any man that is willing to serue Nabuchodonosor the king of all the earth.

2 Also thy people that dwelleth in the mountaines, had not spoiled me, I would not haue lifted up my speare against them: but they haue procured these things to themselues.

3 But now tell me wherefore thou art fled from them, for thou camest to them as to safegard: be of good comfort, thou shalt liue from this night and hereafter.

4 For none shall hurt thee, but intreate thee well, as they doe the seruants of King Nabuchodonosor my lord.

5 Then Judeth said unto him, Receiue the words of thy seruant, and suffer thine handmaid to speake in thy presence, and I will declare no lie to my lord this night.

6 And if thou wilt follow the words of thine handmaid, God will bring the thing perfectly to passe by thee, and my lord shall not faile of his purpose.

7 As Nabuchodonosor King of all the earth liueth, and as the power is of force, who hath sent thee for direction all persons, not only men, but the beasts of the fields, and the cattell, and the birds of the heauen shall liue by thy power under Nabuchodonosor and all his house.

8 For we haue heard of thy wisdome and of thy patient spirit, and it is declared through the whole earth, that thou only art excellent in all the kingdome, and of a perfect full knowledge, and in feates of warre marueilous.

9 * Now as concerning the matter which Achior did speake in thy counsell, we haue heard his words: for the men of Bethulia did take him, and hee declared unto them all that he had spoken unto thee. Chap. 5.5.

10 Therefore, O lorde and gouernour, reiect not his word, but lay it in thine heart, for it is true: for there is no punishment against our people, neither can the sworde preuaile against them, except they sinne against their God.

11 Now therefore lest my lorde should be frustrate, and voide of his purpose, and that death may fall upon them, and that they may be taken in their sinne whiles they prouoke their God to anger, which is so oft times as they do that which is not determined.

12 (For because their victuales faile, and all their water is wasted, they haue determined to take their cattell, and haue purposed to consume all things that God had forbidden them to eate by his Lawes:

13 Yea, they haue purposed to consume the first fruites of the wheate, and the tithes of the wine, and of the oyle which they had reserued and sanctified for the Priests that serue in Jerusalem before the face of our God: the which things it is not lawfull for any of the people to touch with their hands.

14 Moreouer, they haue sent to Jerusalem, because they also that dwell there, haue done the like, such as should bring them licence from the Senate)

15 Now when they shall bring them worde, they will doe it, and they shall bee giuen thee to be destroyed the same day.

16 Wherefore I thine handmayde, knowing all this, am fled from their presence, and God hath sent me to worke a thing with thee, whereof all the earth shall wonder, and whosoeuer shall heare it.

17 For thy seruant feareth God, and worshippeth the God of heauen day and night, and now let me remaine with thee, my lorde, and let thy seruant goe out in the night into the valley, and I will pray vnto God, that he may reuelle vnto me when they shall commit their sinnes, 18 And I will come and shewe it vnto thee: then thou shalt goe forth with all thine armie, and there shall be none of them that shall resist thee.

19 And I will leade thee through the middes of Iudea, vntill thou come before Ierusalem, and I will set thy throne in the midst thereof, and thou shalt driue them as sheepe that haue no shepheard, and a dogge shall not barke with his mouth against thee: for these things haue been spoken vnto me, and declared vnto me according to my foreknowledge, and I am sent to shew thee.

20 ¶ Then her wordes pleased Holofernes, and all his seruants, and they marueiled at her wisedome, and sayd, 21 There is not such a woman in all the world, both for beautie of face, and wisedome of wordes.

22 Likewise Holofernes sayde vnto her, God hath done this, to sende thee before the people, that strength might bee in our hands, & destruction vpon them that despise my lord.

Or, hath done well.

23 And nowe thou art both beautifull in thy countenance, and wittie in thy wordes: surely if thou doe as thou hast spoken, thy God shall be my God, and thou shalt dwell in the house of Nabuchodonosor, and shalt bee renowned throughout the whole earth.

CHAP. XII.

2 Iudeth would not pollute her self with the meate of the Gentiles. 5 She maketh her request that she might goe out by night to pray. 11 Holofernes consenteth to come to the banquet.

THen hee commaunded to bring her in where his treasures were layde, and bade that they should prepare for her of his owne meates, and that she should drinke of his owne wine.

Gen. 43. 32. Exo. 1. 8. Dan. 1, 12.

2 But Iudeth sayde, I may not eate of them, least there should bee an offence, but I can suffice my selfe with the things that I haue brought.

3 Then Holofernes sayde vnto her, If the things that thou hast, should faile, how should wee giue thee the like? for there is none with vs of thy nation.

4 Then sayd Iudeth vnto him, As thy soule liueth, my lord, thine handmaide shall not spend those things that I haue, before the Lorde worke by mine handes the thinges that he hath determined.

5 Then the seruants of Holofernes brought her into the tent, and shee slept vntill midnight, and arose at the morning watch,

6 And sent to Holofernes, saying, Let my lord command that thy handmayd may go forth vnto prayer.

7 Then Holofernes commaunded his garde that they should not stay her: thus she abode in the campe three dayes, and went out into the night into the valley of Bethulia, and washed her selfe in a fountaine, euen in the water by the campe.

8 And when she came out, she prayed vnto the Lorde God of Israel, that her would direct her way to the exaltation of the children of her people.

9 So she returned, and remained pure in the tent, vntill she ate her meat at euening.

10 ¶ And in the fourth day Holofernes made a feast to his owne seruants onely, and called none of them to the banquet, that had the affaires in hand.

11 Then said he to Bagoas the eunuch who had charge ouer all that hee had, Goe and perswade this Hebrew woman, which is with thee, that she come vnto vs and eate and drinke with vs.

12 For it were a shame for vs, if we should let such a woman alone, and not talke with her, and if we do not allure her, she will mocke vs.

13 Then went Bagoas from the presence of Holofernes, and came to her, and said, Let not this faire maid make difficulty to goe in to my lord, and to be honoured in his presence, and to drinke wine with vs ioyfully, and to be intreated as one of the daughters of the children of Assur, which remaine in the house of Nabuchodonosor.

14 Then sayd Iudeth vnto him, Who am I now, that I should gainesay my lord? Surely whatsoeuer pleaseth him, I will do speedily, and it shall be my ioy vnto the day of my death.

15 So she arose and trimmed her with garments, and with all the ornaments of women, and her maid went, and spread forth her skinnes on the ground ouer against Holofernes, which she had receiued of Bagoas for her dayly vse, that she might sit and eate vpon them.

16 Nowe when Iudeth came and sate downe, Holofernes heart was rauished with her, and his spirit was moued, and hee desired greatly her company: for hee had waited for the time to deceiue her from the day that he had seene her.

17 Then saide Holofernes vnto her, Drinke now and be merry with vs.

18 So Iudeth said, I drinke now, my lord, because my state is exalted this day more then euer it was since I was borne.

19 Then she tooke, and ate, and dranke before him the things, that her maid had prepared.

20 And Holofernes reioyced because of her, and dranke much more wine then he had dranke at any time in one day since he was borne.

CHAP. XIII.

2 Iudeth prayeth for strength. 8 She smiteth off Holofernes necke. 10 Shee returneth to Bethulia and reioyceth her people.

NOwe when the euening was come, his seruants made haste to depart, and Bagoas shut his tent without, and dismissed those that were present, from the presence of his lord, and they went to their beds: for they were all weary because the feast had bene long.

2 And

Holofernes Head Eccles. 38. 20, 25.

2 And Judeth was left alone in the tent, and Holofernes was stretched along vpon his bed: for he was filled with * wine.

3 ¶ Nowe Judeth had commaunded her mayd to stand without her chamber, and to wait for her comming forth as thee did daylye: for she said, she would go forth to her prayers, and she spake to Bagoas according to the same purpose.

4 So all went forth in her presence, and none was left in the chamber neither litle nor great: then Judeth standing by his bed, sayde in her heart, O Lord God of all power, behold at this present the works of mine hands for the exaltation of Jerusalem.

5 For now is the time to helpe thine inheritance, and to execute mine enterprises, to the destruction of the enemies which are risen against vs.

6 Then she came to the poll of the bed, which was at Holofernes head, and tooke downe his cauchin from thence,

7 And approched to the bed, and tooke hold of the haire of his head, and sayd, Strengthen me, O Lord God of Israel this day.

8 And smote twise vpon his necke with all her might, and thee tooke away his head from him,

9 And rolled his body downe from the bed, and pulled downe the canopie from the pillars, and anon after she went forth, and gaue Holofernes head to her mayd,

10 And thee put it in her scrippe of meate: so they twaine went together according to their custome vnto prayer, and passing through the rents, went about by that valley, and went vp the mountaine of Bethulia, and came to the gates thereof.

11 ¶ Then sayde Judeth afarre off to the watchmen at the gates, Open now the gate: God, euen our God is with vs to shew his power yet in Jerusalem, and his force against his enemies, as he hath euen done this day.

12 Nowe when the men of her citie heard her voyce, they made haste to goe downe to the gate of their citie, and they called the Elders of the city.

13 And they ranne all together both small and great: for it was aboue their expectation, that she should come. So they opened the gate and receiued her, and made a fire for a light, and stood round about them twaine.

14 Then she said to them with a lond voyce, Praysle God, praysle God: for God hath not taken away his mercy from the house of Israel, but hath destroyed our enemies by mine hands this night.

15 So her tooke the head out of the scrippe, and shewed it, and sayd vnto them, Beholde the head of Holofernes, the chiefe captaine of the army of Assur, and beholde the canopie, wherein he did lie in his drunkennesse, and the Lord hath smitten him by the hande of a woman.

16 As the Lord liueth, who hath kept me in my way that I went, my countenance hath deceiued him to his destruction, and hee hath not committed sinne with mee by any pollution or villenie.

17 Then all the people were wonderfully astonished, and bowed themselues, and worshipped God, and sayd with one accord, Blessed be thou, O our God, which hast this day brought to nought the enemies of thy people.

18 Then sayd Ozias vnto her, O daughter, blessed art thou of the most high God aboue all the women of the earth, and blessed be the Lord God, which hath created the heauens and the earth, which hath directed thee to the cutting off of the head of the chiefe of our enemies.

19 Surely this thine hope shall neuer depart out of the hearts of men: for they shall remember the power of God for euer.

20 And God turne these things to thee for a perpetuall prayse, and visite thee with good things, because thou hast not spared thy life, because of the affliction of our nation, but thou hast holpen our ruine, walking a straight way before our God. And all the people sayd, So be it, so be it.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 Judeth counsaileth to hang vp the head of Holofernes. 10 Achior ioyneth himselfe to the people of God. 11 The Israelites goe out against the Assyrians.

Then sayd Judeth vnto them, Heare me alls my brethren, and * take this head, and hang it vpon the highest place of your walles. 2. Mac. 15, 35.

2 And so soone as the morning shall appeare, and the Sunne shall come forth vpon the earth, take you euery one his weapons, and goe forth euery valiant man out of the citie, and set you a captaine ouer them, as though you would goe downe into the fielde, towarde the watch of the Assyrians, but goe not downe.

3 Then they shall take their armour, and shall goe into their campe, and raise vp the captaines of the armie of Assur, and they shall runne to the tent of Holofernes, but shall not finde him: then feare shall fall vpon them, and they shall flee before your face.

4 So you and all that inhabite the coasts of Israel shall pursue them, and ouerthrow them as they goe.

5 But before you doe these things, call me Achior the Ammonite, that he may see, and know him that despised the house of Israel, and that sent him to vs as to death.

6 Then they called Achior out of the house of Ozias, and when he was come and saw the head of Holofernes in a certaine mans hand in the assembly of the people, hee fell downe on his face, and his spirit failed.

7 But when they had taken him vp, he fell at Judeths feete, and reuerenced her, and sayd, Blessed art thou in all the Tabernacle of Juda, and in all nations, which hearing thy name, shalbe astonished.

8 Now therefore tell mee all the things, that thou hast done in these dayes. Then Judeth declared vnto him in the midst of the people, all that she had done from the day that shee went forth, vntill that houre shee spake vnto them.

9 And when she had left off speaking, the people reioyced with a great voyce, and made a noyse of gladnesse through their citie.

10 And Achior, seeing all things that God had done for Israel, beleeued in God vnfainedly, neddy, and ouercame the lustfulnes of his flesh, and was layed vnto the bands of Israel vnto this day.

11 ¶ Whome as the morning arose, they hanged the head of Holofernes out at the wall, and euery man tooke his weapons, and they went forth by bandes vnto the straits of the mountaine.

12 Nat when the Assyrians sawe them, they sent to their captaines, which went to the gouernours and chiefe captaines, and to all their rulers.

13 So they came to Holofernes tent, and sayd to him that had the charge of all his things, Waken our Lord: for the slaues haue bene bolde to come downe against vs to battell, that they may be destroyed for euer.

14 Then went in Bagoas, and knocked at the doore of the tent: for he thought that he had slept with Judeth.

15 But because none answered, he opened it, and went into the chamber, and found him cast vpon the floore, & his head was taken from him.

16 Therefore he cried with a loud voice, with weeping and mourning, and a mighty crie, and rent his garments.

17 After, he went into the tent of Judeth where she vsed to remaine, and found her not: then he leaped out to the people, and cried, 18 These slaues haue committed wickednes: one woman of the Hebrews hath brought shame vpon the house of King Nabuchodonosor: for behalme, Holofernes lieth vpon the ground without an head.

19 When the captaines of the Assyrians armie heard these words, they rent their coates, and their heart was wonderfully troubled, and there was a crie and a very great noise throughout the campe.

CHAP. XV.

1 The Assyrians are afraid and flee. The Israelites pursue them. 8 Ioacim the hie Priest commeth to Bethulia to see Iudeth and to prayse God for her.

AND when they that were in the tents, heard, they were astonished at the thing that was done.

2 And feare & trembling fell vpon them, so that there was no man that durst abide in the sight of his neighbour: but altogether amazed, they fled by euery way of the plaine and of the mountaines.

3 They also that had camped in the mountaines round about Bethulia, were put to flight: then the children of Israel, euery one that was a warriour among them, rushed out vpon them.

4 Then sent Ozias to Bethomasthem, and to Bebai, and Chobai, and Chola, and to all the coasts of Israel, such as should declare vnto them the things that were done, and that all should rush forth vpon their enemies to destroy them.

5 Nowe when the children of Israel heard it, they all fell vpon them together vnto Choba: likewise also they that came from Jerusalem, and from all the mountaines: for men had told them what things were done in the campe of their enemies, and they that were in Galaad, and in the Galilee, chased them with a great slaughter, vntill they came to Damascus, and to the coastes thereof.

6 And the residue that dwelt at Bethulia, fell vpon the campe of Assur, and spoiled them, and were greatly enriched.

7 And the children of Israel that returned from the slaughter, had the rest: and the villages and the cities that were in the mountaines and in the plaine, had a great bootie, for the abundance was very great.

8 Then Joacim the hie Priest, and the ancients of the children of Israel that dwelt in Jerusalem, came to consider the benefits that God had shewed to Israel, and to see Judeth, and to salute her.

9 And when they came vnto her, they blessed her with one accord, and said vnto her, Thou art the exaltation of Jerusalem: thou art the great glory of Israel: thou art the great reioycing of our nation.

10 Thou hast done all these things by thine hand: thou hast done much good to Israel, and God is pleased therewith: blessed be thou of the almighty Lord for euermore: and all the people said, So be it.

11 And the people spoiled the campe the space of thirtie dayes, and they gaue vnto Judeth Holofernes tent, and all his siluer, and beds, and basins, and all his stuffe, and shee tooke it, and laid it on her mules, and made ready her charets, and laid them thereon.

12 Then all the women of Israel came together to see her, and blessed her, and made a dance among them for her. and she tooke branches in her hand, and gaue also to the women that were with her.

13 They also crowned her with olives, and her that was with her, and she went before the people in the dance, leading all the women: and all the men of Israel followed in their armour, with crownes, and with songs in their mouthes.

CHAP. XVI.

Iudeth praiseth God with a song. 19 She offereth to the Lord Holofernes stuffe. 23 Her continencie, life and death. 25 All Israel lamenteth her.

THen Judeth began this confession in al Israel, and al the people sang this song with aloud voyce.

2 And Judeth said, Beginne vnto my God with tymbrels: sing to my Lord with cymbals: tune vnto him a Psalme: exalt his praise, and call vpon his Name.

3 For God breaketh the battels, and pitched his campe in the midst of his people, and deliuered me out of the hand of the persecuters.

4 Assur came from the mountaines southy of the North: hee came with thousands in his armie, * whose multitude hath stopt vp the riuers, and their horsemen haue couered the valleys. Chap. 2. 22. 15.

5 He said that he would burne vp my borders, and kill my yong men with the sword, and dash the sucking children against the ground, and make mine infants as a pray, and my virgins a spoile.

6 But the almightie Lord hath brought them to nought by the hand of a woman.

7 For the mightie did not fall by the young men, neither did the sonnes of Titan smite him, nor the high Giants inuade him, but Judeth which the daughters of Hebrew did: discomfit him by the beauty of her comely hair.

8 For she put off the garment of her widowhood, for the exaltation of those that were oppressed in Israel, and anointed her face with ointment, and bound up her haire in a crose, and tooke a linnen garment to detaine him.

9 Her slippers ravished his eyes: her beauty tooke his mind prisoner, and the sworde passed thorow his necke.

10 The Persians were astonished at her boldnes, and the Medes were troubled with her hardinesse, 11 But mine afflicted reioyced, and my feeble ones shouted: then they feared, they lifted up their voice, and turned backe.

12 The children of maydes pearced them, and wounded them as they fled away like children: they perished by the battell of the Lord.

13 I will sing vnto the Lord a song and prayse, O Lord, thou art great and glorious, marueilous and inuincible in power.

14 Let all thy creatures serue thee: for thou hast spoken, and they were made: thou hast sent thy spirit, and he made them vp: and there is none that can resist thy voice. Gen. 1.24. Psal. 33.9.

15 For the mountaines leape vp from their foundations with the waters: the rocks melt at thy presence like waxe: yet thou art mercifull to them that feare thee.

16 For all sacrifice is too little for a sweet sauour, and all the fat is too little for thy burnt offering: but he that feareth the Lord, is great at all times.

17 Woe to the nations that rise vp against my kinred: the Lord Almighty will take vengeance of them in the day of iudgement, in sending fire and wormes vpon their flesh, and they shall feele them and weepe for euer.

18 After when they went vnto Ierusalem, they worshipped the Lord, and assoone as the people were purified, they offered their burnt offerings, and their free offerings, and their gifts.

19 Iudeth also offered all the stuffe of Holofernes, which the people had giuen her, and gaue the canopie which her had taken off his bed, for an oblation to the Lord.

20 So the people reioyced in Ierusalem by the Sanctuarie for the space of three moneths, and Iudeth remained with them.

21 After this time, euery one returned to his owne inheritance, and Iudeth went to Bethulia, and remained in her owne possession, and was for her time honourable in all the countrey.

22 And many desired her, but none had her company all the dayes of her life, after that Manasses her husband was dead, and was gathered to ‖his people. ‖Or, her people.

23 But ſher increased more and more in honour, and waxed olde in her husbands house, being an hundreth and fiue yeere olde, and made her mayd free: so she died in Bethulia, and they buried her in the graue of her husband Manasses. ſ*Or, she.*

24 And *the house of Israel lamented her seuen dayes, and before she died, she did distribute her goods to all them that were nerest of kinred to Manasses her husband, & to them that were the nerest of her kinred. Gen. 50.10.

25 And there was none that made the children of Israel any more afrayd in the dayes of Iudeth, nor a long time after her death.

Esther.

Certaine portions of the storie of Esther, which are found in some Greeke and Latine translations: which follow the tenth Chapter.

THen Mardochens said, God hath done these things.

5 For I remember a dreame, which I saw concerning these matters, and there was nothing thereof omitted.

6 A little fountaine which became a flood, & was a light, and as the sunne, and as much water, this flood was Esther whom the King married, and made Queene.

7 And the two Dragons are I and Aman.

8 And the people are they that are assembled to destroy the name of the Iewes.

9 And my people is Israel, which cried to God, and are saued: for the Lord hath saued his people, and the Lord hath deliuered vs from all these euils, and God hath wrought signes and great wonders, which haue not ben done among the Gentiles.

10 Therefore hath he made two lots, one for the people of God, & another for all the Gentiles.

11 And these two lots came before God for all nations, at the houre and time appointed, and in the day of iudgement.

12 So God remembred his owne people, and iustified his inheritance.

13 Therefore those dayes shalbe vnto them in the moneth Adar the foureteenth and fifteenth day of the same moneth, with an assembly and ioy, and with gladnesse before God, according to the generations for euer among his people.

CHAP. XI.

IN the fourth yeere of the reigne of Ptolemeus and Cleopatra Dositheus, who said he was a Priest & Leuite, and Ptolomeus his sonne that brought the former letters of Phurai, which the saide Lysimachus the sonne of Ptolomeus, which was at Ierusalem, interpreted, [Or, lots.

2 In the second yeere of the reigne of great Artarerres, in the first day of the moneth Nisan, Mardocheus the sonne of Iarus, the sonne of Semei, the sonne of Cis of the tribe of Beniamin had a dreame:

3 A Iew dwelling in the citie of Susis, a noble man, that bare office in the kings court.

4 He was also one of the captiuitie which Nabuchodonosor the king of Babylon brought from from Jerusalem with Iechonias.

5 And this was his dreame, Beholde, a noyse of a tempest with thunders & earthquakes, and vprore in the land.

6 Beholde two great Dragons came forth ready to fight one against another.

7 Their crie was great, wherevpon all the heathen were ready to fight against the righteous people.

8 And the same day was full of darkenesse and obscuritie, and trouble, and anguish: yea, adversitie, and great affliction was vpon the earth.

9 For then the righteous fearing their afflictions, were amazed, and being ready to die, cried vnto God.

10 And while they were crying, the little wel grew into a great riuer, and flowed ouer with great waters.

11 The light & the sunne rose vp, and the lowly were exalted, and deuoured the glorious.

12 Now when Mardocheus had seene this dreame, hee awoke and rose vp, and thought in his heart vntill the night, what God would doe, and so he desired to know all the matter.

CHAP. XII.

AT the same time dwelt Mardocheus in the Kings Court with Bagathas and Thara, the Kings eunuches and keepers of the palace.

Esther 2.21. and 6.3. 2 * But when he heard their purpole, & their imaginations, hee perceiued that they went about to lay their hands vpon ye king Artaxerxes, and so he certified the king thereof.

3 Then caused the King to examine the two eunuches with torments, and when they had confessed it, they were put to death.

4 This the King caused to be put in the Chronicles. Mardocheus also wrote the same thing.

5 So the king commanded that Mardocheus should remaine in the Court, and for the aduertisement he gaue him a reward.

6 But Aman the sonne of Amadathus the Agagite, which was in great honour and reputation with the King, went about to hurt Mardocheus and his people, because of the two eunuches of the king that were put to death.

CHAP. XIII.

1 The copie of the letters of Artaxerxes against the Iewes. 8 The prayer of Mardocheus.

Ioseph antiq. lib.11. cap.6 THe copie of the Letters was this, The great king Artazeres writeth these thinges to the princes & gouernours that are vnder him from India vnto Ethiopia in an hundreth and seuen and twentie prouinces.

2 When I was made lorde ouer many people, and had subdued the whole earth vnto my dominion, I would not exalt my selfe by the reason of my power, but purposed with equitie alway, and gentlenesse, to gouerne my subiects, and wholy to set them in a peaceable life, and thereby to bring my kingdome vnto tranquillitie, that men might safely goe thorow on euery side, and to renew peace againe, which all men desire.

3 Now when I asked my counsellers howe these things might be brought to passe, one that was conuersant with vs of excellent wisedome, and constant in good will, and shewed himselfe to be of sure fidelitie, which had the second place in the kingdome, euen Aman,

4 Declared vnto vs, that in all nations there was scattered abroade a rebellious people, that had lawes contrary to all people, and haue alway despised the commaundements of Kings, and so that this general Empire, that we haue begunne, cannot bee gouerned without offence.

5 Seeing nowe wee perceiue that this people alone are altogether contrary vnto euery man, vsing strange and other maner of lawes, and hauing an euill opinion of our doinges, and goe about to stablish wicked matters, that our kingdome should not come to good estate,

6 Therefore haue wee commaunded that all they that are appointed in writing vnto you by Aman (which is ordeined ouer the affaires, and is as our second father) shall all with their wiues and children bee destroyed and rooted out with the swoorde of their enemies without all mercie, and that none bee spared the fourteenth day of the twelfth moneth Adar of this yeere,

7 That they which of old, and now also haue euer beene rebellious, may in one day with violence be thrust downe into the hell, to the intent that after this time our affaires may be without troubles and well gouerned in all points.

8 Then Mardocheus thought vpon all the workes of the Lord, and made his prayer vnto him, 9 Saying, O Lord, Lord, the king almightie (for all things are in thy power) and if thou hast appointed to saue Israel, there is no man that can withstand thee.

10 For thou hast made heauen and earth, and all the wondrous things vnder the heauen.

11 Thou art Lord of all things, and there is no man that can resist thee, which art the Lord.

12 Thou knowest all things, and thou knowest, Lorde, that it was neither of malice, nor presumption, nor for any desire of glory, that I did this, and not bowe downe to proud Aman.

13 For I would haue beene content with good will for the saluation of Israel to haue kissed the sole of his feete.

14 But I did it, because I would not prefer the honour of a man aboue the glory of God, and would not worship any but onely thee, my Lord, and this haue I not done of pride.

15 And therefore, O Lorde God and King, haue mercie vpon thy people: for they imagine howe they may bring vs to nought, yea, they would destroy the inheritance, that hath beene thine from the beginning.

16 Despise not the portion which thou hast deliuered out of Egypt for thine owne selfe.

17 Heare my prayer, and bee mercifull vnto thy portion: turne our sorowe into ioy, that wee may liue, O Lorde, and praise thy Name: shut not the mouthes of them that praise thee.

18 All Israel in like maner cryed most earnestly vnto the Lord, because that death was before their eyes.

CHAP. XIIII.

The prayer of Esther for the deliuerance of her, and her people.

QUeen Esther also, being in danger of death, resorted vnto the Lord,

2 And layd away her glorious apparell, and put on the garments of sighing, and mourning. In the stead of precious ointment, shee scattered ashes and dung vpon her head: and she humbled her body greatly with fasting, and all the places of her ioy filled shee with the haire that she plucked off.

3 And shee prayed vnto the Lord God of Israel, saying, O my Lord, thou onely art our king: helpe me desolate woman, which haue no helper but thee.

4 For my danger is at hand.

5 From my youth vp I haue heard in the kinred of my father, that thou, O Lord, tookest Israel from among all people, and our fathers from their predecessours for a perpetuall inheritance, and thou hast performed that which thou didst promise them.

6 Nowe Lorde, wee haue sinned before thee: therefore hast thou giuen vs into the handes of our enemies,

7 Because wee worshipped their gods: O Lord, thou art righteous.

8 Neuertheless, it satisfied them not, that wee are in bitter captiuitie: but they haue stroken hands with their idoles,

9 That they will abolish the thing that thou with thy mouth hast ordeined, and destroy thine inheritance, to shut vp the mouth of them that praise thee, and to quench the glory of thy Temple, and of thine altar,

10 And to open the mouthes of the heathen, that they may praise the power of the idoles, and to magnifie a fleshly king for euer.

11 O Lorde, giue not thy scepter vnto them that be nothing, least they laugh vs to scorne in our misery: but turne their deuise vpon themselues, and make him an example, that hath begun the same against vs.

12 Thinke vpon vs, O Lorde, and shew thy selfe vnto vs in the time of our distresse, and strengthen me, O king of gods, and Lorde of all power.

13 Giue mee an eloquent speech in my mouth before the Lion: turne his heart to hate our enemie, to destroy him, and all such as consent vnto him.

14 But deliuer vs with thine hand, and helpe me that am solitary, which haue no defence but onely thee.

15 Thou knowest all things, O Lorde: thou knowest, that I hate the glory of the vnrighteous, and that I abhorre the bed of the vncircumcised, and of all the heathen.

16 Thou knowest my necessitie: for I hate this token of my preeminence, which I beare vpon my head, what time as I muste shewe my selfe, and that I abhorre it as a menstruous cloth, and that I weare it not when I am alone by my selfe,

17 And that I thine handmaid haue not eaten at Amans table, and that I haue had no pleasure in the kings feast, nor dronke the wine of the drinke offerings,

18 And that I thine handmaide haue no ioy since the day that I was brought hither vntill this day, but in thee, O Lord God of Abraham.

19 O thou mighty God aboue all, heare the voyce of them that haue none other hope, and deliuer vs out of the hand of the wicked, and deliuer me out of my feare.

CHAP. XV.

1 Mardocheus moueth Esther to goe in to the king, and make intercession for her people, 9 And she performeth his request.

MArdocheus also bade Esther to goe in vnto the king, and pray for her people, and for her countrey.

2 Remember, sayth hee, the dayes of thy low estate, howe thou wast nourished vnder mine hand: for Aman which is next vnto the King, hath giuen sentence of death against vs.

3 Call thou therefore vpon the Lord, & speake for vs vnto the king, and deliuer vs from death.

4 And vpon the third day when shee had ended her prayer, she layd away the mourning garments, and put on her glorious apparell.

5 And decked her selfe goodly, after that shee had called vpon God, which is the beholder and Sauiour of all things, & tooke two handmaids with her.

6 Vpon the one shee leaned her selfe, as one that was tender.

7 And the other followed her, and bare the traine of her vesture.

8 The shine of her beautie made her face rose coloured: and her face was cheerefull & amiable, but her heart was sorowfull for great feare.

9 Then shee went in thorow all the doores, and stood before the king, and the king sate vpon his royall throne, & was clothed in his goodly array, all glistering with gold & precious stones, and he was very terrible.

10 Then hee lift vp his face that shone with maiestie, and looked fiercely vpon her: therefore the Queene fell downe, and was pale and faint, and leaned her selfe vpon the head of the maide that went with her.

11 Neuertheless, God turned the kings mind that he was gentle, who being carefull, leaped out of his throne, and tooke her in his armes, till she came to her selfe againe: and comforted her with louing wordes, and said,

12 Esther, what is the matter? I am thy brother, be of good cheere, 13 Thou shalt not die: for our commaundement toucheth the Commons, and not thee. Come neere,

14 And so he held vp his golden scepter, and layd it vpon her necke, 15 And kissed her, and said, Talke with me.

16 Then said she, I saw thee, O Lord, as an angell of God, and mine heart was troubled for feare of thy maiestie.

17 For wonderfull art thou, O lord, and thy face is full of grace.

18 And as shee was thus speaking vnto him, she fell downe againe for faintnesse.

19 Then the king was troubled, and all his seruants comforted her.

CHAP. XVI.

The copie of the letters of Artaxerxes, whereby he reuoketh those which he first sent forth.

Ioseph. Ant. li. 11. cap. 6.

THe great King Artaxerxes, which reigneth from India vnto Ethiopia, ouer an hundreth and seuen and twentie prouinces, sendeth vnto the princes and rulers that haue the charge of our affaires, Salutation.

2 There be many that through the goodnes of Princes and honour giuen vnto them, become very proud,

3 And endeuour not onely to hurt our subiects, but not content to liue in wealth, doe also imagine destruction against those that doe them good,

4 And take not only all thankefulnes away from men, but in pride and presumption, as they that bee vnmindfull of benefits, they thinke to escape the vengeance of God, that seeth all things, and is contrary to euill.

5 And oft times many, which bee set in office, and vnto whom their friendes causes are committed, by vaine intisements doe wrappe them in calamities, that cannot be remedied: for they make them partakers of innocent blood,

6 And deceitfully abuse the simplicitie and gentlenesse of Princes with lying tales.

7 This may bee proued not onely by olde histories, but also by those things that are before our eyes, to withstand them with gentlenesse.

10 For Aman, a Macedonian, the sonne of Amadathus, being indeede a stranger from the Persians blood, and farre from our goodnesse, was receiued of vs, 11 And hath proued the friendship that wee beare toward all nations, so that he was called our father, and was honoured of euery man, as the next person vnto the king.

12 But hee could not vse himselfe soberly in this great dignitie, but went about to depriue vs of the kingdome, and of our life.

13 With manifolde deceite also hath he desired to destroy Mardochem our preserver, which hath done vs good in all things, and innocent Esther the partaker of our kingdome, with all her nation.

14 For his minde was (when hee had taken them out of the way) to lay waite for vs, and by this meanes to translate the kingdome of the Persians vnto them of Macedonia.

15 But we find that the Iewes (which were accused of this most wicked man that they might bee destroyed) are no euill doers, but vse most iust lawes,

16 And that they be the children of the most High and Almightie and euerliuing God, by whom the kingdome hath bene preserued vnto vs, and our progenitours in very good order.

17 Wherefore yee shall doe well, if ye doe not put in execution those letters that Aman the son of Amadathus did write vnto you.

18 For hee that inuented them, hangeth at Susis before the gates with all his familie, and God (which hath all things in his power) hath speedily rewarded him after his deserning.

19 Therefore ye shall publish the copie of this letter in all places, that the Iewes may freely liue after their owne lawes.

20 And yee shall ayde them, that vpon the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth Adar, they may bee auenged of them, which in the time of their trouble would haue oppressed them.

21 For Almighty God hath turned to ioy the day, wherein the chosen people should haue perished.

22 Moreouer, among other solemne dayes, ye shall keepe this day with all gladnesse, 23 That both now and in time to come, this day may be a remembrance of deliuerance for vs and all such as loue the prosperitie of the Persians, but a remembrance of destruction to those that be seditious vnto vs.

24 Therefore all cities and countreys that doe not this, shall horribly be destroyed with sword and fire, and shall not onely not bee inhabited of men, but bee abhorred also of the wilde beastes and foules for euer.

The Wisedome of Salomon.

CHAP. I.

1 How we ought to search and enquire after God. 2 Who be those that find him. 5 The holy Ghost. 8 11 We ought to flee from backbiting and murmuring. 12 Whereof death commeth. 15 Righteousnesse and vnrighteousnesse.

1 King. 3. 9. Isa. 56. 1.

LOue * righteousnesse, yee that be Iudges of the earth: thinke reuerently of the Lord, and seeke him in simplicitie of heart.

Deut. 4. 29. 2. Chron. 15. 4.

2 * For he will be found of them that tempt him not, & appeareth vnto such as be not vnfaithfull vnto him.

3 For wicked thoughts separate from God: and his power when it is tried, reproueth the vnwise.

4 Because wisedome cannot enter into a wicked heart, nor dwell in the bodie that is subiect vnto sinne.

5 For the holy * Spirit of discipline fleeth from deceite, and withdraweth himselfe from the thoughts that are without vnderstanding, and is rebuked when wickednesse commeth.

Ier. 4. 22. Holy Ghost. Gala. 5. 22.

6 For the spirit of wisedome * is louing, and will not absolue him that blasphemeth with his lips: for God is a witnesse of his reines, and a true beholder of his heart, and an hearer of the tongue.

7 For the spirit of the Lord filleth all the world: and the same that maineteineth al things, hath knowledge of the voyce.

8 Therefore hee that speaketh vnrighteous things, cannot be hid: neither shall the iudgement of reproch let him escape.

9 For inquisition shall bee made for the thoughts of the vngodly, and the sounde of his words shall come vnto God for the correction of his iniquities.

10 For the eare of Ielouſie heareth all things, and the noyſe of the grudgings ſhall not be hid.
11 Therefore beware of murmuring, which profiteth nothing, & refraine your tongue from ſlander: for there is no word ſo ſecret, that ſhall goe for nought, & the mouth that ſpeaketh lies, ſlayeth the ſoule.
12 Seeke not death in the errour of your life: Deut.4.23. * deſtroy not your ſelues through the workes of your owne hands.
Ezek.18.23. and 33.11. 13 * For God hath not made death, neither hath he pleaſure in the deſtruction of the liuing.
14 For he created all things, that they might haue their being: and the generations of the world are preſerued, and there is no poyſon of deſtruction in them, and the kingdome of hell is not vpon earth.
15 For righteouſnes is immortal, but vnrighteouſneſſe bringeth death.
16 And the vngodly call * it vnto them both with hands and words: and while they thinke to haue a friende of it, they come to nought: for they are confederate with it: therefore are they worthy to be partakers thereof. 2 To wit, death.

CHAP. II.

The imagination and deſires of the wicked, and their ouerfall againſt the ſtabſtaff.

FOr the vngodly ſay, as they falſely imagine with themſelues, * Our life is ſhort and tedious: and in the death of a man there is no recouerie, neither was any knowen that hath returned from the graue. Iob 7.1. and 14.1. mat.22.23. 1.cor.15.32.
2 For wee are borne at all aduenture, and we ſhall be hereafter, as though we had neuer beene: for the breath is a ſmoke in our noſtrils, and the words as a ſparke rayſed out of our heart,
3 Which being extinguiſhed, the body is turned into aſhes, and the ſpirite vaniſheth as the ſoft aire.
4 Our life ſhall paſſe away as the trace of a cloud, and come to nought as the miſt that is driuen away with the beames of the ſunne, and caſt downe with the heat thereof. Our name alſo ſhall be forgotten in time: and no man ſhall haue our workes in remembrance.
5 * For our time is as a ſhadow that paſſeth away, and after our end there is no returning: for it is faſt ſealed, ſo that no man commeth againe. 1 Chr.29.15 chap.5.9.
6 * Come therefore, and let vs inioy the pleaſures that are preſent, and let vs cheerefully vſe the creatures as in youth. Iſa.22.13. and 56.12. 1.cor.15.32
7 Let vs fill our ſelues with coſtly wine, and ointments, and let not the floure of life paſſe by vs.
8 Let vs crowne our ſelues with role buds afore they be withered.
9 Let vs all bee partakers of our wantonneſſe: let vs leaue ſoure token of our pleaſure in euery place: for that is our portion, and this is our lot.
10 Let vs oppreſſe the poore that is righteous: let vs not ſpare the widdow, nor reuerence the white haires of the aged, that haue liued many yeres.
11 Let our ſtrength be the lawe of vnrighteouſneſſe: for the thing that is feeble, is reproued as vnprofitable.
12 Therefore let vs beſtraine the righteous, for he is not for our profite, and he is contrary to our doings: he checketh vs for offending againſt the Lawe, and blameth vs as tranſgreſſours of diſcipline.
13 He maketh his boaſt to haue the knowledge of God: and hee calleth himſelfe the ſonne of the Lord.

15 It grieueth vs alſo to looke * vpon him: for his life is not like other mens: his wayes are of another faſhion. Iſa.53 3.
16 He counteth vs as baſtards, and he withdraweth himſelfe from our wayes as from filthineſſe: he commendeth greatly the latter end of the iuſt, and boaſteth that God is his father.
17 Let vs ſee then if his words be true: let vs proue what end he ſhall haue.
18 For if the righteous man be the * ſonne of God, he will helpe him, and deliuer him from the hands of his enemies. Pſal.22.8,9 matt.27.43.
19 Let vs * examine him with rebukes and torments, that we may know his meekenes, and proue his patience. Iere.11.19.
20 Let vs condemne him vnto a ſhamefull death: for he ſhalbe preſerued as he himſelfe ſaith
21 Such things doe they imagine, and goe aſtray: for their owne wickednelle hath blinded them.
22 And they doe not vnderſtand the myſteries of God, neither hope for the reward of righteouſneſſe, nor can diſcerne the honour of the ſoules that are faultleſſe.
23 For God created man without corruption, and made him after the * image of his owne likeneſſe. Gen.1.27. and 2.7. and 5.1. eccl.17.2,3. Gen.3.1,2.

despised the righteous and forsaken the Lord.

12 Who so despiseth wisedome and discipline, is miserable, and their hope is vaine, their labours are foolish, their works unprofitable.

13 Their wiues are vnwise, and their children wicked: their offering is cursed.

14 Therefore the barren is blessed which is vndefiled, and knoweth not the sinfull bed: * she shall haue fruit in the visitation of the soules.

15 And the Eunuch, which with his handes hath not wrought iniquity, nor imagined wicked things against God: for vnto him shall be giuen the speciall gift of faith, and an acceptable portion in the Temple of the Lord.

16 For glorious is the fruite of good labours, and the root of wisdome shall neuer fade away.

17 But the children of adulterers shall not be partakers of the holy things, and the seed of the wicked bed shalbe rooted out.

18 And though they liue long, yet shall they be nothing regarded, and their last age shall be without honour.

19 If they die hastily, they haue no hope, neither comfort in the day of triall.

CHAP. IIII.

Of vertue and the commodite thereof. 10 The death of the righteous and the condemnation of the vnfaithfull.

BEtter is barrennesse with vertue: for the memorial thereof is immortall: for it is known with God and with men.

2 When it is present, men take example thereat, and if it goe away, yet they desire it: it is alway crowned and triumpheth, and winneth the battell and the vndefiled rewards.

3 But the multitude of the vngodly which abound in children is vnprofitable: and the bastard plants shall take no deepe roote, or lay any fast foundation.

4 For though they bud foorth in the branches for a time, * yet they shall be shaken with the winde: for they stand not fast, and through the vehemencie of the wind they shalbe rooted out.

5 For the vnperfect branches shalbe broken, and their fruit shall be vnprofitable and sowre to eate, and meet for nothing.

6 For all the children that are borne of the wicked bed, shall be witnesse of the wickednesse against their parents when they be asked.

7 But though the righteous bee preuented with death, yet shall he be in rest.

8 For the honourable age is not that which is of long time, neither that which is measured by the number of yeeres.

9 But wisedome is the gray haire, and an vndefiled life is the old age.

10 * He pleased God and was beloued of him, so that whereas he liued among sinners, he translated him.

11 He was taken away, lest wickednesse should alter his vnderstanding, or deceit beguile his minde.

12 For wickednesse by bewitching obscureth the things that are good, and the vnstedfastnesse of concupiscence peruerteth the simple mind.

13 Though he was soone dead, yet fulfilled he much time.

14 For his soule pleased God: therefore hasted he to take him away from wickednesse.

15 Yet the people see and vnderstand it not, and consider no such things in their hearts, how that grace and mercy is vpon his saints, and his prouidence ouer the elect.

16 Thus the righteous that is dead, condemneth the vngodly which are liuing: and the youth that is soone brought to an ende, the long life of the vnrighteous.

17 For they see the end of the wise, but they vnderstand not what God hath deuised for him, and wherefore the Lord hath preserued him in safety.

18 They see him and despise him, but the Lord will laugh them to scorne, 19 So that they shall fall hereafter without honour, and shall haue a shame among the dead for euermore: for without any voice shall he burst them, and cast them downe, and shake them from the foundations, so that they shall be vtterly wasted, and they shalbe in sorow, and their memorial shall perish.

20 So they being afraid, shal remember their sinnes, and their owne wickednes shall come before them to conuince them.

CHAP. V.

1 The constantnesse of the righteous before their persecutours. 14 The hope of the vnfaithfull is vaine. 15 The blessednesse of the Saints and godly.

THen shall the righteous stand in great boldnesse before the face of such as haue tormented him, and taken away his labours.

2 When they see him, they shal be vexed with horrible feare, and shall be amazed for his wonderfull deliuerance,

3 And shall change their minds, and sigh for griefe of mind, and say within themselues, This is he whom we sometime had in derision, and in a parable of reproch.

4 * We fooles thought his life madnesse, and his end without honour.

5 How is he counted among the children of God, and his portion among the Saints!

6 Therefore we haue erred from the way of trueth, and the light of righteousnesse hath not shined vnto vs, and the sunne of vnderstanding rose not vpon vs.

7 We haue wearied our selues in the way of wickednesse and destruction, and we haue gone through dangerous wayes: but we haue not knowen the way of the Lord.

8 What hath pride profited vs: or what profit hath the pompe of riches brought vs?

9 All those things are * passed away like a shadow, and as a poste that passeth by:

10 As a shippe that passeth ouer the waues of the water, which when it is gone by, the trace thereof cannot be found, neither the path of it in the floods:

11 Or * as a bird that flyeth thorow in the ayre, & no man can see any token of her passage, but onely heare the noyse of her wings, beating the light winde, parting the ayre through the vehemencie of her going, and flieth on, shaking her wings, whereas afterward no token of her way can be found:

12 Or as when an arrow is shot at a marke, it parteth the ayre, which immediatly commeth together againe, so that a man cannot know where it went thorow.

13 Euen so we, alloone as we were borne, we began to draw to our end, and haue shewed no token of vertue, but are consumed in our owne wickednesse.

14 For * the hope of the vngodly is like the dust that is blowen away with the winde, and like a thinne some that is scattered abroad with the storme, and as the smoake which is dispersed with the winde, and as the remembrance of him passeth, that tarrieth but for a day.

15 But the righteous shall liue for euer: their reward also is with the Lord, and the most high hath care of them.

16 Therefore shall they receiue a glorious kingdome, and a beautifull crowne of the Lords hand: for with his right hand shall he couer them, and with his arme shall he defend them.

17 He shall take his iealousie for armour, and shall arme the creatures to be reuenged of the enemies.

18 He shall put on righteousnesse for a breastplate, and take true iudgement in stead of an helmet.

19 He wil take holines for an inuincible shield.

20 Yea will sharpen his fierce wrath for a sword, and the world shal fight with him against the vnwise.

21 Then shall the thunderbolts go straight out of the lightnings, and shall flie to the marke as out of the bent bow of the cloudes, and out of his anger that throweth stones, shall thicke haile be cast, and the water of the sea shall be wroth against them, and the floods shall mightily ouerflow.

22 And a mighty wind shall stand vp against them, and like a storme shal scatter them abroad. Thus iniquitie shall bring all the earth to a wilderneſſe, and wickednesse shall ouerthrow the thrones of the mighty.

CHAP. VI.

The calling of Kings, Princes, and Iudges, which are also exhorted to search wisedome.

HEare therefore, O yee kings, and vnderstand: learne ye that be Iudges of the ends of the earth.

2 Giue eare, ye that rule the multitudes, and glorie in the multitude of people.

3 For the rule * is giuen you of the Lord, and power by the most high, which will try your works, and search out your imaginations.

4 Because that ye being officers of his kingdome, haue not iudged aright, nor kept the Law, nor walked after the will of God,

5 Horribly and suddenly will he appeare vnto you: for an hard iudgement shall they haue that beare rule.

6 For her that is most low, is worthy mercy, but the mighty shall be mightily tormented.

7 For he that is Lord ouer all, will spare no * person, neither shall he feare any greatnesse: for he hath made the small and great, and careth for all alike,

8 But for the mighty abideth the surer triall.

9 Vnto you therefore, O tyrants, do I speake, that ye may learne wisedome, and not go amisse.

10 For they that keepe holinesse holily, shall be holy, and they that are learned therein, shall find a defence.

11 Therefore set your delight vpon my words and desire them, and ye shalbe instructed.

12 Wisedom is cleare, and neuer fadeth away, and is easily seene of them that loue her, & found of such as seeke her.

13 She preuenteth them that desire her, that she may first shew her selfe vnto them.

14 Who so awaketh vnto her betimes, shall haue no great trauaile: for he shall finde her sitting at his doores.

15 To thinke vpon her then is perfite vnderstanding: and who so watcheth for her, shall be soone without care.

16 For she goeth about, seeking such as are meete for her, and sheweth her selfe cheerefully vnto them in the wayes, and meeteth them in euery thought.

17 For the most true desire of discipline is her beginning: and the care of discipline is loue:

18 And loue is the keeping of her lawes: and the keeping of the lawes is the assurance of immortalitie:

19 And immortalitie maketh vs neere vnto God.

20 Therefore the desire of wisedome leadeth to the kingdome.

21 If your delight be then in thrones & scepters, O kings of the people, honour wisedome, that ye may reigne for euer.

22 Now I wil tel you what wisedome is, and whence it commeth, and will not hide the mysteries from you, but will seeke her out from the beginning of her nativitie, and bring the knowledge of her into light, and will not kerpe backe the truth.

23 Neither will I haue to doe with consuming enuie: for such a man shall not be partaker of wisedome.

24 But the multitude of the wise is the preseruation of the world, and a wise King is the stay of the people.

25 Be therefore instructed by my words, and ye shall haue profit.

CHAP. VII.

Wisedome ought to be preferred aboue all things.

MY selfe am also mortall and a man like all other, and am come of him that was first made of the earth.

2 And in my mothers wombe was I fashioned to be flesh in ten moneths: I was * brought together into blood of the seed of man, and by the pleasure that commeth with sleepe.

Iob 10,10, 11.

3 And when I was borne, I receiued the common ayre, and fell vpon the earth, which is of like nature, crying and weeping at the first as all other doe.

4 I was nourished in swadling clothes, and with cares.

5 For there is no king that had any other beginning of birth.

6 All * men then haue one entrance vnto life, and alike going out.

Iob 1. 21. 1. sam. 6.7.

7 Wherefore I prayed, and vnderstanding was giuen me: I called, and the spirit of wisedome came vnto me.

8 I preferred her to scepters & thrones, and counted riches nothing in comparison of her.

9 * Neither am I compare precious stones vnto her: for all golde is but a little grauell in respect of her, and siluer shall be counted but Iob 28.15.

but day before her.

10 I loued her aboue health and beauty, and purposed to take her for my light: for her light cannot be quenched.

1.King.3.13 mat.6.33. 11 All good things therefore came to me together with her, and innumerable riches thorow her hands.

12 So I was glad in all: for wisedome was the authour thereof, and I knew not that she was the mother of these things.

13 And I learned vnfainedly, and communicated without enuie, and I doe not hide her riches.

14 For she is an infinite treasure vnto men, which who so vse, become partakers of the loue of God, and are accepted for the gifts of knowledge.

15 God hath graunted me to speake according to my mind, and to iudge worthily of the things that are giuen me: for he is the leader vnto wisedome, and the directer of the wise.

16 For in his hande are both wee and our words, and all wisedome, and the knowledge of the workes.

17 For he hath giuen me the true knowledge of the things that are, so that I know how the world was made, and the powers of the elements,

18 The beginning and the end, and the mids of the times: how the times alter, & the change of the seasons,

19 The course of the yere, the situation of the starres, 20 The nature of liuing things, and the furiousnes of beasts, the power of the windes, and the imaginations of men, the diuersities of plants, and the vertues of roots.

21 And all things both secret and knowen do I know: for wisedome the worker of all things hath taught me it.

22 For in her is the spirite of vnderstanding, which is holy, the onely begotten, manifolde, subtil, moueable, cleare, vndefiled, euident, not hurtfull, louing the good, sharpe, which cannot be letted, doing good,

23 Courteous, stable, sure, without care, hauing all power, circumspect in all things, and passing through all intellectuall, pure, and subtill spirits.

24 For wisedome is nimbler then all nimble things: shee goeth thorow and atteineth to all things, because of her pureneſſe.

25 For she is the breath of the power of God, and a pure influence that floweth from the glory of the Almightie: therefore can no defiled thing come vnto her.

Hebr.1.3. 26 For * shee is the brightnesse of the euerlasting light, the vndefiled mirrour of the Maiesty of God, and the image of his goodnesse.

27 And being one, she can doe all things, and remaining in her selfe, renueth all, and according to the ages she entreth into the holy soules, and maketh them the friends of God and Prophets.

28 For God loueth none, if he dwell not with wisedome.

29 For she is more beautifull then the Sunne, and is aboue all the order of the starres, and the light is not to be compared vnto her.

30 For night commeth vpon it, but wickednesse cannot ouercome wisedome.

CHAP. VIII.

The effects of Wisedome.

16 Peter 1 Labor 20 Euening

SHee also reacheth from one end to another mightily, and comely doeth shee order all things.

2 I haue loued her, and sought her from my youth: I desired to marry her, such loue had I vnto her beautie.

3 In that shee is conuersant with God, it commendeth her nobilitie: yea, the Lord of all things loueth her.

4 For shee is the Schoolemistresse of the knowledge of God, and the chooser out of his workes.

5 If riches bee a possession to bee desired in this life, what is richer then wisedome, that worketh all things?

6 For if prudence worketh, what is it among all things that worketh better then she?

7 If a man loue righteousnesse, her labours are vertuous: for shee teacheth sobernesse and prudencie, righteousnes, and strength, which are the most profitable things that men can haue in this life.

8 If a man desire great experience, shee can tell the things that are past, and discerne things to come: shee knoweth the subtilties of wordes & the solutions of darke sentences: she foreseeth the signes and wonders, or euer they come to passe, and the successe of seasons and times.

9 Therefore I purposed to take her vnto my company, knowing that shee would counsell mee good things, and comfort mee in cares and griefes.

10 For her sake shall I haue glory among the multitude, & honour among the Elders though I be yong.

11 I shall be found of sharpe iudgement, so that I shall be maruelous in the sight of great men.

12 When I holde my tongue, they shall abide my leasure: when I speake, they shall heare diligently, and if I talke much, they shall lay their hands vpon their mouth.

13 Moreouer, by her, I shall obteine immortalitie, and leaue an euerlasting memoriall among them that come after me.

14 I shall gouerne the people, and the nations shall be subdued vnto me.

15 Horrible tyrants shalbe afraide when they heare me: among the multitude I shall be counted good, and mightie in battell.

16 When I come home I shall rest with her: for her company hath no bitternesse, and her fellowship hath no tediousnesse, but mirth and ioy.

17 Nowe when I considered these things by my selfe, and pondered them in mine heart, how that to bee ioyned vnto wisedome is immortalitie, 18 And great pleasure is in her friendship, and that in the workes of her hands are infinite riches, and that in the exercise of talking with her is prudencie, and glory by communing with her, I went about, seeking how I might take her vnto me.

19 For I was a wittie childe, and was of a good spirit.

20 Yea, rather being good, I came to an vndefiled body.

21 Neuertheleſſe, when I perceiued that I could not enioy her, except God gaue her (and that was a point of wisedome also, to know whose gift it was) I went vnto the Lorde, and besought him, and with my whole heart I said,

CHAP. IX.

A prayer of Solomon to obtaine wisedome.

O God of Fathers, and Lord of mercie, which hast made all things with thy word,

2 And ordained man through thy wisedome, that he should haue dominion ouer the creatures which thou hast made,

3 And gouerne the world according to equitie and righteousnesse, and execute iudgement with an vpright heart:

4 Giue me that wisedome, which sitteth by thy throne, and put me not out from among thy children.

5 For I thy seruant, and sonne of thine handmayde, am a feeble person, and of a short time, and yet lesse in the vnderstanding of iudgement and the lawes.

6 And though a man be neuer so perfite among the children of men, yet if thy wisedome be not with him, he shalbe nothing regarded.

7 Thou hast chosen me to be a King of thy people, and the iudge of thy sonnes and daughters.

8 Thou hast commaunded mee to builde a Temple vpon thine holy mount, and an altar in the citie, wherein thou dwellest, a likenesse of thine holy Tabernacle, which thou hast prepared from the beginning,

9 And thy wisedome with thee, which knoweth thy workes, which also was when thou madest the world, and which knew what was acceptable in thy sight, and right in thy commandements.

10 Send her out of thine holy heauens, and send her from the throne of thy Maiestie, that she may bee with me, and labour, that I may know what is acceptable in thy sight.

11 For she knoweth and vnderstandeth all things, & she shall leade me soberly in my workes, and preserue me by her glory.

12 So shall my workes bee acceptable, and then shall I gouerne thy people righteously, and be meet for my fathers throne.

13 For what man is he that can knowe the counsell of God, or who can thinke what the will of God is?

14 For the thoughts of mortall men are fearefull, and our forecasts are vncertaine,

15 Because a corruptible body is heauie vnto the soule, & the earthly mansion keepeth downe the minde that is full of cares:

16 And hardly can wee discerne the things that are vpon the earth, & with great labour finde we out the things which are before vs: who can then seeke out the things that are in heauen?

17 Who can knowe thy counsell, except thou giue him wisedome, and sende thy holy Spirit from aboue?

18 For so the wayes of them which are vpon earth are reformed, and men are taught the things that are pleasant vnto thee, and are preserued through wisedome.

CHAP. X.

The deliuerance of the righteous, and the destruction of the enemies commeth through wisedome.

She preserued the first father of the world, that was formed, and kept him when he was created alone, and brought him out of his offence,

2 And gaue him power to rule all things.

3 But the vnrighteous in his wrath departed from her, and perished by killing his brother in his fiere.

4 For whose sake the earth was ouerflowen, but wisedom preserued it again, gouerning the iust man by a litle wood.

5 Moreouer, when the nations were ioyned in their malicious confederacies, she knew the righteous, and preserued him faultlesse vnto God, and kept him sure, because he loued him tenderly as a sonne.

6 She preserued the righteous, when the vngodly perished, when he fled from the fire that fell downe vpon the fiue cities.

7 Of whose wickednesse the waste land that smoketh, yet giueth testimonie, and the trees that beare fruite that neuer commeth to ripenesse: and for a remembrance of the vnfaithfull soule, there standeth a pillar of salt.

8 For all such as regarded not wisedome, had not onely this hurt, that they knew not things which were good, but also left behinde them vnto men a memoriall of their foolishnesse, so that in the things wherein they sinned, they cannot lie hid.

9 But wisedome deliuered them that serued her.

10 When the righteous fled because of his brothers wrath, she led him right way, shewed him the kingdome of God, gaue him knowledge of holy things, made him rich in his labours, and made his paines profitable.

11 Against the couetousnes of such as defrauded him, she stood by him and made him rich.

12 She saued him from the enemies, and defended him from them that laie in waite, and she gaue him the price in a mightie battell, that he might knowe that the feare of God is stronger then all things.

13 When the righteous was solde, shee forsooke him not, but deliuered him from sinne: she went downe with him into the dungeon,

14 And failed him not in the bands, till she had brought him the sceptre of the Realme, and power against those that oppressed him, and them that had accused him she declared to be lyars, and gaue him perpetuall glory.

15 She deliuered the righteous people and faultlesse seede from the nations that oppressed them.

16 Shee entred into the soule of the seruant of the Lord, and stoode by him in wonders and signes against the terrible kings.

17 Shee gaue the Saints the reward of their labours, and led them foorth a marueilous way: on the day time shee was a shadowe vnto them, and a light of starres in the night.

18 Shee brought them through the red sea, and caried them through the great water, 19 But shee drowned their enemies, and brought them out of the bottome of the deepe.

20 So the righteous tooke the spoyles of the vngodly, and praysed thy holy Name, O Lord, and magnified thy victorious hande, with one accord.

21 For wisedome openeth the mouth of the dumbe, & maketh the tongues of babes eloquent.

1 The miracles done for Israel. 13 The vengeance of sinners. 28 The great power and mercy of God.

SHe prospered their workes in the handes of thine holy Prophet.

Exod. 17. 10, 11. Num. 20. 11. 3 *They stood against their enemies, and were auenged of their aduersaries.

4 *When they were thirsty they called vpon thee, and water was giuen them out of the high rocke, and their thirst was quenched out of the hard stone.

5 For by the things whereby their enemies were punished, by the same were the Israelites helped in their neede.

6 For in stead of a fountaine of running water, the enemies were troubled at the corrupt blood, which was to rebuke the commandement of the killing of the children, but thou gauest vnto thine owne abundance of water vnlooked for,

Exod. 17. 20. 7 Declaring by the thirst that was at that time, *how thou hadst punished thine aduersaries.

8 For when they were tryed and chastised with mercy, they knew how the vngodly were iudged and punished in wrath.

9 For these hast thou exhorted as a father, and proued them: but thou hast condemned the other as a rightcous King, when thou didst examine them.

10 Whether they were absent or present, their punishment was alike: for their griefe was double with mourning, and the remembrance of things past.

11 For when they perceiued that through their sorrowes good came vnto them, they felt the Lord.

12 And seeing the things that came to passe, at the last they wondred at him, whome afore they had cast out, denied and derided: for they had another thirst then the iust.

13 Because of the foolish deuices of their wickednesse wherewith they were deceiued, and worshipped *serpents, that had not the vse of reason, and vile beastes, thou sendedst a multitude of vnreasonable beastes vpon them for a vengeance, that they might know, that wherewith a man sinneth, by the same also shall he bee punished.

Chap. 12. 24. rom. 1, 23.

14 For vnto thine almighty hand, that made the world of *nought, it was not vnpossible to send among them a multitude of *Beares, or fierce Lions, Gene. 1 1. hebr. 11. 3. Leuit. 26 22 ser. 8. 16, 17. chap. 16. 1.

15 Or furious beastes newly created and vnknowen, which should breathe out blastes of fire, and cast out smoke as a tempest, or shoote horrible sparkes like lightnings out of their eyes,

16 Which might not onely destroy them with hurting, but also kill them with their horrible sight.

17 Yea, without these might they haue bene cast downe with one winde, being persecuted by the vengeance, and scattered abroad through the power of thy Spirite: but thou hast ordered all things in measure, number, and weight.

18 For thou hast euer had great strength and might, and who can withstand the power of thine arme?

19 For as the small thing that the ballance weigheth, so is the world before thee, and as a drop of the morning dewe that falleth downe vpon the earth.

20 But thou hast mercy vpon all: for thou hast power of all things, and makest as though thou sawest not the sinnes of men, because they should amend.

21 For thou louest all the things that are, and hatest none of them whom thou hast made: for thou wouldest haue created nothing that thou hadst hated.

22 And how might any thing endure, if it were not thy will? or how could any thing bee preserued, except it were called of thee?

23 But thou sparest all: for they are thine, O Lord, which art the louer of soules.

CHAP. XII.

1 The mercy of God toward sinners. 14 The works of God are vnreprouable. 19 God giueth leasure to repent.

FOr thine incorruptible Spirite is in all things.

2 Therefore thou chastenest them meastirably that goe wrong, and warnest them by putting them in remembrance of the things wherein they haue offended, that leauing wickednesse, they may beleeue in thee, O Lord.

Deut. 9. 3. and 12. 31. and 18. 9, 12. 3 *As for those old inhabitants of the holy land, thou didst hate them.

4 For they committed abominable workes, as sorceries and wicked sacrifices,

5 And slaying of their owne children without mercy, and eating of the bowels of mans flesh in banketting, where the raging priest shed abominable blood.

6 And the fathers were the chiefe murtherers of the soules, destitute of all helpe, whom thou wouldest destroy by the hands of our fathers,

7 That the land which thou louest abone all other might be a meete dwelling for the children of God.

Exod. 33. 2. deut. 2. 32. 8 *Nenertheless, thou sparedst them also, as men, and sendedst the forerunners of thine hoste, euen hornets to destroy them by little and little,

9 Not that thou wast vnable to subdue the vngodly vnto the righteous in battell, or with cruell beasts, or with one rough word to destroy them together.

10 But in punishing them by little and little, thou gauest them space to repent, knowing well that it was an vnrighteous nation, and wicked of nature, and that their thought could neuer be altered.

11 For it was a cursed seede from the beginning: neither hast thou not spared them when they sinned, because thou fearedst any man.

Rom. 9. 20. 12 For who dare say, *What hast thou done? or who dare stand against thy iudgement? or who dare accuse thee for the nations that perish, whome thou hast made? or who dare stand against thee to reuenge the wicked men?

1. Pet. 5. 7. 13 For there is none other God but thou, *that carest for all things, that thou mayest declare how that thy iudgement is not vnright.

14 There

14 There dare neither king nor tyrant in thy sight, require accompts of them whom thou hast punished.

15 For so much then as thou art righteous thy selfe, thou ordrest all things righteously, *thinking it not agreeable to thy power to condemne him, that hath not deserued to be punished. Iob 10.2,3.

16 For thy power is the beginning of righteousnesse, and because thou art Lord of all things, it causeth thee to spare all things.

17 When men thinke thee not to be of a perfit power, thou declarest thy power, and reprouest the boldnesse of the wise.

18 But thou ruling thy power, iudgest with equitie, and gouernest vs with great fauour: for thou mayest shew thy power when thou wilt.

19 By such woorkes now hast thou taught thy people, that a man should be iust and louing, and hast made thy children to haue a good hope: for thou giuest repentance to sinners.

20 For if thou hast punished the enemies of thy children that had deserued death with so great consideration, and requesting vnto them, giuing them time and place that they might change from their wickednesse,

21 With how great circumspection wilt thou punish thine owne children, vnto whose fathers thou hast sworne and made couenants of good promises?

22 So when thou dost chasten vs, thou punishest our enemies a thousand times more, to the intent that when wee iudge, we should diligently consider thy goodnesse, and when we are iudged, we should hope for mercy.

23 Wherefore thou hast tormented the wicked that haue liued a dissolute life by their owne imaginations.

24 *For they went astray very farre in the wayes of errour, and esteemed the beasts, which their enemies despised, for gods, being abused after the maner of children, that haue none vnderstanding. Chap.11.13. rom.1.23.

25 Therefore hast thou sent this punishment that they should be in derision as children without reason.

26 But they that will not bee reformed by those scornfull rebukes, shal feele the worthy punishment of God.

27 For in those things when they suffred, they disdained: but in these whom they counted godly, when they saw themselues punished by them, they all acknowledged the true God, whom afore they had denied to know: therefore came extreme damnation vpon them.

CHAP. XIII.

10 Idolaters and idoles are mocked.

SVrely all men are vaine by nature, and are ignorant of God, *and could not know him that is, by the good things that are seen, neither consider by the woorkes the workemaister. Rom.1.19.

2 *But they thought the fire or the winde, or the swift ayre, or the course of the starres, or the raging water, or the lights of heauen to bee gouernours of the world and gods. Deut.4.19. and 17.3.

3 Though they had such pleasure in their beautie that they thought them gods, yet should they haue knowen how much more excellent her is that made them: for the first author of beautie hath created these things.

4 Or if they wondred at the power, and operation of them, yet should they haue perceiued thereby, how much he that made these things, is mightier.

5 For by the greatnesse of their beauty, and of the creatures, the Creator being compared with them, may be considered.

6 But yet the blame is lesse in these, that seeke God and would finde him, and yet peraduenture doe erre.

7 For they *goe about by his woorkes to seeke him, and are yet swaded by the sight, because the things are beautifull that are seene. Rom.1.21.

8 Howbeit they are not to be excused.

9 For if they can know so much, that they can discerne the world, why doe they not rather find out the Lord thereof?

10 But miserable are they, and among the dead is their hope, that call them gods, which are the woorkes of mens hands, gold, and siluer, and the thing that is inuented by arte, and the similitude of beasts, or any vaine stone that hath bene made by the hand of antiquity.

11 *Or as when a carpenter cutteth downe a tree meete for the woorke, and pareth off all the barke thereof cunningly, and by arte maketh a vessell profitable for the vse of life. Isa.44.13. ier.10.3.

12 And the chips that are cut off from his woorke, hee bestoweth to dresse his meate to fill himselfe.

13 And that which is left of these things, which is profitable for nothing (for it is a crooked piece of wood and full of knobs) he carueth it diligently at his leasure, and according as hee is expert in cunning, hee grueth it a proportion, and fashioneth it after the similitude of a man, 14 Or maketh it like some vile beast, and straketh it ouer with red, and paineth it, and couereth euery spot that is in it.

15 And when he hath made a conuenient tabernacle for it, he setteth it in a wall, and maketh it fast with yron, 16 Prouiding so for it, lest it fall: for he knoweth that it cannot helpe it selfe, because it is an image, which hath need of helpe.

17 Then he prayeth for his goods, and for his mariage, and for children: hee is not ashamed to speake vnto it that hath no life.

18 Hee calleth on him that is weake, for health: he prayeth vnto him that is dead, for life: he requireth him of helpe, that hath no experience at all.

19 And for his iourney, him that is not able to goe, and for gaine, and woorke, and successe of his affaires, hee requireth furtherance of him that hath no maner of power.

by cunning.

Exod. 14.22 3 But thy prouidence, O Father, gouerneth it: * for thou hast made a way, euen in the sea, and a sure path among the waues,

4 Declaring thereby that thou hast power to helpe in all things, yea, though a man went to the sea without means.

5 Neuertheless, thou wouldest not that the workes of thy wisedome should be vaine, & therefore doe men commit their liues to a small piece of wood, and passe ouer the roomie sea in a ship and are saued.

Gene. 6 4. & 7.10. 6 * For in the olde time also when the proud giants perished, the hope of the world went into a ship which was gouerned by thine hand, and so left seed of generation vnto the world.

7 For blessed is the tree whereby righteousnesse commeth.

8 But that is cursed that is made with hands, Psal. 115.8 Baruch 6.3 * both it, and he that made it: he, because he made it, and it being a corruptible thing, because it was called god.

Psal. 5.5. 9 * For the vngodly and his vngodlinesse are both alike hated of God: so truely the worke and he that made it, shalbe punished together.

10 Therefore shal there be a visitation for the idoles of the nations: for of the creatures of God they are become abomination, Ierem. 10.8 Habac. 2.18 * and stumbling blocks vnto the soules of men, and a snare for the feet of the vnwise.

11 For the inuenting of idoles was the beginning of whoredome, and the finding of them is the corruption of life.

12 For they were not from the beginning, neither shall they continue for euer.

13 The vaine glory of men brought them into the world: therefore shall they come shortly to ende.

14 When a father mourneth grieuously for his sonne that was taken away suddenly, hee made an image for him that was once dead, whom now he worshippeth as a god, and ordeined to his seruants ceremonies and sacrifices.

15 Thus by processe of time this wicked custome preuailed, and was kept as a law, and idoles were worshipped by the commaundement of tyrants.

16 As for those that were so farre off, that men might not worship them presently, they did counterfeit the visage that was farre off, and made a gorgeous image of a king, whom they would honour, that they might by all meanes flatter him that was absent, as though he had bene present.

17 Againe, the ambition of the craftesmen thrust forward the ignorant to increase the superstition.

18 For hee peraduenture willing to please a noble man, laboured with all his cunning to make the image of the best fashion.

19 And so through the beautie of the worke, the multitude was allured, and so tooke him nowe for a god, which a little afore was but honoured as a man.

20 And this was the deceiuing of mans life, when men, being in seruitude through calamitie and tyranny, ascribed vnto stones and stocks the name, which ought not to be communicate vnto any.

21 Moreouer, this was not enough for them that they erred in the knowledge of God: but whereas they liued in great warres of ignorance, those so great plagues called they peace.

Deut. 18.10 sere. 7.9 and 19.4. 22 For either * they slew their owne children in sacrifice, or vsed secret ceremonies, or raging dissolutenesse by strange rites, 23 And so kept neither life nor marriage cleane: but either one slew another by treason, or els vexed him by adulterie.

24 So were all mixt together, blood and slaughter, theft and deceit, corruption, vnfaithfulnesse, tumules, periurie, 25 Disquieting of good men, vnthankfulnes, defiling of soules, changing of birth, disorder in marriage, adulterie and vncleannesse.

26 For the worshipping of idoles, that ought not to be named, is the beginning and the cause, and the end of all euil.

27 For either they be mad when they be merrie, or prophesie lies, or liue vngodly, or els lightly forsweare themselues.

28 For in so much as their trust is in the idoles, which haue no life, though they sweare falsly, yet they thinke to haue no hurt.

29 Therefore for two causes shall they iustly be punished, because they haue an euil opinion of God, addicting themselues vnto idoles, and because they sweare vniustly to deceiue, and despise holinesse.

30 For it is not the power of them by whom they sweare, but the vengeance of them that sinne, which punisheth alwayes the offence of the vngodly.

CHAP. XV.

The voyce of the faithfull, praysing the mercie of God, by whose grace they serue not idoles.

21 Octob. Lesson Moon

BVt thou, O our God, art gracious and true, long suffering, and gouernest all things by mercy.

2 Though we sinne, yet are we thine: for we know thy power: but we sinne not, knowing that we are counted thine.

3 For to knowe thee, is perfect righteousnesse, and to know thy power, is the roote of immortalitie.

4 For neither hath the wicked inuention of men deceiued vs, nor the vnprofitable labour of the painters, nor an image spotted with diuers colours.

5 Whose sight stirreth vp the desire of the ignorant: so that hee coueteth the forme that hath no life, of a dead image.

6 They that loue such wicked things, are worthy to haue such things to trust to, and they that make them, and they that desire them, and they that worship them.

Rom. 9.21 7 The * potter also tempereth soft earth, and fashioneth euery vessell with labour to our vse: but of the same clay hee maketh both the vessels that serue to cleane vses, and the contrary likewise: but whereto euery vessel serueth, the potter is the iudge.

8 So by his wicked labour he maketh a vaine god of the same clay: euen he, which a little afore was made of earth himselfe, and within a little while after goeth thither againe whence he was taken, * when he shall make accompt for the lone of his life.

Luke 12.20. 9 Notwithstanding he careth not for the labour.

bour hee taketh, nor that his life is short, but hee striueth with the goldsmithes, and siluersmithes, and counterfeiteth the coppersmithes, and taketh it for an honour to make deceiueable things.

10 His heart is ashes, and his hope is more vile then earth, and his life is lesse worthy of honour then clay.

11 For he knoweth not his owne maker, that gaue him his soule, that had power and breathed in him the breath of life.

12 But they count our life to be but a passtime, and our conuersation as a market, where there is gaine: for they say wee ought to be getting on euery side, though it be by euill meanes.

13 Now hee that of earth maketh fraile vessels and images, knoweth himselfe to offend aboue all other.

14 All the enemies of thy people, that holde them in subiection, are most vnwise, and more miserable then the very fooles.

15 For they iudge all the idoles of the nations to be gods, which neither haue eye sight to see, nor noles to smell, nor eares to heare, nor fingers of hands to grope, and their feete are slow to goe.

16 For man made them, and he that hath but a borowed spirite, fashioned them: but no man can make a god like to himselfe.

17 For seeing he is but mortall himselfe, it is but mortall that hee maketh with vnrighteous hands: he himselfe is better then they whom he worshippeth: for he liued, but they neuer liued.

18 Yea, they worshipped beastes also, which are their most enemies, & which are the worst, if they be compared vnto others, because they haue none vnderstanding.

19 Neither haue they any beautie to be desired in respect of other beasts, for they are destitute of Gods praise, and of his blessing.

3 To the intent that they that desired meate, by the things which were shewed & sent among them, might turne away their necessarie desire, and that they, which had suffered penurie for a space, should also feele a new taste.

4 For it was requisite, that they which vsed tyrannie, should fall into extreame penurie, and that to these onely it should be shewed, how their enemies were tormented.

9 * For the biting of grashoppers and flies killed them, and there was no remedy found for their life: for they were worthy to be punished by such. Exod. 8.24. and 10.4. reuel.9.7.

10 But the teeth of the venemous dragons could not ouercome thy children: for thy mercy came to helpe them, and healed them.

11 For they were pricked, because they should remember thy wordes, and were speedily healed, lest they should fall into so deepe forgetfulnesse, that they could not bee called backe by thy benefite.

12 For neither herbe nor plaister healed them, but thy word, O Lord, which healeth all things.

13 For thou hast the power of life and death, * and leadest downe into the gates of hell, and bringest vp againe. Deut.32.39. 1 sam.2.6. tob.13.2.

14 A man indeede by his wickednes may slay another: but when the spirit is gone forth, it turneth not againe, neither can hee call againe the soule that is taken away.

15 But it is not possible to escape thine hand.

16 * For the vngodly that would not knowe thee, were punished by the strength of thine arme, with strange raine & with haile, and were pursued with tempest, that they could not auoid, and were consumed with fire. Exod.9.23.

17 For it was a wonderous thing that fire might doe more then water, which quencheth all things: but the worlde is the auenger of the righteous.

18 For sometime was the fire so tame, that the beastes, which were sent against the vngodly, burnt not: and that, because they should see, and knowe, that they were persecuted with the punishment of God.

19 And sometime burnt the fire in the mids of the water, aboue the power of fire, that it might destroy the generation of the vniust land.

20 * In the stead whereof thou hast fed thine owne people with Angels foode, and sent them bread ready from heauen without their labour, which had abundance of all pleasures in it, and was meete for all tastes. Exod.16.14 numb 11.7. psal.78.25. iohn 6 31.

21 For thy sustenance declared thy sweetnesse vnto thy children, which serued to the appetite of him that tooke it, and was meete to that that euery man would.

22 Moreouer, the * snow and yce abode the fire and melted not, that they might know, that the fire burning in the haile, and sparckling in the raine, destroyed the fruit of the enemies. Exod.9.23.

23 Againe it forgate his owne strength, that the righteous might be nourished:

24 For the creature that serueth thee which art the maker, is fierce to punishing the vnrighteous: but it is easie to doe good vnto such as put their trust in thee.

25 Therefore was it changed at the same time vnto all fashions to serue thy grace, which nourisheth all things, according to the desire of them that haue neede thereof, 26 That thy children whom thou louest, O Lord, might knowe, * that it is not the increase of fruites that feedeth men, but that it is thy word, Deut 8.3. matth 4.4.

world, which preserued them that rest in thee.

27 For that which could not bee destroyed with the fire, being onely warmed a little with the sunne beames, melted, 28 That it might be knowen that we ought to preuent the sunne rising to giue thankes vnto thee, and to salute thee before the day spring.

29 For the hope of the vnthankfull shall melt as the winter yce, and flow away as vnprofitable waters.

CHAP. XVII.

The iudgement of God against the wicked.

22 Octob 1 Lesson Morn

GReat thy iudgements are great, and cannot be expressed: therefore men doe erre, that will not be reformed.

2 For when the vnrighteous thought to haue thine holy people in subiection, they were bound with the bands of darkenes, and long night, and being shut vp vnder the roofe, did lie there to escape the euerlasting prouidence.

3 And while they thought to be hid in their darke sinnes, they were scattered abroad in the darke couering of forgetfulnes, fearing horribly and troubled with visions.

4 For the denne that did them, kept them not from feare: but the sounds that were about them troubled them, and terrible visions and sorowfull sights did appeare.

5 No power of the fire might giue light, neither might the cleere flames of the starres lighten the horrible night.

6 For there appeared vnto them onely a sudden fire, very dreadfull: so that being afrayd of this vision, ‖ which they could not see, they thought the things which they sawe to be worse. ‖ That is, the mighty vision. Exod. 7.12. and 8.7,19.

7 * And the illusions of the Magicall artes were brought downe, and it was a most shamefull reproch for the boasting of their knowledge.

8 For they that promised to driue away feare and trouble from the sicke person, were sicke for feare, and worthy to be laughed at.

9 And though no fearefull thing did feare them, yet were they afrayd at the beastes which passed by them, and at the hissing of the serpents: so that they died for feare, and said they sawe not the ayre, which by no meanes can be auoyded.

10 For it is a fearefull thing when malice is condemned by her owne testimony: and a conscience that is troubled, doeth euer forecast cruell things.

11 For feare is nothing else, but a betraying of the succours, which reason offereth.

12 And the lesse that the hope is within, the more doth he esteeme the ignorance of the thing that tormenteth him, great.

13 But they that did endure the night that was intolerable, and that came out of the bottomes of hell, which is inuincible, slept the same sleepe, 14 And sometimes were troubled with monstrous visions, and sometime they swooned, as though their owne spirit should betray them: for a sudden feare not looked for, came vpon them.

15 And thus whosoeuer fell downe, there kept and shut in prison but without yrons.

16 For whether he was an husbandman, or a shepheard, or one that was set to worke alone, if he were taken, he must suffer this necessitie, that he could not auoide:

17 (For with one chaine of darkenesse were they all bound) whether it were an hissing winde or a sweete song of the birds among the thicke branches of the trees, or the vehemencie of hasty running water,

18 Or a great noise of the falling downe of stones, or the running of skipping beastes, that could not be seene, or the noyse of cruell beastes that roared, or that sound that answereth againe ‖ Or, Echo. in the hollow mountaines: their fearefull thoings made them swoone.

19 For all the world stoned with cleere light, and no man was hindered in his labour.

20 Only vpon them there fell an heauy night and image of that darknes that was to come vpon them: yea, they were vnto themselues more grieuous then darknesse.

BUt thy saints had a very great light, whose voyce they heard, and saw not the figure of them, they thought them blessed, because they also had not suffered the like.

2 And because they did not hurt them, which did hurt them afore, they thanked them, and alkey pardon for their enmitie.

3 Wherefore thou gauest them a burning pillar of fire to leade them in the vnknowen way, and mildest the sunne that it burned not them in their honourable iourney. Exod. 13.22, and 14.24. psal 78.14. and 105.39.

6 Of that night were our fathers certified afore, that they, knowing to what oathes they had giuen credite, might be of good cheere.

7 Thus thy people receiued the health of the righteous, and the enemies were destroyed. Exo. 14.24, 25.

8 For as thou hast punished the enemies, so hast thou glorified vs whom thou hast called.

9 For the children of good men offered secretly, and made a law of the godlines by one consent, that the Saints should receiue good and euil in like manner, and that the fathers should first sing prayse.

10 But a disagreeing cry was heard of the enemies, and there was a lamentable noise for the children that were bewailed. The Lord smote the 12 So they altogether had innumerable dead with one kinde of death, neither were the liuing sufficient to bury them: for in the twinkling of an eye the noblest offspring of them was destroyed.

31 So they that could beleeue nothing, because cause of the enchantments, confessed this people to be the children of God, in the destruction of the first borne:

14 For while all things were in quiet silence, and the night was in the middes of her swift course,

15 Thine almighty word leapt downe from heauen out of thy royall throne, as a fierce man of warre in the middes of the lande that was destroyed,

16 And brought thine vnfained commandement, as a sharpe sword, and stood vp, and filled all things with death, and being come downe to the earth, it reached vnto the heauens.

17 Then the sight of the fearefull dreames vexed them suddenly, and feare fell vpon them vnawares.

18 Then lay there one here, another there halfe dead, and shewed the cause of his death.

19 For the visions that vexed them, shewed them these things afore: so that they were not ignorant, wherefore they perished.

20 Now tentation of death touched the righteous also, and among the multitude in the wildernesse there was a plague, but the wrath endured not long. Num. 16.46.

21 For the blamelesse man made haste, and defended them, and tooke the weapons of his ministration, euen prayer, and the reconciliation by the perfume, and set himselfe against the wrath, and so brought the miserie to an end, declaring that he was thy seruant.

22 For he ouercame not the multitude with bodily power, nor with fight of weapons; but with the word he subdued him that punished, alleaging the oths and couenants made vnto the fathers.

23 For when the dead were fallen downe by heapes one vpon another, he stood in the mids, and cut off the wrath, and parted it from coming to the liuing.

24 For in the long garment was all the ornament, & in the foure rowes of the stones was the glory of the fathers grauen, with thy maiesty in the diademe of his head. Exod. 28.6, 33.

3 For while yet sorow was betake them, and they lamented by the graues of the dead, they deuised another foolishnesse, so that they persecuted them in their flieing, whom they had [a] cast out afore with prayer.

remained, by torments.

5 Both that thy people might trie a marueilous passage, and that they might find a strange death.

6 For every creature in his kinde was fashioned of new, and serued in their owne offices enioyned them, that thy children might be kept without hurt.

7 For the cloud ouershadowed their tents, and the dry earth appeared, where afore was water: so that in the red Sea there was a way without impediment, and the great deepe became a greene field.

8 Through the which all the people went that were defended with thine hand, seeing thy wonderous marueiles.

9 For they incred like horses, and leaped like lambes, praysing thee, O Lord, which hadst deliuered them. ‖Or, were fed.

10 For they were yet mindefull of those things which were done in the land where they dwelt, how the ground brought forth flies in stead of cattell, and how the riuer sendred with the multitude of frogs in stead of fishes.

11 But at the last they saw a new generation of birds, when they were intised with lust, and desired delicate meates. Exod. 16.13, num. 11.31.

12 For the quailes came forth of the Sea vnto them for comfort, but punishments came vpon the sinners not without signes that were giuen by great thundrings: for they suffered worthily according to their wickednesse, because they shewed a cruell hatred toward strangers. Chap. 16.2. ‖Or, Egyptians.

13 For the one sort would not receiue them when they were welcome, because they knew them not: the other sort brought the strangers into bondage that had done them good.

14 Besides all their things vnto would not suffer, that any regard should be had of them: for they handled the strangers delitefully.

15 Others that had receiued them with great banquetting, & admitted them to be partakers of the same lawes, did afflict them with great labours.

16 Therefore they were striken with blindnesse, as in olde time certaine were at the doores of the [a] righteous, so that euery one being compassed with darknesse, sought the entrance of his doore. Gen. 19. 11.

17 Thus the elements agreed among themselues in this change, as when one tune is changed vpon an instrument of musicke, and the melodie still remaineth, which may easily bee perceiued by the sight of the things that are come to passe.

18 For the things of the earth were changed into things of the water, and the thing that did swimme went vpon the ground.

19 The fire had power in the water contrary vnto his owne vertue, and the water forgate his owne kind to quench.

20 Againe, the flames did not hurt the flesh of the corruptible beasts that walked therin, neither melted they that which seemed to be [b] yee, and was of a nature that easily could melt, and yet was an immortall meat.

21 For in all things, O Lord, thou hast magnified and glorified thy people, and hast not despised to aide them in euery time and place.

The

The wisedome of Iesus the sonne of Sirach, called Ecclesiasticus.

This argument was found in a certaine Greeke copie.

THis Iesus was the sonne of Sirach, and Sirachs father was also called Iesus, & he lived in the latter times after the people had bene led away captive, and brought home againe, and almost after all the Prophets. Now his grandfather, as he himselfe witnesseth, was a man of great diligence, and wisedome among the Hebrewes, who did not onely gather the graue sentences of wise men that had bene before him, but he himselfe also spake many full of great knowledge and wisedome. So this first Iesus died, and left this which he had gathered: and Sirach afterward left it to Iesus his sonne, who tooke it and put it in order in a book, & called it Wisedome, intitling it both by his own name, his fathers name, & his grandfathers: thinking by this title of Wisedome, to allure the Reader to read this book with more great desire, and to consider it more diligently. Therefore this booke containeth wise sayings, and darke sentences, & similitudes, with certaine diuine histories which are notable and ancient, euen of men that were approued of God, and certaine prayers and songs of the author himselfe: moreouer, what benefits the Lord had bestowed vpon his people, and what plagues hee had heaped vpon their enemies. This Iesus did imitate Salomon, and was no lesse famous in wisedome and doctrine, who was therefore called a man of great knowledge, as he was indeed.

The Prologue of the wisedome of Iesus the sonne of Sirach.

WHereas many and great things haue bene giuen vs by the Law and the Prophets, and by others that haue followed them, (for the which things Israel ought to be commended by the reason of doctrine and wisedome, wherby the readers ought not only to become learned themselues, but also may be able by the diligent study thereof to bee profitable vnto strangers, both by speaking and writing) after that my grandfather Iesus had giuen himselfe to the reading of the Law and the Prophets, and other bookes of our fathers, and had gotten therein sufficient iudgement, he purposed also to write some thing pertaining to learning and wisedome, to the intent that they which were desirous to learne, and would giue themselues to these things, might profit much more in liuing according to the Law. Wherefore I exhort you to receiue it louingly, and to reade it with diligence, and to take it in good worth, though we seeme to faile in some things not able to attaine to the interpretation of such words as are hard to be expressed: for y things that are spoken in the Hebrew tongue, haue another force in themselues then when they are translated into another tongue: and not onely these things, but other things also, as the Law it selfe, and the Prophets, and other bookes haue no small difference when they are spoken in their owne language. Therefore in the eight and thirtieth yeere, when I came into Egypt vnder king Euergetes, and continued there, I found a copy full of great learning, and I thought it necessary to bestow my diligence and trauel to interpret this booke. So for a certaine time with great watching & studie I gaue my selfe to the finishing of this booke, that it might be published, that they which remaine in banishment, and are desirous to learne, might apply themselues vnto good maners, and liue according to the Law.

29 October Lesson Euening 9

C H A P. I.

1 Wisedome commeth of God. 11. A praise of the feare of God. 29. The meanes to come by wisedome.

ALl wisdom commeth of the Lord, [and hath beene euer with him] and is with him for euer.

2 Who can number the sand of the sea, and the drops of the raine, and the dayes of the world? [who can measure] the height of heauen, the breadth of the earth, and the depth?

3 Who can finde the wisedome [of God which hath bene before all things?]

4 Wisedome hath beene created before all things, and the vnderstanding of prudence from euerlasting.

5 [The word of God most high is the fountaine of wisedome, and the euerlasting commandements are the entrance vnto her.]

6 Vnto whom hath the roots of wisedome bene declared? or who hath knowen her wise counsels?

7 [Vnto whom hath the doctrine of wisedome bene discouered & shewed? and who hath vnderstood the manifold entrance vnto her?]

8 There is one wise, [euen the most high Creatour of all things, the Almighty, the king of power and very terrible, which sitteth vpon his throne.

9 He is the Lord that hath created her, [euen the holy Ghost:] he hath seene her, numbred her, [and measured her.]

10 Hee hath powred her out vpon all his workes, and vpon all flesh, according to his gift, and giueth her abundantly vnto them that loue him.

11 The feare of the Lord is glory, and gladnesse, and reioycing, and a ioyfull crowne.

12 The feare of the Lorde maketh a merry heart, & giueth gladnesse, and ioy, and long life.

13 Who so feareth the Lord, it shall goe well with him at the last, and he shall find fauour in the day of his death.

14 [The loue of God is honourable wisedom, and vnto whome it appeareth in a vision, they loue it for the vision, and for the knowledge of the great workes thereof.]

15 The feare of the Lord is the beginning of wisedome, and was made with the faithfull in the wombe: [she goeth with the chosen women, and is knowen with the righteous and faithfull.

16 The feare of the Lord is an holy knowledge.

17 Holinesse shall preserue, and iustifie the heart, and giueth mirth and gladnesse.

Saint Matthias / S Euen

18 Who so feareth the Lord, shall prosper, and in the day of his end he shall be blessed.]

19 She hath built her everlasting foundations with men, & is given to be with their seed.

20 To feare God is the fulnesse of wisedome, and filleth men with her fruits.

21 She filleth their whole house with [all] things desirable, & the garners with the things that her bringeth forth, and both twaine are gifts of God.

22 The feare of the Lorde is the crowne of wisedome, and giueth peace and perfect health: he hath seene her and numbred her.

23 ‖ She reineth downe knowledge, and understanding of wisedome, and hath brought vnto honour them that possessed her. ‖Or, wisedoms.

24 The feare of the Lorde is root of wisdom, and her branches are long life.

25 [In the treasures of wisdome is vnderstanding, and holy knowlege, but wisdome is abhorred of sinners.]

26 The feare of the Lorde driueth out sinne, and when she is present, she driueth away anger.

27 ¶ For wicked anger cannot be iustified: for his rashnesse in his anger shall be his destruction.

28 A patient man will suffer for a time, and then shall he haue the reward of ioy.

29 He will hide his wordes for a time, and many mens lippes shall speake of his wisdome.

30 In the treasures of wisedome are the secrets of knowledge, but the sinner abhorreth the worship of God.

31 If thou desire wisedome, keepe the commandements, and the Lord shall giue her vnto thee, [and wil fill her treasures.]

32 For the feare of the Lord is wisdom & discipline: he hath pleasure in faith and meekenes.

33 Be not disobedient to the feare of the Lord, and come not vnto him with a double heart.

34 ¶ Bee not an hypocrite that men should speake of thee, but take heed what thou speakest.

35 Exalt not thy selfe, lest thou fall and bring thy soule to dishonour, and so God discouer thy secrets, and cast thee downe in the midst of the congregation, because thou wouldest not receiue the true feare of God, and thine heart is full of deceit.

CHAP. II.

1 He exhorteth the seruants of God to righteousnes, loue, vnderstanding, and patience. 11 To trust in the Lord. 13 A curse vpon them that are faint hearted and impatient.

MY sonne, if thou wilt come into the seruice of God [stande fast in righteousnesse and feare, and] prepare thy soule to tentation.

2 Settle thine heart, and be patient: [bow downe thine eare, & receiue the wordes of vnderstanding] and shunke not away when thou art assailed, [but wait vpon God patiently.]

3 Ioyne thy selfe vnto him, and depart not away, that thou mayst be increased at thy last end.

4 Whatsoeuer commeth vnto thee, receiue it patiently, and be patient in the change of thine affliction.

5 * For as golde [and siluer are] tried in the fire, euen so are men acceptable in the fornace of aduersitie. Wisd. 3.6 prou. 17.3.

6 Beleeue in God, and he will helpe thee: order thy way aright, and trust in him: [holde fast his feare, and grow old therein.]

7 Ye that feare the Lord, wait for his mercie: thinke not awry from him that ye fall not.

8 Ye that feare the Lord, beleeue him, and your reward shall not faile.

9 O yee that feare the Lorde, trust in good things, and in the euerlasting ioy and mercie.

10 [Ye that feare the Lord, loue him, & your hearts shalbe lightened.]

11 Consider the old generations [of men, yee children,] marke them well: was there euer any confounded that put his trust in the Lord? or who hath continued in his feare, and was forsaken? or whom did he euer despise, that called vpon him? Trust in the Lord Psal. 37.25

12 For God is gracious and mercifull, & forgiueth sinnes, and saueth in the time of trouble, [and is a defender for all them that seeke him in the truth.]

13 Woe vnto them that haue a ‖ fearefull heart, [and to the wicked lips] and to the faint hands, and to the sinner that goeth two * maner of wayes. ‖Or, double, 1. King. 18. 21.

14 Woe vnto him that is faint hearted: for he beleeueth not: therefore shall he not be defended.

15 Woe vnto you that haue lost patience, [and haue forsaken the right wayes, and are turned backe vnto the frowarde wayes:] for what wil ye doe when the Lord shall visite you?

16 They that feare the Lord, will not disobey his word: and they that * loue him, will keepe his wayes. John 14.23 24.

17 They that feare the Lord, will seeke out the things that are pleasant vnto him: and they that loue him, shall be fulfilled with his law.

18 They that feare the Lord, will prepare their hearts, and humble their soules in his sight.

19 [They that feare the Lord, keepe his commandements, and wil be patient till he see them.

20 Saying, if we do not repent] we shall fall into the hands of the Lord, & not into the hands of men:

21 For as his greatnesse is, so is his mercie.

CHAP. III.

2 To our father and mother ought we to giue double honour. 10 Of the blessing and curse of the father and mother. 22 No man ought ouer curiously to search out the secrets of God.

[THE children of wisedome are the Church of the righteous, and their offspring is obedience and loue.]

2 Heare your fathers iudgement, O children, and do thereafter, that ye may be safe.

3 For the Lord will haue the father honored of the children, and hath confirmed the authority of the mother ouer the children.

4 Who so honoureth his father, his sinnes shall be forgiuen him, [and he shal abstaine from them, and shall haue his daily desires.]

5 And he that honoureth his mother, is like one that gathereth treasure.

6 Who so honoureth his father, shall haue ioy of his owne children, and when he maketh his prayer, he shall be heard.

7 He that honoureth his father, shall haue a long long life, and her that is obedient vnto the Lord, shall comfort his mother.

8 Her that feareth the Lord, honoureth his parents, and doeth seruice vnto his parents as vnto lords.

Exod.20.12. deut.5.16. matth.15.4. ephe.6.2.3. Or, the blessing of man.

9 * Honour thy father and mother in deede and in worde, [and in all patience,] that thou mayest haue ‖ Gods blessing, [and that his blessing may abide with thee in the end.]

10 For the blessing of the father establisheth the houses of the children, and the mothers curse rooteth out the foundations.

11 Reioyce not at the dishonour of thy father: for it is not honour vnto thee, but shame, 12 Seeing that mans glory commeth by his fathers honour, and the reproch of the mother is dishonour to the children.

13 My sonne, helpe thy father in his age, and grieue him not as long as he liueth.

14 And if his vnderstanding faile, haue patience with him, and despise him not when thou art in thy full strength.

15 For the good intreatie of thy father shall not be forgotten, but it shall be a fortresse for thee against sinnes, [and for thy mothers offence thou shalt be recompensed with good, and it shall be founded for thee in righteousnesse.]

16 And in the day of trouble thou shalt be remembred: thy sinnes also shall melt away as the yce in the faire weather.

17 He that forsaketh his father, shall come to shame, and he that angreth his mother, is cursed of God.

18 ¶ My sonne, performe thy doings with meekenesse, so shalt thou be beloued of them that are approued.

Phil.2.3.

19 The * greater thou art, the more humble thy selfe [in all things,] and thou shalt find fauour before the Lord.

20 Many are excellent and of renowme: but the secrets are reuealed vnto the meeke.

21 For the power of the Lord is great, and he is honoured of the lowly.

Not Psal.131.1. pro.25.27. rom.12.3. to search after Secrets of God

22 * Seeke not out the things that are too hard for thee, neither search the things rashly which are too mighty for thee.

23 [But] what [God] hath commaunded thee, thinke vpon that with reuerence, [and be not curious in many of his works,] for it is not needful for thee to see with thine eyes the things that are secret

24 Be not curious in superfluous things: for many things are shewed vnto thee aboue the capacitie of men.

25 The medling with such hath beguiled many, and an euill opinion hath deceiued their iudgement.

26 Thou canst not see without eyes: professe not the knowledge therefore that thou hast not.

27 A stubburne heart shal fare euill at the last: and he that loueth danger, shall perish therein.

28 An hart that goeth two wayes, shall not prosper: and hee that is froward of heart, shall stumble therein.

29 An obstinate heart shall be laden with sorrowes: and the wicked man shall heape sinne vpon sinne.

30 The perswasion of the proude is without remedy, and his steps shal be plucked vp: for the plant of sinne hath taken roote in him, [and hee shall not be discerned.]

31 The heart of him that hath vnderstanding, shall perceiue secret things, and an attentiue eare is the desire of a wiseman.

32 [An heart that is wise and vnderstanding, will abstaine from sinne, and shall prosper in the workes of righteousnesse.]

33 Water quencheth burning fire, * and almes taketh away sinnes.

Dan.4.24. Psal.41.1.

34 And hee that rewardeth good deedes, will remember it afterward, and in the time of the fall, hee shall find a stay.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Almes must bee done with gentlenesse. 12 The studie of wisedome and her fruits. 20 An exhortation to eschew euill, and doe good.

St. Hierome S. Luke Horn

MY sonne, defraud not the * poore of his liuing, and make not the needie eyes to waite long.

Deut.15.7. Gene. alms 25 Octob

2 Make not an hungrie soule sorowfull, neither vexe a man in his necessitie.

3 Trouble not the heart that is grieued, and deferre not the gift of the needy.

4 Refuse not the prayer of one that is in trouble: * turne not away thy face from the poore.

Tobit.4.7. S Lefevre Moore

5 Turne not thine eyes aside [in anger] from the poore, and giue him none occasion to speake euill of thee.

6 For if hee curse thee in the bitternesse of his soule, his prayer shall be heard of him that made him.

7 Be courteous vnto the company [of poore, and humble thy soule vnto the Elder,] and bow downe thy head to a man of worship.

8 Let it not grieue thee to bow downe thine eare vnto the poore, [but pay thy debt] and giue him a friendly answere.

9 ¶ Deliuer him that suffereth wrong, from the hand of the oppressor, and be not faint hearted ‖ when thou iudgest.

Or, to defend him.

10 Be as a father vnto the fatherlesse, and as an husband vnto their mother: so shalt thou bee as the sonne of the most High: and he shall loue thee more then thy mother doeth.

11 Wisedome exalteth her children, and reteineth them that seeke her, [and will goe before them in the way of righteousnesse.]

12 Hee that loueth her, loueth life, and they that seeke life in the morning, shall haue great ioy.

13 He that keepeth her, shall inherite glorie: for vnto whom shee entreth, him the Lorde will blesse.

14 They that honour her, shalbe the seruants of the holy One, and them that loue her, the Lord doth loue.

15 Who so giueth eare vnto her, shall iudge the nations, and hee that goeth vnto her, shall dwell safely.

16 Hee that is faithfull vnto her, shall haue her in possession, and his generation shall possesse her.

17 For first she will walke with him by crooked wayes, and bring him into feare and dread, and torment him with her discipline vntill shee haue tryed his soule, and haue proued him by her iudgements.

18 Then will shee returne the straight way vnto him, and comfort him, and shewe him her secrets, [and heape vpon him the treasures of knowledge, and vnderstanding of righteousnesse.]

19 But if he goe wrong, she will forsake him, and giue him ouer into the hands of his destruction.

20 [¶ My sonne,] make much of time, and * eschew the thing that is euill, Rom.12,9. 1 thes.5.22.

21 And be not ashamed [to say the trueth] for thy life: for there is a * shame that bringeth sinne, and a shame that bringeth worship and fauour.

a To bee ashamed to confesse thy God, thy faith, to testifie the trueth, and to reproue sinne, doth bring sinne vnto thee: the contrary shame bringeth worship.

22 Accept no person against thine owne conscience, that thou bee not confounded to thine owne decay, [and] forbeare not thy neighbour in his fault.]

32 And keepe not backe counsell when it may do good, neither hide thy wisedome when it may be famous.

24 For by the talke is wisedome knowen, and learning by the words of the tongue, [and counsell, wisedome and learning by the talking of the wise, and stedfastnesse in the workes of righteousnesse.]

25 In no wise speake against the worde of trueth, but be ashamed of the lies of thine owne ignorance.

26 Be not ashamed to confesse thy sinnes, and resist not the course of the riuer.

27 Submit not thy selfe vnto a foolish man, neither accept the person of the mighty.

28 Striue for the trueth vnto death, [and beleeue iustice for thy life,] and the Lord God shall fight for thee [against thine enemies.]

29 Be not hastie in thy tongue, neither slacke and negligent in thy works.

30 Be not as a lyon in thine owne house, neither beate thy seruants for thy fantasie, [nor oppresse them that are vnder thee.]

31 * Let not thine hand be stretched out to receiue, and shut when thou shouldest giue.

Acts.20.35

St. Marke CHAP. V. Eroni

1 In riches may we not put any confidence. 7 The vengeance of God ought to bee feared, and repentance may not be deferred.

TRust not vnto thy * riches, and say not, I haue enough for my life: [for it shall not helpe in the time of vengeance and indignation.]

Luke 12,15, 19,20. chap. 11.18,19. prou 10.2. ezek.7.19. Apoc. 1.18.

2 Followe not thine owne minde and thy strength, to walke in the wayes of thine heart:

3 Neyther sayth thou, [Howe haue I had strength?] or who will bring mee vnder for my workes? For God the auenger will reuenge the wrong done by thee.

25 Celoc 1 Lebon Eroni

4 And say not, I haue sinned, and what euill hath come vnto mee? for the Almightie is a patient rewarder, but he will not leaue thee vnpunished.

5 Because thy sinne is forgiuen, be not without feare, to heape sinne vpon sinne.

6 And say not, The mercie of God is great: hee will forgiue my manifold sinnes: for mercie and wrath come from him, and his indignation commeth downe vpon sinners.

7 Make no tarying to turne vnto the Lord, and put not off from day to day: for suddenly shall the wrath of the Lord breake forth, and in thy securitie thou shalt bee destroyed, and thou shalt perish in the time of vengeance.

8 Trust not in wicked riches: for they shall not helpe thee in the day of punishment [and vengeance.]

9 Be not caried about with euery wind, and goe not into euery way: for so doeth the sinner that hath a double tongue.

10 Stand fast in thy late vnderstanding [and in the way and knowledge of the Lord] and haue but one maner of word, [and follow the word of peace and righteousnesse.

11 Be humble to heare the word of God, that thou mayest vnderstand it, and make a true answere with wisedome.]

12 * Bee swift to heare good things, and let thy life bee pure, and giue a patient answere.

Iames 1. 19

13 If thou hast vnderstanding, answere thy neighbour: if not, lay thine hande vpon thy mouth, [lest thou bee trapped in an vndiscreet word, and so be blamed.]

14 Honour and shame is in the talke, and the tongue of a man causeth him to fall.

15 Be not counted a * talebearer, and lie not in wait with thy tongue: for shame [and repentance] follow the theefe, and an euill condemnation is ouer him that is double tongued: [but he that is a backbiter shalbe hated, enuied and confounded.]

Leuit.19.16

16 Do not rashly, neither in small things nor in great.

CHAP. VI.

1 It is the propertie of a sinner to be euill tongued. 6 Of friendship. 33 Desire to be taught.

BE not of a friend [thy neighbours] * enemy: for such shall haue an euill name, shame and reproch, and he shall be in infamie as the wicked that hath a double tongue.

a For that is against the rule of charitie, which loueth all, & hateth nothing but onely sinne. b As a bull teareth in pieces a young tree with his hornes, so the mistrusting in thine owne wisdome, & standing in thine owne conceit, because of thy wit, thy power or riches, shouldest destroy thy selfe.

2 Bee not proud in the deuice of thine owne minde, lest thy soule rent thee as * a bull,

3 And eate vp thy leaues, and destroy thy fruit, and so thou be left as a dry tree [in the wildernesse.]

4 For a wicked soule destroyeth him that hath it, and maketh him to bee laughed to scorne of his enemies, [and bringeth him to the portion of the vngodly.]

5 A sweete talke multiplieth the friends [and pacifieth them that be at variance,] and a sweet tongue increaseth much good talke.

6 Hold friendship with many, neuertheless haue but one counseller of a thousand.

7 If thou gettest a friend, proone him first, and bee not hastie to credit him.

8 For some man is a friend for his owne occasion, & will not abide in the day of thy trouble.

9 And there is some friend that turneth to enmitie, and taketh part against thee, and in contention bee will declare thy shame.

10 Againe, some * friend is but a companion at the table, and in the day of thine affliction he continueth not.

Cpap.37.5.

11 But in thy prosperity he will be as thou thy selfe, and will vse libertie ouer thy seruants.

12 If thou be brought lowe, he will be against thee, and will hide himselfe from thy face.

13 Depart from thine enemies, and beware of thy friendes.

14 A faithfull friend is a strong defence, and he that findeth such a one, findeth a treasure.

15 A faithfull friend ought not to be changed for any thing, and the weight [of golde and siluer] is not to bee compared to the goodnesse [of his faith.]

16 A faithfull friende is the medicine of life [and immortalitie,] & they that feare the Lord, shall find him.

17 Who so feareth the Lord, shall direct his friendship aright, and as his owne selfe, so shall his friend be.

18 ¶ My sonne, receiue doctrine from thy youth vp: so shalt thou finde wisedome [which shall endure] till thine old age.

19 Goe to her as one that ploweth, and soweth, and wait for her good fruits: for thou shalt haue but litle labour in her worke: but thou shalt eat of her fruits right soone.

20 How exceeding sharpe is shee to the vnlearned? he that is without iudgement, will not remaine with her.

21 Vnto such one shee is as a fine touchstone, and he casteth her from him without delay.

22 For they haue the name of wisedome, but there be but few that haue the knowledge of her.

23 [For with them that know her, shee abideth vnto the appearing of God.]

24 Giue eare, my sonne: receiue my doctrine, and refuse not my counsell, 25 And put thy feete into her linkes, and thy necke into her chaine.

26 Bowe downe thy shoulder vnto her, and beare her, and be not weary of her bands.

27 Come vnto her with thy whole heart, and keepe her wayes with all thy power.

28 Seeke after her, and search her, and shee shall be shewed thee: and when thou hast gotten her, forsake her not.

29 For at the last thou shalt finde rest in her, and that shalbe turned to thy ioy.

30 Then shall her fetters be a strong defence for thee, [and a sure foundation] & her chaines a glorious rayment.

31 For there is a golden ornament in her, and her bands are the laces of purple colour.

32 Thou shalt put her on as a robe of honour, and shalt put her vpon thee as a crowne of ioy.

33 My sonne, if thou wilt, thou shalt bee taught, and if thou wilt apply thy minde, thou shalt be wittie.

34 If thou loue to heare, thou shalt receiue [doctrine,] and if thou delight in hearing, thou shalt be wise.

35 Stand with the multitude of the elders, which are wise, and ioyne with him that is wise.

Chap. 8. 9.

36 *Desire to heare all godly talke, and let not the graue sentences of knowledge escape thee.

37 And if thou seest a man of vnderstanding, get thee soone vnto him, and let thy foote weare the steps of his doores.

38 Let thy mind bee vpon the ordinances of the Lord, and be ‖ continually *occupied in his commaundements: so shall hee establish thine heart, and giue thee wisedome at thine owne desire.

‖ Or, earnestly. Psal. 1. 2, 3.

CHAP. VII.

1 We must forsake euill, and yet not iustifie our selues. 23 The behauiour of the wise toward his wife, his frend, his children, his seruants, his father and mother.

DO no euill: so shall no harme come vnto thee.

2 Depart from the thing that is wicked, and sinne shall turne away from thee.

3 My sonne, sowe not vpon the furrowes of vnrighteousnesse, least that thou reape them seuen folde.

4 Alike not of the Lord preeminence, neither of the King the seat of honour.

5 *Iustifie not thy selfe before the Lord: [for he knoweth thine heart,] and boast not thy wisedome in the presence of the king. Iob. 2. 9. Psal. 143. 2. eccles. 7. 17. luke 18. 11.

6 Seeke not to be made a Iudge, least thou bee not able to take away iniquitie, and least thou, fearing the person of the mightie, shouldest commit an offence against thine vprightnesse.

7 Offend not against the multitude of a citie, and cast not thy selfe among the people.

8 *Bind not two sinnes together: for in one sinne shalt thou not be vnpunished. Chap. 5. 5.

9 Say not, God will looke vpon the multitude of mine oblations, and when I offer to the most high God, he will accept it.

10 Be not faint hearted, when thou makest thy prayer, neither slacke in giuing of almes.

11 Laugh no man to scorne in the heauinesse of his soule: for [God which seeth all things] is her *that can bring downe, and set vp againe. 1. Sam. 2. 7.

12 Sowe not a lie against thy brother, neither doe the same against thy friend.

13 Vse not to make any maner of lie: for the custome thereof is not good.

14 Make not many words when thou art among the elders, neither *repeate a thing in thy prayer. Mat. 6. 5, 7.

15 Hate not laborious worke, neither the husbandry which the most high hath created. Rom. 12. 11.

16 Number not thy selfe in the multitude of the wicked, but remember that vengeance will not slacke.

17 Humble thy minde greatly: for the vengeance of the wicked is fire and wormes.

18 Giue not ouer thy friend for any good, nor thy true brother for the gold of Ophir.

19 Depart not from a wise and good woman, [that is fallen vnto thee for thy portion in the feare of the Lord:] for her grace is aboue golde.

20 ¶ *Whereas thy seruant worketh truely, intreate him not euill, nor the hireling that doth worke himselfe wholly for thee. Leuit. 19. 13 chap. 33. 29. and 34. 23.

21 Let thy soule loue a good seruant, and defraud him not of libertie, [neither leane him a poore man.]

22 *If thou haue cattell, looke well to them, and if they be for thy profite, keepe them with thee. Deut. 25. 4.

23 *If thou haue sonnes, instruct them, and bow their necke from their youth. Chap. 30. 12.

24 If thou haue daughters, keepe their bodie, and shew not thy face cheerefull towarde them.

25 Marry thy daughter, and so shalt thou performe a weightie matter: but giue her to a man of vnderstanding.

26 If thou haue a wife after thy minde, forsake her not, but commit not thy selfe to the hatefull.

27 *Honour thy father from thy whole heart, and forget not the sorrowes of thy mother. Chap. 3. 9. tobi. 4. 3.

28 Remember that thou wast borne of them, and how canst thou recompence them the things that they haue done for thee?

29 ¶ Feare the Lord with all thy soule, and honour his ministers.

30 Loue him that made thee, with all thy strength, * and forsake not his seruants.

Deut. 12. 28. 19. Leuit. 2. 3. numb. 18. 15.

31 Feare the Lord with all thy soule, and honour the Priests, * and giue them their portion, as it is commanded thee, the first fruites, [and purifications] and sacrifices for sinne, and the offrings of the shoulders, and the sacrifices of sanctification, and the first fruits of the holy things.

32 Stretch thine hand vnto the poore, that thy ‖blessing, [and reconciliation] may be accomplished.

‖ Or, liberalitie.

33 Liberalitie pleaseth all men liuing, and * from the dead restraine it not.

Tobit 2. 4, 7. and 4. 17.

34 * Let not them that weepe, bee without [comfort:] but mourne with such as mourne.

Rom. 12. 15.

35 * Be not slowe to visite the sicke: for that shall make thee to be beloued.

Mat. 25. 36.

36 Whatsoeuer thou takest in hand, remember the end, and thou shalt neuer doe amisse.

CHAP. VIII.

We must take heede with whom we haue to doe.

STriue not with a mighty man, least thou fall into his hands.

2 * Make not variance with a rich man, least he on the other side weigh downe thy weight: * for gold [and siluer] hath destroyed many, and hath subuerted the hearts of kings.

4 Play not with a man that is vntaught, least thy kindred be dishonoured.

5 * Despise not a man that turneth himselfe away from sinne, nor cast him not in the teeth with all, but remember that we are all worthy blame.

Gal. 6. 1.

6 * Dishonour not a man in his olde age: for they were as we which are not old.

Leuit. 19. 32.

8 * Despise not the exhortation of the [Elders] that be wise, but acquaint thy selfe with their wise sentences: for of them thou shalt learn wisedome [and the doctrine of vnderstanding,] and howe to serue great men [without complaint.]

Chap. 6. 35.

9 Goe not from the doctrine of the Elders: for they haue learned it of their fathers, and of them thou shalt learne vnderstanding, and to make answere in the time of need.

10 Kindle not the coales of sinners, [when thou rebukest them,] least thou be burnt in the fierie flames [of their sinnes.]

11 Rise not vp against him that doth wrong, that he lay not waite as a spie for thy mouth.

12 * Lend not vnto him that is mightier then thy selfe: for if thou lendest him, count it but lost.

Chap. 29. 9.

13 Be not surety aboue thy power: for if thou be surety, thinke to pay it.

14 Goe not to law with the iudge: for they will giue sentence according to his owne honour.

15 * Trauaile not by the way with him that is rash, least he doe thee iniurie: for he followeth his owne wilfulnesse, and so shalt thou perish through his folly.

Gen. 4. 8.

16 * Striue not with him that is angry, and goe not with him into the wildernesse: for bloode is as nothing in his sight, and where there is no helpe, he will ouerthrow thee.

17 Take no counsell at a foole: for he cannot keepe a thing close.

18 Doe no secret thing before a stanger: for thou canst not tell what he goeth about.

CHAP. IX.

Of iealousie. 11 An old friend is to be preferred before a new. 18 Righteous men should bee bidden to thy table.

BE not ielous ouer thy wife of thy bosome, neither * teach her by thy meanes an euill lesson.

a Let her not haue rule ouer thee, for then will she be contrary vnto thee,

2 Giue not thy life vnto a woman, least shee ouercome thy strength, [and so thou bee confounded.]

3 Meete not an harlot, least thou fall into her snares.

4 Vse not the company of a woman that is a singer, [and a dancer, neither heare her,] least thou be taken by her craftinesse.

5 Gaze not on a * maid, that thou fall not by that that is precious in her.

6 * Cast not thy mind vpon harlots [in any maner of thing,] least thou destroy [both thy selfe and] thine heritage.

7 Goe not about gazing in the streetes of the citie, neither wander thou in the secret places thereof.

8 * Turne away thine eye from a beautifull woman, and looke not vpon others beauty: for many * haue perished by the beauty of women: for through it loue is kindled as a fire.

9 [Euery woman that is an harlot, shall be troden vnder foote as doung, of euery one that goeth by the way.

10 Many wondering at the beauty of a strange woman, haue bene cast out: for her words burne as a fire.]

11 Sit not at all with another mans wife, [neither lie with her vpon the bed,] nor banket with her: least thine heart incline vnto her, and so through thy desire fall into destruction.

12 ¶ Forsake not an olde friend: for the new shall not bee like him: a newe friend is as newe wine: when it is olde, thou shalt drinke it with pleasure.

13 * Desire not the honour [and riches] of a sinner: for thou knowest not what shall bee his ende.

14 Delight not in the thing that the vngodly haue pleasure in, but remember that they shall not be found iust vnto their graue.

15 Keepe thee from the man that hath power to slay: so shalt thou not doubt the feare of death: and if thou come vnto him, make no fault, least he take away thy life: remember that thou goest in the middes of snares, and that thou walkest vpon the towers of the citie, 16 Try thy neighbour as neere as thou canst, * and take counsell of the wise.

17 * Let thy talke be with the wise, and all thy commu-communication in the Law of the most High.

All Lord make thee and indeede teach thee: and let thy trespacing be in the feare of the Lord.

19 For I the hands of the craftesmen shall the workes be consummated, and the wise prince of the people by his words, [and the word by the wisedome of the Elders.]

20 A man full of words is dangerous in his citie, and he that is rash in his talking, shall be hated.

CHAP. X.

1 Of Kings and Iudges. 7 Pride and covetousnesse are to be abhorred. 22 Labour is praysed.

A Wise Iudge will instruct his people with discretion: the gouernance of a prudent man is well ordered.

2 As the Iudge of the people is himselfe, so are his officers, and what manner of man the ruler of the citie is, such are all they that dwell therein.

3 *An vnruld King vndooeth his people, but where they that be in authoritie, are men of vnderstanding, there the citie prospereth.

4 The gouernment of the earth is in the hand of the Lord, [and all iniquity of the nations is to be abhorred,] and when time is, he will set vp a profitable ruler ouer it.

5 In the hand of God is the prosperitie of man, and vpon the glorious will he lay his honour.

6 *Bee not angry for any wrong, with thy neighbor, and do nothing by iniurious practises.

7 Pride is hateful before God and man, and by both her doone cruell iniquity.

8 *Because of vnrighteous dealings, and wrongs, and riches got not by desert, the kingdome is translated from one people to another.

9 There is nothing worse then a couetous man: [why art thou proud, O earth and ashes? there is not a more wicked thing, then to loue money:] for such one would euen sell his soule, and for his life euery one is compelled to pull out his owne bowels.

10 [All vnrighte is of small indurance, and the disease that is hard to heale, is grieuous to the Physician.]

11 The Physician cutteth off the sore disease, and he that is to day a King, to morrow is dead.

12 All is earth and ashes proud, seeing that when a man dyeth, her is the heire of serpents, beasts, and wormes?

13 The beginning of mans pride, is to fall away from God, and to turne away his heart from his maker.

14 For pride is the originall of sinne, and he that hath it, shall powre out abomination, till at last he be ouerthrowne: therefore the Lord brought the perturbations [of the wicked] to dishonour, and destroyeth them in the end.

15 The Lord hath *cast downe the thrones of the [proud] princes, and set vp the meeke in their stead.

16 The Lord plucketh vp the roots of the [proud] nations, and planteth the lowly with glory among them.

17 The Lord ouerthroweth the lands of the heathen, and destroyeth them vnto the foundations of the earth: her causeth them to wither away, and destroyeth them, and maketh their memorial to cease out of the earth.

18 [God destroyeth the memorial of the proud, and leaueth the remembrance of the humble.]

19 Pride was not created to men, neither wrathfull ouerthrowing the generation of women.

20 Where is a seede of men, worthy to be an honourable seed: the honourable seed are they that feare the Lord: there is a seed of men, which is without honour: the seed without honour, are they that transgresse the commandements of the Lord: in a seed that remaineth, which feareth the Lord, and a kinde plante, that loue him: but they are a seed without honour, that despise the law, and a detestable seed that breake the commandements.

21 Her that is the chiefe among brethren, is honourable: so are they that feare the Lord in his sight.

22 The feare of the Lorde causeth that the kingdome falleth not, but the kingdome is lost by cruelty and pride.

23 The feare of the Lord is the glory as well of the rich and the noble, as of the poore.

24 It is not meete to despise the poore man that hath vnderstanding, neither is it conuenient to magnifie the rich that is a wicked man.

25 The great man and the iudge, and the man of authoritie, are honourable, yet is there none of them greater then her that feareth the Lord.

26 *Vnto the seruant that is wise, shall they that are free, doe seruice: *he that hath knowledge, will not grudge when he is reformed, [and the ignorant shall not come to honour.]

27 Murder not reason with a thou shouldst do thy worke, neither be aduaunt thyself though pride in the time of aduersitie.

28 *Better is her that laboureth, and hath plenteousnesse of all things, then he that is gorgeous, and wanteth bread.

29 My sonne, get thy selfe prayse by meekenesse, and esteeme thy selfe as thou deseruest.

30 Who will count him iust that sinneth against himselfe? or honour him that dishonoureth his owne soule?

31 The poore is honoured for his knowledge [and his feare,] but the rich is had in reputation because of his goods.

32 He that is honourable in pouertie, how much more shall he be when he is rich? and he that is vnhonest being rich, how much more will he be so when he is in pouertie?

CHAP. XI.

1 The praise of humilitie. 5 After the outward appearance ought wee not to iudge. 7 Of rash iudgement. 14 All things come of God. 29 All men are not to be brought into their hand.

WIsedome *lifteth vp the head of him that is lowe, and maketh him to sit among great men.

2 Commend not a man for his beautie, neither despise a man in his utter appearance.

3 The Bee is but small among the foules: yet doth her fruit passe all sweetnesse.

4 Bee not proud of clothing and raiment, *and exalt not thy selfe in the day of honour: for the workes of the Lord are wonderfull [and glorious] secret, [and vnknowen] are his Job 1. 21. 1. Sam. 2. 6. 14 * Prosperity and aduersity, life and death, pouerty and riches come of the Lord.

15 Wisedom and knowledge, and vnderstanding of the Law are of the Lord: loue and good workes come of him.

16 Error and darkenesse are appointed for sinners, and they that exalt themselues in euil, ware old in euil.

17 The gift of the Lord remaineth for the godly, and his good will maketh prosperitie for euer.

18 ¶ Some man is rich by his care and nigardship, and this is the portion of his wages,

Luke 12. 19. 19 In that he saith, * I haue gotten rest, and now will I eate continually of my goods, yet he considereth not that the time draweth neere, that hee must leaue all these things vnto other men, and die himselfe.

20 Stand thou in thy state, and exercise thy selfe therein, and remaine in thy worke vnto thine age.

21 Wonder not at the works of sinners, but trust in the Lord, and abide in thy labour: for it is an easie thing in the sight of the Lord suddenly to make a poore man rich.

22 The blessing of the Lord is in the wages of the godly, and he maketh his prosperitie soone to flourish.

23 ¶ Say not, What profit and pleasure shall I haue? and what good things shal I haue hereafter?

24 Againe, say not, I haue enough, and possesse many things, and what euil can come to me hereafter?

Wisd. 5. 8. 24. 25 * In thy good state remember aduersitie, and in aduersitie forget not prosperitie.

26 For it is an easie thing vnto the Lord in the day of death to reward a man according to his waies.

27 The aduersitie of an houre maketh one to forget pleasure: and in a mans end, his workes are discouered.

28 Iudge none blessed before his death: for a man shalbe knowen by his children.

29 Bring not euery man into thine house: for the deceitfull haue many trappes, [and are like stomacks that belch filthily.]

30 As a partridge is taken vnder a decoy, [and the hinde is taken in the snare,] so is the heart of the proud man, which like a spie watcheth for thy fall.

31 For he lieth in waite, and turneth good vnto euil, and in things worthy praise he will finde some fault.

32 Of one little sparke is made a great fire, [and of one deceitfull man is blood increased:] for a sinfull man layeth wait for blood.

33 Beware of a wicked man: for he imagineth wicked things, lest he bring thee into a perpetuall blame.

34 Lodge a stranger, and he will destroy thee with vnquietnesse, and driue thee from thine owne.

CHAP. XII.

1 Vnto whom we ought to doe good. 10 Enemies ought be not to be trusted.

WHen thou doest good, know to whom thou doest it, so shalt thou be thanked for thy benefits.

2 * Doe good vnto the righteous, and thou shalt finde [great] reward, though not of him, yet of the most High.

Gala. 6. 10. 1. Tim. 5. 8.

3 Hee cannot haue good that continueth in euill, and giueth no almes: [for the most high hateth the sinners, and hath mercie vpon them that repent.]

4 Giue vnto such as feare God, and receiue not a sinner.

5 Doe well vnto him that is lowly, but giue not to the vngodly: holde backe thy bread, and giue it not vnto him, lest he ouercome thee thereby: else thou shalt receiue twise as much euill for all the good that thou doest vnto him.

6 For the most High hateth the wicked, and will repay vengeance vnto the vngodly, and reserueth them against the day of horrible vengeance.

7 Giue vnto the good, and receiue not the sinner.

8 A friend cannot bee knowen in prosperitie, neither can an enemie be vnknowen in aduersitie.

9 When a man is in wealth, it grieueth his enemies, but in heauinesse and trouble a mans very friend will depart from him.

10 Trust neuer thine enemie: for like as an yron rusteth, so doth his wickednesse.

11 And though he make much crouching and kneeling, yet double thy selfe, and beware of him, and then shalt hee be to him, as he that wipeth a glasse, and thou shalt know that all his rust hath not bene well wiped away.

12 Set him not by thee, lest he destroy thee, and stand in thy place.

13 Neither let him sit at thy right hand, lest he seeke thy roome, and thou at the last remember my wordes, and bee pricked with my sayings.

15 Who will bewayle a charmer, that is stongen of the serpent? or all such as come neere the beastes? so is it with him that keepeth company with a wicked man, and wrappeth himselfe in his sinnes.

16 For a season will he bide with thee: but if thou stumble, he cannot.

Iere. 41. 6. 17 An enemie is sweete in his lippe: he can make many good wordes, and speake many good things: yea, he can weepe with his eyes, but in his heart he imagineth how to throwe thee into the pit: and if he may finde opportunity, he will not be satisfied with blood.

18 If aduersitie come vpon thee, thou shalt finde him there first, and though he pretend to helpe thee, yet shall he supplante thee: he will shake his head, and clap his hands, and will make many wordes, and diligently his countenance.

1 The companies of the proud & of the rich are to be eschewed. 15 The loue of God. 17 Loke doo company with thine like.

Ecclesiasticus. 13. LIE that toucheth pitch, shall be defiled with it: and hee that is familiar with the proud, shalbe like vnto him.

2 Burthen not thy selfe aboue thy power, whilest thou liuest, and company not with one that is mightier, and richer then thy selfe: for howe agree the kettle and the earthen pot together? for if the one be smitten against the other, it shalbe broken.

3 The rich dealeth vnrighteously, & threatneth withall: but the poore being oppressed must intreate: if the rich haue done wrong, hee must yet be intreated: but if the poore haue done it, hee shall straightwayes be threatned.

4 If thou be to his profite, he vseth thee: but if thou haue nothing, he will forsake thee.

5 If thou haue any thing, hee will liue with thee: yea, he will make thee a bare man, and will not care for it.

6 If hee haue needs of thee, hee will defraude thee, and will laugh at thee, and put thee in hope, and giue thee all good wordes, and say, What wantest thou?

7 Thus will he shame thee in his meate, vntil he hath sucked thee vp cleane twise or thrise, and at the last he will laugh thee to scorne: afterward when he seeth thee, he will forsake thee, and shake his head at thee.

8 [Submit thy selfe vnto God, and waite vpon his hand.]

9 Beware that thou be not deceiued in thine own conceit, and brought downe by thy simplenesse: [be not too humble in thy wisedome.]

10 ¶ If thou be called of a mightie man, absent thy selfe: so shall he call thee the more oft.

11 Presse not thou vnto him, that thou be not shut out, but go not thou farre off, lest he forget thee.

12 Withdraw not thy selfe from his speach, but beleeue not his many wordes: for with much communication will he tempt thee, and laughingly will he grope thee.

13 Hee is vnmercifull, and keepeth not promise: thee will not spare to doe thee hurt, and to put thee in prison.

14 Beware, and take good heede: for thou walkest in perill of thine ouerthrowing: when thou hearest this, awake in thy sleepe.

15 Loue the Lord all thy life, and call vpon him for thy saluation.

16 ¶ Euery beast loueth his like, and euery man loueth his neighbour.

17 All flesh will resort to their like, and euery man will keepe company with such as he is himselfe.

18 How can the wolfe agree with the lambe? no more can the vngodly with the righteous.

19 What fellowship hath [a hyena with a dog? and what peace is betweene the rich and the poore?

20 As the wilde asse is the Lions pray in the wildernesse, so are poore men the meate of the rich.

21 As the proude hate humility, so do the rich abhorre the poore.

22 If a rich man fall, his friends set him vp againe: but when the poore falleth, his friends driue him away.

23 If a rich man offend, hee hath many helpers: he speaketh proud wordes, and yet men iustifie him: but if a poore man fayle, they rebuke him, and though hee speake wisely, yet can it haue no place.

24 When the rich man speaketh, euery man holdeth his tongue: and looke what he saith, they praise it vnto the cloudes: but if the poore man speake, they say, What fellow is this? and if he doe stomble, they will destroy him.

25 Riches are good vnto him that hath no sinne [in his conscience,] and pouerty is euill in the mouth of the vngodly.

26 The heart of a man changeth his countenance, whether it be in good or euill.

27 A cheerefull countenance is a token of a good heart: for it is an hard thing to know the secrets of the thought.

CHAP XIIII.

1 The offence of the tongue. 17 Man is but a vaine thing. 22 Happy is he that continueth in wisedome.

BLessed is the man [that hath not fallen by (the word of) his mouth, and is not tormented with the sorrow of sinne.

2 Blessed is he that is not condemned in his conscience, and is not fallen from his hope in the Lord.

3 Riches are not comely for a nigarde, and what should an enuious man do with money?

4 He that gathereth together from his owne soule, heapeth together for others, that will make good cheere with his goods.

5 He that is wicked vnto himselfe, to whom will he be good? for such one can haue no pleasure of his goods.

6 There is nothing worse, then when one enuieth himselfe: and this is a reward of his wickednesse.

7 And if he doe any good, he doth it not knowing thereof, and against his will, and at the last he declareth his wickednesse.

8 The enuious man hath a wicked looke: he turneth away his face, and despiseth men.

9 A couetous mans eye hath neuer enough of a portion, and his wicked malice withereth his owne soule.

10 A wicked eye enuieth the bread, and there is scarcenesse vpon his table.

Prou. 23. 6.

11 My sonne, let nothing hinder thee to doe that good, and giue the Lord his due seruice.

12 Remember that death tarieth not, and that the * couenant of the graue is not shewed vnto thee.

13 *Do good vnto thy friend before thou die, and according to thine ability stretch out thine hand, and giue him.

14 Defraud not thy selfe of the good day, and let not the portion of the good desires ouerpasse thee.

15 Shalt thou not leaue thy trauailes vnto another, and thy labours for the diuiding of the heritage?

16 Giue and take, and sanctifie thy soule: [worke thou righteousnesse before thy death:] for in the graue there is no meate to finde.

17 ¶ *All flesh waxeth olde, as a garment, and this is the condition of all times, Thou shalt die the death.

18 As the greene leaues on a thicke tree, some fall, and some grow, so is the generation of flesh and blood: one commeth to an end, and another is borne.

19 All corruptible things shall faile, and the worker thereof shall goe withall.

20 [Euery excellent worke shall be iustified, and he that worketh it, shall haue honour thereby.]

21 *Blessed is the man that doeth meditate honest things by wisdome, [and exerciseth himselfe in iustice,] and hee that reasoneth of holy things by his vnderstanding.

22 Which considereth in his heart her wayes, and vnderstandeth her secrets.

23 Goe thou after her as one that seeketh her out, and lie in waite in her wayes.

24 He shall looke in at her windowes, and hearken at her doores.

25 He shall abide beside her house, and fasten a stake in her walles: hee shall pitch his tent besides her.

26 And hee shall remaine in the lodging of good men, and shall set his children vnder his couering, and shall dwell vnder her branches.

27 By her hee shall be couered from the heate, and in her glory shall he dwell.

7 But foolish men shall not come vnto her: [but such as haue vnderstanding will meete her:] the sinners shall not see her.

8 For shee is farre from pride [and deceit,] and men that lie, cannot remember her: [but men of truth shall haunt her, and shall prosper euen vnto the beholding of God.]

9 Praise is not seemely in the mouth of the sinner: for that is not sent of the Lord.

10 But if praise come of wisedome, [and be plenteous in a faithfull mouth] then the Lorde will prosper it.

11 Say not thou, It is through the Lord that I fall me backe: for thou oughtest not to doe the things that he hateth.

12 Say not thou, He hath caused mee to erre: for he hath no need of the sinfull man.

Psal 1.2.

Peter

3 As a pure virgine newly maried, doth friendly intreate her husband: so shall iustice pure and vndefiled gently entertaine her louer.

Iohn 4.10.

God is omnipresent. Creation of Man.

and pitying them, hasteneth them vnto him by turning.

11 Therefore if there be one stiffnecked among the people, it is conuenient he be punished: for mercy and wrath are with him: he is mighty to forgiue, and to powre out displeasure.

Chap. 5. 6. 12 * As his mercy is great, so is his punishment also: he iudgeth a man according to his works.

13 The vngodly shall not escape with his spoyle, and the patience of the godly shall not be despised.

14 He will giue place to all good deedes, and euery one shall finde according to his workes, [and after the vnderstanding of his pilgrimage.]

15 The Lord hardened Pharao, that he should not knowe him, and that his workes should bee knowen vpon the earth vnder the heauen.

16 His mercy is knowen to all creatures: he hath separate his light from the darkenesse with an aduisement.

17 Say not thou, I will hide my selfe from the Lord: for who will thinke vpon me from aboue? I shal not be knowen in so great an heape of people: for what is my soule among such an infinite number of creatures?

18 Beholde, the heauen, and the * heauen of heauens, which are for God, the depth, and the earth, and all that therein is, shall be mooued when he shall visite.

19 All the world which is created and made by his will, the mountaines also, and the foundations of the earth shall shake for feare, when the Lord looketh vpon them.

20 These things doeth no heart vnderstand worthily, but he vnderstandeth euery heart.

21 And who vnderstandeth his waies? and the storme that no man can see: for the most part of his works are hid.

22 Who can declare the workes of his righteousnesse? or who can abide them? for his abidance is far off, and the trying out of all things inclyeth.

23 He that is humble of heart, will consider these things: but an vnwise and erroneous man casteth his minde vpon foolish things.

24 My sonne, hearken vnto mee, and learne knowledge, and marke my wordes with thine heart.

25 I will declare thee weighty doctrine, and I will instruct thee exactly in knowledge.

26 The Lord hath set his works in good order from the beginning: and part of them hath hee vnderstood from the other when hee first made them.

27 Hee hath garnished his workes for euer, and their beginning to long as they shal endure, they are not hungry nor wearied in their labours, nor cease from their offices.

28 None of them hindereth another, neither was any of them disobedient vnto his word.

29 After this the Lord looked vpon the earth, and filled it with his good things.

30 With all manner of liuing beasts hath he couered the face thereof, and they returne into it again.

1 The creation of man, and the gift of knowledge: his abiding vnto death, and the restauration.

THe * Lord hath created man of the earth, and turned him vnto it againe. Gen. 1. 27. and 5. 2. wisd. 2. 23. and 7. 1. 6. 1. cor. 11. 7. col. 3. 10.

2 He gaue him the number of dayes and certaine times, and gaue him power of thinges that are vpon earth.

3 He clothed them with strength as they had needs, and made them according to his image.

4 Hee made all flesh to feare him, so that hee had the dominion ouer the beasts and fowles.

5 [* He created out of him an helper like vnto himselfe;] and gaue them discretion and tongue, and eyes, eares, and an heart to vnderstand, and finally hee gaue them a skilful and stedfast spirit: hee gaue them speach to declare his workes. Gen. 2. 22. 1. cor. 11. 9.

6 And he filled them with knowledge of vnderstanding, and shewed them good and euill.

7 He set his eye vpon their hearts, declaring vnto them his noble workes.

8 And gaue them occasion to reioyce perpetually in his miracles, that they should prudently declare his works, & that the elect should praise his holy name together.

9 Beside this, hee gaue them knowledge, and gaue them the Law of life for an heritage, that they might now knowe that they were mortall. a Through their owne transgression.

10 Hee made an euerlasting couenant with them, and shewed them his iudgements.

11 Their eyes saw the maiestie of his glory, and their eares heard his glorious voyce.

12 And he said vnto them, Beware of all vnrighteous things. * Hee gaue euery man charge of his neighbour. Exod. 20. 16, 17. and 21. 23.

13 Their wayes are euer before him, and are not hid from his eyes.

14 Euery man from his youth is giuen to euill, and their flesh hearts cannot become liuely. b That is, soft & gentle, for the holy Ghost to write his lawes in. Deut. 4. 20. and 10. 15.

15 Hee appointed a ruler vpon euery people, and kept all the nations of the whole earth.

16 * And he did chuse Israel, as a peculiar people to himselfe, whom hee nourished with discipline as his first borne, and giueth him most louing light, and doth not forsake him.

17 All their workes are as the Sunne before him, and his eyes are continually vpon their wayes.

18 None of their vnrighteousnesse is hidden from him, but all their sinnes are before the Lord.

19 And as hee is mercifull, and knoweth his worke, he doth not leaue them nor forsake them, but spareth them.

20 * The almes of a man is as a thing sealed vp before him, and he keepeth the good deedes of men as the apple of the eye, and giueth repentance to their sonnes and daughters. Almes Chap. 29. 13. & penitence.

21 * At the last shall hee arise, and reward them, and shall repay their reward vpon their head. Mat. 25. 35.

22 * But vnto them that will repent, hee giueth place to returne, and exhorteth such Acts 3. 19.

such as faile, with patience, [and tendreth them the petition of the needie.]

Jer.3.12. 22 Returne thou vnto the Lord, and forsake thy sinnes: make thy prayer before his face, and take away the offence.

24 Turne againe vnto the most High: for he will bring thee from darkenesse vnto wholesome light: hate the thing vnrighteousnesse, and hate greatly all abomination.

25 [Who can tell the righteousnes and iudgements of God? stand in the petition that is set forth thee, and in the prayer of the most hie God, and goe in the paths of the holy world with such as be living and confesse God:]

Psal.6.5. 26 [Who can praise thee out of high in the hell, Isai.38.18, as doe all that line and confesse him?

19. 27 [Abide not thou in the sinnes of the vngodly, but praise the Lord before death.]

28 Thankefulnesse perisheth from the dead, as though he were not: but the liuing, and he that is sound of heart prayseth the Lord. [and reioyceth in his mercy.]

29 How great is the louing kindnesse of the Lord our God, and his compassion vnto such as turne vnto him in holinesse!

30 For all things cannot be in man, because the sonne of man is not immortall. [and they take pleasure in the vanitie of wickednesse.]

31 What is more cleare then the Sunne? yet shall it faile.

32 So flesh and blood that thinketh euil, shall be espyed.

33 The eye seeth the power of the high heauen, and all men are but earth and ashes.

CHAP. XVIII.

The vnspeakeable workes of God. 6, 7. The misery and wretchednesse of man. 9 Against God we ought not to complaine. 22 The performing of vowes.

HE that liueth for euer, * made all things together: the Lord who onely is iust, and there is none other but he. [and he remaineth a victorious king for euer.] Gen.1,1.

2 He ouerseeth the world with the power of his hand, and all things obey his will: for he gouerneth all things by his power. and diuideth the holy things from the prophane.

3 To whom hath he giuen power to expresse his workes? who will seeke out the ground of his noble acres?

4 Who shall declare the ruines of his greatnesse? or who will take vpon him to tell out his mercy?

5 As for the wonderous workes of the Lord, there may nothing be taken from them, neither can any thing bee put vnto them, neither may the ground of them bee found out.

6 But when a man hath done his best, he must begin againe, and when he thinketh to come to an ende, he must goe againe to his labour.

7 [What is man? whereto serueth he? what good or euill can he doe?

Psal.90.10. 8 If the number of a mans dayes bee an hundreth yeeres, it is much: and no man hath certaine knowledge of his death.

9 The drops of raine are vnto the sea, and great gravell stones [so] many as these [are] in the [world,] so are a thousand yeeres in the sight of the euerlasting. 2.Pet.3.8.

10 Therefore is [God] patient with them, and powreth out his mercy vpon them.

11 He saw and perceiued, that [the arrogancie of their heart, and their ruine was] euill: therefore hee made his pitie more plenteous vnto them, and shewed them the way of righteousnesse.]

12 The mercy that a man hath, reacheth to his neighbour: but the mercy of the Lord is vpon all flesh: he chasteneth, and nurtureth, and teacheth, and bringeth backe, as a shepheard his flocke.

13 He hath mercy on them that receiue discipline, and that diligently seeke after his iudgements.

14 [My sonne, when thou doest good, reproue not: and whatsoeuer thou giuest, vse no discomfortable words.

15 Shall not the deaw asswage the heate? so is a word better then a gift.

16 Lo, is not a word better then a good gift? but a gracious man giueth them both.

17 A foole will reuyle churlishly, and a gift of the enuious putteth out the eyes.

18 [Get thee righteousnesse before thou come to iudgement:] learne before thou speake, and vse physicke or euer thou be sicke.

19 [Examine thy selfe before thou be iudged, 1.Cor.11.31 and in the day of the visitation thou shalt finde mercy.

20 Humble thy selfe before thou be sicke, and whiles thou mayest yet sinne, shew thy conuersion.

21 Let nothing let thee to pay thy vowe in time, and deferre not vnto death to bee reconciled: [for the wrathe of God endureth for euer.]

22 Before thou prayest, prepare thy selfe, and be not as one that tempteth the Lord.

23 Thinke vpon the * wrath that shall be at the ende, and the houre of vengeance, when he shall turne away his face. Chap.7.17, 36.

24 * When thou hast enough, remember the time of hunger: and when thou art rich, thinke vpon pouerty and needs. Chap.11.25.

25 From the morning vntill the euening, the time is changed: and all such things are soone done before the Lord.

26 A wise man feareth in all things, and in the dayes of transgression hee keepeth himselfe from sinne: but the foole doeth not obserue the time.

27 Euery wise man knoweth wisedome, and knowledge, and prayseth him that findeth her.

28 They that haue vnderstanding, deale wisely in words: [they vnderstand the truth and righteousnesse,] and powre out wise and sufficient graue sentences for mans life.

29 The chiefe authoritie of speaking is of the Lord alone: for a mortall man hath but a dead heart.

30 [* Follow not thy lustes, but turne thee Rom.6. from thine owne appetites. and 13.14.

31 For if thou giuest thy soule her desires, it shall make thine enemies that enuie thee, to laugh thee to scorne.

32 Take not thy pleasure in great voluptuousnesse, sudden, and brought upon the wife with such calamity.

33 Become not a beggar by making banquets of that that thou hast borrowed, and so leave nothing in thy purse: else shalt thou be accounted ready lie in wait for thine owne life.

CHAP. XIX.

1 Who and wherefore being wise to purpose. 6 In thy words use discretion. 22 The difference of the wisedome of God and man. 27 Whereby thou mayst know what is in man.

A labouring man that is given to drunkenness, shall not be rich: and he that contemneth small things, shall fall by little and little.

2 Wine and women leade wise men out of the way, and put men of understanding to reproofe.

3 And he that companieth adulterers, shall become impudent: rottenness and wormes shall have him to heritage, and her that is too bold, shall be taken away, and be made a publike example.

4 He that is hastie to give credite, is light minded, and he that erreth, sinneth against his owne soule.

5 Who so rejoyceth in wickednesse, shall be punished: the that hateth to be reproved, shall be shortened, and he that abhorreth babbling, eschueth wickednesse.

6 He that refraineth his tongue, may live with a troublesome man, and he that hateth babbling, shall have lesse evill.

7 Rehearse not to another that which is told unto thee: so shalt thou not be vnhappy.

8 Declare not other mens manners, neither to friend nor foe: and if the same appertaine not unto thee, reveale it not.

9 For he will hearken unto thee, and marke thee, and when he findeth opportunity, he will hate thee.

10 If thou hast heard a word against thy neighbour, let it die with thee, and be sure, it will not burst thee.

11 A fool trauaileth when he hath heard a thing, as a woman that is about to bring forth a childe.

12 As an arrow that sticketh in ones thigh, so is a word in a fooles heart.

13 Reprooue a friend, lest he doe evill, and if he haue done it, that he doe it no more.

14 Reprooue a friend, that he may keepe his tongue: and if he have spoken, that he say it no more.

15 Tell thy friend his fault: for oft times a slander is raised, and give no credence to every word.

16 A man sinneth with his tongue, but not with his will: and who is he, that hath not offended in his tongue?

17 Reprooue thy neighbour before thou threaten him, and being without anger, give place unto the Law of the most High.

18 The feare of the Lord is the first degree to receive her, and wait upon her is the first degree to love her.

19 The knowledge of the commandements of the Lord is the doctrine of life, and they that doe that which pleaseth him, receive the fruit of immortality.

20 The feare of the Lord is all wisedome, and the performing of the Law is perfect wisedome, and the knowledge of his almightie power.

21 If a seruant say unto his master, I will not doe as it pleaseth thee: though afterward he doe it, he shall provoke him that nourished him unto sinne.

22 The knowledge of lewdnesse is not honest: neither is it at all commendable where may be counsell of shame: but it is vtterly execrable and it is the fooles to want of wisedome.

23 Yea that hath small understanding, and feareth God, is better then one that hath much knowledge, and transgresseth the Lawes of the most High.

24 There is a craftie subtiltie, and it is iust, but it is verie frowarde: and there is that maketh the open and manifest law: yet there is that is wilie, and iudgeth rigteously.

25 There is some, that being about wicked purposes, doe bow downe themselues, and are sad, whose inward parts within altogether with deceit: he hideth downe with his face, and cloaketh himselfe deafe: yet before thou perceiue, hee will be vpon thee to hurt thee.

26 And though he be to weake, that he can do thee no harme, yet when he may find opportunitie, he will doe evill.

27 A man may be knowen by his looke, and one that hath vnderstanding, may be perceiued by the viewing of his countenance.

28 A mans garment, & his excellive laughter, and going, declare what person he is.

CHAP. XX.

1 Of correction and repentance. 6 To speake and keepe silence in time. 17 The fall of the wicked. 23 Of lying. 24 The theefe and the manhereer. 28 Gifts blinde the eyes of the wise.

There is some rebuke that is not comely: again, some man holdeth his tongue, and he is wise.

2 It is much better to reprooue, then to beare euill will, and he that acknowledgeth his fault, shalbe preserued from hurt.

3 As when a grieued man & vnruly wil would beare a maydē, so he that vseth violence in iudgements.

4 How good a thing is it, when thou art reprooued, to shew repentance: for so shalt thou escape wilfull sinne.

5 Some man keepeth silence, and is found wise: and some by much babbling is examined hatefull.

6 Some man holdeth his tongue, because he hath not to answere: another keepeth silence, knowing a conuenient time.

7 A wise man will hold his tongue till he see opportunitie: but a trifler and a foole will regard no time.

8 He that vseth many words, shall be abhorred, and he that taketh authoritie to himselfe, shall be hated.

9 Some man hath oft times prosperitie in wicked things: and I sometime a thing that is found, profiteth lasse.

10 There is some gift that is not profitable for thee, and there is some gift whose reward is double.

11 Some

22 Some man humbleth himself for shame, and will in deceitfulness throw down his head.

23 Some man pretendeth much for a little gaine, for the which he payeth seven times more.

Chap. 6.5

24 A wise man with words maketh himselfe to be loved: but the desires of fooles shall be powred out.

25 The gift of an unthankful fool shall do thee no good, neither yet of one that is unmerciful: for he looketh to receive many things for one: he craveth little, and is unkindly much: he poureth out his mouth like a crier: to day he lendeth, to morrow he will be sought, and such one is to be hated of God and man.

26 The foole saith, I have no friends: I have no thanke for all my good deedes: and they that eat my bread, speake evill of me.

27 How oft, and of how many shall he be laughed to scorne? for he comprehendeth not by right iudgement that which he hath: and is all one as if he had it not.

28 The fall of a wicked man is very sudden: so shall the fall of the wicked come suddenly.

29 A man without grace is as a speech out of season which is oft told by the mouth of the ignorant.

30 A wise sentence taketh grace when it commeth out of a fooles mouth: for he speaketh not in due season.

31 Some man sinneth not because of poverty, and yet is not grieved when he is alone.

32 Some man there is that destroyeth his owne soule, because he is ashamed, and for the regard of persons loseth it.

33 Some man promiseth unto his friend for shame, and getteth an enemie of him for nought.

Chap. 25.2

34 * A lie is a wicked shame in a man: yet is it oft in the mouth of the prudent.

35 A theefe is better then a man that is accustomed to lie: but they both shall have destruction to heritage.

36 The conditions of liars are unhonest, and their shame is ever with them.

37 A wise man shall bring himselfe to honour with his words, and he that hath understanding, shall please great men.

Prov. 13.18 and 28.19

38 * He that tilleth his land, shall increase his heape: and he that worketh righteousnesse, shall be exalted, and hee that pleaseth great men, shall have pardon of his iniquitie.

Exod. 23.8 Deut. 16.19

39 Rewards and gifts blinde the eyes of the wise, and make them blinde, that they cannot reprove faults.

40 Hidde wisedome that is not, and treasure that is hoarded up, what profite is in them both?

41 Better is he that keepeth his ignorance secret, then a man that hideth his wisedome.

42 The necessary patience of him that followeth the Lord, is better, then he that governeth his life without the Law.

CHAP. XXI.

1 Not to continue in sinne. 5 The prayer of the afflicted. 6 To hate to be reproved. 13 The mouth of the wise man. 26 The thoughts of the foole.

Chap 5.5 Psal. 51.4 Luke 15.21

MY sonne, hast thou sinned? doe so no more, but pray for the time past, that thou may be forgiven them.

2 Flee from sinne as from a serpent: for if thou commest too neere it, it will bite thee: the teeth thereof are as the teeth of a lion, to slay the soules of men.

3 All iniquitie is as a two edged sword, the wounds whereof cannot be healed.

4 Strife and injuries waste riches: so the house of the proude shall be made

5 * The prayer of the poore going out of the mouth, commeth unto the eares of the Lorde, and iudgement commeth speedily unto him.

Exod. 3.9. and 22.23. Deut. 24.15

6 Who so hateth to be reproved, is in the way of sinners: but he that feareth the Lord, converteth in heart.

7 An eloquent talker is known afarre off: but he that is wise, perceiveth when he falleth.

8 He that buildeth his house with other mens money, is like one that gathereth stones to make his grave.

9 * The congregation of the wicked is like flaxe wrapped together: their end is a flame of fire to destroy them.

Chap. 16.6.

10 The way of sinners is made plaine with stones, but at the end there of is hell, (darknesse and paines.)

11 He that keepeth the Law of the Lord, ruleth his own affections therein: and the increase of wisedome is the end of the feare of God.

|| Or, keepeth the understanding thereof.

12 He that is not wise, will not suffer himself to be taught: but there is sometime that increaseth bitternesse.

13 The knowledge of the wise shall abound like water: their counsell is like a pure fountaine of life.

14 * The inner parts of a foole are like a broken vessell: he can keepe no knowledge within his heart.

Chap. 33.5.

15 When a man of understanding heareth a wise word, he will commend it, and encrease it: but if an unpregnant man heare it, he will displease it, and cast it behinde his backe.

16 The talking of a foole is like a burden in the way: but there is comelinesse in the talke of a wise man.

17 They inquire at the mouth of the wise man in the congregation, and they shall ponder his words in their heart.

18 As is a house that is destroyed, so is wisedome unto a foole, and the knowledge of the unwise is as words without order.

19 Doctrine unto fooles is as fetters on the feete, and like manicles upon the right hand.

20 A foole lifteth up his voyce with laughter, but a wise man doubteth scarce smile secretly.

Chap. 19. 27, 28.

21 Learning is unto a wise man a jewell of gold, and like a bracelet upon his right arme.

22 A foolish mans foot is soone in his [neighbours] house: but a man of experience is ashamed to looke in.

23 A foole will peepe in at the doore into the house: but he that is well brought up, will stand without.

24 It is the point of a foolish man to hearken at the doore: for he that is wise, will be grieved with such dishonour.

25 The lippes of talkers will be telling such things as pertaine not unto them, but the words of such as have understanding, are weighed in the ballance.

26 The heart of fooles is in their mouth: but the mouth of the wise is in their heart.

27 When

27 When the vngodly curseth Satan, he curseth his owne soule.

Chap. 28. 13. 28 * A backbiter defileth his owne soule, and is hated where soeuer he is: [but he that keepeth his tongue, & is discreete, shall come to honour.]

CHAP. XXII.

1 Of the sluggard. 12 Not to speake much to a foole. 16 A good conscience feareth not.

A Slouthfull man is like a filthy stone, which euery man mocketh at for his shame.

2 A slouthfull man is to be compared to the [a] dung of oxen, and euery one that taketh it vp, will shake it out of his hand.

3 An euill nurtured sonne is the dishonor of the father: and the daughter is least to be esteemed.

4 A wise daughter is an heritage vnto her husband: but shee that liueth dishonestly, is her fathers heauinesse.

5 Sheer that is bold, dishonoureth both her father and her husband, [and is not inferiour to the vngodly,] but they both shall despise her.

6 A tale out of time is as musicke in mourning: but wisedome knoweth the seasons of correction and doctrine.

7 Who so teacheth a foole, is as one that gleweth a potsheard together, and as hee that waketh one that sleepeth from a sound sleepe.

8 If children liue honestly, and haue wherewith, they shall put away the shame of their parents.

9 But if children be proude, with hautinesse and foolishnesse they defile the nobilitie of their kinred.

10 Who so telleth a foole of wisedome, is as a man which speaketh to one that is asleepe: when he hath told his tale, he saith, What is the matter?

Chap. 38. 16. 11 * Weepe for the dead, for hee hath lost the light: so weepe for the foole, for he wanteth vnderstanding: make small weeping for the dead, for hee is at rest: but the life of a foole is worse then the death.

12 Seuen dayes do men mourne for him that is dead: but the lamentation for the foole and vngodly [should endure] all the dayes of their life.

Chap. 12. 12. 13 Talke not much with a foole, and goe not to him that hath no vnderstanding, * beware of him least it turne thee to paine, and lest thou be defiled when he shaketh himselfe. Depart from him, and thou shalt finde rest, and shalt not receiue sorrow for his foolishnesse.

14 What is heauier then lead? and what other name should a foole haue?

Prou. 27. 3. 15 * Sand and salt, and a lumpe of yron is easier to beare, then an vnwise, [foolish & vngodly man.]

16 As a frame of wood ioyned together in a building cannot bee loosed with shaking, so the heart that is stablished by aduised counsell, shall feare at no time.

17 The heart that is confirmed by discreete wisedome, is as a faire plaistering on a plaine wall.

18 As reedes that are set vp on high, cannot abide the wind, so the fearefull heart with foolish imagination can endure no feare.

19 Hee that hurteth the eye bringeth forth teares, and he that hurteth the heart, bringeth forth the affection.

20 Who so casteth a stone at the birds, frayeth them away: and hee that vpbraideth his friend, breaketh friendship.

21 Though thou drewest a sworde at thy friend, yet despaire not: for there may be a returning to fauour.

22 If thou haue opened thy mouth against thy friend, feare not: for there may bee a reconciliation, so that vpbraiding, or pride, or disclosing of secrets, or a traiterous wound doe not let: for by these things euery friend will depart.

23 Be faithfull vnto thy friend in his pouertie, that thou mayest reioyce in his prosperitie. Abide stedfast vnto him in the time of his trouble, that thou mayest bee heire with him in his heritage: for pouertie is not alwayes to be contemned, nor the rich that is foolish, to bee had in admiration.

24 As the vapour and smoke of the chimney goeth before the fire, so euill words [rebukes and threatnings] goe before blood shedding.

25 I will not be ashamed to defend a friend: neither will I hide my selfe from him, though he should do me harme wholsoeuer heareth it, shall beware of him.

26 Who shall set * a watch before my mouth, and a seale of wisedome vpon my lips, that I fall not suddenly by them, and that my tongue destroy me not. Psal. 141. 3.

CHAP. XXIII.

1 A prayer of the author. 13 Of vices, blasphemie and vnwise communication. 16 Of three kindes of sinnes. 23 Many sinnes procede of adultery. 27 Of the feare of God.

O Lord, father and gouernour of all my whole life, leaue me not to their counsell, and let mee not fall by [‖] them.

‖ Or, my lips.

2 Who will correct my thought, and put the doctrine of wisedome in mine heart, that they may not spare me in mine ignorance, neither let [‖] their faults passe?

‖ That is, of the tongue and lips.

3 Least mine ignorances increase, and my sinnes abound to my destruction, and least I fall before mine aduersarie, and mine enemies reioyce ouer mee, whole hope is farre from thy mercy.

4 O Lord, father and God of my life, [leaue me not in their imagination] neither giue mee a proud looke, but turne away from thy seruants a stout mind.

5 Take from me vaine hope, and concupiscence, and retaine him in obedience, that desireth continually to serue thee.

6 Let not the greedinesse of the belly, nor lust of the flesh hold me, and giue not me thy seruant ouer into an impudent mind.

7 ¶ Heare, O yee children, the instruction of a mouth that shall speake trueth: who so keepeth it, shall not perish through his lips, [nor be hurt by wicked workes.]

8 The sinner shall be taken by his owne lips: for the euill speaker and the proud doe offend by them.

9 * Accustome not thy mouth to swearing: [for in it there are many falles,] neither take vp for a custome the naming of the Holy one.

one: [for thou shalt not be vnpunished for such things.]

10 For as a seruant which is oft punished, cannot be without some skarre, so he that sweareth, and nameth God continually, shall not bee faultlesse.

11 A man that vseth much swearing, shall bee filled with wickednes, and the plague shal neuer goe from his house: when he shall offend, his fault shall be vpon him, and if he knowledge not his sinne, he maketh a double offence: and if hee sweare in vaine, he shall not be innocent, but his house shall be full of plagues.

12 There is a worde which is clothed with death: God grant that it be not found in the heritage of Jacob: but they that feare God, eschew all such, and are not wrapped in sinne.

‖Or, inordinate swearing.

13 Vse not thy mouth to ‖ ignorant rashnesse: for therein is the occasion of sinne.

14 ¶ Remember thy father and thy mother when thou art set among great men, least thou bee forgotten in their sight, and so through thy custome become a foole, and wish that thou hadst not beene borne, and curse the day of thy nativitie.

Three kinds of Sins

16 There be two sortes [of men] that abound in sinne, and the third bringeth wrath [and destruction:] a minde hote as fire that cannot be quenched, til it be consumed: an adulterous man that giueth his bodie no rest, till he haue kindled a fire.

17 (All bread is sweete to a whoremonger: he will not leaue off till he perish)

18 A man that breaketh wedlocke, and thinketh thus in his heart, *Who seeth mee? I am compassed about with darknesse: the walles couer me: no bodie seeth mee: whom needs I to feare? the most High will not remember my sinnes.

Isa. 29. 15.

19 Such a man only feareth the eyes of men, and knoweth not that the eyes of the Lorde are ten thousand times brighter then the sunne, beholding all the waies of men, [and the ground of the deepe,] and considereth the most secrete parts.

22 And thus shall it goe also with euery wife that leaueth her husband, and getteth inheritance by another.

Exod. 20, 14

23 *For first thee hath disobeyed the Law of the most High, and secondly thee hath trespassed against her owne husband, and thirdly she hath played the whore in adultery, and gotten her children by another man.

24 She shal be brought out into the Congregation, and examination shall bee made of her children.

25 Her children shall not take roote, and her branches shall bring forth no fruit.

26 A shamefull report shall shee leaue, and her reproch shall not be put out.

27 And they that remaine, shall knowe that there is nothing better then y feare of the Lord, and that there is nothing sweeter then to take heede vnto the commandements of the Lord.

28 It is great glory to follow the Lord, and to be receiued of him is long life.

10 In all these things I sought rest, and a dwelling in some inheritance.

11 So the creatour of all things gaue mee a commandement, and he that made me appointed me a tabernacle, and sayd, Let thy dwelling bee in Jacob, and take thine inheritance in Israel, and roote thy selfe among my chosen.

CHAP. XXV.

1 Of three things which please God, and of three which he hateth. 7 Of nine things that bee not to bee suspected. 14 Of the malice of a woman.

THree things reioyce mee, and by them am I beautified before God and men: *the vnity of brethren, the loue of neighbours, a man and wife that agree together.

Gen 13.2,5. rom. 12.18.

2 Three sorts of men my soule hateth, and I vtterly abhorre the life of them: a poore man that is proud, a rich man that is a lyar, and an olde adulterer that doteth.

3 If thou hast gathered no thing in thy youth, what canst thou finde in thine age?

4 O how pleasant a thing is it when gray headed men minister iudgement, and when the Elders can giue good counsell!

5 Oh, how comely a thing is wisedome vnto aged men, and vnderstanding and prudence to men of honour!

6 The crowne of olde men, is to haue much experience, and the feare of God is their glory.

7 There be nine things, which I haue iudged in mine heart to be happy, and the tenth will I pronounce with my tongue: a man that reioyceth with his children, and liueth to see the fall of his enemies.

8 Well is him that dwelleth with a wife of vnderstanding, *and that hath not fallen with his tongue, and that hath not serued such as are vnworthy of him.

Chap. 14.2. and 19.16. iames. 3.2.

9 Well is him that findeth prudencie, and he that speaketh in the eares of them that will heare.

10 O how great is he that findeth wisedome! yet is there none aboue him that feareth the Lord.

11 The feare of the Lord passeth all things in clearenesse.

12 [Blessed is the man vnto whom it is granted to haue the feare of God.] Vnto whom shall he be likened that hath attained it?

13 The feare of the Lord is the beginning of his loue, and faith is the beginning to be ioyned vnto him.

14 [The greatest beautie is the beautie of the heart, and the greatest malice is the malice of a woman.]

15 Giue me any plague, saue onely the plague of the heart, and any malice, saue the malice of a woman:

16 Or any affliction, saue the affliction of them that hate, or any vengeance, saue the vengeance of the enemie.

17 There is not a more wicked head then the head of the serpent, and there is no wrath aboue the wrath of an enemy.

18 *I had rather dwell with a lion and dragon then to keepe house with a wicked wife.

Or, woman. Prou. 21.19

19 The wickednesse of a woman changeth her face, and maketh her countenance blacke as a sacke.

Or, a beare.

20 Her husband is sitting among his neighbours: because of her hee sigheth sore or hee beware.

21 All wickednesse is but little to the wickednesse of a woman: let the portion of the sinner fall vpon her.

22 An the climing vp of a sandy way is to the feete of the aged, so is a wife full of words to a quiet man.

23 *Stumble not at the beauty of a woman, and desire her not for thy pleasure.

Chap. 24. 12. 2 Sam. 11.2. and 13.2.

24 If a woman nourish her husband, shee is angry and impudent, and full of reproch.

25 A wicked wife maketh a sory heart, an heauie

uie countenance, and a wounded minde, weake hands and feeble knees, and cannot comfort her husband in heauinesse.

Genes. 3.6. 1 Tim. 2.14. 26 Of the * woman came the beginning of sinne, and through her we all die.

27 Giue the water no passage, [no not a little,] neither giue a wicked woman libertie to goe out.

28 If shee walke not in thine obedience, [shee shall confound thee in the sight of thine enemies.] a To wit, the bill of diuorcement. Cut her off then from thy flesh: * Giue her, and forsake her.

CHAP. XXVI.

1 The praise of a good woman. 5 Of the feare of three things, and of the fourth. 6 Of the iealous and drunken woman. 29 Of two things that cause sorrow, and of the third which moueth wrath.

BLessed is the man that hath a vertuous wife: for the number of his yeeres shall be double.

2 An honest woman reioyceth her husband, and she shall fill the yeeres of his life with peace.

3 A vertuous woman is a good portion, which shall be giuen for a gift vnto such as feare the Lord.

4 Whether a man be rich or poore, he hath a good heart toward the Lord, and they shall at all times haue a cheerefull countenance.

Feare of three things. 5 ¶ There bee three things that mine heart feareth, and my face is afraid of the fourth: treason in a city, the assembly of the people, and false accusation: all these are heauier then death.

6 ¶ But the sorow and griefe of the heart is a woman that is iealous ouer an other: and shee that commeth with all, is a scourge of the tongue.

7 An euill wife is as a yoke of oxen that draw diuers wayes: hee that hath her, is as though he held a scorpion.

8 A drunken woman, and such as cannot be tamed, is a great plague: for shee cannot couer her owne shame.

9 The whoredome of a woman may be knowen in the pride of her eyes, and eye lids.

Chap. 42.11 10 ¶ * If thy daughter be not shamefast, hold her straitly, least she abuse her selfe through ouermuch liberty.

11 Take heede of her that hath an vnshamefast eye: and maruele not if she trespasse against thee.

12 As one that goeth by the way, and is thirsty, so shall she open her mouth, & drinke of euery next water: by euery hedge shall shee sit downe, and open her quiuer against euery arrow.

13 The grace of a wife reioyceth her husband, and feedeth his bones with her vnderstanding.

14 A peaceable woman, and of a good heart, is a gift of the Lord, & there is nothing so much worth as a woman well instructed.

15 A shamefast and faithfull woman is a double grace, and there is no waight to bee compared vnto her continent minde.

16 As the sunne when it ariseth in the high places of the Lord, so is the beauty of a good wife the ornament of her house.

17 As the cleere light is vpon the holy candlesticke, so is the beautie of the face in a ripe age.

18 As the golden pillars are vpon the sockets of siluer: so are faire feete with a constant minde.

19 [Perpetuall are the foundations that bee layde vpon a strong rocke: so are the commaundements of GOD in the heart of an holy woman.]

20 My sonne, keepe the strength of thine age stable, and giue not thy strength to strangers.

21 When thou hast gotten a fruitfull possession thorow all the fields, sowe it with thine owne seed, trusting in thy nobility.

22 So thy stocke that shal liue after thee, shal growe, trusting in the great liberality of their nobilitie.

23 An harlot is compared to a sowe: but the wife that is married, is counted as a tower against death to her husband.

24 A wicked woman is giuen as a reward to a wicked man: but a godly woman is giuen to him that feareth the Lord.

25 A shamelesse woman contemneth shame: but a shamefast woman will reuerence her husband.

26 A shamelesse woman is compared to a dogge: but she that is shamefast, reuerenceth the Lord.

27 A woman that honoureth her husband, shall be iudged wise of all: but she that despiseth him, shalbe blazed for her pride.

28 A loud crying woman & a babbler, let her bee sought out to driue away the enemies: the mind of euery man that lieth with such, shall be conuersant among the troubles of warre.

29 There bee two things that grieue mine heart, and the third maketh me angry: a man of warre that suffereth pouerty: and men of vnderstanding that are not set by: and when one departeth from righteousnesse vnto sinne: the Lord appointeth such to the sword.

30 [There be two things which me thinkes to bee hard and perillous,] a marchant cannot lightly keepe him from wrong, and a victailer is not without sinne.

9 The birds resort vnto their like: so doeth the truetly turne vnto them that are practised in her.

10 As the lion waiteth for the beast, so doeth sinne vpon them that doe euill.

17 Loue thy friend, and be faithfull vnto him: but if thou bewrayest his secrets, thou shalt not get him againe.

21 As for wounds, they may bee bound vp againe: and an euill word may be reconciled: but who so bewrayeth the secrets of a friend, hath lost all his credit.

22 * Hee that winketh with the eyes, imagineth euill: and he that knoweth him, will let him alone.

23 When thou art present, he will speake sweetly, and praise thy words: but at the last hee will turne his talke, and slander thy saying.

24 Many things haue I hated, but nothing so euill as such one: for the Lord also hateth him.

25 Who so casteth a stone on high, casteth it vpon his owne head: and hee that smiteth with guile, maketh a great wound.

26 Who so * diggeth a pit, shall fall therein, [and hee that layeth a stone in his neighbours way, shall stumble thereon,] and hee that layeth a snare for another, shalbe taken in it himselfe.

27 He that worketh euill, shall be wrapped in euill, and shall not know from whence they come vnto him.

28 Mockerie and reproch follow the proud, and vengeance lurketh for them as a lion.

21 A wicked man tranſgreſſing the commandements of the Lord, ſhal fal into ſuretiſhip: and he that medleth much with other mens buſines, is intangled in controuerſies.

22 ¶ Helpe thy neighbour according to thy power, and beware that thou thy ſelfe fall not.

23 * The chiefe thing of life is water, and bread, and clothing, and lodging to couer thy ſhame. Chap. 36.26

24 † The poore mans life in his owne lodge, is better then delicate fare in another mans. †Sober liuing.

25 Be it little or much, holde thee contented, that the houſe ſpeake not euill of thee.

26 For it is a miſerable life to goe from houſe to houſe: for where thou art a ſtranger, thou dareſt not open thy mouth.

27 Thou ſhalt lodge and feed vnthankefull men, and after ſhalt haue bitter words for the ſame, ſaying, 28 Come, thou ſtranger, and prepare the table, and feed me of that thou haſt ready.

29 Giue place, thou ſtranger, to an honourable man: my brother commeth to be lodged, and I haue need of mine houſe.

30 Theſe things are heauy to a man that hath vnderſtanding, the vpbraiding of the houſe, and the reproch of the lender.

CHAP. XXX.

1 Of the correction of children. 14 Of the commoditie of health. 17 Death is better then a ſorowfull life. 22 Of the ioy and ſorow of the heart.

HE that loueth his ſonne, *cauſeth him oft to feele the rod, that he may haue ioy of him in the end. Prou. 13.24. and 23.13.

2 Hee that chaſtiſeth his ſonne, ſhall haue ioy in him, and ſhal reioyce of him among his acquaintance.

3 Hee that *teacheth his ſonne, grieueth the enemie, and before his friends he ſhall reioyce of him. Deu 6.7.

4 Though his father die, yet is he as though he were not dead: for he hath left one behind him that is like him.

5 In his life he ſaw him, and had ioy in him, and was not ſory in his death, [neither was hee ſhamed before his enemies.]

6 He left behind him an auenger againſt his enemies, and one that ſhould ſhew fauour vnto his friends.

7 He that flattereth his ſonne, bindeth vp his wounds, and his heart is grieued at euery cry.

8 An vntamed horſe will be ſtubburne, and a wanton childe will be wilfull.

9 If thou bring vp thy ſonne delicately, hee ſhall make thee afraide: and if thou play with him, he ſhall bring thee to heauineſſe.

10 Laugh not with him, leaſt thou bee ſory with him, and leaſt thou gnaſh thy teeth in the end.

11 *Giue him no libertie in his youth, and winke not at his follie. Chap. 7.23.

12 Bow

12 Bowe downe his necke while he is yong and beate him on the sides whiles hee is a child, lest he ware stubborne, and be disobedient vnto thee, and so bring sorrow to thine heart.

13 Chastise thy childe, and be diligent therein, least his shame grieue thee.

† The praise of health.

14 ¶ † Better is the poore being whole and strong, then a rich man that is afflicted in his body.

15 Health and strength is aboue all gold, and a whole body aboue infinite treasure.

16 There is no riches aboue a sound body, and no ioy aboue the ioy of the heart.

17 Death is better then a bitter life, [& long rest] then continuall sickenesse.

a Like as meate that is set vpon the graues of dead men is vnprofitable for that they eat it not: euen so knowledge in him that openeth not his mouth to vtter it, is vnprofitable, Chap. 41. 14. Chap. 20. 3. Prou. 12. 25. and 15. 13. and 17. 22.

18 a The good things that are powred on a mouth shut vp, are as measles of meate set vpon a graue.

19 What good doeth the offering vnto an idole? for he can neither eate, nor smell: so is hee that is persecuted of the Lord, [and beareth the reward of iniquity.]

20 Hee seeth with his eyes, and groneth like a gelded man, that lieth with a virgine and sighеth.

21 * Giue not ouer thy minde to heauinesse, and vexe not thy selfe in thine owne counsell.

22 The ioy of the heart is the life of man, and a mans gladnesse is the prolonging of his dayes.

23 Loue thine owne soule, and comfort thine heart: driue sorrowe farre from thee: for sorrowe hath slaine many, and there is no profite therein.

24 Enuy and wrath shorten the life, and carefulnesse bringeth age before the time.

25 A noble and good heart will haue consideration of his meate and diet.

CHAP. XXXI.

1 Of couetousnes. 2 Of them that take paine to gather riches. 8 The praise of a rich man without a fault. 13 We ought to flee drunkennesse and follow sobernesse.

† Couetousnesse, 1. Tim. 6. 9, 10.

WAking † after * riches, pineth away the body, and the care thereof driueth away sleepe.

2 This waking care breaketh the sleepe, as a great sickenesse breaketh the sleepe.

3 The rich hath great labour in gathering riches together, and in his rest hee is filled with pleasures.

4 The poore laboureth in liuing poorely, and when he leaueth off, he is still poore.

5 He that loueth golde, shall not be iustified, and hee that followeth corruption, shall haue enough thereof.

Chap. 8. 2.

6 * Many are destroyed by the reason of gold, and haue found their destruction before them.

7 It is as a stumbling blocke vnto them that sacrifice vnto it, and euery foole is taken therewith.

Luke 6. 24.

8 Blessed is the rich which is found without blemish, and hath not gone after gold, [nor hoped in money and treasures.]

9 Who is hee, and wee will commend him? for wonderfull things hath hee done among his people.

10 Who hath bene tried thereby, and found perfit? let him bee an example of glory, who might offend, and hath not offended, or doe euill, and hath not done it.

11 Therefore shall his goods bee stablished, and the congregation shall declare his almes.

† Temperancie. Flee from drunkenness . . .

12 If thou sit at a costly table, † open not thy mouth wide vpon it, and say not, Behold much meat.

13 Remember that an euill eie is a shrew: and what thing created is worse then a wicked eye? for it weepeth for euery cause.

14 Stretch not thine hande whereforeuer it looketh, and thrust it not with it into the dish.

15 Consider by thy selfe him that is by thee, and marke euery thing.

16 Eate modestly that which is set before thee, and deuoure not lest thou be hated.

17 Leaue thou off first for nurtures sake, and be not vnstable, least thou offend.

18 When thou sittest among many, reach not thine hand out first of all.

19 * How little is sufficient for a man well taught: and thereby he belcheth not in his chamber [nor feeleth any paine.]

Chap. 37. 29

20 A wholesome sleepe commeth of a temperate belly: hee riseth vp in the morning, and is well at ease in himselfe: but paine in watching and cholericke diseases, and pangs of the belly are with an vnsatiable man.

21 If thou hast bene forced to eate, arise, goe foorth, * vomite and then take thy rest: [so thou shalt bring no sickenesse vnto thy body.]

a This counsel only concerning the health of the body, is here alleaged, rather for a remedie to helpe digestion vnto a weake stomacke, then for an instruction to tolerate intemperancie: for sin sitting is forbidde vs, Luke 21 34. Prou. 22 9. † Liberality. Judeth. 13. 2, 8. Psal. 104. 15 pro. 31. 4, 5, 6, 7.

22 My sonne, heare mee, and despise me not, and at the last thou shalt finde as I haue tolde thee: in all thy workes bee quicke, so shall there no sickenesse come vnto thee.

23 * Whoso is † liberall in his meat, men shall bleise him: and the testimony of his honestly shall be beleeued.

24 But against him that is a niggard of his meate, the whole city shall murmure: the testimonies of his niggardnesse shall be sure.

25 Shewe not thy valiantnesse in wine: for * wine hath destroyed many.

26 The furnace proueth the edge in the tempering: so doeth wine the hearts of the proud by drunkennesse.

27 * Wine soberly drunken, is profitable for the life of man: what is his life that is ouercome with wine?

28 Wine was made [from the beginning] to make men glad, [& not for drunkennesse.] Wine measurably drunken and in time, bringeth gladnesse and cheerefulnesse of the minde.

29 But wine dronken with excesse, maketh bitternesse of mind with brawlings & scoldings.

30 Drunkennesse increaseth the courage of a foole, till he offend: it diminisheth his strength and maketh wounds.

31 * Reproue not thy neighbour at the wine, and dispise him not in his mirth: giue him no despiteful words, and presse not vpon him with contrary words.

Chap. 20. 1.

CHAP. XXXII.

1 An exhortation to modestie. 3 Let the ancient speake. 14 To giue thanks after the repast. 15 Of the feare and confidence in God.

† Humblenesse.

IF thou be made the master of the feast, lift not thy selfe vp, but bee among them, as one of the rest: take diligent care for them, and so sit downe.

2 And when thou hast done all thy duty, sit owne, that thou mayest bee merry with them, and receiue a crowne for thy good behauiour.

3 Speake thou that art the elder: for it becommeth thee, but with sound iudgement, and hinder not musicke.

4 Powre not out words, where there is no audience, * and shew not foorth wisedome out of time.

Eccles. 32. 7.

5 The consent of musicians at a banket, is as a signet of a carbuncle set in gold.

chap 20. 7.

6 And as the signet of an Emmerald well trimmed with gold, so is the melody of musicke in a pleasant banquet.

7 [Giue eare, and be still, and for thy good behauiour thou shalt be beloued.]

8 Thou that art yong, speake if need be, and yet scarcely when thou art twise asked.

9 Comprehend much in few wordes: [in many things bee as one that is ignorant:] bee as one that vnderstandeth, and yet holde thy tongue.

10 If thou be among * great men, compare not thy selfe vnto them: and when the elder speaketh, babble not much.

Iob. 32. 6.

11 Before the thunder goeth lightning, and before a shamefast man goeth fauour.

12 Stand vp betimes, and be not the last: but get thee home without delay.

13 And there take thy pastime, and do what thou wilt, so that thou doe none euil, or vse proud words.

Giue thanks after a repast 14 But aboue all things giue thankes vnto him that hath made thee, and replenished thee with his goods.

15 ¶ Who so feareth the Lorde, will receiue his doctrine, and they that rise early, shall finde fauour.

16 Hee that seeketh the Law, shall bee filled therewith: but the hypocrite shall be offended thereat.

17 They that feare the Lord, shall finde that which is righteous, and shall kindle iustice as a light.

18 An vngodly man will not be reformed, but findeth out excuses according to his will.

19 A man of vnderstanding despiseth not counsell: but a lewd and proud man is not touched with feare, euen when he hath done rashly.

20 [My sonne] doe nothing without aduisement: so shalt it not repent thee after the deede.

21 Goe not in the way where thou maiest fall, nor where thou mayest stumble among y stones, neither trust thou in the way that is plaine.

22 And beware of thine owne children, [and take heede of them, that bee thine owne household.]

23 In euery good worke, be of a faithfull heart: for this is the keeping of the commaundements.

24 ¶ Who so beleeueth in the Lorde, keepeth the commandements: and hee that trusteth in the Lord shall take no hurt.

‖ Or, the law.

CHAP XXXIII.

1 The deliuerance of him that feareth God. 4 The answere of the wise. 12 Man is in the hand of God, as the clay is in the hand of the potter. 23 Of euill seruants.

† The feare of God.

THere shall no euill come vnto him that † feareth the Lord: but when he is in tentation, he will deliuer him againe.

2 A wise man hateth not the Law: but hee that is an hypocrite therein, is as a ship in a storme.

3 A man of vnderstanding walketh faithfully in the Law, and the Lawe is faithfull vnto him.

4 As the question is made, prepare the answere, and so shalt thou be heard: be sure of the matter, and so answere.

5 The heart of the * foolish is like a cart wheele: and his thoughts are like a roling axeltree.

Chap. 21. 16

6 As a wild horse neyeth vnder euery one that sitteth vpon him, so is a scornefull friend.

7 ¶ Why doeth one day excell another, seeing that the light of the dayes of the yeere come of the sunne?

8 The knowledge of the Lorde hath parted them asunder, and he hath by them disposed the times and solemne feasts.

9 Some of them hath he chosen and sanctified, and some of them hath he put among the dayes to number.

10 And all men are of the * ground, and Adam was created out of the earth: but the Lord hath diuided them by great knowledge, and made their wayes diuers.

Gen. 1. 27. and 2. 7.

11 Some of them hath he blessed and exalted, and some of them hath he sanctified, and appropriate to himselfe: but some of them hath bee cursed, and brought them low, and put them out of their estate.

12 * As the clay is in the potters hand, to order it at his pleasure, so are men also in the hand of their Creator, to whom he may reward them as liketh him best.

Isai. 45 9. rom. 9. 20, 21

13 Against euill is good, and against death is life: so is the godly against the sinner, and the vngodly against the faithfull.

14 So in all the works of the most High thou mayest see that there are euer two, one against another.

15 ¶ I am awaked vp last of all, as one that gathereth after them in the vintage. In the blessing of the Lord I am increased, and haue filled my winepresse, like a grape gatherer.

16 * Behold, how I haue not laboured onely for my selfe, but for all them that seeke knowledge.

Chap 24 39.

17 Heare me, O yee great men of the people, and hearken with your eares, yee rulers of the congregation.

18 Giue not thy sonne and wife, thy brother and friende, power ouer thee while thou liuest, and giue not away thy substance to another, lest it repent thee, and thou intreat for the same againe.

19 As long as thou liuest, and hast breath, * giue not thy selfe ouer to any person.

a That is, let no man vse thee as his seruant, when thou hast committed all thy goods into his hand.

20 For better it is that thy children should pray vnto thee, then that thou shouldest looke vp to the hands of thy children.

21 In all thy workes be excellent, that thy honour be neuer stained.

22 At the time when thou shalt ende thy dayes, and finish thy life, distribute thine inheritance.

23 ¶ The fodder, the whip, and the burden belong vnto the asse: and meate, correction and worke vnto thy seruant.

24 If thou set thy seruaunt to labour, thou shalt shalt find rest: but if thou let him go idle, he shall seeke libertie.

25 The yoke and the thong bow downe the harts neckes: so tame thine euill seruant with the whips and correction.

26 Send him to labour, that he goe not idle: for idlenesse teacheth much euill.

27 Set him to worke, for that belongeth vnto him: if he be not obedient, † put on more heauie fetters.

†How slaues were ordered in olde time.

28 But bee not excessiue toward any, & without discretion doe nothing.

29 * If thou haue a faithful seruant, let him be vnto thee as thine owne soule: for in blood hast thou gotten him. If thou haue a seruant, entreat him as thy brother: for thou hast need of him, as of thy selfe. If thou entreat him euill, and he run away, wilt thou seeke him?

Of dreames. 13 The praise of them that feare God. 18 The offerings of the wicked. 22 The bread of the needie. 27 God doeth not allow the workes of an vnfaithfull man.

THe hope of a foolish man is vaine and false, † and dreames make fooles to haue wings.

† Dreames.

2 Who so regardeth dreames, is like him that will take hold of a shadow, and follow after the winde.

3 Euen so is it with the appearings of dreames, as the likenesse of a face is before another face.

4 Who can be cleansed by the vncleane? or what truth can be spoken of a liar?

5 Soothsayings, witchcraft, and dreaming, is but vanity: and a minde that is occupied with fantasies, is as a woman that trauaileth.

6 Whereas such visions come not of the most High to thy thee, let not thine heart vpon them.

7 For dreames haue deceiued many, and they haue failed that put their trust therein.

8 The law shalbe fulfilled without lies, and wisedom is sufficient to a faithful mouth: [what knowledge hath he that is not tried?]

9 A man that is instructed, vnderstandeth much, and hee that hath good experience, can talke of wisedome.

10 He that hath no experience, knoweth little, and he that erreth, is full of craft.

11 When I wandered to and fro, I saw many things, and mine vnderstanding is greater then I can expresse.

12 I was oft times in danger of death, yet I was deliuered by these things.

13 ¶ The spirit of those that feare the Lord, shall liue: for their hope is in him that can helpe them.

14 Who so † feareth the Lord, feareth no man, neither is afraid: for he is his hope.

† The feare of the Lord.

15 Blessed is the soule of him that feareth the Lord: in whom putteth he his trust? who is his strength?

goeth thorow the cloudes, and ceaseth not till it

18 And the Lord wil not be slacke, nor the Al-mightie will tarrie long from them, till he hath the scepter of the vnrighteous, till he giue euery their deuices, till he haue iudged the cause of his thing her of whom he is fearfull, nor of a seruant in matters of warre, nor of a marchant concerning exchange, nor of a buyer for the sale, nor of an enuious man touching thankfulnesse, nor of the vnmercifull touching kindnesse, [nor of an vnhonest man of honesty] nor of the slouthfull for any labour, nor of an hireling for the finishing of a worke, nor of an idle seruant for much businesse: hearken not vnto these in any matter of counsell.

12 But bee continuall with a godly man whome thou knowest to keepe the commandements of the Lorde, whose minde is according to thy minde, and is sory for thee when thou stumblest.

13 Take counsell of thine owne heart: for there is no man more faithfull vnto thee, then it.

14 For a mans minde is sometimes more accustomed to shew more then seuen watchmen that sit aboue in an high tower.

15 And aboue all this pray to the most high, that he will direct thy way in truth.

16 Let reason go before euery enterprise, and counsell before euery action.

17 ¶ The [changing] of the countenance is a signe of the changing of the heart: foure things appeare, good and euill, life and death, but the tongue hath continuall the gouernement ouer them.

18 ¶ Some man is witty, and hath instructed many, & yet it is vnprofitable vnto himselfe.

19 Some man will be wise in words, and is hated, yea, he is destitute of all food,

Or, wisedome.

20 Because grace is not giuen him of the Lord: for he is destitute of all wisedome.

21 Another is wise for himselfe, and the fruites of vnderstanding are faithfull in his mouth.

22 A wise man instructeth his people, and the fruites of his wisedome fayle not.

23 A wise man shalbe plentifully blessed, and all they that see him, shall thinke him blessed.

24 The life of man standeth in the number of dayes: but the dayes of Israel are innumerable.

25 A wise man shall obteine credit among his people, and his name shalbe perpetuall.

26 My sonne, proue thy soule in thy life, and see what is euill for it, and permit it not to do it.

27 For all things are not profitable for all men, neither hath euery soule pleasure in euery thing.

†Of temperance. Chap. 31. 19, 20.

28 Be not † greedy in all delights, and be not too hastily vpon all meates:

29 * For excesse of meates bringeth sicknesse, and gluttony commeth into cholericke diseases.

30 By surfeit haue many perished: but he that ||dieteth himselfe, prolongeth his life.

||Or, taketh heed.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

1 A Physician is commendable 16 To bury the dead. 24 The wisdome of him that is learned.

HOnour the † Physician with that honour that is due vnto him, because of necessitie: for the Lord hath created him.

†Of Physicians and Physicke.

2 For of the most hie commeth healing, and he shall receiue gifts of the king.

3 The knowledge of the Physician lifteth vp his head, and in the sight of great men hee shall be in admiration.

4 The Lord hath created medicines of the earth, and he that is wise, will not abhorre them.

5 * Was not the water made sweete with wood, that men might know the vertue thereof? Exod. 15. 25.

6 So he hath giuen men knowledge, that hee might bee glorified in his wonderous workes.

7 With such doeth he heale men, and taketh away their paines.

8 Of such doeth the Apothecary make a confection, & yet he cannot finish his owne workes: for of the Lord commeth prosperity and wealth ouer all the earth.

9 My sonne, faile not in thy sickenesse, but * pray vnto the Lord, and hee will make thee whole. Isa. 38. 2, 5.

10 Leaue off from sinne, & order thine handes aright, and cleanse thine heart from all wickednesse.

11 Offer sweete incense, and fine flowre for a remembrance: make the offering fat, for thou art not the † first giuer.

† God befloweth first his benefits, and we must render a portion thereof, to such vses as he appointeth.

12 Then giue place to the Physician: for the Lord hath created him: let him not goe from thee, for thou hast neede of him.

13 The houre may come, that their enterprises may haue good successe.

14 For they also shall pray vnto the Lorde, that hee would prosper that, which is giuen for ease, and their physicke for the prolonging of life.

15 Hee that sinneth before his maker, let him fall into the hands of the physician.

16 My sonne, * powre foorth teares ouer the dead, † and begin to mourne, as if thou hadst sustred great harme thy selfe, and then couer his body according to his appointment, and neglect not his burriall. Chap. 22. 11.

† Of mourning.

||Or, the cremes.

17 Make a grieuous lamentation, and be earnest in mourning, and vse lamentation as hee is worthy, and that a day or two, least thou be euill spoken of, and then comfort thy selfe for thine heauinesse.

18 * For of heauinesse commeth death, and the heauinesse of the heart breaketh the strength. Pro. 15. 13. and 17. 22.

19 Of the affection of the heart commeth sorrowe, and the life of him that is afflicted, is according to his heart.

20 Take no heauinesse to heart: driue it away and remember the last end.

21 Forget it not: for there is no turning againe: thou shalt do him no good, but hurt thy selfe.

22 Remember his iudgement: thine also shal be likewise, vnto mee yesterday, and vnto thee to day.

23 * Seeing the dead is at rest, let his remembrance rest, and comfort thy selfe againe for him, when his spirit is departed from him. 2 Sam. 12. 20.

24 ¶ The wisedome of a learned man commeth by vsing well his vacant time: and he that ceaseth from his owne matters and labour, may come by wisedome.

25 How can hee get wisedome that holdeth the plough, and hee that hath pleasure in the goade, and in driuing oxen, and is occupied in their labours, and talketh but of the breede of bullocks?

26 Her giueth his minde vnto the leuerwer, and is diligent to glue the ioynt fodder.

27 So is it of euery carpenter, and workemaister that labowreth night and day: and they that cut and graue seales, and make sundry diuersities, and glue themselues to counterfeite imagerie, and watch to perfoorme the worke.

28 The Smith in like maner abideth by his anuill, and doeth his diligence to labour the yron: the vapour of the fire driueth his flesh, and he must fight with the heate of the furnace: the noyse of the hammer is euer in his eares, and his eyes looke still vpon the thing that he maketh: her setteth his minde to make vp his worke: therefore he watcheth to polish it perfectly.

29 So doeth the potter sit by his worke: her turneth the wheele about with his feete: her is carefull alway at his worke, and maketh his worke by number.

30 He fashioneth the clay with his arme, and with his feete her tempereth the hardnesse therof: his heart imagineth howe to couer it with leade, and his diligence is to cleanse the ouen.

31 All these hope in their handes, and euery one is wise in his worke.

32 Without these can not the cities be maintined, nor inhabited, nor occupied.

33 And yet they are not asked their iudgement in the counsell of the people, neither are they hie in the congregation, neyther sit they vpon the iudgement seates, nor vnderstand the order of iustice: they cannot declare matters, according to the forme of the Lawe, and they are not meete for hard matters.

34 But they maintaine the state of the world, and their desire is concerning their worke and occupation.

CHAP XXXIX.

1 A wise man. 16 The workes of God. 24 Vnto the good, good things profite, but vnto the euill, euen good things are euill.

HE only that applieth his minde to the Law of the most high, and is occupied in the meditation therof, seeketh out the † wisedome of all the ancient, and exercised himselfe in the prophecies.

† Of true wisdome.

2 Her keepeth the sayings of famous men, and entreth in also to the secrets of darke sentences.

3 He seeketh out the mystery of graue sentences, and exercised himselfe in darke parables.

4 He shall serue among great men, and appeare before the prince: he shall trauaile through strange countries: for he hath tried the good and the euill among men.

5 He will giue his heart to resort early vnto the Lord that made him, and to pray before the most high, and will open his mouth in prayer, and pray for his sinnes.

6 When the great Lord will, he shall be filled with the Spirit of vnderstanding, that he may powre out wise sentences, and giue thankes vnto the Lord in his prayer.

† Or, the Lord.

7 † He shall direct his counsell and knowledge: so shall he meditate in his secrets.

8 He shall shewe foorth his science and learning, and reioyce in the Lawe and couenant of the Lord.

9 Many shall commend his vnderstanding, and his memory shall neuer be put out, nor depart away: but his name shall continue from generation to generation.

10 The congregation shall declare his wisedome, and shew it. Chap. 44 15.

11 Though he be dead, he shall leaue a greater name then a thousand: and if he liue still, he shall get the same.

12 Yet will I speake of moe things: for I am full as the moone.

13 Hearken vnto me, yee holy children, and bring foorth fruite as the rose that is planted by the brookes of the field.

14 And giue ye a sweet smell as † incense, and bring foorth flowres as the lillie: giue a smell, and sing a song of praise: bleste the Lord in all his workes. † Or, Libanus

15 Giue honour vnto his Name, and shewe foorth his praysle with the songs of your lips, and with harpes, and yee shall say after this maner, The

16 *All the workes of the Lord are exceeding good, and all his commandements are done in due season. Gene. 1. 31. mar. 7. 37. Works of God

17 And none may say, What is this, wherefore is that? for at time conuenient they shal all be sought out: at his commandement the water stood as an heape, and at the word of his mouth the waters gathered themselues.

18 His whole famour appeared by his commandement, and none can diminish that which hee will saue.

19 The workes of all flesh are before him, and nothing can be hid from his eyes.

20 He seeth from euerlasting to euerlasting, and there is nothing wonderfull vnto him.

21 A man needs not to say, What is this? wherefore is that? for hee hath made all things for their owne vse.

22 His blessing shall run ouer as the streame, and moysten the earth like a flood.

23 As hee hath turned the waters into saltnesse, so shall the heathen feele his wrath.

24 As his wayes are plaine and right vnto the iust, so are they stumbling blockes to the wicked.

25 ¶ For the good are good things created from the beginning, and euill things for the sinners.

26 * The principall things for the whole vse of mans life is water, fire, and yron, and salt, and meale, wheate and hony, and milke, the blood of the grape, and oyle, and clothing. Chap. 29. 23.

27 All these things are for good to the Godly: but to the sinners they are turned vnto euill.

28 There be spirits that are created for vengeance, which in their rigor lay on sore strokes: in the time of destruction they shewe foorth their power, and accomplish the wrath of him that made them.

29 * Fire, and haile, and famine, and death: all these are created for vengeance. Chap. 40 9, 10.

30 The teeth of wilde beasts, † the scorpions, and the serpents, and the swoorde execute vengeance for the destruction of the wicked.

31 They shall be glad to doe his commandements: and when need is, they shalbe ready vpon earth, and when their houre is come, they shal not ouerpasse the commandement.

32 There-

32 Therefore haue I taken a good courage vnto me from the beginning, and pase thought on these things, and haue put them in writing.

Gen. 1. 31. 33 * All the works of the Lord are good, and he giueth euery one in due season, and when needs is:

34 So that a man needs not to say, This is worse then that: for in due season they are all worthy prayse.

35 And therefore praise the Lord with whole heart & mouth, and bicsse the Name of the Lord.

CHAP. XL.

1 Many miseries in mans life. 14 Of the blessing of the righteous, and prerogatiue of the feare of God.

† The miseries of mans life.

GReat † trauaile is created for all men, and an heauie yoke vpon the sonnes of Adam from the day that they goe out of their mothers wombe, till the day that they returne to the mother of all things,

2 Namely their thoughts, and feare of the heart, and their imagination of the things they wait for, and the day of death,

3 From him that sitteth vpon the glorious throne, vnto him that is beneath in the earth and ashes:

4 From him that is clothed in blewe silke, and weareth a crowne, euen vnto him that is clothed in simple linnen.

5 Wrath and enuie, trouble, and vnquietnes, and feare of death, and rigour, and strife, and in the time of rest, the sleepe in the night vpon his bed, change his knowledge.

6 A little or nothing is his rest, and afterward in sleeping he is as in a watch towre in the day: hee is troubled with the visions of his heart, as one that runneth out of a battell.

7 And when all is safe, he awaketh, and marueileth that the feare was nothing.

8 Such things come vnto all flesh, both man and beast, but seuen fold to the vngodly:

Chap. 39. 29, 30. 9 Moreouer, * death and blood, and strife, and sword, oppression, famine, destruction, and punishment.

Gen. 7. 11. Gen. 3. 19. chap. 41. 10. Eccles. 1. 7. 10 These things are all created for the wicked, and for their sakes came the * flood also.

11 *All things that are of the earth, shall turne to earth againe: and they that are of the * waters, shall returne into the sea.

† Faithfulnesse. 12 ¶ All bribes and vnrighteousnesse shall be put away: but † faithfulnesse shall endure for euer.

13 The substance of the vngodly shalbe dried vp like a riuer, and they shall make a sound like a great thunder in the raine.

14 When hee openeth his hand, he reioyceth: but all the transgressours shall come to nought.

15 The children of the vngodly shall not obtaine many branches: for the vncleane roots are as vpon the hie rocks.

16 Their tender stalke by what water soeuer it be or water banke, it shall be pulled vp before all other herbes.

17 ¶ Friendlines is as a most plentiful garden of pleasure, and mercy endureth for euer.

Phil. 4. 12. 1. Tim. 6. 6. 18 * To labour and to be content with that a man hath, is a sweete life: but he that findeth a treasure, is about them both.

19 Children, and the building of the city maketh a perpetuall name: but an honest woman is counted aboue them both.

20 Wine and musicke reioyce the heart: but the loue of wisedome is aboue them both.

21 The pipe and the psalterion make a sweete noyse: but a pleasant tongue is aboue them both.

22 Thine eye desireth fauour and beautie: but a greene seede time, rather them both.

23 A friend and companion come together at opportunity: but aboue them both is a wife with her husband.

24 Friends and helpe are good in the time of trouble: but almes shall deliuer more then them both.

25 Gold and siluer fasten the feete: but counsell is esteemed aboue them both.

26 Riches and strength lift vp the mind: but the feare of the Lord is aboue them both: there is no want in the feare of the Lord, and it needeth no helpe.

27 The feare of the Lord is a pleasant garden of blessing, and there is nothing so beautifull as it is.

28 ¶ My sonne, leade not a beggers life: for better it were to die then to beg.

29 The life of him that dependeth on another mans table, is not to be counted for a life: for he tormenteth himselfe after other mens meate: but a wise man and well nourtured will beware therof.

30 Begging is sweet in the mouth of the vnshamefast, and in his belly there burneth a fire.

CHAP. XLI.

1 Of the remembrance of death. 3 Death is not to be feared. 8 A curse vpon them that forsake the Law of God, 12 Good name and fame. 14 An exhortation to giue heede vnto wisedome. 17 Of what things a man ought to be ashamed.

† Of death.

O † Death, how bitter is the remembrance of thee to a man that liueth at rest in his possessions, vnto the man that hath nothing to vexe him, and that hath prosperity in all things: yea, vnto him that yet is able to receiue meate!

2 O death, how acceptable is thy iudgement vnto the needefull, and vnto him whose strength faileth, and that is now in the last age, and is vexed with all things, and to him that despayreth, and hath lost patience!

3 Feare not the iudgement of death, remember them that haue bene before thee, and that come after, this is the ordinance of the Lord ouer all flesh.

4 And why wouldest thou bee against the pleasure of the most High? whether it be tenne, or an hundreth, or a thousand yeeres, there is no defence for life against the graue.

5 ¶ The children of the vngodly are abominable children, and so are they that keepe company with the vngodly.

6 The inheritance of vngodly children shall perish, and their posterity shall haue a perpetuall shame.

7 The children complaine of an vngodly father, because they are reproched for his sake.

8 Wo be vnto you, O ye vngodly, which haue forsaken the Law of the most High God: for though you increase, yet shall you perish.

9 If ye be borne, ye shall be borne to curling: if ye die, the curse shall be your portion.

Chap. 40. 11. 10 *All that is of the earth, shall turne to earth againe:

against: so the vngodly go from the euill to destruction.

11 Though men mourne for their body, yet the wicked name of the vngodly shall be put out.

12 Haue regard to thy name: for that shall continue with thee aboue a thousand treasures of gold.

13 A good life hath the dayes numbred: but a † good name endureth for euer.

† A good name. Chap. 20. 29.

14 My children, keepe wisedom in peace: *for wisedome that is hid, and a treasure that is not seene, what profit is in them both?

15 A man that hideth his foolishnes, is better then a man that hideth his wisedome.

16 Therfore beare reuerence vnto my words: for it is not good in all things to bee † ashamed: neither are all things allowed as faithfull in all men.

† Of shamefastnesse.

17 Bee ashamed of whoredome before father and mother: be ashamed of lies before the prince and men of authority:

18 Of sinne before the iudge and ruler: of offence before the congregation and people: of vnrighteousnes before a companion and friend,

19 And of theft before the place where thou dwellest, and before the trueth of God and his Couenant, and to leane with thine elbowes vpon the ‖bread, or to bee reproued for giuing or taking,

‖ Or, table.

20 And of silence vnto them that salute thee, and to looke vpon an harlot,

21 And to turne away thy face from thy kinsman: or to take away a portion or a gift, or to be euill minded toward another mans wife,

22 Or to solicite any mans mayd, or to stand by her bed, or to reproche thy friendes with words, 23 Or to vpbraid when thou giuest any thing, or to report a matter that thou hast heard, or to reueale secret words.

24 Thus mayest thou well be shamefast, and shalt find fauour with all men.

CHAP. XLII.

1 The Law of God must be taught. 9 A daughter. 11 A woman. 18 God knoweth all things, yea, euen the secrets of thine heart.

† In what things we ought not to be ashamed.

OF these things bee not thou † ashamed, neither haue regard to offend for any person:

2 Of the Law of the most High and his Couenant, and of iudgement to iustifie the godly:

3 Of the cause of thy companion, or of strangers, or of distributing the heritage among friendes:

4 To be diligent to keepe true balance, and weight, whether thou haue much or little:

5 To sel merchandise at an indifferent price, and to correct thy children diligently, & to beate an euill seruant to the blood:

6 To set a good locke where an euill wife is, and to locke where many hands are:

7 If thou giue any thing by number, and weight, to put all in writing, both that that is giuen out, and that that is receiued againe:

8 To teach the vnlearned, and the vnwise, and the aged, that contend against the young: thus shalt thou be well instructed, and approued of all men liuing.

‖ Or, is a secret watche to the father.

9 ¶ The daughter ‖maketh the father to watch secretly, and the carefulnesse that hee hath for her, taketh away his sleepe in the night, lest shee should passe the flower of her age: and when she hath an husband, lest she should be hated:

10 In her virginitie, lest she should be defiled, or gotten with childe in her fathers house, and, when she is with her husband, lest she misbehaue herselfe: and when shee is married, lest she continue vnfruitfull.

11 * If thy daughter bee vnshamefast, keepe her straitly, lest she cause thine enemies to laugh thee to scorne, and make thee a common talke in the city, and defame thee among the people, and bring thee to publique shame. Chap. 26. 10

12 * Beholde not euery bodies beauty, and companie not among women. Chap. 25. 23.

13 For as the moth commeth out of garments: * so doeth wickednes of the woman. Gen. 3. 6.

14 The wickednesse of a man is better then the good intreatie of a woman, to wit, of a woman that is in shame and reproch.

15 ¶ I will remember the works of the Lord, and declare the thing that I haue seene: by the word of the Lord are his works.

16 The Sunne that shineth, looketh vpon all things, and all the worke thereof is full of the glory of the Lord.

17 Hath not the Lorde appointed that his Saintes should declare all his woonderous works, which the Almighty Lord hath stablished to confirme all things by in his Maiestie?

18 Hee seeketh out the depth, and the heart, and hee knoweth their practises: for the Lord knoweth all science, and he beholdeth the signes of the world.

God knoweth all things

19 He declareth the things that are past, and for to come, and discloseth the paths of things that are secret.

20 * No thought may escape him, neither may any word be hid from him. Iob 42. 4. Isa. 29. 15.

21 He hath garnished the excellent workes of his wisedom, and he is from euerlasting to euerlasting, and for euer: vnto him may nothing be added, neither can he be minished: he hath no neede of any counseller.

22 Oh, how delectable are all his works, and to be considered euen vnto the sparkes of fire!

23 They liue all and endure for euer: and whensoeuer neede is, they are all obedient.

24 They are all double one against another: he hath made nothing that hath any fault.

25 The one ‖commendeth the goodnes of the other, and who can bee satisfied with beholding Gods glory?

‖ Or, stabbeth.

CHAP. XLIII.

The summe of the creation of the workes of God.

THis high ornament † the cleare firmament, the beautie of the heauen so glorious to behold,

† The wonderful works of God.

2 The Sunne also, a marueilous instrument when it appeareth, declareth at his going out, the worke of the most high.

3 At noone it burneth the countrey, and who may abide for the heate thereof?

4 The Sunne burneth the mountaines three times more then he that keepeth a furnace with continual heate: it casteth out the fiery vapours, and with the shining beames blindeth the eyes.

5 Great is the Lord that made it, and by his commandement he causeth it to runne hastily.

Gen. 1. 16. 6 *The moone also hath he made to appeare according to her season, that it should be a declaration of the time, and a signe for the world.

Exod. 12. 2. 7 *The feasts are appointed by the moone: the light thereof diminisheth vnto the end.

8 The moneth is called after the name thereof, and groweth wonderously in her changing.

9 It is a campe pitched on high, shining in the firmament of heauen: the beautie of heauen are the glorious starres, and the ornament that sheweth in the high places of the Lord.

10 By the commaundement of the holy one they continue in their order, and faile not in their watch.

Gen. 9. 13, 14. 11 ¶ *Looke vpon the rainebow, and praise him that made it: very beautifull is it in the brightnesse thereof.

Isa. 40. 22. 12 *It compasseth the heauen about with a glorious circle, and the hands of the most High haue bended it.

13 ¶ Through his commandement hee maketh the snowe to haste, and sendeth swiftly the lightning of his iudgement.

14 Therefore he openeth his treasures, and the clouds flie forth as the foules.

15 In his power hath hee strengthened the clouds, and broken the haile stones.

16 The mountaines leape at the sight of him: the South wind bloweth according to his will.

17 The sound of his thunder beateth y earth: so doth the storme of the North: the whirlewind also, as birds that flie, scattereth the snowe, and the falling downe thereof is as the grashoppers that light downe.

18 The eye marueileth at the beautie of the whitenesse thereof, and the heart is astonished at the raine of it.

19 Hee also powreth out the frost vpon the earth like salt, and when it is frozen, it sticketh on the tops of pales.

20 When the colde Northwinde bloweth, and yce is frozen of the water, it abideth vpon all the gatherings together of water, and clotheth the waters as with a brestplate.

21 It deuoureth the mountaines, and burneth the wildernesse, and destroyeth that that is greene, like fire.

22 The remedie of all these is when a cloude commeth hastily, and when a dew commeth vpon the heat, it refresheth it.

23 [By his word he stilleth the wind:] by his counsell hee appeaseth the deepe, and planteth Ilands therein.

24 They that saile ouer the Sea, tell of the perils thereof, and when we heare it with our eares, we marueile thereat.

25 For there bee strange, and wonderous works, diuers maner of beastes, and the creation of whales.

26 Through him are all things directed to a good end, and are stablished by his word.

27 And when we haue spoken much, we can not attaine vnto them: but this is the summe of all, That he is all.

28 What power haue we to praise him? for he is aboue all his works.

Psal. 96. 4. 29 The Lord is terrible, and very great, and marueilous in his power.

30 Praise the Lorde, and magnifie him as much as ye can, yet doeth he farre exceed: exalt him with all your power, and be not weary, yet can ye not attaine vnto it.

31 *Who hath seene him, that hee might tell vs? and who can magnifie him as he is? John 1. 18. psal. 106. 2.

33 For there are hid yet greater things then these be, for we haue seene but a few of his works.

33 For the Lord hath made all things, and giuen wisedome to such as feare God.

CHAP. XLIIII.

The praise of certaine holy men, Enoch, Noe, Abraham, Isaac and Iacob.

LEt vs now commend the famous men, and our fathers, of whom we are begotten.

2 The Lord hath gotten great glory by them, and that through his great power from the beginning.

3 They haue borne rule in their kingdomes, and were renowned for their power, and were wise in counsell, and declared prophesies.

4 *They gouerned the people by counsel, and by the knowledge of learning meete for the people, in whose doctrine were wise sentences. Exod. 18. 25.

5 They inuented the melody of musicke, and expounded the verses that were written.

6 They were rich and mighty in power, and liued quietly at home.

7 All these were honourable men in their generations, and were well reported of in their times.

8 There are of them that haue left a name behinde them, so that their praise shall be spoken of.

9 There are some also which haue no memoriall, *and are perished as though they had neuer beene, and are become as though they had neuer beene borne, and their children after them. Gen. 7. 22.

10 But the former were mercifull men, whose righteousnes hath not bene forgotten.

11 For whole posterity a good inheritance is reserued, and their seed is contained in the couenant.

12 Their seede is contained in the couenant, and their posterity after them.

13 Their seed shal remaine for euer, and their praise shall neuer be taken away.

14 Their bodies are buried in peace, but their name liueth for euermore.

a Which Salomon made, 1. Kin. 7. 23.

4 Hee tooke care for his people, that they should not fall, and fortified the citie against the siege.

5 How honourable was his conuersation among the people, and when hee came out of the house couered with the vaile!

6 He was as the morning starre in the mids of a cloud, and as the moone when it is full,

7 And as the sunne shining vpon the temple of the most High, and as the rainebowe that is bright in the faire clouds,

8 And as the flower of the roses in the Spring of the yeere, and as lillies by the springs of waters, and as the branches of the frankincense tree in the time of Summer,

9 As a fire and incense in the censer, and as a vessell of massie gold, set with all maner of precious stones,

10 And as a faire olive tree that is fruitfull, and as a cypresse tree, which groweth vp to the clouds.

11 When hee put on the garment of honour, and was clothed with all beautie, he went vp to the holy altar, and made the garment of holinesse honourable.

12 When hee tooke the portions out of the Priests hands, he himselfe stood by the hearth of the altar, compassed with his brethren round about, as the branches doe the cedar tree in Libanus, and they compassed him as the branches of the palme trees.

13 So were all the sonnes of Aaron in their glory, and the oblations of the Lorde in their hands, before all the congregation of Israel.

14 And that hee might accomplish his ministerie vpon the altar, and garnish the offering of the most High and Almightie, 15 He stretched out his hand to the drinke offering, and powred of the blood of the grape, and hee powred at the foot of the altar the perfume of good sauour vnto the most high King of all.

16 Then shouted the sonnes of Aaron, and blowed with braken trumpets, and made a great noyse to bee heard, for a remembrance before the most High.

17 Then all the people together hasted, and fell downe to the earth vpon their faces to worship their Lord God Almightie, and most high.

18 The singers also sang with their voyces, so that the sound was great, and the melody sweet.

19 And the people prayed vnto the Lord most high, with prayer before him that is mercifull, till the honour of the Lord were performed, and they had accomplished his seruice.

20 Then went he downe, and stretched out his hands ouer the whole Congregation of the children of Israel, that they should giue prayse with their lips vnto the Lord, and reioyce in his Name.

21 He began againe to worship, that he might receiue the blessing of the most high.

22 Now therefore giue praise al ye vnto God, that worketh great things euery where, which hath increased our dayes from the wombe, and dealt with vs according to his mercy,

23 That he would giue vs ioyfulnes of heart, and peace in our dayes in Israel, as in old time, 24 That he would confirme his mercy with vs, and deliuer vs at his time.

27 ¶ Iesus the sonne of Strach, the sonne of Eleazarus of Ierusalem, hath written the doctrine of vnderstanding and knowledge in this booke, and hath powred out the wisedome of his heart.

28 Blessed is he that exerciseth himselfe therein: and he that layeth vp these in his heart shall be wise.

29 For if he do these things, he shalbe strong in all things: for he setteth his steps in the light of the Lord, which giueth wisedome to the godly. The Lord be praysed for euermore. So be it, so be it.

CHAP. LI.

A prayer of Iesus the sonne of Sirach.

1 I Will confesse thee, O Lord & King, and praise thee, O God my Sauiour: I will giue thanks vnto thy Name.

2 For thou art my defender and helper, and hast preserued my body from destruction, & from the snare of the slanderous tongue, and from the lips that are occupied with lies: thou hast holpen me against mine aduersaries,

3 And hast deliuered mee according to the multitude of thy mercy, and for thy Names sake, from the roaring of them that were ready to deuoure me, and out of the hands of such as sought after my life, and from the manifold afflictions which I had,

4 And from the fire that choaked mee round about, and from the mids of the fire that I burned not,

5 And from the bottome of the belly of hell, from an vncleane tongue, from lying words, from false accusation to the King, and from the slander of an vnrighteous tongue.

6 [My soule shal praise y Lord vnto death:] for my soule drew neere vnto death: my life was neere to the hell beneath.

7 They compassed mee on euery side, & there was no man to helpe mee: I looked for the succour of men, but there was none.

8 Then thought I vpon thy mercy, O Lord, and vpon thine acts of olde, how thou deliuerest such as wait for thee, and sauest them out of the hands of the heathen enemies.

[Or, nations.

9 Then lifted I vp my prayer frō the earth, and prayed for deliuerance from death.

10 I called vpon the Lorde the father of my Lord, that he would not leaue mee in the day of my trouble, and in the time of the proud, without helpe.

11 I will prayse thy Name continually, and will sing praise with thanksgiuing: and my prayer was heard.

12 Thou sauedst me from destruction, and deliueredst me from the euil time: therefore will I giue thanks, and praise thee, and blesse the name of the Lord.

13 When I was yet young, or euer I went abroad, abroad, I desired wisedome openly in my prayer.

14 I prayed for her before the Temple, and sought after her unto farre countreys, & she was as a grape that wareth ripe out of the flowr.
15 Mine heart reioyced in her: my foot walked in the right way, and from my youth up sought I after her.
16 I bowed somewhat downe mine eare, and receiued her, and gate me much wisedome:
17 And I profited by her: therefore will I ascribe the glory unto him, that giueth me wisedome.
18 For I am aduised to doe thereafter: I will be zealous of that that is good: so shall I not be confounded.
19 My soule hath wrastled with her, and I haue exercised my workes: I lifted up mine hands on high, and considered the ignorances thereof.
20 I directed my soule unto her, and I found her in pureneſſe: I haue had mine heart ioyned with her from the beginning: therefore shall I not be forsaken.
21 My bowels are troubled in seeching her: therefore haue I gotten a good possession.
22 The Lord hath giuen me a tongue for my reward, wherewith I will praise him.
23 Draw neere unto me, ye vnlearned, and dwell in the house of learning.
24 Wherefore are ye slowe? and what say you of these things, seeing your soules are very thirstie?
25 I opened my mouth, and sayde, * Buy her for you without money. Isa 55.1.
26 Bowe downe your necke vnder the yoke, and your soule shall receiue instruction: she is ready that ye may finde her.
27 Beholde with your eyes, * howe that I haue had but little labour, and haue gotten unto me much rest. Chap.6.28.
28 Get learning with a great summe of money: for by her ye shall possesse much gold.
29 Let your soule reioyce in the mercy of the Lord, and be not ashamed of his praise.
30 Doe your duetie betimes, and he will giue you a reward at his time.

CHAP. I.

 Baruch wrote a booke during the captiuity of Babylon, which he read before Iechoniah and all the people. 10 The Iewes sent the booke with money unto Ierusalem to their other brethren, to the intent that they should pray for them.*

AND these are the wordes of the booke, which Baruch the son of Nerias, the sonne of Maasias, the sonne of Sedecias, the sonne of ‖ Asadias, the son of Helcias wrote in at Babylon, ‖Or, Sedeias
2 In the fift yeere, and in the seuenth day of the moneth, what time as the Chaldeans tooke Ierusalem, and burnt it with fire.
3 And Baruch did reade the wordes of this booke, that Iechonias the sonne of Joacim king of Juda might heare, & all the people that were come to heare the booke,
4 And in the audience of the gouernour, and of the Kings sonnes, and before the Elders, and before the whole people, from the lowest unto the highest, before all them that dwelt at Babylon by the riuer ‖ Sud. ‖Or, Sodi.
5 Which when they heard it, wept, fasted, and made prayers before the Lord.
6 They made a collection also of money, according to euery mans power,
7 And sent it to Jerusalem unto Joacim the sonne of Helcias the sonne of Salom Priest, and unto the other priests, & to all the people, which were with him at Jerusalem,
8 When he had receiued the vessels of the Temple of the Lord, that were taken away out of the Temple, to bring them againe into y land of Juda, the tenth day of the moneth ‖ Siuan, to wit, siluer vessels, which Sedecias the sonne of Josias king of Juda had made, ‖Or, Siban.
9 After that Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon had leadde away Iechonias from Jerusalem, and his Princes and his Nobles, prisoners, and the people, and caried them to Babylon.
10 And they sayd, Behold, we haue sent you money, wherewith ye shall buy burnt offerings for ‖ me, and incense, and prepare a ‖ meate offering, and offer upon the altar of the Lord our God, ‖Or, Manna, for Manhah, which was the euening and morning sacrifice.
11 And pray for the life of Nabuchodonosor king of Babylon, and for the life of Baltasar his sonne, that their dayes may be upon earth, as the dayes of heauen, 12 And that God would giue us strength and lighten our eyes, that we may liue under the shadow of Nabuchodonosor King of Babylon, and under the shadow of Baltasar his sonne, that we may long doe them seruice, and finde fauour in their sight.
13 Pray for us also unto the Lord our God, (for we haue sinned against the Lord our God, and unto this day the furie of the Lord, and his wrath is not turned from us)
14 And reade this Booke (which we haue sent to you to bee rehearsed in the Temple of the Lord) upon the feast dayes, and at time conuenient.
15 Thus shall ye say, * To the Lord our God belongeth righteousnesse, but unto us the confusion of our faces, as it is come to passe this day unto them of Juda, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Chap.2.6.
16 And to our Kings and to our princes, and to our priests, and to our prophets, and to our fathers, 17 Because we haue * sinned before the Lord our God, Dan 9.5.
18 And haue not obeyed him, neither hearkened unto the voyce of the Lorde our God, to walke in the commandements that he gaue us openly.
19 From the day that the Lord brought our fathers out of the land of Egypt, euen unto this day, we haue bene disobedient unto the Lord our God, and we haue bene negligent to heare his voyce.

Deut.28.15. 20 * Although their plagues are come vpon vs, and the curse which the Lord appointed by Moyses his seruant at the time that he brought our Fathers out of the land of Egypt to giue vs a land that floweth with milke and hony, as appeareth this day.

21 Neuertheleſſe, we haue not hearkened vnto the voyce of the Lord our God, according to all the wordes of the prophets, whom he ſent vnto vs.

22 But euery one of vs followed the wicked imagination of his owne heart, to ſerue ſtrange gods, and to doe euill in the ſight of the Lord our God.

CHAP. II.

1 The Iewes confeſſe that they ſuffer iuſtly for their ſinnes. The true confeſſion of the Chriſtians. 11 The Iewes deſire to haue the wrath of God turned from them. 32 He promiſeth that he will call againe the people from captiuitie, and giue them a new and euerlaſting Teſtament.

THerefore the Lord our God hath performed his word, which he pronounced againſt vs, and againſt our Iudges that gouerned Iſrael, and againſt our Kings, and againſt our Princes, and againſt the men of Iſrael and Iuda.

2 To bring vpon vs great plagues, ſuch as neuer came to paſſe vnder the whole heauen, as they that were done in Ieruſalem, according to things that were written in the law of Moyſes.

Deut.28.53. 3 That ſome among vs ſhould * eat the fleſh of his owne ſonne, and ſome the fleſh of his owne daughter.

4 Moreouer, he hath deliuered them to be in ſubiection to all the kingdoms that are round about vs, to be as a reproch and deſolation among all the people round about where the Lord hath ſcattered them.

5 That they are brought to be beneath and not aboue, becauſe we haue ſinned againſt the Lord our God, and haue not heard his voice.

Dan.9.15. 6 * To the Lord our God appertaineth righteouſneſſe, but vnto vs and to our fathers open ſhame, as appeareth this day.

7 For all theſe plagues are come vpon vs, which the Lord hath pronounced againſt vs.

8 Yet haue wee not prayed before the Lord that we might turne euery one from the imaginations of his owne wicked heart.

9 So the Lorde hath watched ouer the plagues, and the Lord hath brought them vpon vs: for the Lord is righteous in all his workes, which he hath commanded vs.

10 Yet we haue not hearkened vnto his voice, to walke in the commaundements of the Lorde that he hath giuen vnto vs.

Dan.9.15. 11 * And now, O Lorde God of Iſrael, that haſt brought thy people out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and an hie harme, and with ſignes, and with wonders, and with great power, and haſt gotten thy ſelfe a Name, as appeareth this day, 12 O Lord our God, we haue ſinned, we haue done wickedly: we haue offended in all thine ordinances.

13 Let thy wrath turne from vs: for wee are but a few left among the heathen, where thou haſt ſcattered vs.

14 Heare our prayers, O Lord, and our petitions, and deliuer vs for thine owne ſake, & giue vs fauour in the ſight of them, which haue led vs away, 15 That all the earth may know that thou art the Lord our God, and that thy Name is called vpon Iſrael, and vpon their poſterity.

16 Therefore looke downe from thine holy Temple, and thinke vpon vs: incline thine eare, O Lord, and heare vs.

17 * Open thine eyes, and behold: for the dead that are in the graues, and whoſe ſoules are out of their bodies, * giue vnto the Lorde, neither ‖ praiſe nor righteouſneſſe.

Deut.26.15. iſa.63.15. Pſal.6.5,6. and 115.17, 18. iſa.38. 18,19. Or, glory. ‖Or, glory, nor praiſe of righteouſneſſe.

18 But the ſoule that is vexed for the greatneſſe of ſinne, and he that goeth crookedly, and weake, and the eyes that faile, and the hungry ſoule will giue thee praiſe and righteouſneſſe, O Lord.

19 For we do not require mercie in thy ſight, O Lord our God, for the righteouſnes of our fathers, or of our Kings,

20 But becauſe thou haſt ſent out thy wrath and indignation vpon vs, as thou haſt ſpoken by thy ſeruants the Prophets, ſaying, 21 * Thus ſayth the Lord, Bow downe your ſhoulders, and ſerue the king of Babylon: ſo ſhall ye remaine in the land, that I gaue vnto your fathers.

‖Or, by the hand of thy ſeruants. Ier.27.7.

22 But if yee will not heare the voyce of the Lord, to ſerue the king of Babylon, 23 I will cauſe to ceaſe in the cities of Iuda, and in Ieruſalem, I will cauſe to ceaſe the voyce of mirth, and the voyce of ioy, and the voyce of the bridegroome, and the voyce of the bride, and the land ſhall be deſolate of inhabitants.

24 But wee would not hearken vnto thy voyce, to ſerue the King of Babylon: therefore haſt thou performed the words that thou ſpakeſt by thy ſeruants the Prophets, namely, that the bones of our Kings, and the bones of our fathers ſhould be carried out of their places.

25 And loe, they are caſt out to the heat of the day, and to the cold of the night, and are dead in great miſery with famine, and with the ſword, and in banishment.

26 And the Temple wherein thy Name was called vpon, thou haſt brought to the ſtate, as appeareth this day, for the wickednes of the houſe of Iſrael, and the houſe of Iuda.

27 O Lord our God, thou haſt intreated vs according to equitie, and according to all thy great mercie,

28 As thou ſpakeſt by thy ſeruant Moyſes, in the day when thou didſt commaund him to write thy Law before the children of Iſrael, ſaying, 29 * If yee will not abide my voyce, then ſhall this great Coarne and multitude be turned into a very few among the nations where I will ſcatter them.

Leuit.26.14 deut.28.15.

30 For I know that they will not heare me: for it is a ſtiffnecked people: but in the lande of their captiuitie they ſhall remember themſelues, 31 And know that I am the Lord their God: then will I giue them an heart to vnderſtand, and eares.

32 And they ſhall heare, and praiſe mee in the land of their captiuitie, and thinke vpon my Name.

33 Then shall they turne them from their hard backes, and from their euill works: for they shall remember the way of their fathers, which sinned before the Lord.

34 And I will bring them againe into the land, which I promised with nu the vnto their fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Iacob, and they shall be lords of it: and I will increase them, and they shall not be diminished.

35 And I will make an euerlasting covenant with them, that I will bee their God, and they shall be my people: and I will no more driue my people of Israel out of the land that I haue giuen them.

CHAP. III.

20 Nou. 1 Cho. 2d Coen

1 The people continueth in their prayer begun for their deliuerance. 9 He praiseth wisdom vnto the people, shewing that so great aduersities came vnto them for the despising thereof. 36 Only God was the finder of wisdome. 37 Of the incarnation of Christ.

O Lord Almighty, O God of Israel, the soule that is in trouble, and the spirit that is vexed, crieth vnto thee.

2 Heare, O Lord, and haue mercie: for thou art mercifull, and haue pity vpon vs, because we haue sinned before thee.

3 For thou endurest for euer, and we vtterly perish.

4 O Lord Almighty, the God of Israel, heare now the prayer of the dead Israelites, and of their children, which haue sinned before thee, and not hearkened vnto the voyce of thee their God, wherefore these plagues hang vpon vs.

5 Remember not the wickednesse of our fathers, but thinke vpon thy power, and thy Name at this time.

6 For thou art the Lord our God, and thee O Lord, will we praise.

7 And for this cause hast thou put thy feare in our hearts, that we should call vpon thy Name, and praise thee in our captiuity: for we haue considered in our minds all the wickednesse of our fathers, that sinned before thee.

8 Behold, we are yet this day in our captiuitie, where thou hast scattered vs, to bee a reproch and a curse, and subiect to payments, according to all the iniquities of our fathers, which are departed from the Lord their God.

9 O Israel, heare the commandements of life: hearken vnto them, that thou mayst learne wisedome.

10 What is the cause, O Israel, that thou art in thine enemies land, and art waxen old in a strange country, 11 And art defiled with the dead, and art counted with them, that goe downe to the graues?

12 Thou hast forsaken the fountaine of wisedome:

13 For if thou hadst walked in the way of God, thou shouldest haue remained safe for euer.

14 Learne where is wisedome, where is strength, where is vnderstanding, that thou mayest know also from whence commeth long continuance, and life, and where the light of the eyes and peace is.

15 Who hath found out her place? or who hath come into her treasures?

16 Where are the princes of the heathen, and such as ruled the beasts vpon the earth?

17 They that had their pastime with the fowles of the heauen, that hoarded vp siluer and golde, wherein men trust and made none end of their gathering?

18 For they that coined siluer, and were so carefull of their worke, and whose inuention had none end, 19 Are come to nought, and gone downe to hell, and other men are come vp in their steads.

20 When they were yoong, they saw the light, and dwelt vpon the earth: but they vnderstood not the way of knowledge, 21 Neither perceiued the paths thereof, neither haue their children receiued it: but they were farre off from that way.

22 It hath not beene heard of in the land of Chanaan, neither hath it beene seene in Theman, 23 Nor the Agarines that sought after wisedome vpon the earth, nor the merchants of Merran, and of Theman, nor the expounders of fables, nor the searchers out of wisedome haue knowen the way of wisedome, neither doe they thinke vpon the pathes thereof.

24 O Israel, howe great is the house of God! and how large is the place of his possession!

25 It is great, and hath none end, it is high, and vnmeasurable.

26 There were the giants, famous from the beginning, that were of so great stature, and so expert in warre.

27 Those did not the Lords chuse, neither gaue he the way of knowledge vnto them:

28 But they were destroyed, because they had no wisedome, and perished through their owne foolishnesse.

29 Who hath gone vp into heauen to take her, and brought her downe from the cloudes?

30 Who hath gone ouer the sea to finde her, and hath brought her rather then fine golde?

31 No man knoweth her wayes, neither considereth her paths.

32 But he that knoweth all things, knoweth her, and hee hath found her out with his vnderstanding: this same is hee which hath prepared the earth for euermore, and hath filled it with foure footed beasts.

33 When hee sendeth out the light, it goeth: and when hee calleth it againe, it obeyeth him with feare.

34 And the starres shine in their watch, and reioyce. When he calleth them, they say, Here we be: and so with cheerefulnesse they shew light vnto him that made them.

35 This is our God, and there shall none other be compared vnto him.

36 Hee hath found out all the way of knowledge, and hath giuen it vnto Iacob his seruant, and to Israel his beloued.

37 Afterward he was seene vpon earth, and dwelt among men.

1 The reward of them that keepe the Lawe, and the punishment of them that dispise it. 12 A comforting of the people being in captiuitie. 19 A complaint of Ierusalem, and vnder the figure thereof the Church. 25 A consolation and comforting of the same.

THis is the booke of the commaundements of God, and the Lawe that endureth for euer: all they that keepe it, shall come to life: but such as forsake it, shall die.

2 Turne thee, O Iacob, and take holde of it: walke by the brightnes before the light thereof.

3 Giue not thine honour to another, nor the things that are profitable vnto thee, to a strange nation.

4 O Israel wee are blessed: for the thinges that are acceptable vnto God, are declared vnto vs.

5 Bee of good comfort, O my people, which art the memoriall of Israel.

6 Ye are sold to the nations, not for your destruction: but because ye prouoked God to wrath ye were deliuered vnto the enemies.

7 For ye haue displeased him that made you, offering vnto deuils, and not to God.

8 Ye haue forgotten him that created you, euen the euerlasting God, and ye haue grieued Ierusalem, that nourished you.

9 (When she sawe the wrath comming vpon you from God, she said, Hearken, ye that dwell about Sion: for God hath brought me into great heauinesse.

10 I see the captiuitie of my sonnes & daughters, which the euerlasting will hath brought vpon them.

11 With ioye did I nourish them, but I must leaue them with weeping and mourning.

12 Let no man reioyce ouer me a widowe, and forsaken of many, which for the sinnes of my children am desolate, because they departed from the Law of God.

13 They would not know his righteousnesse, nor walke in the wayes of his commandements: neither did they enter into the pathes of discipline, through his righteousnesse.

14 Come, ye that dwell about Sion, and call to remembrance the captiuitie of my sonnes and daughters, which the euerlasting hath brought vpon them.

15 For he hath brought vpon them a nation from farre, an impudent nation, and of a strange language, 16 Which neither reuerence the aged, nor pitie the yong: these haue caried away the deare beloued of the widowes, leauing me alone, and destitute of my daughters.

17 But what can I helpe you?

18 Surely he that hath brought these plagues vpon you, can deliuer you from the hands of your enemies.

19 Goe your way, O children, goe your way, for I am left desolate.

20 I haue put off the clothing of peace, and put vpon me the sackcloth of prayer, and so long as I liue, I will call vpon the euerlasting.

21 Bee of good comfort, O children: cry vnto God, and he will deliuer you from the power, and hand of the enemies.

22 For I haue hope of your saluation thorow the euerlasting, and ioy is come vpon me from the holy One, because of the mercy which shall quickely come vnto you from our euerlasting Sauiour.

23 For I sent you away with weeping, and mourning: but with ioy and perpetuall gladnes will God bring you againe vnto me.

24 Like as now the neighbours of Sion saw your captiuitie, so shall they also see shortly your saluation from God, which shall come vnto you with great glorie, and brightnes from the Euerlasting.

25 My children, suffer patiently the wrath that is come vpon you from God: for thine enemie hath persecuted thee, but shortly thou shalt see his destruction, and shalt treade vpon his necke.

26 My darlings haue gone by rough wayes, and we are led away as a flocke that is scattered by the enemies.

27 Be of good comfort, my children, and cry vnto God: for he that led you away, hath you in remembrance.

28 And as it came into your minde to goe astray from your God: so endeuour your selues tenne times more, to turne againe and to seeke him.

29 For he that hath brought these plagues vpon you, will bring you euerlasting ioy againe, with your saluation.

30 Take a good heart, O Hierusalem: for he which gaue thee that name, will comfort thee.

31 They are miserable that afflict thee, and such as reioyce at thy fall.

32 The cities are miserable whom thy children serue: miserable is shee that hath taken thy sonnes.

33 For as shee reioyced at thy decay, and was glad of thy fall, so shall she be sory for her owne desolation.

34 For I will take away the reioycing of her great multitude, and her ioy shall be turned into mourning.

35 For a fire shall come vpon her from the Euerlasting, long to endure, and she shalbe inhabited of diuels for a great season.

36 O Ierusalem looke toward the East, and behold the ioy that commeth vnto thee from thy God.

37 Loe, thy sonnes (whom thou hast let goe) come gathered together from the East vnto the West, reioycing in the word of the holy One vnto the honour of God.

CHAP. V.

1 Ierusalem is mouned vnto gladnes for the rewarde of her people, and vnder the figure thereof the Church.

PVt off thy mourning clothes, O Hierusalem, and thine affliction, and decke thee with the worshipp and honour, that commeth vnto thee from God, for euermore.

2 Put on the garment of righteousnesse, that commeth from GOD, and let a crowne vpon thine head of the glory of the euerlasting.

3 For God will declare thy brightnesse to euery countrey vnder the heauen.

4 And God will name thee by this name for euer, The peace of righteousnesse, and the the glory of the everlasting God.

5 Arise, O Jerusalem, and stand up on hie, and looke about thee toward the East, and beholde thy children gathered from the East unto the South by the word of the holy One, rejoycing in the remembrance of God.

6 For they departed from thee on foot, and were led away of their enemies: but God will bring them againe unto thee, exalted in glory, as children of the kingdome.

7 For God hath determined to bring downe every high mountaine, and the long endureing rocks, and to fil the valleies, to make the ground plaine, that Israel may walke safely unto the honour of God.

8 The woods and all sweete smelling trees shall overshadow Israel at the commaundement of God.

9 For God shall bring Israel with joy in the light of his maiestie, with the mercy and righteousnesse that commeth of him.

CHAP. VI.

A COPIE OF THE EPISTLE THAT Jeremias sent unto them that were led away captives into Babylon by the King of the Babylonians, to certifie them of the thing that was commaunded him of God.

BEcause of the sinnes, that ye have committed against God, ye shal be led away captives unto Babylon, by Nabuchodonosor, King of the Babylonians.

2 So when ye be come into Babylon, ye shall remaine there many yeeres, and a long season, even seven generations, and after that will I bring you away peaceably from thence.

3 Now shall yee see in Babylon gods of silver, and of gold, and of wood, borne upon mens shoulders, to cause the people to feare.

4 Beware therefore that ye in no wise be like unto strangers, neither be ye afraid of them, when yee see the multitude before them and behinde them worshipping them.

5 But say ye in your hearts, O Lorde, we must worship thee.

6 For mine Angel shalbe with you and shall care for your soules.

7 As for their tongue, it is polished by the carpenter, and they themselves are gilted, and layde over with silver: yet are they but lies, and cannot speake.

8 And as they take golde for a mayd that loueth to be decked,

9 So make they crownes for the heads of their gods: sometimes also the Priestes themselves convey away the golde and silver from their gods, and bestow it upon themselves.

10 Yea, they give of the same unto the harlots that are in their houses: againe, they decke their gods of silver, and gods of golde, and of wood, with garments like men.

11 Yet cannot they be preserved from rust and wormes.

12 Though they have covered them with clothing of purple, and wipe their faces because of the dust of the Temple, wherewith there is much upon them.

13 One holdeth a scepter, as though he were a certaine Judge of the countrey: yet can he not slay such as offend him.

14 An other hath a dagger or an axe in his right hande: yet is he not able to defende himselfe from battell, nor from theeues: so then it is evident that they be no gods.

15 Therefore feare them not: for as a vessell that a man useth, is nothing worth when it is broken, 16 Such are their gods: when they be set up in their temples, their eyes be full of dust by reason of the feete of those that come in.

17 And as the gates are shut in round about upon him that hath offended the king: or as one that should be led to be put to death, so the priestes keepe their temples with doores, & with lockes, and with barres, least their gods should be spoyled by robbers. Or, courts.

18 They light up candles before them: yea, more then for themselves, whereof they cannot see one: for they are but as one of the posts of the temple.

19 They confesse, that even their hearts are gnawen upon: but when the things that creepe out of the earth, eate them and their clothes, they feele it not.

20 Their faces are blacke through the smoke that is in the Temple.

21 The owles, swallowes, & birdes lie upon their bodies, and upon their heads, yea, and the cats also.

22 By this ye may be sure, that they are not gods: therefore feare them not.

23 Notwithstanding the golde, that is about them to make them beautifull, except one wipe off the rust, they cannot shine: neither when they were molten, did they feele it.

24 The things wherein is no breath, are bought for a most high price.

25 They are borne upon mens shoulders, because they have no feete, whereby they declare unto men, that they be nothing worth, yea, and they that worship them, are ashamed. Isa. 46. 7.

26 For if they fall to the ground at any time, they cannot rise up again of themselves, neither if one set them upright, can they moove of themselves, neither if they be bowed downe can they make themselves straight: but they set gifts before them, as unto dead men.

27 As for the things that are offered unto them, their Priestes sell them, and abuse them: likewise also the women lay up of the same: but unto the poore and sicke they give nothing.

28 The menstruous women, and they that are in childbed, touch their sacrifices: by these things yee may knowe that they are no gods: feare them not.

29 From whence commeth it then, that they are called gods? because the women bring gifts to the gods of silver, and golde, and wood.

30 And their Priests sit in their temples, having their clothes rent, their heads and beards are shaven, and being bare headed, 31 They roare and cry before their gods, as men do at the feast of one that is dead.

32 The Priests also take away of their garments, and cloth their wives and children.

33 Whether it be evill that one doeth unto them, or good; they are not able to recompence it: they can neither set up a King, nor put him downe.

34 In like maner they can neither give riches nor money: though a man make a vowe unto them, and keepe it not, they will not require it.

35 They

35 They can saue no man from death, neither deliuer the weake from the mighty.

36 They cannot restore a blinde man to his sight, nor helpe any man in his need.

37 They can shew no mercy to the widow, nor do good to the fatherlesse.

38 Their gods of wood, gold, and siluer, are as stones that bee hewen out of the mountaine, and they that worshippe them, shall bee confounded.

39 How should a man then thinke or say, that they are gods?

40 Moreouer, the Chaldeans themselues dishonour them: for when they see a dumbe man, that cannot speake, they present him to Bel, 41 And desire that hee would make him to speake, as though hee had any feeling: yet they that vnderstand their things, cannot leaue them: for they also haue no sence.

42 Further more, the women, girded with coards, sit in the streetes, and burne ‖ strawe. Or, bran.

43 And if one of them bee drawen away, and lie with any such as come by, shee casteth her neighbour in the teeth, because shee was not so worthily reputed, nor her coard broken.

44 Whatsoeuer is done among them, is lies: how may it then be thought or sayd, that they are gods?

45 Carpenters and goldsmiths make them, neither be they any other thing, but euen what the workeman will make them.

46 Yea, they that make them, are of no long continuance: how should then the things that are made of them, be gods?

47 Therefore they leaue lies, and shame for their progenitie.

48 For, when there commeth any warre, or plague vpon them, the Diuines imagine with themselues, where they may hide themselues with them.

49 How then can men not perceiue, that they be no gods, which can neither defend themselues from warre, nor from plagues?

50 For seeing they be but of wood, and of siluer, and of golde, men shall know hereafter that they are but lies, and it shalbe manifest to all nations and Kings, that they bee no gods, but the workes of mens hands, & that there is no worke of God in them. Psal. 115.4 wisd. 13.10

51 Wherefore it may be knowen, that they are no gods.

52 They can set vp no King in the land, nor giue raine vnto men.

53 They can giue no sentence of a matter, neither pertaine from iniurie: they haue no power, but are as crowes betweene the heauen and the earth.

54 When there falleth a fire vpon the house of those gods of wood, and of siluer, and of gold, the Priests will escape and saue themselues, but they shall be as the bakers therein.

55 They cannot withstand any enemie: how can it then bee thought or sayd, that they be gods?

56 Moreouer, their gods of wood, of gold, and of siluer, can neither defend themselues from theeues nor robbers.

57 For they that are strongest, take away their gold and siluer, and apparell, wherewith they be clothed: and when they haue it, they get them away: yet can they not helpe themselues.

58 Therefore it is better to be a King, and so to shew his power, or else a profitable vessel in an house, wherein he that vseth it might haue profit, then such false gods: or to bee a doore in an house, to keepe such things safe as bee therein, then such false gods: or a pillar of wood in a palace, then such false gods.

59 For the Sunne, and the Moone, and the starres that shine, when they are sent downe for necessaries, obey.

60 Likewise also the lightening, when it shineth, it is euident: and the wind bloweth in euery countrey.

61 And when God commaundeth the clouds to go about the whole world, they doe as they are bidden.

62 When the fire is sent downe from aboue to destroy hils and woods, it doeth that which is commanded: but these are not like any of these things, neither in forme nor power.

63 Therefore men should not thinke, nor say that they bee gods, seeing they can neither giue sentence in iudgement, nor do men good.

64 Forsomuch now as yee are sure, that they be no gods, feare them not.

65 For they can neither curse, nor blesse Kings:

66 Neither can they shewe signes in the heauen among the heathen, neither shine as the Moone.

67 The beasts are better then they: for they can get them vnder a couert, and doe themselues good.

68 So yee may be certified that by no maner of meanes they are gods: therefore feare them not,

69 For as a skarrow in a garden of cucumbers keepeth nothing, so are their gods of wood, and of siluer, and of golde:

70 And likewise their gods of wood, and gold, and siluer, are like to a white thorne in an orchard, that euery bird sitteth vpon, and as a dead body that is cast in the darke.

71 By the purple also and blackenesse which falleth vpon them, ye may vnderstand, that they be no gods: yea, they themselues shall be consumed at the last, and they shall be a shame to the countrey.

72 Better therefore is the iust man, that hath none idoles: for he shall be farre from reproofe.

¶ The song of the three holy children, which followeth in the third Chapter of Daniel, after this place, They fell downe bound into the middes of the hote fierie fornace.

23 The prayer of Azarias. 46 The crueltie of the king. 48 The flame deuoureth the Chaldeans. 49 The Angel of the Lord was in the fornace. 51 The three children prayse the Lorde, and prouoke all creatures to the same.

24 AND they walked in the mids of the flame, prayſing God, and magnifiéd the Lord.

25 Then Azarias ſtood vp, and prayed on this maner, and opening his mouth in the middes of the fire, ſayd, 26 Bleſſed bee thou, O Lord God of our fathers: thy Name is worthy to bee prayſed and honoured for euermore.

27 For thou art righteous in all the things, that thou haſt done vnto vs, and all thy workes are true, and thy wayes are right, and all thy iudgements eraritie.

28 In all the things that thou haſt brought vpon vs, and vpon Ieruſalem, the holy citie of our fathers, thou haſt executed true iudgements: for by right & equitie haſt thou brought all theſe things vpon vs because of our ſinnes.

29 For wee haue ſinned and done wickedly, departing from thee: in all things haue we treſpaſſed, 30 And not obeyed thy commandements, nor kept them, neither done as thou hadſt commanded vs, that we might proſper.

31 Wherefore in all that thou haſt brought vpon vs, and in euery thing that thou haſt done to vs, thou haſt done them in true iudgement:

32 As in deliuering vs into the hands of our wicked enemies, and moſt hatefull traitors, and to an vnrighteous king, and the moſt wicked in all the world.

33 And now wee may not open our mouthes: wee are become a ſhame and reproofe vnto thy ſeruants, and to them that worſhip thee.

34 Yet for thy Names ſake we beſeech thee, giue vs not vp for euer, neither breake thy Couenant,

35 Neither take away thy mercy from vs, for thy beloued Abrahams ſake, and for thy ſeruant Iſaacs ſake, and for thy holy Iſraels ſake, 36 To whom thou haſt ſpoken and promiſed, that thou wouldeſt multiply their ſeede as the ſtarres of heauen, and as the ſand, that is vpon the ſea ſhore.

37 For we, O Lord, are become leſſe then any nation, and be kept vnder this day in all the world, becauſe of our ſinnes:

38 So that now we haue neither Prince, nor Prophet, nor gouernour, nor burnt offering, nor ſacrifice, nor oblation, nor incenſe, nor place to offer before thee, and to finde mercie.

39 Neuertheleſſe, in a contrite heart, and an humble ſpirit, let vs be receiued.

40 As in the burnt offering of rammes and bullocks, and as in ten thouſand of fat lambes, ſo let our offering be in thy ſight this day, that it may pleaſe thee: for there is no confuſion to them, that put their truſt in thee.

41 And now we follow thee with all our heart, and feare thee, and ſeeke thy face.

42 Put vs not to ſhame, but deale with vs after thy louing kindneſſe, and according to the multitude of thy mercies.

43 Deliuer vs alſo by thy miracles, and giue thy Name the glory, O Lord, 44 That all they that doe thy ſeruants euill, may be confounded: euen let them be confounded by thy great power and power, and let their ſtrength be broken,

45 That they may know, that thou onely art the Lord God, a glorious ouer the whole world.

46 ¶ Now the Kings ſeruants that had caſt them in, ceaſed not to make the oouen hote with a naphtha, and with pitch, and with towe, and with fagots.

a Which is a certaine kinde of fat and chalkie clay, as Plinius writeth, 2. booke chap. 105.

47 So that the flame went out of the fornace fourtie and nine cubits.

48 And it brake forth, and burnt thoſe Chaldeans, that it found by the fornace.

49 But the Angel of the Lord went downe into the fornace with them that were with Azarias, and ſmote the flame of the fire out of the fornace, 50 And made in the middes of the fornace like a moyſt whiſling winde, ſo that the fire touched them not at all, neither grieued nor troubled them.

51 Then theſe three (as out of one mouth) prayſed, and glorified, and bleſſed God in the fornace, ſaying, 52 Bleſſed be thou, O Lord God of our fathers, and prayſed, and exalted aboue all things for euer, and bleſſed bee thy glorious & holy Name, and prayſed aboue all things, and magnified for euer.

53 Bleſſed be thou in the Temple of thine holy glory, and prayſed aboue all things, and exalted for euer.

54 Bleſſed be thou that beholdeſt the depths, and ſitteſt vpon the Cherubims, and prayſed aboue all things, and exalted for euer.

55 Bleſſed bee thou in the glorious throne of thy kingdome, and prayſed aboue all things, and exalted for euer.

56 Bleſſed bee thou in the firmament of heauen, and prayſed aboue all things, and glorified for euer.

¶ The hiſtorie of ‖ Suſanna, which ſome ioyne to the end of Daniel, and make it the thirteenth Chapter.

‖Or, Suſanna

1 The two gouernours are taken with the loue of Suſanna. 19 They take her alone in the garden. 20 They ſolicite her to wickednesſe. 23 She chuſeth rather to obey God, though it be to the danger of her life. 34 She is accuſed. 45 Daniel doth deliuer her. 62 The gouernours are put to death.

THere dwelt a man in Babylon called Joacim.

2 And he tooke a wife, whoſe name was Suſanna, the daughter of Helcias, a very faire woman, and one that feared God.

3 Her father and her mother alſo were godly people, and taught their daughter according to the Law of Moſes.

4 Now Joacim was a great rich man, and had a faire garden ioyning vnto his houſe, and to him reſorted the Iewes, becauſe he was moſt honourable then all others.

5 The ſame yere were appointed two of the ancients of the people to be Iudges, ſuch as the Lord ſpeaketh of, that the iniquitie came from Babylon, and from the ancient Iudges, which ſeemed to rule the people.

6 Theſe haunted Joacims houſe, and all ſuch as had any thing to doe in the Law, came thither vnto them.

7 Nowe when the people departed away at noone, Suſanna went into her husbands garden to walke.

8 And the two elders ſaw her that ſhe went in daily and walked, ſo that their lust was inflamed toward her.

9 Therefore they turned away their *mind, and caſt downe their eyes, that they ſhould not ſee heauen, nor remember iuſt iudgements.

*To wit, from God.

10 And albeit they were both wounded with her lone, yet durst not one shewe another his griefe.

11 For they were ashamed to declare their lust, that they desired to have to do with her.

12 Yet they watched diligently from day to day to see to her.

13 And the one said to the the other, Let vs goe now home, for it is dinner time.

14 So they went their way, and departed one from another: yet they returned againe, and came into the same place, and after that they had asked one another the cause, they acknowledged their lust: then appointed they a time both together when they might finde her alone.

15 Nowe when they had spied out a conuenient time, that she went in, as her manet was, with two maydes onely, and thought to wash her selfe in the garden, (for it was an hotte season)

16 And there was no body there, saue the two Elders that had hid themselues, and watched for her.

17 She saide to her maydes, Bring me oyle and sope, and shut the garden doores, that I may wash me.

18 And they did as she bade them, and shut the garden doores, & went out themselues at a backe doore, to fet the thing that she had commanded them: but they saw not the Elders, because they were hid.

19 Now when the maides were gone foorth, the two Elders rose vp and ranne vnto her, saying, 20 Beholde, the garden doores are shut, that no man can see vs, and wee burne in loue with thee: therefore consent vnto vs, and lie with vs.

21 If thou wilt not, we will beare witnesse against thee, that a yong man was with thee, and therefore thou didst lende away thy maydes from thee.

22 Then Sulanna sighed, and said, I am in trouble on euery side: for if I doe this thing, it is death vnto mee: and if I doe it not, I cannot escape your hands.

23 It is better for me to fall into your hands, and not doe it, then to sinne in the sight of the Lord.

24 With that Sulanna cryed with a loude voyce, and the two elders cried out against her.

25 Then ranne the one, and opened the garden doore.

26 ¶ So when the seruants of the house heard the cry in the garden, they rushed in at the backe doore, to see what was done vnto her.

27 But when the Elders had declared their matter, the seruants were greatly ashamed: for there was neuer such a report made of Sulanna.

28 On the morowe after, came the people to Joacim her husband, and the two Elders came also, full of wicked imagination against Sulanna, to put her to death, 29 And said before the people, Send for Sulanna the daughter of Helcias Joacims wife. And immediatly they sent.

30 So she came with her father and mother, her children and all her kinred.

31 Now Sulanna was very tender, and faire of face.

32 And these wicked men commanded to vncouer her face, (for she was couered) that they might be satisfied with her beauty.

33 Therefore they that were about her, and all that knew her, wept.

34 Then the two Elders stoode vp in the middes of the people, and layd their hands vpon her head.

35 Which wept, and looked vp toward heauen: for her heart trusted in the Lord.

36 And the Elders saide, As we walked in the garden alone, she came in with two maydes, whom she sent away from her, and shut the garden doores.

37 Then a yong man, which there was hid, came vnto her, and lay with her.

38 Then wee which stood in a corner of the garden, seeing this wickednesse, ran vnto them, and we saw them as they were together.

39 But we could not hold him: for he was stronger then we, and opened the doore and leaped out.

40 Now when we had taken this woman, we asked her what yong man this was, but she would not tell vs: of these things are we witnesses.

41 Then the assembly beleeued them, as those that were the Elders and iudges of the people: so they condemned her to death.

42 Then Sulanna cried out with aloude voyce, and saide, O euerlasting God, that knowest the secrets, and knowest all things afore they come to passe, 43 Thou knowest, that they haue borne false witnesse against me, and beholde, I must die, whereas I neuer did such things as these men haue maliciously inuented against me.

44 And the Lord heard her voyce.

45 ¶ Therefore when she was led to be put to death, the Lord raised vp the holy spirit of a yong childe, whose name was Daniel.

46 Who cryed with a loude voyce, I am cleane from the blood of this woman.

47 Then all the people turned them toward him, and said, What meane these wordes, that thou hast spoken?

48 Then Daniel stoode in the middes of them, and said, Are yee such fooles, O Israelites, that without examination, or knowledge of the trueth, yee haue condemned a daughter of Israel?

49 Returne againe to iudgement: for they haue borne false witnesse against her.

50 Wherefore the people turned againe in all haste, and the Elders said vnto him, Come, sit downe among vs, and shew it vs, seeing God hath giuen thee the office of an Elder.

51 Then said Daniel vnto them, Put these two aside, one farre from another, and I will examine them.

52 So when they were put asunder one from another, he called one of them and spake vnto him, O thou that art olde in a wicked life, now thy sinnes which thou hast committed aforetime are come to light.

53 For thou hast pronounced false iudgements, and hast condemned the innocent, and hast let the guiltie goe free, albeit the Lorde saith, The innocent and righteous shalt thou not slay. Exod. 23.7.

54 Now then, if thou hast seene her, tell me, Vnder what tree sawest thou them companying for, left.

57 Thus haue ye dealt with the daughters of Israel: and they for fear consented vnto you: but the daughter of Iuda would not abide your wickednesse.

58 Now therefore tell me, Vnder what tree didest thou take them companying together? who answered, Vnder a mastick tree.

for, mirtle tree.

59 Then sayd Daniel vnto him, Verily thou hast also lied against thine owne head: for loe, the Angel of God receiued of God the sentence of him, & shall cut thee in two.

60 So put he him aside, and commanded to bring the other, and sayd vnto him, O thou seede of Chanaan, and not of Iuda, beautie hath deceiued thee, and lust hath peruerted thine heart.

61 Thus haue ye dealt with the daughters of Israel, and they for fear companied with you: but the daughter of Iuda would not abide your wickednesse.

62 Now therefore tell me, Vnder what tree didest thou take them companying together? who answered, Vnder a mastick tree.

63 Then sayd Daniel vnto him, Verily thou hast also lied against thine owne head: for the Angel of God waiteth with the sword to cut thee in two, and to destroy you both.

64 Which when all the whole assembly heard with a loud voyce, and praised God, which saueth them that trust in him.

65 And they arose against the two Elders, (for Daniel had conuicted them of false witnesse by their owne mouth.)

66 And according to the Law of Moyses they dealt with them, as they dealt wickedly against their neighbour, and put them to death. Thus the innocent blood was saued the same day.

Deut. 19. 19. prou. 19. 5.

67 Therefore Helcias and his wife prayed God for their daughter Susanna, with Joacim her husband, and all the kinred, that there was no dishonestie found in her.

68 From that day forth was Daniel had in great reputation in the sight of the people.

69 And King Astyages was layed with his fathers, and Cyrus of Persia reigned in his stead.

The historie of Bel and of the Dragon, which is the fourteenth Chapter of Daniel after the Latine.

23 Iune 1580 Mon

NOw when King Astyages was layed with his fathers, Cyrus the Persian receiued his kingdome.

2 And Daniel did eate at the kings table, and was honoured aboue all his friends.

3 Now the Babylonians had an idole, called Bel, and there were spent vpon him euery day twelue a great measures of fine floure, and fourtie sheepe, and fiue great b pots of wine.

4 And the King worshipped it, and went daily to honour it: but Daniel worshipped his owne God. And the King sayd vnto him, Why doest not thou worship Bel?

5 Who answered, and sayd, Because I may not worship idoles made with handes, but the liuing God, which hath created the heauen and the earth, and hath power vpon all flesh.

6 Then sayde the king vnto him, Thinkest thou not that Bel is a liuing God? Seest thou not how much he eateth and drinketh euery day?

7 Then Daniel smiled and sayd, O king, be not deceiued: for this is but clay within, & brasse without, and did neuer eate any thing.

8 So the king was wroth, and called for his priests, and sayd vnto them, If yee tell mee not who this is that eateth vp these expenses, ye shall die:

9 But if yee can certifie me that Bel eateth them, then Daniel shall die: for he hath spoken blasphemie against Bel. And Daniel sayd vnto the king, Let it bee according to thy word.

10 Now the priests of Bel were threescore and ten, besides their wiues and children: and the King came with Daniel into the temple of Bel.

11 So Bels priests sayd, Beholde, wee will goe out, and set thou the meate there, O King, and let the wine bee tilled: then shut the doore fast, and seale it with thine owne signet.

12 And to morrow when thou comest in, if thou findest not that Bel hath eaten vp all, wee will suffer death, or els Daniel that hath lyed vpon vp.

13 Now they thought themselues sure enough for vnder the table they had made a priuie entrance, and there went they in euer, and tooke away the things.

14 So when they were gone forth, the King set meates before Bel. Now Daniel had commanded his seruants to bring ashes, and these did he sowed throughout all the Temple, in the presence of the King alone: then went they out, and shut the doore, and sealed it with the kings signet, and so departed.

15 Now in the night came the Priests with their wiues and children, (as they were wont to doe) and did eate and drinke vp all.

16 In the morning betimes, the King arose and Daniel with him.

17 And the king sayd, Daniel, are the seales whole? Who answered, Yea, O king, they be whole.

18 And assoone as hee had opened the doore, the king looked vpon the table, and cryed with a loud voyce, Great art thou, O Bel, and with thee is no deceit.

19 Then laughed Daniel, and held the king that he should not goe in, and sayd, Behold now the pauement, and marke well whose footesteps are these.

20 And the king sayd, I see the footesteps of men, women, and children: therefore the king was angry.

21 And tooke the Priests, with their wiues, and children, and they shewed him the priuie doores, where they came in, and consumed such things as were vpon the table.

22 There-

a Called Artaba, whereof euery one conteined somewhat more then ninegallons, which make in al an hundreth and eightgallons at the least.

b Called Metreta, and euery one of these measures conteined about two gallons, which in all make threescore.

22 Therefore the King slew them, and deliuered Bel into Daniels power, who destroyed him and his temple.

23 ¶ Moreouer in that same place there was a great dragon, which the Babylonians worshipped.

24 And the King sayd vnto Daniel, Canst thou that this is of brasse also? lo, he liueth, and eateth and drinketh, so that thou canst not say, that he is no liuing God: therefore worship him.

25 Then sayd Daniel vnto the King, I will worship the Lord my God: for he is the liuing God.

26 But giue mee leaue, O King, and I will slay this dragon without sworde or staffe. And the King sayd, I giue thee leaue.

27 Then Daniel tooke pitch, and fatte, and haire, and did seethe them together, and made lumpes thereof: this he put in the dragons mouth, and so the dragon burst in sunder. And Daniel sayd, Beholde, whom ye worship.

28 When the Babylonians heard it, they were wonderfull wroth, and gathered them together against the King, saying, The King is become a Iew: for he hath destroyed Bel, and hath slaine the dragon, and put the Priestes to death.

29 So they came to the King, and sayd, Deliuer vs Daniel, or else we will destroy thee and thine house.

30 Nowe when the King sawe, that they preassed sore vpon him, and that necessitie constrayned him, hee deliuered Daniel vnto them:

31 Who cast him into the Lions den, where he was sixe dayes.

32 In the denne there were seuen Lions, and they had giuen them euery day two bodies and two sheepe, which then were not giuen them, to the intent that they might deuoure Daniel.

33 ¶ Now there was in Iewrie a Prophet called Habacuc, which had made pottage, and broken bread into a bowle, and was going into the field, for to bring it to the reapers.

34 But the Angel of the Lord sayd vnto Habacuc, Go, carry the meate that thou hast into Babylon vnto Daniel, which is in the Lions denne.

35 And Habacuc sayde, Lorde I neuer sawe Babylon, neither doe I know where the denne is.

36 Then the Angel tooke him by the crowne of the head, and bare him by the haire of the head, and through a mighty winde set him in Babylon vpon the denne.

37 And Habacuc cryed, sayinge, O Daniel, Daniel, take the dinner that God hath sent thee.

38 Then sayde Daniel, O God, thou hast thought vpon mee, and thou neuer failest them that seeke thee and loue thee.

39 So Daniel arose, and did eat, and the Angel of the Lord set Habacuc in his owne place againe immediately.

40 Vpon the seuenth day the King went to bewaile Daniel: and when he came to the den, he looked in, and beholde, Daniel sate in the midst of the Lions.

41 Then cryed the King with a loud voyce, saying, Great art thou, O Lord God of Daniel, and there is none other beside thee.

42 And he drew him out of the den, and cast them that were the cause of his destruction into the denne, and they were deuoured in a moment before his face.

1 The death of Alexander the king of Macedonia. 11 Antiochus taketh the kingdome. 12 Many of the children of Israel make couenant with the Gentiles. 21 Antiochus subdueth Egypt and Ierusalem vnto his dominion. 50 Antiochus setteth vp idolatrie.

AFter that Alexander the Macedonian, the sonne of Philip, went fourth of the land of Chettiim, and slew Darius King of the Persians and Medes, and reigned for him, as he had before in Grecia,

2 he tooke great warres in hand, and wanne strong holdes, and slew the Kings of the earth.

3 So went hee thorow to the endes of the worlde, and tooke spoyles of many nations, in so much that the worlde stoode in awe of him: therefore his heart was puffed vp and was hautie.

4 Nowe when hee had gathered a mighty strong hoste,

5 And had reigned ouer regions, nations, and kingdomes, they became tributaries vnto him.

6 After these things hee fell sicke, and knew that he should die.

7 Then hee called for the chiefe of his seruants, which had bene brought vp with him of children, and parted his kingdom among them, while he was yet aliue.

8 So Alexander had reigned twelue yeeres when he died.

9 And his seruants reigned euery one in his roome.

10 And they all caused themselues to be crowned after his death, and so did their children after them many yeeres: and much wickednesse increased in the world.

11 For out of these came the wicked roote, euen Antiochus Epiphanes, the sonne of king Antiochus, which had bene an hostage at Rome, and he reigned in the hundreth and seuen and thirtieth yeere of the kingdome of the Grekes.

12 In those dayes went there out of Israel wicked men, which entised many, saying, Let vs goe, and make a couenant with the the heathen that are round about vs: for since we departed from them, we haue had much sorrow.

13 So this deuice pleased them well:

14 And certaine of the people were readie, and went to the King, which gaue them licence to do after the ordinances of the heathen.

15 Then set they vp a place of exercise at Jerusalem, according to the customs of the heathen, 16 And made themselues vncircumcised, and forsooke the holy Couenant, and ioyned themselues to the heathen, and were sold to do mischiefe.

17 So when Antiochus kingdome was set in order, hee went about to reigne ouer Egypt, that he might haue the dominion of two Realmes.

18 Therefore hee entred into Egypt with a mightie company, with Chariots, and Elephants, and with horsemen, and with a great nauie, 19 And moued warre against Ptolemeus King of Egypt: but Ptolemeus was afraid of him, and fled, and many were wounded to death.

20 Thus they conquered strong cities in the land of Egypt, and tooke away the spoiles of the land of Egypt.

21 And after that Antiochus had smitten Egypt, hee turned againe in the hundreth fourtie and three yeere,

22 And came vp against Israel and Jerusalem with a mightie people,

23 And entred proudly into the Sanctuarie, and tooke away the golden Altar, and the Candlestick for the light, and all the instruments thereof, and the Table of the shewbread, and the powring vessels, and the boules, and the golden viols, and the vaile, and the crowne, and the golden ornaments that were before the Temple, all which he pild and tooke away.

24 He tooke also the siluer and golde, and the precious vessels, and he tooke the secret treasures that he found; and when he had taken all away, he departed into his owne land, 25 After he had murthered many men, and spoken very proudly.

26 Therefore there was a great lamentation in euery place of Israel, 27 So that the Princes and the Elders mourned: the young women and the young men were made feeble, and the beautie of the women was changed.

28 Euery bridegroome tooke him to mourning, and she that sate in the marriage chamber mourned for heauinesse.

29 The land also was moued for the inhabitants thereof: for all the house of Iacob was couered with confusion.

30 After two yeeres the King sent his chiefe tributemaister into the cities of Juda, which came to Jerusalem with a great multitude, 31 And spake peaceable words to them in deceit, and they gaue credit vnto him.

32 Then fell he suddenly vpon the citie, and smote it with a great plague, & destroyed much people of Israel.

33 And when he had pild the citie, & set fire round about, pulling downe the houses thereof, and walles thereof on euery side, 34 The women and their children tooke they captiue, and led away the cattell.

35 Then builded they the city of Dauid with a great and strong wall, and with mighty towers, and made it a strong hold for them.

36 And they put therein a sinfull nation, wicked men, & fortified themselues therein.

37 And they layed it with weapons and victuailes, and gathered the spoyle of Jerusalem, and laid it vp there, 38 Thus became they a sore snare, and were an ambushment for the Sanctuarie, and were wicked aduersaries vnto Israel.

39 Thus they shed innocent blood on euery side of the Sanctuarie, and defiled the Sanctuarie.

40 Insomuch that the citizens of Jerusalem fled away because of them, and it became an habitation of strangers, being desolate of them whom she had borne: & her owne children did leaue her.

41 Her Sanctuarie was left waste as a wilderneſſe, her feasts were turned into mourning, her Sabbaths into reproch, and her honor brought to nought.

42 As her glory had bene great, so was her dishonour, and her excellencie was turned into sadnes.

43 Also the King wrote vnto all his kingdom, that all the people should be as one, and that euery man should leaue his lawes.

44 And all the heathen agreed to the commandement of the king.

45 Yea, many of the Israelites consented to his religion, offring vnto idols, and defiling the Sabbath.

46 So the king sent letters by the messengers vnto Jerusalem, and to the cities of Juda, that they should follow the strange lawes of the countrey,

47 And that they should forbid the burnt offrings and sacrifices, and the offrings in the Sanctuary,

48 And that they should defile the Sabbaths and the feasts,

49 And pollute the Sanctuary and the holy men,

50 And to set vp altars and groues, and chappels of idoles, and offer swines flesh, and vncleane beasts,

51 And that they should leaue their children vncircumcised, and defile their soules with vncleannesse, and pollute themselues, that they might forget the Law, and change all the ordinances.

52 And that whosoeuer would not doe according to the commandement of the king, should suffer death.

53 In like manner wrote hee throughout all his kingdomes, and set ouerseers ouer all the people, for to compell them to doe these things.

54 And he commanded the cities of Juda to doe sacrifice, citie by citie.

55 Then went many of the people vnto them by heapes, euery one that forsooke the Law, and so they committed euill in the land, 46 And they drove the Israelites into secret places, even wheresoever they could flee for succour.

47 The fifteenth day of Casleu, in the hundreth and five and fortieth yeere, they set vp the abomination of desolation vpon the altar, and they builded altars throughout the cities of Iudah on every side.

48 And before the doores of the houses, and in the streetes they burnt incense.

49 And the bookes of the Law, which they found, they burnt in the fire, and cut in pieces.

50 Whosoeuer had a booke of the Testament found by him, or whosoeuer consented vnto the Law, the kings commandement was, that they should put him to death by their authoritie.

51 And they executed these things euery moneth vpon the people of Israel that were found in the cities.

52 And in the five and twentieth day of the moneth, they did sacrifice vpon the altar, which was in the stead of the altar of sacrifices.

53 And according to the commandement, they put certaine women to death, which had caused their children to be circumcised.

54 And they hanged vp the children at their breckes, and they spoyled their houses, and slew the circumcisers of them.

55 Yet were there many in Israel, which were of courage, and determined in themselues, that they would not eat vncleane things.

56 But chose rather to suffer death, then to bee defiled with those meates: so because they would not breake the holy couenant, they were put to death.

57 And this ‖ tyrannie was very great vpon the people of Israel.

CHAP. II.

1 The mourning of Mattathias and his sonnes for the destruction of the holy citie. 19 They refuse to doe sacrifice vnto idoles. 24 The zeale of Mattathias for the law of God. 33 They are slaine, and will not fight againe because of the Sabbath day. 49 Mattathias dying, commaundeth his sonnes to stirre by the word of God, after the example of the fathers.

Ioseph. Ant. 12. cap. 7.

IN those dayes stood vp Mattathias the priest, the sonne of Joannes, the sonne of Simeon, of the sonnes of Joarib of Jerusalem, and dwelt in Modin.

2 And hee had fiue sonnes, Joannan called Gaddis,

3 Simon called Thassi,

4 Judas which was called Maccabeus,

5 Eleazar called ‖ Abaron, and Jonathan, whose name was Apphus.

‖ Or, Auaran.

6 Now he saw the blasphemies, which were committed in Juda and Jerusalem:

7 And he said, Woe is me: wherefore was I borne, to see this destruction of my people, and the destruction of the holy citie, and thus to sit still? it is deliuered into the handes of the enemies.

8 And the Sanctuarie is in the handes of strangers: her Temple is as a man that hath no renowme.

9 Her glorious vessels are caried away into captiuitie: her infants are slaine in the streetes, and her young men are fallen by the sworde of the enemie.

10 What people is not of her kingdome, and hath not gotten of her spoyles?

11 All her glory is taken away, of a free woman, she is become as a bondmaid.

12 Behold, our sanctuarie, and our beautie, and honour is desolate, and the Gentiles haue defiled it.

13 What profite shall we then haue any longer?

14 And Mattathias rent his clothes, he, and his sonnes, and put sackcloth vpon them, and mourned very sore.

15 ¶ Then came men from the King to the citie of Modin, to compell them to forsake God, and to sacrifice.

16 Diuers of the Israelites consented vnto them: but Mattathias and his sonnes assembled together.

17 Then spake the commissioners of the king, and said vnto Mattathias, Thou art the chiefe and an honourable man, and great in this citie, and hast many children and brethren.

18 Come thou therefore first, and fulfill the kings commandement, as all the heathen haue done, and also the men of Juda, and such as remaine at Jerusalem, so shalt thou and thy familie bee in the Kings fauour, and thou and thy children shall be enriched with siluer and golde, and with many rewards.

19 Then Mattathias answered and said with a loud voyce, Though all nations that are vnder the kings power, obey him, and fall away euery man from the religion of their fathers, and consent to his wordes and commandements:

20 Yet will I and my sonnes and my brethren, walke in the couenant of our fathers.

21 God be merciful vnto vs, that we forsake not the law and the ordinances.

22 We will not hearken vnto the Kings wordes to transgresse our religion, neither on the right hand nor on the left.

23 And when hee had left off speaking these words, there came one of the Iewes in the sight of all, to sacrifice vpon the altar which was at Modin, according to the kings commandement.

24 Now when Mattathias saw it, he was inflamed with zeale, that his reines shooke, and his wrath was kindled according to the ordinance of the law: therefore hee ranne vnto him, and killed him by the altare.

25 And at the same time hee slew the Kings commissioner, that compelled him to doe sacrifice, and destroyed the altar.

26 Thus hare he a zeale to the Law of God, * doing as Phinees did vnto Zambri the sonne of Salom.

27 ¶ Then cryed Mattathias with a loude voyce in the citie, saying, Whosoeuer is zealous of the Lawe, and will stand by the couenant, let him come forth after me.

28 So he, and his sonnes fled into the mountaines, and left all that they had in the citie.

29 Then many that ‖ sought after iustice and iudgement,

30 Went downe into the wildernes, to dwell there, both they, and their children, and their wiues and their cattell: for the afflictions increased sore vpon them.

31 ¶ Now when it was told vnto the kings seruants, a The father promiseth for his children, that they shall serue God: so doeth Iosh. for his household, Iosh. 24. 15.

seruants, and to the garisons, which were in Jerusalem in the citie of Dauid, that men had broken the Kings commandement, and were gone downe into the secret places in the wildernesse,

32 Then they pursued after them: and hauing ouertaken them, they camped against them and set the battell in aray against them on the Sabbath day, 33 And said vnto them, Let this now bee sufficient: come forth and do according to the commandement of the King, and ye shall liue.

34 But they answered, We will not goe forth, neither will we doe the kings commandement, to defile the Sabbath day.

35 Then they gaue them the battell.

36 Wel the other answered them nothing, neither cast any one stone at them, or stopped the priuie places, 37 But said, We will die all in our innocencie: the heauen and earth shall testifie for vs, that ye destroy vs wrongfully.

38 Thus they gaue them the battell vpon the Sabbath, and slew both men and cattell, their wiues & their children to the number of a thousand people.

39 ¶When Mattathias and his friends vnderstood this, they mourned for them greatly,

40 And said one to another, If we all doe as our brethren haue done, and fight not against the heathen for our liues, and for our lawes, then shall they incontinently destroy vs out of the earth.

41 Therefore they concluded at the same time, saying, Whosoeuer shall come to make battell with vs vpon the Sabbath day, we will fight against him, that wee die not all, as our brethren that were murthered in the secret places.

42 Then came vnto them the assembly of the Asideans, which were of the strongest men of Israel, all such as were well minded toward the Law.

43 And all they that were fled for persecution, ioyned themselues vnto them, and were an helpe vnto them.

44 So they gathered a power, and smote the wicked men in their wrath, and the vngodly in their anger, but the rest fled vnto the heathen, and escaped.

45 Then Mattathias and his friends went about and destroyed the altars,

46 And circumcised the children by force that were vncircumcised, as many as they found within the coasts of Israel, 47 And they put them after the proude men: and this act prospered in their hands.

48 So they recouered the Law out of the hand of the Gentiles, and out of the hand of kings, and gaue not place to the wicked.

49 Now when the time drewe neere, that Mattathias should die, he said vnto his sonnes, Now is pride and perfection increased, and the time of destruction, and the wrath of indignation.

50 Now therefore, my sonnes, be ye zealous of the Law, and giue your liues for the couenant of our fathers.

51 Call to remembrance what acts our fathers did in their time: so shall ye receiue great honour and an euerlasting name.

52 *Was not Abraham found faithful in tentation, and it was imputed vnto him for righteousnesse? Gen.22.9, 1.Mac.4.3.

65 And beholde, I know that your brother Simon is a man of counsell: giue eare vnto him alway: he shalbe a father vnto you.

67 Then shall ye bring vnto you all those that obserue the Lawe, and shall auenge the iniuries of your people.

68 Recompence fully the heathen, and giue your tribes to the commandement of the Law.

69 So he blessed them, and was laid with his fathers.

70 And died in the hundreth, fortie and first yeere, and his sonnes buried him in his fathers sepulchre at Modin, and all Israel made great lamentation for him.

CHAP. III.

Judas is made ruler ouer the Israel. 11 He killeth Apollonius and Seron the princes of Syria. 44 His confidence of Judas toward God. 55 Judas determineth to fight against Lysias, whom Antiochus had made captaine ouer his host.

THen Judas his sonne, called Maccabeus, rose vp in his place.

2 And all his brethren helped him, and all they that held with his father, and fought with courage the battell of Israel.

3 So he gate his people great honour: he put on a brest plate as a giant, and armed himselfe, and set the battell in aray, protecting the campe with his sword.

4 In his actes he was like a Lion, and as a Lions whelpe roaring after the praye.

5 For he pursued the wicked, & sought them out, and burnt vp those that vexed his people.

6 So

6 So that the wicked fled by reason of him, and all the workers of iniquity were put to trouble: and saluation prospered in his hands.

7 And he grieued many Kings, but Iacob reioyced by his actes, and his memoriall is blessed for euer.

8 Moreouer also through the streets of Iuda, and destroyed the wicked out of them, & turned away the wrath from Israel.

9 So was he renowned vnto the ends of the earth, and he assembled together those that were ready to perish.

10 ¶ Then Apollonius gathered the Gentiles, and a great hoste out of Samaria, to fight against Israel.

11 Which when Iudas perceiued, he went forth to meete him, and smote him, and slew him, so that many fell downe slaine, and the rest fled.

12 So Iudas woke their spoiles, and took also Apollonius sword, and fought with it all his life long.

13 ¶ Now when Seron a prince of the armie of Syria, heard that Iudas had gathered vnto him the congregation, and company of the faithfull, and went forth to the warre, 14 He said, I will get me a name, and will be glorious in the Realme: For I will go fight with Iudas, and them that are with him, which haue despised the Kings commaundement.

15 So he made him ready to go vp, and there went with him a mighty hoste of the vngodly to helpe him, and to be auenged of the children of Israel.

16 And when he came neere to the going vp of Beth-horon, Iudas went forth to meete him with a small company.

17 But when they saw the armie comming against them, they said to Iudas, How are we able, being so few, to fight against so great a multitude and strong, seeing we be so weary, and haue fasted all this day?

18 Then said Iudas, It is an easie thing for many to be shut vp in the handes of few, and there is no difference before the God of heauen, to deliuer by a great multitude, or by a small company.

19 For the victorie of the warre standeth not in the multitude of the hoste, but the strength commeth from heauen.

20 They come against vs with a proude and proude multitude to destroy vs, and our wiues, and our children, and to robbe vs, 21 But we doe fight for our liues, and for our Lawes.

22 And God himselfe will destroy them before our face: therefore be not ye afraid of them.

23 And when he had left off speaking, he leapt suddenly vpon them: so was Seron and his hoste destroyed before him.

24 And they pursued them from the going downe of Beth-horon vnto the plaine: where there were slaine eight hundreth men of them, & the residue fled into the land of the Philistims.

25 Then the feare and terrour of Iudas and his brethren fell vpon the nations round about.

26 So that his fame came vnto the King: for all the Gentiles could tell of the warres of Iudas.

27 ¶ But when king Antiochus heard these tidings, he was angrie in his minde: wherefore he sent forth, and gathered all the power of his Realme, a verie strong armie, 28 And opened his treasure, and gaue his hoste a yeres wages in hand, commaunding them to be ready for a yere for all occasions.

29 Furthermore, when he saw that the money of his treasures failed, and that the tributes in the countrey were small, because of the dissention, and plagues that he had brought vpon the land, in taking away the Lawes which had been of old time,

30 He feared least he should not haue now at the second time, as at the first, for the charges and gifts that he had giuen with a liberall hand afore: for in Iudea little he farre passed the other Kings that were before him.

31 Eftherefore he was heauie in his minde, and thought to goe into Persia, for to take tributes of the countreyes, and to gather much money.

32 So he left Lysias a noble man, and of the Kings blood to ouerlee the kings businesse, from the riuer of Euphrates, vnto the borders of Egypt.

33 And to bring vp his sonne Antiochus, till he came againe.

34 Moreouer, he gaue him halfe of his hoste and Elephants, and gaue him the charge of all things that he would haue done,

35 And concerning those which dwelt in Iuda and Ierusalem, that he should send an armie against them, to destroy and roote out the power of Israel and the remnant of Ierusalem, and to put out their memoriall from that place, 36 And to set strangers for to inhabite all their quarters, and part their land among them.

37 And the king tooke the halfe of the hoste that remained, and departed from Antiochia his royall citie, in the yere an hundreth fourtie and seuen, and passed the riuer Euphrates, and went through the high countries.

38 Then Lysias chose Ptolomeus the sonne of Dorymenus, and Nicanor, & Gorgias mightie men and the kings friends, 39 And sent with them fourty thousand footmen, and seuen thousand horsemen, to goe into the land of Iuda, and to destroy it, as the king commanded.

40 So they went forth with all their power and came & pitched by † Emmaus in the plaine countrey.

† Emmaus.

41 Now when the merchants of the countrey heard the rumour of them, they tooke very much siluer and gold, and seruants, and came into the campe to buy the children of Israel for slaues, and the strength of Syria, and of strange nations ioyned with them.

42 ¶ Now when Iudas and his brethren sawe that troubles increased, and that the hoste drew neere vnto their borders, considering the kings words, whereby he had commanded to destroy the people, and vtterly abolish them, 43 They sayd one to another, Let vs redresse the decay of our people, and let vs fight for our people, and for our Sanctuarie.

44 Then the congregation were soone ready gathered to fight, and to pray, and to desire mercie and compassion.

45 As for Ierusalem, it was not inhabited, but was as a wildernesse. There went none that was borne in it, in or out at it, and the Sanctuary a Who was gouernour of Syria, Ioseph. Antiq. 12. chap. 9.

Sanctuarie was troden downe, and the strangers kept the fortresse, and it was the habitation of the heathen: and the mirth of Jacob was taken away: the pipe and the harpe ceased.

46 So they gathered themselues together, and came to Maliphha before Jerusalem: for at Maliphha was the place where they prayed aforetime in Israel.

47 And they fasted that day, and put sackcloth vpon them, and cast ashes vpon their heads, and rent their clothes,

48 And opened the booke of the law, wherein the heathen sought to paint the likenesse of their idoles, 49 And brought the Priests garments, and the first fruites, and the tithes, and set there the Nazarites, which accomplished their dayes.

50 And they cryed with a loud voyce toward heauen, saying, What shall we do with these? and whither shall we carry them away?

51 For thy Sanctuarie is troden downe and defiled, and thy Priestes are in heauinesse, and brought downe.

52 And beholde, the heathen are come against vs, to destroy vs: thou knowest what things they imagine against vs.

53 How can we stand before them, except thou helpe vs?

54 Then they blew the trumpets, and cryed with a loud voice.

55 And after this Judas ordeined captaines ouer the people, euen captaines ouer thousandes, and captaines ouer hundreths, ouer fiftes, and captaines ouer tens.

56 And they commanded them that builded houses, or married wiues, or planted vineyardes, or were fearefull, that they should returne euerie one to his owne house, according to the Law.

Deut. 20 5 marg. 7. 3.

57 So the hoste remoued, and pitched vpon the South side of Emmaus.

58 Then Judas said, Arme your selues and be valiant men, & be ready against the morning to fight with these gentiles, which are gathered together against vs, to destroy vs & our Sanctuarie.

59 For it is better for vs to die in battell, then to see the calamities of our people and of our Sanctuarie.

60 Neuertheles, as the will of God is in heauen, so be it.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Judas goeth against Gorgias which lieth in waite. 14 He putteth Gorgias and his hoste to flight. 28 Lysias inuadeth Iudea. 29 But Iudas driueth him out. 43 Iudas purifieth the Temple, and dedicateth the altar.

Then tooke Gorgias fiue thousand foote men, and a thousand of the best horsemen, and departed out of the campe by night, Ioseph. lib. 12. chap. 10.

2 To inuade the campe of the Iewes, and to slay them suddenly: and the men of the fortresse were his guides.

3 Now when Judas heard it, he remoued, and they that were valiant men, to smite the Kings armie which was at Emmaus,

4 Whiles yet the armie was dispersed from the campe,

5 In the meane season came Gorgias by night into Judas campe: and when he found no man there, he sought them in the mountaines: for sayd he, they flee from vs.

6 But assoone as it was day, Judas shewed himselfe in the fielde with three thousand men, which had neither harnesse nor swordes to their mindes.

7 And they saw that the armies of the heathen were strong and well armed, and their horse men about them, and that they were expert men of warre.

8 Then sayde Judas to the men that were with him, Feare ye not their multitude, neither be afraid of their assaute.

9 Remember how our fathers were deliuered in the red Sea, when Pharaoh pursued them with an armie. Exod. 14 9. 29.

10 Therefore now let vs crie vnto heauen, and the Lord will haue mercie vpon vs, and remember the couenant of our fathers, and will destroy this hoste before our face this day.

11 So shall all the heathen know, that there is one, which deliuereth and saueth Israel.

12 Then the strangers lift vp their eyes, and saw them comming against them, 13 And they went out of their tents into the battel, and they that were with Judas blewe the trumpets.

14 So they ioyned together, and the heathen were discomfited, and fled by the plaine.

15 But the hindmost of them fell by the sword, and they pursued them vnto Gazeron, and vnto the plaines of Idumea, and of Azotus, and of Jamnia, so that there were slaine of them about three thousand men. Or, Assemeth.

16 So Judas turned againe with his hoste, from pursuing them,

17 And said vnto the people, Be not greedy of the spoiles: for there is a battell before vs.

18 And Gorgias and the armie is here by vs in the mountaine: but stand yee now fast against your enemies, and ouercome them: then may ye safely take the spoiles.

19 As Judas was speaking these wordes, there appeared one part which looked from the mountaines.

20 But when Gorgias saw that his were fled, and that Judas souldiers burnt the tents: (for the smoake that was seene, declared what was done.)

21 When they sawe these things, they were sore afraid, and when they saw also that Judas and his hoste were in the field ready to fight, 22 They fled euery one into the land of strangers.

23 So Judas turned againe to spoile the tents, where he gate much gold and siluer, and precious stones, and purple of the sea, and great riches.

24 Thus they went home, and sung Psalmes and praised toward the heauen: for he is gracious, and his mercie endureth for euer.

25 And so Israel had a great victory in that day.

26 ¶ Now all the strangers that escaped, came, and tolde Lysias all the things that were done.

27 Who when he heard these things was sore afraid & discouraged, because such things came not vpon Israel as he would, neither such things as the king had commanded him, came to passe.

28 Therefore the next yeere following, gathered Lysias threescore thousand choosen foote men, men, and five thousand horsemen to fight against Jerusalem.

29 So they came into ‖ Idumea, and pitched their tents at ‖ Beth-sura, where Judas came against them with ten thousand men.

30 And when he saw that mighty army, he prayed, and said, Blessed be thou, O Saviour of Israel, which didst destroy the assault of the mighty man by the hand of thy servant David, and gavest the host of the strangers into the hand of Jonathan, the sonne of Saul, and of his armour bearer:

31 Shut up this army in the hand of thy people of Israel, and let them bee confounded with their power, and with their horsemen.

32 Make them afraide, and consume their boldnesse and strength, that they may be astonished at their destruction.

33 Cast them downe by the sword of them that love thee: then shall all they that know thy Name, praise thee with songs.

34 So they joyned together, and there were slaine of Lysias host, five thousand men, and they fell before them.

35 Then Lysias, seeing his army put to flight, and the manlinesse of Judas souldiers, and that they were ready, either to live or die valiantly, he went into Antiochia, and gathered strangers, and when he had furnished his army, he thought againe (being prepared) to come against Judea.

36 Then said Judas & his brethren, Behold, our enemies are discomfited: let us now goe up, to cleanse and to repaire the Sanctuary.

37 So all the host gathered them together, and went up into the mountaine of Sion.

38 Now when they saw the Sanctuary layde waste, and the altar defiled, & the doores burnt up, and the shrubs growing in the courts, as in a forest, or as on one of the mountaines, and that the Priests chambers were broken downe,

39 They rent their clothes, and made great lamentation, and cast ashes upon their heads, 40 And fell downe to the ground on their faces, and blew an alarme with the trumpets, and cried toward heaven.

41 Then Judas commaunded certaine of the men to fight against those which were in the castle, till he had cleansed the Sanctuary.

42 So he chose Priests that were undefiled, such as delighted in the law,

43 And they cleansed the Sanctuary, and bare out the defiled stones into an uncleane place, 44 And consulted what to doe with the altar of burnt offerings which was polluted.

45 So they thought it was best to destroy it, lest it should be a reproch unto them, because the heathen had defiled it: therefore they destroyed the altar, 46 And layed up the stones upon the mountaine of the Temple in a convenient place, till there should come a prophet, to shew what should be done with them.

47 So they tooke whole stones according to the Law, and builded a newe altar according to the former,

48 And made up the Sanctuary, and the things that were within the Temple, and the courts, and all things.

49 They made also newe holy vessels, and brought into the Temple the candlestucke, and the altar of burnt offerings, and of incense, and the table.

50 And they burnt incense upon the altar, and lighted the lamps which were upon the candlestucke, that they might burne in the Temple.

51 They set also the shew bread upon the table, and hanged up the vailes, and finished all the workes that they had begun to make.

52 And upon the five and twentieth day of the ninth moneth, which is called the moneth of Chasleu, in the hundreth and eight and fortieth yere they arose up betimes in the morning, 53 And offred sacrifice according to the Law, upon the new altar of burnt offerings, that they had made.

54 According to the time, and according to the day, that the heathen had defiled it, in the same day, was it made new with songs, and harpes, and lutes, and cymbals.

55 And all the people fell upon their faces, worshipping and praising toward the heaven him that had given them good successe.

56 So they kept the dedication of the altar eight dayes, offering burnt offerings with gladnesse, and offred sacrifices of deliverance and praise.

57 And decked the forefront of the Temple with crownes of gold and shields, and dedicated the gates and chambers, and hanged doores upon them.

58 Thus there was very great gladnesse among the people, and the reproch of the heathen was put away.

59 So Judas and his brethren with the whole congregation of Israel ordained that the dayes of dedication of the altar should be kept in their season from yere to yere, by the space of eight dayes, from the five and twentieth day of the moneth Chasleu, with mirth and gladnesse.

60 And at the same time builded they up mount Sion with high walles and strong towres round about, lest the Gentiles should come and tread it downe, as they had done afore.

61 Therefore they set a garison there to keepe it, and fortified Beth-sura to keepe it, that the people might have a defence against Idumea.

3 Judas vanquished the heathen that goe about to destroy Israel, and is holpen of his brethren Simon and Jonathan. 50 He overthroweth the citie of Ephron, because they denied him passage thorow it.

NOw when the nations round about heard, that the altar was builded, and the Sanctuary renewed as afore, they were sore grieved. Ioseph lib. 13. cap. 13

2 Therefore they thought to destroy the generation of Jacob that was among them, and began to slay and destroy the people.

delighted them, and destroyed them utterly, and burnt their towers with fire, with all that were in them.

6 Afterwards, went he against the children of Ammon, where he found a mighty power, and a great multitude with Timotheus their captaine.

7 So he had many battels with them, but they were destroyed before him, and so he discomfited them,

8 And took Gazer, with the townes thereof, and so turned againe into Judea.

9 ¶ Then the heathen that were in Galaad, gathered them together against the Israelites that were in their quarters, to slay them: but they fled to the castle of Datheman,

10 And sent letters to Judas, and to his brethren, saying, The heathen that are about us, are gathered against us, to destroy us.

11 And they make them ready for to come, and to take the fortresse, wherevnto ye are fled, and Timotheus is captaine of their hoste.

12 Come now therefore, and deliuer us out of their hands: for many of us are slaine:

13 And all our brethren that were at Tubin, are slaine, and they have taken away their wiues and their children, and their goods, and destroyed there almost a thousand men.

14 While these letters were yet a reading, behold, there came other messengers from Galile, with their clothes rent, which bolde the same tidings, 15 And sayd that they of Ptolemais, and of Tyrus, and of Sidon, and of all Galile of the Gentiles were gathered against them to destroy them.

16 When Judas and the people heard these wordes, a great congregation came together, to consult what they might doe for their brethren that were in trouble, and whome they besieged.

17 Then sayde Judas to Simon his brother, Chuse thee out men, and go and deliuer thy brethren in Galile, and I and my brother Jonathan will go into the countrey of Galaad.

18 ¶ So he left Jolephus the sonne of Zacharias, and Azarias to bee captaines of the people, and to keepe the remnant of the hoste in Judea.

19 And commanded them, saying, Take the ouerlight of this people, and make no warre against the heathen, vntill we come againe.

20 And vnto Simon were giuen three thousand men, to goe into Galile, and to Judas eight thousand men for the country of Galaad.

21 Then went Simon into Galilee, and gaue diuers battels to the heathen, and the heathen were discomfited by him.

22 And hee pursued them vnto the gates of Ptolemais: and there were slaine of the heathen almost three thousand men: so hee tooke their spoiles.

23 Thus they rescued them that were in Galile and in Arbattis with their wiues, and their children, and all that they had, and brought them into Judea with great ioy.

24 ¶ Judas Maccabeus also, and his brother Jonathan went ouer Jorden, & trauailed three dales iourney in the wilderneſſe,

25 Where they met with the Nabathites, who receiued them louingly, & tolde them euery thing that was done vnto their brethren in the country of Galaad,

26 And howe that many of them were besieged in Bosora, and Bosor, in Alemis, Chaſphon, Maged and Carnaim (all these cities are strong and great)

27 And that they were kept in other cities of Galaad, and to morrowe they are appointed to bring their hoste vnto these gates, and to take them, and to destroy them all in one day.

28 So Judas and his hoste turned in all haste by the way of the wildernesse towarde Bosora, and wanne the citie, and slew all the males with the edge of the sword, and tooke all their spoile, and set fire vpon the citie.

29 And in the night he remoued from thence, and went toward the fortresse.

30 And betimes in the morning when they looked vp, beholde, there was an innumerable people bearing ladders, and instruments of warre, to take the fort, and had assaulted them.

31 When Judas sawe that the battell was begun, and that the cry of the citie went vp to heauen with trumpets, and a great sound, 32 Then he sayd vnto the armie, Fight this day for your brethren.

33 So he went forth behinde them with three companies, and they blew the trumpets, and cried with prayer.

34 Then the hoste of Timotheus knewe, that it was Maccabeus, and they fled from him, and he smote them with a great slaughter, so that there was killed of them the same day, almost eight thousand men.

35 ¶ Then departed Judas vnto Maspha, and layde siege vnto it, and wan it, and slew all the males thereof, and spoiled it, and set fire vpon it.

36 From thence went he and tooke Chaſphon, Maged, and Bosor, and the other cities in Galaad.

37 After these things gathered Timotheus another hoste, and he campeth before Raphon beyond the flood.

38 Now Judas had sent to espie the hoste, and they brought him word againe, saying, All the heathen that bee round about us, are gathered vnto him, and the hoste is very great.

39 And hee hath hired the Arabians to helpe them, and they haue pitched their tents beyond the flood, and are ready to come & fight against thee. So Judas went to meet them.

40 Then Timotheus sayd vnto the captains of his hoste, When Judas and his hoste come nere to the flood, if he passe ouer first vnto vs, we shall not be able to withstand him: for he will be too strong for vs.

41 But if he be afraid, and campe beyond the flood, we will goe ouer vnto him, and shall preuaile against him.

42 Now when Judas came neere to the flood, he caused the gouernors of the people to remaine by the flood, and commanded them, saying, Suffer none to pitch a tent, but let euery man come to the battell.

43 So hee went first ouer toward them, and all the people after him: and al the heathen were discomfited before him, and cast away their weapons, and fled into the temple that was at Carnaim.

44 Which citie Iudas wanne, and burnt the Temple with all that were in it: so was Carnaim subdued, and might not withstand Iudas.

45 ¶ Then Iudas gathered all the Israelites that were in the countrey of Galaad, from the least vnto the most, with their wiues and their children, and their baggage, a very great hoste, to come into the land of Iuda.

46 So they came vnto Ephron, which was a great citie by the way, and strongly defenced: they could not passe, neither at the right hand nor at the left, but must go thorow it.

47 But they that were in the citie, shut themselues in, and stopped vp the gates with stones: & Iudas sent vnto them with peaceable wordes, saying,

48 Let vs passe thorow your land, that we may go into our owne countrey, and none shall hurt you: we will but onely go thorow on foot: but they would not open vnto him.

49 Wherefore Iudas commanded a proclamation to be made throughout the hoste, that euery man should assault it according to his standing.

50 So the valiant men set vpon it, and assaulted the citie all that day, and all that night, and the citie was giuen ouer into his handes:

51 & they slew all the males with the edge of the sword, and destroied it, and tooke the spoile thereof, and went thorow the citie ouer them that were slaine.

52 Then went they ouer Iorden into the great plaine before Bethsan.

53 And Iudas gathered together those that were behinde, and gaue the people good exhortation all the way thorow, till they were come into the land of Iuda.

54 Thus they went vp with ioy and gladnes vnto mount Sion, where they offered burnt offerings, because there were none of them slaine, but came home againe in safety.

55 ¶ Now whiles Iudas & Ionathan were in the land of Galaad, and Simon their brother in Galile before Ptolemais, 56 Ioseph the sonne of Zacharias and Azarias the captaines, hearing of the valiant acts, and battels which they had atchieued, sayd, 57 Let vs get vs a name also, and go fight against the heathen that are round about vs.

58 So they gaue their hoste a commandement, and went toward Iamnia.

59 But Gorgias and his men came out of the citie to fight against them.

60 And Ioseph & Azarias were put to flight, & pursued vnto the borders of Iudea: and there were slaine that day of the people of Israel about two thousand men: so that there was a great ouerthrow among the people of Israel, 61 Because they were not obedient vnto Iudas and his brethren, but thought to do some valiant thing.

62 Also they came not of the stocke of these men, by whose hands deliuerance was giuen to Israel.

63 But the man Iudas, and his brethren were greatly commended in the sight of all Israel, and of all the heathen, wheresoeuer their name was heard of.

64 And the people came vnto them, bidding them welcome.

65 Afterward went Iudas forth with his brethren, & fought against the children of Esau in the land toward the South, where he wanne Hebron, and the townes thereof, and he destroyed the castell therof, and burnt the towers thereof round about.

66 Then remoued he to go into the land of the ‖ strangers, and went thorow Samaria.

‖ Or, Philistims.

67 At the same time were the Priestes of the citie slaine in the battell, which would shewe their valiantnes, and went forth to battell without counsell: and when Iudas came to Azotus in the strangers land, he brake downe their altars, and burnt with fire the images of their gods, and tooke away the spoiles of the cities, and came againe into the land of Iuda.

CHAP. VI.

1 Antiochus willing to take the citie of Elimais, & driuen away of the citizens, & He falleth into sickenes, and dieth. 17 He seeme Antiochus is made king. 34 The maner to prouoke elephants to fight. 43 Eleazarus valiant act. 48 The siege of Sion.

NOwe when king Antiochus trauailed thorow the high countries, he heard that Elimais in the country of Persia, was a citie greatly renowned for riches, siluer, and gold.

Ioseph. Ant. 12. cap. 13.

2 And that there was in it a very rich Temple, wherein were coueringes of golde, coat armours, and harnesse, which Alexander king of Macedonia the sonne of Philip (that reigned first in Grecia) had left there.

3 Wherefore he went about to take the citie, and spoile it, but he was not able: for the citizens were huished of the matter,

4 And rose vp against him in battell, and he fled and departed thence with great heauinesse, and came againe into Babylon.

5 Moreouer, there came one which brought him tidings in the country of Persia, that the armies that went against the land of Iuda, were driuen away,

6 And that Lysias, which went forth first with a great power, was driuen away of the Iewes, and that they were made strong by the armour, and power, and diuers spoiles which they had gotten of the armies whome they had destroyed,

7 And that they had pulled down the abomination, which he had set vp vpon the altar at Ierusalem, and fenced the Sanctuarie with high walles, as it was afore, and Beth-sura his citie.

8 So when the king had heard these words, he was astonished, and sore moued: therefore he layd him down vpon his bed, and fell sicke for very sorrow, because it was not come to passe as he had thought.

9 And there continued he many dayes: for his griefe was euer more and more, so that he saw he must needes die.

10 Therefore he sent for all his friends, and sayd vnto them, The sleepe is gone from mine eyes, and mine heart fainteth for very care.

11 And I thinke with my selfe, Into what aduersitie am I come? and into what floods of miserie am I fallen nowe, where as afortime I was in prosperitie, and greatly set by, by reason of my power?

12 And nowe doe I remember the euils that I

Thine there as Jerusalem: by I tooke all the vessels of gold and silver that were in it, and sent to destroy the inhabitants of Juda without cause.

13 I know that these troubles are come upon me for this same cause, and behold, I mvst die with great sorowe in a strange land.

14 Then called he for Philip, one of his friends, whom he made ruler of all his Realme.

15 And gave him the crowne, and his robe, and the ring, that he should instruct his sonne Antiochus, and bring him vp, till he might reigne himselfe.

16 So king Antiochus died there in the hundreth fourty and ninth yeere.

Ioseph. Ant. lib. 12. cap. 14.

17 ¶ When Lysias knew that the king was dead, he ordained Antiochus his sonne (whome he had brought vp) to reigne in his fathers stead, and called him Eupator.

18 Now they that were in the castle at Ierusalem, kept in the Israelites round about the Sanctuary, and sought always their hurt, and the strengthening of the heathen.

19 Therefore Judas thought to destroy them, and called all the people together to besiege them.

20 So they came together, and besieged them in the hundreth and fifth yeere, and made instruments to shoote, and other engines of warre.

21 But certaine of them that were besieged, gate forth, (unto whom some ungodly men of Israel ioyned themselues)

22 And they went unto the king, saying, How long wilt thou not doe iudgement, and auenge our brethren?

23 We haue been ready to serue thy father, and to goe forward to obey his commandements, and to obey his commandements.

24 Therefore they of our nation shut vp vs for this cause, and wheresoeuer they found any of vs, they slewe them, and spoyled our inheritances.

25 And they haue not only layde hand vpon vs, but vpon all about their borders.

26 And behold, this day are they besieging the castle at Jerusalem to take it, and haue fortified both the Sanctuarie, and Beth-zura.

27 And if thou dost not preuent them quickly, they will do greater things then these, & thou shalt not be able to ouercome them.

28 When the king heard this, he was very angry, and called all his friends, the captaines of his armie, and the horsemen.

29 And hyrelings also were hyred, came vnto him from the kings, that were confederate, and from the Iles of the sea.

30 So the number of his armie was an hundreth thousand footemen, and twenty thousande horsemen, and two and thirtie Elephants exercised in battell.

31 These came through Idumea, and drewe neere to Beth-zura, and besieged it a long season, and made engines of warre: but they came out, and burnt them with fire, and fought valiantly.

32 Then departed Judas from the castle, and pitched neere vnto Beth-zacharias, ouer against the Kings campe.

33 So the king arose very early, and brought the armie and his power towarde the way of Beth-zacarias, where the armie set themselues in array to the battell, and blew the trumpets.

34 And to prouoke the Elephants to fight, they shewed them the blood of grapes and mulberies.

35 And they set the beastes according to the ranges: so that by euery Elephant their stood a thousande men armed with coates of maile and helmets of braße vpo their heads, and vnto euery beast were ordeined fiue hundreth horsemen of the best.

36 Which were ready at all times wheresoeuer the beast was: and whithersoeuer the beast went, they went also, & departed not from him.

37 And vpon them were strong towers of wood that couered euery beast, which were fastened thereon with instruments, and vpon euery one were two & thirtie men that fought in them, and the Indian that ruled him.

38 They set also the residue of the horsemen vpon both the sides in two wings of the hoste, to stirre them vp, and to keepe them in the valleys.

39 And when the sunne shone vpon the golden shields, the mountaines glistred therewith, and gaue light as lamps of fire.

40 Then part of the kings armie was spread vpon the hie mountaines, and part beneath: & they marched forward warily, and in order.

41 And all they that he with the noyse of their multitude, & the marching of the companie and the rating of the harnesse, were astonied: for the armie was very great and mighty.

42 Then Judas and his hoste marched into the battel, and they slew six hundreth men of the kings armie.

43 ¶ Now when Eleazar, the sonne of Abaron, saw one of the Elephants armed with royal harnesse, and was more excellent then all the other beastes, he thought that the king should be vpon him.

Or, Lauro.

44 Wherefore he ieoparded himselfe to deliuer his people, and to get him a perpetuall name, 45 And ranne boldly into the middes of the hoste, clapping on the right hand and on the left; so that they departed away on both sides.

46 So went he to the Elephants feete, and gate him vnder him, and slewe him: then fell the Elephant downe vpon him, and there he died.

a This cannot be followed, because it is contrary to the commandement.

47 But the other seeing the power of the kings and the fiercenesse of his armie, departed from them.

48 ¶ And the kings armie went vp to Ierusalem toward Jerusalem, and the king pitched his tent in Judea toward mount Sion.

49 Moreouer the king tooke peace with them that were in Beth-zura: for when they came out of the citie, because they had no victuales there, and were shut vp therein, and the Sabbaths had rested, 50 The king tooke Beth-zura, and set there a garison to keepe it.

51 And besieged the Sanctuary many daies, and made instruments to shoote, and other engines of warre, and instruments to cast fire and stones, and pieces to cast darts and slings.

52 ¶ They also made engines against their engines, and fought a long season.

Or, the Jewes.

53 But because garners there were no victuales, for it was the seuenth yeere; and they that were in Judea, and were deliuered from the Gentiles, had eaten up the ruinous of the slaye.

54 So that in the Sanctuarie were few men left: for the famine came so vpon them, that they were scattered every man to his owne place.

55 ¶ Nowe when Lysias heard that Philip, (whom Antiochus the King, whiles hee liued, had ordeined to bring vp Antiochus his Sonne, that he might be king)

56 Was come againe out of Persis, and Media, and the Kings hoste with him, and thought to take vnto him the rule of things, 57 He and his hasted, & were stirred forward by them: in the euille to goe and tell the King, and the captaines of the hoste, and to others, saying, Let vs decrease daylie, and our vitailes are but small, and the place that we lay siege vnto is strong, and the affaires of the Realme depend vpon vs.

58 Nowe therefore let vs agree with their men, and take truce with them, and with all their nation, 59 And graunt them to liue after their Lawes, as they did afore: for they be grieued, and doe all their things, because we haue broken their Lawes.

60 So the King and the Princes were content, and sent vnto them to make peace, and they receiued it.

61 When the king and the princes had made an othe vnto them, they came vpon this out of the fortresse.

62 And the king went vp to mount Sion: but when hee sawe that the place was well defenced, he brake his othe that he had made, and commanded to breake downe the wall round about.

63 Then departed hee in all haste, and returned vnto Antiochia, where he found Philip hauing dominion of the citie: so he fought against him, and tooke the citie by force.

CHAP. VII.

Demetrius raising and ouerthrowing Alcimus, maketh him high Priest. 5 Many murthered of Alcimus and Bacchides. 10 Judas ouercommeth Nicanor. 21 Maketh peace with the Romanes. 27 Nicanor and the Priests against Nicanor. 41 Judas taketh his enemy alyue, he beheadeth his prayer.

1 IN the hundreth, and one and fiftieth yeere began Demetrius the Sonne of Seleucus from Rome, and came vp with a few men vnto a citie of the sea coast, and reigned there.

2 And when he came into the possession of the fathers, his dominion, his souldiers caught Antiochus and Lysias and brought them vnto him.

3 But when it was told him, he said, Shewe me not their faces.

4 So they slue them to death. Nowe when Demetrius was set vpon the throne of his kingdome, 5 There came vnto him all the wicked and vngodly men of Israel, whose captaine was Alcimus, that would haue bene the high Priest.

6 These men accused the people vnto the king, saying, Judas and his brethren haue slaine all thy friendes, and driuen vs out of our owne land.

7 Wherefore send now some man, whom thou trustest, that he may goe and see all the destruction which he hath done vnto vs and to the kinges land, and let him punish them with all their partakers.

8 And the king chose Bacchides a friende of his, which was a great man in the Realme, and ruled beyond the riuer, and was faithfull vnto the king, and sent him, 9 And that wicked Alcimus, whom he made the Priest, and commanded him to be auenged of the children of Israel.

10 So they departed, and came with a great hoste vnto the land of Juda, and sent messengers to Judas and his brethren, deceitfully with peaceable words.

11 But they beleeued not their sayings: for they saw that they were come with a great hoste.

12 Then a company of the gouernours assembled vnto Alcimus and Bacchides to intreate of reasonable points.

13 And that Asideans were the first that required peace among the children of Israel.

14 For sayde they, He that is a Priest of the seede of Aaron, is come with this armie: therefore he will not hurt vs.

15 Then he spake vnto them peaceably, and sware vnto them, and sayd, We will doe you no harme, neither your friends:

16 And they beleeued him: but hee tooke of them three score men, and slew them in one day, according to the wordes that were written.

17 They haue cast the bodies of thy Saints, and their blood round about Jerusalem, & there was no man that would burie them.

18 So there came a feare and a trembling among all the people: for they sayd, There is neither truth nor iudgement in them: for they haue broken the couenant and othe that they made.

19 Then Bacchides remoued from Jerusalem, and pitched his tent at Bath-zeth, where he sent forth & tooke many of the men that had forsaken him, and certaine of the people, whome he slew and cast into the great pit.

20 Then committed he the countrey vnto Alcimus and left men of warre with him to helpe him, so they went to the King.

21 Thus Alcimus layde for the Soueraintie.

22 And all such as troubled the people resorted vnto him, insomuch that they obteined the land of Juda, and did much hurt in Israel.

23 Nowe when Judas sawe all the mischiefe that Alcimus and his company had done among the Israelites more then the heathen, 24 They went throughout all the borders of Judea, and punished those that were fallen away, so that they came no more abroad in the countrey.

25 But when Alcimus sawe that Judas and his people had gotten the vpper hand, and knew that he was not able to withstande them, he went againe to the King and accused them of wicked things.

26 Then the king sent Nicanor one of his chiefe Princes, which hated Israel deadly, and commanded him that he should destroy the people.

27 ¶ So Nicanor came to Jerusalem with a great hoste, and sent vnto Judas and his brethren deceitfully with friendly wordes, saying, 28 Let there be now no warre betwixt me and you, I will come with a few men, to see them of peace.

29 So

30 Neuertheleſſe, it was told Judas, that he came vnto him vnder deceit: therefore he feared him, and would see his face no more.

31 When Nicanor perceiued that his counsel was betrayed, he went out to fight against Judas, beside ‖ Carphalalama.

33 After this came Nicanor vp vnto mount Sion, and some of the Priests with the Elders of the people went forth of the Sanctuarie to salute him peaceably, and to shew him the burnt offering that was offered for the King.

34 But hee laughed at them, and mocked them, and counted them prophane, and spake proudly, 35 And swore in his wrath, saying, If Judas and his host be not deliuered now into mine handes, if euer I come againe in safetie, I will burne vp this house. With that, went he out in a great anger.

36 Then the priests came in, and stood before the altar in the Temple, weeping, and saying,

40 And Judas pitched in ‖ Adasa, with three thousand men, where Judas prayed, saying, 41 O Lord, * because the messengers of King Sennacherib blasphemed thee, thine Angel went forth, and slew an hundreth, fourescore and fiue thousand of them.

2. Kin. 19. 35 ecclu. 48. 21 isa. 37. 36. 2. mac. 8. 19

42 So destroy thou this hoste before vs to day, that all other may know that hee hath spoken wickedly against thy Sanctuary, and punish him according to his malice.

43 So the armies ioyned together in battell, the thirteenth day of the moneth Adar: but Nicanors hoste was discomfited, and hee himselfe was first slaine in the battell.

44 Nowe when his armie sawe that Nicanor was slaine, they cast away their weapons, and fled.

45 But they pursued after them a dayes iourney from Adasa vnto Gasera, blowing an alarme with the trumpets after them.

46 So they came forth of all the townes of Judea round about, and rushed vpon them, and threw them from one to another, so that they all fell by the sword, and there was not one of them left.

47 Then they tooke the spoiles, and the pray, and smote off Nicanors head, and his right hand, which he held vp so proudly, and brought it with them, and hanged them vp afore Jerusalem.

48 So the people reioyced greatly, and kept that day as a day of great gladnesse.

49 And they ordeined to keepe yeerely that day on the thirteenth day of the moneth Adar.

50 Thus the land of Juda was in rest a little while.

Romans

CHAP. VIII.

1 Judas considering the power and policie of the Romanes, maketh peace with them. 22 The conditions of mutuall friendship sent to the Iewes.

IUdas heard also the fame of the Romans, that they were mighty, and valiant, and agreeable to all things that were required of them, and made peace with all that came vnto them,

Ioseph. Ant. 12. cap. 18.

2 And that they were men of great power, and they told them of their battels, and their worthy acts, which they did among the ‖ Galatians whom they had conquered, and made to pay tribute,

‖ Or, Frenchmen.

3 And what they had done in the countrey of Spaine: how that they had wonne there the mines of siluer and gold,

4 And that by their counsell and gentle behauiour they were rulers in euery place, though the place was farre from them, and that they had discomfited and giuen great ouerthrowes to the Kings that came against them, from the vttermost part of the earth, and that others gaue them tribute euery yeere,

5 How they had also discomfited by battell Philip and Perses kings of the ‖ Macedonians, and others that rose against them, and how they ouercame them,

‖ Or, Citims.

6 And how great Antiochus king of Asia, that came against them in battell, hauing an hundreth and twenty Elephants, with horsemen and charets, and a very great armie, was discomfited by them,

7 And how they tooke him aliue, and ordeined him, with such as should reigne after him, to pay a great tribute, and to giue hostages, and a separate portion,

8 Euen the countrey of India, and Media, and Lydia, and of his best countreyes, which they tooke of him, and gaue them to King Eumenes.

9 Againe when it was told them that the Grecians were comming to destroy them,

10 They sent against them a captaine, which gaue them battell, and slewe many of them, and tooke many prisoners with their wiues, and children, and spoyled them, and conquered their lande, and destroyed their strong holdes, and subdued them to bee their bondmen vnto this day:

11 Moreouer, how they destroyed & brought into subiection other kingdomes and Iles, whosoeuer had withstood them:

12 But that they kept amity with their owne friends, and those that staied vpon them: finally, that they conquered kingdomes, both farre and neere, insomuch that whosoeuer heard of their renowme, was afraid of them.

13 For whom they would helpe to their kingdomes, those reigned, and whom they would, they put downe: thus were they in most high authoritie.

14 Yet for all this that none of them ware a crowne, neither was clothed in purple, to bee magnified thereby,

15 But that they had ordeined themselues a councell, wherein three hundred and twentie men consulted dayly, and prouided for the common affaires, to gouerne them well, 16 And that they committed their gouernement to one man euery yeere, who did rule ouer all their countrey, to whom euery man was obedient: and there was neither hatred nor enuie among them.

17 ¶ Then Judas chose Eupolemus the sonne of John, the sonne of Accus, and Jason the sonne of Eleazar, and sent them vnto Rome, to make friendship and mutuall fellowship with them,

18 That they might take from them the yoke (for they saw that the kingdome of the Grecians would keepe Israel in bondage.)

19 So they went vnto Rome, which was a very great iourney, and came into the ‖ Senate where they spake and sayd,

‖ Or, councel.

20 Judas Maccabeus with his brethren, and the people of the Iewes hath sent vs vnto you, to make a bond of friendship and peace with you, and yee to register vs as your partakers and friends.

21 And the matter pleased them.

22 And this is the copie of the Epistle that they wrote in tables of brasse, and sent to Jerusalem, that they might haue by them a memoriall of the peace, and mutuall fellowship.

23 Good successe bee to the Romanes, and to the people of the Iewes, by sea, and by land for euer, and the sword, and enemie be from them.

24 If there come first any warre vpon the Romanes, or any of their friends throughout all their dominion,

25 The people of the Iewes shall helpe them, as the time shall bee appointed, with all their heart, 26 Also ‖ they shall giue nothing to them that come to fight for them, nor serue them with wheate nor weapons, nor money, nor ships, as it pleaseth the Romanes, but ‖ they shall keepe their couenants without taking any thing of them.

‖ Or, the Romanes.

‖ Or, the Iewes.

27 Likewise also, if warre come first against the nation of the Iewes, the Romanes shal helpe them with a good will, according as the time shall be appointed them.

28 Neither shall wheate be giuen vnto them, that take their part, nor weapons, nor money, nor ships, as it pleaseth the Romanes, who will keepe these couenants without deceit.

29 According to these articles the Romanes made the bond with the people of the Iewes.

30 If after these points the one partie, or the other will adde or diminish, they may doe it at their pleasures, and whatsoeuer they shall adde or take away, shalbe ratified.

31 And as touching the euill that Demetrius hath done vnto the Iewes, we haue written vnto him, saying, Wherefore layest thou thine heauie yoke vpon our friends, and confederates the Iewes?

32 If therefore they complaine any more against thee, wee will doe them iustice, and fight with thee by sea and by land.

CHAP. IX.

1 After the death of Nicanor, Demetrius sendeth his armie against Judas. 18 Judas is slaine. 31 Jonathan is put in the stead of his brother. 47 The battel betweene Jonathan and Bacchides. 55 Alcimus is smitten with the palsie, and dieth. 68 Hee commeth vpon Jonathan by the counsell of certaine wicked persons, and is ouercome. 70 The truce of Jonathan with Bacchides.

Ioseph. Ant. 12. cap. 18.

NOw in the meane season, when Demetrius had heard how Nicanor and his host had giuen the battell, hee sent Bacchides, and Alcimus againe into Judea, and his ‖ chiefe strength with them.

‖ Or, the right horne.

2 So they went forth by the way that is toward Galgala, and pitched their tents before Mesaloth which is in Arbelis, and wanne it, and slew much people.

3 And in the first moneth of the hundreth, fiftie and two yeere, they layd their siege against Jerusalem.

4 But they raised their campe, and came to Berea with twenty thousand foot men, and two thousand horsemen.

5 Now Judas had pitched his tent at ‖ Eleaza, and three thousand chosen men with him.

‖ Or, Laisa.

6 And when they saw that the multitude of the armie was great, they were sore afrayd, and many conueyed themselues out of the host, so that there abode no moe of them, but eight hundreth men.

7 When Judas saw that his host failed him, and that he must needes fight, he was sore troubled in mind that he had no time to gather them together, and was discouraged.

8 Neuertheless, he sayd vnto them that remained, Let vs rise, and goe vp against our enemies, if peraduenture wee may be able to fight with them.

9 But they would haue stayed him, saying, We are not able: but let vs rather saue our liues: turne backe now, seeing our brethren are departed: for shall wee fight against them, that are so few?

10 Then Judas sayd, a God forbid, that we should doe this thing, to flee from them: if our time bee come, let vs die manfully for our brethren, and let vs not staine our honour.

a He that was wont to pray and ouercome, is ouercome when he trusteth in his strength, & omitteth prayer.

11 Then the host remoued out of the tents, and stood against them, who had diuided their horsemen into two troupes, and they that threw with slings, and the archers marched in the foreward, and they that fought in the foreward were all valiant men.

12 And Bacchides was in the right wing. So the army drew neere on both sides, and blew the trumpets.

13 They of Judas side blew the trumpets also, and the earth shooke at the noyse of the armies, and the battell continued from morning to night.

14 And when Judas saw that Bacchides and the strength of his armie was on the right side, he tooke with him all the hardie men, 15 And brake the right wing, and followed vpon them vnto mount Azotus.

16 Now when they which were of the left wing, saw that the right wing was discomfited, they followed Judas behinde, and them that were with him hard at the heeles.

17 Then was there a sore battell: for many were slaine of both the parties.

18 Judas also himselfe was killed, and the remnant flew.

19 So Jonathan and Simon tooke Judas their brother, and buried him in his fathers sepulchre sepulchre in the city of Modin.

20 And all the Israelites wept for him, and mourned greatly for him, and lamented many dayes, saying, 21 How is the valiant man fallen which deliuered Israel!

22 Concerning the other things of Judas, both the battels and the valiant acts that he did, and of his worthinesse, they are not written: for they were very many.

Ioseph. Ant. 13. chap. 1. and 3.

23 ¶ Now after the death of Judas, wicked men came vp in all the coasts of Israel, and there arose all such as gaue themselues to iniquity.

24 In those dayes was there a very great famine in the land, and all the country gaue ouer themselues with them.

25 And Bacchides did chuse wicked men, and made them lords in the land.

26 These sought out, and made search for Judas friends, and brought them vnto Bacchides, which auenged himselfe vpon them, and mocked them.

27 And there came so great trouble in Israel, as was not since the time that no Prophet was seene among them.

28 Then came all Judas friends together, and said vnto Jonathan,

29 Seeing thy brother Judas is dead, and there is none like him to goe forth against our enemies, euen against Bacchides, and ‖ against them of our nation that are enemies vnto vs,

‖ Or, against the enemies of our nation.

30 Therefore, this day we chuse thee that thou mayest be our Prince and captaine in his place to order our battell.

31 So Jonathan tooke the gouernance vpon him at the same time, and ruled in steade of his brother Judas.

32 But when Bacchides knew it, he sought for to slay him.

33 Then Jonathan and Simon his brother perceiuing that, fled into the wildernesse of Thecua with all their company, and pitched their tents by the water poole of Asphar.

34 Which when Bacchides vnderstood, hee came ouer Jorden with all his hoste vpon the Sabbath day.

35 (Now had Jonathan sent his brother Iohn a captaine of the people, to pray his friends, the Nabathites, that they would keepe their baggage which was much.

‖ Or, Iambri.

36 But the children of ‖ Ambri came out of Medaba and tooke John and all that he had, and when they had taken it, went their way.

37 After this came word vnto Jonathan, and to Simon his brother, that the children of Ambri made a great marriage, and brought the bride from ‖ Medaba with great pompe: for she was daughter to one of the noblest Princes of Canaan.

‖ Or, Nadabath.

38 Therefore they remembred John their brother, and went vp and hid themselues vnder the couert of the mountaine.

39 So they lift vp their eyes, and looked, and behold there was a great noyse, and much preparation: then the bridegroome came forth, and his friends and his brethren met them with timbrels and instruments of musicke, and many weapons.

40 Then Jonathans men that lay in ambush, rose vp against them, and slew many of them, and the remnant fled into the mountaines, so that they tooke all their spoiles.

41 Thus the marriage was turned to mourning, and the noyse of their melodie into lamentation.

42 And so when they had auenged the blood of their brother, they turned againe vnto Jorden.

43 When Bacchides heard this, he came vnto the border of Jorden with a great power vpon the Sabbath day.)

44 Then Jonathan said vnto his company, Let vs rise now, and fight against our enemies: for it is not to day as in time past.

45 Behold, the battell is before vs, and behind vs, and the water of Jorden on this side and that side, and the marish and forest, so that there is no place for vs to turne aside.

46 Wherefore cry now vnto heauen, that ye may be deliuered from the power of our enemies: so they ioyned battell.

47 Then Jonathan stretched out his hand to smite Bacchides: but he turned aside from him and reuiled.

48 Then Jonathan, and they that were with him lept into Jorden, and swimmed ouer vnto the further banke: but the other would not passe through Jorden after them.

49 So in that day were slaine of Bacchides side about a thousand men.

50 Then he turned againe to Jerusalem, and built vp the strong cities in Jude, as the castle of Jericho, and Emmaus, and Bethhoron, and Bethel, and Thamnatha, ‖ Pharathoni, and ‖ Tephoo, with hie walles, with gates, and with barres, ‖ Or, Phara. ‖ Or, Thepo.

51 And set garisons in them, that they might vse their malice vpon Israel.

52 He fortified also the citie Beth-sura, and Gazara, and the castle, and set a Garison in them with prouision of victailes.

53 Hee tooke also the chiefest mens sonnes in the countrey for hostages, and put them in the castle at Jerusalem to be kept.

54 ¶ Afterward in the hundreth, fifty and three yeere, in the second moneth, Alcimus commanded that the walles of the inner court of the Sanctuary should bee destroyed, and hee pulled downe the monuments of the Prophets, and began to destroy them.

55 But at the same time Alcimus was plagued, and his enterprises were hindered, and his mouth was stopped: for he was smitten with a palsie, and could no more speake, nor giue order concerning his house.

56 Thus died Alcimus with great torment at the same time.

57 And when Bacchides sawe that Alcimus was dead, hee turned againe to the King, and so the lande of Juda was in rest two yeeres.

58 Then all the vngodly men held a counsell, saying, Behold, Jonathan and his company dwell at ease, and without care: wherefore let vs bring Bacchides hither, and he will take them all in one night.

59 So they went and consulted with him.

60 Who arose and came with a great hoste, and sent letters priuily to his adherents, which were in Judea, to take Jonathan, and those that were with him: but they could not, for their counsell was knowen vnto them,

61 And ‖ they tooke fifty men of the countrey, which were the chiefe workers of the wickednes, and slew them.

‖Or, Ionathan.

62 ¶ Then Jonathan and Simon with their company departed vnto‖ Beth-basin which is in the wildernes, and repaired the decay thereof, and made it strong.

‖Or, Bethbessin.

63 When Bacchides knew this, he gathered all his hoste, and sent word to them that were of Judea.

64 Then came he and laid siege to Beth-basin, and fought against it a long season, & made instruments of warre.

65 But Jonathan had left his brother Simon in the city, and went forth into the countrey, and came with a certaine number, 66 And slew‖ Odomeras and his brethren, and the children of Phaliron in their tents: so he began to slay, and increased in power.

‖Or, Odares.

67 Simon also and his company went out of the city, and burnt vp the instruments of warre, 68 And fought against Bacchides, and discomfited him, and vexed him sore, so that his counsell and iourney was in vaine.

69 Wherefore he was very wroth at the wicked men, b that gaue him counsell to come into the countrey, and slew many of them, and purposed to returne into his owne countrey.

b Wicked counsel falleth on the counsellers.

70 Whereof when Jonathan had knowledge, he sent ambassadours vnto him, to intreate of peace with him, and that the prisoners should be deliuered.

71 Which thing he accepted, & did according to his desire, and made an othe, that he would neuer do him harme all the dayes of his life.

72 So he restored vnto him the prisoners that he had taken afore time out of the land of Juda, and so returned and went into his owne land, neither did he come any more into their borders.

73 Thus the sword ceased from Israel, and Jonathan dwelt at Machmas, and began there to gouerne the people, and destroyed the vngodly men out of Israel.

CHAP. X.

4 Demetrius desireth to haue peace with Ionathan. 18 Alexander also desireth peace with the Iewes. 48 Alexander maketh warre against Demetrius. 50 Demetrius is slaine. 51 The friendship of Ptolomeus and Alexander.

Ioseph. Ant. 13 chap. 2,3

IN the hundreth and threescore yeere came Alexander the sonne of Antiochus Epiphanes and tooke Ptolemais, and they receiued him, and there he reigned.

2 Now when Demetrius the king heard it, he gathered an exceeding great hoste, and went forth against him to fight.

3 Also Demetrius sent letters vnto Jonathan with louing words, as though he would preferre him.

4 For hee sayd, Wee will first make peace with him, before hee ioyne with Alexander against vs.

5 Els he will remember all the euill that we haue done against him, and against his brethren and his nation.

6 And so he gaue Jonathan leaue to gather an hoste, and to prepare weapons, and to bee confederate with him, and commaunded the hostages that were in the castle, to be deliuered vnto him.

7 ¶ Then came Jonathan to Jerusalem, and read the letters in the audience of all the people, and of them that were in the castle.

8 Therefore they were sore afraide, because they heard that the king had giuen him licence to gather an armie.

9 So they that were of the castle, deliuered the hostages vnto Jonathan, who restored them to their parents.

10 Jonathan also dwelt at Jerusalem, and began to build, and repaire the city.

11 And hee commaunded the workemen to builde the walles, and the mount Sion rounde about with hewen stone, to fortifie it: and so they did.

12 Then the strangers that were in the castles which Bacchides had made, fled, 13 So that euery man left his place, & went into his owne countrey.

14 Onely at Beth-sura remained certaine which had forsaken the Law and the commandements: for it was their refuge.

15 ¶ Now when King Alexander had heard of the promises that Demetrius had made vnto Jonathan: and when it was tolde him of the battels and noble actes, which hee and his brethren had done, and of the paines that they had endured, 16 He saide, Might wee finde such a man? now therefore we will make him our friend and confederate.

17 Upon this he wrote a letter, and sent it vnto him, with these wordes, saying, 18 KING ALEXANDER to his brother Jonathan sendeth saluation.

19 We haue heard of thee, that thou art a very valiant man, and worthy to be our friend.

20 Wherefore this day we ordeine thee to be the hie Priest of thy nation, and to be called the Kings friend: (and he sent him a purple robe, and a crowne of golde,) that thou mayest ‖ consider what is for our profit, and keep friendship toward vs.

‖Or, mitre. ‖Or, take our part.

21 So in the seuenth moneth of the hundreth and threescore yeere, vpon the feast day of the tabernacles, Jonathan put on the holy garment, and gathered an hoste, and prepared many weapons.

22 ¶ Which when Demetrius heard, he was maruellous sory, and said, Ioseph. Ant. 13 chap 3.

23 What haue we done, that Alexander hath preuented vs in getting the friendship of the Jewes for his strength?

24 Yet will I write and exhort them, and promise them dignities and rewards, that they may helpe me.

25 Whereupon hee wrote vnto them these wordes, KING DEMETRIVS vnto the nation of the Jewes sendeth greeting.

26 We haue heard that ye haue kept your couenant toward vs, and continued in our friendship, and haue not ioyned with our enemies, whereof we are glad.

27 Now therefore remaine still, and keepe fidelity towards vs, and we will recompense you for the good things that ye haue done for vs, 28 And wil release you of many charges, and giue you rewards.

29 And now I discharge for your sake all the Jewes from tributes, and free you from the customes customes of salt, and the crowne taxes, and from the third part of the seede.

30 And from the halfe of the fruit of the trees which is mine owne duetie, I so release them, that from this day foorth, none shall take any thing of the land of Juda, or of the three gouernments, which are added thereunto, as of Samaria and of Galile, from this day forth for euermore.

a And of the country beyond Iorden, as Iosephus writeth.

31 Jerusalem also with all things belonging thereto, shall bee holy and free from the tenthes and tributes.

32 Also I release the power of the castle which is at Jerusalem, and giue it vnto the hie Priest, that he may set in it such men, as he shall chuse to keepe it.

33 Moreouer I freely deliuer euery one of the Jewes that were taken away prisoners out of the land of Juda throughout all my Realme, and euery one of them shalbe free from tributes, yea, euen their cattell.

34 And all the feastes, and Sabbaths, and new moones, and the dayes appointed, and the three dayes before the feast, and the three dayes after the feast, shall be dayes of freedome and libertie for all the Jewes in my Realme, 35 So that in them no man shal haue power to doe any thing, or to vexe any of them in any maner of cause.

36 Also thirtie thousand of the Jewes shall be written vp in the Kings hoste, and haue their wages payed them as appertaineth to all them that are of the Kings armie: and of them shall bee ordeined certaine to keepe the Kings strong holds.

37 And some of them shall bee set ouer the kings most secret affaires, and their gouernours and their princes shall be of themselues, and they shall liue after their own lawes, as the king hath commanded in the land of Juda.

38 And the three gouernments that are added vnto Judea from the country of Samaria, shall be ioyned vnto Judea, and they shall bee as vnder one, and obey none other power, but the high Priest.

39 And I giue Ptolemais and the borders thereof vnto the Sanctuary at Jerusalem, for the necessary expenses of the holy things.

40 Moreouer I will giue euery yeere fifteene thousand sicles of siluer of the kings reuenues, out of the places appertaining vnto me.

41 And all the ouerplus which they haue not payed for the things due, as they did in the former yeeres, from henceforth they shall giue it toward the works of the Temple.

42 And besides this, the fiue thousand sicles of siluer which they received yeerely of the accompt appointed for the intertainement of the Sanctuarie, these yeeres passed, euen these things shall be released, because they appertaine to the Priests that minister.

43 Item, whosoeuer they bee that flee vnto the Temple at Jerusalem, or within y libertries thereof and are indebted to the king for any maner of thing, they shall be pardoned, and all that they haue in my Realme.

44 For the building also and repairing of the workes of the Sanctuary, expenses shall be giuen of the kings reuenues.

45 And for the making of the walles of Jerusalem, and fortifying it round about, that the holdes in Judea may bee built vp, shall also the cost be giuen out of the kings reuenues.

46 ¶ But when Jonathan and the people heard these wordes, they gaue no credite vnto them, neither receiued them: for they remembred the great wickednesse that hee had done in Israel, and how sore he had vexed them.

47 Wherefore they agreed vnto Alexander: for hee was the first that had intreated of true peace with them, and so were confederate with him alway.

48 Then gathered King Alexander a great hoste, and camped ouer against Demetrius.

49 So the two kings ioyned battell, but Demetrius hoste fled, and Alexander pursued him, and preuailed against them.

50 So that sore battel continued till the sunne went downe, and Demetrius was slaine the same day.

51 ¶ Then Alexander sent Ambassadours vnto Ptolemeus the king of Egypt, with these words, saying, Ioseph. Ant. 13 cap. 6.

52 For so much as I am come againe to my Realme, and am set in the throne of my fathers, and haue gotten the dominion, and haue destroied Demetrius, and enioy my countrey,

53 Seeing that I haue euen giuen him the battell, and he and his armie is discomfited by me, and I sit in the throne of his kingdome, 54 Let vs now make friendship together, and giue me now thy daughter to wife: so shall I be thy sonne in law, and giue thee rewards, and vnto her things according to thy dignity.

55 Then Ptolemeus the king gaue answere, saying, Happy bee the day, wherein thou art come againe vnto the land of thy fathers, and sittest in the throne of their kingdome.

56 Now therefore will I fulfill thy writing: but meete me at Ptolemais that we may see one another, and that I may make thee my sonne in law, according to thy desire.

57 So Ptolemeus went out of Egypt with his daughter Cleopatra, and came vnto Ptolemais in the hundreth threescore and two yeere, 58 Where king Alexander met him, and he gaue vnto him his daughter Cleopatra, and married them at Ptolemais with great glory, as the maner of kings is.

59 ¶ Then wrote king Alexander vnto Jonathan, that he should come and meete him.

60 So he went honourably vnto Ptolemais, and there he met the two kings, and gaue them great presents of siluer and golde, and to their friends, and found fauour in their sight.

61 And there assembled certaine pestilent fellowes of Israel, and wicked men to accuse him: but the king would not heare them.

62 And the king comanded that they should take off the garments of Jonathan, and clothe him in purple, and so they did: and the king appointed him to sit by him.

63 And said vnto his Princes, Goe with him into the mids of the citie, and make a proclamation, that no man complaine against him of any matter, and that no man trouble him for any maner of cause.

64 So when his accusers saw his honour according as it was proclaimed, and that he was clothed in purple, they fled all away.

65 And the king preferred him to honor, and wrote wrote him among his chiefe friendes, and made him a duke and partaker of his dominion.

66 Thus Jonathan returned to Jerusalem with peace and gladnesse.

67 ¶ In the hundreth, threescore and fine yere came Demetrius the sonne of Demetrius, from Creta into his fathers land.

68 Whereof when king Alexander heard, he was very sory, and returned vnto Antiochia.

69 Then Demetrius appointed Apollonius the gouernour of Coelosyria, who gathered a great hoste, and camped in Jamnia, and sent vnto Jonathan the high Priest, saying, 70 Darest thou, being but alone, lift vp thy selfe against vs? and I am laughed at, and reproched, because of thee: now therefore why doest thou vaunt thy selfe against vs in the mountaines?

71 Now then if thou trust in thine owne strength, come downe to vs into the plaine field, and there let vs try the matter together: for I haue the strength of cities.

72 Aske and learne who I am, and they shall take my part: and they shall tell thee that your foote is not able to stand before our face: for thy fathers haue bene twise chased in their owne land.

73 And now how wilt thou bee able to abide so great an hoste of horsemen and footmen in the plaine, where is neither stone, nor rocke, nor place to flee vnto?

74 When Jonathan heard the wordes of Apollonius, he was moued in his mind: wherefore hee chose tenne thousand men, and went out of Jerusalem, and Simon his brother met him for to helpe him.

75 And hee pitched his tents at Joppe: but they shut him out of the city: for Apollonius garison was in Joppe.

76 Then they fought against it, and they that were in the city, for very feare let him in: so Jonathan wan Joppe.

77 Apollonius hearing of this, tooke three thousand horsemen with a great hoste of foote men, and went toward Azotus, as though hee would goe forward, and came immediatly into the plain field, because he had so many horsemen, and put his trust in them.

78 So Jonathan followed vpon him to Azotus, and the armie skirmished with his arriere band.

79 For Apollonius had left a thousand horsemen behind them in ambush.

80 And Jonathan knewe that there was an ambushment behind him, and though they had compassed in his hoste, and shot dartes at the people from the morning to the euening, 81 Yet the people stood still, as Jonathan had commanded them, till their horses were weary.

82 Then brought Simon forth his hoste, and set them against the bande: but the horses were weary, and he discomfited them, and they fled: so the horsemen were scattered in the field, 83 And they fled to Azotus, and came into the temple of Dagon their idole, that they might there saue themselues.

84 But Jonathan set fire vpon Azotus and all the cities round about it, and tooke their spoiles, and burnt with fire the temple of Dagon with all them that were fled into it.

85 Thus were slaine and burnt about eight thousand men.

86 So Jonathan remoued the hoste from thence, and camped by Ascalon, where the men of the city came forth, and met him with great honour.

87 After this went Jonathan and his hoste againe to Jerusalem with great spoyles.

88 And when King Alexander heard these things, he began to doe Jonathan more honour, 89 And sent him a collar of gold, as the vse is to bee giuen vnto such as are of the Kings blood: he gaue him also Accaron, with the borders thereof in possession.

CHAP. XI.

1 The dissension betweene Ptolemeus and Alexander his sonne in law. 17 The death of Alexander. 19 Demetrius reigneth after the death of Ptolemeus. 32 Sion is besieged of Jonathan. 42 Demetrius seeing that no man resisted him, sendeth his army againe. 54. Tryphon mounteth Antiochus against Demetrius.

AND the king of Egypt gathered a great hoste, like the sand that lyeth vpon the sea shore, and many ships, and went about through deceit to obtaine the kingdome of Alexander, and to ioyne it vnto his owne Realme. Ioseph. Ant. 13. cap. 7.

2 Vpon this he went into Syria with friendly wordes, and was let into the cities, and men came forth to meet him: for king Alexander had commanded them to meete him, because he was his father in law.

3 Nowe when hee entred into the citie of Ptolemais, he lett bands and garisons in euery citie.

4 And when he came neere to Azotus, they shewed him the temple of Dagon that was burnt, and Azotus, and the suburbes thereof that were destroyed, and the bodies cast abroad, and them that he had burnt in the battel: for they had made heapes of them by the way where hee should passe.

5 And they tolde the King what Jonathan had done, to the intent they might get him euill will: but the King held his peace.

6 And Jonathan met the King with great honour at Joppe, where they saluted one another, and lay there.

7 So when Jonathan had gone with the King vnto the water that was called Eleutherus, he turned againe to Jerusalem.

8 So King Ptolemeus gate the dominion of the cities by the sea vnto Seleucia vpon the sea coast, imagining wicked counsels against Alexander, 9 ¶ And sent ambassadours vnto king Demetrius, saying, Come, let vs make a league betweene vs, and I will giue thee my daughter, which Alexander hath, and thou shalt reigne in thy fathers kingdome.

10 For I repent that I gaue Alexander my daughter: for he goeth about to slay me.

11 Thus he slandered Alexander, as one that should desire his Realme.

12 And he tooke his daughter from him, and gaue her vnto Demetrius, and forsooke Alexander, so that their hatred was openly knowen.

13 Then Ptolemeus came to Antiochia, where he set two crownes vpon his owne head, of Asia, and of Egypt.

14 In the meane season was King Alexander in Cilicia: for they that dwelt in those places, had rebelled against him:

15 But

15 But when Alexander heard it, he came to warre against him, and Ptolemeus brought forth his host, and met him with a mighty power, and put him to flight.

16 Then fled Alexander into Arabia, there to be defended: so Ptolemeus was exalted.

17 And Zabdiel the Arabian smote off Alexanders head, and sent it vnto Ptolemeus.

18 But the third day after, King Ptolemeus died, & they that were in the holdes, were slaine one of another.

19 And Demetrius reigned in the hundreth, threescore and seuenth yeere.

20 ¶ At the same time gathered Jonathan them that were in Judea, to lay siege vnto the castle which was at Jerusalem, and they made many instrumens of warre against it.

21 Then went there certaine vngodly persons (which hated their owne people) vnto king Demetrius, and told him that Jonathan besieged the castle.

22 So when he heard it, he was angrie, and immediatly came vnto Ptolemais, and wrote vnto Jonathan, that he should lay no maner siege vnto it, but that he should meete him, and speake with him at Ptolemais in all haste.

23 Neuertheless, when Jonathan heard this, hee commanded to besiege it: hee chose also certaine of the Elders of Israel, and the Priests, and put himselfe in danger, 24 And tooke with him siluer and gold, and apparell, and diuers presents, and went to Ptolemais vnto the King, and found fauour in his sight.

25 And though certaine vngodly men of his owne nation had made complaints vpon him,

26 Yet the King intreated him as his predecessors had done, and promoted him in the sight of all his friends, 27 And confirmed him in the hie Priesthood with all the honourable things, that hee had afore, and made him his chiefe friend.

28 Jonathan also desired the King, that hee would make Judea free with the three gouernments, and the country of Samaria, and Jonathan promised him three hundred talents.

29 Whereunto the king consented, and gaue Jonathan writing of the same, containing these words.

30 KING DEMETRIVS vnto his brother Jonathan, and to the nation of the Jewes sendeth greeting.

31 Wee send you heere a copie of the letter, which wee did write vnto our cousin Lasthenes concerning you, that ye should see it.

32 King Demetrius vnto Lasthenes his father, sendeth greeting.

33 For the faithfulnesse that our friends the nation of the Jewes keepe vnto vs, and for their good will towards vs, we are determined to doe them good.

34 Wherefore wee alligne to them the coasts of Judea, with the three gouernments, Apherema, and Lydda, and Ramathe (which are added vnto Judea, from the country of Samaria) and all that appertaineth to all them that sacrifice in Jerusalem: both concerning the paymens which the King tooke yeerely aforetime both for the fruites of the earth, and for the fruites of the trees.

35 As for the other things appertaining vnto vs of the tenthes and tributes, which were due vnto vs, and the customes of salt, and crowne taxes, which were payed vnto vs, we discharge them of all from henceforth.

36 And nothing hereof shal be reckoned from this time forth and for euer.

37 Therefore see that ye make a copy of these things, and deliuer it vnto Jonathan, that it may bee set vp vpon the holy mount in an open place.

38 After this, when Demetrius the king saw that his land was in rest, and that no resistance was made against him, hee sent away all his host, euery man to his owne place, except certaine bands of strangers, whome he brought from the yles of the heathen: wherefore all his fathers host hated him.

39 Now was there one Tryphon, that had bene of Alexanders part afore, which when he saw that all the host murmured against Demetrius, he went to ‖ Simalcue the Arabian, that brought vp Antiochus the sonne of Alexander, ‖Or, Emalcuel.

40 And lay fore vpon him, to deliuer him this young Antiochus, that he might reigne in his fathers stead: he told him also what great euill Demetrius had done, and how his men of warre hated him, and he remained there a long season.

41 Also Jonathan sent vnto King Demetrius to driue them out which were in the castle at Jerusalem, and those that were in the fortresses: for they fought against Israel.

42 So Demetrius sent vnto Jonathan, saying, I will not only doe these things for thee and thy nation; but if opportunitie serue, I will honour thee and thy nation.

43 Now therefore thou shalt doe me a pleasure, if thou wilt send me men to helpe me: for all mine army is gone from me.

44 So Jonathan sent him three thousand strong men vnto Antiochia, and they came vnto the king: wherefore the King was very glad at their comming.

45 ¶ But they that went of the city, euen an hundreth and twenty thousand men, gathered them together in the mids of the city, and would haue slaine the King.

46 But the King fled into the palace, and the citizens kept the streetes of the city, and began to fight.

47 Then the King called to the Jewes for helpe, which came to him altogether, and went abroad through the citie, 48 And slew the same day an hundreth thousand, and set fire vpon the city, and tooke many spoyles in that day, and deliuered the King.

49 So when the citizens saw that the Jewes had gotten the vpper hand of the city, and that they themselues were disappointed of their purpose, they made their supplication vnto the king, saying,

50 ‖ Grant vs peace, and let the Jewes ceasse from vexing vs and the city. ‖Or, giue vs the right hand.

51 So they cast away their weapons, & made peace, and the Jewes were greatly honoured before the King, and before all that were in his realme, and they came again to Jerusalem with great prey.

52 Thus King Demetrius sate in the throne of his kingdome, and had peace in his land.

53 Neuertheles, he dissembled in all that euer he he spake, and withdrew himselfe from Jonathan, neither did he reward him according to the benefits which he had done for him, but troubled him very sore.

54 ¶ After this returned Tryphon with the yong childe Antiochus, which reigned, and was crowned.

55 Then there gathered vnto him all the men of warre, whom Demetrius had scattered, and they fought against him, who fled, and turned his backe.

56 So Tryphon tooke the ‖ beasts, and wan Antiochia.

‖ Or, Elephants.

57 And young Antiochus wrote vnto Jonathan, saying, I appoynt thee to bee the chiefe Priest, & make thee ruler ouer the foure gouernments, that thou mayest be a friend of the kings.

58 Vpon this he sent him golden vessels to be serued in, and gaue him leaue to drinke in golde, and to weare purple, & to haue a collar of gold.

59 He made his brother Simon also captaine from the coasts of Tyrus vnto the borders of Egypt.

60 Then Jonathan went sooth, and passed thorow the cities beyond the flood, and all the men of warre of Syria gathered vnto him for to helpe him: so he came vnto Ascalon, and they of the citie receiued him honourably.

61 And from thence went he vnto Gaza: but they of Gaza shut him out: wherfore he laid siege vnto it, and burned the suburbs therof with fire, and spoiled them.

62 Then they of Gaza made supplication vnto Jonathan, and he made peace with them, and tooke of the sonnes of the chiefe men for hostages, and sent them to Jerusalem, and went thorow the countrey vnto Damascus.

63 And when Jonathan heard that Demetrius Princes were come into Cades, which is in Galile, with a great hoste, purposing to driue him out of the countrey, 64 He came against them, and left Simon his brother in the countrey.

65 And Simon besieged Beth-sura, & fought against it a long season, and shut it vp.

66 So they desired to haue peace with him, which he granted them, and afterward put them out from thence, and tooke the city, and set a garison in it.

67 Then Jonathan with his hoste, came to the water of Genesar, and betimes in the morning came to the plaine of Azor.

68 And behold, the hostes of the ‖ strangers met him in the plaine, & had layd ambushments for him in the mountaines.

‖ Or, heathen.

69 So that when they came against them, the ambushments rose out of their places and skirmished.

70 So that all that were on Jonathans side, fled: and there was not one of them left, except Mattathias the sonne of ‖ Ablalomus, and Judas the sonne of Calphi the Captaines of the hoste.

‖ Or, Absalomus.

71 Then Jonathan rent his clothes, and cast earth vpon his head and prayed, 72 And turned againe to them to fight, and put them to flight, so that they fled away.

73 Now when his owne men that were fled, sawe this, they turned againe vnto him, and helped him to follow after all vnto their tents at Cades, and there they camped.

74 So there were slaine of the strangers the same day about three thousand men, and Jonathan turned againe to Jerusalem.

CHAP. XII.

1 Jonathan sendeth ambassadors to Rome, 2 and to the people of Sparta, to renew their couenant of friendship. 24 Jonathan putteth to flight the Princes of Demetrius. 40 Tryphon taketh Jonathan by deceit.

JOnathan now seeing that the time was meete for him, chose certaine men, and sent them vnto Rome, to stablish and renew the friendship with them.

Ioseph. Ant. 13. cap 8.

2 He sent letters also vnto the ‖ Spartians and to other places, for the same purpose.

‖ Or, Lacedemonians.

3 So they went vnto Rome, and entred into the Senate, and sayd, Jonathan the hie priest and the nation of the Jewes sent vs vnto you, for to renew friendship with you, and the bond of loue, as in times past.

4 So the Romanes gaue them free passports, that men should leade them home into the land of Juda peaceably.

5 ¶ AND THIS is the copy of the letters that Jonathan wrote vnto the Spartians,

6 Jonathan the hie Priest with the Elders of the nation, and the priests, and the rest of the people of the Jewes, send greeting vnto the Spartians their brethren.

7 Heretofore were letters sent vnto Onias the hie Priest, from ‖ Arius, which then reigned among you, that you would be our brethren, as the copie hereunder written specifieth.

Ioseph. Ant. 12. cap. 5.

‖ Or, Darius.

8 And Onias entreated the Ambassadour honourably, and receiued the letters: wherein there was mention made of the bond of loue and friendship.

9 But as for vs, we neede no such writings: for wee haue the holy bookes in our handes for comfort.

10 Neuertheless, we thought it good to send vnto you, for the renewing of the brotherhood and friendship, lest wee should bee strange vnto you: for it is long since the time that ye sent vnto vs.

11 Wherefore we remember you at all seasons continually, and in the feasts and other dayes appointed, when we offer sacrifices and prayers, as it is meet and conuenient to thinke vpon our brethren.

12 And wee reioyce at your prosperous estate.

13 And though we haue bene enuironed with great troubles and warres, so that the Kings round about vs haue fought against vs, 14 Yet would wee not be grieuous vnto you, nor to other our confederates and friends in these warres.

15 For we haue had helpe from heauen, that hath succoured vs, and wee are deliuered from our enemies, and our enemies are subdued.

16 Yet haue wee chosen Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Jason, and sent them vnto the Romanes, for to renew the former friendship with them, and league.

17 Wee commanded them also to goe vnto you, and to salute you, and to deliuer you our letters concerning the renewing of our brotherhood.

18 And

18 And now ye shall doe vs a pleasure to giue vs an answere of these things.

19 ¶ And this was the copy of the letters, which Arius the King of Sparta sent vnto Onias.

20 THE KING of the Spartians vnto Onias the high Priest sendeth greeting.

21 It is found in writing that the Spartians and Iewes are brethren, and come out of the generation of Abraham.

22 And now for so much as this is come to our knowledge, yee shall doe well to write vnto vs of your prosperitie.

23 As for vs we haue written vnto you, that your cattell and goods are ours, and ours are yours: these things haue we commanded to be shewed vnto you.

24 ¶ Now when Jonathan heard that Demetrius Princes were come to fight against him with a greater hoste then afore, 25 He went from Jerusalem, and met them in the land of Hamath: for hee gaue them not space to come into his owne country.

26 And helent spies vnto their tents, which came againe and told him, that they were appointed to come vpon him in the night.

27 Therefore when the Sunne was gone downe, Jonathan commanded his men to watch, and to be in armes ready to fight all the night, and sent watchmen round about the hoste.

28 But when the aduersaries heard that Jonathan was ready with his men to the battell, they feared, and trembled in their hearts, and kindled fires in their tents, and fled away.

29 Howbeit Jonathan and his company perceiued not till the morning: for they saw the fires burning.

30 Then Jonathan followed vpon them, but he could not ouertake them: for they were gone ouer the flood Eleutherus.

31 So Jonathan turned to the Arabians, which were called Zabadeans, and slew them, and tooke their spoile.

32 Hee proceeded further also, and came vnto Damascus, and went through all the country.

33 But Simon his brother went forth, and came to Ascalon, and to the next holdes, departing vnto Joppe, and wanne it.

34 For he heard that they would deliuer the holde to them that tooke Demetrius part: wherefore he set a garison there to keepe it.

35 ¶ After this came Jonathan home, and called the Elders of the people together, and deuised with them for to build vp the strong holdes in Judea, 36 And to make the walles of Jerusalem higher, and to make a great mount betwixt the castle and the citie, for to separate it from the city, that it might be alone, and that men should neither buy, nor sell in it.

37 So they came together to build vp the citie: for part of the wall vpon the brooke of the East side was fallen downe, and they repaired it, and called it Caphenatha.

38 Simon also set vp Adida in Sephela, and made it strong with gates and barres.

39 ¶ In the meane time Tryphon purposed to reigne in Asia, and to weare the crowne, when he had slaine the king Antiochus, 40 For he was afraid that Jonathan would not suffer him, but fight against him: wherefore he went about to take Jonathan, and to kill him. So he departed and came vnto Bethsan.

41 Then went Jonathan forth against him to the battell with fourtie thousand chosen men, and came vnto Bethsan.

42 But when Tryphon saw that Jonathan came with so great an hoste, hee durst not lay hand vpon him.

43 But receiued him honourably, and commended him vnto all his friendes, and gaue him rewards, and commaunded his men of warre to be as obedient vnto him, as to himselfe.

44 And said vnto Jonathan, Why hast thou caused this people to take such trauaile, seeing there is no warre betweene vs?

45 Therefore now send them home againe, and chuse certaine men to waite vpon thee, and come thou with mee to Ptolemais, For I will giue it thee, with the other strong holdes, and the other garisons, and all them that haue the charge of the common affaires: so will I returne, and depart: for this is the cause of my comming.

46 Jonathan beleeued him, and did as hee bad him, and sent away his hoste, which went into the land of Juda, 47 And retained but three thousand with him, whereof hee sent two thousand into Galile, and one thousand went with himselfe.

48 Now assoone as Jonathan entred into Ptolemais, they of Ptolemais shut the gates, and tooke him, and slewe all them with the sword, that came in with him.

49 Then sent Tryphon an hoste of horsemen and footmen into Galile, and vnto his great plaine, to destroy all Jonathans company.

50 But when they knew that Jonathan was taken, and slaine, and those that were with him, they encouraged one another, and came ready against them ready to the battell.

51 But when they which followed after them, saw that it was a matter of life, they turned backe againe.

52 By this meanes all they came in safe land of Juda peaceably, and bewailed Jonathan, and them that were with him, and feared greatly, and all Israel made great lamentation.

53 For all the heathen that were round about them, sought to destroy them.

54 For they said, Behold they haue no captaine, nor any man to helpe them: therefore let vs now fight against them, and roote out their memorie from among men.

CHAP. XIII.

1 After Jonathan was taken, Simon is chosen captaine. 17 Tryphon, taking his children and money for the redemption of Jonathan, killeth him and his children. 31 Tryphon slayeth Antiochus, and possesseth the nation. 36 Demetrius taketh truce with Simon. 43 Iohannes sweareth Gaza. 50 He possesseth the towre of Sion. 53 He maketh his sonne Iohn captaine.

NOw when Simon heard that Tryphon gathered a great hoste to come into the land of Iuda, and to destroy it,

2 And saw that the people was in great trouble and feare, hee came vp to Jerusalem, and gathered the people together,

3 And gaue them exhortation, saying, Yee know

Ioseph. Ant. 13. chap. 9.

Ioseph. Ant. 13. chap. 9.

know what great things I, & my brethren, and my fathers house haue done for the Lawe, and the Sanctuarie, and the battels, and troubles that we haue seene.

4 By reason wherof all my brethren are slaine for Israels sake, and I am left alone.

5 Now therefore God forbid, that I should spare mine owne life in any time of trouble: for I am not better then my brethren.

6 But I will auenge my nation, and the Sanctuarie, and our wiues and our children: for all the heathen are gathered together to destroy vs of very malice.

7 In hearing these wordes the hearts of the people were kindled,

8 So that they cryed with a loud voyce, saying, Thou shalt be our captaine in stead of Iudas and Ionathan thy brethren.

9 Fight thou our battels, and whatsoeuer thou commandest vs, we will do it.

10 ¶ So he gathered all the men of warre, making haste to finish the walles of Jerusalem, and fortified it round about.

11 Then sent he Jonathan the sonne of Absalom, with a great hoste vnto Joppe, which droue them out that were therein, and remained there himselfe.

12 Tryphon also remooued from Ptolemais with a great armie, to come into the land of Juda, and Jonathan was with him as prisoner.

13 And Simon pitched his tents at Addidis vpon the open plaine. (Or, Addus.)

14 But when Tryphon knew that Simon stood vp in stede of his brother Jonathan, and that he would fight against him, he sent messengers vnto him, saying,

15 Whereas we haue kept Jonathan thy brother, it is for money that he is owing in the kings account concerning the businesse that he had in hand.

16 Wherefore send now an hundreth talents of siluer, and his two sonnes for hostages, that when hee is letten goeth he will not turne from vs, and we will send him againe.

17 Neuerthelesse Simon knew that hee dissembled in his wordes, yet commaunded he the money and children to be deliuered vnto him,

18 Lest he should be in greater hatred of the people of Israel:

19 Who might haue said, Because hee sent him not the money and the children, therefore is Jonathan dead.

19 So he sent the children and an hundreth talents: but he dissembled, and would not let Jonathan goe.

20 ¶ Afterwarde came Tryphon into the land to destroy it, and went round about by the way, that leadeth vnto Adora: but whereseuer they went, thither went Simon and his hoste.

21 Now they that were in the castle sent messengers vnto Tryphon, that hee should make haste to come by the wildernes, and to send them vitailes.

22 So Tryphon made ready all his horsemen: but the same night fell a very great snow, so that he came not, because of the snow: but he remooued and went into the country of Galaad.

23 And when he came neere to Baskama, he slew Jonathan, and he was buried there.

24 So Tryphon returned, and went into his owne land.

25 ¶ Then sent Simon to take the bones of Jonathan his brother, and they buried him in Modin his fathers citie.

26 And all Israel bewailed him with great lamentation and mourned for him very long.

27 And Simon made vpon the sepulchre of his father and his brethren, a building high to looke vnto of hewen stone behind and before.

28 And set vp seuen pillars vpon it, one against another, for his father, his mother, and foure brethren.

29 And set great pillars round about them, and set armes vpon the pillars for a perpetuall memorie, and carued ships beside the armes, that they might be seene of men sayling in the Sea.

30 This sepulchre which he made at Modin, standeth yet vnto this day.

31 ¶ Now as Tryphon went craftly with the young King Antiochus, he slewe him traitorously. (Ioseph. Ant. 13. chap. 10.)

32 And reigned in his steade, and crowned himselfe King of Asia, & brought a great plague vpon the land.

33 Simon also built vp the castles of Judea, and compassed them about with high towres, and great walles, euen with towres, and gates, and barres, and layde vp vitailes in the strong holds.

34 Moreouer Simon chose certaine men and sent them to king Demetrius, that he would discharge the land: for all Tryphons doings were robberies.

35 Whereupon Demetrius the king answered him and wrote vnto him after this maner:

36 DEMETRIVS the King vnto Simon the hie Priest, and the friend of Kings, and to the Elders, and to the nation of the Jewes, sendeth greeting.

37 The golden crowne, and [precious stone (Or, collar, or bandricke: in Greeke Basanen, or habon.)] that ye sent vnto vs, haue we receiued, and are ready to make a stedfast peace with you, and to write vnto the officers, to release you of the things wherein we made you free.

38 So the things that we haue granted you, shall be stable: the strong holds which ye haue builded, shall be your owne.

39 Also we forgiue the ouersights, and faults committed vnto this day: and the crowne tare that ye ought vs, and whereas was any other tribute in Jerusalem, it shall be now no more.

40 And they that are meete among you to be written with our men, let them be written vp, that there may be peace betweene vs.

41 Thus the yoke of the heathen was taken from Israel in the hundreth and seuentie yeere.

42 And the people of Israel began to write in their letters and publique instruments, IN THE FIRST yeere of Simon, the hie and chiefe Priest, gouernour and Prince of the Jewes.

43 In those dayes Simon camped against Gaza, and besieged it round about, where he set vp an engine of warre, and approched vnto the citie, and beat a tower, and tooke it.

44 So they that were in the engine, leapt into the city, and there was great trouble in the citie,

45 In so much that the people of the city rent their clothes and climbed vp vpon the walles with with their wiues, and children, and cryed with a loud voice, beseeching Simon to graunt them peace, saying, 46 Deale not with vs according to our wickednesse, but according to thy mercie.

47 Then Simon pitied them, & would fight no more against them, but put them out of the citie, and cleansed the houses, wherein the idoles were, and so entred thereunto with Psalmes and thanksgiuing.

48 So when he had cast all the filthines out, he let such men true as kept the Law, and fortified it, and builded there a dwelling place for himselfe.

49 Now, when they in the castle at Jerusalem were kept, that they could not come forth nor goe into the countrey, neither buy nor sell, they were very hungry, and many of them were famished to death.

50 In so much that they besought Simon to make peace with them: which he graunted them, and put them out from thence, and cleansed the castle from filthinesse.

51 And vpon the three and twentie day of the second moneth, in the hundreth seuentie and one yeere they entred into it with thanksgiuing, and branches of palme trees, and with harpes, and with cymbals, and with viols, & with psalmes, and songs, because the great enemie of Israel was vtterly come.

52 And he ordeined that the same day should be kept euery yeere with gladnesse.

53 And he fortified the mount of the Temple that was beside the castle where he dwelt himselfe with his company.

54 Simon also seeing that John his sonne was now a man, he made him captaine of all the hostes, and caused him to dwell in ‖ Gazara.

‖ Or, Gaza.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 Demetrius is ouercome of Arsaces. 12 Simon being captaine, there is a great quietnes in Israel. 18 The couenant of friendship with the Romanes, and with the people of Sparta is renued.

IN the hundreth, seuentie and two yeere, gathered king Demetrius his hoste, and departed vnto Media, to get him helpe to fight against Tryphon.

2 But when Arsaces the king of Persia and Media heard, that Demetrius was entred within his borders, he sent one of his princes to take him alme.

3 So he went and ouercame the army of Demetrius, and tooke him, and brought him to Arsaces which kept him in ward.

4 Thus all the land of Iuda was in rest, so long as Simon liued: for he sought the wealth of his nation: therefore were they glad to haue him for their ruler, and to doe him worship alway.

5 Simon also wanne the citie of Joppe to his great honour to be an hauen towne, and made it an entrance vnto the yles of the sea.

6 He enlarged also the borders of his people, and conquered the countreyes.

7 He gathered vp many of their people that were prisoners, and he had the dominion of Gazaris, and Beth-sura, and the castle, which he cleansed from filthinesse, and there was no man that resisted him.

8 So that euery man tilled his ground in peace, and the land gaue her fruits, and the trees gaue their fruit.

9 The elders sate in the open places, and consulted all together for the common wealth, and the yong men wore honourably clothed and armed.

10 He prouided victailes for the cities, and all kind of munition, so that his glorious fame was renowned vnto the end of the world.

11 He made peace throughout the land, and Israel had perfit mirth and ioy.

12 For euery man sate vnder his vine, and the figtrees, and there was no man to fray them.

13 There was none in the land to fight against them: for then the Kings were ouercome.

14 He helped all those that were in aduersitie among his people: hee was diligent to see the Law kept, and hee tooke away the vngodly, and wicked.

15 He beautified the Sanctuary, and increased the vessels of the Temple.

16 When the Romans heard, and the Spartians had knowledge that Jonathan was dead, they were very sory.

17 But when they heard that Simon his brother was made high Priest in his stead, and how he had won the land against with the cities in it, 18 They wrote vnto him in tables of brasse, to renew the friendship and bond of loue, which they had made with Judas and Jonathan his brethren.

19 Which writings were read before the congregation at Jerusalem, and this is the copy of the letters that the Spartians sent.

20 THE SENATORS and citie of Sparta vnto Simon the great Priest, and to the Elders, and to the Priestes, and to the residue of the people of the Jewes their brethren send greeting.

21 When your ambassadours that were sent vnto our people, certified vs of your glory and honour, we were glad of their comming.

22 And haue registred their ambassage in the publike records in this maner, NVMENIVS the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Jason the Jewes ambassadours came vnto vs, to renew amitie with vs.

23 And it pleased the people, that the men should bee honourably intreated, and that the copie of their ambassage should bee registred in the publike records, that it might be for a monumtall vnto the people of Sparta: and a copie of the same was sent to Simon the chiefe Priest.

24 After this, Simon sent Numenius to Rome, with a great shield of gold of a thousand pound weight to confirme the friendship with them.

25 Which when the people vnderstood, they sayd, What thanks shall we recompense againe vnto Simon and his children?

26 For he and his brethren, and the house of his father haue stablished Israel, and ouercome their enemies, and haue confirmed the libertie thereof: therefore they wrote this in tables of brasse, and set it vpon pillars in mount Sion.

27 The copie of the writing is this, In the eighe and twentie day of the moneth † Elul, in the hundreth seuentie and two yeere, in the third yeere of Simon the high Priest.

† August.

28 In

‖Or, Ierusalem,

28 And Saruuel in the great congregation of the Priests, and of the people, and of the gouernours of the nation, and of the elders of the countrey, we would signifie vnto you, that many battels haue bene fought in our countrey.

29 Wherein Simon the sonne of Mattathias (come of the children of Ierib) and his brethren put themselues in danger, and resisted the enemies of their nation, that their Sanctuarie, and Law might be maintained, and did their nation great honour.

30 For Ionathan gathered his nation together, and became their hie Priest, and is layde with his people.

31 After that would their enemies haue inuaded their countrey, and destroied their lande, and layd their hands on their Sanctuary.

32 Then Simon resisted them, and fought for his nation, & spent much of his owne substance, and armed the valiant men of his nation, and gaue them wages.

33 Hee fortified alſo the cities of Iudea, and Bethsura that lieth vpon the borders of Iudea, (where the ordinance of their enemies lay sometime) and set there a garrison of the Iewes.

34 And he fortified Ioppe, which lieth vpon the sea, and ‖Gazara that bordereth vpon Azotus (where the enemies dwelt afore) and there he placed Iewes, and furnished them with things necessary for the reparation thereof.

‖Or, Gaza, or Gazaru.

35 Nowe when the people sawe the faithfulnesse of Simon, and to what glory hee thought to bring his nation vnto, they made him their gouernour, and the chiefe Priest, because he had done all these things, and for the vprightnesse, and fidelitie that hee had kept to his nation, and that sought by all meanes to exalt his people.

36 For in his time they prospered wel by him, so that the heathen were taken out of their countrey, and they also which were in the citie of Dauid at Ierusalem, where they had made them a castle, out of the which they went, and defiled all things that were about the Sanctuarie, and did great hurt vnto Religion.

37 And he set Iewes in it, and fortified it, for the assurance of the land and citie, and raised vp the walles of Ierusalem.

38 And King Demetrius confirmed him in his hie Priesthood for these causes, 39 And made him one of his friends, and gaue him great honour.

40 For it was reported that the Romanes called the Iewes their friends and confederates, and that they honourably receiued Simons ambassadours,

41 And that the Iewes and Priests consented that Simon should be their prince, and high Priest perpetually, till God raised vp the true Prophet,

42 And that he should be their captaine and haue the charge of the Sanctuarie, and so set men ouer the workes, and ouer the Countrey, and ouer the weapons, and ouer the fortresses, and that shoulde make prouision for the holy things,

43 And that he should be obeied of euery man, and that all the writings in the country should be made in his name, and that he should be clothed in purple, and weare gold,

44 And that it should not be lawfull for any of the people, or Priests to breake any of these things, or to withstand his words, or to call any congregation in the country without him, to be clothed in purple, or weare a collar of gold:

45 And if any did contrary to these things, or brake any of them, hee should be punished.

46 So it pleased all the people to agree that it should be done to Simon according vnto these words.

47 Simon also accepted it, and was content to be the hie Priest, and the captaine, and the Prince of the Iewes and of the Priestes, and to be the chiefe of all.

48 And they commaunded to set vp this writing in tables of braſſe, and to fasten it to the wall that compassed the Sanctuary in an open place, 49 And that a copy of the same should be layd vp in the treasurie, that Simon and his sonnes might haue it.

CHAP. XV.

1 Antiochus maketh a couenant of friendship with Simon. 11 Tryphon is pursued. 15 The Romans write letters vnto Kings and nations in the defence of the Iewes. 29 Antiochus refusing the helpe that Simon sent him, breaketh his couenant.

MOreouer, King Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sent letters from the yles of the sea, vnto Simon the priest, and prince of the Iewes, and to all the nation,

2 Conteining these words, ANTIOCHVS the King vnto Simon the great Priest, and to the nation of the Iewes, sendeth greeting.

3 For so much as certaine pestilent men haue vsurped the kingdome of our fathers, I and purposed to challenge the realme againe, and to restore it to the olde estate: wherefore I haue gathered a great hoste, and prepared ships of warre,

4 That I may go throow the countrey, and be auenged of them, which haue destroyed our countrey, and wasted many cities in the realme.

5 Now therefore I do confirme vnto thee all the liberties, whereof all the Kings my progenitors haue discharged thee, and all the payments, whereof they haue released thee.

6 And I giue thee leaue to coine money of thine owne stampe with in thy country,

7 And that Ierusalem and the Sanctuary be free, and that all the weapons that thou hast prepared, and the fortresses, which thou hast builded, and keepest in thine handes, shall be thine.

8 And all that is due vnto the King, and all that shall be due vnto the King, I forgiue it thee, from this time forth for euermore.

9 And when we haue obteined our kingdom, we will giue thee and thy nation, and the temple great honour, so that your honour shalbe knowen throwout the world.

10 ¶ In the hundreth, fourty & foure yeere, went Antiochus into his fathers land, and all the bandes came together vnto him, so that few were left with Tryphon. Ioseph. Ant. 13. chap. 12.

11 So the King Antiochus pursued him, but he fled and came to Dora, which lieth by the sea side.

12 For hee saw that troubles were toward him, him, and that the army had forsaken him.

13 Then camped Antiochus against Dora with an hundreth and twenty thousand fighting men, and eight thousand horsemen.

14 So he compassed the citie about, and the ships came by the sea. Thus they pressed the city by lande, and by sea, insomuch that they suffered no man to go in nor out.

15 In the meane season came Numenius, and his company from Rome, having letters written vnto the kings and countries, wherein were contained these words, 16 LVCIVS the Consul of Rome vnto king Ptolemeus sendeth greeting.

17 The ambassadours of the Iewes are come vnto vs as our friendes and confederates from Simon the high Priest, and from the people of the Iewes, to renew friendship, and the bond of loue.

18 Who haue brought a shield of golde weighing a thousand pound.

19 Wherefore we thought it good to write vnto the kings and countreys, that they should not go about to hurt them, nor to fight against them, nor their cities, nor their countrey, neither to maintaine their enemies against them.

20 And we were content to receiue of them the shield.

21 If therefore there be any pestilent fellowes fled from their countrey vnto you, deliuer them vnto Simon the hie Priest, that he may punish them according to their owne law.

22 The same things were written to Demetrius the king, and to Attalus, and to Arathes, and to Arsaces, 23 And to all the countreys, as ‖ Samsamas, and to them of Sparta, and to ‖ Delus, and to ‖ Mindus, & to Sycion, and to Caria, and to Samos, and to Pamphylia, and to Lycia, and to Halicarnassus, and to Rhodus, and to Phaselis, and Cos, and to Sidon, and to Coytina, and to Guidon, and to Cyprus, and to Cyrene.

‖ Or, Sampsace.
‖ Or, Delo.
‖ Or Mido, or, Mydus.

24 And they sent a copy of them to Simon the high Priest.

25 ¶ So Antiochus the king camped against Dora the second time euer ready to take it, and made diuers engines of warre, and kept Tryphon in, that he could neither go in nor out.

26 Then Simon sent him two thousand chosen men to helpe him with siluer and golde, and much furniture.

27 Neuertheless, he would not receiue them, but brake all the Couenant, which he had made with him afore, and withdrewe himselfe from him,

28 And sent vnto him Athenobius one of his friends, to commune with him, saying, Ye withhold Ioppe, and Gazara, with the castle that is at Ierusalem, the city of my Realme, 29 Whose borders ye haue destroyed & done great hurt in the land, and haue the gouernment of many places of my kingdome.

30 Wherefore now deliuer the cities, which ye haue taken, with the tributes of the places, that ye haue rule ouer without the borders of Iudea, 31 Or else giue me for them fiue hundreth talents of siluer, and for the harme that ye haue done, and for the tributes of the places other fiue hundreth talents: if not, we will come, and fight against you.

32 So Athenobius the kings friende came to Ierusalem, and when he saw the honour of Simon, and the cupboord of golde and siluer plate, and so great preparation, he was astonished, and told him the kings message.

33 Then answered Simon, and sayde vnto him, We haue neither taken other mens landes, nor withholden that which appertaineth to others: but our fathers heritage, which our enemies had vniustly in possession a certaine time.

34 But when we had occasion, we recouered the inheritance of our fathers.

35 And whereas thou ‖ requirest Ioppe and Gazara, they did great harme to our people, and thorow our countrey, yet will we giue an hundreth talents for them. But Athenobius answered him not one word.

‖ Or, complainest concerning.

36 But turned againe angry vnto the King, and told him all these wordes, and the dignitie of Simon, with all that he had seene: and the king was very angry.

37 ¶ In the meane time fled Tryphon by ship vnto Orthosias.

38 Then the king made Cendebeus captaine of the sea coast, and gaue him bandes of footemen and horsemen, 39 And commanded him to remoue the hoste toward Iudea, and to builde vp Cedron, and to fortifie the gates, and to warre against the people: but the king pursued Tryphon.

40 So Cendebeus came vnto Iamnia, and began to vexe the people, and to inuade Iudea, and to take the people prisoners, & to slay them.

41 And he built vp Cedron, where he set horsemen and garisons, that they might make outrodes by the wayes of Iudea, as the king had commanded him.

CHAP. XVI.

1 Cendebeus the captaine of Antiochus hoste is put to flight by the sonnes of Simon. 11 Ptolemeus the sonne of Abubus killeth Simon & his two sonnes at a banket. 25 Iohn killeth them that be in wait for his life.

THey came Iohn vp from Gazara, & told Simon his father, what Cendebeus had done. Ioseph. Ant. 13. chap. 12

2 So Simeon called two of his eldest sonnes, Iudas and Iohn, and saide vnto them, I and my brethren, and my fathers house, haue euer from our youth vnto this day fought against the enemies of Israel, and the matters haue had good successe vnder our hands, and we haue deliuered Israel oftentimes.

3 But I am now olde, and yee by Gods mercy are of a sufficient age: bee ye therefore in stead of me, and my brother, & goe forth and fight for our nation, and the helpe of heauen be with you.

4 So he chose twenty thousand fighting men of the countrey with the horsemen, which went forth against Cendebeus, and rested at Modin.

5 In the morning they arose, and went into the plaine field: and behold, a mighty great hoste came against them both of footemen, and horsemen: but there was a riuer betwixt them.

6 And Iohn ranged his armie ouer against him, and when he saw that the people was afrayde to goe ouer the riuer, hee went ouer first himselfe, and the men seeing him, passed thorowe after him.

7 Then he deuided his men, and set the horsemen in the mids of the footmen.

8 For their enemies horsemen were very many: but when they blew the trumpets, Cendebeus fled with his hoste, whereof many were slaine, and the remnant gate them to the fortresse.

9 Then was Judas Johns brother wounded: but John followed after them, till hee came to Cedron, which Cendebeus had built.

10 Also they fled vnto the towers, that were in the fields of Azotus, and those did Iohn burne with fire: thus were there slaine two thousande men of them: so he returned peaceably into the land of Juda.

11 ¶ Now in the fielde of Jericho was Ptolemeus the sonne of Abubus made captaine, and he had abundance of siluer and gold.

12 (For hee had married the daughter of the hie Priest)

13 Therefore hee waxed proude in his minde, and thought to rule the lande, & thought to slay Simon and his sonnes by deceit.

14 Now as Simon went about thorowe the cities of the countrey, and studied carefully for them, hee came downe to Jericho with Mattathias, and Judas his sonnes in the hundreth, seuentie and seuen yeere, in the eleuenth moneth, which is the moneth Sabat.

15 Then the sonne of Abubus receiued them by treason into a litle hold, called Dochus, which he had built, where he made the a great banket, and had his men there.

16 So when Simon & his sonnes had made good cheere, Ptolemeus stood vp with his men, and tooke their weapons, and entred in to Simon in the banket house, and slewe him with his two sonnes and certaine of his seruants.

17 Whereby hee committed a great villenie, and recompensed euill for good.

18 Then wrote Ptolemeus these things and sent to the king, that he might sende him an hoste to helpe him, and so would deliuer him the countrey with the cities.

19 He sent other men also vnto Gazara, to take John, & sent letters vnto the captaines to come to him, and he would giue them siluer, and golde, and rewards.

20 And to Jerusalem he sent other to take it, and the mountaine of the Temple.

21 But one ran before, and tolde John in Gazara, that his father, & his brethren were slaine, and that Ptolemeus had sent to slay him.

22 When hee heard this, hee was sore astonished, and layd handes on them that were come to slay him, and slew them: for hee knew that they went about to kill him.

23 Concerning other things of John, both of his warres, and of his noble acts (wherein he behaued himselfe manfully) of y building of wals which he made, and other of his deeds, 24 Beholde, they are written in the Chronicles of his Priesthood, from the time that he was made high Priest after his father.

¶ The second Booke of the Maccabees.

CHAP. I.

1 An Epistle of the Iewes that dwelt at Ierusalem, sent vnto them that dwelt in Egypt, wherein they exhort them to giue thankes for the death of Antiochus. 19 Of the fire that was hidde in the pitte. 24 The prayer of Nemias.

THE brethren the Iewes which be at Jerusalem, and they that are in the countrey of Judea, vnto the brethren the Iewes that are thorowout Egypt, sende salutation, and prosperitie.

2 God bee gracious vnto you, and remember his couenant made with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob his faithfull seruants,

3 And giue you all an heart to worship him, and to doe his will with a whole heart and with a willing minde,

4 And open your hearts in his Lawe & commandements, and send you peace,

5 And heare your prayers, and bee reconciled with you, & neuer forsake you in time of trouble.

6 Thus now we pray here for you.

7 When Demetrius reigned in the hundreth threescore and ninth yeere, we Iewes wrote vnto you in the trouble and violence that came vnto vs in those yeeres, after that Jason and his company departed out of the holy lande and kingdome,

8 And burnt the porch, & shed innocent blood. Then we prayed vnto the Lord, & were heard: we offered sacrifices and fine flour, and lighted the lampes, and set forth the bread.

9 Nowe therefore keepe yee the dayes of the feast of the tabernacles in the moneth Chasleu.

10 ¶ In the hundreth, fourescore and eight yeere, the people that was at Jerusalem, & in Judea, and the counsell, and Judas, vnto Aristobulus king Ptolemeus master, which is of the stocke of the anointed Priests, and to the Iewes that are in Egypt, sendeth greeting and health.

11 Inasmuch as God hath deliuered vs from great perils, we thanke him highly, as though we had ouercome the king.

12 For he brought them into Persia by heaps that fought against the holy citie.

13 For albeit the captaine and the army that was with him, seemed inuincible, yet they were slaine in the Temple of Nanea, by the deceite of Naneas priestes.

14 For Antiochus as though he would dwell with her, came thither, hee and his friends with him to receiue money vnder the title of a dowry.

15 But when the priests of Nanea had laid it foorth, and he was entred with a small company within the temple, they shut the temple, when Antiochus was come in.

16 And by opening a priuy doore of the vaut, they cast stones, as it were thunder, vpon the captaine and his, and hauing dzuiled them in pieces, they cut off their heads, and threw them to those that were without.

17 God be blessed in all things, which hath deliuered vp the wicked.

18 Whereas wee are nowe purposed to keepe the the purification of the temple vpon the fine and twenty day of the moneth Chasleu, we thought it necessarie to certifie you thereof, that yee also might keepe the feast of the Tabernacles, and of the fire which was giuen vs when Neemias offred sacrifice, after that he had built the Temple, and the altar.

19 For when as our fathers were led away vnto Persia, the Priests, which tooke the * fire of the altar priuily, and hid it in a hollow pit, which was dry in the bottome, and therein they kept it, so that the place was vnknowen vnto euery man.

Leuit.6.13. and 10.2. and 16.12.

20 Nowe after many yeeres when it pleased God that Neemias should bee sent from the king of Persia, he sent of the posteritie of those Priests, which had hid it, to fetch the fire, and as they tolde vs, they found no fire, but thicke water.

21 Then commaunded hee them to drawe it vp, and to bring it: and when the things appertaining to the sacrifices were brought, Neemias commaunded the Priests to sprinkle the wood, and the things layde thereupon with water.

22 When this was done, and the time came that the Sunne shone, which afore was hid in the cloude, there was a great fire kindled, so that euery man maruelled.

23 Nowe the Priests, and all prayed, whyle the sacrifice was consuming: Jonathan began, and the other answered thereunto.

24 And the prayer of Neemias was after this maner, O Lorde, Lorde God maker of all things, which art fearefull and strong, and righteous, and mercifull, and the onely and gracious King,

25 Onely liberall, onely iust and Almightie and euerlasting, thou that deliuerest Israel from all trouble, and hast chosen the fathers, and sanctified them, 26 Receiue the sacrifice for the whole people of Israel, and preserue their owne portion, and sanctifie it.

27 Gather those together, that are scattered from vs: deliuer them that serue among the heathen: looke vpon them that are despised, and abhorred, that the heathen may know that thou art our God.

28 Punish them that oppresse vs, and with pride doe vs wrong.

29 Plant thy people againe in thine holy place, *as Moyses hath spoken.

Deut.30 5.

30 And the Priests sang Psalmes thereunto.

31 Nowe when the sacrifice was consumed, Neemias commaunded the great stones to bee sprinkled with the residue of the water.

32 Which when it was done, there was kindled a flame, which was consumed by the light, that shined from the altar.

33 So when this matter was knowen, it was tolde the king of Persia, that in the place where the Priestes, which were led away, had hid fire, there appeared water, wherewith Neemias and his company had purified the sacrifices.

34 The king tried out the thing, and closed the place about, and made it holy.

35 And to them that the king fauoured, hee gaue and bestowed many gifts.

36 And Neemias called the same place Ephthar, which is to say, purification: but many men call it Nephthar.

a That is to say, a shining, it is also called Nephi, or Nephthar, which is a cleansing.

CHAP. II.

1 How Ieremie hid the Tabernacle, the Arke and the Altar in the hill. 23 Of the fiue bookes of Jason contained in one.

IT is found also in the writtings of Jeremias the Prophet, that he commanded them, which were caried away, to take fire, as was declared, and as the Prophet commanded them that were led into captiuitie,

2 *Giuing them a law, that they should not forget the commandements of the Lorde, & that they should not erre in their mindes, when they sawe images of gold and siluer, with their ornaments.

Baruch.6.

3 These and such other things commanded he them, and exhorted them that they should not let the Law goe out of their hearts.

4 It is written also, how the Prophet, by an oracle that he had, charged them to take the Tabernacle and the Arke, and follow him: and when hee came vp into the mountaine where Moyses went vp, * and sawe the heritage of God,

Deut.34.1.

5 Jeremias went foorth, and found an hollow caue, wherein he layd the Tabernacle, and the Arke, & the altar of incense, and so stopped the doore.

6 And there came certaine of those that followed him, to marke the place: but they could not finde it.

7 Which when Jeremias perceiued, he reproued them, saying, As for that place, it shall be vnknowen, vntill the time that God gather his people together againe, and that mercie bee shewed.

8 Then shal the Lord shew them these things, and the maiestie of the Lorde shall appeare and the cloud also, as it was shewed vnder Moyses, and as * when Salomon desired, that the place might be honourably sanctified.

1.King 8. 14,23,30. 2.chro.6.21. 1.Kin. 8.62, 65. 2.chro.7. 4,5. Leuit.9.24. and 10.16. 2 Chro.7.1.

9 For it is manifest that hee, being a wise man, offered the * sacrifice of dedication, and consecration of the Temple.

10 * And as when Moyses prayed vnto the Lord, the fire came down from heauen, and consumed the sacrifice: so when Salomon prayed, * the fire came downe from heauen, and consumed the burnt offering.

11 And Moyses sayd, because the sinne offring was not eaten, therefore is it consumed.

12 So Salomon kept those eight dayes.

13 Those things also are declared in the writings and registers of ‖ Neemias, and how hee made a liburarie, and how he gathered the actes of the Kings, and the Prophets, and the actes of Dauid, and the epistles of the Kings concerning the holy gifts.

‖ Some reade Ieremie.

14 Euen so Judas also gathered all things that came to passe by the warres that were among vs, which things we haue.

15 Wherefore if yee haue need thereof, sende some to fetch them vnto you.

16 Whereas wee then are about to celebrate the purification, we haue written vnto you, and ye shall doe well, if ye kepe the same dayes.

17 Wee hope also that the God which deliuered all his people, and gaue an heritage to them all and the kingdome, and the Priesthood, hood, and the Sanctuary,

Deut. 30, 5. 18 * As he promised in the Lawe, will shortly haue mercie vpon vs, and gather vs together from vnder the heauen into his holy place: for he hath saued vs from great perils, and hath cleansed the place.

19 As concerning Judas Maccabeus and his brethren, the purification of the great Temple, and the dedication of the altar,

20 And the warres against Antiochus Epiphanes and Eupator his sonne,

21 And the manifest signes that came from heauen vnto those which manfully stood for the Jewes religion: (for though they were but few, yet they ranne thorow whole countries, and pursued the barbarous armies, 22 And repayred the Temple that was renowned thorowout all the world, and deliuered the citie, and established the Lawes, that were like to bee abolished, because the Lord was mercifull vnto them with all lenitie)

23 All which shall I assay to abridge in one volume those things that Jason the Cyrenian hath declared in fiue bookes.

24 For considering the wonderfull number, and the difficultie that they haue that would be occupied in the rehearsall of stories, because of the diuersitie of the matters,

25 We haue endeuoured, that they that would reade, might haue pleasure, and that they which are studious, might easily keepe them in memorie, and that whosoeuer reade them, might haue profit.

26 Therefore to vs that haue taken in hand this great labour, it was no easie thing to make this abridgement, but required both sweat and watching.

27 Like as he that maketh a feast, and seeketh other mens commoditie, hath no small labour: so wee also for many mens sakes are very well content to vndertake this great labour.

28 Leauing to the author the exact diligence of euery particular, wee will labour to goe forward according to the prescript order of an abridgement.

29 For as hee that will build a newe house, must prouide for the whole building, but hee that setteth out the plat, or goeth about to paint it, seeketh but onely what is comely for the decking thereof:

30 Euen so I thinke for vs, that it appertaineth to the first writer of a storie to enter deeply into it, and to make mention of all things, and to be curious in euery part:

31 But it is permitted to him that will shorten it, to vse few words, and to auoid those things that are curious therein.

32 Here then will we begin the story, adding thus much to our former words, that it is but a foolish thing to abound in words before the storie, and to be short in the storie.

CHAP. III.

2 Of the honor done vnto the Temple by the kings of the Gentiles. 6 Simon vttereth what treasure is in the Temple. 7 Heliodorus is sent to take them away. 26 Hee is stricken of God, and healed at the prayer of Onias.

WHat time as the holy citie was inhabited with all peace, and when the lawes were very well kept, because of the godlines of Onias the high Priest, and hatred of wickednesse,

2 It came to passe that euen the Kings did honour the place, and garnished the Temple with great gifts.

3 In so much that Seleucus King of Asia of his owne rents, bare all the costes belonging to the seruice of the sacrifices.

4 But one Simon of the tribe of Beniamin being appointed ruler of the Temple, contended with the hie Priest concerning ‖ the iniquity committed in the citie. ‖ Or, the fame & prouision.

5 And when he could not ouercome Onias, hee gate him to Apollonius the sonne of Thraseas, which then was gouernour of Coelosyria, and Phenice,

6 And told him that the treasurie in Jerusalem was full of immunerable money, which did not belong to the prouision of the sacrifices, and that it were possible that their things might come into the Kings hands.

7 Now when Apollonius came to the King, and had shewed him of the money, as it was told him, the king chose out Heliodorus his treasurer, and sent him with a commaundement, to bring him the foresayd money.

8 Immediatly Heliodorus tooke his iourney as though he would visite the cuties of Coelosyria and Phenice, but in effect to fulfill the kings purpose.

9 So when he came to Jerusalem, and was courteously receiued of the hie Priest into the citie, hee declared what was determined concerning the money, and shewed the cause of his comming, and asked if these things were so in deed.

10 Then the hie Priest told him that there were such things layed vp by the widowes and fatherlesse.

11 And that a certaine of it belonged vnto Hircanus the sonne of Tobias a noble man, and not as that wicked Simon had reported, & that in all, there were but foure hundreth talents of siluer, and two hundreth of gold, 12 And that it were altogether impossible to do this wrong to them that had committed it of trust to the holinesse of the place and Temple, which is honoured through the whole world for holinesse and integrity.

13 But Heliodorus because of the Kings commandement giuen him, said that in any wise it must be brought into the kings treasurie.

14 So he appointed a day, & went in to take order for these things: then there was no small griefe throughout the whole citie.

15 For the Priests fell downe before the altar in the Priests garments, and called vnto heauen vpon him which had made a Lawe concerning things giuen to be kept, that they should be safely preserued for such as had committed them to be kept.

16 Then they that looked the hie Priest in the face, were wounded in their heart: for his countenance, and the changing of his colour declared the sorrow of his minde.

17 The man was so wrapped in feare and trembling of the body, that it was manifest to them that looked vpon him, what sorrow he had in his heart.

18 Others also came out of their houses by heapes vnto the common prayer, because the place was like to come vnto contempt.

19 And

19 And the women, girt with sackecloth vnder their breists, filled the streets, and the virgins that were kept in, raine some to the gates, and some to the walles, and others looked out of the windowes.

20 And all held vp their hands toward heauen, and made prayer.

21 It was a lamentable thing to see the multitude that fell downe of all sorts, and the expectation of the hie Priest being in such anguish.

22 Therefore they called vpon the Almighty Lord, that he would keepe safe & sure the things, which were layed vp for those that had deliuered them.

23 Neuertheleſſe, the thing that Heliodorus was determined to doe, that did he performe.

24 And as hee and his souldiers were now there present by the treasurie, he that is the Lord of the spirits, and of all power, shewed a great vision, so that all they which presumed to come with him, were astonished at the power of God, and fell into feare and trembling.

25 For there appeared vnto them an horse with a terrible man sitting vpon him, most richly barded, and he ran fiercely and smote at Heliodorus with his forefeete, and it seemed that hee that sate vpon the horse, had harneſſe of gold.

26 Moreouer, there appeared two yong men, notable in strength, excellent in beautie, & comely in apparel, which stood by him on either side, and scourged him continually, and gaue him many sore stripes.

27 And Heliodorus fell suddenly vnto the ground, and was couered with great darknesse: but they that were with him, tooke him vp, and put him in a litter.

28 Thus hee that came with so great company, & many souldiers into the said treasurie, was borne out: for hee could not helpe himselfe with his weapons.

29 So they did know the power of God manifestly, but hee was dumbe by the power of God, and lay destitute of all hope and health.

30 And they praised the Lord that had honoured his owne place: for the Temple which a little afore was full of feare and trouble, when the Almighty Lord appeared, was filled with ioy and gladneſſe.

31 Then straightway certaine of Heliodorus friends, prayed Onias, that he would call vpon the most High to grant him his life, which lay ready to giue vp the ghost.

32 So the high Priest, considering that the King might suspect that the Iewes had done Heliodorus some * euill, he offered a sacrifice for the health of the man.

33 Now when the high Priest had made his prayer, the same yong men in the same clothing appeared, and stood beside Heliodorus, saying, Giue Onias the high Priest great thankes: for, for his sake hath the Lord granted thee thy life:

34 And seeing that thou hast beene scourged from heauen, declare vnto all men the mightie power of God: and when they had spoken these words, they appeared no more.

35 So Heliodorus offered vnto the Lord sacrifice, and made vowes vnto him great vowes which had graunted him his life, and thanked Onias, and went againe with his hoste to the king.

36 Then testified hee vnto euery man of the great workes of God that he had seene with his eyes.

37 And when the king asked Heliodorus, who were meet to bee sent yet once againe to Ierusalem, he said, 38 If thou hast any enemy, or traitour, send him thither, & thou shalt receiue him well scourged, if hee escape with his life: for in that place, no doubt, there is a speciall power of God.

39 For hee that dwelleth in heauen hath his eye on that place, and defendeth it, and hee beateth and destroyeth them that come to hurt it.

40 This came to passe concerning Heliodorus, and the keeping of the treasurie.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Simon reporteth euill of Onias. 7 Iason obtaineth the office of the hie Priest by corrupting the King, 27 and was by Menelaus defrauded by like bribing. 34 Onias is slaine treacherously by Andronicus.

THis Simon now, of whom wee spake afore, being a bewrayer of the money, and of his owne naturall countrey, reported euill of Onias, as though he had moued Heliodorus vnto this, and bene inuenter of the euill.

2 Thus was hee bold to call him traitour, that was so beneficiall to the city, and a defender of his nation, and so zealous of the Lawes.

3 But when his malice increased so far, that through one that belonged to Simon, murders were committed,

4 Onias considering the danger of this contention, and that Apollonius, as hee that was the gouernour of Coelosyria and Phenice, did rage, and increase Simons malice,

5 Hee went to the King not as an accuser of the citizens, but as one that intended the common wealth both priuately and publikely.

6 For hee saw it was not possible, except the King tooke order, to quiet the matters, and that Simon would not leaue off his folly.

7 But after the death of Seleucus, when Antiochus called Epiphanes, tooke the kingdome, Iason the brother of Onias laboured by vnlawfull meanes to be high Priest.

8 For he came vnto the King, and promised him three hundreth and threescore talents of siluer, and of another rent fourescore talents.

9 Besides this he promised him an hundred and fiftie, if hee might haue licence to set vp a place for exercise, and a place for the youth, and that they would ‖ name them of Ierusalem, Antiochians.

10 The which thing when the king had granted, and he had granted the superiority, he began immediatly to draw his kinsmen to the customs of the Gentiles.

11 And abolished the friendly priuiledges of the kings, that the Iewes had set vp by Iohn the father of Eupolemus, which was sent ambassadour vnto Rome, to become friends and confederates: he put downe their lawes and policies, and brought vp new statutes, and contrary to the Law.

12 For he presumed to build a place of exercise vnder the castle, and brought the chiefe yong men vnder his subiection, and made them weare ‖ hats.

a In working some trecherie or sorcerie against him.

* Or, euill

‖ Or, that he would write the Antiochians that were at Ierusalem, among them.

‖ Or, huskins, in token of warre, as the Gentiles did.

13 So there beganne a great desire to follow the maners of the Gentiles, and they tooke vp the fashions of strange nations by the exceeding wickednesse of Iason, not the hie Priest, but the vngodly person, 14 So that the Priestes were now no more diligent about the seruice of the altar, but despised the Temple, and regarded not the sacrifices, but made haste to be partakers of the wicked expenses at the play, after the casting of the stone.

15 For they did not set by the honour of their fathers, but liked the glory of the Gentiles best of all.

16 By reason whereof great calamitie came vpon them: for they had them to be their enemies and punishers, whose custome they followed so earnestly, and desired to be like them in all things.

17 For it is not a light thing to transgresse against the Lawes of God, but the time following shall declare these things.

18 ¶ Now when the ‖ games that were vsed euery fift yeere, were played at Tyrus, the King being present, 19 This wicked Iason sent from Ierusalem men to looke vpon them, as though they had bene Antiochians, which brought three hundreth drachmes of siluer for a sacrifice to Hercules: albeit they that caried them, desired they might not bee bestowed on the sacrifice (because it was not comely) but to be bestowed for other expenses.

20 So hee that sent them, sent them for the sacrifice of Hercules: but because of those that brought them, they were giuen to the making of gallies.

21 ¶ Now Apollonius the sonne of Menestheus was sent into Egypt because of the coronation of King Ptolemeus Philometor: but when Antiochus perceiued that he was euill affectioned toward his affaires, he sought his own assurance, and departed from thence to Ioppe, and he came to Ierusalem.

22 There hee was honourably receiued of Iason, and of the citie, and was brought in with torchlight, and with great shoutings, and so hee went with his hoste into Phenice.

23 Three yeere afterward Iason sent Menelaus, the foresayd Simons brother, to beare the money vnto the King, and to bring to passe certaine necessary affaires, whereof hee had giuen him a memoriall.

24 But hee, being commended to the King, magnified him for the appearance of his power, and turned the Priesthood vnto himselfe: for he gaue three hundreth talents of siluer more then Iason.

25 So he gate the Kings ‖ letters patents, albeit he had nothing in himselfe worthy of the hie Priesthood, but bare the stomacke of a cruell tyrant, and the wrath of a wilde beast.

26 Then Iason, which had deceiued his owne brother, being deceiued by another, was compelled to flee into the country of the Ammonites.

27 So Menelaus gate the dominion: but as for the money that hee had promised vnto the King, he spake none other for it, albeit Sostratus the ruler of the castle required it.

28 For vnto him appertained the gathering of the customes: wherefore they were both called before the King.

29 Now Menelaus left his brother Lysimachus in his stead in the Priesthood, and Sostratus left Crates which was the gouernour of the Cyprians.

30 ¶ Whiles these things were in doing, the Tharsians, and they of Mallot made insurrection, because they were giuen to the Kings concubine called Antiochis.

31 Then came the kingin all haste, to appease the businesse, leauing Andronicus a man of authoritie to be his lieutenant.

32 Now Menelaus, supposing that hee had gotten a conuenient time, stole certaine vessels of golde out of the Temple, and gaue certaine of them to Andronicus: and some hee sold at Tyrus and in the cities thereby.

33 Which when Onias knew of a surete, hee reproued him, and withdrew himselfe into a Sanctuary by Daphne in Antiochia.

34 Wherefore Menelaus, taking Andronicus apart, prayed him to slay Onias: so when hee came to Onias, hee counselled him craftily, giuing him his right hand with an othe: (howbeit hee suspect him,) and perswaded him to come out of the Sanctuary) so hee slew him incontinently without any regard of righteousnesse.

35 For the which cause not onely the Iewes, but many other nations also were grieued, and tooke it heavily for the vnrighteous death of this man.

36 ¶ And when the King was come againe from the places about Cilicia, the Iewes that were in the citie, and certaine of the Greekes that abhorred the fact also, complained because Onias was slaine without cause.

37 Therefore Antiochus was sore in his minde, and he had compassion, and wept because of the modestie and great discretion of him that was dead.

38 Wherefore being kindled with anger, hee tooke away Andronicus garment of purple, and rent his clothes, and commaunded him to be led thorowout the citie, and in the same place where he had committed the wicked maiste against Onias, hee was slaine as a murtherer. Thus the Lord rewarded him his punishment, as hee had deserued.

39 ¶ Now when Lysimachus had done many wicked deedes in the citie through the counsell of Menelaus, and the fame was spread abroad, the multitude gathered them together against Lysimachus: for he had carried out now much vessell of gold.

40 And when the people arose, and were full of anger, Lysimachus armed about three thousand, and began to vse vnlawfull power, a certaine tyrant being their captaine, one that was no lesse decayed in wit then in age.

41 But when they vnderstood the purpose of Lysimachus, some gate stones, some great clubs, and some cast handfuls of ashes which lay by, vpon Lysimachus men, and eyther hurted them, 42 Whereby many of them were wounded, some were slaine, and all the other turned abacke: but the wicked Theefe himselfe they by the treasorie.

43 For these causes an accusation was laid against a This game was to trie strength by casting a stone that had an hole in the mids, or a piece of mettall.

‖ Or, Olympian sports, which were games kept euery fift yeere.

‖ Or, commandements.

b That is, of them that measured the corne.

against Menelaus.

44 And when the king came to Tyrus, three men sent from the Senate pleaded the cause before him.

45 But Menelaus being now convinced, promised to Ptolemeus the son of Dorymenes much money, if he would perswade the king.

46 So Ptolemeus went to the king into a court, where as he was to coole himselfe, and turned the kings minde.

47 Insomuch that he discharged Menelaus from the accusations (notwithstanding hee was the cause of all mischiefe) and condemned those poore men to death, which if they had told their cause, yea, before the Scythians, they should have bene heard as innocent.

48 Thus were they soone punished unjustly, which followed upon the matter for the citie, and for the people, and for the holy vessels.

49 Wherefore they of Tyrus hated that wickednesse, and minister'd all things liberally for their burial.

50 And so through the covetousnesse of them that were in power, Menelaus remained in authority, increasing in malice, and declared himselfe a great traitor to the citizens.

CHAP. V.

1 Of the signes and tokens seene in Ierusalem. 6 Of the end & wickednes of Iason. 11 The pursuit of Antiochus against the Jewes. 15 The spoiling of the Temple. 27 Maccabeus fleeth into the wildernesse.

ABout the same time Antiochus undertooke his second voyage into Egypt.

2 And then were there seene throughout all the citie of Ierusalem fourty dayes long, horsemen running in the aire, with robes of Golde, and as bands of speare-men,

3 And as troupes of horsemen set in aray, incountering and coursing one against another with shaking of shields and multitude of darts, and drawing of swords and shooting of arrowes, and the glittering of the golden armour seene, and harnesse of all sorts.

4 Therefore every man praied, that those tokens might turne to good.

5 Now when there was gone foorth a false rumour, as though Antiochus had bene dead, Iason tooke at the least a thousand men, and came suddenly upon the city, and they that were upon the walles, being put backe, and the citie at length taken,

6 Menelaus fled into the castle, but Iason slew his owne citizens without mercie, not considering, that to have the aduantage against his kinsemen is greatest disaduantage, but thought that hee had gotten the victory of his enemies, and not of his owne nation.

7 Yet hee gate not the superiority, but at the last received shame for the reward of his treason, and went againe like a vagabond into the countrey of the Ammonites.

8 Finally he had this end of his wicked conuersation, that he was accused before Areta the king of the Arabians, and fled from citie to city, being pursued of every man, and hated as a forsaker of the Lawes, and was in abomination, as an enemy of his countrey and citizens, and was driuen into Egypt.

Or, from city to city

9 Thus he that had chased many out of their owne country, perished as a banished man, after that hee was gone to the Lacedemonians, thinking there to have gotten succour by reason of kinred.

10 And hee that had cast many out unburied, was thrown out himselfe, no man mourning for him, nor putting him in his graue: neither was hee partaker of his fathers sepulchre.

11 ¶ Now when these things that were done, were declared to the king, hee thought that Iudea would haue fallen from him: wherefore hee came with a furious minde out of Egypt, and tooke the citie by violence.

12 He commanded his men of warre also, that they should kill and not spare such as they met, and to slay such as went into their houses.

13 Thus was there a slaughter of yong men, and olde men, and a destruction of men and women and children, and virgins and infants were murthered:

14 So that within three dayes were slaine fourescore thousand, and fourtie thousand taken prisoners, and there was as many solde as were slaine.

15 Yet was hee not content with this, but durst goe into the most holy Temple of all the world, hauing Menelaus that traitour to the Lawes, and to his owne countrey to be his guid, 16 And with his wicked hands tooke the holy vessels, which other kings had given for the garnishing, glory, and honour of that place, and handled them with his wicked hands.

17 So hauty in his minde was Antiochus, that he considered not that God was not a little wroth for the sinnes of them that dwelt in the city, for the which such contempt came upon that place.

18 For if they had not bene wrapped in many sinnes, hee, alsoone as he had come, had suddenly bene punished, and put back from his presumption, as Heliodorus was, whom Seleucus the king sent to view the treasurie.

19 But God hath not chosen the nation for the places sake, but the place for the nations sake.

20 And therefore is the place become partaker of the peoples trouble, but afterward shall it bee partaker of the benefits of the Lord, and as it is now forsaken in the wrath of the Almighty, so when the great Lord shall be reconciled, it shall be set vp in great worship againe.

21 ¶ So when Antiochus had taken eighteene hundred talents out of the Temple, hee gate him to Antiochia in all haste, thinking in his pride to make men saile upon the drie lande, and to walke upon the sea: such an high mind had he.

22 But he left deputies to vexe the people: at Ierusalem Philip a Phrygian by birth, in maners more cruell then he that set him there:

23 And at Garizin Andronicus, and with them Menelaus, which was more grieuous to the citizens then the other, and was despitefull against the Iewes his citizens.

24 Hee sent also Apollonius a cruell prince, with an army of two and twenty thousand, whom he commanded to slay those that were toward mans age, and to sell the women, and the yonger sort.

25 So when he came to Ierusalem, hee fained peace, and kept him still within the holy day of Sabbath: and then finding the Iewes keeping the feast, hee commanded his men to take their weapons.

26 And so hee slewe all them that were gone forth to the new, and running thorow the citie with his men armed, hee murthered a great number.

27 But Judas Maccabeus being as it were the tenth, fled into the wildernes, and lived there in the mountaines with his company among the beastes, and dwelling there, and eating grasse, lest they should be partakers of the filthinesse.

CHAP. VI.

1 The Iewes are compelled to leaue the Law of God. 4 The Temple is defiled. 10 The woman cruelly punished. 28 The grieuous paine of Eleazarus.

NOt long after this, sent the King an old man of ‖ Athens, for to compel the Iewes to transgresse the lawes of the fathers, and not to be gouerned by the Law of God,

‖ Or, Antiochia.

2 And to defile the Temple that was at Ierusalem, and to call it the Temple of Iupiter Olympius, and that of Garizin, according as they did that dwelt at that place, Iupiter that keepeth hospitality.

3 This wicked gouernement was sore and grieuous vnto the people.

4 For the temple was full of dissolution, and gluttonie of the Gentiles, which dallied with harlots, and had to doe with women within the circuite of the holy places, and brought in such things as were not lawfull.

5 The altar also was full of such things, as were abominable and forbidden by the Law.

6 Neither was it lawfull to keepe the Sabbaths, nor to obserue their ancient feastes, nor plainely to confesse himselfe to be a Iew.

7 In the day of the Kings birth they were grieuously cõpelled perforce euery month to banket, & when the feast of Bacchus was kept, they were constrained to goe in the procession of Bacchus with garlands of Iuie.

8 Moreouer through the counsell of Ptolemeus, there went out a commandement vnto the next cities of the heathen against the Iewes, that the like customs, and ‖ banketing should bee kept.

‖ Or, eating of the flesh that was sacrificed.

9 And who so would not conforme themselues to the maners of the Gentiles, should bee put to death: then might a man haue seene the present miserie.

10 For there were two women brought forth that had circumcised their sonnes, whom when they had led round about the city (the babes hanging at their breasts) they cast them down headlong ouer the walles.

11 Some that were runne together into dennes to keepe the Sabbath day secretly, were discouered vnto Philip, and were burnt together, because that for the reuerence of the honourable day they were afraide to helpe themselues.

12 ¶ Now I beseech those which reade this booke, that they be not discouraged for these calamities, but that they iudge these afflictions not to be for destruction, but for a chastening of our nation.

13 For it is a token of his great goodnesse, not to suffer sinners long to continue, but straight wayes to punish them.

14 For the Lord doth not long wait for vs, as for other nations, whom he punisheth when they are come to the fulnesse of their sinnes.

15 But thus hee dealeth with vs, that our sinnes should not be heaped vp to the full, so that afterward he should punish vs.

16 And therefore hee neuer withdraweth his mercie from vs: and though hee punish with aduersitie, yet doth he neuer forsake his people.

17 But let this be spoken now for a warning vnto vs: and now will we come to the declaring of the matter in few words.

18 ¶ Eleazar then one of the principall scribes, an aged man, & of a well fauoured countenance was constrained to open his mouth, and to eate swines flesh.

19 But hee desiring rather to die gloriously then to liue with hatred, offered himselfe willingly to the torment, and spit it out:

20 As they ought to goe to death which suffer punishment for such things, as it is not lawfull to taste of the delice to liue.

21 But they that had the charge of this wicked banket, for the olde friendship of the man, tooke him aside priuily, and prayed him that hee would taste such flesh, as was lawfull for him to vse, and as hee would prepare for himselfe, and dissemble as though he had eaten of the things appointed by the King, euen the flesh of the sacrifice,

22 That in so doing hee might bee deliuered from death, and that for the olde friendship that was among them, he would receiue this fauour.

23 But he began to consider discreetly, and as became his age, and the excellencie of his ancient yeeres, and the honour of his gray hayres, whereunto he was come, and his most honest conuersation from his childhoode, but chiefly the holy Law made and giuen by God: therefore hee answered consequently, and willed them straightwayes to send him to the graue.

24 For it becommeth not our age, said he, to dissemble, whereby many yong persons might thinke that Eleazar being fourescore yeeres olde and ten, were now gone to ‖ another religion.

‖ Or, to another maner of life.

25 And so through mine hypocrisie (for a little time of a transitory life) they might bee deceiued by me, and I should procure malediction, and reproch to mine olde age.

26 For though I were now deliuered from tormẽts of men, yet could I not escape the hand of the Almightie, neither aliue nor dead.

27 Wherefore I will now change this life manfully, and will shewe my selfe such as mine age requireth,

28 And so wilt leaue a notable example for such as bee young to die willingly, and courageously for the honourable and holy Lawes. And when he had sayd these words, immediatly hee went to torment:

29 Now they that led him, changed the loue which they bare him before, into hatred, because of the words that he had spoken: for they thought it had bene a rage.

30 And as he was ready to giue the ghost because of the strokes, hee sighed and sayd, The Lord that hath the holy knowledge, knoweth manifestly, that whereas I might haue beene deliuered from death, I am scourged, and suffer these shall lose peices of my body, but in my minde I suffer them also for his religion.

31 Even now after this manner ended he his life, leaning his death for an example of a noble courage, and a memoriall of vertue, not only vnto young men, but vnto all his nation.

CHAP. VII.

The punishment of the seuen brethren and of their mother.

1 ¶ It came to passe also that seuen brethren, with their mother, were taken to bee compelled by the king against the Law to taste swines flesh, and were tormented with scourges and whips.

2 But one of them which spake first, sayde thus, What lookest thou? and what wouldest thou know of vs? wee are ready to die rather then to transgresse the lawes of our fathers.

3 Then was the king angry, and commanded to heate pans and caldrons, which were incontinently made hote.

4 And he commanded the tongue of him that spake first, to be cut out, and to slay him, and to cut off the vtmost parts of his body in the sight of his other brethren and his mother.

5 Now when hee was thus mangled in all his members, he commanded him to be brought aliue to the fire and to fry him in the panne: and while the smoke for a long time smoked out of the pan, the other brethren with their mother exhorted one another to die courageously, saying in this manner,

6 The Lord God doeth regard vs, & in deed taketh pleasure in vs, as Moyses * declared in the long warrein hee testified openly, saying, That God will take pleasure in his seruants. Deut. 32. 36.

7 ¶ So when the first was dead after this maner, they brought the second to make him a mocking stocke: and when they had pulled the skinne with the haire ouer his head, they asked him if hee would eate, ar he were punished in all the members of the body.

8 But hee answered in his owne language, and sayd, No. Wherefore hee was tormented forthwith like the first.

9 And when hee was at the last breath, hee sayd, Thou murtherer takest this present life from vs, but the King of the world will rayse vs vp, which die for his Lawes, in the resurrection of euerlasting life.

10 ¶ After him was the third had in derision, and when they demaunded his tongue, hee put it out incontinently, and stretched forth his hands boldly, 11 And spake manfully, These haue I had from the heauen, but now for the Law of God I dispise them, and trust that I shall receiue them of him againe.

12 Insomuch that the King and they which were with him, marueiled at the young mans courage, as at one that nothing regarded the paines.

13 ¶ Now when he was dead also, they vexed and tormented the fourth in like maner.

14 And when hee was now ready to die, hee sayd thus, It is better that wee should change this which we might hope for of men, and waite for our hope from God, that wee may be raised vp againe by him: as for thee, thou shalt haue no resurrection to life.

15 ¶ Afterward they brought the fift also and tormented him,

16 Who looked vpon the King, and sayde, Thou hast power among men, and though thou be a mortall man, thou doest what thou wilt: but thinke not that God hath forsaken our nation.

17 But abide a while, and thou shalt see his great power, how he will torment thee and thy seede.

18 After him also they brought the first, who being at the point of death, said, Deceiue not thy selfe foolishly: for wee suffer these things, which are worthy to be wondred at for our owne sakes, because we haue offended our God.

19 But thinke not thou, which vndertakest to fight against God, that thou shalt bee vnpunished.

20 But the mother was marueilous aboue all other, and worthy of honourable memorie: for when she saw her seuen sonnes slaine within the space of one day, she suffered it with a good will, because of the hope that she had in the Lord.

21 Yea, she exhorted euery one of them in her owne language, and being full of courage and wilesome, stirred vp her womanly affections, with a manly stomacke, and sayd vnto them,

22 I cannot tell howe yee came into my wombe: for I neither gaue you breath nor life: it is not I that set in order the members of your body,

23 But doubtlesse the Creator of the worlde, which formed the birth of man, and found out the beginning of all things, will also of his owne mercy giue you breath, and life againe, as yee now regard not your owne selues, for his lawes sake.

24 Now Antiochus thinking himselfe despised, and considering the iniurious wordes, while the youngest was yet aliue, he did exhort him not only with wordes, but sware also vnto him by an othe that he would make him rich and wealthy, if he would forsake the lawes of his fathers, and that hee would take him as a friend, & giue him offices.

25 But when the young man would in no case hearken vnto him, the King called his mother, and exhorted that shee would counsell the young man to saue his life.

26 And when he had exhorted her with many words, she promised him that she would counsell her sonne.

27 So shee turned her vnto him, laughing the cruel tyrant to scorne, and spake in her owne language, O my sonne, haue pitie vpon mee, that bare thee nine moneths in my wombe, and gaue thee sucke three yeeres, and nourished thee, and tooke care for thee vnto this age, & brought thee vp.

28 I beseech thee, my sonne, looke vpon the heauen and the earth, and all that is therein, and consider that God made them of things that were not, and so was mankinde made likewise.

29 Feare not this hangman, but shew thy selfe worthy such brethren by suffering death, that I may receiue thee in mercie with thy brethren.

30 Whilst she was yet speaking these words, the young man sayd, Whom waite ye for? I will not obey the Kings commandement: but I will obey the commaundement of the Law that was giuen vnto our fathers by Moyses.

31 And

31 And thou that imagineſt all miſchiefe againſt the Hebrewes, ſhalt not eſcape the hands of God.

32 For we ſuffer theſe things becauſe of our ſinnes.

33 But though the liuing Lord be angry with vs a litle while for our chaſtening and correction, yet will he be reconciled with his owne ſeruants.

34 But thou, O man without religion and moſt wicked of all men, lift not thy ſelfe vp in vaine, which act puffed vp with vncertaine hope, and liftest thine hands againſt the ſeruants of God.

35 For thou haſt not yet eſcaped the iudgement of Almighty God, which ſeeth all things.

36 My brethren that haue ſuffered a litle paine, are now vnder the diuine Couenant of euerlaſting life: but thou through the iudgement of God, ſhalt ſuffer iuſt punishments for thy pride.

37 Therefore I, as my brethren haue done, offer my body and life for the Lawes of our fathers, beſeeching God, that he wil ſoone be mercifull vnto our nation, and that thou by torment and punishment mayeſt confeſſe, that he is the onely God, 38 And that in me and my brethren the wrath of the Almighty, which is righteouſly fallen vpon all our nation, may ceaſe.

39 Then the king being kindled with anger, raged more cruelly againſt him then the others, and tooke it grieuously that he was mocked.

40 So he alſo died holily, and put his whole truſt in the Lord.

41 Laſt of all after the ſonnes, was the mother put to death.

42 Let this now bee ynough ſpoken concerning the bankets, and extreme cruelties.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Iudas gathereth together his hoſte. 9 Nicanor is ſent againſt Iudas. 16 Iudas exhorteth his ſouldiers to conſtancie. 20 Nicanor is ouercome. 27 The Iewes giue thanks, after they haue put their enemies to flight, deuiding part of the ſpoiles vnto the fatherleſſe & vnto the widowes. 30 Timotheus and Bacchides are diſcomfited. 35 Nicanor fleeth vnto Amiochus.

THen Iudas Maccabeus, and they that were with him, went priuily into the townes, and called their kinſefolkes and friendes together, and tooke vnto them all ſuch as continued in the Iewes religion: and aſſembled fiue thouſand men.

2 So they called vpon the Lorde, that he would haue an eye vnto his people, which was vexed of euery man, and haue pitie vpon the Temple that was defiled by wicked men,

3 And that he would haue compaſſion vpon the citie that was deſtroyed, and almoſt brought to the ground, and that he would heare the voice of the blood that cryed vnto him,

4 And that he would remember the wicked ſlaughter of the innocent children, and the blaſphemies committed againſt his Name, and that he would ſhew his hatred againſt the wicked.

5 Now when Maccabeus had gathered this multitude, he could not be withſtood by the heathen: for the wrath of the Lord was turned into mercy.

6 Therefore he came vnawares and burnt vp the townes and cities: yea he tooke the moſt conuenient places, and put many of the enemies to flight,

7 But eſpecially he vſed the nights to make ſuch aſſaults, in ſo much that the fame of his manlineſſe was ſpread euery where.

8 ¶ So when Philippus ſaw that this man increaſed by litle and litle, and that things proſpered with him for the moſt part, hee wrote vnto Ptolemeus the gouernour of Cœleſyria and Phœnice to helpe him for the kings affaires.

9 Then ſent he haſtily Nicanor the Captaine of Parroclus a Theſſalian friend of his, and gaue him of all nations of the heathen no leſſe then twenty thouſand men, to roote out the whole generation of the Iewes, and ioyned with him Gorgias a captaine, which in matters of warre had great experience.

10 Moreouer ordained he a tribute to the king of two thouſand talents, which the Romanes ſhould haue, to be taken of the Iewes that were taken priſoners.

11 Therefore immediatly he ſent to the cities on the ſea coaſt, prouoking them to buy Iewes to be their ſeruants, promiſing to ſell fourſcore and ten for one talent: but he conſidered not the vengeance of Almighty God, that ſhould come vpon him.

12 When Iudas then knewe of Nicanors comming, he ſolde them that were with him, of the comming of the armie.

13 Now were there ſome of them fearefull, which truſted not vnto the righteouſnes of God, but fled away, and abode not in that place.

14 But the other ſolde all that they had left, and beſought the Lord together to deliuer them from that wicked Nicanor, which had ſolde them, or euer he came neere them.

15 And though he would not doe it for their ſakes, yet for the couenant made with their fathers, and becauſe they called vpon his holy and glorious Name.

16 And ſo Maccabeus called his men together, about fiue thouſand, exhorting them not to bee afraide of their enemies, neither to feare the great multitude of the Gentiles, which came againſt them vnrighteouſly, but to fight manly,

17 Setting before their eyes the iniury that they had vniuſtly done to the holy place, and the cruelty done to the city by deriſion, and the deſtruction of the orders eſtabliſhed by their fathers.

18 For they, ſaid hee, truſt in their weapons and boldenes: but our confidence is in the Almighty God, which at a becks can both deſtroy them that come againſt vs, and all the world.

19 Moreouer, hee admoniſhed them of the helpe that God ſhewed vnto their fathers, as when there periſhed an hundreth and fourtiſcore and fiue thouſand vnder Sennacherib.

20 And of the battell that they had in Babylon againſt the Galatians, how they came in all to the battell eight thouſand, with fiue thouſand Macedonians; and when the Macedonians were aſtoniſhed, the eight thouſand ſlew an hundreth and twenty thouſand through the helpe that was giuen them from heauen, whereby they had receiued many benefites.

21 Thus when hee had made them bold with theſe wordes, and ready to die for the lawes and and the country, he diuided his army into foure parts.

22 And ouer his seuerall companies he appointed captaines ouer the army, to wit, Simon, and Joseph, and Jonathan, Galilee, and one thousand hundred men.

23 And when Eleazarus had read the holy booke, and giuen them a token of the helpe of God, Lucias ouer the first company, began with Ptolemee.

24 And because they trusted greatly vnto them, they slew twenty thousand and more: And wounded and maimed the more part of Ptolemees host, and so put all to flight.

25 Also they took the money from those that came to buy them, and pursued them farre: but lacking wise, they returned.

26 For it was the day before the Sabbath, and therefore they would no longer pursue them.

27 So they tooke their weapons, and spoyled the enemies, & kept the Sabbath, giuing thanks, and praysing the Lord wonderfully, which had deliuered them that day, and powred vpon them the beginning of his mercy.

28 And after the Sabbath, they distributed the spoyles to the sicke, and to the fatherlesse, and to the widowes, and diuided the residue among themselues and their children.

29 When this was done, and they all had made a generall praier, they beseeched the merciful Lord to be reconciled at the length with his seruants.

30 Afterward with our enemies they fell vpon Timotheus and Bacchides, and slew aboue twenty thousand, and wan high & strong holdes, and diuided great spoyles, making an equall portion vnto the sicke, and to the fatherlesse, and to the widowes, and to aged persons also.

31 Moreouer, they gathered their weapons together, and layd them vp diligently in conuenient places, and brought the remnant of the spoyles to Jerusalem.

32 They slew also Philarches a most wicked person which was with Timotheus, and had vexed the Iewes many wayes.

33 And when they kept the feast of Victorie in their countrey, they burnt Callisthenes that had set fire vpon the holy gates, which was fled into a little house: to be rewarded a reward meet for his wickednes.

34 And that most wicked Nicanor, which had brought a thousand merchants to buy the Iewes.

35 Who through the helpe of the Lord brought downe of them whom he thought as nothing, insomuch that he put off his glorious rayment, and fled purposely through the countrey like a fugitiue seruant, and came alone to Antiochia, with great dishonour through the destruction of his host.

36 Thus he that promised to pay tribute to the Romanes, by meanes of the prisoners of Jerusalem, thought scornes, that the Iewes had a defender, and for this cause none could hurt the Iewes, because they followed the Lawes appointed by him.

CHAP. IX.

1 Antiochus vanishing in Perse, persecuteth it not to flight. 5 By the persecuting the Iewes, he is stricken of the Lord. 12 The feined repentance of Antiochus. 28 He dieth miserably.

AT the same time came Antiochus againe with dishonour, out of the country of Persia.

2 For when he came to Persepolis, and went about to robbe the Temple, and to subdue the city, the people ran in a rage to defend themselues with their weapons, and put them to flight, and Antiochus was put to flight by the inhabitants, and returned with shame.

3 Now when he came to Ecbatane, he vnderstood the things that had come vnto Nicanor and Timotheus.

4 And then being chafed in his mine, he thought to impute to the Iewes their fault, which had put him to flight, and therefore commanded his charetmen to driue continually, and to dispatch the iourney: for Gods iudgement compelled him: for he had said thus in his pride, I will make Jerusalem a common burying place of the Iewes, when I come thither.

5 But the Lord Almighty, and God of Israel, smote him with an incurable and inuisible plague: for assoone as hee had spoken these words, a paine of the bowels that was remediless came vpon him, and sore torments of the inner parts,

6 And that most iustly: for he had tormented other mens bowels with diuers and strange torments.

7 Howbeit he would in no wise cease from his arrogancie, but swelled the more with pride, breathing out fire in his rage against the Iewes, and commaunded to haste the iourney: but it came to passe that he fell downe from the charet that ranne swiftly, so that all the members of his body were bruised with the great fall.

8 And thus he that a little afore thought he might commaund the floods of the Sea (so proud was he beyond the condition of man) and to weigh the high mountaines in the balance, was now cast on the ground, and caried in an horselitter, declaring vnto all the manifest power of God.

9 So that the wormes came out of the body of this wicked man in abundance: & whiles he was aliue, his flesh fell off for paine and torment: and all his armie was grieued at his smell.

Acts 12. 23.

10 Thus no man could beare because of his stincke, him that a little afore thought he might reach to the starres of heauen.

Or, vnmercifull.

11 Then he began to leaue off his great pride, and selfe-will when he was plagued, and came to the knowledge of himselfe by the scourge of God, and by his paine which increased euery moment.

12 And when he himselfe might not abide his owne stincke, he said these words, It is meete to be subiect vnto God, and that a man which is mortall, should not thinke himselfe equall vnto God through pride.

13 This wicked person prayed also vnto the Lorde, who would now haue no mercie on him, 14 And said thus, that he would set at liberty the holy city vnto the which he made haste to destroy it, and to make it a burying place.

15 And as touching the Iewes (whom he had iudged not worthy to bee buryed, but would haue cast them out with their children to be deuoured of the fowles & wilde beasts hee would make them all like the citizens of Athens.

dren

16 And whereas he had spoiled the holy Temple afore, hee would garnish it with great gifts, and increase the holy vessels, and of his reuenewes beare the charges belonging to the sacrifices.

17 Yea, and that he would also become a Iew himselfe, and goe thorow all the world that was inhabited, and preach the power of God.

18 But for all this his pains would not cease, for the iust iudgement of God was come vpon him: therefore despairing of his health he wrote vnto the Iewes this letter vnder written, conteining the forme of a supplication.

19 ¶ THE KING, and prince Antiochus vnto the Iewes his louing citizens, wisheth much ioy, and health and prosperitie.

20 If yee and your children fare well, and it all things goe after your minde, I giue great thanks vnto God hauing hope in the heauen.

21 Though I lie sicke, yet am I mindfull of your honour, and good will for the loue I beare you: therefore when I returned from the countrey of Persia, & fell into a sore disease, I thought it necessary to care for the common safety of all,

22 Not distrusting mine health, but hauing great hope to escape this sickenesse.

23 Therefore considering that when my father led an hoste against the high countreys, he appointed who should succeed him:

24 That if any controuersie happened contrary to his expectation, or if that any tidings were brought that were grieuous, they in the land might knowe to whom the affaires were committed, that they should not be troubled.

25 Againe, when I ponder how that the gouernours, that are borderers and neighbours vnto my kingdome, waite for all occasions, and looke but for opportunitie, I haue ordeined that my sonne Antiochus shall be King, whom I oft commended and committed to many of you, when I went into the high prouinces, and haue written vnto him as followeth hereafter.

26 Therefore, I pray you, and require you to remember the benefites that I haue done vnto you generally, and particularly, and that euery man will be faithfull to me and to my sonne.

27 For I trust that he will be gentle and louing vnto you according vnto my mind.

28 ¶ Thus the murtherer and blasphemer suffered most grieuously, and as he had intreated other men, so hee died a miserable death in a strange countrey among the mountaines.

29 And Philip that was brought vp with him, carried away his bodie, who fearing the sonne of Antiochus, went into Egypt to Ptolemeus Philometor.

CHAP. X.

1 Iudas Maccabeus taketh the citie and the Temple. 10 The acts of Eupator. 16 The Iewes fight against the Idumeans. 24 Timotheus inuadeth Iudea, with whom Iudas ioyneth battell. 29 Fiue men appeare in the aire to the helpe of the Iewes. 37 Timotheus is slaine.

MAccabeus nowe and his company, through the helpe of the Lord, wanne the Temple and the citie again.

2 And beate downe the altars & chappels that the heathen had builded in the open places.

3 And cleansed the Temple, and made another altar, and striking stones, and tooke fire of them, and offred sacrifices, & incense, and set reeres, and lightes vpon the altar, which gaue light in the Temple.

4 And when that was done, they fell prostrate vpon the ground, and prayed that the Lord, that they might neuer fall into such troubles againe, but if they sinned any more against him, that he himselfe would chasten them with mercy, and that they might not be deliuered to the blasphemous, and barbarous nations.

5 Now vpon the same day, that the strangers polluted the temple, on the very same day it was cleansed againe, euen the fine and twentieth day of the same moneth which is Chaslen.

6 They kept eight dayes with gladnesse as in the feast of the Tabernacles, remembring, that not long afore they held the feast of the Tabernacles when they lived in the mountaines and dennes like beasts.

7 And for the same cause they bare greene boughes, and faire branches of palmes, and sang Psalmes vnto him that had giuen them good successe in cleansing his place.

8 They ordeined also by a common statute and decree, that euery yeere those dayes should be kept of the whole nation of the Iewes.

9 And this was the end of Antiochus called Epiphanes.

10 ¶ Now will we declare the acts of Antiochus Eupator, which was the sonne of this wicked man, gathering briefly the calamities of the warres that followed.

11 For when he had taken the kingdome, he made one Lysias, which had been captaine of the hoste in Phenice, and Coelosyria, ruler ouer the affaires of the Realmes.

12 For Ptolomeus first was called Macron, purposed to doe iustice vnto the Iewes for the wrong that had been done vnto them, and went about to behaue himselfe peaceably with them.

13 For the which cause, he was accused of his friends before Eupator, and was called oft times traitour, because he had left Cyprus that Philometor had committed vnto him, and came to Antiochus Epiphanes: therefore seeing that he was no more in estimation, he was discouraged, and poisoned himselfe, and died.

14 ¶ But when Gorgias was gouernour of the same place, he entertained strangers, and made warre oft times against the Iewes.

15 Moreouer, the Idumeans that held the strong holds which were meete for their purpose, troubled the Iewes, and by receiuing them that were driuen from Ierusalem, tooke in hand to continue warre.

16 Then they that were with Maccabeus, made prayers, and besought God that he would be their helper, and so they fell vpon the strong holds of the Idumeans, 17 And assaulted them lore, that they wanne the places, and slew all that fought against them on the wall, and killed all that they met with, and slew no lesse then twenty thousand.

18 And because certaine (which were no lesse then the nine thousand) were fled into two strong castles, having all maner of things conuenient to sustaine the siege, 19 Maccabeus left Simon, and Joseph, and Zaccheus also, and those that were with them, which were enow to besiege them, and departed to those places which were maist necessary.

On, Nouember.

20 Now they that were with Simon, being led with couetousnesse, were intreated for money (though certain of those that were in the castle) and tooke seuenty thousand a drachmes and let some of them escape.

a A drachme is the eight part of an ounce, which is about three pence.

21 But when it was told Maccabeus what was done, he called the gouernours of the people together, and accused those men, that they had solde their brethren for money, and let their enemies goe.

22 So he slewe them when they were conuict of treason, and immediately wanne the two castles:

23 And hauing good successe, as in all the warres that he tooke in hand, he slew in the two castles moe then twenty thousand.

24 Now Timotheus whom the Iewes had ouercome afore, gathered an armie of strangers of all sorts, and brought a great troupe of horsemen out of Asia, to winne Iewrie by strength.

25 But when he drew neere, Maccabeus, and they that were with him, turned to pray vnto God, and sprinkled earth vpon their heads, and girded their reines with sackecloth.

26 And fell downe at the foote of the altar, and besought the Lord to bee mercifull to them, and to be an enemie to their enemies, and to be an aduersary to their aduersaries, * as the law declareth.

Exod. 23. 20. deut. 20. 4.

27 So after the prayer they tooke their weapons, and went on further from the citie, and when they came neere to the enemies, they tooke breede to themselues.

28 And when the morning appeared, they both ioyned together: the one part had the Lord for their refuge, and pledge of prosperitie, and noble victorie, and the other tooke courage as a guide of their warre.

29 But when the battell waxed strong, there appeared vnto the enemies from heauen fiue comely men vpon horses with bridles of golde, and two of them led the Iewes,

30 And tooke Maccabeus betwixt them, and couered him on euery side with their weapons, and kept him safe, but shot darts and lightnings against the enemies, so that they were confounded with blindnesse, and beaten downe and full of trouble.

31 There were slaine of foote men twentie thousand and fiue hundred, and fiue hundred horsemen.

32 As for Timotheus himselfe, hee fled vnto Gazara, which was called a very strong holde, wherein Chereas was captaine.

33 But Maccabeus and his company layde siege against the fortresses with courage for foure dayes.

34 And they that were within, trusting to the height of the place, blasphemed exceedingly, and spake horrible words.

35 Neuertheless, vpon the ‖ fifth day in the morning, twentie yong men of Maccabeus company, whose hearts were enflamed, because of the blasphemies, came vnto the wal, and with bold stomacks smote downe those that they met.

‖ Or, the fiue and twentieth day.

36 Others also that climed vp vpon the engines of warre against them that were within, set fire vpon the towers, and burnt those blasphemers quicke with the fires that they had made, and others brake vp the gates, and receiued the rest of the armie, and tooke the citie.

37 And hauing found Timothrus, that was crept into a caue, they killed him, and Chereas his brother Apollophanes.

38 When this was done, they prayed the Lord with Psalmes and thankesgiuing, which had done so great things for Israel, and giuen them the victorie.

CHAP. XI.

1 Lysias goeth about to ouercome the Iewes. 8 Succour is sent from heauen vnto the Iewes. 16 The letter of Lysias vnto the Iewes. 20 The Liter of king Antiochus vnto Lysias. 27 A letter of the same vnto the Iewes. 34 A letter of the Romanes to the Iewes.

VEry shortly after this, Lysias the Kings steward, and a kinsman of his, which had the gouernance of the affaires, tooke sore displeasure for the things that were done.

2 And when he had gathered about fourescore thousand, and all the horsemen, he came against the Iewes, thinking to make the citie an habitation of the Gentiles.

3 And the Temple would he haue to get money by, like the other temples of the heathen: for he would sell the Priests office euery yere.

4 And thus being puffed vp in his minde, because of the great number of footemen, and thousands of horsemen, and in his fourescore Elephants,

5 He came into Iudea, and drew neere to Beth-sura, which was a castle of defence, fiue a furlongs from Jerusalem, and layed sore siege vnto it.

a Whereof eight make a mile.

6 But when Maccabeus and his company knewe that hee belleged the holds, they, and all the people made prayers with weeping, & teares before the Lord, that hee would send a good Angel to deliuer Israel.

7 And Maccabeus himselfe first of all tooke weapons, exhorting the other that they would leopard themselues together with him to helpe their brethren: so they went forth together with a courageous mind.

8 And as they were there besides Jerusalem, there appeared before them vpon horseback a man in white clothing, shaking his harnesse of gold.

9 Then they prayed the mercifull God all together, and tooke heart, insomuch that they were ready, not only to fight with men, but with the most cruel beasts, and to breake downe wals of yron.

10 Thus they marched forward in aray, hauing an helper from heauen: for the Lord was mercifull vnto them.

11 And running vpon their enemies like lions, they slewe eleuen thousand footmen, and sixteene hundreth horsemen, and put all the other to flight.

12 Many of them also being wounded, escaped naked, & Lysias himselfe fled away shamefully, fully, and so escaped.

13 Who as he was a man of vnderstanding, considering what losse he had had, and knowing that the Hebrewes could not bee ouercome because the Almightie God helped them, sent vnto them,

14 And promised that he would consent to all things which were reasonable, and perswade the king to be their friend.

15 Maccabeus agreed to Lysias requestes, hauing respect in all thinges to the common wealth, and whatsoeuer Maccabeus wrote vnto Lysias concerning the Iewes, the King granted it.

16 For there were letters written vnto the Iewes from Lysias containing these wordes, LYSIAS vnto the people of the Iewes sendeth greeting, 17 Iohn and ‖ Abeallom, which were sent from you, deliuered me the things that you demand by writing, and required me to fulfill the things that they had declared.

‖ Or, Absalon, or Absalom.

18 Therefore what things soeuer were meet to bee reported to the king himselfe, I haue declared them, and he granted that that was possible.

19 Therefore if ye behaue your selues as friends toward his affaires, hereafter also I will endeuour my selfe to doe you good.

20 As concerning these things, I haue giuen commandement to these men, & to those whom I sent vnto you, to commune with you of the same particularly.

21 Fare ye well, the hundred and eight and fortie yeere, the foure and twentieth day of the moneth Dioscorinthius.

22 ¶ Now the Kings letter conteined these words, KING ANTIOCHVS vnto his brother Lysias sendeth greeting.

23 Since our father is translated vnto the gods, our will is, that they which are in our Realme, liue quietly, that euery man may applie his owne affaires.

24 We vnderstand also that the Iewes would not consent to our father, for to be brought vnto the customs of the Gentiles, but would keepe their owne maner of liuing: for the which cause they require of vs, that we would suffer them to liue after their owne lawes.

25 Wherefore our minde is that this nation shall bee in rest, and haue determined to restore them their Temple, that they may be gouerned according to the customs of their fathers.

26 Thou shalt doe well therefore to send vnto them, and grant them peace, that when they are certified of our minde, they may bee of good comfort, and cheerefully goe about their owne affaires.

27 And this was the Kings letter vnto the nation, KING ANTIOCHVS vnto the Elders of the Iewes, and to the rest of the Iewes sendeth greeting.

28 If ye fare well, we haue our desire: we are also in good health.

29 Menelaus declared vnto vs that your desire was to returne home, & to apply your owne businesse.

‖ Or, April, some reade Xanicus, and some Zanicus.

30 Wherefore those that will depart, we giue them free libertie, vnto the thirty day of the moneth of ‖ Panthicus, 31 That the Iewes may vse their owne maner of liuing and lawes, like as afore, and none of them by any maner of wayes to haue harme for things done by ignorance.

32 I haue sent also Menelaus to comfort you.

33 Fare ye well: the hundreth and eight and fortie yeere, the fifteenth day of the moneth of Panthicus.

34 ¶ The Romanes also sent a letter conteining these words, QVINTVS MEMMIVS and Titus ‖ Manilius ambassadours of the Romanes, vnto the people of the Iewes sende greeting.

‖ Or, Manlius.

35 The things that Lysias the kings kinsman hath granted you, we grant the same also.

36 But concerning that which he shall report vnto the king, send hither some with speed, whe yee haue considered the matter diligently, that wee may consult thereupon, as shall be best for you: for we must goe vnto Antiochia.

37 And therefore make haste and send some men, that we may know your minde.

38 Farewell: this hundreth and eight and fortie yeere, the fifteenth day of the moneth of Panthicus.

CHAP. XII.

2 Timotheus troubleth the Iewes. 3 The wicked deed of them of Ioppe against the Iewes. 6 Iudas is auenged of them. 9 He setteth fire in the hauen of Iamnia. 20 The pursuit of the Iewes against Timotheus. 24 Timotheus is taken and let goe vnhurt. 32 Iudas pursueth Gorgias.

WHen these couenants were made, Lysias went vnto the king, and the Iewes tilled their ground.

2 But the gouernours of the places, as Timotheus, and Apollonius the sonne of Genneus, and Ieronymus, and also Demophon, and besides them Nicanor the gouernour of Cyprus, would not let them liue in rest and peace.

3 ¶ They of Ioppe also did such a vile acte: they prayed the Iewes that dwelt among them, to goe with their wiues and children into the ships, which they had prepared as though they had ought them none euill will.

4 And so by the common aduice of the citie, they obeyed them, and suspected nothing: but when they were gone foorth into the deepe, they drowned no lesse then two hundreth of them.

5 Now when Iudas knewe of this crueltie shewed against his nation, he commanded those men that were with him, to make them ready.

6 And hauing called vpon God the righteous Iudge, he went foorth against the murtherers of his brethren, and set fire in the hauen by night, and burnt the ships, and those that fled thence, he slew.

7 ¶ And when the citie was shut vp, he departed as though hee would come againe, and roote out all them of the citie of Ioppe.

8 But when he perceiued that the Iamnites were minded to do in like maner vnto ỳ Iewes, which dwelt among them, 9 He came vpon the Iamnites by night, and set fire in the hauen with the naute, so that the light of the fire was seene at Ierusalem, vpon a two hundreth and foortie furlongs.

10 Now when they were gone from thence nine furlongs, in their iourney toward Timotheus, about fiue thousande men of foote and and fiue hundreth horsemen of the Arabians set vpon him.

11 So the battell was sharpe, but it prospered with Judas through the helpe of God: the [a] Nomades of Arabia, being ouercome, besought Judas to make peace with them, and promised to giue him certaine [b] cattell, and to helpe him in other things.

[a] So called, because they were shepheards.
[b] Or, pastures

12 And Judas thinking that they should in deede bee profitable concerning many things, graunted them peace: whereupon they shooke hands, and so they departed to their tents.

13 ¶ Judas also assaulted a citie called Caspis, which was strong by reason of a bridge, and fenced round about with walles, and had diuers kinds of people dwelling therein.

14 So they that were within it, put such trust in the strength of the walles, and in store of victuals, that they were the slacker in their doings, reuiling them that were with Judas, and reproching them: yea, they blasphemed and spake such words as were not lawfull.

15 But Maccabeus souldiers, calling vpon the great prince of the world (which without any [c] instruments, or engines of warre, did * cast downe the walles of Jericho, in the time of Jesus) gaue a fierce assault against the walles,

[c] Or, battell rammes.
* Josh. 6. 20.

16 And tooke the citie by the will of God, and made an exceeding great slaughter, insomuch that a lake of two furlongs broad, which lay thereby, seemed to flow with blood.

17 ¶ Then departed they from thence, seuen hundreth and fiftie furlongs, and came to Characa vnto the Iewes, that are called Tubieni.

18 But they found not Timotheus there: for he was departed from thence, and had done nothing, and had left a garrison in a very strong holde.

19 But Dositheus, & Sosipater, which were captaines with Maccabeus, went forth, & slew those that Timotheus had left in the fortresse, more then ten thousand men.

20 And Maccabeus prepared, & ranged his army by bands, and went couragiously against Timotheus, which had with him an hundreth and twenty thousand men of foot, and two thousand and fiue hundreth horsemen.

21 When Timotheus had knowledge of Judas comming, he sent the women, and children, and the other baggage afore vnto a fortresse called Carnion (for it was hard to besiege, and vneasie to come vnto because of the straights on all sides)

22 But when Judas first band came in sight, the enemies were smitten with feare, & a trembling was among them through the presence of him that seeth all things, insomuch that they fleeing one heere, another there, were oft times hurt by their owne people, and wounded with the points of their owne swords.

23 But Judas was very earnest in pursuing, and slew those wicked men: yea, he slew thirtie thousand men of them.

24 Timotheus also himselfe fell into the hands of Dositheus, and Sosipater, whom hee besought with much craft to let him goe with his life, because he had many of the Iewes parents, and the brethren of some of them, which, if they put him to death, should be despited.

25 So when he had assured them with many words, and promised that he would restore them without hurt, they let him goe for the health of their brethren.

26 ¶ Then went Maccabeus toward Carnion, and Artagation, and slew fiue and twenty thousand persons.

27 And after that hee had chased away and slaine them, Judas remooued the hoste toward Ephron a strong citie, wherein was Lysias and a great multitude of all nations, and the strong young men kept the walles, defending them mightily: there was also great preparation of engins of warre, and darts.

28 But when they had called vpon the Lord, which with his power breaketh the strength of the enemies, they wanne the citie, and slewe fiue and twenty thousand of them that were within.

29 ¶ From thence went they to Scythopolis, which lyeth fiue hundred furlongs from Jerusalem.

30 But when the Iewes that dwelt there, testified that the [d] Scythopolitans dealt louingly with them, and intreated them kindely in the time of their aduersitie, [d] Or, Scythians.

31 They gaue them thankes, desiring them to be friendly still vnto them, and so they came to Jerusalem, as the feast of the weekes approched.

32 ¶ And after the feast called Pentecost, they went forth against Gorgias the gouernour of Idumea:

33 Who came out with three thousand men of foote, and foure hundreth horsemen.

34 And when they ioyned together, a few of the Iewes were slaine, 35 And Dositheus one of the Baccenors, which was on horseback and a mighty man, tooke Gorgias, and laid holde of his garment, and drew him by force, because hee would haue taken the wicked man aliue: but an horseman of Thracia fell vpon him, and smote off his shoulder, so that Gorgias fled into [e] Marisa.

[e] Or, Moresa, or, Maresa.

36 And when they that were [f] with Esdrin, had foughten long, and were weary, Judas called vpon the Lord, that he would shew himselfe to bee their helper, and Captaine of the field.

[f] Or, with Gorgias.

37 And then he began in his owne language, and sung Psalmes with a loud voice, insomuch that straightwayes hee made them that were about Gorgias, to take their flight.

38 ¶ So Judas gathered his hoste, and came into the citie of Odolla. And when the seuenth day came, they cleansed themselues (as the custome was) and kept the Sabbath in the same place.

39 And vpon the day following, as necessitie required, Judas and his company came to take vp the bodies of them that were slaine, and to bury them with their kinsemen in their fathers graues.

40 Now vnder the coates of euery one that was slaine, they found iewels that had bene consecrate to the idoles of the * Iamnites, which thing is forbidden the Iewes by the Law. Then euery man saw that this was the cause wherfore they were slaine.

* Deut. 7. 25. Josh. 7. 1. 12, 13.

41 And so euery man gaue thankes vnto the Lord, the righteous Iudge, which had opened the things that were hid.

42 And

42 And they gaue themselues to prayer, and besought him, that they should not vtterly be destroyed for the fault committed. Besides that, noble Iudas exhorteth the people to keepe themselues from sinne, forsomuch as they sawe before their eyes the things which came to passe by the sinne of them that were slaine, 43 And hauing made a gathering throughout the company, sent to Ierusalem about two thousand drachmes of siluer, to offer a sinne offering, doing very wel and honestly, that he thought of the resurrection.

44 For if he had not hoped that they which were slaine, should rise againe, it had bene superfluous, and vaine, to ᵃ pray for the dead.

45 And therefore he perceiued that there was great fauour layed vp for those that died godly. (It was an holy & good thought.) So he made a reconciliation for the dead that they might be deliuered from sinne.

a From this verse to the ende of this chapter, the Greeke text is corrupt, so that no good sense, much lesse certeine doctrine can be gathered thereby. Also, it is euident, that this place was not written by ‡ holy Ghost, both because it dissenteth from the rest of the holy Scriptures, and also the authour of this booke acknowledging his owne infirmitie, desireth pardon, if he haue not attained to that hee should. And it seemeth that this Iason the Cyrenian, out of whom he tooke this abridgement, is Ioseph Ben-gorion, who hath written in Ebrew fiue bookes of these matters, and intreating this place, maketh no mention of this prayer for the dead, lib. 3. chap. 19. For it is contrary to the custome of the Iewes, euen to this day, to pray for the dead. And though Iudas had so done, yet this particular example is not sufficient to establish a doctrine, no more then Zipporahs was to proue that women might minister the Sacrament, Exo. 4. 25. or the example of Razis, that one may kill himselfe, whom this authour so much commendeth, Chap. 14 41.

CHAP. XIII

1 The comming of Eupator into Iudea. 4 The death of Menelaus. 10 Maccabeus going to fight against Eupator moueth his souldiers vnto prayer. 15 He killeth fourteene thousand men in the tents of Antiochus. 21 Rhodocus the betrayer of the Iewes is taken.

IN the hundreth fourty and nine yeere, it was tolde Iudas that Antiochus Eupator was comming with a great power into Iudea,

2 And Lysias the steward and ruler of his affaires with him, hauing both in their armie an hundreth and tenne thousand men of foot of the Grecians, and fiue thousand horsemen, and two and twenty Elephants, and three hundreth charets scith with hooks.

3 Menelaus also ioyned himselfe with them, and with great deceit encouraged Antiochus, not for the safegard of the countrey, but because he thought to haue bene made the gouernour.

4 But the King of kings moued Antiochus minde against this wicked man, and Lysias informed the king that this man was the cause of all mischiefe, so that the king commaunded to bring him to Berea to put him vnto death as the maner was in that place.

5 Nowe there was in that place a tower of fiftie cubits high, full of ashes, and it had an instrument that turned round, and on enery side it rouled downe into the ashes:

6 And there wholoeuer was condemned of sacrilege, or of any other grieuous crime, was cast of all men to death.

7 And so it came to passe that this wicked man should die such a death, and it was a most iust thing that Menelaus should want burtail.

8 For because he had committed many sinnes by the altar, whose fire and ashes were holy: he himselfe also died in the ashes.

9 ¶ Now the king raged in his minde, and came to shewe himselfe more cruell vnto the Iewes then his father.

10 Which things when Iudas perceiued, hee commaunded the people to call vpon the Lorde night and day, that if euer hee had holpen them, he would now helpe them, when they should be put from their Law, from their countrey, and from the holy Temple:

11 And that hee would not suffer the people which a little afore began to reconer, to be subdued vnto the blaspheamous nations.

12 So when they had done this altogether, and besought the Lord for mercie with weeping and fasting, and falling downe three dayes together, Iudas exhorted them to make themselues ready.

13 And he being a part with the Elders, tooke counsell to goe forth, afore the king brought his hoste into Iudea, and should take the citie, and commit the matter to the helpe of the Lord.

14 So committing the charge to the Lorde of the world, he exhorted his souldiers to fight manfully euen vnto death for the Lawes, the Temple, the citie, their countrey, and the common wealth, and camped by Modin.

15 And so giuing his souldiers for a watchword, The victory of God, he picked out the manliest yoong men, and went by night into the kings campe, and slewe of the hoste fourteene thousand men, and the greatest Elephant with all that sate vpon him.

16 Thus with they had brought a great feare, and trouble in the campe, and all things went prosperously with them, they departed.

17 This was done in the breake of the day, because the protection of the Lorde did helpe them.

18 ¶ Now whē the king had tasted the manlinesse of the Iewes, he went about to take the holds by policie, 19 And marched toward Beth-sura, which was a strong holde of the Iewes: but hee was chased away, hurt, and lost of his men.

20 For Iudas had sent vnto them that were in it, such things as were necessary.

21 But Rhodocus which was in the Iewes hoste, disclosed the secrets of the enemies: therefore he was sought out, and when they had gotten him, they put him in prison.

22 After this did the King commune with them that were in Beth-sura, and ‖ tooke truce with them, departed, and ioyned battell with Iudas, who ouercame him. ‖ Or, gaue and tooke the right hand.

23 But when hee vnderstood, that Philip (whom he had left to be ouerseer of his businesse at Antiochia) did rebell against him, hee was astonished, so that hee yeelded himselfe to the Iewes, and made them an oth to doe all things that were right, and was appeased towarde them, and offered Sacrifice and adorned the Temple, and shewed great gentlenesse to the place, 24 And embraced Maccabeus, & made him captaine and gouernour from Ptolemais vnto the Gerremians.

25 Neuertheless

25 Neuertheleſſe when hee came to Ptolemais, the people of the citie were not content with this agreement: and becauſe they were grieued, they would that hee ſhould breake the couenants.

26 Then went Lyſias vp into the iudgement ſeate, and excuſed the fact all well as he could, and perſwaded them, and pacified them, and made them well affectioned, and came againe vnto Antiochia. This is the matter concerning the Kings iourney, and his returne.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 Demetrius mooued by Alcimus ſendeth Nicanor to kill the Iewes. 18 Nicanor maketh a compact with the Iewes, 29 which he yet breaketh through the motion of the King. 37 Nicanor commandeth Razis to be taken, who ſlayeth himſelfe.

AFter three yeeres was Iudas informed that Demetrius the ſonne of Seleucus was come vp with a great power and nauy by the hauen of Tripolis,

2 And when hee had wonne the countrey, and ſlaine Antiochus and his lieutenant Lyſias,

3 Howe Alcimus, which had beene the high Prieſt, and wilfully defiled himſelfe in the time that all things were confounded, ſeeing that by no meanes he could ſaue himſelfe, nor haue any more entrance to the holy Altar,

4 Hee came to King Demetrius in the hundreth fiftie and one yeere, preſenting vnto him a crowne of golde, & a palme, and of the boughes which were vſed ſolemnely in the Temple, and that day he held his tongue.

5 But when he had gotten opportunitie, and occaſion for his rage, Demetrius called him to counſell, and aſked him what deuiſes or counſels the Iewes leamed vnto.

6 To the which he anſwered, The Iewes that be called Aſſideans, whoſe captaine is Iudas Maccabeus, maintaine warres, and make inſurrections, and will not let the Realme be in peace.

7 Therefore I, being depriued of my fathers honour (I meane the dignitie Prieſthood) am now come hither,

8 Partly becauſe I was well affectioned vnto the Kings affaires, and ſecondly becauſe I ſought the profit of mine owne citizens: for all our people, through their rathneſſe, are not a litle troubled.

9 Wherefore, O King, ſeeing thou knoweſt all theſe things, make prouiſion for the countrey, and our nation which is abuſed, according to thine owne humanitie, that is readie to helpe all men.

10 For as long as Iudas liueth, it is not poſſible that the matter ſhould be well.

11 When hee had ſpoken theſe words, other friends alſo hauing euill will at Iudas, ſtirred Demetrius on fire.

12 Who immediately called for Nicanor the ruler of the Elephants, and made him captaine ouer Iudea, 13 And ſent him forth, commanding him to ſlay Iudas, and to ſcatter them that were with him, and to make Alcimus the prieſt of the great Temple.

14 Then the Heathen which fled out of Iudea from Iudas, came to Nicanor by flockes, thinking the harme and calamities of the Iewes as be their welfare.

15 Now when the Iewes hearde of Nicanors comming, and the gathering together of the Heathen, they ſtrawed themſelues with earth, and prayed vnto him which had appointed himſelfe a people for euer, and who alwayes defend his owne portion with euident tokens.

16 So at the commandement of the captaine, they remooued ſtraight wayes from thence, and came to the towne of Deſſau.

17 Where Simeon Iudas brother had ioyned battell with Nicanor, and was ſomewhat aſtoniſhed through the ſudden ſilence of the enemies.

18 Neuertheleſſe Nicanor hearing the manlineſſe of them that were with Iudas, and the bolde ſtomackes that they had for their countrey, durſt not proue the matter with bloodſhedding.

19 Wherefore he ſent Poſſidonius, & Theodotus, and ‖ Matthias betoke to make peace. ‖ Or, Theodotus.

20 So when they had taken long aduiſement thereupon, and the captaine ſhewed it vnto the multitude, they were agreed in one minde, and conſented to the couenants. ‖ Or, Mattathias.

21 And they appointed a day when they ſhoulde particularly come together: ſo when the day was come, they ſet for euery man his ſtoole.

22 Neuertheleſſe Iudas commaunded certaine men of armes to waite in conuenient places, leaſt there ſhould ſuddenly ariſe any euill through the enemies: and ſo they communed together of the things where vpon they had agreed.

23 Nicanor, while he abode at Ieruſalem, did none hurt, but ſent away the people that were gathered together.

24 Hee loued Iudas, and fauoured him in his heart. ‖ Or, had Iudas before his eyes.

25 He prayed him alſo to take a wife, and to beget children: ſo he married, and they liued together.

26 But Alcimus perceiuing the loue that was betweene them, and vnderſtanding the couenants that were made, came to Demetrius, and tolde him, that Nicanor had taken ſtrange matters in hand, and ordeyned Iudas a traitor to the Realme, to be his ſucceſſor.

27 Then the King was diſpleaſed, and by the reports of this wicked man, hee wrote to Nicanor, ſaying, that he was very angry for the couenants, commanding him that he ſhoulde ſend Maccabeusin all haſt priſoner vnto Antiochia.

28 When theſe things came to Nicanor, hee was aſtoniſhed and ſore grieued, that he ſhoulde breake the things wherein they had agreed, ſeeing that that man had committed no wickedneſſe.

29 But becauſe it was not commodious to him to withſtand the King, he ſought craftily to accompliſh it.

30 Notwithſtanding when Maccabeus perceiued that Nicanor beganne to be rough vnto him, and that hee intreated him more rudely then he was wont, he perceiued that ſuch rigour came not of good, and therefore hee gathered a few of his men, and withdrewe himſelfe from Nicanor.

31 But the other perceiuing that hee was preuented by Maccabeus worthie policie, came in to the great and holy Temple, and commaunded the Priests, which were offering their diuine Sacrifices, to deliuer him the man.

32 And when they sware that they could not tell where the man was, whom he sought, 33 He stretched out his right hand toward the Temple, and made an othe in this maner, If ye will not deliuer mee Judas as a prisoner, I will make this Temple of God a plaine field, & will breake downe the altar, and will erect a notable temple vnto Bacchus.

34 After their wordes he departed: then the Priests lift vp their hands toward heauen, and besought him that was euer the defender of their nation, saying in this maner, 35 Thou, O Lord of all things, which hast neede of nothing, wouldest that the Temple of thine habitation should be among vs.

36 Therefore now, O most holy Lord, keepe this house euer vndefiled, which lately was clensed, and stoppe all the mouthes of the vnrighteous.

37 Howe was there accused vnto Nicanor, Razis one of the Elders of Jerusalem, a louer of the citie, and a man of very good report, which for his loue was called a father of the Jewes.

38 For this man aforetimes when the Jewes were minded to keepe themselues vndefiled and pure, being accused to bee of the Religion of the Jewes, did offer to spend his body and life with all constancie for the Religion of the Jewes.

39 So Nicanor willing to declare the hatred that he bare to the Jewes, sent about fiue hundreth men of warre to take him.

40 For hee thought by taking him to doe the Jewes much hurt.

41 But when this companie would haue taken his castle, and would haue broken the gates by violence, & commanded to bring fire to burne the gates, so that hee was readie to be taken on euery side, he fell on his sword,

42 Willing rather to die manfully, then to giue himselfe into the handes of wicked men, and to suffer reproch vnworthie for his noble stocke.

43 Notwithstanding what time as he missed of his stroke for haste, and the multitude rushed in violently betweene the doores, he ranne boldly to the wall, and cast himselfe downe manfully among the multitude:

44 Which conueyed themselues lightly away, and gaue place, so that he fell vpon his drifte.

45 Neuertheless while there was yet breath in him, being kindled in his minde, he rose vp, & though his blood gushed out like a fountaine, and he was very sore wounded, yet he ranne thorow the mids of the people,

46 And gate him to the toppe of an hie rocke: so when his blood was vtterly gone, he tooke out his owne bowels with both his hands, & threw them vpon the people, calling vpon the Lord of life and spirite, that he would restore them againe vnto him, and thus he died.

aAs this priuate example ought not to bee followed of the godly because it is contrary to the worde of God, although the author seeme heere to approoue it: so that place as touching praier, Chap. 12. 44. thogh Iudas had apooynted it, yet were it not sufficient to prooue a doctrine, because it is onely a particular example.

CHAP. XV.

1 Nicanor goeth about to come vpon Iudas on the Sabboth day. 5 The blasphemie of Nicanor. 14 Maccabeus expounding vnto the Iewes the vision and encou- raged them. 21 The prayer of Maccabeus. 30 Maccabeus commendeth Nicanors head & hands to be cut off, and his tongue to be giuen vnto the fowles. 35 The author excuseth himselfe.

NOw when Nicanor knewe that Judas and his company were in the countrey of Samaria, he thought with all assurance to come vpon them, vpon the Sabbath day.

2 Neuertheless the Jewes that were compelled to goe with him, sayd, O kill not so cruelly and barbarously, but honour and sanctifie the day that is appointed by him that seeth all things.

3 But this most wicked person demaunded, Is there a Lord in heauen, that commanded the Sabbath day to be kept?

4 And when they sayde, There is a liuing Lord, which ruleth in the heauen, who commaunded the seuenth day to be kept,

5 Then he sayd, And I am mightie vpon earth to commaund them to arme themselues, and to performe the kings businesse. Notwithstanding he could not accomplish his wicked enterprise.

6 For Nicanor lifted vp with great pride, purposed to set vp a memorial of the victorie obtained of all them that were with Judas.

7 But Maccabeus had euer sure confidence and a perfect hope that the Lorde would helpe him,

8 And exhorted his people not to be afrayde at the comming of the heathen, but alway to remember the helpe that had beene shewed vnto them from heauen, and to trust nowe also that they should haue the victorie by the Almighty.

9 Thus he encouraged them by the law and Prophets, putting them in remembrance of the battels that they had wonne afore, and so made them more willing.

10 And stirred vp their hearts, and shewed them also the deceitfulnesse of the heathen, and how they had broken their othes.

11 Thus hee armed euery one of them, not with the assurance of shields and speares, but with wholesome wordes and exhortations, and shewed them a dreame worthy to bee beleeued, and reioyced them greatly.

12 And this was his vision, He thought that he saw Onias, (which had bene the high Priest, a vertuous and a good man, reuerent in behauiour, and of sober conuersation, well spoken, and one that had bene exercised in all points of godlinesse from a childe) holding vp his handes toward heauen, and praying for the whole people of the Jewes.

13 After this there appeared vnto him another man which was aged, honourable, and of a wonderfull dignitie, and excellency aboue him.

14 And Onias spake and sayd, This is a louer of the brethren, who prayeth much for the people, and for the holy citie, to wit, Jeremias the Prophet of God.

15 He thought also that Jeremias held out his right hand, & gaue vnto Judas a sword of gold, and as he gaue it, he spake thus, 16 Take this holy sworde a gift from God, wherewith thou shalt wounde the aduersaries.

17 And

17 And so being comforted by the wordes of Judas which were very sweet and able to stirre them vp to valiantnes & to encourage the hearts of the yong men, they determined to pitch no campe, but courageously to set vpon them, and manfully to assaile them, and to trie the matter hand to hand, because the citie and the Sanctuarie and the Temple were in danger.

18 As for their wiues and children, and brethren, and kinsfolkes, they set lesse by their danger: but their greatest and principall feare was for the holy Temple.

19 Againe they that were in the citie, were carefull for the armie that was abroad.

20 Now whiles they all waited for the triall of the matter, and the enemies nowe met with them, and the hoste was set in aray, & the beasts were separated into conuenient places, and the horsemen were placed in the wings:

21 Maccabeus considering the comming of the multitude, and the diuers preparations of weapons, and the fiercenesse of the beasts, held vp his hands toward heauen, calling vpon the Lord that doeth wonders, and that looked vpon them, knowing that the victorie commeth not by the weapons, but that he giueth the victorie to them that are worthy, as seemeth good vnto him.

22 Therefore in his prayer he sayd after this maner, O Lord, * thou that didst send thine Angel in the time of Ezekias king of Judea, who in the hoste of Sennacherib, slew an hundreth fourescoure and fiue thousand,

23 Send now also thy good Angel before vs, O Lorde of heauens, for a feare and dread vnto them, 24 And let the be discomfited by the strength of thine arme, which come against thine holy people to blaspheme. Thus with these wordes he made an end.

25 Then Nicanor and they that were with him, drewe neere with trumpets and shoutings for ioy.

27 But Judas and his companie praying and calling vpon God, encountred with the enemies.

27 So that with their handes they fought, but with their hearts they prayed vnto God, and slewe no lesse then fiue and thirtie thousand men: for through the presence of God they were wonderously comforted.

28 Now when they left off, and were turning againe with ioy, they vnderstood that Nicanor himselfe was slaine for all his armour.

29 Then they made a great shout and a crie, praysing the Almightie in their owne language.

30 Therefore Judas which was euer the chiefe defender of his citizens both in body and mind, and which bare euer good affection towardes them of his nation, commanded to smite off Nicanors head, with his hand and shoulder, and to bring it to Jerusalem.

31 And when he came there, he called all them of his nation, and set the Priestes by the altar, and sent for them of the castle, 32 And shewed them wicked Nicanors head, and the hand of that blasphemer, which he had holden vp against the holy Temple of the Almightie, with proud braggs.

33 Yee cauled the tongue also of wicked Nicanor to be cut in litle pieces, and to be cast vnto the foules, and that the rewards of his madnesse should be hanged vp before the Temple.

34 So euery man prayed toward the heauen the glorious Lorde, saying, Blessed be he, that hath kept his place vndefiled.

35 He hanged also Nicanors head vpon the high castle, for an euident and plaine token vnto all of the helpe of God.

36 And so they established all together by a common decree that they would in no case suffer this day without keeping it holy:

37 And that the feast should be the thirteenth day of the twelfth moneth, which is called Adar in the Syrians language, the day before Mardochens day.

38 Thus farre as concerning Nicanors matters, and from that time the Hebrewes had the citie in possession. And here will I also make an end.

39 If I haue done well, and as the storie requireth, it is the thing that I desired: but if I haue spoken slenderly and barely, it is that I could.

40 For as it is hurtfull to drinke wine alone, and then againe water: and as wine tempered with water is pleasant and delighteth the taste: so the setting out of the matter delighteth the eares of them that reade the storie. And here shall be the end.

The ſumme of the whole Scripture of the Bookes of the old and new Teſtament.

GOD,

THE bookes of the olde Teſtament doe teach vs, that the ſame God, whom Adam, Noe, Abraham, Iſaac, Iacob, Dauid, and the other fathers did worſhip, is * the onely true God, and that hee is the ſame Almighty and a euerlaſting: who of his meere goodneſſe hath created by his Word b heauen and earth, and all that is in them: From whom all things doe come: without whom there is nothing at all: And that he is c iuſt and mercifull: who alſo d worketh all in all, e after his owne will: f To whom it is not lawfull to ſay, wherefore doth he thus or thus?

Creation of man

And,

MOreouer, theſe Bookes teach vs, that this very God Almighty, after he created all things, ſhaped alſo Adam the firſt man, g to the image and ſpirituall ſimilitude of himſelfe, and that he did conſtitute him Lord ouer all things that he had created in earth. Which Adam by the enuie and fraude of the deuill, tranſgreſſing the precept of his Creator, h by this his ſinne brought in ſuch and ſo great ſinne into the worlde, that we which be ſprong from him by the fleſh, i bee in nature the children of wrath, and thereupon we be made ſubiect and thrall to death, to damnation, to the yoke and tyranny of the deuill.

Chriſt promiſed.

FVrthermore, we are taught by theſe excellent bookes, that God promiſed to k Adam, l Abraham, m Iſaac, n Iacob, o Dauid, and to other Fathers of the olde time, that he would ſende that bleſſed ſeede, his ſonne Ieſus Chriſt our Sauiour, which ſhould deliuer all thoſe from ſinne, and from the p tyrannie of the deuill which by a liuely and working faith ſhould beleeue this promiſe, and put their truſt q in Ieſus Chriſt, hoping that of him and by him, they ſhould obtaine this deliuerance.

The Law.

ALſo they giue vs to vnderſtand, that in the meane ſeaſon, while thoſe Fathers the Iſraelites looked for the ſaluation, and deliuerance promiſed (for that the nature of man is ſuch, ſo proud and ſo corrupt, that thoſe would not willingly acknowledge themſelues to bee ſinners, which had neede of the Sauiour promiſed) God the Creator gaue by Moſes his r Lawe written in two Tables of ſtone: that by it, ſinne & the malice of mans heart being s knowen, men might more vehemently thirſt for the ſcomming of Ieſus Chriſt, who ſhould redeeme and deliuer them from ſinne: which thing, neither the Lawe, nor yet the ſacrifices and oblations of the Law did t performe. For they were ſhadowes and figures of the true oblation of the body of Chriſt: by which oblation all u ſinne ſhould be blotted out, and quite put away.

Chriſt God our Sauiour came.

BY the bookes of the new Teſtament we be taught, that Chriſt ſo afore promiſed (* which is God aboue all things moſt bleſſed for euer) euen he, I ſay, was ſhadowed in the bookes of the olde Teſtament, and in ſacrifices figured, that hee was a ſent at the laſt from the Father, the ſelfe ſame time which the Father did conſtitute within himſelfe: I ſay, b at that time when all wickednеſſe abounded in the worlde, then hee was ſent: And this Ieſus our Sauiour being borne in the fleſh, c ſuffered death, and roſe againe from the dead. Which actes of his were not done by him in reſpect of the d good workes of any man (for we were all ſinners) but that this God our Father ſhould e appeare true, in exhibiting the abundant f riches of his grace which he promiſed, and that g through his mercie hee might bring vs to ſaluation.

A Lambe.
A ſacrifice.
Peace.
Adoption.

Whereupon it is euidently ſhewed in the h Newe Teſtament, that Ieſus Chriſt, being the true i Lambe, the true k ſacrifice of the worlde, l putting away the ſinnes of men, came into this worlde to purchaſe grace and m peace for vs with the Father, waſhing vs from our ſinnes in his owne blood, and n ſhould deliuer vs from the bondage of the deuill, whom by ſinne we did ſerue: And ſo we ſhould be p adopted by him to be the ſonnes of God, made q heires with him of that moſt excellent and euerlaſting kingdome.

The holy Ghoſt.
Faith.
Charitie.
Hope.
Iuſtification and ſanctification.

Now that we ſhould acknowledge this ſingular and excellent benefit of God towards vs, almighty God r giueth vs his holy Spirit: the s fruit and effect of which, is faith in God, and in his Chriſt. For without the holy Ghoſt, by which we are inſtructed and t ſealed, neither can we beleeue that God the Father ſent Meſſias, nor yet that Ieſus is Chriſt: For * no man (ſaith Paul) can ſay that Ieſus is the Lord, but by the holy Ghoſt. The x ſame Spirit witneſſeth to our ſpirit, that we are the children of God, y and powreth into our bowels that charitie which Paul deſcribeth to the Corinthians. Furthermore, that holy Spirit doth giue vs hope, which is a ſure looking for eternall life, whereof he himſelfe is the certaine z token and pledge. Alſo he endueth vs other * ſpirituall gifts, of the which Paul writeth to the Galatians. Therefore the benefit of faith is not to be deſpiſed for leſſe to be ſet by. For by the meane of this truſt & a faith in Chriſt, which b worketh by charity, & ſheweth it ſelfe outwarde by the workes of charity, moouing man thereto, we are c iuſtified and ſanctified: that is to ſay, God and the Father of our Lord Ieſus

Ieſus Chriſt (which is made our [d] Father alſo by him, being our [e] brother) doth accompt vs to bee iuſt and holy through his grace, and through the merits of his ſonne Ieſus Chriſt, not [f] imputing our ſinnes to vs, ſo furre forth, that we ſhould ſuffer the paines of hell for them.

Good workes.

Finally, Chriſt himſelfe [g] came into the world, to the intent that we through him being ſanctified and cleanſed from our ſinnes, following his will in good workes, ſhould deſire the things pertaining to the fleſh, and freely [h] ſerue him in righteouſneſſe and holineſſe all the dayes of our life: and that [i] by good workes (which God hath prepared for vs to walke in) wee ſhould [k] ſhew our ſelues to be called to his grace, and gift of faith: which good workes who ſo hath not, doth ſhew himſelfe not to haue ſuch a faith in Chriſt as is required in vs.

Chriſt our maſter and teacher.

To Chriſt muſt we come, and [l] follow him with a cheerefull minde, that he may teach vs: For he is [m] our maſter, [n] lowly and humble of heart: he is to vs an [o] example, whereby we muſt learne the rule to liue well.

Biſhop. Mediatour. Aduocate.

Moreouer, hee is our [p] Biſhop, and our [q] high Prieſt, which did himſelfe offer vp for vs his owne blood, being the onely [r] mediatour betweene God and men: Who now ſitteth at the right hand of God the Father, being made our [ſ] aduocate, making prayer and interceſſion for vs: who doubtleſſe ſhall obteine for vs [t] whatſoeuer we ſhall deſire, either of him, or elſe of his Father in his Name, if ſo be that we thus deſiring, ſhall beleeue that he will ſo doe: for thus hath he promiſed. Therefore let vs not doubt, if we ſinne at any time, to come with [u] repentance (to the which he doth inuite and ſtirre vs at the very beginning of his preaching) and with ſure truſt to the [x] throne of his grace, with this beliefe, that we ſhall obteine mercie. For therefore [y] hee came into the world, that hee might ſaue ſinners by his grace.

Iudgement.

THis is verily Chriſt Ieſus, which ſhall come at a [z] certaine time appointed by his Father, and ſhall ſit in great maieſtie to [a] iudge all men, and to render to euery man [b] the workes of his body according to that he hath done, whether it be good or euill: And he ſhall ſay to them which ſhall be on the right ſide, which in this world did looke for the good things to come (that is to ſay, life euerlaſting:) [c] Come yee bleſſed of my Father, enioy the kingdome that hath beene prepared for you from the beginning of the world, but to them which ſhall be on the left ſide, hee ſhall ſay: Depart from me yee curſed into euerlaſting fire prepared for the deuill and his Angels. And then [d] ſhall the ende bee, when Chriſt hauing vtterly vanquiſhed all maner of enemies, ſhall deliuer vp the kingdome to God the Father.

Eternall life.

Eternall fire.

To what intent the Scriptures were written.

TO the intent that we mought vnderſtand theſe things, the [e] ſacred Bookes of the Bible were deliuered to vs by the goodneſſe of God through his holy Spirit, with the preaching of that doctrine which is contained in them, and with his Sacraments, by which the trueth of his doctrine is ſealed vp to vs: that wee [f] mought vnderſtand, I ſay, and beleeue that there is one onely true God, and one Sauiour Ieſus Chriſt, whom (as he had promiſed) hee hath ſent: [g] and that wee beleeuing mought haue in his Name life euerlaſting.

Chriſt the onely foundation.

BEſides this [h] foundation, no man can lay any other in the Church of Chriſt: and vpon this foundation the Church doth ſtand ſure and ſtedfaſt. And Paul willeth him to be [i] accurſed which ſhall preach any other faith and ſalnation, then by Ieſus Chriſt, yea, [k] although hee were an Angel from heauen.

For [l] of him, through him, and for him, are all things: To whom with the Father and the holy Ghoſt, be all honour and glory, world without end, Amen.

¶ Certaine

¶ Certaine questions and answeres touching the doctrine of Predestination, the vse of Gods word and Sacraments.

Question.

WHy doe men so much vary in matters of religion?

Answere.

Because all haue not the like measure of knowledge, neither doe al beleeue the Gospel of Christ.

Question.

What is the reason therof?

Answere.

Because they only beleeue the Gospel and doctrine of Christ, which are ordained vnto eternall life.

Question.

Are not all ordained vnto eternall life?

Answere.

Some are vessels of wrath ordained vnto destruction, as others are vessels of mercie prepared to glory.

Question.

How standeth it with Gods iustice, that some are appointed vnto damnation?

Answere.

Very well: because all men haue in themselues sinne, which deserueth no lesse: and therefore the mercy of God is wonderfull in that he vouchsafeth to saue some of that sinful race, and to bring them to the knowledge of the truth.

Question.

If Gods ordinance and determination must of necessitie take effect, then what need any man to care? for he that liueth well, must needes be saued, if he be predestinate ordained: and he that liueth ill, must needes be damned if he be therevnto appointed.

Answere.

Not so: for it is not possible, that either the elect should alwayes liue without care to doe well, so that the remembrance should leaue any well therevnto. For this doing right, and well of good works, is a testimony of the Spirit of God, which is giuen to the elect onely, wherebie faith is wrought in them, that hauing grafte in Christ, they grow in holinesse to that glory, wherevnto they are appointed. Neither are they to haue assurance to thinke that they may doe as they list themselues, because they are predestinate vnto saluation: but rather they endeuour to walke in such good workes as God in Christ Iesus hath ordayned them vnto, and prepared for them to be occupied in, to their owne comfort, ioy and assurance, and to his glory.

Question.

But how shall I know my selfe to bee one of those whom God hath ordained to life eternall?

Answere.

By the motions of spirituall life, which belonge onely to the children of God: by the which that life is perceiued, euen as the life of this body is discerned by the sence and motions therof.

Question.

What meane you by the motions of spirituall life?

Answere.

I meane remorse of conscience, ioyned with the louing of sinne, and loue of righteousnesse: the hand of faith reaching vnto life eternall in Christ, the conscience comforted in distresse, and raised vp to confidence in God by the worke of his Spirit: a thankefull remembrance of Gods benefits receiued, and the vsing of all aduersities as occasion of amendement sent from God.

Question.

Cannot such perish as at some time or other feele these motions within themselues?

Answere.

It is not possible that they should: for as Gods purpose is not changeable, so he repenteth not of the graces & gifts of his adoption: neither doth he cast off those whom he hath once receiued.

Question.

Why then should we pray by the example of Dauid, that he cast vs not from his face, and that he take not his holy Spirit from vs?

Answere.

In so praying we make protestation of the vnfainednesse of faith, which moueth vs to pray: we should not haue courage to aske, if we were not assured that God will giue according to his purpose and promise, that which we require.

Question.

Doe the children of God feele the motions aforesaid alwayes alike?

Answere.

No truely: for God sometime to proue his, permitteth to leaue them in such sort, that the flesh ouermaistereth the spirit, wherof ariseth trouble of conscience for the time yet the ſpirit of adoption is power to take away from them that heauy ſeare of death, & all miſerie they paſſe. But as in ſome diſeaſes of the body, the powers of bodily life are feared: So in ſome aſſaults theſe motions of ſpirituall life are not perceiued, becauſe they lie hidden in our manifold infirmities, as the fire couered with aſhes. Yet as after ſickeneſſe commeth health, and after clouds the Sunne ſhineth cleare: ſo the powers of the ſpirituall life will more or leſſe be felt and perceiued in the children of God.

Queſtion.

What if I neuer feele theſe motions in my ſelfe, ſhall I deſpaire, and thinke my ſelfe a caſtaway?

Anſwere.

God forbid: for God calleth his at what time he ſeeth good: & the inſtruments wherby he vſually calleth, haue not the like effect at all times, yet it is not good to neglect the meanes whereby God hath determined to worke the ſaluation of his. For as ware is not melted without heat, nor clay hardened but by meanes thereof: ſo God vſeth meanes both to draw thoſe vnto himſelfe, whom her hath appointed vnto ſaluation, and alſo to bewray the wickedneſſe of them whome her iuſtly condemneth.

Queſtion.

By what meanes vſeth God to draw men to himſelfe that they may be ſaued?

Anſwere.

By the preaching of his word and the miniſtring of his Sacraments thereunto annexed.

Queſtion.

What meane you by the word of God?

Anſwere.

I meane the doctrine of the Prophets and Apoſtles which they receiued of the ſpirit of God, and haue left written in that Books which we commonly call the Old and New Teſtament.

Queſtion.

How may I be aſſured that it is the word of God, which that Books containeth?

Anſwere.

By the maieſtie of God appearing in that plaine and ſimple doctrine: by the purenes, holineſſe and holines thereof: by the certainty of euery thing therein affirmed: by the ſucceſſe of all things according to it: by perpetuall conſent which is in it, in euery part thereof: by the excellencie of the matters vttered: But eſpecially by the teſtimonie of Gods Spirit, whereby it was written, who moueth the hearts of thoſe in whom it reſteth, to conſent vnto his word, and reuerently to imbrace it.

Queſtion.

How doth this word of God ſerue to draw men vnto him?

Anſwere.

When it is ſo preached and heard, that men may vnderſtand and learne what God teacheth: accept and receiue thankfully that which is thereby giuen, promiſed & aſſured: and be moued with deſire and diligence to doe that which it commandeth.

Queſtion.

Doe the Sacraments alſo ſerue to this ende?

Anſwere.

Yea verily: that by ſight, taſte and feeling, as well as by hearing, we might be inſtructed, aſſured, and brought to obedience.

Queſtion.

How doth our Baptiſme ſerue hereunto?

Anſwere.

It teacheth vs to put on Chriſt, that with his righteouſneſſe our ſinfulneſſe may be hidden: it aſſureth vs that we are ſo graft into Chriſt, that all our ſinnes by him are waſhed away: it chargeth vs to die to ſinne, to continue in the profeſſion of Chriſt, and to loue each other.

Queſtion.

Hath the Lords ſupper alſo this vſe?

Anſwere.

Yea doubtleſſe: for it teacheth, that the body and blood of Chriſt crucified, is the only food of the new borne children of God: it aſſureth that Chriſt is wholly theirs to giue and to continue life ſpirituall and heauenly to body and ſoule, to nourith, ſtrengthen, refreſh, & to make cheerefull the hearts of the elect: it requireth thankefull remembrance of the death of Chriſt, vnite among thoſe that doe profeſſe him with a free confeſſion of his truth.

Queſtion.

Why is not this vſe of the Sacraments commonly knowen?

Anſwere.

Becauſe they are abuſed to forme, for faſhion, for cuſtome and company, without reſpect vnto the ende, wherevnto they are ſo annexed, whereby ſome vſe vpon any occaſion, or for any reaſon vnto them, which teacheth the right vſe of euery thing.

Queſtion.

I perceiue that nothing is more neceſſary then the word of God: therefore I pray you ſhew me how I may attaine to ſome knowledge of this holie booke.

Anſwere.

By diligent hearing of them as preached, by continuall and orderly exerciſe of reading and praying.

Queſtion.

What orderly exerciſe thinke you moſt conuenient to be vſed herein?

Anſwere.

Anſwere.

That as euery day, ſwile at the leaſt, wee muſt commit ſome portion of the holy Scripture to memorie: ſo this booke shall make it very easie vnto vs, that no day bee ſuffered to paſſe without ſome reading, in ſuch ſort that occaſion thereby may bee taken to ſpeake againe vnto God by prayer, as he in his word ſpeaketh vnto vs: So that in the ſame two Chapters would bee aduertly and diligently read euery day, all other tedious compoſitions and lets ſet apart.

Queſtion.

This ſeemeth very eaſie to be done: what thinke you elſe requiſite?

Anſwere.

That ſome eſpeciall places of Scripture be ſo committed to memorie, that the minde may euer be furniſhed with ſome good matter againſt all temptations. To which ende I note theſe Scriptures vnto you, which ſhall ſerue, vntil other occaſion worke more: Pſalmes 139. 37. 50. Eſa. 53. Iob. 17. Rom.

Queſtion.

But the Scriptures are hard, and not eaſie to vnderſtand.

Anſwere.

Diſcourage not your ſelfe herewith: for God maketh them eaſie to ſuch as in humilitie ſeeke him: and that hardneſſe that you finde, ſtirreth to mooue you to the more diligence, and to make inquirie of ſuch as haue knowledge, when any doubt ariſeth. That which you perceiue not at one time, God ſhall reueile at another: So that you ſhall haue your growing in grace, knowledge and godlineſſe, to Gods glorie and your ſtrong comfort in Chriſt, whoſe Name be euer be praiſed. Amen.

¶ The

The holy [a] Gospel of Iesus Christ,

[b] according to Matthewe.

THE ARGVMENT.

IN this historie written by Matthew, Marke, Luke, & Iohn, ỹ Spirit of God so gouerned their hearts that although they were foure in number, yet in effect and purpose they so consent, as though the whole had bene composed by any one of them. And albeit in stile and maner of writing they be diuers, and sometime one writeth more largely that which the other doeth abridge: nevertheless in matter and argument, they all tend to one end: which is to publish to the world the fauour of God toward mankinde through Christ Iesus, whom the Father hath giuen as a pledge of his mercy and loue. And for this cause they entitle their story, Gospel, which signifieth good tydings, forasmuch as God hath performed in deed that which the fathers hoped for. So that hereby we are admonished to forsake the world, and the vanities therof, and with most affectioned hearts embrace this incomparable treasure freely offred vnto vs: for there is no ioy nor consolation, nor peace nor quietnesse, no felicity nor situation, but in Iesus Christ, who is the very substance of this Gospel, & in whom all the promises are Yea, & Amen. And therfore vnder this word is contained the whole new Testament: but commonly we vse this name for the historie, which the foure Euangelists write, containing Christs comming in the flesh, his death, and resurrection, which is the perfect summe of our saluation. Matthew, Marke, & Luke are more copious in describing his life and death: but Iohn more laboureth to set forth his doctrine, wherin both Christs office, & also the vertue of his death and resurrection more fully appeareth: for without this, to know that Christ was borne dead, & risen again, should nothing profit vs. The which thing notwithstanding that the three first touch partly, as he also sometime intermedleth the historical narration, yet Iohn chiefly is occupied herein. And therfore as a most learned interpreter writeth, they describe, as it were, the body, & Iohn setteth before our eyes the soule. Wherfore the same aptly termeth the Gospel written by Iohn, the key which openeth the doore to the vnderstanding of the others: for whosoeuer doth know the office, vertue & power of Christ, shall read that which is written of the Sonne of God come to be the Redeemer of the world, with more profit. Now as concerning the writers of this history, it is euident that Matthew was a Publicane or custome gatherer, and was thence chosen of Christ to bean Apostle. Marke as thought to haue bene Peters disciple, and to haue planted the first Church at Alexandria, where he died the eight yere of the reigne of Nero. Luke was a Physition of Antiochia, and became Pauls disciple, & fellow in all his trauailes: hee liued fourescore and foure yeres, and was buried at Constantinople. Iohn was that Apostle whom the Lord loued, the sonne of Zebedeus, and brother of Iames; he died threescore yeere after Christ, and was buried neere to the citie of Ephesus.

5 * And they sayde vnto him, At Bethlehem in Iudea: for so it is written by the Prophet,
6 * And thou Beth-lehem in the land of Iuda, art not the least among the princes of Iuda: for out of thee shall come the gouernour that shall feede my people Israel.
7 Then Herode * priuily called the wisemen, and diligently inquired of them the time of the starre that appeared,
8 And sent them to Beth-lehem, saying, Goe, and search diligently for the babe: and when yee haue found him, bring me worde againe, that I may come also, and worship him.
9 ¶ So when they had heard the King, they departed: and loe, the starre which they had seene in the East, went before them, till it came, and stoode ouer the place where the babe was.
10 And when they sawe the starre, they reioyced with an exceeding great ioy.

26 But whosoeuer heareth these my words, and doeth them not, shall be likened vnto a foolish man, which hath builded his house vpon the sand:

CHAP. XII.

Christ excuseth his disciples which pluckt the eares of corne. 10 He healeth the dried hand, 22 Helpeth the possessed that was blind & dumbe, 31 Blasphemie. 34 The generation of vipers. 35 Of good words. 36 Of idle words. 38 He rebuketh the vnfaithfull that would needes haue tokens. 49 And sheweth who is his brother, sister and mother.

AT that time Iesus went on a Sabbath day through the corne, and his disciples were an hungred, and began to pluck the eares of corne and to eat.

2 And when the Pharises saw it, they said vnto him, Behold, thy disciples do that which is not lawfull to doe vpon the Sabbath.

3 But hee sayd vnto them, * Haue ye not read what Dauid did when hee was an hungred, and they that were with him?

4 How he entred into the house of God, and ate the shewe bread, which was not lawfull for him to eate, neither for them which were with him, but onely for the * priests?

5 Or haue ye not read in the Law how that on the Sabbath dayes the Priestes in the Temple * breake the Sabbath, and are blamelesse?

6 But I say vnto you, that here is one greater then the temple.

7 Wherefore if ye knew what this is, * I will haue mercy, and not sacrifice, ye would not haue condemned the innocents.

8 For the Sonne of man is * Lord, euen of the Sabbath.

9 * And hee departed thence, and went into their Synagogue.

10 And behold, there was a man which had his hande dryed vp. And they asked him, saying, Is it lawfull to heale vpon a Sabbath day? that they might accuse him.

11 And he sayd vnto them, What man shall there bee among you, that shall haue a sheepe, and if it fall on a Sabbath day into a pit, will hee not take it and lift it out?

12 How much more then is a man better then a sheepe? therefore it is lawfull to doe well on a Sabbath day.

13 Then sayde hee to the man, Stretch forth thine hand. And he stretched it forth, and it was made whole as the other.

14 Then the Pharises went out, & consulted against him how they might destroy him.

15 But when Iesus knew it, he departed thence, and great multitudes followed him, and he healed them all,

16 And charged them that they shoulde not make him knowen,

17 That it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by Esaias the Prophet, saying,

18 * Behold my seruant whom I haue chosen, my beloued in whom my soule delighteth: I will put my spirit on him, and he shall shew * iudgement to the Gentiles.

19 He shall not * strive, nor cry, neither shal any man heare his voyce in the streetes.

20 A * bruised reede shall hee not breake, and smoking flaxe shall hee not quench, till hee bring forth iudgement * vnto victorie.

21 And in his Name shall the Gentiles trust.

22 ¶ * Then was brought to him one possessed with a deuil, both blinde and dumme, and hee healed him, so that hee which was blind and dumme, both spake and saw.

23 And all the people were amazed, and sayd, Is not this the Sonne of Dauid?

24 But when the Pharises heard it, they said, * This man casteth the deuils no other wise out, but through Beelzebub the prince of deuils.

25 But Iesus knew their thoughts, and said to them, Euery kingdom diuided against it selfe, is brought to nought: and euery citie or house diuided against it selfe, shall not stand.

26 So if Satan cast out Satan, he is diuided against himselfe: how shall then his kingdome endure?

27 And if I through Beelzebub cast out deuils, by whom doe your * children cast them out? Therefore they shall bee your iudges.

CHAP. XIII.

3 The state of the kingdome of God set forth by the parable of the seed. 24 Of the tares. 31 Of the mustard seed. 33 Of the leauen. 44 Of the treasure hid in the field. 45 Of the pearles, 47 And of the net. 57 The Prophet is contemned in his owne country.

THe * same day went Iesus out of the houle, and sate by the sea side.

2 And * great multitudes resorted vnto him, so that he went into a shippe, and sate downe: and the whole multitude stoode on the shore.

3 Then he spake many things to them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sowe.

4 And as he sowed, some fel by the wayes side, and the fowles came and deuoured them vp.

5 And some fel vpon stony ground, where they had not much earth, & anon they sprung vp, because they had no depth of earth.

6 And when the same rose vp, they were parched, and for lacke of rooting withered away.

7 And some fell among thornes, and the thornes sprung vp and choked them.

8 Some againe fell in good ground, and brought foorth fruite, one corne an hundreth folde, some fiftie folde, and another thirtie folde.

9 He that * hath eares to heare, let him heare.

10 ¶ Then the disciples came, and sayd to him, Why speakest thou to them in parables?

11 And he answered and sayd vnto them, Because it is giuen vnto you to know the secrets of the kingdome of heauen, but to them it is not * giuen.

12 * * For whosoeuer hath, to him shall be giuen, and he shal haue abundance: but whosoeuer hath not, from him shall bee taken away, euen * that he hath.

15 For this people's heart is waxed fat, and their eares are dull of hearing, and with their eyes they haue winked, least they should see with their eyes, and heare with their eares, and should vnderstand with their hearts, and should returne, that I might heale them.

16 But blessed are your eies, for they see: and your eares, for they heare.

17 For verily I say vnto you, that many Prophets and righteous men haue desired to see those things which ye see, and haue not seene them, and to heare those things which ye heare, and haue not heard them.

18 ¶ Heare ye therefore the parable of the sower.

19 Whensoeuer a man heareth the word of the kingdome, and vnderstandeth it not, the euill one commeth, and catcheth away that which was sowen in his heart: and this is hee which I hath receiued the seede by the way side.

20 And hee that receiued seede in the stonie ground, is hee which heareth the worde, and incontinently with ioy receiueth it.

21 Yet hath he no roote in himselfe, and dureth but a season: for as soone as tribulation or persecution commeth because of the word, by and by he is offended.

22 And he that receiueth the seed among thornes, is hee, that heareth the worde: but the care of this world, and the deceitfulnesse of riches choke the worde, and hee is made vnfruitfull.

23 But he that receiueth the seede in the good ground, is he that heareth the word, & vnderstandeth it, which also beareth fruite, and bringeth foorth, some an hundreth fold, some sixtie folde, and some thirtie folde.

24 ¶ Another parable put he foorth vnto them, saying, The kingdome of heauen is like vnto a man which sowed good seede in his field.

25 But while men slept, there came his enemie, and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way.

26 And when the blade was sprung vp, and brought foorth fruit, then appeared the tares also.

27 Then came the seruants of the householder, and said vnto him, Master, sowedst thou not good seed in thy field? from whence then hath it tares?

28 And he said vnto them, The enuious man hath done this. Then the seruaunts said vnto him, Wilt thou then that we goe and gather them vp?

29 But he said, Nay, lest while yee goe about to gather the tares, yee plucke vp also with them the wheat.

30 Let both growe together vntill the haruest, and in time of haruest I will say to the reapers, Gather yee first the tares and binde them in sheaues to burne them:

31 ¶ Another parable put he foorth vnto them saying, The kingdome of heauen is like vnto a graine of mustard seede, which a man taketh and sowe[th] in his field:

32 Which indeed is the least of all seedes: but when it is growen, it is the greatest among herbes, and it is a tree, so that the birds of heauen come and build in the branches thereof.

33 ¶ Another parable spake he vnto them, The kingdome of heauen is like vnto leauen, which a woman taketh and hideth in three peckes of meale, till all be leauened.

34 ¶ All these things spake Iesus vnto the multitude in parables, and without parables spake he not vnto them.

35 That it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the Prophet, saying, I will open my mouth in parables, and will vtter the things which haue bene kept secret from the foundation of the world.

36 Then sent Iesus the multitude away, and went into the house. And his disciples came vnto him, saying, Declare vnto vs the parable of the tares of the field.

37 Then answered he, and said to them, He that soweth the good seed, is the Sonne of man.

38 And the field is the worlde, and the good seede, they are the children of the kingdome, and the tares are the children of the wicked.

39 And the enemie that sowed them, is the deuill, and the haruest is the end of the world, and the reapers be the Angels.

40 As then the tares are gathered and burned in the fire: so shall it be in the end of this world.

41 The Sonne of man shal send forth his Angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdome all things that offend, and them which doe iniquitie,

AT that time Herod the Tetrarch heard of the fame of Jesus,

2 And sayd vnto his seruants, This is Iohn Baptist: a he is risen againe from the dead, & therefore great b works are wrought by him.

3 For Herod had taken Iohn & bound him, & put him in prison for Herodias sake, his brother Philips wife.

4 For Iohn sayde vnto him, It is not c lawfull for thee to haue her.

5 And when hee would haue put him to death, he feared the multitude, because they counted him as a d Prophet.

6 But when Herods birth day was kept, the daughter of Herodias danced before them, and pleased Herod.

7 Wherefore he e promised with an oth, that he would giue her whatsoeuer she would aske.

8 And she being before instructed of her mother, sayd, Giue me here Iohn Baptists head in a platter.

9 And the king was sory: neuertheless because of the othe, and them that sate with him at the table, he commanded it to be giuen her.

10 And sent, and beheaded Iohn in the prison.

11 And his head was brought in a platter, and giuen to the maide, and she brought it vnto her mother.

12 Then his disciples came, and tooke vp his body, and buried it, and went, and told Iesus.

13 f And when Iesus heard it, he departed thence by ship into a g desert place apart. And when the multitude had heard it, they followed him a foote out of the cities.

14 And Iesus went forth and sawe a great multitude, and was moued with compassion toward them, and hee healed their sicke.

15 And when euen was come, h his disciples came to him, saying, This is a desert place, and the houre is already past: let the multitude depart, that they may go into the townes, and buy them victuals.

16 But Iesus sayde to them, They haue no i neede to goe away: giue yee them to eat.

17 Then sayde they vnto him, We haue here but fiue loaues, and two fishes.

18 And he sayd, Bring them hither to me.

19 And he commanded the multitude to sit downe on the grasse, and tooke the fiue loaues and the two fishes, and looked vp to heauen and blessed, and brake, and gaue the loaues to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude.

20 And they did all eate, and were satisfied, and they tooke vp of the fragments that remained, twelue baskets full.

21 And they that had eaten, were about fiue thousand men, beside women and little children.

22 And straightway Iesus k compelled his disciples to enter into a ship, & to goe ouer before him, while he sent the multitude away.

23 And assoone as he had sent the multitude away, hee went vp into a mountaine alone to pray: l and when the euening was come, he was there alone.

24 And the ship was now in the middes of the sea, and was tossed with waues: for it was a contrary wind.

25 And in the m fourth watch of the night, Iesus went vnto them, walking on the sea.

26 And when his disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit, and cryed out for feare.

27 But straightway Iesus spake vnto them, saying, Be of good comfort. It is I: be not afraid.

28 Then Peter answered him, and sayd, Master, if it be thou, n bid me come vnto thee on the water.

29 And he sayd, Come. And when Peter was come downe out of the ship, he walked on the water, to goe to Iesus.

30 But when he saw a mighty winde, he was afraide: and as he o began to sinke, he cried, saying, Master, saue me.

THen came to Iesus the Scribes and Pharises, which were of Ierusalem, saying,

2 a Why doe the disciples transgresse the tradition of the Elders? for they a wash not their hands when they eate bread.

3 But he answered and said vnto them, Why do ye also transgresse the commandement of God by your tradition?

4 * For God hath commaunded, saying, Honour thy father and mother: * and hee that curseth father or mother, let him die the death.

5 But ye say, b Whosoeuer shall say to father or mother, c It is a gift that is offered by me, thou mayest haue profit.

6 Though hee honour not his father or his mother, shall be free: thus haue yee made the commandement of God of no authoritie by your tradition.

7 O hypocrites, Esaias prophecied well of you, saying,

8 * This people draweth neere vnto me with their mouthe, and honoureth me with the lippes, but their heart is farre off from me.

9 * But in vaine they worship me, teaching for doctrines mens precepts.

10 * Then hee called the multitude vnto him, and said vnto them, Heare and vnderstand.

11 That which goeth into the mouth, defileth not the man, but that which commeth out of the mouth, that defileth the man.

12 ¶ Then came his disciples, and said vnto him, Perceiuest thou not, that the Pharises are offended in hearing this saying?

13 But he answered and said, * Euery plant which mine heauenly Father hath not planted, shalbe rooted vp.

14 * Let them alone: they be the blinde leaders of the blinde: and if the blinde leade the blinde, both shall fall into the ditch.

15 ¶ Then answered Peter, and said vnto him, Declare vnto vs this parable.

16 Then said Iesus, Are ye yet without vnderstanding?

17 Perceiue ye not yet, that whatsoeuer entreth into the mouth, goeth into the belly, and is cast into the draught?

18 But those things which proceed out of the mouth, come from the heart, and they defile the man.

19 For out of the heart * come euill thoughts, murthers, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false testimonies, slanders.

20 These are the things which defile the man: but to eate with vnwashen hands, defileth not the man.

21 * And Iesus went thence, and departed into the coasts of Tyrus and Sidon.

22 And beholde, a woman a Canaanite came out of the same coastes, and cryed saying vnto him, Haue mercie on me, O Lord, the sonne of Dauid: my daughter is miserably vexed with a deuill.

23 But hee answered her not a worde. Then came to him his disciples, f & besought him, saying, Send her away, for she cryeth after vs.

24 But he answered, and said, I am not sent but vnto the * lost sheepe of the house of Israel.

25 Yet she came, and worshipped him, saying, Lord helpe me.

26 And he answered, and said, Is it not good to take the childrens bread, and to cast it to h whelpes?

27 But she said, Truth, Lord: yet the whelpes eat of the crummes, which fall from their masters table.

28 Then Iesus answered, and said vnto her, O woman, great is thy i faith: be it to thee as thou wilt. And her daughter was made whole at that houre.

29 ¶ So Iesus went away from thence, and came neere vnto the sea of Galile, and went vp into a mountaine and sate downe there.

30 And great multitudes came vnto him, * hauing with them halte, blinde, dumbe, maimed, and many other, and cast them downe at Iesus feete, & he healed them, 31 In somuch that the multitude wondred, to see the dumbe speake, the maimed whole, the halte to go, & the blinde to see: and they glorified the God of Israel.

32 * Then Iesus called his disciples vnto him, and said, k I haue compassion on the multitude, because they haue continued with me already three dayes, and haue nothing to eate: and I will not let them depart fasting, lest they faint in the way.

33 And his disciples said vnto him, Whence should we get so much bread in the wildernesse, as should suffice to great a multitude?

34 And Iesus said vnto them, How many loaues haue yee? And they said, Seuen, and a few little fishes.

35 Then he commanded the multitude to sit downe on the ground,

36 And tooke the seuen loaues, and the fishes, and gaue thankes, and brake them, and gaue to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude.

6 And he went about the eleuenth houre, and found other standing idle, and said vnto them, Why stand ye here all the day idle?

7 They said vnto him, Because no man hired vs. He said to them, Goe ye also into my vineyard, and whatsoeuer is right, that shall ye receiue.

8 ¶ And when euen was come, the Master of the vineyard said vnto his steward, Call the labourers, and giue them their hire, beginning at the last, till thou come to the first.

9 And they which were hired about the eleuenth houre came and receiued euery man a penie.

10 Now when the first came, they supposed that they should receiue more, but they likewise receiued euery man a penie.

20 Then came to him the mother of Zebedeus children with her sonnes, worshipping him, and desiring a certaine thing of him.

21 And he sayd vnto her, What wouldest thou? She sayd to him, Graunt that these my two sonnes may sit, the one at thy right hand, and the other at thy left hand in thy kingdome.

22 And Iesus answered, and said, Ye knowe not what ye aske. Are ye able to drinke of the cup that I shall drinke of, and to be baptized with the baptisme that I shall be baptized with? They sayd to him, We are able.

2 The kingdome of heauen is like vnto a certaine King which maried his sonne,

3 And ᵇ sent forth his seruants to call them that were bidden to the wedding, but they would not come.

4 Againe he sent forth other seruants, saying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold, I haue prepared my dinner: mine oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready; come vnto the mariage.

5 But they made light of it, and went their waies, one to his farme, and another about his merchandise.

6 And the remnant tooke his seruants, and intreated them shamefully, and slew them.

7 But when the King heard it, hee was wroth, and sent forth his warriers, and ᵇ destroied those murtherers, and burnt vp their citie.

8 Then saith he to his seruants, Truely the wedding is prepared: but they which were bidden, were not worthy.

9 Go ye therefore out into the hie waies, and as many as ye finde, bid them to the mariage.

10 So ᶜ those seruants went out into the hie waies, and gathered together all that euer they found, both ᵈ good and bad: so the wedding was furnished with ghests.

11 Then the King came in, to see the ghests, and saw there a man which had not on a ᵉ wedding garment.

12 And hee said vnto him, Friend, how 17 Tell vs therefore, how thinkest thou? Is it lawfull to giue tribute vnto Cesar, or not?

18 But Iesus perceiued their wickednes, and said, Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites?

27 And last of all the woman died also.

28 Therefore in the resurrection, whose wife shall she be of the seuen? for all had her.

29 Then Iesus answered, and said vnto them; Ye m are deceiued, not knowing the Scriptures, nor the power of God.

30 For in the resurrection they neither marrie wiues, nor wiues are bestowed in marriage, but are as the * Angels of God in heauen.

33 And when the people heard it, they were astonied at his doctrine.

34 ¶ * But when the Pharises had heard that he had put the Sadducees to silence, they assembled together.

35 And one of them, which was an expounder of the Law, asked him a question, tempting him, and saying, 36 Master, which is the great commandement in the Law?

37 Iesus said to him, * Thou shalt loue the Lord thy God with all thine heart, with all thy soule, and with all thy mind.

38 This is the first and the great Commandement.

39 And the seconde is like vnto this, * Thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy selfe.

40 On these two Commandements hangeth the whole Law and the Prophets.

41 ¶ * While the Pharises were gathered together, Iesus asked them, 19 Ye fooles and blinde, whether is greater, the offering, or the altar which sanctifieth the offering?

23 Woe be to you, Scribes and Pharises, hypocrites: for ye tithe mint, and anise, and cummin, and leaue the weightier matters of the Law, iudgement, and mercie, and faithfulnesse. These ought ye to haue done, and not to haue left the other.

27 Woe be to you Scribes & Pharises, hypocrites: for ye are like vnto painted tombes, which appeare beautifull outward, but are within full of dead mens bones, and of all filthinesse.

28 So are ye also: for outward ye appeare righteous vnto men, but within ye are full of hypocrisie and iniquitie.

29 Woe be vnto you, Scribes & Pharises, hypocrites: for ye build the tombes of the Prophets, and garnish the sepulchres of the righteous, 30 And say, If we had been in the dayes of our fathers, we would not haue been partakers with them in the bloud of the Prophets.

31 So then ye be witnesses vnto your selues, that ye are the children of them that murdered the Prophets.

32 Fulfill ye also the measure of your fathers.

33 O serpents, the generation of vipers, how should ye escape the damnation of hell?

34 Wherefore behold, I send vnto you Prophets, and wise men, and Scribes, and of them ye shall kill and crucifie, and of them shall ye scourge in your Synagogues, & persecute them from citie to citie,

35 That vpon you may come all the righteous bloud that was shed vpon the earth, from the bloud of Abel the righteous, vnto the bloud of Zacharias, the sonne of Barachias, whom ye slew betweene the Temple and the altar.

Then the a kingdome of heauen shall bee likened vnto ten virgins, which tooke their lampes, and went to b meete the bridegroome.

2 And fiue of them were wise, and fiue foolish.

3 The foolish tooke their lampes, but tooke none oyle with them.

4 But the wise tooke oyle in their vessels with their lampes.

5 Nowe while the bridegroome tarried long, all slumbred and slept.

6 And at midnight there was a crie made, Behold, the bridegroome commeth: goe out to meete him.

7 Then all those virgins arose, and trimmed their lampes.

8 And the foolish said to the wise, c Giue vs of your oyle, for our lampes are d out.

9 But the wise answered, saying, Woe feare lest there will not be ynough for vs and you: but e goe ye rather to them that sell, and buy for your selues.

10 And while they went to buy, the bridegroome came: and they that were ready, went in with him to the wedding, and the gate was shut.

11 Afterwards came also the other virgins, saying, Lord, Lord, open to vs.

12 But he answered, and said, Verily I say vnto you, f I know you not.

13 g Watch therefore: for yee know neither the day nor the houre, when the Sonne of man will come.

14 h For the kingdome of heauen is as a man that going into a straunge countrey, called his seruants, and deliuered vnto them his goods.

15 And vnto one he gaue fiue i talents, and to another two, and to another one, to euery man after his owne ability, & straightway went from home.

16 Then he that had receiued the fiue talents, went k occupied with them, and gained other fiue talents.

17 Likewise also, he that receiued two, he also gained other two.

18 But he that receiued that one, went and digged it in the earth, and hid his masters money.

19 But after a long season, the master of those seruants came, and reckoned with them.

20 Then came he that had receiued fiue talents, and brought other fiue talents, saying, Master, thou deliueredst vnto me fiue talents: behold, I haue gained with them other fiue talents.

21 His master said vnto him, Well done, thou good and faithfull seruant, thou hast been faithfull in a litle, I will make thee ruler ouer many things: enter in into the ioy of thy master.

22 Also he that had receiued two talents, came and said, Master, thou deliueredst vnto me two talents: behold, I haue gained two other talents with them.

23 His master said vnto him, Well done, good seruant, and faithfull, thou hast been faithfull in a litle, I will make thee ruler ouer many: enter in into the ioy of thy master.

24 Then he which had receiued the one talent, came and said, Master, I knew that thou wast an hard man, which reapest where thou sowedst not, & gatherest where thou strawedst not:

25 I was therefore afraid, and went and hid thy talent in the earth: behold, thou hast thine owne.

26 And his master answered, and said vnto him, Thou euil seruant and l slothfull, thou knewest that I reape, where I sowed not, and gather where I strawed not.

27 Thou oughtest therefore to haue put my money to the exchangers, and then at my comming should I haue receiued mine owne with vantage.

28 Take therefore the talent from him, and giue it vnto him which hath ten talents.

29 For vnto euery man that hath, it shall be giuen, and he shall haue abundance, and from him that hath not, euen that he hath, shall be taken away.

30 Cast therefore that vnprofitable seruant into vtter m darknesse: there shalbe weeping and gnashing of teeth.

31 ¶ And when the Sonne of man commeth in his glory, and all the holy Angels with him, then shall he sit vpon the throne of his glory.

32 And before him shall be gathered all nations, and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd separateth the sheepe from the goates.

33 And he shall set the sheepe on his right hand, and the goates on the left.

34 Then shall the King say to them on his right hand, Come ye n blessed of my Father: inherite ye the kingdome prepared for you from the o foundations of the world.

35 For p I was an hungred, & yee gaue me meate: I thirsted, and ye gaue me drinke: I was a stranger, and ye lodged me:

36 I was naked, and ye clothed me: I was sicke, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came vnto me.

37 Then shall the righteous answere him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, and fed thee? or athirst, and gaue thee drinke?

38 And when saw we thee a stranger, and lodged thee? or naked, and clothed thee?

39 Or when saw we thee sicke, or in prison, and came vnto thee?

40 And the King shall answere and say vnto them, Verily I say vnto you, In as much as ye haue done it vnto one of the least of these my brethren, ye haue done it to me.

41 Then shall he say vnto them on the left hand, q Depart from me ye cursed, into euerlasting fire, which is prepared for the deuil and his angels.

42 For I was an hungred, and yee gaue me no meate: I thirsted, and ye gaue me no drinke:

43 I was a stranger, and ye lodged me not: I was naked, and yee clothed me not: sicke, and in prison, and ye visited me not.

44 Then shall they also answere him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungred, or athirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sicke, or in prison, and did not minister vnto thee?

8 And when his disciples saw it, they had * indignation, saying, * To what ende this waste?

7 And they tooke counsell, and bought with them a potters field, for the buriall of e strangers.

8 Wherefore that field is called, * The field of blood vntill this day.

9 (Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by Jeremias the Prophet, saying, * And they tooke thirty siluer pieces, the price of him that was valued, whom they of the children of Israel valued.

10 And they gaue them for the potters field, as the Lord appointed me.)

11 ¶ * And Iesus stood before the gouernour, and the gouernour asked him, saying, Art thou the king of the Iewes? Iesus said vnto him, Thou sayest it.

12 And when he was accused of the chiefe Priests and Elders, he answered nothing.

13 Then sayd Pilate vnto him, Hearest thou not how many things they lay against thee?

14 But he answered him not to one word, insomuch that the gouernour marueled greatly.

15 Now at the feast the gouernour was wont to ‖ deliuer vnto the people a prisoner, whom they would.

16 And they had then a notable prisoner called Barabbas.

17 When they were then gathered together, Pilate sayd vnto them, Whether will yee that I let loose vnto you Barabbas, or Iesus which is called Christ?

18 (For he knew well, that for enuie they had deliuered him.

19 Also when he was set downe vpon the iudgement seat, his wife sent to him, saying, h Haue thou nothing to doe with that iust man: for I haue suffered many things this day in a dreame by reason of him.)

20 * But the chiefe Priests and the Elders had perswaded the people that they should aske Barabbas, and should destroy Iesus.

21 Then the gouernour answered, & said vnto them, Whether of the twaine will yee that I let loose vnto you? And they sayde, Barabbas.

22 Pilate sayd vnto them, What shall I doe then with Iesus which is called Christ? They all sayd to him, Let him be crucified.

23 Then sayd the gouernour, But what euil hath he done? Then they cried the more, saying, Let him be crucified.

24 When Pilate saw that he auailed nothing, but that more tumult was made, he tooke water & washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this k iust man: looke you to it.

25 Then answered all the people, & sayd, His l blood be on vs, and on our children.

26 Thus let her Barabbas loose vnto them, and scourged Iesus, and deliuered him to be crucified.

27 ¶ * Then the souldiers of the gouernour tooke Iesus into the common hall, and gathered about him the whole band.

28 And they stripped him, and put vpon him a m scarlet robe, 29 And platted a crowne of thornes, and put it vpon his head, and a reed in his right hand, and bowed their knees before him, and mocked him, saying, God saue thee, King of the Iewes.

30 And spitted vpon him, & tooke a reed, and smote him on the head.

31 Thus when they had mocked him, they tooke the robe from him, and put his owne rayment on him, and led him away to crucifie him.

32 * And as they came out, they found a man of Cyrene, named Simon: him they compelled to beare his Crosse.

35 ¶ And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, and did cast lots, that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken by the Prophet, * They diuided my garments among them, and vpon my vesture did cast lots.

36 And they sate, and watched him there.

37 ¶ They set vp also ouer his head his cause written, * THIS IS IESVS THE KING OF THE IEWES.

38 ¶ And there were two theeues crucified with him, one on the right hand, and another on the left.

39 And they that passed by, reuiled him, wagging their heads, 40 And saying, * Thou that destroyest the Temple, and buildest it in three dayes, saue thy selfe: if thou be the Sonne of God, come downe from the Crosse.

44 That same also the q theeues which were crucified with him, cast in his teeth.

45 Now from the r first houre was there darkenesse ouer all the s land, vnto the ninth houre.

46 And about the ninth houre Iesus cried with a loud voyce, saying, * Eli, Eli, lamma sabachthani? that is, * My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

12 * And immediatly the Spirit driueth him into the wildernesse.

13 And hee was there in the wildernesse fourty dayes, and was h tempted of Satan: hee was also with the wilde beastes, and the Angels ministred vnto him.

14 ¶ * Nowe after that Iohn was committed to prison, Iesus came into Galile, preaching * the Gospel of the kingdome of God, 15 And saying, The time is fulfilled, and the kingdome of God is at hande: repent and beleeue the Gospel.

16 ¶ * And as he walked by the ‖ Sea of Galile, hee sawe Simon, and Andrewe his brother, casting a net into the sea, (for they were fishers.)

17 Then Iesus said vnto them, Followe me, & I will make you to be * fishers of men.

18 And straightway they forsooke their nets, and followed him.

19 And when he had gone a little further thence, he sawe Iames the sonne of Zebedeus, and Iohn his brother, as they were in the ship, mending their nets.

20 And anon hee called them: and they left their father Zebedeus in the ship with his hired seruants, and went their way after him.

21 ¶ So * they entred into Capernaum, and straightway on the Sabbath day he entred into the Synagogue, and taught.

22 And they were astonied at his doctrine: * for hee taught them as one that had authoritie, and i not as the Scribes.

23 ¶ And there was in their Synagogue a man which had an vncleane spirit, and hee cryed, 24 Saying, Ah, what haue wee to doe with thee, O Iesus of Nazaret? Art thou come to destroy vs? I know thee what thou art, euen that holy One of God.

25 And Iesus rebuked him, saying, * Holde thy peace, and come out of him.

26 And the vncleane spirit tare him, and cried with a loud voice, and came out of him.

27 And they were all amazed, so that they demaunded one of another, saying, What thing is this? what * new doctrine is this? for he commaundeth the foule spirits with authoritie, and they obey him.

28 And immediatly his fame spread abroad throughout all the region bordering on Galile.

29 ¶ * And assoone as they were come out of the Synagogue, they entred into the house of Simon and Andrewe, with Iames and Iohn.

30 And Simons wiues mother lay sicke of a feuer, and anon they told him of her.

31 And hee came & tooke her by the hand, and lift her vp, and the feuer forsooke her by and by, and she ministred vnto them.

32 And when euen was come, and the Sunne was downe, they brought to him all that were diseased, and them that were possessed with deuils.

33 And the whole citie was gathered together at the doore.

34 And hee healed many that were sicke of diuers diseases: and he cast out many deuils, and * suffered not the deuils to say that they knew him.

35 And in the morning very earely, ‖ before day, Iesus arose and went out into a solitarie place, and there prayed.

36 And Simon and they that were with him, followed after him.

39 And hee preached in their Synagogues, throughout all Galile, and cast the deuils out.
40 ¶ * And there came a leper to him, beseeching him, and kneeled downe vnto

CHAP. II.

3 He healeth the man of the palsey. 5 He forgiueth sinnes. 14 He calleth Leui the customer. 16 He eateth with sinners. 18 He excuseth his disciples, as touching fasting, and keeping the Sabbath day.

AFter a few dayes, he entered into Capernaum againe, and it was noysed that he was in the * house.
2 And anon many gathered together, in so much that the places about the doore could not receiue any more: and he preached the word vnto them.
3 And there came vnto him, that brought one sicke of the palsie, borne of foure men.
4 And because they could not come neere vnto him for the multitude, they vncouered the roofe of the house where he was: and when they had broken it open, they let downe the bed, wherein the sicke of the palsie lay.
5 Now when Iesus saw their faith, hee sayd to the sicke of the palsie, Sonne, thy b sinnes are forgiuen thee.
6 And there were certain of the Scribes sitting there, and reasoning in their hearts, 7 Why doeth this man speake such blasphemies? who can forgiue sinnes, but God onely?
8 And immediately when Iesus perceiued in his spirit, that thus they thought with themselues, he sayd vnto them, Why reason ye these things in your hearts?
9 Whether is it easier to say to the sicke of the palsie, Thy sinnes are forgiuen thee:
or to say, Arise, and take vp thy bed, and walke?
10 And that yee may know, that the Sonne of man hath authoritie in earth to forgiue sinnes, (he said vnto the sicke of the palsie,) 11 I say vnto thee, Arise and take vp thy bed, & get thee hence into thine owne house.
12 And by and by he arose, and tooke vp his bed, and went forth before them all, insomuch that they were all amazed and glorified God, saying, We neuer saw such a thing.
13 ¶ Then he went againe toward the sea, and all the people resorted vnto him, and he taught them.
14 * And as Iesus passed by, he saw Leui the sonne of Alpheus sit at the receit of custome, and said vnto him, Follow me. And he rose and followed him.
15 ¶ And it came to passe, as Iesus sate at table in his house, many Publicanes and sinners sate at table also with Iesus, and his disciples: for there were many that followed him.
16 And when the Scribes and Pharises saw him eate with the Publicanes and sinners, they said vnto his disciples, How is it, that hee eateth and drinketh with Publicanes and sinners?
17 Now when Iesus heard it, he saide vnto them, The whole haue no neede of the Physician, but the sicke. * I came not to call the * righteous, but c sinners to repentance.
18 * And the disciples of Iohn and the Pharises did fast, & came & saide vnto him,
Why doe the disciples of Iohn and of the Pharises fast, and thy disciples fast not?
19 And Iesus said vnto them, Can the f children of the marriage chamber fast, while the bridegroome is with them? as long as they haue the bridegroome with them, they cannot fast.
20 But the dayes will come, when the bridegroome shall be taken from them, and then shall they fast in those dayes.
21 Also no man soweth a piece of newe cloth in an olde garment: for els the new piece taketh away the filling vp from the old, and the breach is worse.
22 Likewise, no man putteth new wine into olde vessels: for els the new wine breaketh the vessels, and the wine runneth out, and the vessels are lost: but new wine must be put into new vessels.
23 ¶ * And it came to passe as he went thorow the corne on the Sabbath day, that his disciples, as they went on their way, began to plucke the eares of corne.
24 And the Pharises said vnto him, Behold, why doe they on the Sabbath day that which is not lawfull?
25 And he said to them, Haue yee neuer read what * Dauid did when he had neede, and was an hungred, both he, and they that were with him?
26 How he went into the house of God, in the dayes of * Abiathar the hie Priest, and did eat the shewbread, which were not lawfull to eat, but for the * Priests, and gaue also to them that were with him?
27 And he said to them, The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath.
28 Therefore the sonne of man is Lord
euen of the Sabbath.

1 He healeth the man with the dried hand. 14 He ordeineth his apostles. 21 Christ is thought of the worldlings to be beside himself. 22 He casteth out the vncleane spirit, which the Pharises ascribe vnto the deuil. 29 Blasphemy against the holy Ghost. 35 The brother, sister, and mother of Christ.

AND* he entred againe into the Synagogue, and there was a man which had a withered hand.

2 And they watched him whether hee would heale him on the Sabbath day, that they might accuse him.

3 Then he sayd vnto the man which had the withered hand, Arise: stand foorth in the midst.

4 And he sayd to them, Is it lawfull to doe a good deede on the Sabbath day, or to doe euill? to saue the life, or to kill? But they a held their peace.

5 Then he looked round about on them b angerly, mourning also for the hardnesse of their hearts, and sayd to the man, Stretch foorth thine hand: And he stretched it out: and his hand was restored as whole as the other.

6 ¶ And the Pharises departed, and straightway gathered a Councill with the c Herodians against him, that they might destroy him.

7 But Iesus auoyded with his disciples to the sea: and a great multitude followed him from Galile, and from Iudea,

8 And from Ierusalem, and from Idumea, and beyond Iordan, & they that dwelled about Tyrus and Sidon, when they had heard what great things he did, came vnto him in great number.

9 And he commanded his disciples, that a shippe should waite for him, because of the multitude, lest they should throng him.

10 For hee had healed many, insomuch that they preased vpon him, to touch him, as many as had ‖ plagues.

11 And when the vncleane spirits sawe him, they fell downe before him, and cryed, saying, Thou art the sonne of God.

12 And he sharpely rebuked them, to the end they should not vtter him.

13 ¶ *Then he went vp into a mountain, and called vnto him whome hee would, and they came vnto him.

14 And hee appointed twelue that they should be with him, and that hee might send them to preach,

15 And that they might haue power to heale sicknesses, and to cast out deuils.

16 And the first was Simon, and he named Simon, Peter.

17 Then Iames the sonne of Zebedeus, and Iohn, Iames brother, (and named them Boanerges, which is, the sonnes of thunder)

18 And Andrew, and Philip, and Bartlemew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and Iames the sonne of Alpheus, and ‖ Thaddeus, and Simon the ‖ Cananite, 19 And Iudas Iscariot who also betrayed him, and they came d home.

20 And the multitude assembled againe, so that they could not so much as eate bread.

21 And when ‖ his kinsfolke heard of it, they went out to lay hold on him: for they thought he had bene beside himselfe.

22 ¶ And the Scribes which came from Hierusalem, sayd, Hee hath Beelzebub, and through the prince of deuils he casteth out deuils.

23 But he called them vnto him, and said vnto them in parables, How can Satan driue out Satan?

24 For if a kingdome be diuided against it selfe, that kingdome cannot stand.

25 Or if a house be diuided against it self, that house cannot continue.

26 So if Satan make insurrection against himselfe, and be diuided, he cannot endure, but is at an end.

27 No man can enter into a strong mans house, and take away his goods, except he first binde that strong man, and then spoile his house.

28 ¶ * Verily I say vnto you, all sinnes shalbe forgiuen vnto the children of men, and blasphemies, wherewith they blaspheme:

29 But he that blasphemeth against the holy Ghost shall neuer haue forgiuenesse, but is culpable of eternall damnation.

30 Because they said, He had an vncleane spirit.

31 ¶ * Then came his brethren and mother, and stood without, and sent vnto him, and called him.

32 And the people sate about him, & they said vnto him, Behold, thy mother and thy brethren seeke for thee without.

33 But he answered them, saying, Who is my mother and my brethren?

34 And he looked round about on them, which sate in compasse about him, and sayd, Behold my mother and my brethren.

35 For whosoeuer doeth the will of God, he is my brother, and my sister, and mother.

CHAP. IIII.

AND* he beganne againe to teach by the sea side, and there gathered vnto him a great multitude, so that he entred into a ship, and sate in the sea, and all the people was by the sea side on the land.

13 Againe he said vnto them, Perceiue ye not this parable? how then should ye vnderstand all other parables?

14 The sower soweth the word.

15 And these are they that receiue the seed by the wayes side, in whome the word is sowen: but when they haue heard it, Satan commeth immediatly, and taketh away the worde that was sowen in their hearts.

16 And likewise they that receiue the seed in stony ground, are they, which when they haue heard the word, straight waies receiue it with gladnesse.

17 Yet haue they no roote in themselues and endure but a time: for when trouble and persecution ariseth for the word, immediatly they be offended.

18 Also they that receiue the seede among the thornes, are such as heare the word:

19 But the cares of this world, and the * deceitfulnesse of riches, and the lustes of other things enter in, and choke the worde, and it is vnfruitfull.

20 But they that haue receiued seede in good ground, are they that heare the word, and receiue it, and bring foorth fruite, one some thirtie, another sixtie, & some an hundreth.

21 ¶ Also he sayd vnto them, * Is the candle ‖ lighted to be put vnder a bushell, or vnder the table, and not to be put on a candlestick?

25 * For vnto him that hath shall it bee giuen, and from him that hath not, shall bee taken away, *euen that he hath.

26 ¶ Also he sayd, So is the *kingdome of God, as if a man should cast *seede in the ground, 27 And should sleepe, and rise vp night and day, and the seede should spring and grow vp, he not knowing how.

28 For the earth bringeth foorth fruit of her selfe, first the blade, then the eare, after that full corne in the eare.

29 And assoone as the fruite bringeth it selfe, anon hee putteth in the sickle, *because the haruest is come.

30 ¶ And he said moreouer, Whereunto shall wee liken the kingdome of God? or with what comparison shall we compare it?

31 It is like a graine of mustard seede, which when it is sowen in the earth, is the least of all seedes that be in the earth:

32 But after that it is sowen, it groweth vp, & is greatest of all herbes, and beareth great branches, in so that the fowles of heauen may build vnder the shadow of it.

33 And with many such parables hee preached the worde vnto them, as they were able to heare it.

34 And without parables spake he nothing vnto them, but hee expounded all things to his disciples apart.

35 ¶ * And the same day when euen was come, he sayd vnto them, Let vs passe ouer vnto the other side.

36 And they left the multitude, and tooke him as he was in the ship: and there were also with him other ships.

37 And there arose a great storme of winde, and the wawes dashed into the ship, so that it was now full.

38 And he was in the sterne * asleepe on a pillow: and they awoke him, and sayd to him, Master, careth thou not that wee perish?

39 And hee arose vp, and rebuked the winde, and sayd vnto the sea, Peace, and be still. So the wind ceased, and it was a great calme.

14 And they that fed them, fledde, and tolde it in the citie, and in the country, and they came out to see what it was that was done.

15 And they came to Iesus, and saw him that had bene possessed with the deuill, and had the legion, sit both clothed, and in his right minde: and they were afraid.

16 And they that saw it, tolde them what was done to him that was possessed with the deuill, and concerning the swine.

17 Then d they began to pray him, that he would e depart from their coasts.

19 Howbeit Iesus would not suffer him, but sayd vnto him, Go thy way home to thy friends, and shew them what great things the Lord hath done vnto thee, and how hee hath had compassion on thee.

f We must declare vnto others the benefites which God sheweth toward vs, that thereby they may giue him prayse and glorie.

32 And he looked round about, to see her that had done that.

33 And the woman feared and trembled: for she knew what was done in her, and shee came and fell downe before him, and tolde him the whole truth.

6 Then he commanded the multitude to sit downe on the ground: and he tooke the seuen loaues, and gaue thanks, brake them, and gaue to his disciples to set before them, and they did set them before the people.

7 They had also a few small fishes: and when he had giuen thanks, hee commanded them also to be set before them.

CHAP. IX.

2 The transfiguration. 7 Christ is to be heard. 26 The dumbe spirit is cast out. 29 The force of prayer and fasting. 31 Of the death & resurrection of Christ. 33 The disputation who should be the greatest. 38 Not to hinder the course of the Gospel. 42 Offences are forbidden.

AND [a] hee sayd vnto them, Verily I say vnto you, that there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death till they haue seene the [b] kingdome of God come with power.

2 [c] And sixe dayes after, Jesus tooke Peter, and James, and John, and brought them vp into an high mountaine out of the way alone, and he was transfigured before them.

3 And his raiment did [d] shine, and was very white as snow, so white as no fuller can make vpon the earth.

4 And there appeared vnto them Elias with Moses, and they were talking with Jesus.

5 Then Peter answered, and said to Jesus, Master, it is good for vs to be here: let vs make also three Tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias.

6 [e] For he knew not what he sayd: for they were afraid.

7 And there was a cloude that ouershadowed them, and a voice came out of the cloud, saying, [f] This is my beloued Sonne, [g] heare him.

8 And suddenly they looked round about, and sawe no more any man saue Jesus onely with them.

9 [h] And as they came downe from the mountaine, he charged them that they should tell no man what they had seene, saue when the Sonne of man were risen from the dead againe.

10 So they kept that matter to themselues, & demanded one of another, what the rising from the dead againe should meane.

11 Also they asked him, saying, [i] Why say the Scribes, That [k] Elias must first come?

12 And he answered, and said vnto them, Elias verely shall first come, and restore all things: and [l] as it is written of the Sonne of man, he must suffer many things, and be set at nought.

13 But I say vnto you, that [m] Elias is come, (and they haue done vnto him whatsoeuer they would) as it is written of him.

14 ¶ [n] And when hee came to his disciples, he saw a great multitude about them, and the Scribes disputing with them.

15 And straightway all the people, when they beheld him, were amazed, and ranne to him, and saluted him.

16 Then hee asked the Scribes, What dispute you [o] among your selues?

17 And one of the companie answered, and said, Master, I haue brought my sonne vnto thee, which hath a dumbe spirit:

18 And whersoeuer hee taketh him, hee [p] teareth him, and hee foameth, and gnasheth his teeth, and pineth away: and I spake to thy disciples that they should cast him out, and they could not.

19 Then he answered him, and said, [q] O faithlesse generation, how long now shall I be with you? How long nowe shall I suffer you? Bring him vnto me.

20 So they brought him vnto him: and assoone as the spirit saw him, hee tare him, and he fel downe on the ground, wallowing and foming.

21 Then he asked his father, How long time is it since he hath bin thus? And he said, Of a childe.

22 And oft times he casteth him into the fire, and into the water, to destroy him: but if thou canst do any thing, help vs, and haue compassion vpon vs.

23 And Jesus said vnto him, If [r] thou canst beleeue it, all things are [s] possible to him that beleeueth.

24 And straightway the father of the childe cryed with teares, and said, Lord, I beleeue: helpe my [t] vnbeliefe.

25 ¶ When Jesus saw that the people came running together, hee rebuked the vncleane spirit, saying vnto him, Thou dumbe and deafe spirit, I charge thee, come out of him, and enter no more into him.

26 Then the spirit cryed, & rent him sore, and came out, and a he was as one dead, in so much that many said, he is dead.

27 But Iesus tooke his hande, and lift him vp, and he rose.

28 And when he was come into the house, his disciples asked him secretly, Why could not we cast him out?

29 And he said vnto them, This kinde can by no other meanes come forth, but by o prayer and fasting.

30 ¶ p And they departed thence, and went through Galile, and he would not that any should haue knowen it.

31 For he taught his disciples, and said vnto them, The sonne of man shall be deliuered into the hands of men, and they shall kill him, but after that he is killed, he shall rise againe the third day.

32 But q they vnderstoode not that saying, and were afraid to aske him.

33 r After he came to Capernaum: and when he was in the house, he asked them, What was it that ye disputed among you by the way?

34 And they held their peace: for by the way they reasoned among themselues, who should be the chiefest.

35 And he sate downe, and called the twelue, and said to them, If any man desire to be first, the same shall be last of all, and seruant vnto all.

36 And he tooke a little child, and set him in the middes of them, and tooke him in his armes, and said vnto them, 37 Whosoeuer shall receiue one of such little children in my Name, receiueth me: and whosoeuer receiueth me, receiueth not s me, but him that sent me.

38 ¶ t Then Iohn answered him, saying, Master, wee saw one casting out deuils by thy Name, which followed not vs, and wee forbade him, because he followeth vs not.

39 u But Iesus sayde, Forbid him not: for there is no man that can doe a miracle by my Name, that can lightly speake euill of me.

AND a he arose from thence, and went into the coastes of Iudea by the farre side of Iordan, and the people resorted vnto him againe, and as he was wont, he taught them againe.

2 Then the Pharises came and asked him, if it were lawful for a man to put away his wife, and tempted him.

3 And he answered, and said vnto them, What did b Moses command you?

4 And they said, Moses suffered to write a bill of diuorcement, and to put her away.

5 Then Iesus answered, and said vnto them, For the hardenesse of your heart he wrote this precept vnto you.

6 But at the c beginning of the creation, d God made them male and female.

7 e For this cause shall man leaue his father and mother, and cleaue vnto his wife.

8 And they twaine shall be one f flesh: so that they are no more twaine, but one flesh.

9 g Therefore, what God hath coupled together, let no man separate.

10 And in the house his disciples asked him againe of that matter.

11 And he said vnto them, h whosoeuer shall put away his wife and marrie another, i committeth adultery against her.

12 And if a woman put away her husband, and be married to another, she committeth adultery.

13 ¶ k Then they brought little children to him, that he should touch them: and his disciples rebuked those that brought them.

14 But when Iesus sawe it, he was displeased, and sayde to them, Suffer the little children to come vnto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdome of God.

15 Verely I say vnto you, Whosoeuer shall not receiue the kingdome of God as l a little child, he shall not enter therein.

way, there came one running, and kneeling to him, and asked him, Good Master, what shall I doe, that I may possesse eternall life?

18 Iesus sayde to him, Why callest thou me good? there is none c good but one, euen God.

19 Thou knowest the commandements, d Thou shalt not commit aduultery. Thou shalt not kill. Thou shalt not steale. Thou shalt not beare false witnesse. Thou shalt hurt no man. Honour thy father and mother.

20 Then he answered, and sayd to him, Master, all these things I haue obserued from my youth.

21 And Iesus beholde him, and loued him, and said vnto him, One thing is lacking vnto thee, Goe and e sell all that thou hast, and giue to the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come, followe me, and take vp the crosse.

22 But he was sad at that saying, and went away sorowfull: for he had great possessions.

23 And Iesus looked round about, and said vnto his disciples, How hardly doe they that haue riches, enter into the kingdome of God!

24 And his disciples were astonied at his wordes. But Iesus answered againe, and said vnto them, f Children, how hard is it for them that trust in riches, to enter into the kingdome of God!

25 It is easier for a g camel to go through the eye of a needle, then for a h rich man to enter into the kingdome of God.

26 And they were much more astonied, saying within themselues, Who then can be saued?

27 But Iesus looked vpon them, and said, With men it is impossible, but not with God: for with God all things are possible.

28 ¶ i Then Peter beganne to say vnto him, Lo, we haue forsaken all, and haue followed thee.

29 Iesus answered, and sayde, Verily I say vnto you, there is no man that hath forsaken house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands for my sake and the Gospels, 30 But he shall receiue an hundreth folde now at this present: houses, and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and children, and lands with k persecutions, and in the world to come eternall life.

31 l But many that are first, shall be last, and the last, first.

32 ¶ m And they were in the way going vp to Ierusalem, and Iesus went before them, and they were amazed, and as they followed, they were afraide, and Iesus tooke the twelue againe, and beganne to tell them what things shoulde come vnto him, 33 Saying, Behold, we go vp to Ierusalem, and the Sonne of man shall be deliuered vnto the hie Priests, and to the Scribes, and they shall condemne him to death, and shall deliuer him to the Gentiles.

34 And they shall mocke him, and scourge him, and spit vpon him, and kill him, but the third day he shall rise againe.

35 ¶ n Then Iames and Iohn the sonnes of Zebedeus came vnto him, saying, o Master, we would that thou shouldest do for vs that that we desire.

36 And he said vnto them, What would ye I should doe for you?

37 And they saye to him, Graunt vnto vs, that we may sit one at thy right hand, and the other at thy left hand in thy glory.

38 But Iesus said vnto them, Yee know not what yee aske. Can yee p drinke of the cup that I shall drinke of, and bee baptized with the baptisme that I shall bee baptized with?

39 And they said vnto him, We can. But Iesus said vnto them, Yee shall drinke indeede of the cup that I shall drinke of, and be baptized with the baptisme wherewith I shalbe baptized.

40 But to sit at my right hand, and at my left, is not mine to giue, but it shalbe giuen to them for whom it is prepared.

41 And when the ten heard that, they began to disdaine at Iames and Iohn.

42 But Iesus called them vnto him, and sayde to them, q Yee know that they which delight to beare rule among the Gentiles, haue domination ouer them, and they that bee great among them, exercise authority ouer them.

43 But it shall r not bee so among you: but whosoeuer will be great among you, shall be your seruant.

44 And whosoeuer will be chiefe of you, shalbe the seruant of all.

45 For euen the Sonne of man came not to be serued, but to serue, and to giue his life for the ransome of many.

46 ¶ s Then they came to Iericho: and as hee went out of Iericho with his disciples, and a great multitude, t Bartimeus the sonne of Timeus, a blinde man, sate by the way side begging.

47 And when hee heard that it was Iesus of Nazaret, he began to cry and to say, Iesus the Sonne of Dauid, haue mercie on me.

48 And many rebuked him, because hee should hold his peace: but hee u cryed much more, O Sonne of Dauid haue mercie on me.

49 Then Iesus stood still, and commanded him to bee called: and they called the blinde, saying vnto him, Bee of good comfort: arise, he calleth thee.

50 So he threw away his clothe, and rose, and came to Iesus.

51 And Iesus answered, and sayd vnto him, What wilt thou that I doe vnto thee? And the blinde said vnto him, Lord, that I may receiue sight.

52 Then Iesus sayde vnto him, Goe thy way: thy faith hath saued thee. And by and by hee receiued his sight, and followed Iesus in the way.

14 And when they came, they sayd vnto him, Master, wee know that thou art true, and carest for no man: for thou considerest not the d person of men, but teachest the e way of God truely. Is it lawfull to giue tribute to Cesar, or not?

15 Should wee giue it, or should wee not giue it? But he knew their hypocrisie, and sayd vnto them, f Why tempt ye me? Bring me a penie, that I may see it.

16 So they brought it, and he sayd vnto them, Whose is this image and superscription? and they sayd vnto him, Cesars.

17 Then Iesus answered, and sayd vnto them, * Giue to Cesar the things that are Cesars, and to God, those that are Gods: and they marueiled at him.

18 ¶ * Then came the Sadducees vnto him, (which say there is no resurrection) and they asked him, saying, 19 Master, * Moses wrote vnto vs, If any mans brother die, and leaue his wife, and leaue no children, that g his brother should take his wife, and raise vp seede vnto his brother.

20 There were seuen brethren, & the first tooke a wife, and when he died, left no issue.

21 Then the second tooke her, and he died, neyther did hee yet leaue issue, & the third likewise.

22 So seuen had her, and left no issue: last of all the wife died also.

23 In the resurrection then, when they shall rise againe, whose wife shall he be of them? for seuen had her to wife.

24 Then Iesus answered, and sayd vnto them, Are ye not therefore deceiued, because yee know not the Scriptures, neither the power of God?

25 For when they shall rise againe from the dead, neither men marry, nor wiues are married, but are h as the Angels which are in heauen.

26 And as touching the dead, that they shall rise againe, haue yee not read in the booke of Moses, how in the bush God spake vnto him, saying, I * am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Iacob?

27 He is not the God of the dead, but the God of the i liuing. Ye are therefore greatly deceiued.

28 ¶ * Then came one of the Scribes, that had heard them disputing together, and perceiuing that he had answered them well, he asked him, Which is the first commandement of all?

29 Iesus answered him, The first of all the commandements is, * Heare, Israel, the Lord our God is the onely Lord.

30 Thou shalt therfore loue the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soule, & with all thy minde, and with all thy strength: this is the first commandement.

31 And the second is k like, that is, * Thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy selfe. There is none other commandement greater then these.

32 Then the Scribe said vnto him, Well Master, thou hast sayd the truth, that there is one God, and that there is none but he.

33 And to loue him with all the heart, and with all the vnderstanding, and with all the soule, and with all the strength, and to loue his neighbour as himselfe, is more then all burnt offerings and sacrifices.

34 Then, when Iesus saw that hee answered discreetely, he sayd vnto him, Thou l art not farre from the kingdome of God. And no man after that durst aske him any question.

35 ¶ * And Iesus answered and sayd teaching in the Temple, How say the Scribes that Christ is the sonne of Dauid?

36 For Dauid himselfe sayd by the m holy Ghost, * The Lord sayd to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, till I make thine enemies thy footestoole.

37 Then Dauid himselfe calleth him Lord: by what meanes is he then his sonne? and much people heard him gladly.

38 * Moreouer he sayd vnto them in n his doctrine, Beware of the Scribes, which loue to goe in long o robes, and lone salutations in the markets,

39 And the chiefe seates in the Synagogues, and the first roomes at feasts, 40 Which * deuoure widowes houses, & euen vnder a colour of long prayers. These shall receiue the greater damnation.

42 And there came a certaine poore widow, and shee threw in two mites, which make a p quadrin.

2 The destruction of Ierusalem. 10 The Gospel shalbe preached to all. 9. 22 The perfecutions and false prophets which shall bee before the comming of Christ, whose houre is vncertaine. 33 He exhorteth euery one to watch.

AND * as he went out of the Temple, one of his disciples said vnto him, Master, see what stones, & what buildings are here.

2 * Then Iesus answered and said vnto him, Seest thou these great buildings? there shall not bee left one stone vpon a stone, that shall not be throwen downe.

3 And as he sate on the mount of olives, ouer against the Temple, Peter, & Iames, and Iohn, and Andrew asked him secretly, 4 Tell vs, when shall these things be, and what shall be the signe when all these things shall be fulfilled?

5 And Iesus answered them, & began to say, * Take heed lest any man deceiue you.

6 For many shal come in my name, saying, I *am Christ, and shall deceiue many.

7 Furthermore, when ye shall heare of wars, and rumours of wars, be ye not troubled: for such things must needs be: but the end shall not be yet.

8 For nation shal rise against nation, and kingdome against kingdome, and there shal be earthquakes in diuers quarters: & there shalbe famine and troubles: these are the beginnings of sorrowes.

9 But take yee heede to your selues: for they shal deliuer you vp to the Councils, and to the Synagogues ye shall be beaten, and brought before rulers and kings for my sake, for a * testimonie vnto them.

10 And the Gospel must first be published among all nations.

11 * But when they leade you, and deliuer you vp, take yee * no thought afore, neither premeditate * what ye shall say: but whatsoeuer is giuen you at the same time, that speake: for it is not ye that speake, but the holy Ghost.

12 Yea, and the brother shall deliuer the brother to death, and the father the sonne, and the children shall rise against their parents, and shall cause them to die.

13 And ye shall be hated of all men for my Names sake: but whosoeuer shall endure vnto the end, he shall be saued.

14 * Moreouer, when ye shall see the abomination of desolation (spoken of by * Daniel the Prophet) * standing where it ought not, (let him that readeth, consider it) * then let them that be in Iudea, flee into the mountaines.

15 And let him that is vpon the house, not come downe into the house, neither enter therein, to fetch any thing out of his house.

16 And let him that is in the fielde, not turne backe againe vnto the things which he left behinde him, to take his clothes.

17 Then woe shalbe to them that are with child, and to them that giue sucke in those dayes.

18 i Pray therefore that your flight bee not in the winter.

19 For there shall be in those dayes such tribulation, as was not from the beginning of the creation which God created vnto this time, neither shall be.

20 And except that the Lord had shortened those dayes, no * flesh should be saued: but for the elects sake, whom he hath chosen, he hath shortened those dayes.

21 Then * if any man say to you, Lo, here is Christ, or, Lo, he is there, beleeue it not.

22 For false Christs shall arise, and false prophets, and shal shew signes and wonders to deceiue, if it were * possible, the very elect.

23 But take ye heed: behold, I haue shewed you all things * before.

24 ¶ Moreouer in those dayes, after that tribulation, the Sunne shal waxe darke, and the Moone shall not giue her light, 25 And the * starres of heauen shal fall: & the powers which are in heauen, shall shake.

26 And then shall they see the Sonne of man comming in the cloudes, with great power and glory.

27 * And he shall then send his Angels, and shall gather together his elect from the foure windes, and from the vtmost part of the earth to the vtmost part of heauen.

28 Now learne a parable of the fig tree. When her bough is yet tender, and it bringeth forth leaues, ye know that Sommer is neere.

29 So in like maner, when ye see these things come to passe, know that the kingdom of God is neere, euen at the doores.

30 Verily I say vnto you, that this * generation shall not passe, till all these things be done.

31 Heauen and earth shall passe away, but my words shall not passe away.

32 But of that * day & houre knoweth no man, no, not the Angels which are in heauen, neither the * Sonne himselfe, saue * the Father.

33 * Take heede: watch, and pray: for ye know not when the time is.

34 For the Sonne of man is as a man going into a strange country, & leaueth his house, and giueth authoritie to his seruants, and to euery man his worke, and commandeth the porter to watch.

35 ¶ Watch therefore, (for ye know not when the master of the house will come, at euen, or at midnight, at the cocke crowing, or in the dawning)

36 Lest if hee come suddenly, hee should finde you sleeping.

37 And those things that I say vnto you, I say vnto all men, Watch.

3 *And when he was in Bethania in the house of Simon the leper, as he sate at table, there came a woman having a box of ointment of [1]spikenard very costly, and she brake the box, and powred it on his head.

4 Therefore a some disdained among themselues, and said, To what ende is this waste of ointment?

5 For it might haue bene solde for more then b three hundreth pence, & bene giuen vnto the poore, and they grudged against her.

6 But Iesus said, Let her alone: why trouble yee her? shee hath wrought a good worke on me.

7 For ye haue the poore with you alwaies, and when ye will ye may do them good, but me ye shall not haue alwayes.

8 She hath done that she could: she came afore hand to annoint my body to the burying.

9 Verely I say vnto you, Wheresoeuer this Gospel shall be preached throughout the whole world, this also that she hath done, shal be spoken of in remembrance of her.

10 ¶ *Then Judas Iscariot one of the twelue, c went away vnto the hie Priests to betray him vnto them.

11 And when they heard it, they were glad, and promised that they would giue him money: therefore he sought how he might conueniently betray him.

12 ¶ *Now the first day of vnleauened bread, when they sacrificed the Passeouer, his disciples said vnto him, Where wilt thou that we go and prepare, that thou maiest eat the Passeouer?

13 Then he sent forth two of his disciples, and said vnto them, Goe ye into the city, and there shall a man meet you, bearing a pitcher of water: follow him.

14 And whithersoeuer he goeth in, say ye to the goodman of the houle, The Master saith, Where is the lodging where I shall eat the Passeouer with my disciples?

15 And he will shew you an vpper chamber which is large, trimmed and prepared: there make it ready for vs.

16 So his disciples went forth, and came to the citie, and found as he had said vnto them, and made ready the Passeouer.

17 ¶ And at euen he came with the twelue.

18 *And as they sate at table and did eat, Iesus said, Verely I say vnto you, that one of you shall betray me, which eateth with me.

19 Then they began to be sorowfull, and to say to him one by one, Is it I? and another, Is it I?

20 And he answered and said vnto them, It is one of the twelue that *d dippeth with me in the platter.

21 *Truely the Sonne of man goeth his way, as it is f written of him: but woe be to that man, by whom the Sonne of man is betrayed: it had bene good for that man, if he had neuer bene borne.

22 *And as they did eate, Iesus tooke the bread, and when he had giuen thankes, he brake it and gaue to them, and said, Take, eate, this is my body.

23 And he tooke the cup, and when he had g giuen thanks, gaue it to them: and they all dranke of it.

24 And he said vnto them, This is my blood of the new Testament, which is shed for many.

25 Verely I say vnto you, I will drinke no more of the fruite of the vine, vntill that day that I drinke it new in the kingdome of God.

26 And when they had sung a Psalme, they went out to the mount of Olives.

27 ¶ *Then Iesus said vnto them, All ye shall be offended by me this night: for it is written, *I will smite the shepheard, and the sheepe shall be scattered.

28 But after that I am risen, I will goe into *Galile before you.

29 And Peter said vnto him, Although all men should bee offended, yet would not I.

30 Then Iesus said vnto him, Verely I say vnto thee, this day, euen in this night, before the cocke crow twise, thou shalt deny me thrise.

31 But he spake more earnestly, If I should dye with thee, I will not deny thee: likewise also said they all.

32 ¶ *After, they came into a place named Gethsemane: then he said to his disciples, Sit ye here, till I haue prayed.

33 And he tooke with him Peter, and James, & Iohn, and he began h to be afraid, and in great heauinesse, 34 And said vnto them, My soule is very heauy, euen vnto the death: tary here and watch.

35 So he went forward a little, and fell downe on the ground, and prayed, that if it were possible, that houre might passe from him.

36 And he said, [1]Abba Father, all things are possible vnto thee: take away this cuppe from me: Neuertheless, not that I will, but that thou [m]wilt, be done.

37 Then he came, & found them sleeping, and said to Peter, Simon, sleepest thou? couldest not thou watch one houre?

38 ¶ Watch ye, and pray, that ye enter not into tentation: the spirit in deede is ready, but the flesh is weake.

39 And againe he went away, and prayed, and spake the same words.

40 And he returned, and found them asleepe againe: for their eyes were heauy: neither knew they what they should answere him.

41 And he came the third time, and said vnto them, *Sleepe henceforth, and take your rest: it is enough: the houre is come: behold, the Sonne of man is betrayed into the hands of sinners.

42 Rise vp: let vs goe: loe, he that betrayeth me, is at hand.

28 Then they led Iesus from Caiaphas vnto the hall of iudgement: and it was early, and they themselues went not into the hall of iudgement, lest they should be defiled, but that they might eate the Passeouer.

29 Pilate then went out vnto them, and said, What accusation bring ye against this man?

30 They answered, and said vnto him, If he were not a malefactor, we would not haue deliuered him vnto thee.

31 Then said Pilate vnto them, Take ye him, and iudge him according to your law. The Iewes therefore said vnto him, It is not lawful for vs to put any man to death:

32 That the saying of Iesus might be fulfilled, which he spake, signifying what death he should die.

33 Then Pilate entred into the hall againe, and called Iesus, and said vnto him, Art thou the King of the Iewes?

34 Iesus answered him, Sayest thou this of thy selfe, or did others tell it thee of me?

35 Pilate answered, Am I a Iew? Thine owne nation and the high Priests haue deliuered thee vnto me: what hast thou done?

36 Iesus answered, My kingdome is not of this world: if my kingdome were of this world, then would my seruants fight, that I should not be deliuered to the Iewes: but now is my kingdome not from hence.

37 Pilate therefore said vnto him, Art thou a King then? Iesus answered, Thou sayest that I am a King. To this end was I borne, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should beare witnesse vnto the truth. Euery one that is of the truth, heareth my voice.

38 Pilate said vnto him, What is truth? And when he had said this, he went out againe vnto the Iewes, and said vnto them, I find no fault in him at all.

39 But ye haue a custome, that I should deliuer vnto you one at the Passeouer: will ye then that I deliuer vnto you the King of the Iewes?

40 Then cried they all againe, saying, Not this man, but Barabbas. Now Barabbas was a theefe.

CHAP. XV.

1 Iesus is led to Pilate, 15 He is condemned, reuiled, & put to death, 46 & is buried by Ioseph.

AND anon in the morning, the high Priests held a councell with the Elders, and the Scribes, and the whole counsell, and bound Iesus, and led him away, and deliuered him to Pilate.

2 Then Pilate asked him, Art thou the king of the Iewes? And he answered, and said vnto him, Thou sayest it.

3 And the high Priests accused him of many things.

4 Whereupon Pilate asked him again, saying, Answerest thou nothing? behold how many things they witnesse against thee.

5 But Iesus answered no more at all, so that Pilate marueiled.

6 Now at the feast Pilate did deliuer a prisoner vnto them, whomsoeuer they would desire.

7 Then there was one named Barabbas, which was bound with his fellowes, that had made insurrection, who in the insurrection had committed murder.

8 And the people crying aloud, and began to desire that he would do as he had euer done vnto them.

9 Then Pilate answered them, saying, Will ye that I let loose vnto you the King of the Iewes?

10 For he knew that the high Priests had deliuered him of enuie.

11 But the high Priests had mooued the people to desire that he would rather deliuer Barabbas vnto them.

12 And Pilate answered, and said again vnto them, What will ye then that I doe with him, whom ye call the King of the Iewes?

13 Then cryed they again, Crucifie him.

14 Then Pilate said vnto them, But what euill hath he done? And they cried the more vehemently, Crucifie him.

15 So Pilate willing to content the people,

16 And the souldiers led him away into the hall, called Prætorium, and they called together the whole band.

17 And they clothed him with purple, and platted a crowne of thornes, and put it about his head, 18 And began to salute him, saying, God saue thee, King of the Iewes.

19 And they smote him on the head with a reed, and did spit vpon him, and bowing their knees worshipped him.

20 And when they had mocked him, they tooke off the purple from him, and put his owne clothes on him, and led him out to crucifie him.

21 And they compelled one Simon a Cyrenian, which passed by, comming out of the field, the father of Alexander and Rufus, to beare his crosse.

22 And they brought him vnto the place Golgotha, which is by interpretation, The place of dead mens skulles.

23 And they gaue him to drinke wine mingled with myrrhe: but he tooke it not.

24 And when they had crucified him, they parted his garments, casting lots vpon them, what euery man should take.

25 And it was the third houre, when they crucified him.

26 And the superscription of his accusation was written ouer, THE KING OF THE IEWES.

27 And with him they crucified two theeues, the one on his right hand, and the other on his left.

28 And the Scripture was fulfilled, which saith, He was counted among the transgressors.

29 And they that passed by, railed on him, wagging their heads, and saying, Vah, thou that destroyest the Temple, and buildest it in three dayes, 30 Saue thy selfe, and come downe from the crosse.

31 Likewise also the high Priests mocked him among themselues with the Scribes, and said, He saued others, himselfe he cannot saue.

32 Let Christ the King of Israel descend now from the crosse, that we may see and beleeue. And they that were crucified with him, reuiled him.

33 And when the sixt houre was come, there was darkenesse ouer all the land vntil the ninth houre.

34 And at the ninth houre Iesus cried with a loude voice, saying, Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani? which is, being interpreted, My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?

35 And some of them that stood by, when they heard it, said, Behold, he calleth Elias.

36 Then one ran and filled a spunge full of vineger, and put it on a reed, and gaue him to drinke, saying, Let alone, let vs see whether Elias will come and take him downe.

37 Then Iesus cried with a loude voice, and gaue vp the ghost.

38 And the vaile of the Temple was rent in two pieces from the top to the bottome.
